A. These various pictures, and I was sold half after these fifteen. Am I making myself—I mean, I was sold all these, and I was sold half of the remainder on that year's releases after Skouras had the fifteen. These were mine. These were Skouras' and we were both to split half after these fifteen.

Q. Let me read you this language and see if there is anything to the contrary in your recollection of what actually happened. It reads "The following fifteen productions were sold to Skouras theatre for first run." That is followed by fifteen titles by name?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then it continues: "The Auburn Capitol Theatre Corporation also agrees to use one-half of the remaining 1932-1933 features released by the distributor at an average rental of $167.30 each, excluding Tom Keene Western." Wasn't that the final arrangement that was made?

[fol. 3090] A. That is the final arrangement. First I got these and got half of what was left, after Skouras got these.

The Court: That reads he has first run of the first fifteen pictures?

The Witness: We both had a first run.

The Court: Not by that language.

The Witness: We had a split of the product.

The Court: We have to look at the contract and see what it says.

The Witness: That is why I contend those contracts were made concurrently.

The Court: The language read seems to indicate just the contrary, that the other company was to have the first run of fifteen named pictures.

The Witness: And we had the first run of those on the other side of the page.

The Court: The following fifteen productions were sold to Skouras as first run. That is plain, isn't it, and the names of those pictures?

Mr. Wright: The first run pictures that are named here in the left-hand column——

The Court: It says "following"—I am speaking of these fifteen. That is all I am speaking of.

[fol. 3091] Mr. Wright: That is right, fifteen were sold first run to Skouras; these that are listed were sold first run to him. The balance were to be split.

The Court: I am speaking of the fifteen, that is all.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, a split deal does not mean that the others are played ahead. It means these pictures RKO played first run. They are the fifteen.

The Court: Exactly.

Mr. Wright: If there were fifteen other—there were thirteen named pictures that he played first run.

The Court: I am not thinking about those.

Mr. Wright: That is an approximate equal split. Then beyond those pictures there were more than twenty-eight pictures released, and those other releases, those were split equally between him and Skouras, so it was a split first run deal.

The Court: I am thinking about the first that was read.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Do you remember how many RKO pictures there were of that release season in the aggregate?

[fol. 3092] A. I think there were somewhere around 40 or 42, perhaps.

Q. Something like 42?

A. 40 or 42. I did not get as many pictures at $167.50 as I expected.

Q. Of the 42 or thereabouts or 43, Skouras got 15 plus half the balance of 14 and you got 14. That is the fact, is it not?

A. Oh, no, no.

Q. How many pictures of the 42—that season how many pictures of the 42 or so pictures did you get?

The Court: First run?

Q. Of first run, that you actually got?

A. Can I see the contract, please? I got roughly between 28—between 25 and 28 pictures. There is 14 in that column.

Q. The 14 in that column that you have pointed at on the left are the 14 referred to by number as the half of the balance that you were to get?

A. I beg to differ with you, sir. Look, the distinction is here and it is very plain. The price here is $167.50 for this group and the price here is $503.50. Here is the price of these 14, and I was to get half of the remainder at $157.50. I don't want to argue about this thing.

The Court: Don't argue with him. Just answer the question and we will save time.

The Witness: I am just trying to make myself clear.

[fol. 3093] Q. And the contract approved November 5th, 1932, Exhibit 813, is the last contract that you had with R. K. O. for a large first-run lot of pictures for the Capitol Theatre, Auburn?

A. This contract of November 1932, which was——

The Court: Was that the last contract for a large number?

The Witness: Is the last contract that I had for a regular run of pictures. I had a contract for a large number of pictures——

The Court: Just answer the question and we will get along better. State whether this was a last large contract you had with R.K.O. for pictures?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: He so stated on his direct-examination.

Mr. McClennen: There are a number of things he stated on his direct-examination I desire to test without being interrupted by comments from Mr. Wright.

The Court: Let us proceed.

Q. Now, those pictures covered by that contract, Exhibit 813, were what season, 1932-33, were they not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you did not play all of those pictures, did you?

[fol. 3094] A. I think we did.

Q. You did not play them in the season, did you?

A. Well, we may have played a few; do you mean by "in the season" or after, if they happened to be released in the summer I certainly did not play them, I postponed them until the fall again.

Q. Now, on October 11th, 1933, were there 14 of the pictures which you had bought under the contract of November, 1932, approved that date, which had not been played?

A. There may have been.

Q. Now, for the next season, the Jefferson and Palace had the R. K. O. product, did they not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When I was asking you about the product which Skouris had in the earlier period, you spoke of, R. K. O. and this contract that has just been referred to, Skouris did have Paramount, Fox, Metro and Universal, did he not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, when this negotiation was going on, November, 1932, had not Skouris already played 15 pictures of the 1932-33 R. K. O. release season under a prior contract?

A. I didn't quite understand that, I didn't get the grasp of that. I will ask you to read that again.

The Court: You don't know whether he had or hadn't,

[fol. 3095] whether he had played 15 of these pictures.

The Witness: Skouris.

The Court: Under a prior contract?

The Witness: He might have, but in 1931-32 we had the R. K. O.-Pathe contract.

Q. This is the 1932-33 season this contract relates to, isn't it?

A. This was the following year.

Q. And the 15 referred to were all 1932-33?

A. Do you mean these pictures, I played this "Hold in Jail", that particular picture, that was supposed to go to Skouris and he never picked it up.

Q. I am not speaking of the playing; you knew when this Exhibit 813 was made by you that Skouris had theretofore been sold 15 of that season's product, whether they had been played or not?

A. Yes, that was the purpose of putting that on the contract. I knew that.

Q. Now, except this R. K. O. transaction which you have described, the only other full-line product that you had had at the Capitol, Auburn, up to the beginning of 1933 was Columbia and United Artists, was it not?

A. Up to the beginning of 1933?

Q. Yes.

A. I had R. K. O.-Pathe; then I had R.K.O. in 1932, [fol. 3096] Columbia 1932,—that is 1932-33. Then in——

Q. Now, if you would observe the question, I said with the exception of the R.K.O. transactions which have just been described, the only full-line product that you had up to the beginning of 1933 was Columbia and the United Artists, wasn't it?

A. Columbia and United Artists and R. K. O.,—Columbia, United Artists and R. K. O.-Pathe.

Q. At the time when you made your first United Artists contract one of the employees of the United Artists had a financial interest in the Capitol Theatre at Auburn?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And one of the employees of Columbia had a financial interest in that theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And by 1933 they no longer had a financial interest in that theatre, is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. You were aware, were you not, in the fall of 1933, that Paramount had not been able to negotiate a contract for the 1933-34 product with the Shea-Schine operation?

A. That is correct.

Q. And that because they could not make such a sale, the Paramount product for that season 1933-34, was not in the way of being exhibited in Auburn unless it was sold [fol. 3097] to the Capitol, that is true, is it not?

A. Will you repeat that, please? What do you mean by "Was not in the way"?

Q. I mean there was no other outlet except the Capitol in Auburn that year for it?

A. That is correct.

Q. And it appears by Exhibit 814 that your contract for the Paramount product of that season for the Capitol in Auburn is dated February 8th, 1934, and that is a very late date for Paramount to be placing its season's product first-run, is it not?

A. Well, if I answer that question I will disagree with something you just said a moment ago. You said it is the custom, when it was brought up about Columbia contracts in March——

Q. Now, I don't want to disagree with you.

The Court: Just answer the question.

The Witness: I will tell you frankly I think it is a late date, and there is no implication whatsoever in that.

Q. And you were aware of the fact at that time that the lateness of date was due to the fact of the effort of Paramount to sell to Schine-Shea that season?

A. I don't know what effort Paramount made to sell Schine-Shea.

[fol. 3098] The Court: The question is were you aware of any effort that was made?

The Witness: No, I was not aware of any effort that Paramount made to sell Schine-Shea.

Q. Were you aware of the fact that Paramount did not sell its 1933-34 product to any of the Shea theatres?

A. To any of the Shea theatres?

Q. Yes.

A. You mean the Schine-Shea theatres?

Q. I mean the Shea theatres, whether Schine-Shea or Shea alone.

The Court: Did they sell that year to Shea?

The Witness: To Shea?

The Court: Shea-Schine or Shea alone?

The Witness: I don't know, I am not competent to answer that question, your Honor.

The Court: Then you cannot answer it.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Now, you recognized, did you not, from away back as early as 1932, that the Jefferson and the Palace were the normal outlet for the Paramount product in Auburn?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that is pure argument. It has already been testified as to where the pictures played.

The Court: I don't think that is a proper question.

[fol. 3099] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Is this letter of July 4th, 1932 to Paramount-Publix Corporation signed by you?

A. That is signed by me, yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: I offer that.

(Thereupon letter dated July 4th, 1932, Wallace to Paramount-Publix Corporation, referred to, was received in evidence and marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-130.)

Q. This D-130 in evidence is dated July 4th, 1932, addressed to Paramount-Publix Corporation, attention Mr. Kenneth Robinson. "Dear Mr. Robinson", and it is signed "Very truly yours, H. P. Wallace, Capitol Theatre", and reads in the body:

"We are interested in ascertaining whether or not you have unplayed first-run pictures available for our use at this theatre to include features and short subjects. In looking over the Paramount proposition for this year it appears to me that the program contains all the ear-marks of the best money making proposition of any of the producers. On the fact of what I know of the coming year's picture I could safely say we could offer you between eighteen and twenty thousand dollars for the product, pro- [fol. 3100] viding you cannot get an equitable deal from our opposition. I appreciate the fact that they have first call on the product due to using your pictures this past year current. Best wishes". And the opposition to which you referred there was the Skouris operation?

A. The Fox.

Q. Fox operated by Skouris?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever see a letter of March 23rd, 1935 from United Artists Corporation to Willis Sargent, of which I show you what purports to be a carbon copy?

A. This is the first time I ever saw that.

Q. And you never saw any reply to it from Mr. Sargent?

A. No.

Q. Was Mr. Sargent engaged at this time in any way for you?

A. He was my counsel. I don't know about that time, because I just can't place the time he went to California.

Q. Did you inform Mr. Zurich in the early part of 1935 that you had an ample supply of pictures to last you for a year?

A. No.

Q. Did you tell him anything of that kind?

A. No.

Q. Have you any recollection of the number of pictures [fol. 3101] you had under contract, including United Artists, Columbia and Republic and Monogram?

A. Republic and Monogram?

Q. Including Republic and Monogram, was my question?

The Court: Yes, what year are you speaking of?

Mr. McClennen: In the early part of 1935.

The Witness: Why, I think I had thirty United Artists pictures; all that were released, I think I purchased all of them. I had some rejected pictures from R. K. O. I had 44 Columbia pictures and I had roughly 100 pictures, that is, independents and Westerns from the various little independent exchanges.

Q. And in the early part of 1935, after February 28th, 1935, you had these contracts, which have already gone in evidence for this large number of Columbia pictures?

A. I just mentioned that I had 44 Columbia pictures, I think.

Q. And 44 Columbia pictures had reference to the 1934-35 season, did it not?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you already had a contract for something like an equal number of Columbia pictures for the 1935-36 season?

The Court: You have gone all over this.

The Witness: No, I am referring to the first Columbia [fol. 3102] contract we had, that is the contract we had at first.

The Court: By the contract it already appears what he had.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, on the same day, February 28th, 1935, that he got these 40 odd pictures of the 1934-35 season, he got something like the same number by a contract of the same day, of the 1935-36 season. I am asking him that.

The Court: That already appears. What you said was the first contract dates back to 1934, the 1934-35 and 1935-36, —it covers the two seasons.

Mr. McClennen: Yes. I am speaking of the contract dated February 28th, 1935.

The Court: The contracts cover two seasons.

Q. Now, the 40 or so pictures of the 1934-35 season were not played by you until after February 28th, 1935, were they?

A. What contract are you referring to?

Q. I refer to the contract for the 1934-35 season; you had not up to February 28th, 1935, played any of those 40 odd pictures set out in Defendants' Exhibit 123?

A. Up to what date?

[fol. 3103] Q. Up to February 28th, 1935.

The Court: You are spending a lot of time, it seems to me. According to the statement you made sometime ago, while the contract was made February 28th, you suggested part of the contract was made long before it was signed so the pictures would be available.

Mr. McClennen: No, if your Honor please, I did not intend that. What I said was that on February 28th, 1935, he contracted for something like 40 odd pictures of the season of releases from September 1, 1934 to August 31, 1935. I am now saying that of that 40 odd pictures, he had not actually played any until February 28th, 1935.

The Court: Nothing was released.

Mr. McClennen: They were released to the world.

The Court: I was thinking what the position would be for four or five months without playing any pictures.

Mr. McClennen: Because he hadn't bought any of that release season.

The Court: He hadn't paid for them according to the contract.

Mr. McClennen: And he didn't contract for them until [fol. 3104] February 28th, 1935.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, if the dates on which the pictures were played is going to be material, we have already identified a schedule which shows exactly when each one of these Columbia pictures were played at Auburn and where.

Mr. McClennen: Where is the schedule?

Mr. Wright: That was identified.

The Court: I will let him state if any of those pictures were played prior to February 28th, 1935.

Mr. McClennen: That is my question.

The Witness: Any of these?

The Court: Any of those in that list.

The Witness: No, we didn't play any of these prior to February 28th, 1935.

Mr. McClennen: 1935.

The Court: All right.

Q. Now, with the figures that you have just given, if you include the pictures, some 40 odd, not yet played, under Exhibit 123, of February 28th, 1935, and a similar number under Exhibit 124, for the 1935-36 season, on February 28th, 1935, you had been in the aggregate under contract ahead how many pictures in addition to those that you [fol. 3105] have mentioned from other companies?

Mr. Wright: Don't the contracts show on their face?

The Court: It seems to me it would be 80, wouldn't it, 75 or 80, unless there was some that were left out, I don't know.

The Witness: And some might not have been made.

The Court: According to the face of these contracts there were about 75 pictures you were entitled to on the contract price?

The Witness: Yes.

Q. That covered about a year and a half?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And apart from the Columbia pictures would you state again the total of the pictures you had?

A. For 1935?

Q. Yes.

A. I had, as I say, for that—including that first contract of Columbia——.

Q. I say without Columbia, all the other ones, just the total?

A. I had roughly 99 independent and Western pictures, that is, you know, from different little independent companies, and I had some pictures from R.K.O., and I think there was 30 from United Artists. It may not be 30, it may be a few less, and it may be a few more.

[fol. 3106] Q. And at that time you were running double feature how many changes a week?

A. Well, I ran usually two changes a week double features. Sometimes I ran three changes a week. Sometimes we used the Westerns up on a Saturday morning show for the children.

Q. Now, do you remember discussing with Mr. Zurich in March of 1935, your situation in this respect, that is, your figures indicated that in the aggregate there were well upwards of 200 pictures under contract ahead of you; now, did you have any talk with Mr. Zurich about that?

A. No, I never had any talk with Mr. Zurich about that.

Q. When did you introduce Bingo at the Capitol Theatre?

A. Some time after the Palace Theatre started.

Q. About when in matter of date?

A. Oh, about some time in 1938.

Q. In 1935, did you install give-away of dishes and so forth at the Capitol?

A. Yes, it may have been 1935; it may have been 1936, but I did have give-away dishes.

Q. Did you make cuts of your admission prices?

A. I don't think so. It may have been the summer policy once in a while, I would not swear to that positively, but as a rule, we always tried to uphold the admission price. [fol. 3107] Oftentimes we gave 5-cent inducement to kids, when we started off with a serial.

Q. Do you recall that the distributors complained that you were cutting admission prices?

A. It may have been.

Q. Don't you remember that they did?

A. I don't remember exactly. It may have been that at some time we may have used a cut rate ticket for a short while, but as a general thing, we never did.

Q. Do you remember in the N.R.A. period those complaints were presented to the Board, the N.R.A. Board, the grievance board?

A. The only complaint that I remember that was presented to the grievance board is, we were trying to get some pictures——

Q. You don't remember of that complaint?

A. There may have been some discussion about a cut rate proposition. I would not say definitely that there wasn't. If you have anything to refresh my memory, I will be certainly——

Q. Didn't you attend a hearing before the Board——

A. I did attend a hearing.

Q. —on that subject?

The Court: On that subject.

The Witness: Not on that subject, no, sir.

[fol. 3108] Q. You did attend a hearing?

The Witness: In an attempt to get pictures.

The Court: He said in the question "On that subject."

The Witness: Not on that subject, no sir.

The Court: The answer is "No," then?

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Did you not know of a complaint made to the grievance board in the early part of 1935 about your cut rates at that theatre, and I show you the papers in relation thereto? Don't you know about that?

The Court: Can't you tell us by reference to those papers?

The Witness: I can recollect now, but I know it was taken care of by Mr. Sarachen.

The Court: That is not the question.

The Witness: I can recollect now that there was a complaint, and as I see those tickets—I never appeared at that hearing. I was in the hospital then.

Q. You remember being advised of a decision of the Board that you had cut rates?

A. I don't remember being advised of any decision, because shortly after it I went to the hospital with coronary thrombosis, and for a year after I did not do too much about working in the theatre, but I recognize these tickets, and I [fol. 3109] know they are ours, as soon as I see them.

Q. That is, in December, 1934, you issued tickets which should be good—that is, free tickets which should be good as ten cents toward an admission at the Capitol?

A. May I see them, please? I remember. This——

The Court: That answers it.

The Witness: I remember that.

Q. That meant that in the afternoons at that time, a patron with one of these tickets, an adult patron with one of these tickets and five cents could get into the Capitol Theatre?

The Court: I think it is sufficient. He stated that they did have this kind of ticket. It seems to me that is going far enough.

Q. In June of 1933, under date of June 22nd, 1933, did you write this letter to the United Artists Corporation?

A. I did.

Mr. McClennen: I offer that.

Mr. Wright: I don't understand the purpose of the offer. As far as I can see it has nothing to do with the case; other than that we have no objection to it.

The Court: Do you object to it? I don't know what the letter is.

(Document handed to the Court.)

[fol. 3110] The Court: I do not see as it is very material.

Mr. McClennen: I am seeking, if your Honor please, to accumulate reasons why these distributors should naturally sell to the other theatres rather than the Capitol, because of the character of operation there, and I offer the letter for the purpose of showing that.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, there has not been the slightest suggestion in the way of testimony that any distributor refused to, or declined to sell the pictures, because of any admission price policy, or anything else.

The Court: Objection sustained at this time.

Mr. McClennen: I would like to have it marked for identification, and the objection saved as to its exclusion.

(Thereupon letter from Mr. Wallace to United Artists Corporation, dated June 22nd, 1933, referred to, was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-131 for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: I cannot quite restrain myself from commenting on the happy suggestion that no distributor has testified on this subject, when no distributor has testified at all.

[fol. 3111] Mr. Wright: I said there was no evidence to the effect that a distributor had refused product for that reason.

The Court: We have been a long time with this witness. We don't want to waste any further time with discussion after I passed on it. Proceed to something else.

Mr. Wright: If that were a reason——

The Court: Never mind, never mind.

Mr. Wright: —there would have been no picture sold to Schine anywhere.

The Court: Just a minute. We can't spend time on this.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Did you show R.K.O. "Snowwhite" first-run at the Capitol?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have "Snowwhite Festival" at the Capitol?

A. First-run?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. Where did "Snowwhite" show first-run in Auburn?

A. Jefferson Theatre.

Q. Where did "Snowwhite Festival" show?

A. I couldn't tell, unless I looked at records.

Q. You have no recollection of having shown Snowwhite Festival at the Capitol Theatre in Auburn?

[fol. 3112] A. At all? I showed "Snowwhite Festival", but I showed it, I think, several years, I believe after the other theatres had finished with it.

Q. When did you show it?

A. I couldn't tell you that without looking at records. I could give you the exact date and show you the booking book.

Q. Did you show it in the season 1939-1940?

A. I couldn't answer that. I would be glad to get you the booking book and let you inspect it, and that is the date I will stand on.

Q. On or about January 27th, 1939, did you receive a letter from 20th Century-Fox dated January 27th, 1939, of which I show you what purports to be a carbon copy?

A. I think I did.

Mr. McClennen: I offer that.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I don't see what possible issue that bears on. (Handing document to Court).

Mr. McClennen: My thought in offering it was that it bore on the issue of whether the failure to get that product was not because the prices which had been offered for it were not acceptable to the distributor.

Mr. Wright: I don't recall that he testified to any negotia- [fol. 3113] tions with United Artists Corporation at that time. He testified that he got some United Artists pictures that Schine rejected.

The Witness: Pardon me, Mr. Wright——

The Court: Just a moment. We can't have any discussion by the witness with counsel.

Mr. McClennen: Before pressing the offer I will ask the witness, had you made an offer for Gaumont British pictures?

The Witness: I just wanted to correct him, and say that was not United Artists. That was Fox I was talking about, and that related to an old picture. I have the contract on the picture. I did purchase Gaumont British pictures.

Mr. Wright: There isn't any question, if the Court please, he could buy all the foreign pictures that Schine did not want any time from anybody. This is no dispute about that.

The Court: It is competent as bearing on the pictures he did receive or did not receive. I will accept it in that connection.

Mr. Wright: If there is any more foreign picture correspondence, we will stipulate that the foreign pictures which [fol. 3114] Mr. Schine rejected were always available to him. That is understood.

(Thereupon letter from 20th Century-Fox to Mr. Wallace, dated January 27, 1939, referred to, was received in evidence and marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-132.)

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. The stipulation is accepted as far as it goes. Defendants' Exhibit D-132 is dated January 27th, 1939, from 20th Century-Fox Film Corporation to H. P. Wallace, stating—I think your Honor has read the letter, so that I need not reread it—stating the reasons why they cannot accept the contract which he proffered on account of the price.

The Court: Is that all?

Mr. McClennen: That is all, if your Honor please.

Mr. Wright: I think I can finish up in 10 or 15 minutes, if your Honor wishes to sit.

The Court: If we don't have any further redirect, we might get through.

Mr. Wright: There is some redirect.

The Court: I mean recross. I think we better suspend until tomorrow morning. Just a moment. You spoke about adjourning tomorrow night?

[fol. 3115] Mr. Wright: Yes, I understand that the Crescent case will be ready in the Supreme Court, either the 18th or the 19th, so I will have to be down there on Wednesday. I wanted to get down there the day before, before the argument.

The Court: I thought you meant to be there that day.

Mr. Wright: No, I would have to be there the day before, and I thought we may as well, as long as there is still an uncertainty whether it would carry over into the 19th—I supposed we would probably adjourn until a week from Monday.

The Court: I thought you meant to adjourn for a single day, Wednesday.

Mr. Wright: No, I would expect to be in Washington Wednesday, and the case would be reached the next day, and perhaps continue to the next day.

The Court: You lose three days, the rest of this week?

Mr. Wright: We will lose three days, yes.

The Court: How long will it take you to put your proof in?

Mr. Wright: I had hoped we would be able to finish up [fol. 3116] the first part by the middle of the following week.

The Court: Next week?

Mr. Wright: Yes, but, of course, it is dependent on the length of time spent on cross-examination. I had assumed we would be finished with Mr. Wallace long before this.

The Court: What are your wishes in the matter?

Mr. McClennen: My first wish is not to discommode Mr. Wright when he has a case to argue before the Supreme Court of the United States, and the next is that when we adjourn, in view of the prospect that he will take the 18th and 19th, that we adjourn to the 23rd of October.

The Court: Will you engage in the argument yourself?

Mr. Wright: Part of the argument. Mr. Berge and I.

The Court: I think that will be better. Proceed for a few minutes.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Did you observe whether, during the period Schine operated the other theatres in Auburn, that there were any give-aways or admission price reductions, Bingo, Bank Night, anything of that sort?

[fol. 3117] A. There were.

Q. During what period?

A. From the period of 1937 up to the present time.

Q. I will hand you these folders entitled "Schine's Jefferson" and "Schine's Palace," and ask if you recognize those as having been distributed in the Town of Auburn?

A. They were.

Q. During what period of time?

A. They were distributed weekly during 1937-38 season.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have them marked the next exhibit number.

Mr. McClennen: Is this an offer or for identification?

Mr. Wright: As soon as it is marked, I will offer it.

(Thereupon two circulars headed "Schine's Jefferson" and "Schine's Palace," referred to, were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 830 for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: This, I take it, is for identification now?

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Do you recall any cut price tickets being given away for any of the Schine Theatres?

A. I did.

Q. When was that?

A. During this same period.

Q. Do you know what the value of those tickets were that [fol. 3118] were given away?

A. No, I don't.

Q. All you know is they were price reductions?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. After this 1937-38 season when these give-aways and Bingo, and so forth occurred, did you notice whether they played the same pictures of the same companies the next season?

A. They did.

Q. First-run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did any distributor that you have referred to tell you that you could not play their pictures because you had cut prices, or had run Bingo games, or had given away free tickets?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to. It has appeared here in the excluded letter——

Mr. Wright: Well, I simply——

Mr. McClennen: Now, just don't be so impatient as all that,—the complainant, that they were objecting, that their pictures could not be played at the reduced price, and the letter was excluded on my adversary's objection.

The Court: The reception of this testimony might make the letter receivable.

[fol. 3119] Mr. Wright: It might open it up for you.

Mr. McClennen: That is awfully nice of you to think of that, but if it was not admissible when I offered it, I submit this question is not admissible.

The Court: I will let him answer.

The Witness: What is the question, please?

Mr. Wright: Read the question.

(Question read.)

The Witness: No, sir. Pardon me——

The Court: That answers the question.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this telegram marked with the next Plaintiff's Exhibit number for identification.

(Thereupon telegram referred to was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 831 for identification.)

The Court: That is the one that was referred to some time ago?

Mr. Wright: This is a copy, as I understand it, that came from the R.K.O. Exchange files. There was some question raised before as to whether R.K.O. really sent the telegram. I am merely offering the copy that came from their files.

[fol. 3120] (Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibit 831 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: As I understand it, this was shown to Mr. McClennen before, and I take it there is no dispute about the fact that that is a copy of the telegram that came from the R. K. O. Exchange in Buffalo.

The Court: That is the telegram to which reference has been made, and its contents have been discussed before.

Mr. Wright: Mr. Wallace identified the one he received. Objection was made to its going into evidence on the ground there was nothing to show R. K. O. had sent it. In order to cure that objection, I am offering the copy from the files of the R. K. O.

Mr. McClennen: Objection was to its admissibility. I have no objection to this.

The Court: That telegram was referred to several times in your examination.

Mr. McClennen: I have no objection whatever to this exhibit, if your Honor please.

Mr. Wright: Then I offer it in evidence.

The Court: Let me see the telegram.

Mr. Wright: This is a copy that came from the Exchange. [fol. 3121] As I say, when the other was not admitted in evidence—the objection was sustained on the ground that it did not appear that R. K. O. had actually sent the wire.

The Court: How does it now apear that R. K. O. sent the wire?

Mr. Wright: As I understand it, this is the copy that came from the R. K. O. Files In their Buffalo Exchange, and this is an exact duplicate.

Mr. McClennen: I have now been assured that this was found in the files of the R. K. O., and, therefore, I am making no objection to the authenticity of the telegram originally offered, but merely object to such a telegram being receivable.

The Court: Received.

Mr. Wright: I thought that was out in the papers earlier in this examination. Have you got it?

The Court: It has another number?

Mr. Wright: The other one had a number. I don't have it at the moment.

The Court: You can look it up.

Mr. Wright: I think we can use this one just as well. I would like to read the telegram to your Honor. I don't think [fol. 3122] you heard the contents. This is dated September 18th, and is addressed to the Strand Theatre, Syracuse, New York, and states: "Impossible supply Hurry Charlie September 24-26 or they Meet Again 27-30. Suggest Saint's Vacation, also first-run September 24-26. Will advise later regarding 27-30. Please wire."

The Court: The date of that is what?

Mr. Wright: September 18th.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Now, you were asked on cross-examination about when you wrote the words "Canceled" on the "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry" contract, and the "They Meet Again" contract, that are part of this Exhibit 819, and as I recall, you testified you were not sure when that was placed on there, except that it was some time during the time you were operating the Strand Theatre, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell us when it was put on there with reference to the receipt of this telegram, Exhibit 831?

A. After I received that telegram.

Mr. Wright: By the way, I believe you were going to check the list of product that played at the Empire. We had offered that tabulation.

[fol. 3123] By Mr. Wright:

Q. The original of the telegram is Exhibit 820. It was originally marked in evidence, then for identification, and I believe it should now be marked in evidence.

(Thereupon original telegram previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 820 for identification was received in evidence.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. On cross-examination, I believe you were asked with reference to this Exhibit 818, regarding the meaning of the words "Available" and the dates following them that appear on the second page, there, and you testified that those were the dates on which the pictures would become available to the Strand Theatre?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are those the dates on which the pictures would become available to the Strand, or were those the dates on which the pictures would become available in Syracuse for first-run exhibition?

A. I could tell you that better if I just looked at this release sheet, but I am pretty sure——

Q. That is the first 1941-1942 block, isn't that right?

A. I think those are the dates they would become available [fol. 3124] able to the Strand Theatre, December 10, 1941.

Q. Perhaps I misunderstood your direct testimony, then. As I understood your direct testimony, it was that this block of five was not to become available to you until after those pictures had played all of the other runs in Syracuse. Is that right or wrong?

A. I think those dates would indicate that.

Q. Please answer the question about your direct testimony. Is that your understanding, that the pictures were not to be available to you until after they had completed their runs in the other Syracuse theatres?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to as immaterial, what his understanding was. What he said.

The Court: Sustained. Strike it out.

Q. I call your attention to the first date there available, October 29th, 1941. As I understand it, the group of pictures that are named there are pictures which were to be released during September and October of 1941. That is, they were the current product?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

The Court: The paper would show for itself, would it not?

The Witness: That is right. That is the first block of five pictures——

The Court: Just a moment. Sustained.

[fol. 3125] Q. Do you have the release dates of those pictures?

A. I think so, yes, sir.

Q. What were the release date on "Charlie's Aunt"?

A. August 1st, 1941.

Q. And "Private Nurse"?

A. August 22nd, 1941.

Q. And "Wild Geese Calling"?

A. August 15th, 1941.

Q. "Sun Valley Serenade"?

A. August 29th, 1941.

Q. Then, as I understand it, the dates which are written on there as available are the dates when Rowell said the pictures would have completed their runs in the other Syracuse——

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All the other Syracuse theatres?

A. Yes, except, I suppose, they weren't going to play at the Empire Theatre, because afterward he wrote "Ahead of Empire Theatre".

Q. Did he say whether or not those pictures had been sold to the Empire Theatre?

A. He didn't say.

Q. Did you know whether the Empire was at that time playing any pictures after they had played all of the other runs in Syracuse?

[fol. 3126] A. Well, they had played some old pictures, yes, sir.

Q. Had played some old pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But did he talk about the 1940 current releases?

A. If I had that list I could tell you whether they played any current releases.

Q. You are now referring to——

A. That list of play-offs at the Empire Theatre.

Mr. Wright: Has anybody located it?

Mr. McClennen: That does not check exactly with the list we made up.

(Document handed by Mr. McClennen to Mr. Wright.)

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have the next exhibit number for identification given to the list which Mr. McClennen has just furnished as stating what their records show as to the features played at the Empire and admission prices.

(Thereupon document above referred to was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 832 for identification.)

Q. Then is it possible to tell from looking at the features listed, or looking at exhibits 817 and 832 for identification what runs the features listed there were played?

[fol. 3127] A. Well, reasonably possible.

Q. Well, wouldn't you have to compare the matter to know the play dates of the same films in the other Syracuse theatres?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, rather than take the time on the witness-stand, I wonder if it would be agreeable to have him make his check of your list against his, and then advise us whether he thinks it is correct at a later date, so we can come out with the correct fact? I don't want to take the time when he is on the stand.

Mr. McClennen: I have no objection to that being checked to see if there is any error in the list furnished by us.

Mr. Wright: Then I will ask you to do that after you leave the stand, Mr. Wallace, and advise us of the result on the list of your pictures, which I believe was marked for identification as Exhibit No. 816, the name of the distributor or producer appears, but I don't believe you gave that testimony when you supplied the playing dates and names on your direct examination.

Q. Now, can you tell me which of those pictures were major products and give the name of the major distributor of those which you previously named, which were major [fol. 3128] releases?

A. "Jungle Cavalcade" was released in 1932 and was released by R. K. O.; "Flying Down to Rio", R. K. O.; "Bowery Blitzkrieg", Monogram; "Caught in the Act", Producers Releasing Corporation; "Father Steps Out", Monogram; "Gentleman from Dixie", Monogram.

Q. No, I just want the major ones. You can lump all the independent ones, just the major distributors; there are about six or seven there, I believe, if you can tell which they are.

A. Well, "Convoy" is a foreign made picture distributed by R. K. O.; "Tom, Dick and Harry" was R. K. O.; "They Met in Argentina", R. K. O.; "Reluctant Dragon" was R. K. O.—Disney; there was a special contract on that. "Blonde From Singapore" was Columbia. I think that covers them all.

Q. Other than those R.K.O. pictures you have named and the one Columbia picture, all the others were independent?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. As I understood you on cross-examination, you say that you have no contracts for these R. K. O. pictures in your possession other than these that are identified here as Exhibit 819; you mean these other two show all the R. K. O. pictures you played?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 3129] Q. I understand the only contracts you have in your possession are those marked Exhibit 819?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I notice among the group in Exhibit 819, you don't have any for "Jungle Cavalcade" and "Flying Down to Rio"; do you know whether there were contracts for that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It is your understanding Mr. Carr has the other contracts?

A. Yes, he has approved contracts and he has the applications. I asked you to have a subpoena for those.

Q. You did not attempt to go through the records of the corporation? All you brought here was what you had yourself?

A. When I left there September 26th, I didn't go back. That is how it happens I didn't know about this judgment.

The Court: Just answer the question.

Q. Am I correct then in my understanding that what you have produced here are what you showed to the Government was all the contracts that you, yourself, had?

A. That is all I had aside from the deal sheet. I had a deal sheet where we entered into the contract.

Q. But the other——

The Court: He says that is all he had.

Q. Now, had you ever—you don't know then, at this time, whether there actually were executed contracts for any [fol. 3130] of these seven R. K. O. pictures, is that right?

A. I don't know that there were any executed——

Q. I said, you don't know whether there were actually approved contracts for any of them, or not, is that right?

A. No, I think we received approved contracts, and Mr. Carr has them.

Q. You think he has the approved contracts?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you ever in the course of your experience booked pictures into theatres without a contract?

A. That is a regular custom with any theatre.

Q. Had you done that with R. K. O. previously?

A. I had.

Q. Where?

A. I had done it a number of times. I have booked at the Novelty; it is a regular custom; at the Novelty; and I booked them at the Roxy, the Harvey Theatre, and I booked them at the Strand Theatre.

Q. When you booked a picture without a contract, what is the procedure with reference to making one up?

A. Well, sometimes as a rule after you book a picture without a contract, you get a deal sheet like I got there, that is the agreement, it is an agreement that is oral, but it is an agreement, nevertheless, and sometime that [fol. 3131] day or some time later the contracts are prepared and signed and sent in to the Company. Sometimes they are spot booked without contracts, but as a rule contracts are made up on something that we agree to on a deal sheet.

Q. And in this case you think there were contracts subsequently made up on all of those seven pictures?

A. I know there were, there were and these are the copies that were left where they were left at the office of the Strand Theatre.

Q. And you, yourself, haven't been able to locate the other two?

The Court: You have gone over the question many times, and he says "Carr has them".

Q. On your cross-examination, I believe you said that during one period where you had stated that the picture "Secrets of a Model" played, there were two other pictures that played instead; do you know are there any other corrections that you think should be made in that testimony?

A. I think there is one picture there; I think there is a confusion in that one where a picture called "Headleys at Home" or something like that; may I look at that?

The Witness: It wasn't "Secrets of a Model". "Secrets [fol. 3132] of a Model" didn't play there. There were two so-called sex pictures that played there, but we rented the theatre.

Q. Yes. You covered that on your cross-examination. All I am asking you is whether there are any more, whether there are any other changes that should be made so we will have a correct list of the product that played there?

A. There may be one other picture, there was another picture purchased for these people to go with this, because there was some trouble about this so-called sex show. I think they took one picture off and substituted another picture. There may be another picture in there about that time, but aside from that, these are all correct. I can get that information for you because there must be correspondence on it.

Q. Would you take Exhibit 816 for identification then and make a further check of your play off records so you can then notify us if there is any other change which has to be made in the list that you gave us to conform it to your booking record; would you do that?

A. I will.

Mr. Wright: I take it if we submit that list you may not, or if you desire to cross-examine on it, we can recall him for that purpose.

[fol. 3133] Mr. McClennen: I don't see why I should do anything about that list.

The Court: When you get the list you may not want to cross-examine on it, but you will be entitled to have the witness come back.

Mr. Wright: We are as interested as counsel is in having in the record an absolutely correct list of features that played at both the Empire and Strand.

Mr. McClennen: I have brought out what I believe to be a complete and correct list. If the witness finds that to be so, that ends the story. If he does not agree with it, then I should want to find out by cross-examination why he doesn't want to agree with it.

The Witness: I think that was covered in cross-examination. I mentioned about these changes.

The Court: Do not discuss it with counsel.

Recross examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Wallace, you said you left September 26th, and did not go back, left where?

A. Left September 26th?

[fol. 3134] The Court: You said something about going to the hospital.

Q. Within the last ten minutes you said. "I left there September 26th and did not go back."

A. Where do you refer to?

Q. That is what I was going to ask you, what did you refer to?

A. You mean when I was speaking with Mr. Wright here?

Q. When you were testifying within the last ten minutes.

A. I didn't say "September". I think January 26th is when I left the Strand Theatre and didn't go back.

Q. You said September 26th; you meant January 26th, 1942?

A. I meant January 26th, 1942, and that is why I was not aware of this judgment you spoke about today.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. These R.K.O. pictures on Exhibits 117 and 118, I notice the statement after run is "sub", and under "clearance" it just says "as available". Do you recall when, if at all, those pictures became available to the Strand?

A. Well, they were old pictures and I think they were available as soon as we could get an availability list. I imagine they would be available whenever there were prints there. We never played these pictures.

[fol. 3135] Q. The pictures were not played, but you don't remember when the prints were made available, do you?

A. Well "Convoy" was made available to us a year after the release date. I think it was a year after the release date, and these pictures are anywhere from three to eight years after the release date.

Q. At any time you were negotiating with R. K. O. for pictures did any one from R. K. O. decline to service you with pictures because you had bought pictures which you hadn't paid for? Was that ever given as a reason?

A. No.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Mr. McClennen: I now offer in view of your examination as to complaints as to cutting rates the Defendants' Exhibit for identification No. 131, the letter of Mr. Wallace to the United Artists Corporation, dated June 22nd, 1933, as to the Capitol Theatre in Auburn.

Mr. Wright: That letter, if the Court please, is just as immaterial as it ever was. All it shows is there was a discussion of a United Artists complaint to him about certain admission prices. There is nothing in that letter to show [fol. 3136] United Artists ever refused to service him with pictures.

The Court: Overruled. Received.

(Thereupon letter dated June 22nd, 1933, Wallace to United Artists Corporation, previously marked for identification as Defendants' Exhibit No. D-131, received in evidence.)

The Witness: Can I see that letter, Mr. Wright?

(Defendants' Exhibit D-131 handed to the witness by Mr. Wright.)

Recross examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. In Defendants' Exhibit 118, you signed the contract for R. K. O. Radio Picture "Convoy". That was a picture that was released and became available in the season of 1940-41, was it not?

A. That is a picture that was made a year previous. It was a foreign picture.

Q. And released a year before this time?

A. Before what time?

Q. October 7th, 1941?

The Court: That is the testimony, you said that was a year-old picture.

The Witness: Yes, the picture was a year old, a year [fols. 3137-3140] after it was made.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

The Court: We will adjourn until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until Tuesday, October 17th, 1944, at 10 A. M.)

[fol. 3141] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, October 17th, 1944, 10 o'clock A. M.

Appearances:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorney, in behalf of the United States.

Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rogers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Edward M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the Defendants.

[fol. 3142] PROCEEDINGS

PETER C. VOURNAKIS a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Vournakis?

A. Watertown, New York.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Theatre owner.

Q. What theatres do you own there?

A. The Strand and Liberty.

Q. How long have you owned them?

A. The Strand I operated from 1924 to 1926; I bought the property in 1926. The Liberty, I bought the property in April, 1933.

Q. About what is the seating capacity of those theatres?

A. The Strand is about 400 seats and Liberty is about 700.

The Court: Where did you say those were?

Mr. Wright: Watertown.

Q. Calling your attention to the year 1932, what other theatres were then operating in Watertown?

A. The Avon, Olympic and Victoria.

[fol. 3143] Q. Avon is A-v-o-n?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Olympic and Victoria?

A. And the Strand.

Q. Who operated the Avon and Olympic?

A. The Skouris Brothers for the Fox theatres.

Q. The Victoria?

A. Graham and Ludlow.

Q. You were then operating the Strand?

A. The Strand.

Q. On what policy?

A. Second-run and first-run.

The Court: What is that?

The Witness: Second-run and first-run.

Q. Then for the 1932-33 season ~~can~~ you tell ~~us~~ what major product you exhibited at the Strand second-run?

A. I had Paramount, Warner and Fox and first-run an Independent product.

Q. Then during the year 1933 who took over the operation of the Avon and Olympic?

A. The Schine Enterprises.

Q. Graham and Ludlow continued to operate the Victoria?

A. The Victoria.

Q. And that was the year in which you bought the Liberty?

A. That is the year I bought the Liberty.

[fol. 3144] Q. Then——

The Court: 1933?

The Witness: In 1933.

Q. Did you play those major companies that you have just mentioned second-run in either of your theatres during the 1933-34 season?

A. No, third-run.

Q. And did any of those companies offer the product to you for second-run for that season?

A. No.

Mr. Wright: Now, I will ask to have these two letters marked as one exhibit, one is the reply to the other, for identification.

By the Court:

Q. Do I understand you, you didn't have any of the first-run after 1933?

A. No, until this year.

(Thereupon two letters, referred to, were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 833 for identification.)

Q. In any of your three theatres?

A. I only had two theatres.

Q. You had the Olympic and Victoria, you said?

A. No, I had the Strand and Liberty.

Q. Oh, yes, I understand, in either of the theatres, you [fol. 3145] mean?

A. Not any of the theatres.

The Court: You spoke about having bought the Liberty back in '33.

Mr. Wright: Yes, he had the Strand since 1926.

Mr. Rogers: Pardon me, Mr. Wright. I think your Honor inadvertently said "First-run". His testimony was he had Paramount, Warner and Fox second-run.

The Court: In 1932.

Mr. Rogers: In 1932-33 he had Paramount, Warner and Fox second-run, not first-run.

The Court: I asked if he had first-run after 1932, you see the point I had in mind.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I show you these two letters clipped together and marked for identification as Exhibit 833, and ask you if you wrote the carbon copy letter and received the original letter there as a reply to the original, the respective dates that they bear?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I offer this in evidence.

Mr. Rogers: These came from the exhibitor's files?

Mr. Wright: No, these are Mr. Vournakis' documents.

Mr. McClennen: We make the usual objection to these, on [fol. 3146] the general grounds that there is no relation to this case or to Schine. There is no question about the authenticity of the letters.

The Court: Let me see them.

(Documents previously marked as Exhibit 833 were then inspected by the Court.)

The Court: All right. Overruled.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 833 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Mr. Vournakis' letter to Fox is dated June 26, 1934, and states:

"Gentlemen: This letter is to advise you that I am interested in buying the 1934-35 product from your company second-run in Watertown for my theatres. No doubt you are aware of the fact that during the season 1932-33 I only bought second-run in Watertown. Last year I made an attempt to buy second-run, but was unable to secure the same for the reason your company sold the second-runs away. Kindly advise me when I may expect your representative to call on me with reference to negotiating a [fol. 3147] deal on your product second-run in Watertown."

The reply is dated June 27th, 1934, and states:

"Replying to your letter of June 26th, beg to advise that we already disposed of our 1934-35 product second-run in Watertown. We are arranging to have our representative visit you in an endeavor to work out a deal for third and fourth-run showing."

(Thereupon the documents referred were then marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 834 to 838, inclusive, for identification.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I show you these two letters marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 834 for identification, one to Warner and their reply, and ask if you received those on or about the dates they bear?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: Same objection to these letters.

The Court: They relate to the situation concerning the purchase of films?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Court: Overruled.

[fol. 3148] (Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 834 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Exhibit 834 consists of a letter dated June 25th, from Mr. Vournakis to Warner Brothers at Albany which says:

"This letter is to advise you that I am interested in buying the 1934-35 product from your company second-run at Watertown for my theatres. No doubt you are aware of the fact that during the seasons 1929-33 I only bought second-run at Watertown. Last year I made an attempt to buy second-run but was unable to secure the same for the reason your company sold the second-runs away. Kindly advise me when I may expect your representative to call on me for the purpose of negotiating a deal for second-run at Watertown."

The reply is dated July 16th, 1934, from Mr. R. Mochrie, on the home office stationery:

"Dear Mr. Vournakis: Referring to your several letters addressed to our Albany Branch, please be advised at the [fol. 3149] present time we have a satisfactory account of second-run in Watertown. Should an occasion arise at a later date we will ask Mr. Ray Smith to get in touch with you."

Q. After you got that letter did Mr. Smith get in touch with you about second-run?

A. No.

Q. Or anybody else from Warner?

A. No.

The Court: You said you had the first-run in 1932?

Mr. Wright: He said he had first-run of the independent product.

The Witness: First-run of independent.

The Court: And second-run of others in 1932?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: To exhibits for identification, 835 to 838, respectively, we make the same objection as to the last.

The Court: Do they purport to be communications arranging for the purchasing of films?

Mr. Wright: Yes. I don't believe I have actually asked the witness to identify them, although I have them marked.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. 835 is a letter from you to Paramount and a reply, [fol. 3150] which were written on or about the dates they bear?

A. Yes.

Mr. Wright: That is offered.

The Court: Overruled.

(Thereupon letter from Mr. Vournakis to Paramount and reply, previously marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 835 was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: 835 is a letter from Mr. Vournakis to Paramount at Albany, dated June 25th, 1934.

"This letter is to advise that I am interested in buying 1934-1935 product from your Company second-run in Watertown for my theatres. No doubt you are aware of the fact that during the season 1928 to 1933 I only bought second-run in Watertown. Last year I made an attempt to buy second-run, but I was unable to secure same for the reason your company sold the second-runs away. Kindly advise me by return mail when I may expect your representative to call on me with reference to negotiating a deal on your conduct second-run in Watertown."

This reply is from C. G. Eastman, Branch Manager, [fol. 3151] Albany, dated June 27, 1934:

"I have your letter of June 25th, regarding the sale of our product in Watertown on second-run basis for the coming year. Please be advised that we will be in no position to talk on the matter until we have secured a satisfactory first-run deal."

The Court: Until what?

Mr. Wright: "Until we have secured a satisfactory first-run deal."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. After you got that letter from Mr. Eastman did anybody, he or anybody else from Paramount, come and talk to you about a second-run deal?

A. No.

Q. I show you this letter from Universal and reply, which has been marked as Exhibit 836 for identification, and ask you if you wrote and received those letters respectively on or about the dates they bear?

A. Yes.

Mr. Wright: We offer 8 in evidence.

The Court: Same ruling.

[fol. 3152] (Thereupon letter from Mr. Vournakis to Universal and reply previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 836 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: This is Mr. Vournakis' letter to the Universal, addressed to Albany, dated June 25th, 1934. It states:

"This letter is to advise you that I am interested in buying 1934-1935 product from your Company second-run in Watertown, for my theatres. Kindly advise me by return mail when I may expect your representative to call on me with reference to negotiating a deal on your product second-run in Watertown."

The reply is dated July 7, 1934. It states:

"We have your letter of June 25th. We regret that we will be unable to offer you our product second-run in Watertown for the reason that it is under franchise to the Olympic Theatre. Kind regards." Signed by "Nate Sauber, Branch Manager."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. You were not using the second-run of Universal at the time you wrote the letter?

[fol. 3153] A. No, that is right.

Q. I will show you this letter from you to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and their reply, marked Exhibit 837 for identification, and ask if you wrote and received those letters on or about the dates they bear?

A. Yes, I did.

Mr. Wright: That is offered in evidence.

(Letter from Mr. Vournakis to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and their reply, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 837 for identification, was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: The letter of June 25th from Mr. Vournakis to Metro is addressed to Albany. It says:

"This letter is to advise you that I am interested in buying 1934-1935 product from your company second-run in Watertown for my theatres. Kindly advise me by return mail when I can expect your representative to call on me with reference to negotiating a deal on your product second-run in Watertown."

The reply is dated June 27, 1934, signed by Mr. Pielow, Albany Manager.

"Wish to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 25th [fol. 3154] inst., relative to second-run product in Watertown. Please be advised that we are not in a position at this time to offer our second-run product to Watertown."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. After you got that letter did any representative from Metro offer second-run on that product?

A. No, I was not using Metro second-run, anyway, at that time. The Victoria had the second-run.

Q. I will show you these letters marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 838 for identification, and ask you if you wrote and received those letters respectively on or about the dates they bear?

A. Yes.

Mr. Wright: I will offer those in evidence.

(Thereupon letter from Mr. Vournakis to Columbia and reply thereto, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 838 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: The letter of June 25th, 1934, from Mr. Vournakis to Columbia is addressed to Albany.

"This letter is to advise you that I am interested in buying the 1934-1935 product from your Company second-run in Watertown for my theatres. Kindly advise my by return [fol. 3155] mail when I can expect your representative to call on me with reference to negotiating a deal on your product second-run in Watertown".

The reply is dated July 14, 1934, signed Branch Manager, by—I guess it is C. N. Johnston.

"Wish yo acknowledge yours of the 25th, stating you are interested in buying our 1934-1935 product second-run in Watertown for your theatres. The definite runs have not as yet been determined in your town inasmuch as we have not negotiated up to this time a deal with the Schine Circuit. Just as soon as we have anything definite I will advise you."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. After you got this letter from Columbia, did you receive any further advice or offers?

A. No, because I was not using Columbia second-run.

Q. You had not been using that at that time?

A. No, Victoria was using Columbia second-run.

Q. Then, during the 1934-1935 season did you have any major product second-run in either of your theatres?

A. I had at the Strand, part second and part third.

[fol. 3156] Q. What were the pictures, the part that you played second?

A. It was the smaller pictures.

Q. That is, those were not played at the Avon or Olympic second-run?

A. Pictures was playing Olympic first-run. I was using second-run at the Strand.

Q. Those that played Olympic second-run?

A. I was using them third-run.

Q. You played third-run?

A. That is right.

The Court: Are there five theatres in Watertown?

The Witness: Six.

The Court: What is the population?

The Witness: 33,000.

The Court: What is that?

The Witness: Thirty-three.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this document marked as the next exhibit number for identification.

(Thereupon carbon copy of letter from Mr. Vournakis to Mr. Myer Schine, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 839 for identification.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I will hand you this carbon copy of a letter marked [fol. 3157] Exhibit No. 839 for identification, and ask you if that is a copy of a letter you wrote to Mr. Myer Schine on or about that date?
A. That is right.
Q. Can you tell me what the conversation was that you had with Mr. Schine which is referred to in the first paragraph of that letter?
A. Well, I went into the office——
Q. Just a minute. Where was this conversation?
A. In Gloversville, his office. This is dated September 3rd, 1934.
Q. What was the date of the conversation?
A. It was about August 29th.
Q. That was at Gloversville?
A. Yes.
Q. Who else was present?
A. Just Myer and I.
Q. What was said then?
A. He was trying to make a deal, buy my places out of there, or we tried to make some kind — booking arrangement, so he can buy my pictures.
Q. What was said by him or by you about his buying pictures for you?
A. He said if I give him—first, was try to buy me out. He offered me for $15,000 for the theatres, and I said "No," [fol. 3158] and then the other talk was if I pay him $25 a week, he would buy my pictures up there, and after five or six months, if he can acquire the Palace, it would give me good rent for the Strand, and I said "No."

The Court: The Palace?
Mr. Wright: The Palace was the theatre that was being operated by Graham and Ludlow, according to the witness' prior testimony.
Mr. Rogers: He has not so testified.

The Court: What was the last statement about the Palace?

(Last portion of last answer read.)

A. (Continuing:) Then after that, after I left, he told me "When you go back, think it over, and think whatever you decide to do and write me a letter," and this is the letter I write him.

Q. After you wrote the letter, did you hear anything in reply to it?

A. No, no more.

Q. Calling your attention to the 1935-1936 season, is this contract—I hand you copy of the contract you made with Fox that year?

A. That is right.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have that marked the next exhibit number for identification.

[fol. 3159] (Thereupon contract between Vournakis and Fox for 1935-1936 season, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 840 for identification.)

Q. I will show you this contract dated June 22nd, 1936, between you and Fox and ask you if that is your copy of the contract you made with Fox for the—the first contract you made with Fox for the 1936-1937 season?

A. Yes, and this one is the second.

Q. And I show you this contract dated November 2nd, 1936, and ask you if that is your copy of the superseding contract made with Fox for the same season?

A. This same season, yes, this is the fourth-run deal, and that is the third and fourth.

The Court: 1936-1937, you mean?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have these two 1936-1937 season contracts marked the next two exhibit numbers for identification.

The Court: Separately numbered?

Mr. Wright: Separately.

(Thereupon two 1936-1937 season contracts for Watertown were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 841 and 842, respectively for identification.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence these three contracts [fol. 3160] marked 840 to 842, inclusive.

(Two letters were then marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 843 and 844 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: These are offered.
Mr. McClennen: That is the three contracts?
Mr. Wright: Yes, sir.

(Thereupon contracts previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 840, 841 and 842 for identification were received in evidence.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I hand you a carbon copy of a letter marked Exhibit 843 for identification, and ask you if that is a copy of a letter you wrote to Mr. Grassgreen of Fox on or about the date it bears there?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. October 31, 1936?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And this paper marked Exhibit 844 for identification dated November 2nd, 1936, is that a copy of——
A. Yes, that is a copy of——
Q. (Continuing:) —a communication from you to 20th-Century-Fox, the same day?
A. Yes, sir.
[fol. 3161] Q. Now, this contract that has been marked as Exhibit 841, can you look at that and tell me the date on which you signed that application?
A. This one is the 22nd day of June, 1936.
Q. And that contract calls for third-run.
A. Third-run, that is right.
Q. After you made that contract with Fox, did Mr. Grassgreen, or any one else from Fox come to see you about it?
A. The salesman came up and see me.
Q. Who was the salesman?
A. I can't remember now, Goldsmith, the salesman must be on the other contract. I can't remember the name of the salesman.
Q. What did you do after the salesman came?
A. He told me to go down and see Moe on account of Schine Enterprises bought the Palace.

Mr. McClennen: May that be excluded? What he did was all that was asked.

The Court: Strike it out.

Q. After the salesman came did you go to see Mr. Grassgreen at Albany?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was there anybody else present?

A. Just Moe Grassgreen.

Q. What did he tell you about that contract?

[fol. 3162] A. We have to change contracts from third-run to fourth-run on account of he bought the third-run for the Palace.

Mr. Rogers: We can't understand you.

Q. Just tell us what Mr. Grassgreen said about the contract.

A. He told me to release him from the third-run contract on the Strand on account they want to sell it to the Palace Theatre, Watertown, on account Schine bought the Palace, and they had all other products bought third-run for that house. They wanted me to release them from the contract, and they give me a better deal for the Strand fourth-run.

Q. Is that when you gave them this letter that is Exhibit No. 843?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Did the superseding contract follow that?

Q. Was it about the same time you gave him this Exhibit 844?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That refers to the Liberty?

A. Going fifth-run.

Mr. Rogers: You mean 844 for identification?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Q. You had bought third-run for the Strand and fourth-run for the Liberty?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 3163] Q. And you released both runs?

A. I released both runs and made the Strand fourth-run and Liberty fifth-run.

Q. This contract, Exhibit 842, is the one you made for the Strand fourth-run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that was made on what date?

A. The second day of November, 1936.

Q. Then during that 1936-1937 season, Schine was operating what theatres?

A. Was the Avon, the Olympic and Palace.

Q. And you still had the Strand and Liberty?

A. Strand and Liberty.

Q. And Victoria——

A. Was Graham and Ludlow.

Mr. Rogers: What was that year, you said, Mr. Wright?

Mr. Wright: The 1936-1937 season.

Q. The Fox product that played that year then played the first three runs in the Schine theatres?

A. That is right, first, second and third.

Q. And was that also true with respect to the other major pictures you had for that year?

A. Paramount and Warner.

Q. Then during the year 1937 did you have any further conversation with Mr. Schine about your theatres there?

[fol. 3164] A. No, I don't believe it was in 1937, but I think it was around 1938.

Q. In 1938?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the conversation and where was the conversation you had in 1938?

A. Well, it was in my office.

Q. At Watertown?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who else was present?

A. Mr. Bill Tupper. He is District Manager.

Q. Which Mr. Schine?

A. Myer.

Q. Mr. Myer Schine?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was said then?

A. We sat there and was talking house business. We said we — trying hard to make a living up here. He asked me if I was interested to sell out. I said I never thought of it, and we sat there for a little while, and after they went he told me that in case——

The Court: Who told you?

The Witness: Myer, he told me in case——

Q. What do you mean by "after they went out," who went?

A. I mean Bill Tupper and Mr. Myer Schine, after they [fol. 3165] went from the office.

Q. After they left the office?

A. They left there.

The Court: Then what happened?

The Witness: They told me in case——

Q. Was this another meeting?

A. No, the same meeting.

Q. Did you leave the office with them?

A. Yes, I left there in my office there.

Q. Go ahead.

Mr. McClennen: This is Mr. Myer Schine he is going to say said this?

The Court: You talked with Myer Schine?

The Witness: Yes. He told me in case I want to do anything to tell Bill Tupper and Bill Tupper would take the proposition over with Myer. About three or four weeks later I decided to go home to Greece.

Mr. McClennen: This isn't a conversation now. May it be excluded?

The Court: Strike it out. What was done about the sale?

The Witness: It was about three or four weeks I decided to say I was planning to go to Greece, and that is the time Bill Tupper told me if I want to sell out that Myer called [fol. 3166] him up and they offer me $35,000 for the Liberty. I said to Bill Tupper I would sell out both houses for $85,000 if they want to buy them out, they can let me know right away before I leave, and I haven't heard anything more except the offer for the Liberty.

Q. Then calling your attention to the——

The Court: Did you have the title to both places? Did you own the land?

The Witness: Yes, both, and buildings.

Q. Calling your attention to the 1937-38 season, did you then go back to third-run?

A. I went back to the third-run at the Strand and fourth-run at the Liberty.

Q. And the Schine houses played the first two runs?

A. First two runs, yes.

Q. On the major product you played at the Strand and Liberty?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did that continue the same way through 1938-39?

A. Yes, that continued right along after that.

Q. Do you recall approximately what admission prices were being charged in the town there when Mr. Schine took over the operation of the Avon and Olympic in 1933?

A. Before, the best I can remember, the Olympic was charging 25 and 35 and the Avon was 35 and 40. I can't tell [fol. 3167] exactly, because it is so far back.

Q. What were you charging?

A. 25 cents and Victoria was 25.

Q. Then in that year 1933, do you recall any changes that were made?

A. Well, the Olympic went to 25 all over the house and I went to 20 cents at the Strand, and the Liberty was still 20 cents.

Q. How about the Avon, any change there?

A. The Avon, I think was 35 and 40, I can't remember.

Q. Then you say the Olympic went to 25 cents all over the house; was it a house with a balcony?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. About how many seats in the balcony?

A. I believe it was between six and seven hundred.

Q. Were there any further changes in 1933?

A. No, not until the year 1935.

Q. 1935, what happened in 1935?

A. That is when the admissions went down in the houses in Watertown. The Olympic was charging, I think, balcony 15 cents.

Q. At night?

A. At night, and I went down to 15 and 20 at the Strand, and at the Liberty 15 cents.

Q. What do you mean by "15 and 20"?

[fol. 3168] A. 15 upstairs and 20 down.

Q. You had a balcony, too?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many seats in your balcony?

A. 132, and at the same time I was giving tickets myself, two for 20 cents, that is, one ticket and 20 cents admits two adults.

Q. That went on through 1935, the prices you mentioned?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was there any change in 1936?

A. No, not until late in 1936.

Q. What happened late in 1936?

A. The Olympic came back to 25 cents.

Q. That is after the Palace was taken over?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What prices were charged there?

A. 15 and 20.

Q. Did they have a balcony, too?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many seats?

A. I don't know how many seats.

Q. Approximately?

A. I think around 700, I can't tell because I never checked.

Q. Then the Palace charged the 15 cents in the balcony and what on the main floor?

[fol. 3169] A. 20 cents.

Q. You were charging?

A. 15 and 20 at the Strand.

Q. 15 is your balcony and 20 main floor at the Strand?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the Liberty was what?

A. 15 cents.

Q. The Liberty all this time was playing behind the Strand?

A. Behind, yes, sir.

Q. Then how long did those prices continue?

A. Well, that continued for, I think, around 1937-1938, I think.

Q. Then what happened?

A. I can't remember, and then a little later we got together because we had too many houses, to close up two houses up there and just open them Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Q. I am talking about admission prices.

A. Admission prices, they stayed about the same right along there until the tax come on, and when the Pine Camp came on, we all went up.

Q. That was in 1940?

A. 1940, yes, sir.

The Court: When what came up?

The Witness: Pine Camp.

Q. That was the Army camp?

[fol. 3170] A. The Army camp.

Q. During the time from 1933 on there, did the Schine Theatres have any give-aways of any kind?

A. Yes, they gave money away and they gave cars away, and I gave dishes away, and I gave money away.

Q. Did they give any tickets away?

A. I think they gave the first year for a month, I believe, at the Avon.

Q. In 1933, that was?

A. Yes, 1933, but didn't give any more.

Q. Didn't give tickets after that?

A. No.

Q. The only give-aways after that were money give-aways and automobiles?

A. Money and automobiles.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have these marked the next two numbers for identification.

(Thereupon the documents referred to were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 845 and 846, respectively, for identification.)

Q. I show you this Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 845 for identification, and ask you if you recognize the signature on there and know who signed it?

A. That is right.

[fol. 3171] Q. Who?

A. Mr. George Lynch.

Q. And that was given to you on what date?

A. September 20th, 1939.

Q. And this Plaintiff's Exhibit 846 bears your signature?

A. That is right.

Q. It was signed on the same day?

A. The same day.

Q. You had a conversation with Mr. Lynch on September 20th, 1939, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whereabouts?

A. I was in his office.

Q. How did that conversation come about?

A. Well, it was about three or four days ahead of Myer called me up over the telephone.

The Court: Who called you up?

The Witness: Mr. Myer Schine. He told me if I went down to Gloversville they had something for me, that it would be a benefit up there, so we can straighten up the Watertown situation. I have told him, I remember, I wasn't feeling good, but I will go down and see him, so I did.

Q. Who did you see when you got to Gloversville?

[fol. 3172] A. When I went there they was pretty busy and I went and sat with George and was talking about film rentals, and was talking about protection. I asked him the protection was a little too high in Watertown, 60 days after the second-run.

Q. What did you say?

A. I asked him if they would reduce it a little. He said "I think we are going to do something up there, Pete, for you," and that is the paper he gave me.

Q. This Exhibit 845 for identification?

A. Yes, that is right.

Q. Did he dictate that then?

A. No, he had it already made out, I think.

Q. He gave it to you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see Mr. Schine?

A. Yes, I see him a little later.

Q. How much later?

A. About an hour later or so.

Q. What was the talk you had with Mr. Schine?

A. We started talking about the Watertown situation up there, and I told him it would be better if we closed up two houses up there. He said "Maybe have to do something like that, because they got too many houses." Afterwards, he told me to do something for him, if I want to do it or not. [fol. 3173] I said "What is it?" He said "Sit down and dictate something." I said "No, I can't dictate anything." He dictated that letter and ask me if I want to sign it, all right, and if I don't want to sign it, all right.

Q. This letter he dictated that you are referring to is this Exhibit 846?

A. Yes.

Q. Then it was written up by his girl?

A. Yes, he dictate- it, yes.

Q. You signed it?

A. Yes, I signed it.

Q. After these documents 845 and 846 were signed on the 20th, did you get major pictures earlier after their runs——

A. Yes, a little. They got the protection down to 30 days.

Q. Which companies?

A. I believe it was Warner's, Paramount—Metro was always—and United Artists, but Fox never reduce it to 60 days—never reduce it below 60 days.

Q. You say Paramount, Warner's and United Artists reduced to 30. How about R. K. O.?

A. R. K. O. was 30, too.

Q. Did you have any negotiations or conversations about these reductions with representatives of the film companies?

[fol. 3174] A. I ask the salesmen to give me 30 days protection instead 60.

Q. I mean, after these documents were signed on the 20th?

A. After I got the reduction, after.

Q. But I say, after that date did you have any conversation or talk about those reductions with the representatives of the film companies?

A. No, I never had.

Mr. Wright: We offer Plaintiff's Exhibits 845 and 846 in evidence.

Mr. Wright: Exhibit 845 is dated September 20, 1939. It states:

"Mr. Peter Vournakis of the Strand and Liberty Theatre, Watertown, has requested and I have agreed to reduce the clearance of 60 days, second-run over third-run, to 30 days on the following companies: Paramount, Fox, Warner's, R. K. O. and United Artists." Signed "George W. Lynch."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. It also has a place for your signature?

A. Yes.

[fol. 3175] Q. Did you sign a copy and give it to him?

A. I can't remember.

Mr. Wright: Exhibit 846 bears the caption of this case, and is headed "Affidavit." It states:

"Peter Vournakis, being duly sworn, deposes and says: I am a citizen of the United States and reside in the City of Watertown, New York. I have been in the theatre business in the City of Watertown for the past 20 years. A great portion of that time I have been operating and still operate two theatres in opposition to the Schine Theatres in that city, and during the entire period I have never experienced any unpleasantness, and at no time have I had any difficulty in obtaining the pictures I wanted to buy. I have always found that their theatres were conducted in a business-like manner on a fair competitive basis. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 20th day of September, 1939."

I will ask to have these contracts marked with the next seven plaintiff's exhibit numbers for identification.

[fol. 3176] (Thereupon seven contracts between Mr. Vournakis and film companies, were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 847 to 853, inclusive, for identification.)

The Court: These are contracts that have been identified?

Mr. Wright: No, these have not been previously identified. These are contracts Mr. Vournakis produced, and that is why I want to identify them now.

The Court: Any objection to those?

Mr. McClennen: No, your Honor.

The Court: All right, received.

Mr. Wright: I have not asked him to identify them. Of course, if there is no objection, I will offer them.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 847 to 853, inclusive, previously marked for identification were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: You may cross-examine.

Mr. Rogers: I don't think there is any cross-examination, may it please the Court.

The Court: I want to ask a question or two.

By the Court:

Q. You spoke of a time when an offer of $15,000 was made to you?

A. Yes, that is when I had just the Strand at that time.

[fol. 3177] Q. That is the first one?

A. That is the first one.

Q. You had just the Strand at that time?

A. Yes, the Liberty I had given it back, because I was sick at that time. I turned the Liberty back, and just operated on a profit saving basis.

Q. $15,000 related solely to the Strand?

A. Just the Strand, yes.

Q. That took place where?

A. That was in Gloversville.

Q. How did it hapen that you went there?

A. That is the time, I believe, he called me up, or I went there, I can't remember. I have been paying him a visit quite often, because we was trying to get together so we can straighten out the Watertown situation.

Q. You don't recall whether you were asked to go down, or whether you went of your own accord?

A. I can't remember, your Honor. I can't tell.

Q. The second time you said you had a talk with Mr. Schine and Mr. Lynch at Watertown?

A. It was not Mr.——

Q. Later you went down to Gloversville?

A. It was not Mr. Lynch. It was Mr. Tupper.

Q. Oh, yes, you said Mr. Lynch called you up. How did you happen to go to Gloversville the second time? You [fol. 3178] spoke about your going back to Greece?

A. That is Mr. Bill Tupper called me up, District Manager, and if I would be interested to sell out before I go.

Q. Was that at——

A. Watertown.

Q. Watertown?

A. Yes. Mr. Myer Schine call up Mr. Tupper and ask him if I would be——

The Court: You don't know about that, only what Tupper told you?

The Witness: That is all.

Q. You went to Gloversville after that and saw Mr. Lynch and Mr. Schine?

A. That was later. Yes, it was later.

Q. About two weeks later you said?

A. No, that was longer than that.

Q. Had you come back?

A. Yes, it must be a year later, I believe.

Q. How did it happen that you went to Gloversville at that time?

A. That is when Mr.——

Q. When they made this offer of $35,000?

A. That was in Watertown.

Q. That was in Watertown?

A. That is right.

[fol. 3179] Q. How did you happen to contact Mr. Schine at that time, when he made that offer?

A. I didn't—through his District Manager.

Q. Did you call the District Manager?

A. No, the District Manager called me up. He came down to see me. It was, I believe, just a few weeks apart. That is when Mr. Myer Schine came up there and tried to make a deal with me.

Q. That is the time when he offered you $35,000 and you told him you wanted $80,000?

A. $85,000 for both places or nothing.

Q. You then had?

A. The Strand and the Liberty, both properties.

Q. You made this affidavit down there at Gloversville?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that true?

A. Well, as far as the thing is there, that the affidavit says, I always be able to buy pictures, I always be able to buy pictures after him, but not before him. That means, I have to wait after they get through, and then buy them.

Q. There are other things in the affidavit.

A. Sure.

Q. There are other things in the affidavit, also?

A. As far as the competitive business, we always com-[fol. 3180] peted there.

Q. You said something about the company being fair?

A. Well, we compete. We compete up there.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I don't think it is material how the witness or any witness here might characterize any competition that occurred. I suppose it is for the Court to judge ultimately.

The Court: It is important to know how the witness expressed himself, what he said. It has a bearing, of course, upon the proof of the facts.

Mr. Wright: But I would suppose his conclusions in any event as to such ultimate questions as to whether or not a particular practice was fair, would be immaterial.

The Court: To some extent that might be true. At the same time, it has a bearing otherwise. All right.

Mr. Rogers: May I straighten one matter out.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Rogers:

Q. With reference to the Strand, when that offer was made——

A. Yes.

[fol. 3181] Q. That offer was $15,000 above the mortgages that were on the property?

A. That is one thing I can't tell you, and I can't remember, because the only thing I would dispute was the $15,000. I want to be honest. I can't remember if it was above the mortgage or including the mortgage.

Q. Do you remember what that mortgage was?

A. The mortgage was $10,000, yes.

The Court: You owned the building and equipment?

The Witness: Yes. That is something I can't remember.

The Court: That is all.

Mr. Wright: I have another witness who was supposed to be here, but he is not here. If we could have a short recess, I think we have some documents to offer.

The Court: All right. Let me know when you are ready.

(Short recess.)

[fol. 3182] Irving Cohen a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Cohen?

A. I now live at 32 Oakdale Drive, Rochester, New York.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Well, I have a theatre in Corning, New York.

Q. How long have you had the theatre at Corning?

A. Since about 1926, or thereabouts.

Q. You own the theatre, yourself, now?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. For how long?

A. Well, since July 1st of 1943, I have it by myself. Previously to that I had a partner.

Q. You were in partnership with whom?

A. Mr. Morris Gaby.

The Court: From 1925?

The Witness: From 1926 to 1943.

Q. That is the Plaza Theatre there?

A. The Plaza Theatre.

Q. How large a theatre is that?

[fol. 3183] A. Oh, about 450 seats.

Q. Calling your attention to the year 1932, what other theatres were operated there?

A. In 1932 they had the State and the Fox, the Fox Theatre, and I think it is 1932, I believe, he just had the State; I don't think the Fox was built.

The Court: The State?

The Witness: The State; I believe the Schine State was in active operation.

Q. Who was operating it then?

A. The Schine Enterprises.

Q. In 1932?

A. Yes, that wasn't 1932, that was before the Schines made a deal with Fox.

Q. If it appeared Schine made a deal with Fox in 1930, would you still say Schine was operating the State during 1932?

A. No, it was then the Fox, they ran the State and Fox. Then the Fox Theatre was up at that time, yes.

Q. In 1932?

The Court: You don't mean there were four theatres in Corning?

The Witness: There was three; there was the old Liberty Theatre, which was rebuilt and called the Fox; Schine never ran that, until it was built by Fox, and he took it [fol. 3184] over from Fox and ran it. He also had the State.

The Court: That made the third theatre?

The Witness: The Fox made the third theatre.

Q. As I understand, in 1932, prior to the time Schine took over the State and Fox, those two theatres were being operated by the Fox interests?

A. By the Fox interests.

Q. And you were operating the Plaza?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were those the only three theatres operating at that time?

A. Yes, just about that time the Palace was built; also, when the Schine leased or sold to Fox, there was an old Regent Theatre there which was sold to a man by the name of Gerber, and he built the Palace on the site of the old Regent, just also about that time.

Q. And opened it about 1932?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then there were——

A. That made four theatres.

Mr. McClennen: Could I interrupt you a minute? May we understand when these witnesses speak of Fox, they are speaking of that Fox Metropolitan Organization?

[fol. 3185] Mr. Wright: I assume so.

The Court: Yes.

Q. Now, at that time can you tell us approximately what policy each of the theatres was operating on?

A. Well, when the Fox Theatre—shall I start when we first went in in 1926?

Q. No, start with 1932.

Mr. Rogers: All you are interested in is 1932, isn't it, Mr. Wright?

Q. 1932.

A. 1932, when the Fox Theatre was operating, they had made a deal with Gerber and for a time the Palace Theatre was closed, and we were able to get some picture first-run in Corning, and others second-run.

Q. Are you talking about major product?

A. Well, we had one major company which was Warner.

Q. First-run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was the only major company you had first-run?

A. Yes, sir, at that time.

Q. Then you had major second-run?

A. Yes, sir, we had some major second-runs, that is all we had, was first-run and second-run. We had some independent first-run, too, at that time.

Q. Then calling your attention to the 1933-34 season, [fol. 3186] after Schine took over the operation of the—what were those two theatres?

A. Well, the deal—the Palace situation changed again, and to this Gerber about the time Schine went back into Corning, the Palace reverted back to Gerber, and Mr. Gerber had some first—he ran his theatre with some first-run pictures. He had one company called "Columbia" and another "United Artists," so we were able to buy those pictures second-run.

Q. This was 1933-34?

A. At the time the theatres reverted back to Schine, after the Fox——

The Court: You mean the State and Fox?

The Witness: Yes, and all major product at that time, why, the best we could get was third-run.

Q. That is as to the major product which Schine was playing?

A. Yes, he played first-run at the Fox. Then he took the better pictures and played them again at the State and then they were made available to us.

Q. That is, what he didn't play second-run at the State, you would get second-run at your house?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What he would play second-run you got third-run?

A. Third-run.

The Court: Did that apply to all majors?

[fol. 3187] The Witness: Yes, the only pictures of the majors we were able to buy at that time, you could not consider Columbia or United Artists a major company,—we were able to get Columbia and United Artists because the only prior run they had in Corning was the Palace.

Q. You were able to get them after the Palace?

A. Yes, we followed Schine and the major product came to us third-run.

The Court: At the Palace——

The Witness: The Palace tried to run with what product they could get on the basis of first-run. They had Columbia and had United Artists and what independent product they could pick up. They did later also buy some second-run, but very little, they couldn't get it.

Q. Now, then, did the same general policies continue into the 1934-1935 season, or were there any changes in the product situation then?

A. The next change was when the Palace—when the Schine Enterprises made a deal with the Palace and took that over. Then the best we could get was third-run in all major products.

Q. When was it, if you recall, that Schine took over the Palace?

[fol. 3188] A. I don't exactly recall the year. It was about that time, around 1935 or 1936. It was just about that time. You see, Mr. Gaby was running the Plaza at that time. I was at Hornell, but while I was in general touch with the situation, these years sort of slipped by, and it was about that time that that——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. As the witness is evidently speaking second-hand, we ask that that be stricken out, about the date.

The Court: If he knows approximately the date.

The Witness: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: It is so far off it simply encumbers the record.

Mr. Wright: We will read into the record the date that appears in the interrogatories, the answer to interrogatory 17-A. It states with reference to the Town of Corning under the "Palace Theatre, formerly Regent."

"Nature of interest—lessee."

"Extent of interest—100 per cent."

"Date acquired—April, 1938."

"Other interests, if any in excess thereof—none."

"Seating capacity—398."

"Owned or leased—leased."

[fol. 3189] "If leased, name of lessor—Fred Gerber, Corning, New York."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. As I understand it, there wasn't any important change in the product situation in so far as your theatre, the Plaza, was concerned after 1933-1934, until Schine acquired the Palace?

A. The Palace.

Q. Then what happened?

A. Well, it sort of worsened for us to the degree, whereas before we were able to acquire second-run, whatever the Palace played, from then on, the best we could get was third-run, excepting Columbia. Columbia did sell us second-run. That was the only company that sold us second-run.

Q. On some product did you have fourth-run?

A. Unless you could classify reissues. Sometimes we would run a reissue, but third-run was our general—you see; they would make the picture "As available." If Fox came to sell us a contract, they would sell us pictures as available after Schine. Schine had the privilege of running at the Fox, at the State, and then it was made available for us—or at the Palace.

Q. Fox, State or Palace?

A. Yes, but we didn't run more than third-run, except if it [fol. 3190] was a reissue.

Q. What was the situation with respect to admission prices in the year 1932 or before Schine took over—took back the operation of the State and the Fox?

A. Our general price—well—was, while the Fox theatres —that is, when Schine made his deal with Fox, our admission price was 35 cents.

Mr. Rogers: That is not the question, may it please the Court, and we move to strike the answer. It was before Schine took over.

The Court: 1932.

Mr. Wright: That is right.

Mr. Rogers: May that be stricken?

The Court: Strike it out.

The Witness: That was before Schine took over from Fox?

The Court: What was your policy then?

The Witness: Before Schine took over from Fox, our policy was—yes, 35 cents. We were charging 35 cents at that time, because we had first-run on Warner's.

The Court: 35 and what in matinees?

The Witness: No, that was our evening price, and we had matinees Saturdays and Sundays.

Q. What were the State and Fox charging?

A. Well, the Fox price was, I think, 40 cents at that time.

[fol. 3191] Q. And the State?

A. The State was, I think—well, I don't think the Fox—

at one particular time there, I don't think they ran the State. It was the Fox and the Plaza.

Q. Then after, in the 1933-1934 what were the prices charged by various theatres?

A. We went down—the best we could get at that time was either third-run or some seconds, and we went down to 25 cents, and the State price was 25, and I believe the Fox price was 35. The Palace price was 35, too, at that time, 25 or 35.

Q. Those were all evening adult admission prices you are talking about?

A. Yes, I am talking about evening prices. I believe they were a little less during matinees, except Saturdays and Sundays.

Q. About how long did those prices continue?

A. Well, we had pretty tough sledding on those third-run pictures.

Mr. McClennen: May that be stricken out?

The Court: Yes, strike it out.

The Witness: Well, we just couldn't make—I don't know how to answer that. We could not make a go of it.

~~Mr. Wright: Read the question.~~

[fol. 3192] (Question read.)

The Court: Just answer the question.

The Witness: Was that after——

The Court: After 1933-1934.

Q. The prices you have just described?

A. I would say for six months. I mean, not very long. After Schine took back, and the best we could get was third-run pictures.

Q. As I understand it, you just described the prices that prevailed after Schine took the theatres back in the 1933-1934 season. Then I asked you how long those prices continued, if you know?

A. I don't remember. You can tell by the contracts, of course. I don't remember offhand.

Q. You don't remember——

A. I mean, I can't honestly answer that question unless—you see—of course, we went—we immediately went down to 25 cents, and the best we could get was third-run, and the State, they slashed their price, and we had to run after the State, so we went down to 20 cents. At one period the State went down to 15, and we had to go down to 15.

Q. In general——

A. I mean, that took a process of time, around 1934 to 1938 or 1939. It was about that time Mr. Gaby and I took a [fol. 3193] trip to Gloversville to see Mr. Schine——

Q. Let's just confine ourselves to the price situation first here. During this period was there any time when your prices at the Plaza were lower than the prices at which Schine was playing major product ahead of you at the State?

A. They weren't lower than the State. I don't believe they were lower than the State. When we dropped to 15 cents, it was really to meet the price that existed at the State.

Q. In general the prices at the State, then, were the same as yours?

A. As our price. We had to come down to meet their price.

Q. Do you recall whether there were any give-aways?

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. I ask to have that answer stricken out, "We had to come down to meet their price," not responsive.

The Court: Let him state the facts. "Had to come down" is a conclusion.

Q. State whether or not you did come down.

The Court. Did you come down to the price of the State?

The Witness: Yes. I think at one time we were charging more than the State. We had to.

The Court: Strike out the words "Had to."

Q. Do you recall whether at any time after 1933 there were [fol. 3194] any tickets given away for the Schine theatres there?

A. Yes, I recall that very much. They started a student ticket. Any student would be admitted into the theatre with 15 cents.

Q. What theatre was that?

A. That was to all Schine theatres that were running in town.

Q. Including the first-run theatre?

A. Fox,—yes, admitted in the Fox or the State.

Q. In those the regular first-run price was what?

A. I think at the Fox the price was 35 cents, and they possibly had a lower balcony price. I think it was a quarter in the balcony at that time.

Q. Did you ever have any conversations with Mr. Schine about the situation there in Corning? Just answer "Yes" or "No."

A. Yes, we did.

Q. When was the first time?

A. This was after Schine took over the Palace. We thought perhaps we could work something out, and Mr. Gaby and myself, we took a trip to Gloversville and asked——

Q. When was this, as nearly as you can place it?

A. 1939, I believe.

Q. Some time in 1939?

A. 1939. It was in July of 1939.

[fol. 3195] Q. Who was present? Who did you see at Gloversville?

A. We saw Mr. Myer Schine.

Q. Any one else?

A. Not that I recall. I think his brother—I think we saw him there. I don't remember any conversation with him.

Q. What was said then?

A. We asked, now that the situation at Mr. Gerber's Palace, was simply that Schine and we had—we were in town, and if we couldn't work something out, that we could get some product, so that we could live, if we couldn't get some second-run pictures, and then we could go to a quarter, and I recall Mr. Schine—we said at that time to him "You have so many theatres. We have this one," and there was something—you know, he could do for us there. Mr. Schine, I remember answering that every situation had to take care of itself, and they didn't have enough product themselves.

The Court: That is what he said, you say?

The witness: That was one of his answers to us, to the question, when we requested that the company give us some products. He said he did not have enough for himself. We told him he would have enough if he did not double-feature so much. He answered us, he considered the opposition [fol. 3196] in Elmira, they double-featured, therefore, he had to double-feature.

~~Q. Was anything~~ else said then?

A. We asked him—he asked us if we would sell him the theatre, and we told him that we had to make a living, and we did not know what we could do. We asked him—

we would trade him the theatre if he could give us some situation that perhaps was too small for him, and Mr. Schine did not know of any at that particular time. He said he would get in touch with us if he did know of a situation like that.

Q. With reference to second-run product, had you attempted to negotiate with the major film companies for major product?

A. Well, we did that. Practically every time they sold us a contract, we would say "Here is a town of 16,000 people. We have to run third-run."

Mr. Rogers: I move to strike it out, may it please the Court. It is not responsive. The question is whether he negotiated for the product.

The Court: Yes, it is too general.

Q. Can you recall any particular conversation with any particular major distributor where you discussed the possibility of getting the second-run?

A. The only way I could answer that, every time I bought [fol. 3197] a product, I yelled murder with all the distributors.

Mr. McClennen: May that be stricken out?

The Court: Yes, that is not responsive.

Q. Listen carefully to the question and see if you can answer it.

(Question read.)

A. Yes, I can.

Q. With whom?

A. Well, with Ted O'Shea of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Q. When?

A. I would say during the time that he was manager, and that this situation existed. I mean, various managers would change from time to time.

Q. During that time what was said by him and by you with reference to a second-run for Corning?

Mr. McClennen: The usual objection.

The Witness: He told us that they did not sell Schine, that Schine bought in New York, and when they came down to sell me, that is what he had to sell me, and it was to follow Schine theatres, that is the only way he could sell me.

Q. Any other major representatives that you can remember of having a conversation with?

A. Sidney Samson of Fox.

[fol. 3198] Q. When was it you talked to him?

A. About that same time.

Mr. Rogers: Can't we get a date here?

The Witness: You see, I am not a lawyer. Practically every contract——

Q. Just give us the best——

A. Every contract I made——

The Court: The Schines took over the Palace in 1938; now, when was this?

Q. When you talked to Samson of Fox, was this before or after or before and after? We are trying to fix the time when you had these talks with him about second-run for the Plaza?

A. When this condition existed that the best we could get was third-run——

Q. That would be the period of 1933-34 right through 1940-41?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, right through, leading question.

The Court: State when it was.

The Witness: When the Schine Enterprises took the theatres back from Fox and we immediately had to run third-run, and we had to follow the State Theatre, especially since we were charging either the same or over what the [fol. 3199] State was charging. It seems there was a conflict going on between the Schine and the Palace.

Mr. Rogers: That is not responsive, may we have it stricken out?

The Court: Yes.

Q. I am just trying to fix the time of the conversation you had with Mr. Samson. Did you talk to him after you went to third-run or at the time you went to third-run?

A. Yes, the only way we could buy them was third-run.

By the Court:

Q. What did Samson tell you?

A. Samson told us the same thing. He said "We don't make the deal with Schine Enterprises; that is made in

New York. We have this to sell and it is to follow Schine as available. If it is third-run, it is third-run; if it is fourth-run, it is fourth-run; and if it is second-run, it is second-run; the pictures he doesn't play second-run, you can have the second-run."

Mr. Rogers: We don't have the date of the talk with Ted O'Shea and the talk with Samson. If we are to meet the situation, we must have the date.

The Court: Did you talk with him at the time you played third-run?

[fol. 3200] The Witness: Yes.

The Court: About 1935 or '36?

The Witness: 1935 or '36.

The Court: You had second-run except Columbia?

The Witness: Yes.

Q. Anybody else besides Mr. O'Shea and Mr. Samson?

A. Mr. Miller, Universal.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. At that same period of time.

Q. What was said by him?

A. Always the same answer, that they don't sell Schine Enterprises, that those pictures are sold out of New York.

Q. What do you mean by that, Universal films at the Buffalo office or what exchange?

A. That the deal is made either in Gloversville or in New York.

The Court: What did they mean, they didn't sell?

The Witness: I mean by that, the salesman didn't sell, this particular salesman or representative of Universal, who in this case was Otto Siegel, that he didn't sell Schine; he only received permission from Universal to sell any pictures that were available, and it was in this case third-run. If [fol. 3201] Schine didn't play them second-run, they would be second-run, and if Schine didn't play them first-run, they would be first-run.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Did you have any other conversation with any major representative?

A. There was Harry Seed of Warner Brothers.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. That same period of time.
Q. What was said by him?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.
The Witness: Same answer.
The Court: He hasn't got the periods very well.
The Witness: Say between 1935, 1936, 1937, after the Schine Enterprises took the theatres back from Fox.

Q. What did he tell you?
A. He told me——

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.
The Witness: As a matter of fact, he told me I was lucky to get pictures altogether. He said "Schine will pay me $25 a picture more if they don't sell you."

Q. Was there anybody else, any other major company——

Mr. Rogers: May that be stricken out as to his opinion [fol. 3202] of what Schine would do if he did not sell this witness?
The Witness: It wasn't my opinion, it was told to me.
Mr. Rogers: One moment, Mr. Witness; it is only opinion evidence.
The Court: I don't know that he may state that Schine paid $25.
Mr. Wright: He didn't say that, he said that is what Seed told him.
The Court: I know that, but I don't know that he can make a statement of that kind.
Mr. Wright: I suppose it is clear enough that Seed had authority to tell him why he could not have pictures.
The Court: Read that answer.

(Preceding answer read as follows:

> "A. As a matter of fact, he told me I was lucky to get pictures altogether. He said 'Schine will pay me $25 a picture more if they don't sell you'.")

The Court: I will let it stand.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Did you talk to anybody from Paramount or R.K.O. about second-run?

A. Yes, I think Kenneth Robinson was Manager of [fol. 3203] Paramount office about that time.

Q. What did Robinson tell you?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: Robinson told me that their deals are made in New York. He said "We can only sell you what New York tells us to sell, and it is after Schine".

Q. Did you talk with R.K.O.?

Mr. Rogers: Who?

The Witness: What was that?

Q. R.K.O.?

A. Yes, I talked to the manager there. You see, they changed managers of the office and this condition came up every time they sold me a contract. I just recall there was either Mr. Dixon was manager or I think at that particular time Mr. Boasberg.

The Court: That would be what period?

The Witness: Between 1934, '35, '36 and '37; they changed managers very often at that time.

The Court: Do you remember talking with Boasberg?

The Witness: Yes, I talked with Boasberg. I talked with Walsh and I talked with Lux.

The Court: Did they all represent R.K.O.?

The Witness: Yes, one succeeded the other.

[fol. 3204] Q. What did they tell you?

Mr. Rogers: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Can you recall what any particular one of those representatives told you?

Mr. Rogers: That is objected to.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: We would go into conversations, you see——

The Court: No, no. Answer the question. Do you recall what any one of these said?

The Witness: They told me they can only sell me——

The Court: That is not the question. Do you recall any conversation with any one of these agents? You started to tell about Boasberg.

The Witness: Yes. I took this up with Mr. Boasberg, and I took it up with their salesman.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. What did Boasberg tell you?
A. He told me "This is what I can sell you, and it is as available after Schine".

Mr. Rogers: May that be stricken out, if your Honor please?
The Court: I don't know.

Q. Are you familiar with the Town of Salamanca?
A. Yes, sir, I am.
[fol. 3205] Q. Did you visit that town in 1937 or '38?
A. I have a sister living in Salamanca and I always made it a point to visit her.

The Court: That doesn't answer it. It is not necessary for us to go into that.
The Witness: Yes, I did visit Salamanca.
The Court: When?
The Witness: 1937. I made visits there two or three times every year.
The Court: You were there in 1937?
The Witness: Yes, I was.
Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this newspaper marked with the next exhibit number for identification.

(Thereupon newspaper referred to was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 854 for identification.)

Q. I will show you this newspaper dated December 24, 1938, marked for identification as Exhibit 854.

The Court: What number is that?
Mr. Wright: There were a group of contracts preceding, seven contracts that Mr. Vournakis identified.
The Court: That is 847 to 852.
Mr. Wright: The last contract number was 853, inclusive. Will you read the last question?

[fol. 3206] (Last question read.)

Q. When was the first time you saw that?
A. Well, I would say it was about four or five days after this paper was printed, that it was sent to me.

Q. Now, how long before December—how recently before December 24th, 1938, had you been in Salamanca?

A. Well, I was there in 1937. I was there in 1938. I made it a point of going there every year at some particular time.

Q. Well, in December, 1938, had you had any negotiations with reference to the possible operation of a theatre there?

A. Yes, sir, I had.

Q. Those were with whom?

A. With my partner and in conjunction with—that is Mr. Morris Gaby—with my brother-in-law, who was residing in Salamanca.

Q. What is the name of your brother-in-law?

A. Mr. Zafron.

Q. How do you spell it?

A. Z-a-f-r-o-n, Jack Zafron.

Q. Do you know whether you or your brother-in-law had taken any steps to acquire a property for theatre purposes there?

A. Yes, we had.

[fol. 3207] The Court: I don't know what knowledge he has about what his brother-in-law did. He can say what was done by him.

Q. If he knows.

A. My brother-in-law took those steps. He acquired a building.

The Court: Are you speaking of your personal knowledge?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: Were you there?

The Witness: I knew of the building being bought for that purpose.

Mr. McClennen: May that be stricken out, if your Honor please? It is obvious he is speaking of something not that he was present at.

The Court: Were you present when it was bought?

The Witness: I wasn't present when it was bought, but I was told it was bought.

The Court: Strike it out. You can't tell what your brother-in-law told you.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Just tell us what, if anything, you, yourself, did in Salamanca with reference to the possible operation of a theatre?

A. Well, I had a conversation with my brother-in-law, and told him that—— [fol. 3208] The Court: No, no.

Q. Just tell us what you did, don't tell the conversation. Just what you did. You talked to your brother-in-law. Did you do anything else?

A. My partner and I, Mr. Gaby, were interested in putting up a theatre in Salamanca.

Mr. McClennen: May that be stricken out?

The Court: No, I will let it stand.

Mr. McClennen: It is not responsive to the question.

The Court: Strike it out.

The Witness: We made an agreement with my brother-in-law.

Mr. McClennen: If it was written, it ought to appear that way. If it was oral, it ought not be stated in conclusion form. I object to it.

The Court: Was there any writing?

The Witness: No, except the building was bought for that purpose.

Mr. McClennen: And may that last be stricken out?

The Court: Strike it out.

Q. Did you look at any property there yourself?

A. Yes, sir, we did.

Q. Did you make any investigation of theatre sites?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. When you say "we", whom are you talking about?

A. My partner, Mr. Gaby and my brother-in-law, Mr. Zafron.

[fol. 3209] Q. When did you do that?

A. About 1938, specifically.

Q. When was it with reference to December 24th, 1938?

A. I would say around October of 1938.

Q. Around October?

A. Yes, I can't name a specific day.

Q. What was it that you and Mr. Gaby did in Corning in that connection, in October?

The Court: You are talking about Salamanca.

Q. Oh, in Salamanca, yes.

A. Well, we went down, we had a conference with my brother-in-law, and we asked him to make a deal.

The Court: Not what you asked him. You started to say you went down.

The Witness: Yes, we looked over a piece of property, and we then decided that that particular piece of property was not——

Q. Not what you decided, just what you did. You looked at one piece of property. Did you look at any others?

A. Yes, we looked at another piece of property, and it was this second piece of property my brother-in-law bought.

Mr. McClennen: May that last be stricken out?

The Court: That the brother-in-law bought it may go out.

Q. Did you have any talks with any owners of any of [fol. 3210] those properties?

A. My brother-in-law had a talk.

Q. Just what you did.

A. I did not.

The Court: All right.

Q. Then after December 24th, 1938, did you or your partner or your brother-in-law build or buy a theatre in Salamanca?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, what he did, I think it should be limited to.

The Court: He can state what he has knowledge of. He can state whether he or others in conjunction with him purchased property there.

The Witness: I called up my brother-in-law on the telephone and asked him——

Q. You cannot state the conversation.

The Court: Did you purchase any property there?

The Witness: My brother-in-law purchased this property.

Q. The question was——

A. I did not, no.

The Court: All right.

Q. The question I asked still has not been answered. Would you read the question?

(Question read, as follows: "Q. Then after December 24th, 1938, did you or your partner or your brother-in-law [fol. 3211] build or buy a theatre in Salamanca?")

The Witness: No, we did not.

Q. Have you been back there since then?
A. Yes, I have.
Q. You were back there in 1941, 1940?
A. I was back there in 1939, '40, '41 and '42.
Q. Did you notice whether there was any other—what, if any, theatres were there in 1939 or '40?
A. Just the Andrews.
Q. That was the theatre operated by Schine?
A. Operated at the time, yes.
Q. That was the one that was there in October, 1938?
A. Yes, that was there in 1938.
Q. There were no other theatres then or in 1939 or '40, is that right?
A. No.

Mr. Wright: That is all.
The Court: Was there any other theatre, when you speak of 1939 or '40?
The Witness: No, there was just the Andrews. I thought there was going to be.
The Court: All right. All right. Cross-examine. Is there any cross-examination?
Mr. Rogers: I beg your pardon. I did not know Mr. [fol. 3212] Wright was finished.

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Rogers:

Q. I believe that you testified that you had Warner product first-run for the season 1932-33, is that right?

Mr. Wright: I thought he said 1931-32.
The Court: What do you say now?
The Witness: I would say it was after Fox took over from Schine.

Q. No, please answer my question.

The Court: Did you say 1931-32 or 1932-33?

The Witness: I could not just say the exact time, I know that situation existed about that time, but I could not say the exact time.

Q. One moment, you can't state definitely whether or not you had Warner?

A. After Fox——

Q. Please listen to me for a moment.

The Court: Did you have the Warner product in 1932, did you say, was that the question?

Mr. Rogers: Yes.

The Witness: We had the Warner product after the Fox took over from Schine. I can't say the exact time there, [fol. 3213] but at that time we had it. Now, that is the only answer I can give you truthfully.

Q. Let me ask you something. How much time did you devote to the Plaza Theatre in Corning in 1932?

A. Well, I lived in Hornell which was 40 miles away, and my partner and I——

Q. I am asking you a simple question; how much time did you devote to the Plaza Theatre in Corning in 1932? Just answer that question.

A. I devoted some time.

Q. About how much time, how often were you there in the theatre?

A. Two or three times a week.

Q. Every week?

A. Practically every week, yes, there was some exceptions.

Q. Who did the buying for that theatre in 1932, you or your partner Gaby?

A. Both Mr. Gaby and myself. Sometimes I would buy contracts for Corning and Hornell, and sometimes he would buy for Corning and Hornell, all depends where the salesman happened to be.

Q. Primarily, didn't Gaby doing the buying for the Plaza at Corning?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 3214] Q. Didn't he, primarily, speaking?

A. Depended who saw the agent and salesman, we both did.

Q. Didn't he primarily do it for the Plaza?

A. We both did. I would rather answer that way.

Q. In 1932, who was the man who really ran the Plaza?

A. Mr. Gaby.

Q. In 1933, who was the man who really ran the Plaza?

A. Mr. Gaby. When we made our deals——

Q. Just answer the question, don't babble on. Of course, when you testified to the prices of admission at the Plaza Theatre, did you testify of your own knowledge or just what you thought?

A. Why, prices changed during the course of that time.

Q. No, answer my question. I am asking a very simple question. Now, you gave us a lot of testimony that the prices of admission at the Plaza Theatre were certain figures.

A. I would say as I thought.

Q. Merely as you thought?

A. Yes.

Q. Not of your own knowledge, is that right?

A. It is 13 odd years; I knew what they were at the time they existed.

Q. Will you please stop and answer the question?

The Court: Did you know about the price yourself?

The Witness: I knew about the price, yes.

[fol. 3215] By Mr. Rogers:

Q. Those prices you testified to are accurate prices, is that right?

A. To the best of my knowledge right now.

Q. What prices of admission were you charging at the Plaza Theatre in 1933?

A. 1933, I would say, 25 cents.

Q. What prices of admission were you charging at the Plaza Theatre in 1934?

A. Well, either 25 or 20, after Schine came back and we had to run third-run——

Q. Please answer my question.

The Court: Twenty-five or thirty?

The Witness: Twenty-five or twenty.

Q. Either 20 or 25 cents, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, let me show you an advertisement in the "Evening Leader" or Corning, New York, under date of March 6, 1934. Is that the ad of your Plaza Theatre?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. What price does that show?

A. That is a family night. That says ten cents.

Q. What prices does that show?

A. That was ten cents.

Q. It says, "Ten cents, all seats"?

[fol. 3216] A. Yes, on that particular night.

Q. On that night?

A. Yes.

Q. Only that night?

A. It wasn't our general price.

Q. What price of admission were you charging in 1935?

A. That general condition existed in 1935, too.

The Court: Just answer the question.

A. I would say our general price at that time was 20 cents. On Thursday we had a Bargain Night, which we charged ten cents.

Q. Let me show you the Evening Leader or Corning of February 27, 1935. Is that your ad for the Plaza Theatre?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. What is the price of admission?

A. That is ten cents. That is a Bargain Night we had at ten cents.

Q. Where is there anything there about a Bargain Night in the ad?

A. Well, that is what it was.

Q. There is nothing in there about a Bargain Night, is there, in that ad?

A. I don't see where he had "Bargain Night." He said, "Tonight all seats ten cents." Just tonight.

[fol. 3217] Q. You say that was usual on Thursday nights, is that right?

A. Yes, as a rule, unless perhaps at that time——

Q. This is Wednesday night, isn't it?

A. Yes, that is Wednesday night.

Q. So the rule did not prevail, did it, that night?

A. Why he changed that particular time, it may have been Wednesdays.

Q. You testified before your price was 25 cents and 20 cents in 1934. I show you the Evening Leader, Corning, Tuesday, May 8, 1934. Is that your Plaza ad?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. What is the price of admission?

A. That is ten cents.

Q. You notice in that ad, it says, "Tonight, Wednesday and Thursday, ten cents," do you?

A. Yes.

Q. There was nothing special about that, was there?

A. (No answer.)

Q. I show you ad of the Plaza Theatre in the Evening Leader, Corning, Wednesday May 16, 1934. Is that your ad of the Plaza Theatre?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. What is the price of admission?

A. Ten cents.

Q. Nothing special about that, was there?

[fol. 3218] A. I can recall now why that was. There was a reason for that.

Mr Rogers: That is all

Redirect examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Just one question. You said there was a reason for this ten cent price. Can you tell us what that was?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

The Witness: When Schine went to fifteen cents at the State——

The Court: Just a moment.

Mr. Wright: On the cross-examination, the last ten-cent admission in May, 1934, Mr. Rogers, asked him if there was anything special about it, and he said there was a reason for it.

The Witness: When Schine went to fifteen cents at the State and we had to run after him, in desperation, my partner went ahead with ten cents for a limited amount of time.

Mr. Rogers: I move to strike that out, may it please the Court.

The Court: What the partner did is not responsive. What was done by the company.

Mr. Rogers: May that be stricken?

[fol. 3219] The Witness: There was only certain product we could run at that price. Major products, they wouldn't let us run at that price.

The Court: The statement about the partner is stricken.

Mr. Rogers: May I have these contracts marked for identification?

Mr. Wright: Are those contracts which were previously identified? If they are identified, they are identified. They don't need to be marked again. It will just confuse it. There is no use of re-marking them.

Mr. Rogers: I beg your pardon. They have been identified.

The Court: What time do you want to get away?

Mr. Wright: As far as we are concerned, we will go as late as your Honor wants to go. I don't know about these other gentlemen.

Mr. McClennen: I think some will have to leave at four, if your Honor please.

The Court: All right. We will recess until two o'clock.

(Thereupon a recess was taken until 2 p. m.)

[fol. 3220] After recess, 2 o'clock P. M.

Appearances: As before noted.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I just got a telephone call from Mr. Berge, at Washington, to the effect that the Clerk of the Supreme Court has taken the Crescent case off the call, and put it over until November 6th and 7th. We had arranged an adjournment here with all counsel and excused witnesses until next Monday. I don't know what we can do about it.

The Court: Well, I hate to waste the time. Can you not get some witnesses here tomorrow?

Mr. Wright: I do not think we could go ahead tomorrow. We might be able to go ahead on Friday.

The Court: Today is only Tuesday.

Mr. Wright: That is right, but we had a schedule made up for next Monday and Tuesday, and I don't know whether we could get those people in here again before that or not. I had an appointment in Washington in any event for tomorrow myself, and I want to take a trip down there. I understood all other counsel in the case had made prepara- [fol. 3221] tions to leave then. I did not understand they were being held here. It is a situation over which I had no control.

The Court: What are your wishes about the matter?

Mr. McClennen: Well, if Mr. Wright could arrange to go ahead, why, we could cancel and stay. If we are not to go ahead tomorrow, then we would not want to sit around and wait for Thursday and Friday. Either go ahead tomorrow or next Monday.

The Court: He says he has to be in Washington tomorrow.

Mr. Wright: That is right, your Honor.

The Court: Well, I think under the circumstances when we adjourn today, we will adjourn until next Monday.

Mr. Wright: Mr. Tishkoff, take the stand.

Mr. McClennen: Before Mr. Tishkoff takes the stand, we should like to offer these contracts as a part of Mr. Cohen's cross-examination. They are taken from identification number 637, which was a large group of Warner contracts, and they are the contracts for the Plaza, as follows: The First National Productions of the 1931-32 season to the Plaze second-run.

[fol. 3222] The Court: What year is that?

Mr. McClennen: 1931-32 second-run, and the Warner productions for the same year, 1931-32 to the Plaza second-run; the First National 1932-3 productions to the Plaza second-run, and the fourth one, the Warner productions contract for 1932-33 productions to the Plaza second-run.

The Court: What run?

Mr. McClennen: All second-runs.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, we have no objection to the contracts going into evidence. I don't quite understand what counsel means by having them go into evidence as part of Mr. Cohen's cross-examination. If they are offered for the purpose of impeachment, they should have been drawn to his attention at the time he was testifying, as evidence of what was played there, we have no objection to that.

Mr. McClennen: If there is no objection to their going in, we need not insist that it be part of the cross-examination. It will be convenient to have them in the record at this point, that is in the order that I have noted.

[fol. 3223] The Court: I thought they were identified.

Mr. McClennen: They were from identification 637, and they become exhibits in that order.

The Court: You say they are from 637?

Mr. McClennen: 637 was a great bulk of First National contracts. It doesn't identify any particular paper at all.

(Thereupon the four contracts referred to, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 637-A, B, C and D, inclusive.)

William Tishkoff, a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Mr. McClennen: I did not realize Mr. Tishkoff was coming forward. If your Honor please, for convenience, in juxtaposition to these there should be the four contracts also from Exhibit No. 637 for identification, which are the First National 1931 production first-run to the to the Fox or Palace Theatre; the next, the Warner productions for the 1931-32 season, first-run, to the Fox or Palace Theatres; [fol. 3224] the third one, the First National Productions, 1932-33 to the Fox or Palace, first-run; and the fourth one, the Warner productions, 1932-33 to the Fox or Palace first-run.

The Court: They may be marked E. F, G and H.

Mr. McClennen: That is right, sir.

(Thereupon the four contracts referred to were then received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 637-E, F, G and H.)

Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Tishkoff, have you been sworn?

The Court: Yes, he has.

Q. Where do you live?
A. Rochester, New York.
Q. What is your occupation?
A. Theatre manager and owner.
Q. What theatre?
A. Not at the present.

The Court: What?
The Witness: I am not at present occupied in the theatre.

Q. You were a theatre manager and owner up to when?
A. Up to last January 26th.
[fol. 3225] Q. What theatre?

A. The Murray Theatre.

Q. That is at Rochester?

A. Rochester, New York.

Q. How long did you own and manage the Murray Theatre?

A. 24 years.

Q. Where is that theatre in Rochester?

A. At 218 Murray Street, near Lyle Avenue.

Q. Do you know where the State Theatre is in Rochester?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where is that?

A. That is across the city from the Murray Theatre.

Q. Can you give us any more accurate location than that?

A. Between three miles east of the Murray Theatre.

Q. About three miles east?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I call your attention to the year 1927, were you then interested in or engaged in the construction of a theatre in Rochester near the State?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What theatre was that?

A. The Webster Theatre.

Q. How far away from the State was it?

A. Between three-quarters of a mile to a mile.

The Court: What year?

[fol. 3226] Mr. Wright: 1927.

Q. Who was associated with you in the construction of that theatre?

A. Four partners besides myself.

Q. Who were they?

A. Mr. Robfogel, Jacob Robfogel, and Joseph, a son of the same name.

Q. Did you name all of the four?

A. Mr. Frederick Bieger, Max Fogel and myself.

Q. Who was going to operate the new theatre when it was built?

A. The five of us under the organization of a corporation.

Q. What is the name of the corporation?

A. Bemat Amusement Corporation.

A. After construction of the Webster Theatre was started, did you have any conversation with Mr. Myer Schine about it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long after construction was started was that?

A. Just a few weeks.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. Mr. J. Myer Schine, John A. and Schafer called at the office of the Murray Theatre.

Q. The office of the Murray Theatre?

A. Office of the Murray Theatre.

[fol. 3227] Q. Who else was present besides yourself?

A. Mr. Fogel.

Q. What was said then?

A. Mr. Schine inquired if we are building a theatre at that location on 314 Webster Avenue. We told him that we are doing so at that time.

Q. What else was said?

A. What did you say?

Q. What else was said?

A. Well, Mr. Schine expressed himself that the location is not appropriate for a theatre. It is too near the State Theatre, and it is not justified to be built there.

Q. What did you say?

A. We told him that according to the time and investigation that was put in prior to the decision of building, we thought that the theatre is justified to be built there.

Q. Was anything else said?

A. Well, the visit lasted approximately an hour, and many things were said at the time, but as I can recollect, Mr. Schine expressed himself that it is unjustified, and they, therefore, will build a theatre near the Murray Theatre as a matter of penalty of some kind or other.

Q. What did you say about that?

A. Personally I expressed myself that as far as—speaking strictly for myself, it was not so important to me, that [fol. 3228] I would divorce myself from my investment and offer to transfer my personal investment to Mr. Schine at the cost at the time to me.

Q. Personal investment of what?

A. Approximately $40,000.

Q. In what?

A. In the new Webster Theatre.

Q. In the Webster construction. Was that offer accepted?

A. He refused.

Q. Was there anything else said at that time with reference to your theatre, the Webster or the Murray or the State?

A. At that time we expressed ourselves to him, if another theatre would be built on Lyell Avenue, nearby ours, it naturally would hurt our business, and probably put us out of business. That was made in the form of an appeal, and naturally we did not get no answer to that.

Q. When was the next time you saw Mr. Schine in connection with that Webster Theatre?

A. Mr. Fogel, about two weeks later came to me and expressed himself——

Q. Don't give the conversation between you and Mr. Fogel. What I asked you was——

A. About two weeks later.

Q. The next time you saw Mr. Schine. That was about——

A. Two or three weeks later.

[fol. 3229] Q. Where was that?

A. That was in the Seneca Hotel, I believe, the first meeting.

Q. At Rochester?

A. Rochester, New York.

Q. Who else was present then?

A. Mr. Schafer was present. Mr. Fogel was present, and one of the Robfogels was present. I believe it was the son.

Q. What was said at that meeting?

A. What is that?

Q. What was said there?

A. A proposition was made to us that we enter into a partnership of operation on the Webster Theatre with Schine.

Q. Did you do that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the corporation then formed to operate it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the name of that corporation?

A. The Webster Theatre Corporation.

Q. That was owned half by you and Mr. Fogel and your associates——

The Court: Had it been organized at this time or hadn't it?

The Witness: It was organized at that time, sir.

The Court: Before you had this talk with Mr. Schine or [fol. 3230] after that?

The Witness: The theatre?

The Court: After this talk with Mr. Schine or before was the corporation organized?

The Witness: After the talk with Mr. Schine.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. You say the Webster Theatre Corporation was the operating corporation?

A. That was the operating corporation for the theatre.

Q. And the Bemat Amusement Company you have described before was the owning corporation?

A. That was the owning corporation for the building.

Q. The theatre building on completion was leased to the Webster Theatre Corporation?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That corporation was one in which you and your associates who built the theatre had a half interest?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Mr. Schine, his companies, had the other half interest?

A. Yes, sir. It is only Mr. Fogel and myself and Mr. Schine had the interest in the operating of the theatre.

Q. You and Mr. Fogel owned half?

A. Yes, and Mr. Schine and his company owned half.

Q. The theatre was managed by whom?

A. By Mr. Fogel.

[fol. 3231] Q. Who bought the films for it?

A. Schines Company in Gloversville bought and booked the film—bought the film, rather.

Q. How long did that arrangement continue, if you know?

A. Until 1932, five years.

Q. Then Mr. Schine's interests were turned back to you and Mr. Fogel?

A. Well, I have to explain. It wasn't really turned over. It was—we had another meeting at that time, and Mr. Schine pointed out to our Bemat Amusement Corporation partnership that the rent was too high, and in 1932, I believe it was minimized.

Q. It was reduced?

A. Reduced to about $14,000 if I correctly remember. I have no records of that.

Q. How long did you continue to operate under the reduced rental?

A. Well, we needed money to put in the operating of the theatre, and naturally it was refused by Mr. Schine, and his company——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. May that be stricken out?

The Court: The "naturally" may go out. You needed money for what?

The Witness: For the operation, future operation of the theatre company, and the money was refused and the partship——

[fol. 3232]

Mr. McClennen: May that be stricken out? There isn't a question that calls for that.

The Court: That is true. The latter part is not responsive. You needed money, you said for the operation?

The Witness: Operation. We were short of money.

The Court: Operation by the Schine company?

The Witness: By the Schine and ourselves.

The Court: You had the rent?

The Witness: Rent.

The Court: The rent was not enough?

The Witness: It was not enough to meet the rent.

Q. Was the lease defaulted?

A. The lease was defaulted and measures taken to collect it, for the rent.

Q. What happened to the operation of the theatre?

A. Then the Company that built the theatre operated the theatre with us.

Q. That is the Bemat Amusement Company?

A. The Bemat Amusement Company.

The Court: You say "with us"?

The Witness: With us, Mr. Fogel.

Q. By "us," whom were you referring to?

A. Mr. Fogel and myself.

[fol. 3233] Q. Mr. Schine then had no further interest in the theatre?

A. No.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. This $20,000 rent was paid by the operating company to the Bemat Company as the owner of the property, is that right?

A. It was paid, the $20,000, in the form of future rent to be deductible each and every year on an equal basis.

Q. That is, the $20,000 that was paid went to your Mr. Fogel and your associates' interest in the Bemat Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. They were tenants at that rate of rent, is that correct?

A. Please repeat the question?

(Question read.)

Q. That is, the Webster Theatre Corporation was the tenant at that rate of rent?

A. That is right.

Q. So that that $20,000 did not go to the Schine interests in any way?

A. No, sir.

Q. Then, in figuring out the profits or losses of the Webster Theatre Corporation, of course, that rent was one of the [fol. 3234] items of expense, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Then that and all the other operating expenses being taken out, if there was any profit, that went half to you and Mr. Fogel and half to the Schine interests?

A. That is right.

Q. And in the operation the Webster Theatre Corporation sustained a loss of about $15,000?

A. I couldn't commit myself to the figures. I was not in charge of the operation.

Q. You were apprised at the time of the fact of what the losses were, were you not?

A. I was not.

Q. You did not know at all?

A. I knew approximately at that time.

Q. At that time?

A. At that time.

Q. But you have now forgotten what the amount was?

A. I have forgotten. The books are in existence somewheres.

Q. In connection with the operation of the theatre, to make up the needs of the Webster Theatre Corporation for a time you and Mr. Fogel made some contributions, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How much did you make?

[fol. 3235] A. On the Schine's operation, from 1927 to 1932, on my part about $5,000 to $6,000, I believe.

Q. For the original starting, the Schine interests furnished some $10,000?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when the Schine interests were given up in 1932 or 1933, or whenever it was, nothing was paid on account of that $10,000, is that right?

A. You mean returned to Schine interests?

Q. Yes.

A. No, correct.

Q. So that they were out in that operation $10,000, and they were out such losses as had taken place in the interval?

A. Yes.

Q. The actual operation of the theatre in this period from 1927 to 1932 was in charge of Mr. Fogel?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And all that the Schine organization had to do with it was the buying of the pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, the conversation that you had with Mr. Schine and his associates was upwards of seventeen years ago?

A. The spring of 1927.

Q. In the spring of 1927?

A. Yes.

[fol. 3236] Q. And you made no memorandum at that time of that conversation?

A. I remembered every word of it.

Q. I say, you made no memorandum?

A. No written memorandum.

Q. You wrote no letter in which you recited what that conversation was at that time?

A. At that time I didn't.

Q. So that your statement of the conversation is purely an act of memory of seventeen years ago?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you say the conversation lasted how long?

A. Approximately one hour.

Q. And the conversation at that time was to a considerable extent on the folly or wisdom of the building of a theatre so near an existing theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Mr. Schine's main conversation was in pointing out to you that from a business standpoint it was an unwise move?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, in five years do you bear in mind in the aggregate how much in all was lost in that undertaking?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. Were there any other theatres at that time in that [fol. 3237] immediate locality?

A. Between the State and the Webster there was a Plaza Theatre.

Q. Was it in operation?

A. I cannot recollect, I believe it was.

Q. Do you know who were the people interested in the operation?

A. I can't recollect.

Q. Was the matter of the Plaza Theatre mentioned in the conversation?

A. I do not recollect it, sir.

Q. You mean your mind is barren as to whether it was or wasn't?

A. That is right.

Q. You don't know?

A. No.

Q. How large a theatre was that Plaza?

A. A few seats over 500, I should say between five and six hundred seats.

Q. Did the building of the Webster have the effect of putting the Plaza out of business?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I suppose that is a conclusion he isn't competent to draw.

Q. Did the Plaza Theatre close up soon after 1927 or in 1927?

[fol. 3238] A. I can't recollect the operation of the Plaza at the time, how it was, and I know as a building there was a theatre, but whether operating or not, I do not recollect, sir.

Q. And you do not recall when it ceased operating?

A. I do not.

Q. You do not recall whether it was in a year after the completion of the Plaza,—or the Webster Theatre?

The Court: Do you know whether it was closed within a year after the Webster? Do you know whether the Plaza was closed within a year after the Webster was started?

The Witness: I could not commit myself to time. If I could recollect I could say when it was open or closed. I know it was open and closed several times.

Q. Do you remember that the Plaza had been completely remodeled just before you started the construction of the Webster?

A. I do.

Q. Had it?

A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

Q. How far was the Plaza from the Webster?

A. Exactly in the center between the State and the Webster, dividing three-quarters to a mile in half.

[fol. 3239] Q. Three-quarters of a mile from each then?

A. No, it would be less, it would be in the center between the two. The State is there (indicating) the Webster is here (indicating) and the Plaza is here.

Q. What is the difference?

A. Less than half a mile from each.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. That is, the Plaza was between the Webster site and the State?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Did you say, do you know who owned the Plaza at that time?

The Witness: No.

The Court: Some independent company?

The Witness: Some independent man that moved to California. That is all I recollect about that man.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Now that you have spoken of this remodeling so recently completed, before you started the Webster, doesn't that recall to your mind that the Plaza was also mentioned in this conversation as a reason why it was not prudent to build the Webster?

A. I do not recollect, sir.

Q. You say that Mr. Schine expressed a willingness to [fol. 3240] relieve you of the expense that you had been put to and the obligations on the Webster?

A. Mr. Schine did not enter into any conversation on the offer. I personally offered to Mr. Schine to dispose my interests to him, which he refused.

Q. When was this?

A. At the end of the visit at the Murray Theatre office.

Q. In the spring of——

A. 1927.

Q. 1927?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your interest to him in what?

A. In the new venture of the Webster Theatre.

Q. And how much did you offer to dispose of that interest for?

A. My part, the same amount as what I invested shortly a few weeks before.

Q. That amount was how much?

A. Approximately $4,000.

Q. Approximately $4,000, and did Mr. Schine make any proposal to you as to what he would pay for your interest?

A. He refused to buy it. He wasn't interested, he said.

Q. He wasn't interested?

A. At all.

Q. To buy at all?

[fol. 3241] A. No.

Q. Was there any discussion in your presence about the buying of Mr. Fogel's interest in the venture in 1927?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, did you conclude that it was a good business venture to build a new theatre so near to the newly remodeled Plaza?

A. I wasn't well acquainted with the choice of location.

Q. You observed as the matter went forward that it was not a prudent piece of business with the Plaza newly remodeled right there, did you not?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you give any conisderation to that question of whether it was a good business venture to do that under those circumstances?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. And did you reach any conclusion?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Did you reach the conclusion that it would be apt to hurt the business of the newly remodeled Plaza?

A. I think I did.

Q. Now, the reference which Mr. Schine made to the Murray Theatre was in this form, was it not, that it would be no wiser to go ahead with the building of this Webster Theatre than it would be to build a theatre near the Murray [fol. 3242] Theatre?

A. By comparison, yes, sir.

Q. And that is substantially all that he said on that subject?

A. And many other things.

Q. That is substantially all he said on that particular subject?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

By the Court:

Q. What street was the Webster on? I have forgotten about the Webster. What street is the Webster on?

A. The Webster is at 314 Webster Avenue. The numbers begin on Main Street. It is not far from Main Street.

Q. Is that on the west side?

A. It is on the north side off Main Street. The State is on the east of Main Street.

Q. East of East Main Street?

A. East of East Main Street, and the Webster is north of the same Main Street, this way (indicating).

Q. What street is the Schine Theatre on?

A. Schine State?

Q. What street is that on?

A. The Dixie?

Q. The Schine theatre?

A. The State?

[fol. 3243] Q. Yes.

A. It is on Main Street, East.

Q. The Murray and Plaza are where?

A. The Plaza is in between the State and Webster on Webster Avenue, nearby Main Street, I should say in numbers up to 120.

Q. The Schine was on Main Street, and your theatre was——

A. Off Main.

Q. About 300?

A. The Webster is 314 Webster Avenue.

Q. Is that a residential section out there?

A. Strictly residential, not many stores. Main Street is a better avenue.

The Court: All right.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. This $10,000 that Schine put up when he got the half interest in the Webster Corporation, do you know what form that contribution took, or what that was for?

A. It was for advance rent, $20,000 to be applied at the rate of $4,000 per year for a five-year period.

Q. That $20,000 advance rent, half was advanced by Schine and the other half by you and Fogel?

A. $10,00 was advanced by his company and the other [fol. 3244] half by us.

Q. And that was applied on advance rental?

A. It was given to the Bemat Corporation as advance rent.

Q. In this one-hour conversation you had, was there anything said about buying product for these theatres?

A. At the Murray office?

Q. Yes, in that conversation?

A. The conversation was, it was pointed out to Mr. Schine if he builds a theatre so near the Murray, it would probably put us out of business because of his buying power and better conditions, he can command from the film companies.

Mr. Wright: I think that it all.

The Court: That is all.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, we have no more witnesses today. We have a considerable amount of documentary material, though. I think I can spend the time offering that. These are all documents which have been previously identified. I believe they have photostats of all of these previously identified material.

The Court: Is there any question raised about any of these?

Mr. Wright: Well, I suppose the only way to find out is [fol. 3245] to offer them.

The Court: I didn't know whether they had gone over them.

Mr. Wright: They are familiar with the material. I suppose they may have objections to admitting some of them.

The Court: Proceed.

Mr. Wright: The first document I want to offer is Exhibit 192 for identification, which is the contract between the Schine Enterprises Corporation and Fox Company for the exhibition of pictures in their Kentucky, Ben Ali, Strand and State Theatres, at Lexington, for the 1936-37 season. I take it there is no objection to that.

Then I want to offer in evidence the contracts that were previously,—or,—rather the letters which were previously offered while Mr. Schwartz was on the stand with respect to Lexington; particularly the letter to Mr. Grady, the Fox Branch Manager, which was marked as Exhibit 209, and with that, I want to offer Exhibits 200, 201 and 202 for identification, which is correspondence between Grady and Sussman. 200 is relating to the admis- [fol. 3246] sion price situation in Lexington, and 201 is a letter from Sussman to Mr. Myer Schine regarding it, and 202, which is Mr. Schine's reply.

Mr. McClennen: These are objected to, if your Honor please. These letters I haven't read at all, but they might well call for explanation and amplification from the witness.

The Court: Why weren't they offered when Mr. Schwartz was here?

Mr. Wright: We did offer this letter from Mr. Schwartz, pointing out that this gave notice to Fox as to what the admission prices that were being charged in the theatres there were doing to his business. We also said we were going to show at that time that Fox was permitting the Schine Company to play the pictures at those low prices. Objection was made on the ground we hadn't put that evidence in. We said we would then reserve until later putting in the evidence of what transpired between Fox and Schine, which, of course, was something the witness on the stand could not be examined about, and that is the evidence that [fol. 3247] is being offered now as to what happened in that situation.

Mr. McClennen: I don't recall. I want to look at the record to be sure, but I don't recall that Exhibit 209 for identification was offered in evidence while Mr. Schwartz was on the stand.

Mr. Wright: I think you are mistaken.

Mr. McClennen: You probably have your record right here and can point to it. I have no recollection of its being offered.

The Court: What is the number of that?

Mr. McClennen: That is identification 209, dated January 17, 1938, Mr. Harry Schwartz to J. Grady, Fox Film Corporation, Cincinnati.

The Court: Have you got the record there?

Mr. Wright: I have sent for it.

The Court: You have the index to the testimony.

Mr. Wright: I have sent for the transcript.

The Court: Oh, I see.

Mr. McClennen: A rough note, if your Honor please, of one of my associates is that it was offered in evidence and excluded by your Honor.

The Court: Is the reason stated by counsel there?

Mr. Wright: That is my understanding.

[fol. 3248] Mr. McClennen: And there has been no change in the situation since?

Mr. Wright: I am now offering the documents which I think do change the situation, and those are these exhibits 200, 201 and 202 for identification.

Mr. McClennen: We have no objection to identification Exhibit 202, a letter from Mr. J. Meyer Schine to Mr. William Sussman, or rather a carbon copy of such a letter. It does not appear to be even an original carbon copy, but some copy made.

The Court: The grounds on which the objection was sustained appears, does it not?

Mr. Wright: Here is what the record says. This is page 2892.

"Q. Now, I call your attention to these three exhibits which have been previously marked,—I beg your pardon, two exhibits which have been previously marked for identification as Exhibits 209 and 259, and ask you if you wrote those letters on or about the dates they bear?

A. Yes, I wrote them.

Mr. Wright: We offer these two exhibits in in evi-
[fol. 3249] dence.

Mr. McClennen: This identification 209, I submit is open to further objection than the ordinary conversations which your Honor has admitted over our objection, or the letters which you have admitted over our objections.

The Court: Let me see it.

Mr. McClennen: It seems to me that its contents, which I show your Honor, indicates that it has nothing whatever to do with this case, nothing that affects us in any way and contains recitals which are mere hearsay, and do not assist in any way in this case or resolving it correctly.

The Court: Well, I am to understand you were receiving the Fox pictures at this time, the time of this communication?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: I think it is competent along the lines of the showing here. I mean, this coupled up with some act by the Fox Company in that regard, I mean that Fox had refused [fol. 3250] to take any production"— I think that should be "reduction"——

Mr. McClennen: I speak with complete deference, if your Honor please. I urge that it would have no effect upon Schine in any way whether Fox let a customer off his contracts.

The Court: I will receive it and see what follows.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, it isn't offered for the purpose of showing the production"—that should be "reduction"—"it was offered for the purpose of showing that direct attention was brought home, knowledge was brought home to the Fox Company of what the admission price policy they were permitting Schine to pursue in Lexington was doing to this man's business. That is the principal purpose of the offer.

The Court: What the policy of Schine was doing?

Mr. Wright: With respect to admission prices playing a run ahead of him. I mean in their theatres, at the same price he had to charge for the later runs.

[fol. 3251] Mr. McClennen: The joker, if I may be so flippant to use that remark, in Mr. Wright's statement was that Fox was permitting Schine to pursue this policy. Fox had nothing to do with the policy whatever, nothing to indicate that it was Schine's policy.

The Court: It shows a co-conspirator had knowledge of what another co-conspirator was doing.

Mr. McClennen: The statement, if your Honor please, was not that. The statement was that Fox was permitting this. There was no basis for such an assertion.

Mr. Wright: The minimum prices the exhibitors could charge were inserted in the contract. Mr. Schwartz' contract had a minimum price of 16 cents. Fox permitted Schine to play ahead of him at the same price, a procedure which could only have been calculated to ultimately achieve what was accomplished, and that is put an end to Mr. Schwartz' competition at the Opera House.

Mr. McClennen: The Fox Company did not permit it. There was never any contract by which Fox could require [fol. 3252] Schine to charge any more admissions that were charged. It was their province to determine what their admissions should be, so long as they did not violate the contract, and there is no contract that is in evidence, that can be put in evidence, that they violated that provision of any contract, so that this remark about Fox permitting this is just picked out of the blue by my brother, because he likes that form, but there is no evidence of it.

Mr. Wright: I would prefer, if the Court please, to argue the case after we have put in the evidence rather than now. As long as counsel has made the point, I feel at liberty to state what the position is.

Mr. McClennen: Our position is whether the argument be interlocutory or final, they ought to be based on evidence.

The Court: This goes to the request for a reduction of price on the Fox pictures to this witness.

Mr. McClennen: This is a request for reduction in prices this witness addressed to Fox. He wants relief from his contract as to prices.

The Court: Yes, in order to attain the end——

[fol. 3253] Mr. McClennen: That has nothing to do with Schine.

The Court: It appears to me it is competent not only as a notice to an alleged co-conspirator, but if it may appear Fox refused to make any reduction then it might have a bearing on the action in concurring with Schine.

Mr. McClennen: That is not the stated purpose of the offer. The stated purpose——

The Court: It may be one of the purposes.

Mr. Wright: That is quite right, as I understand a reduction, I think, was probably obtained. For our purpose it is immaterial whether they reduced the film rentals, or whether they didn't. We do not offer the letter for the purpose of showing what was done there. We offer the letter for the purpose of showing knowledge was brought home to Fox of the effect on his business of permitting the Schine houses to play the pictures ahead of him, at the same admission price he was charging for the later run.

Mr. McClennen: I stated what the purpose of Mr. Wright was in confident reliance on what he said, and what he said [fol. 3254] was that it was to show Fox was permitting these lower prices. The letter contains nothing——

Mr. Wright: The letter will not show that.

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment, just a moment; I have tried not to interrupt you.

As I was saying, before the unwarranted interruption, the offer was to show that Fox was permitting these lower admission prices. That was the stated purpose. We urge that there is nothing in the letter, nothing in evidence in any way to indicate that Fox did permit the lower admission prices or that they had any control over the admission prices so long as they did not violate the contract of Fox and Schine, and there is no evidence that they did, and it is now stated, meeting your Honor's suggestion of a possible purpose, that there is no claim that they did not get these reductions in contract prices which Mr. Schwartz asked.

The Court: That is what he claims now. He claims they were entitled to it because they were charging the same price for a fourth-run, third or fourth-run, that was charged for a second-run.

[fol. 3255] Mr. McClennen: There is nothing in this letter that bears on that in any way. I have made no objection to his stating what they were charging in admissions. I have made no objection to his stating what he was charging in admissions.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, as to what transpired between Fox and Schine, we are not attempting to make any proof at this time, because we don't want to take up that time while this witness is on the stand. All we are attempting to show now is what transpired between the witness and Fox and the witness and Schine. We will later offer the Schine contracts with Fox and certain communications which passed between Schine and Fox, which we think relate to this situation, but I don't see the occasion for going into that now. It is perfectly clear that that letter is competent evidence to show that whatever facts were stated there, were brought to Fox's attention at that time.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please——

The Court: I think it better remain identified until we get the further connection in that respect, I mean, to show [fol. 3256] the relation between Fox and Schine.

Mr. Wright: That is agreeable to us. It doesn't make any difference particularly whether it goes in now except I was going to ask the witness some questions based on what was in there.

The Court: State what was done. Those were identified before, were they?

Mr. McClennen: There were identified before."

[fol. 3257] The Court: You started in by saying it referred to 812.

Mr. Wright: 812?

The Court: Your opening statement, you read 812.

Mr. Wright: The page number is 2892.

The Court: Are those the two you are offering now?

Mr. Wright: Yes, 209 is the number of one and 259.

The Court: What?

Mr. Wright: 209 and 259 were the letters that were offered then, and I am now re-offering 209 and 259, and I am also offering 200, 201 and 202, which were the letters I said would connect up.

The Court: I did not know whether you were making two offers separately.

Mr. McClennen: Now, if your Honor please, so far as any attempt to deal with all these letters at once, 259 for identification is dated September 30, 1937. 209 for identification is dated January 17, 1938. 202 for identification has on this copy no date, but has a receiving stamp of July 20th, with a fair indication, therefore, that it relates to 201, which is dated July 13th, 1937, which was a letter from Mr. [fol. 3258] Sussman to Mr. Schine, 202, being a letter from Mr. Schine to Mr. Sussman. They have no relation whatever to the letter that we are now discussing which is marked 259, and is two months after Exhibits 200, 201 and 202 for identification.

The Court: I do not understand that he claims there is any connection between the one and the other. Let me see all the letters. (Court examines documents).

Mr. McClennen: I stated it, if your Honor please, because Mr. Wright stated that this showed the connection which he had said he was going to show, and I submit that it does not.

The Court: I thought when he made that statement he was referring to two of the exhibits, not these others. Mr. Sussman, who was he?

Mr. Wright: He was, as I recall, the Eastern Sales Manager of Fox, the home office sales assistant.

The Court: Well, doesn't it appear from the testimony of Mr. Schwartz the prices Schine Amusement Company was operating under? Is that in his testimony?

Mr. Wright: Yes, he testified.

[fol. 3259] Mr. McClennen: I think he testified as to the prices.

The Court: As far as the letter of Mr. Schwartz, it is competent. It is a little different question concerning these communications, Sussman and Schine. The Schine letter does no more—well, it amounts to an admission of some modification of prices, that is true.

Mr. Wright: The point is, your Honor, nothing was done about this contract violation as far as Schine was concerned.

Mr. McClennen: There was no contract violation.

Mr. Wright: Well, in any event, the low admission price that Schine was charging was called to his attention by the Fox Company, and he continued to charge it, and nothing was done by the Fox Company to keep him from charging it. He again reduced the prices the following year and the Fox Company knew of it, exactly what the effect of permitting that price policy to be followed was on Schwartz' business.

The Court: Where is the contract that indicates that the procedure was a violation?

Mr. Wright: I believe I just offered the contract that [fol. 3260] they were then operating under.

Mr. McClennen: Which number is that?

Mr. Wright: Aren't these marked in evidence? Didn't I offer 192? Yes, here is the contract.

Mr. McClennen: 192 you are referring to?

Mr. Wright: Specifically the minimum prices are stated. The admission prices of orchestra-balcony 35-25. 35-25 is written after orchestra and before balcony, but I take it that refers to the prices.

The Court: The letters from Sussman, of course, as pointed out by counsel does point attention to the claim that the contract was being violated, and there is testimony here with reference to the prices being charged.

Mr. Wright: They dropped the balcony price to 15 cents. The contract calls for a minimum of 25.

Mr. McClennen: So far as the correspondence showing any permission by the Fox Company, it shows just the reverse.

The Court: I think the notice by Sussman is clearly hearsay.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that is part of the business records of that corporation, which shows exactly what [fol. 3261] was done with reference to that subject matter. I think that letter is clearly competent to show how the matter came to Mr. Sussman's attention, and how Mr. Sussman happened to write the letter to Mr. Schine that he did.

Mr. McClennen: In fact, in Mr. Sussman's letter, there is nothing to indicate that the information came from Mr. Schwartz' letter, which was of a different period.

Mr. Wright: I did not say that there was.

Mr. McClennen: We are discussing the admissibility of it.

The Court: It appears that Sussman notified Schine of the alleged violation of the contract.

Mr. Wright: It further appears that Schine did nothing about it.

The Court: You don't claim do you—this letter of July 10th preceded the letter from Sussman to Schine?

Mr. Wright: That is right, and it explains how that letter came to be written.

The Court: I don't see how it is material, what Grady wrote to Sussman. Schine was notified of the claim made by Sussman, representing the producer.

Mr. Wright: Grady Statement I think is significant in [fol. 3262] calling the attention of what the effect of that policy was, not only in Lexington, but outside, and I think it is especially significant in view of the fact that Schine was permitted to continue that policy not only throughout the rest of that season, but to repeat it again the following summer.

Mr. McClennen: There is no evidence whatever that he was permitted to do this. The protest was made by Fox.

Mr. Wright: He did it.

Mr. McClennen: I wish you would not interrupt me. I think you ought to be courteous.

It appears that if the letters were received in evidence, that on receipt of information Fox wrote to Schine and did all that Fox ought to do under the circumstances and that Schine replied. There isn't an iota of evidence that Fox permitted anything of the kind.

The Court: Well, of course, that is really beside the point. As far as this third letter is concerned my thought about that is that was material and competent here, because it is notice from an agent to the company, and anyway the [fol. 3263] Company had notice and the Company notified Schine.

Mr. Wright: That is right, but this letter goes further and states what the effect of the practice is in the area there.

The Court: I will receive them all, anyway.

Mr. Wright: I will hand them to the stenographer.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 192, 209, 200, 201 and 202, previously marked for identification, were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: We offer in evidence the contract for the next season, which I believe was——

The Court: Any number? They are not marked in evidence.

Mr. Wright: No, I will hand them to the reporter, the contract for the 1937-38 season between Schine and Fox for the Strand or State or Ben Ali Theatres, a contract which is dated October 20th, 1937, and——

Mr. McClennen: What is the exhibit number of this?

Mr. Wright: This was identified in the folder marked for identification as Exhibit 333, and I think should now be marked as 333-A.

The Court: The film contract?

Mr. Wright: Yes, this is a film contract previously [fol. 3264] identified. We offer that in evidence, as 333-A. This contract contains no minimum price restrictions whatever.

(Thereupon the film contract referred to was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 333-A.)

The Court: Submit those others to Mr. McClennen.

Mr. McClennen: We object, if your Honor please, to identification exhibits 455, 456, 457 and 459. They are mostly just inter-office communications of the distributor company.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, these deal with the admission price situation as to Metro, similarly.

The Court: The first one doesn't seem to be signed by anybody.

Mr. Wright: I think from the next letter it is apparent that is from Mr. O'Shea. You see the initials are on the bottom there.

The Court: I don't think they are competent.

Mr. Wright: I beg your Honor's pardon?

The Court: I don't think they are competent.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, they show exactly what was done with reference to admission prices there in Lex- [fol. 3265] ington; that Mr. Lynch attempted to misinform the company to the effect that Schwartz was charging a 10-cent price in an effort to get Metro to apparently withhold product from him.

Mr. McClennen: I submit, if your Honor please, that is a highly improper statement. They don't show that.

The Court: Why are they competent?

Mr. Wright: What business has Mr. Lynch in going to Metro and telling them his competitor is charging a ten-cent price, when obviously that isn't the fact? That is obviously one method intended to prevent Mr. Schwartz from succeeding in his operation. If Mr. Lynch could persuade Metro not to serve Schwartz with product on the theory he was a ten-cent house, that certainly would serve the purposes of Schine.

The Court: I know, but here is an agent of a company reports a situation to be so and so. The company finds it isn't so and so. Another thing about these letters, they complain as to Schine's operations.

Mr. Wright: It shows further what position Mr. Schwartz [fol. 3266] was in. He could not reduce his price to 10 cents so that he would have a differential between the price he was charging for his run and the price at which Schine was playing the runs ahead of him, 15 cents. That in itself is an arrangement under which Schwartz could not compete. That shows that that arrangement existed, that is, that Metro would not sell a 10-cent operation, and that Schwartz had to maintain a 15-cent price and that Lynch attempted to persuade Metro that Schwartz was not maintaining the 15-cent price so he wouldn't be served with the product.

The Court: But Schwartz wasn't reducing the price at all.

Mr. Wright: That is right.

The Court: I cannot see any connection. It is true, if shown that Metro acted upon Lynch's letter, and had done something, I mean as against Schwartz, on the basis of that claim, it would be a different thing.

Mr. Wright: I say that it shows in itself an effort on Lynch's part to get or to injure Schwartz by misrepresenting his admission prices.

[fol. 3267] The Court: Suppose he did, he wasn't doing that with the approval of his company, suppose, as a matter of fact it didn't exist.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I suppose there is nothing to show he wasn't doing that with the approval of his company. He held a responsible position. He was the film buyer for his company and what he said to Metro carried a great deal of weight. He was the man who bought films for the Schine Circuit and negotiated these circuit deals put in evidence here.

The Court: You certainly can't charge this act to the company by reason of this act by Lynch, because the company ascertained it wasn't so.

Mr. Wright: We are talking about different companies. Mr. Lynch is not an employee of Metro. Mr. Lynch referred to in the correspondence is the film buyer for the Schine Circuit. He is with Schine and works for Schine.

The Court: Oh, I misunderstood you all the time. I thought he was the representative of Metro.

Mr. Wright: I am sorry.

The Court: I did not remember the name. Of course, [fol. 3268] that puts another slant on the whole thing because that brings it to Schine itself. If Schine represented to the Company that these pictures were being shown at a price lower than a price at which he would sell, I was thinking all the time that Lynch was the Branch Manager and one who was acting for Metro.

Mr. Wright: No, the Branch Manager there is Booth, the Metro Branch Manager.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, whether these letters were admitted in evidence or not, the outstanding thing is this reprehensible statement that an attempt was made by this man to misinform. There isn't the slightest evidence he made any attempt to misinform, and there is no chance of anything of the kind. He told, it appears, what he had learned, and the company corrected as they found it to be, but there is nothing to indicate that there was an attempt to misrepresent, and it is a part of the effort to establish a case by unfounded insinuation and not by fair construction put upon evidence.

[fol. 3269] The Court: The letter to Mr. Booth says Lynch made that direct statement.

Mr. McClennen: This is a pure hearsay statement that Lynch made the statement, but whether he made it or not is not evidence he was consciously misrepresenting a fact and no evidence to warrant it by a responsible officer.

The Court: That isn't carried out by his letter to Lynch in which he says "Evidently, George, the information you had concerning 10 cents at night for the Opera House was erroneous."

Mr. McClennen: That is exactly what I am saying, if George had made a mistake, it doesn't indicate he was attempting to misrepresent. That is not only the insinuation, but a wholly unfounded statement that ought not to be made in a court of justice.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I assume that Mr. Lynch's intentions are to be judged by the entire record of evidence made in this case, not by what I may say about him, or what Mr. McClennen may say about him, and we are asking you to draw the inference on the basis of all the [fol. 3270] evidence that Mr. Lynch's purpose was not a proper one.

Mr. McClennen: It was stated as a fact, as if there was something of the kind in evidence and there is nothing of the kind in evidence, such a statement ought not to be made.

The Court: What do you say about this letter?

— Well, I think these exhibits, some of them, stand on a different basis. I think they should be received; statements made by the different companies as to what Schine was doing and what Schwartz was doing, merely repetitious in part of what is in the earlier letters and show error in the figures given. I will exclude these two and I will receive the others. The two I refer to as excluded are the letters relating to the question of charges being made by Schwartz, the two short letters there.

Mr. Wright: These are excluded?

The Court: No, let me see them. Those two are included.

Mr. Wright: As I understand it, you have admitted 455, a letter from O'Shea to Booth, dated August 28th, 1937, and 457, letter from O'Shea to Booth, dated September 1, 1937, and is it my understanding you are excluding the [fol. 3271] letter from O'Shea to George Lynch, dated November 1st?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Wright: And what was the basis for the exclusion of that?

The Court: Well, I don't see that this letter has any significance. That is simply repetitious of what appears in the other two letters. As far as rates charged by these theatres, it already appears in evidence.

Mr. Wright: This is excluded on the ground it is merely cumulative?

Mr. McClennen: The ones excluded are 458, 456 and 459?

Mr. Wright: And that was the same basis for the exclusion of this Exhibit 456 and 459, cumulative. The evidence there is cumulative?

The Court: Not only that. I think it goes further than that, because this is a letter between Mr. O'Shea and Mr. Booth, both of whom are connected with Metro.

Mr. Wright: That is correct.

The Court: About the conditions in Lexington, and so on. I do not see that it has any competency.

Mr. Wright: Well, I suppose to the extent what condi- [fol. 3272] tions in Lexington were is relevant, it is proper to have this statement of them, at least so far as it affects this distributor's product. I suppose the Branch Manager is the most competent man to make the statement. I take it, we put on direct proof of the conditions, and this merely reflects Metro's appraisal of them, and I suppose it would be the best evidence of that appraisal made contemporaneously and filed as part of the records of the company.

The Court: What do you think about that, Mr. McClennen, on the theory they concern the co-conspirator here? There are several matters in that letter credited to the Schine company, also to Schwartz as well. It speaks about the bad condition at Lexington.

M McClennen: I think your Honor in excluding the three exhibits has ruled rightly. This is not the way to prove facts. These are merely hearsay statements and are of no service in the case, except if they were received as hearsay evidence of the facts stated in them. They ought not to be received at all under those circumstances. I think [fol. 3273] your Honor's ruling should be maintained.

The Court: Both these exhibits are of considerable materiality if admitted, because both of these letters refer to conduct as regards Schine. One of those, as I have said before, refers to operation by Schwartz. It seems to me that the evidence ought to come from somebody from the company itself, as to just what was done.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, this question of whether or not it would be necessary to bring to the witness stand the man who wrote these memoranda was settled at the session last summer when it was ruled that the only connection we would require to make was to show who these people were and that the material was kept as a part of the files of the company.

The Court: This letter starts out "The reason for this letter is to explain in more detail the conditions in Lexington." The Metro Company, through its representative, is explaining what it claims to be the condition in Lexington. Shouldn't that be made by direct proof, a manager, rather than some communication made by him?

[fol. 3274] Mr. Wright: That would be an alternative way to make it. I would assume as far as the evidence is concerned, even if the manager were brought here and said he did not know anything about conditions in Lexington at the time, it would be competent to offer in evidence what he recorded with respect to those conditions in the files of the company, and that is what we are offering to show here, what the company's own records showed with reference to these conditions.

The Court: They have a right to cross-examine him concerning this letter. He has written a letter stating the conditions are bad in Lexington.

Mr. Wright: As part of their case, they are free to call him or anyone else, but as I understood it, the same question was raised last spring with reference to certain memoranda, and your Honor ruled that it would not be necessary to call the maker of the memorandum in order to establish its competency.

The Court: Because it came from the files of the company, you mean?

Mr. Wright: What we needed to do was to show it was [fol. 3275] made in the course of the company's business and kept as part of the company's records. I take it that was the purpose, of course, in having all these distributor representatives over here and identify the material as having come from the files of the company, and identified the positions of these people mentioned in the memoranda, so that it would appear from an examination of the memoranda on their face whether or not they were made in the course of performing the company's business.

The Court: Does that apply to a communication from outside, from the business manager to the company? From what you said the ruling has been, it would apply only to the files of the company showing the action of the company itself.

Mr. Wright: Well, I think it applies to whatever the particular memoranda purports to cover. As I recall it, this question came up originally in connection with some United Artists or a United Artists memorandum, which was introduced, and I believe received in evidence in connection [fol. 3276] with the Town of Mount Vernon, Ohio.

The Court: What was that?

Mr. Wright: An inter-office memoranda, as I recall it, and it was from a Branch Manager from the United Artists. I think the exhibit number is 12. See if you can find the early exhibits there——

The Court: There is a difference between whether it relates to something that was done in pursuance of some contract or some activity of the company, or whether somebody said conditions were bad.

Mr. Wright: I don't suppose there is any question about that, if it appears that the memorandum has nothing to do with the business of the company, or outside of the—some personal affairs of the writer. That would be another matter, but I take it all of these memoranda that have been offered do, of course, expressly deal with the business that the writers and receivers were then engaged in, which is the distribution and exhibition of their company's pictures in these particular situations.

The Court: I will dispose of that. Give me these last [fol. 3277] two. I want to look up the record a little bit. At least, I want to try to be consistent. I won't dispose of it today. This one, I don't think, adds anything to the other two letters. It shows what the prices are. It simply refers to the further fact that George had made an error.

Mr. Wright: From the standpoint of materiality, I don't see that it makes much difference whether that goes in or not.

The Court: The question is whether a statement of that kind of conditions in Lexington, by a representative of the company—of course, if Mr. Lynch representing the defendant said conditions were bad, that would be a different thing, but your answer to that would be that the Metro is a co-conspirator.

Mr. Wright: That is one answer which is complete in itself, but even if they were not, if an issue in the case is what Metro thought of those conditions, then this memoranda would be the very best evidence available on that point. Of course, our case is built upon the proposition that here was a condition which was plainly not desirable [fol. 3278] from the standpoint of the distributor, and was only permitted to continue because of the power that Schine was able to exert over the distributor in that case.

The Court: Can you draw that conclusion from these letters?

Mr. Wright: Not in themselves. Of course, the question, I suppose, is never whether these questions in themselves prove anything, but whether or not they have a tendency to establish any facts upon which we would rely in proving our case, and it seems to me clearly that they do.

The Court: The only theory on which it would be competent at all is as an admission of a co-conspirator, that is all.

Mr. Wright: In addition to that, I might say our case consists of proving the course of business, or we are proving a course of business between certain independent companies and these distributors, and we also prove a parallel course of business between the same major distributors and Schine. The basis on which we expect to show that Schine used and applied its buying power to compel discriminations [fols. 3279-3282] by these distributors against its independent competitors is a comparison of the two courses of dealing, so that the facts that we are bound to prove and on which we rely are all the facts which show what the course of business was between Schine and these distributors and between the independents and these distributors.

The Court: I understand that, but isn't your position inconsistent in this respect? You assert that the Metro is a co-conspirator, and yet it appears from these letters that this co-conspirator was complaining about acts which go to constitute a conspiracy.

Mr. Wright: Our position is, that Metro and the other distributors were reluctant co-conspirators.

The Court: Oh.

Mr. Wright: That the moving force in the conspiracy was, of course, the Schine company, that they were the chief beneficiaries.

The Court: I will take this up when we come to it again.

(Whereupon Plaintiff's Exhibits previously marked for identification 455 and 457 were received in evidence.)

[fol. 3283] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, October 23rd, 1944, 11 o'clock a. m.

APPEARANCES:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Philip Marcus, Esq., Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorney, in behalf of the United States.

[fol. 3284]

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, a couple of witnesses will be here to identify some newspapers, and they will be very short. I would like to have the privilege of interrupting the testimony to put them on, if that is agreeable to counsel.

The Court: All right.

Mr. McClennen: Pursuant to your Honor's suggestion, Mr. Wright sent me a list of some 90 papers that have been identified as coming from the distributors' files, which he proposes to offer in evidence. We have extensive objections to those, and instead of waiting until they are offered, and instead of reading those objections, I have handed the stenographer a copy of them, asking that they be copied into the record. I will hand Mr. Wright a copy and your Honor a copy so that they will be available for your consideration.

The Court: Where are the offers?

Mr. McClennen: Those, I take it, will come after this oral testimony.

[fol. 3285] The Court: Oh, after that.

Mr. McClennen: Yes, I simply thought I would have this available for your consideration and copied into the record at this time.

The Court: I thought if I had those I would have a chance to look them over.

Mr. Wright: We can supply your Honor with those. We had not intended to make the physical offer of the material until after we finished with the testimony.

The Court: I would like to have them.

Mr. Wright: Suppose we give them to your Honor some time today.

The Court: All right, as soon as you can.

"Defendant's Objections To Introduction Of Certain Papers From Distributors' Files October 23, 1944.

On October 20, Defendant's attorneys were notified by Plaintiff's attorneys, by letter dated October 19, 1944, of their intention to offer in evidence about ninety (90) papers [fol. 3286] already identified by numbers. The only proof of these which has been offered is that they came from the respective distributors' files. It does not appear whether they came from the Branch Office files or from the Home Office files, or partly from one and partly from the other.

The defendants object that these are not admissible for the following reasons:

1. They do not come from the Defendant's files.

2. No witness is on the stand knowing anything about the creation and treatment of these papers, or subject to cross examination with respect thereto. (Court at pp. 285, 289, 298 of testimony.)

3. There is no evidence that they are true copies of originals. (This does not relate to the use of photostats. Of course, a photostat of a copy is no better than the copy).

5. There is no evidence that they were made by the man whose name appears thereon.

6. There is no evidence that the maker signed them.

7. There is no evidence that the maker saw them in type [fol. 3287] or otherwise.

8. There is no evidence that they were sent to the addressee.

9. There is no evodence that they were seen by the addressee.

10. There is no evidence that the maker himself knew the truth of the statements contained in them.

11. There is no evidence that the statements contained in them are true.

12. The papers cannot be received as any evidence of the truth of the statements contained in them. (Wright at p. 286 of testimony).

13. There is no evidence that they were an actual part of any contract or transaction.

14. There is no evidence that the maker was authorized by the Distributor to make the statements in them. (Cases cited in defendant's Law Memorandum, Page No. 14, require their exclusion).

15. There is no evidence that they came to the knowledge of the defendants.

[fol. 3288] 16. There is no evidence that they were acted upon in any way, by defendants or the distributors.

17. There is no evidence that the Distributor in whose files they were found, was at the time, conspiring with the defendants. (Glasser v. United States, 315 U. S. 60. Defendant's Law Memorandum, Page 8, requires the exclusion.

18. There is no evidence that they were acts in the course of any such conspiracy.

19. They are no more than hearsay, sometimes twice, and sometimes, three times removed, and, sometimes, no more than conclusions or opinions.

These objections are confined to those applicable generally to the approximately ninety (90) papers. Other special objections to particular papers can be made only as the particular paper is offered.

E. S. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, esq., Attorney for Defendants."

[fol. 3289] MICHAEL BOUMANSOUR, a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Boumansour?
A. In Malone, New York.
Q. What is your occupation?
A. At the present time I am in the real estate business.
Q. You were formerly engaged in the theatre business at Malone?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. During what period?
A. Oh, probably between 1922 up till 1940.
Q. What was the theatre you were connected with in 1922?
A. In 1942?
Q. In 1922?
A. The Plaza Theatre of Malone.

The Court: The what?
The Witness: Plaza Theatre.

Q. You were operating it yourself, were you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did you operate it?

[fol. 3290] A. Just about the first year, about one year.

Q. Then what did you do with it?

A. I have leased it.

Q. To whom?

A. To Mr. Meehan.

Q. During what period was that?

A. Oh, that was during the period of 1923 to 1928, if I recall, not surely.

Q. Then who took over the operation of the theatre?

A. Well, I don't recall exactly what time that Mr. Meehan sold the interest of their own theatre, to the Schine Circuit, but at that time both theatres were taken by the Schine Circuit, my house and the Malone Theatre, the Grand.

Q. Those were the only two theatres in Malone?

A. Yes.

Q. You are not sure of the date, but you think it was some time around 1929?

A. About.

Mr. McClennen: 1928, he said.

The Witness: I don't recall.

Q. Schine continued to operate the Plaza for how long?

A. Well, they didn't operate it very much, except, I think, in the year 1931, if I recall, I am not sure, Schine has decided to remodel the Grand Theatre. That was approxi- [fol. 3291] mately at that time between eight to nine hundred seats, and extend it, the theatre, to between twelve to fourteen hundred seats. At that time they opened up the Plaza Theatre——

The Court: What about the Grand? Is that the third?

The Witness: No, Grand was the original name of the——

The Court: Of which, of the Malone Theatre?

The Witness: Of the Malone, yes.

The Court: All right.

The Witness: Then, during the time that the Schine Corporation remodeled the Grand Theatre to Malone Theatre, that is formerly, increased its capacity between the—seating capacity used to be eight to nine hundred seats, and extend it to thirteen or fourteen hundred seats today, and after it was completed, then they close up the Plaza Theatre for good at that time.

Q. It was kept close then until—that is, throughout what years?

A. Throughout the year 1936.

Q. From about 1932, or whatever time this Malone remodeling was, until the summer of 1936?

A. No, I think the remodeling just took about one season, I recall. I wasn't there myself when they remodeled it, [fol. 3292] but I think during the year 1931-1932.

Q. In 1936 it had been closed for several years, is that right?

A. Oh, yes, the Plaza was closed for several years.

Q. During all this time you continued to be the owner of the the Plaza?

A. Yes.

Q. Schine was operating under a lease with you?

A. Yes.

Q. That lease expired when in 1936?

A. In 1936 I recall.

Q. In the fall of 1936?

A. I am not sure of it, but it is—I think it was in September, 1936, the lease was over.

The Court: You say the lease expired?

The Witness: About that time, I think, in September, 1936.

Q. Did you have any negotiations then in the summer of 1936 with reference to renewal of the lease?

A. I think about three or four months before my lease expired, I was abroad, in Europe, and I had a letter sent to me that my theatre——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment.

The Court: You cannot state the contents of the letter. You received the letter when you were abroad and then [fol. 3293] what happened?

Q. You came back——

A. I came back.

Q. To Malone?

A. The letter stated to me that my theatre——

The Court: No, they object to your telling what the letter said, unless you have the letter here.

Q. Just tell what you did after you got the letter, what did you do?

A. I came back to Malone and I went over and saw Mr. May.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. I saw him in Gloversville.

The Court: That was in '36, you say, when the lease expired?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: All right.

The Witness: (Continuing:) And I think it was in '35. This wasn't '36 because Schine had another year yet to go on the lease.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. You think this was about a year before the lease expired?

A. Yes, Schine had another year to go, and they told me that my theatre——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment.

[fol. 3294] By Mr. Wright:

Q. Confine yourself to the conversation you had with Mr. May at Gloversville. When he came back you saw him there?

A. Mr. May told me that the theatre was condemned and they were to discontinue the payment of the theatre.

Q. Of rent, you mean?

A. Of rent.

Q. What did you say?

A. I said if my theatre is condemned, then, will you please give me the release of it, and finally I couldn't get the release.

Mr. McClennen; I ask to have that stricken out.

The Court: Yes.

Q. Say what the conversation was at that time. Did he tell you "Yes" or "No"? Just give us what was said as best as you can recall it.

A. At that time the conversation was that he wouldn't give me no release and he wouldn't pay the rent for the year 1935-36.

Q. Then what did you do?

A. Well, I went back to Malone and I saw my lawyer there, and he thought——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment.

Q. Confine yourself to what you did, and after you saw [fol. 3295] your lawyer.

A. I got a check from Schine for the year.

Q. And then did the theatre stay*ed* closed, or was it open?

A. Closed.

Q. Then when was the next time that you talked to any one from the Schine Company about the theatre?

A. It was in 1939, if I recall.

Q. After '35. I previously asked you whether you had any—after you got the rent for the last year of the lease there, did you have any conversation with anybody from Schine about a renewal of the lease, or of further lease on the premises?

A. I think I did, but I am not sure now.

Q. You don't remember whether you talked to him or not, but what did you yourself do then with reference to the theatre premises prior to the time the lease expired?

A. I remodeled the theatre.

Q. When was that?

A. In 1936.

Q. Was that during the summer or when with reference to the expiration of the lease?

A. I think I started on the repair of the theatre before the Schine lease expired, a few months ahead of the time from the outside of it. All the necessary, like the boilers, the heating plant of the building, and all the necessary [fol. 3296] repairs from the outside that wouldn't harm the attendance, you see. I think it was about two or three months before the lease expired I started to remodel.

Q. How much did you spend on the remodeling, approximately?

A. All told I spent about $20,000.

Q. When was your remodeling completed so it was ready to open as a theatre?

A. About November, 1936, about that time.

Q. While you were remodeling the theatre did you make any efforts with respect to finding out what, if any, major film product you could get for it?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do in that connection?

A. I went to Albany, and I went to see all the film exhibitors.

Q. You mean exhibitors or distributors?

A. Distributors. I found that——

Mr. McClennen: Just a minute.

The Court: They object to what you found. You have to state your conversation or the substance of the conversation.

Q. Just state what you said there and who you saw, as near as you can recall it.

Mr. McClennen: This, your Honor, is subject to a general objection.

[fol. 3297] The Court: Yes. Overruled. You saw who?

The Witness: I saw Mr. Eastman.

The Court: Who was he?

The Witness: He is Branch Manager of the Albany Paramount.

Q. Just tell us first, as nearly as you can recall it, what Mr. Eastman told you, or what conversation you had with him?

A. I told him I was pretty near ready to operate my theatre again, what kind of chance would I have to get product? Well, he said "There is always—you will get enough product because Schine is only running just so much percentage of our pictures." At that time he told me Schine has used 65 per cent of Paramount pictures of the past few years and I might have the left-over that I could operate with and I went and seen Mr. Halligan. I think his name was Halligan, the Branch Manager of R.K.O., and he told me about the same thing, along the same line.

Mr. McClennen: May the last be stricken out?

The Court: Just tell what Mr. Halligan said. Strike it out.

The Witness: Mr. Halligan told me Schine has used pretty near three-quarters of our product, there will be one-quarter of the product a couple of years back he can sell me when I will be ready to open.

[fol. 3298] The Court: Mr. Halligan was in Albany?

The Witness: Mr. Halligan was in Albany, the R.K.O. Branch Manager.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. At that time the Schine Malone Theatre was the only theatre operating in the town?

A. Yes.

Q. Go ahead. Who else did you see?

A. Then I went and seen Mr.—the Branch Manager of Warner Brothers. At that time his name was—I don't recall the name, your Honor, of this Branch Manager now.

Q. You did know him at that time. Had you done business with him before?

A. Yes. He was the old Branch Manager in the old days he was there, and he was—I can't recall his name. Anyway,——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. What did he say?

Mr. McClennen: I think this ought not to be stated.

The Court: Go ahead.

Mr. Wright: I asked him what the conversation was.

The Court: Have you a record here who the Branch Manager was?

Mr. Wright: I think we have it in the record. As I [fol. 3299] recall the record shows it was Ray Smith.

The Witness: That is it.

The Court: Is that the man?

The Witness: That is it, Ray Smith.

Q. What did he tell you?

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. The record is that Mr. Smith ceased to be Branch Manager at Albany in February, 1935.

The Court: That is before the time stated here?

Mr. Wright: I think he said it was the fellow he talked to was the one he thought he bought pictures from before.

The Witness: It was Mr. Ray Smith, and then there was Mr. Ayres, as I recall, he was Branch Manager at Albany. That is why I say now Ray Smith was the Manager. When he told me it was Ray Smith, it was either Ray Smith or Ayres, was Branch Manager there at the time. There were two Branch Managers in that time. When I said it was Ray Smith, he was the Branch Manager at some time there. Mr. Ayres was there.

The Court: You don't recall whether it was Smith or Ayres?

The Witness: Yes, one or the other.

[fol. 3300] Mr. McClennen: The question now before the witness is what Mr. Ray Smith said and he raised the objection that he should not state that.

Mr. Wright: I withdraw the question.

Q. Just state what the Warner Branch Manager, whoever he was, said to you.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

Mr. Wright:

Q. In the summer of 1936 or at the time this conversation occurred?

Mr. McClennen: This witness ought to remember the man that he talked with and state the man that this conversation took place with, not a characterized individual. I object to the question.

The Court: Overruled. He stated it was one of these two. In all these negotiations some confusion might arise in his mind. It was seven or eight years ago.

Mr. Wright: You can state what was said.

Mr. McClennen: This is, I understand, an unnamed person.

The Court: No, no, that is not an unnamed person. He said Mr. Smith or Mr. Ayres. He doesn't know which one it was.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, we make a special objection to any conversation with Mr. Smith, because the [fol. 3301] record shows he was not the Branch Manager at this time.

The Court: We have to take that into consideration in connection with his answering using the word "Or."

Mr. McClennen: If he is going to answer something Mr. Smith said, we object to it on that ground.

The Witness: I wouldn't say definitely it was either one of the two.

The Court: Objection overruled. What did he say?

The Witness: He said to me as a friend of yours I will not reopen that theatre, but he says "If you insist, I might have a few rejected pictures for you."

Q. Is that all that was said?

A. That's all I recall.

Mr. McClennen: I move that the answer be stricken out on the ground that Mr. Smith was not the Branch Manager at that time and that the contents of the witness' statement further shows that it is not admissible in this case.

The Court: What do you say, Mr. Wright? Of course, the answer, the words in the answer itself, there is some confusion, we should know who it was.

Mr. Wright: I think it is reasonably clear, if the Court [fol. 3302] please, that he had this conversation with the man who was Branch Manager at the time for Warners at Albany on the grounds of identification. I think that is sufficient as far as the conversation itself being admissible, the nature of it was about the available pictures at Malone. I don't see that it differs in that respect.

The Court: The answer perhaps might be proper. Objection overruled. I will receive it.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. What other major exchanges did you visit there?

A. I went over to Fox.

Q. Who did you see there?

A. Mr. Grassgreen.

Q. What was that conversation, as nearly as you can recall?

Mr. McClennen: The same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

The Witness: Mr. Grassgreen says, "Very sorry, but we have one account in Malone, and we feel that we are getting pretty good revenue from that account and we are not interested in opening another account."

[fol. 3303] Q. Is that all that was said then?

A. He says "I might have a few pictures of Gaumont British."

The Court: What?

The Witness: Gaumont British pictures, "That we might let you have if you open the theatre."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Was that all of that conversation?

A. That is all that was said.

Q. Did you see any other major exchange?

A. I saw the Branch Manager of Universal.

Q. Do you recall his name?

A. No, I can't say it for sure. There was a change there several times in a very short time between—I think it was Mr. Dina.

Q. Dana?

A. Yes, something like that. This is—I am not yet sure if Mr. Dina was the Branch Manager—I am just telling you——

The Court: That is your best recollection?

The Witness: Yes. They change managers very often in those exchanges, and I don't exactly recall if Mr. Dina was in there that time, or somebody else.

Q. You think the name might have been Dana instead of Dina?

A. No—I mean, it might have been another Branch Manager.

[fol. 3304] The Court: Is it spelled Da-n-e-r?

The Witness: No, I think D-i-a-n-n-a, is that right? I don't know.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Was this a fellow you had dealt with before? Was it some one who was new there at the time?

A. No, he was there before, and he told me that——

Mr. McClennen: The same objection, if your Honor please.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: —they had pretty near half of the picture open.

The Court: He said what?

The Witness: Half of the picture available for me in Malone, and when I have my theatre all fixed up, we try to made a deal, "But we have several pictures of the year before, too, that never ran in town," and they will be first-run for me, that they could dispose of.

Q. Did you see anybody from Columbia at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. Whom did you see there?

A. At Columbia, I don't recall the name, your Honor.

Q. Do you remember whether it was a salesman or a Branch Manager?

[fol. 3305] A. No, I saw the Branch Manager.

The Court: What?

The Witness: I saw the Branch Manager.

Q. What was the conversation you had with him?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Is there anything in the record here to indicate the name of the Branch Manager at that time?

Mr. Wright: I think it is Phil Fox was the Manager, according to our interrogatory.

The Witness: That is right.

The Court: Is that the man?

The Witness: That is right, Phil Fox.

Q. What was the conversation you had with Fox?

A. He said "There will be a lot of picture- for you available when time comes for you to open." He says, "We have sold Schine practically only 60 per cent of our product for the past two or three years, and we might have about twenty picture- available for you of this season, and about the same amount of the two seasons before.

Q. Then did you go back to see the exchanges again when you opened the theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was it that you opened the theatre?

A. What is your question?

[fol. 3306] Q. What was the date when you opened the Plaza?

A. I think it was the second week of November.

Q. 1936?

A. Yes.

Q. Then with reference to that time when was it that you saw these exchange people again?

A. Oh, about a couple of weeks before I opened up.

Q. Whom did you see then?

A. I saw Mr. Halligan. That is the first one I see.

Q. Whereabouts?

A. Branch Manager in Albany—I mean Branch Manager of the R.K.O. in Albany.

Q. You saw him in Albany?

A. At Albany.

Q. What was said then?

A. Well, I said——

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: I said "I am ready to open up in a couple of weeks, and I would like to have some picture that you told me about, that you have open," and he answer, he says "I am sorry, but it is impossible to me to do any kind of business with you." He says "My hands are tied up. I can't do anything now."

[fol. 3307] Q. Is that all what was said?

A. Well, at the time that is all.

Q. Did you see the other exchange managers at the same time?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Who else?

A. I see either—if it was Ayres or Mr. Smith, it is the Branch Manager of Albany, Warner Brothers.

Q. What did he tell you?

A. He said "It is impossible now to give you anything, unless a little later if we have any kind of rejection on picture, I might let you know.

Q. Whom else did you see?

A. I went to Paramount and I saw Mr. Eastman. He says "I am not going to be——"

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled. Go on.

The Witness: Mr. Eastman told me, he says "I am not going to be the goat. After somebody sells you of the majors, I will do the same."

The Court: What is that?

The Witness: He said "I am not going to be the goat to be the first one to sell, but if any one of the major companies sells you any picture, then you come back and see me and I will sell you some pictures."

[fol. 3308] Q. Whom else did you see?

A. I saw Mr. Pielow.

Q. Who is he?

A. Branch Manager of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Q. What did he tell you?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Witness: Mr. Pielow says "At the present time Schine is using pretty near everything we have, but there might be some rejection of a few picture- that we might dispose to you a little later on."

Q. By the way, had you seen Pielow on your prior trip to Albany when you saw the other exchange managers?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What was the conversation you had with him then?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: Mr. Pielow, the first trip, told me, he says "We pretty near sell all our product to Schine, except they have the right of rejecting a few picture- a year that might be available for you by the time you open up."

Q. Was there anything else said in this second conversation you just described?

A. In the second conversation, that at the present time [fol. 3309] there was nothing available, but a little later on "We might have something for you."

Q. Whom else did you see at the time of the second conversation?

A. At the second time, I recall, I went over to see the Branch Manager of Grand National Picture.

Q. Just confining yourself to the major companies that you had seen before. The second time you said you saw somebody at R.K.O., you saw somebody at Warner, you saw somebody at Paramount and somebody at Loew's. Did you see any one at Fox or Columbia or Universal on the second trip?

A. Not the second trip. That is all I have made. No, I didn't go back to see Fox at that time, because he wasn't—I went over, but he wasn't in the office.

Q. When you refer to "Fox," you are referring now to the Branch Manager at Columbia?

A. Yes.

Q. How about the Fox Company, Mr. Grassgreen, did you see him?

A. Mr. Grassgreen says to me again that it was impossible, that they had one account in Malone and they weren't going to take another one.

Q. Did you see the Universal people again?

A. I don't remember that I did on the next trip. I must [fol. 3310] have, but I couldn't say for sure. I don't recall now.

Q. Then, when you opened the Plaza Theatre, what policy did you operate it on in the fall of 1936?

A. My policy was 25 admission, double feature.

Q. What kind of pictures?

A. The picture?

Q. What pictures did you play?

A. I had Republic as one company, and I had Grand National of another company, and I have used a product that they made several years ahead, in order to operate the theatre.

Q. You mean several years back, don't you?

A. Back.

Q. Then you had no major pictures for your theatre——

A. No.

Q. —during the fall of 1936?

A. No.

Q. What policy was Schine operating the Malone on at the same time?

Mr. McClennen: For convenience when the Malone is used, we mean the same theatre that has been described as the Grand?

The Witness: Yes.

Mr. Wright: I take it the Grand and Malone are the same theatre.

The Court: The name was changed when they did the [fol. 3311] remodeling, is that it?

Q. When did the name change occur, do you recall?

A. I think the name changed right after—I don't remember exactly—1931 or 1932, the name was changed, the Malone Theatre, Malone Schine Theatre.

The Court: At the time, you said, they remodeled?

The Witness: Yes.

Mr. Wright: Would you read the last question?

(Question read.)

The Witness: If I remember, they were operating a policy of Sunday and Monday was their big attraction, as single program, and during the week they used to have a double feature of two changes.

The Court: Two changes?

The Witness: During the rest of the week, yes.

Q. There were three changes altogether?

A. One single feature.

Q. Two double features?

A. There never were any policies alike. Some week they used to have three changes, some weeks they used to have four changes, but it never ran the one solid base policy.

Q. What were the admission prices, as nearly as you recall?

A. If I recall, the admission price was 40 cents—I think it was 40 cents downstairs and 30 cents upstairs.

[fol. 3312] Q. How much of a balcony did they have in the theatre?

A. A little over 400.

Q. Then in 1937 did you get any major pictures?

A. In 1937, I think it is around February of 1937, I have had three or four pictures from Mr. Pielow of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. That is, were rejected picture-, and after I went back to Paramount, and at the same time, about, and I had five or six picture- there, and three or four reissue.

The Court: Besides the five or six?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: Paramount?

The Witness: Paramount. I am telling you this is about. It is nothing—it might be a picture less, it might be picture more. I don't recall exactly, but approximately that is pretty near what I had.

Q. This was about what time in 1937 that you were talking about?

A. About in February.

Q. Then was there any change in the policy at the Schine Malone Theatre at that time?

Mr. McClennen: This is February, 1937?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Witness: I don't recall any kind of a change at that [fol. 3313] time.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. When was the first time, then, that there was any change in the policy after the opening of your theatre?

Mr. McClennen: You mean in his policy?

Q. Change in the policy of the Malone Theatre after you opened your theatre?

A. I think it was exactly the time after I had the second-run product in the theatre.

The Court: When was that?

The Witness: That was, I think, around the summer of 1938, if I recall. Now, these dates, your Honor, and these times, as far as I am concerned, I give you just roughly about it. The date I am not sure of any of them.

The Court: You are giving your best recollection?

The Witness: Yes.

Q. We want to get your best recollection on all these dates.

A. Yes.

Q. You recall, according to your best recollection, then, you don't remember any particular changes in policy before —through 1937 until 1938, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. What happened then?

[fol. 3314] A. Well, the change was that Schine put on some money night.

Q. Do you remember about when that began?

A. I don't recall exactly, but it is in the summer of 1938, maybe before. My memory is kind of lost now on this.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have these marked the next Plaintiff's exhibit numbers for identification.

(Thereupon two newspaper clippings, referred to, were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 855 and 856, respectively, for identification.)

Q. I will show you these clippings marked Plaintiff's Exhibits 855 and 856 for identification, and ask you if you recognize those as ads for the Malone Theatre clipped from the Malone Evening Telegram for Tuesday, May 2nd, 1939, and Tuesday, May 9th, 1939, respectively?

A. Yes, sir, these were when the competition was in full swing.

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. The question has been answered, and I submit the rest should go out.

The Court: Yes, he said these were.

Q. Do you recall how long prior to May, 1939, the money nights that are advertised there had been in effect?

A. Will you say that again?

[fol. 3315] Mr. Wright: Would you read it?

(Question read.)

The Witness: Oh, certainly before this—about a year before this.

The Court: About a year before?

The Witness: Yes, sir, your Honor.

The Court: Before that date, you mean?

The Witness: Pardon?

Q. A year before May, 1939?

A. Just about. I couldn't tell you for exact, but quite long before this.

Q. Then, was it about the same time that the money nights started that there was a change in the admission prices at the Malone?

Mr. McClennen: Objected to as leading.

The Court: It is leading. Let him state what the facts are.

Q. What, if anything, was done regarding the admission prices at the Malone Theatre?

The Witness: At the Malone? What I have done myself?

Q. No, what if any change was there in the admission prices at the Malone Theatre at or about the time the money nights started?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to as leading.

The Court: Counsel objects to it as leading. The implication is that some change was made. What, if anything, [fol. 3316] was done with reference to the prices in May, 1938 or 1939—did you say 1939?

Mr. Wright: I was just trying to narrow the time field somewhat. I will let him take them all, then.

Q. Answer the Court's question, as to what, if any, changes in admission prices there were at the Malone Theatre while you were operating the Plaza?

A. I couldn't understand that question.

Q. Were there any changes in the admission prices that the Malone Theatre charged while you were operating the Plaza Theatre?

A. Yes, there was.

Q. When did the first change occur?

A. I couldn't give you the exact date, but at the time I started to have second-run pictures at my house the price was reduced.

Q. And that was about when, as nearly as you can recall?

A. Oh, about I think I had second-run product about in June, 1938, something around there, the summer of 1938.

Q. The summer of 1938?

A. Yes, I don't recall the exact date.

Q. When was it that you first attempted to get or first had any conversations with the exchange managers about [fol. 3317] getting major product second-run for your Plaza Theatre?

A. After I was exhausted of all——

Mr. McClennen: May this be stricken out, if your Honor please?

The Court: State when it was.

The Witness: After I was exhausted——

Mr. McClennen: This is stricken out.

The Witness: It is stricken out?

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Try and give the time as nearly as you can without reference to whether or not you had exhausted your supply of independent pictures.

A. Well, about, I say six months after I opened up.

Q. Six months after you opened up that would be the spring of 1937?

A. Spring of '37.

Q. Whom did you see about second-run product?

A. In the spring of 1937 I made a trip to Albany and I contacted all major companies except United Artists that did not have a branch in Albany.

Q. Well, whom did you see there?

A. I saw first Mr. Pielow.

Q. What did he tell you?

A. I said, "Mr. Pielow, I am ready to do business with you, if you want to sell me second-run."

[fol. 3318] Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: He said "I will take that into consideration with the New York office, and I will let you know a little later."

Q. Did you hear from him a little later?

A. No. I went over—next I saw Mr. Eastman. I asked him for second-run product, and the answer was that——

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: "After you secure any from any other major companies-second-run, I will be in the market to sell you second-run myself." Then I went over and saw Mr. Grassgreen at Fox, and I told him I was in the market——

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Same ruling.

The Witness (Continuing): —to buy second-run product, and his answer was "We have enough revenue coming out of our first-run product in Malone, and we are not interested to sell second-run in the Town of Malone." Then I went over to Columbia and at that time I told them I was in the market——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment.

[fol. 3319] The Court: Whom did you tell?

Q. Whom did you talk to?

A. I talked with I think it was Mr. Fox, Phil Fox, if I recall. Phil Fox, the Branch Manager.

Q. What did he tell you?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: Mr. Phil Fox said that at the present time he couldn't give me anything definite, and he will let me know a little later.

Q. Did you hear from him?

A. No.

Q. Did you see anybody else?

A. I saw Halligan, R. K. O.

Q. What did he tell you?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Same ruling.

The Witness: "I am sorry, but I can't talk any business at the present time for second-run."

Q. Is that all that was said?

A. That I remember.

Q. Did you see anybody else?

The Court: Who?

The Witness: That was Mr. Halligan.

The Court: All right, go ahead. What did he say?

[fol. 3320] The Witness: You have what I said?

The Court: Whom did you see after Halligan?

87

The Witness: After Halligan I saw either Mr. Ayres or Mr. Smith at Warner Brothers. I told them that I was ready to buy second-run to run my theatre, and "I am ready to make a deal. right away", and he says "We couldn't do it now. We have submitted it to New York."

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness (Continuing): And no answer from him.

Q. Did you see any one else?

A. Not that I recall.

The Court: Did he say anything about—you said it would have to be submitted. Did he say he would submit it?

The Witness: It would be submitted.

Q. What was he going to submit? Was there any talk about terms or anything?

A. Mr. Smith, if the Company wants to sell me the pictures or not.

Q. Second-run?

A. Yes.

Q. I will show you this copy of a letter dated May 21st, 1937 from Mr. Grassgreen to you, which has been previously [fol. 3321] identified as Exhibit 195 for identification, and ask if you recognize that as a copy of a- original received by you at or about that time?

A. Yes, sir, this is the exact letter that I received.

Mr. Wright: I will offer his Exhibit 195 in evidence.

(Thereupon letter previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 195 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: The letter dated May 21st, 1937, addressed to Mr. Boumansour at the Plaza Theatre, Malone, New York, states:

"Following up your recent letter, I regret to inform you that we will not be interested in serving second-run in the City of Malone, first, because of the size of the town and secondly, because of the possibility of dissipating our first-run revenue. We have a franchise in the City of Malone, which runs for a number of years, and with the maximum number of pictures playing on percentage, we do not believe it is good business to play them at a later date second-run, for there is no question but what it will cut in on our first-run revenue. In the meantime with kindest regards. [fol. 3322] Yours very truly."

Q. This letter, Exhibit 195, was that received by you before or after this trip to Albany where you had the conversation with Mr. Grassgreen about second-run?
A. Just about the week after I came back.
Q. Then you say you finally did start to play pictures second-run there in the summer of 1937, is that right?
A. About—would you repeat that?

(Last question read.)

A. The exact date I couldn't tell you for sure.
Q. When were you first told by any of these exchanges that you could have some second-run pictures?
A. Well, I wrote to the Department of Justice.

Mr. McClennen: May that be stricken out, if your Honor please?
The Court: He asked you about the time.
The Witness: The time. It is after June. It must have been, yes, in the summer, late in the summer of '37.

Q. When did you write to the Department of Justice?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to. It does not appear he has written to the Department of Justice.
The Court: That is very true.

[fol. 3323] Q. Did you write to the Department of Justice?
A. Yes, I did.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.
The Court: Let the fact stand. What was done is not competent. Overruled.

Q. And when was that, approximately?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, the letter would show.
The Court: Let him state about when.
The Witness: Early in June. I don't recall exactly, but I know it is in the summer, early.

Q. Did I ask you—I asked you for the date as nearly as you could fix it. It is the actual date when you were notified by any of the major companies that you could have second-run.

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. It is obvious that my brother must have the letter, and I am wondering if he is going to leave this answer of the witness uncorrected as to the time.

The Court: That is true.

Mr. Wright: I would be very glad to have the letter identified, too. I assumed it would be objected to if I attempted to offer the letter itself.

Mr. McClennen: The graver objection is to letting stand [fol. 3324] this witness' testimony as to the time.

The Court: That is true. Yes, I think the answer as to the time should be stricken out. With reference to a letter to refresh his recollection as to time if it does, if he can state without such reference, but it will be stricken out as it now stands that he wrote to the Department on this specific date.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this marked with the next exhibit number for identification.

(Thereupon the original letter, dated June 30, 1937, referred to, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 857 for identification).

Q. I will show you this letter dated June 30th, 1937, marked Exhibit 857 for identification, and ask you if that is a copy of the letter to the Department of Justice that you just referred to in your testimony?

The Court: Is that the copy?

The Witness: That is the copy of that.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. That is the original letter, is it not? That is the original letter you wrote? That is your signature on there?

A. It is not my signature.

[fol. 3325] Q. Well, is it the letter you wrote and sent?

A. Yes, but it isn't my signature there.

The Court: Was it signed at your request by somebody for you?

The Witness: Yes, but isn't my signature, but it is the letter.

Mr. Wright: It is the letter you wrote?

The Witness: It is the letter I wrote to the Department of Justice.

Q. And it is the one you are just referring to?

A. Yes, I think my assistant must have signed it.

Q. There is no letter you wrote prior to this?

A. No.

Q. This exhibit 857 was the one you first wrote and it was written on or about the date that appears there?

A. Yes, 1937.

Q. June 30th, 1937, is that right?

A. Yes, it must be.

Q. Does that letter refresh your recollection as to when it was that you were offered a second-run deal?

The Court: That calls for a conclusion.

Mr. Wright: Well, as to when you actually——

The Witness: If I recall that after the letter was sent I was approached by a telephone call.

Q. Who called you?

[fol. 3326] A. From Warner Brothers of Albany.

Q. Who was it, do you know?

A. Albany.

Q. Do you know who the individual was who called you?

A. Mr. Ayres of Albany called me up on the telephone and stated——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. That's all you were asked.

Q. Tell us what the conversation was you had with him.

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: You knew Mr. Ayres' voice, did you? You knew who it was talking?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: Overruled. What did he say?

The Witness: He said he had a contract ready for me in his office in Albany.

The Court: A what?

The Witness: A contract in his office ready for me.

Q. What did you do then?

A. So I took the first train to Albany, and I went into his office and he had a contract already written, ready to sign, so I looked at the contract and I said to Mr. Ayres, "I like the contract, but I don't like the prices", because the prices were really pretty near on the feature part.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

[fol. 3327] The Court: Tell what they were.

Q. Just say what you said. Limit yourself to what you said to him and what he said to you.

A. I am telling you exactly what the conversation was. That is what you want to know?

Q. Yes.

A. I told him the prices were pretty near double what they should be. Well, he said, "I have nothing to say. Either take it or leave it. You have the preference of taking it or leaving it". I said "Give me your pen", so I took the pen. I said "I am going to give Warner Brothers a present of five hundred or six hundred dollars on this contract, but I would rather do that than close my theatre."

Q. Was it before or after that you got any second-run pictures from any major company?

A. After that.

Q. How long afterward?

A. Oh, gosh, on the same trip I went over and showed the contract to the major companies and get that so the contract of Warner Brothers they did some business with me.

Q. And you bought second-run from the other company?

A. Yes, I bought a few second-run at that time from another company.

[fol. 3328] The Court: Warner and who else?

The Witness: I recall at that time the next deal that I made was with Paramount. Then the third deal was with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The Court: At the same time, you mean?

The Witness: About. I can't recall, your Honor, for sure now, because it has been so long.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Then, after you began to play these second-run pictures was there any change in the admission price of your theatre?

A. Yes, sir, that is where the cut in the prices started, right after I started to play second-run picture, the prices were cut slightly. Not very much at that time.

The Court: You mean cut by whom?

The Witness: At the Schine.

Q. What prices are you talking about?

A. I think the admission was cut from 40 to 30 and from——

Q. You are talking about the admission where?

A. At the Schine Theatre.

Q. The evening adults?

A. Evening adults.

Q. From 40 to 30?

A. From 40 to 30, and from 30 to 20 in the balcony at that time, that I recall.

[fol. 3329] Q. What were you charging then when you first started to play the second-run pictures?

A. 25 cents admission.

Q. Then after Schine went to 30 and 20, what, if any, changes did you make in your house?

A. I did not make any change at all.

Q. For how long?

A. Oh, I don't recall. The only change that I made in my house, when Schine started these money-give-aways at night, then, to compete on the money-give-away, I used to charge during the rush hour, during 6:30 to 7 o'clock at night, 15 cents.

Q. When was it those money-give-aways began?

A. Began, I can't tell exactly when, but just about a few months after I started to run second-run pictures.

The Court: We will have to suspend at this time. I have an appointment.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P. M.)

[fol. 3330] After recess, 2 o'clock P. M.

Appearances: As before noted.

Mr. Kallis: I have two witnesses here, newspaper publishers. Their testimony will be very brief, and if your Honor has no objection, we would like to put them on.

The Court: I have no objection.

Read Clarke, a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Kallis:

Q. Mr. Clarke, where do you live?

A. Perry, New York.

Q. What is your business?

A. Newspaper publishing.

Q. Are you connected with any newspaper?

A. Perry Record.

Q. Where is that published?

A. Perry, New York.

Q. How long have you been connected with the Perry Record?

[fol. 3331] A. About 30 years.

Q. Are you acquainted with Mr. John A. May, one of the defendants in this suit?

A. I have met him.

Q. Calling your attention to 1935, did you have occasion to meet Mr. May?

A. I did.

Q. When and where?

A. It was during the summer of 1935, as I remember it, various places in Perry,

Q. Will you please state—did you have a conversation with him?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you please state the substance of the first conversation you had with him?

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. This we interpose an objection to. Of course, I cannot tell until I hear the conversation, whether it is right or not, but I object to the question on the ground of its materiality.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Please state the conversation.

A. I had heard about the plans for building a new theatre in Perry, and I inquired of him what they were, the details, from a news angle.

[fol. 3332] Q. What did he say?

A. He said they planned to build a theatre.

Q. Did he mention the name of the enterprise that was planning to build the theatre, the name of the company?

A. He was an official of the Schine organization.

Q. And he said that the Schines were planning on building a theatre?

A. He did.

Q. What, if anything else, did he say concerning the project?

A. Nothing in particular, as I remember.

Q. Did you see him again?

A. I saw him probably two, three or four times during the summer.

Q. Where, in what city?

A. In Perry.

Q. Perry, New York. What did he say the second time you saw him?

Mr. McClennen: What is the date of this, this second time?

Q. As nearly as you can recall, Mr. Clarke, please give us the date of that second conversation?

A. It was all along near together, within a reasonable short time. I don't remember the exact dates or months. It was during this one summer.

Q. Well, I show you plaintiff's Exhibit 807, 808 and 809 [fol. 3333] for identification——

The Court: That is 807 or 808?

Mr. Kallis: 807, 808 and 809, all for identification.

Q. I call your attention to the articles that are circled in red on the first page of each of those exhibits, and ask you to look at them, please.

(Witness examines documents.)

Q. Do you know who was the author of the articles in those three exhibits?

A. I wrote them.

Q. Will you look at them, Mr. Clarke, and see whether they refresh your recollection as to when you had those conversations with Mr. John A. May?

A. Well, they would be right adjacent to this publication time, probably.

Q. With respect to July 11th, 1935, which is the date of Exhibit 807 for identification, when would you say that your conversation with Mr. May occurred?

A. Well, I would assume the week of July 11th.

Q. Calling your attention to August 1st, 1935, which is the date of Plaintiff's Exhibit 808, for identification, did you have a conversation with Mr. May on or about the date of August 1st, 1938?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Will you please state the substance——

[fol. 3334] The Court: 1938? The first conversation was 1935.

Mr. Kallis: I meant 1935. I am sorry, your Honor. August 1st, 1935. I mis-stated that.

Q. What was the substance of this conversation with Mr. May on or about August 1st, 1935?

A. As I recall it, in connection with this story, I remember the conversation in which he said that they would employ as much Perry labor as possible. In the latter part of the story it says "Perry contractors", and so forth, "Were given an opportunity to quote"——

Mr. McClennen: Not reading it.

The Court: Yes. It is only for identification.

Q. Did he say anything about the size of the theatre that was contemplated?

A. Yes, he said it would seat about a thousand people, as I remember it.

Q. And was there any statement made by him as to the contemplated cost of the theatre?

A. Around $100,000.

Q. Did you have any other conversations with Mr. May, either in July, August, September or October, 1935, other than the two you have just mentioned?

A. I couldn't say as to that.

Mr. Kallis: I offer, if the Court please, Plaintiff's Ex-[fol. 3335]hibits 807 for identification and 808 and 809.

By Mr. Clennen: I object to them at this time.

The Court: Sustained. They are hearsay.

Mr. Kallis: If the Court please, I understood him to say he talked with John A. May, one of the defendants.

The Court: Sure.

Mr. Kallis: And the information, the substance of his conversation with Mr. May is published in these newspapers.

The Court: Yes, I know, but what he published certainly is hearsay. He has told what he talked about with Mr. May, and this paper refreshes his recollection, and that is all there is to it.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I think it goes a little further than that. There is already in evidence the contents of the newspaper were communicated to——

The Court: Mr. May.

Mr. Wright. Mr. Herzberger testified on the stand that he read these articles as they appeared. Now, we have shown that the articles were the results of visits or conversations of Mr. May with the witness, and I think it [fol. 3336] makes the articles competent to show what occurred. Mr. May was not talking to this witness then for any other purpose than to have the information published in the paper. Certainly Schine is responsible for whatever is published in the paper, as a result of their going to the editor and supplying him with this information.

The Court: Mr. Herzberger testified he saw this article in the paper. That is very true.

Mr. Wright: We have shown, if the Court please, the whole purpose of having the conversation with the editor, of Mr. May going to the editor is, of course, to give publicity to the fact.

The Court: He went to the editor. The editor went to him.

Mr. Wright: In either event, whether he went to the editor or whether the editor went to him, Schine is certainly responsible for the publication of material that they gave to the editor of the paper, whether it is in the form of an ad or anything else.

The Court: It doesn't make it any stronger if he testified what Mr. May told him. Mr. Herzberger testified that he [fol. 3337] read the substance of what Mr. Clarke told him.

Mr. Wright: The paper is still not in evidence. We are now offering the paper in evidence to show what was communicated in this manner to Mr. Herzberger, and we have shown that what was communicated was communicated to him as a result of a conversation between Mr. May and the editor of the paper. If the Court please, we are entitled to show what that communication was by having the newspaper itself in evidence, just as much as though——

The Court: What is your answer to that, Mr. McClennen?

Mr. McClennen: The vice in the argument is that it is asserted that this rendered the Schines responsible for what the editor said in the paper. The witness has testified to what was said and that is all that we are responsible for. We are not responsible for anything beyond that that the editor may have chosen to say in the paper, and this is wholly apart from anything connected with us. What is connected with us has been told by the witness, and that is all that is material in this case.

[fol. 3338] Mr. Wright: On the basis of Mr. McClennen's own statement it is clearly competent to show that the information supplied by Mr. May, which appeared in the article was communicated by means of the article to Mr. Herzberger, and for that purpose we offer it in evidence.

The Court: Let me see the document there. I assume from the length of it, it seems much longer than the statement made by the witness.

(Mr. Wright hands the paper to the Court.)

The Court: Well, of course, these documents in the first place all include more than he says here. Objection sustained.

Mr. Kallis: Maybe I can clarify that by one question.

By Mr. Kallis:

Q. Mr. Clarke, can you state whether all of the statements in these three exhibits, 807, 808 and 809 for identification were furnished—strike that. Whether the information contained in these three exhibits was furnished to you by Mr. May when you had these talks with him?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to as——

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, we have in the complaint the allegation that as a means of intimidating theatre [fol. 3339] owners to making sales of their property Schine did take options and cause information to be circulated about the taking of options and proposed construction of theatres, as a means of inducing sales.

Now, clearly, we are entitled to show, I take it, that they did that, and when we show that they go into the town and take an option that they communicate the fact with respect to the proposed activity to the newspaper in the town, that the newspaper then publishes the fact and that those facts are brought to the attention of the theatre operator in the town, or any one else who is interested in operating the theatre, that we have then established a perfectly competent chain of proof to establish those allegations of the complaint. That is what we have done here.

Now, in so far as the newspaper containing other material, or in so far as the article may contain additional comments of the editor; all of that material may, of course, be disregarded as far as we are concerned. We are not interested in it, but we still are interested in showing, and [fol. 3340] our proof has shown that certain facts about the proposed project were published in the paper, and that is the purpose of this proof. I don't understand on what theory those facts may be excluded.

[fol. 3341] The Court: In the first place, the articles contain—vaguely contain matters to which no reference has been made in the testimony of this witness. In the second place, he has testified that statements made by May, which he published in the paper, and which Mr. Herzberger testified he read, that is all there is to it. You have got the proof all there.

Mr. Wright: If that is conceded, then I say there is no purpose in having the article, but I assume the only way you can tell which are the statements which Mr. May had communicated to the editor of the paper or brought to Mr. Herzberger's attention, is by looking at the article itself. That is the only purpose.

The Court: There is no reference in any one of the three articles to Mr. May.

Mr. Wright: That is quite right, but the articles do contain, as I understand it, facts which were given by Mr. May and to the extent to which they contain it——

The Court: Is it your idea that you can accept one statement in these published articles and eliminate the balance, [fol. 3342] when they are all offered?

Mr. Wright: I assume there is no way I know of physically cutting up the article, but I assume under your Honor's ruling, you would not attribute to the defendants anything that appears in the article other than such information as appears from the witness was furnished to the witness by Mr. May, but they are competent, it seems to me, for the purpose of showing publication of any information, and that is all they are offered for.

Mr. Kallis: In other words, we only offer that part of the newspaper items which are the results of Mr. May's information to the editor of this newspaper.

The Court: It would be entirely hearsay, that is the point about it. As I pointed out once before, Mr. Clarke has testified to the conversation with the public stenographer at the time these conversations were had. The other witness, Mr. Herzberger, testified that he read articles in the Record, and he told what he read, and that is all there is to it.

Mr. Wright: Without knowing what is in any article——

The Court: He has told what is in the articles. Mr. [fol. 3343] Herzberger has told what was in the articles.

Mr. Wright: I did not so understand the record, I didn't think he was permitted to state what he had seen other than the fact he saw the articles indicated here outlined in red pencil on the paper.

The Court: He went farther than that, because he told about obtaining all the information from articles in the paper and that information was the statement he made; that seems to me that accomplishes your point, and there is nothing added by the introduction of that part of the publication of the papers to which you refer.

Mr. Wright: Let us get Mr. Herzberger's testimony, and we will get that. As I understand it, all he was permitted to testify to was that he had seen these articles, without disclosing what the contents of them were.

The Court: What articles?

Mr. Wright: The articles referred to here, the newspaper articles that have been identified. He identified those as having appeared in the paper of that date and he saw them [fol. 3344] and he read them, but as to what they were, the only way I know of, to make that apparent, is to offer the article itself.

The Court: I will refer to the testimony.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Herzberger's testimony was that he read at the time the article in Exhibit 808 for identification, and I can't say from my brief notes whether he also said he read the others or not.

The Court: I do not think any distinction was made between them.

Mr. Wright: That is my recollection of the testimony.

The Court: The testimony is on my desk, right inside the door.

Mr. Wright: It is just a question of getting the volume of the transcript up here.

The Court: What page is the written testimony on?

Mr. McClennen: 2576 and 2577.

Mr. Wright: That is the volume, I presume, they are bringing up.

(Volume of testimony produced into Court.)

Mr. Wright: Does your Honor want to read it?

The Court: Yes. (Volume of testimony handed to the Court.)

Mr. Wright: That is 2573, at the end.

(Testimony referred to examined by the Court.)

[fol. 3345] The Court: What part of this are you offering, Mr. Wright?

Mr. Wright: Well, we are offering——

The Court: You spoke of separating some part of it.

Mr. Wright: I do not think——

The Court: There are many statements there of things which are not included in the statement made by Mr. Clarke as to his conversation with Mr. May.

Mr. Wright: Well, I think it may be understood that as to any information which may appear in the article which was not furnished to him by Mr. May, it may be disregarded, and we can cover it that way.

The Court: You agree with me that there is a good deal in there.

Mr. Wright: Well, I don't know just what your Honor refers to. He refers to the option, and the theatre site and construction on the property.

The Court: We have heard nothing about the Davis garage property. We have heard nothing that the garage property which was recently taken by the Schine company was taken up on Tuesday for the purpose of the theatre. There has been no testimony about that at all.

[fol. 3346] Mr. Wright: The only way I know to separate it out is to take the witness down the article item by item and see which he got from Mr. May.

The Court: The articles are largely filled with matters to which the attention of the witness has not been called. I think in view of the testimony of Mr. Herzberger that part of the paper is competent in view of that testimony.

By Mr. Kallis:

Q. Mr. Clarke, I ask you to look at Plaintiff's Exhibit 807 for identification, to the part that is circled in red, and please tell us, starting at the beginning and going through there, sentence by sentence, tell us which parts of that article which you say you wrote were based on information furnished to you by Mr. May?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, if your Honor please.
The Court: Sustained.

Q. Well, will you look at that item again, Mr. Clarke, read it over, will you please, to refresh your recollection? (Witness examines article.)
A. All right.
Q. Will you please state as fully as you can everything that Mr. May said to you on or about July 11th, 1935?

Mr. McClennen: There is no reason why the witness should not have the paper right before him.
[fol. 3347] The Court: No, it is not necessary to read from it. Let him state the substance.

Q. You can use that to refresh your recollection, if you want to.
A. Mr. May, in the beginning, was my source of authentic information regarding the plans of the Schine organization. Just what he said or what times he said it, I don't recall back that far, but I do know that he gave me the primary facts in connection with this enterprise, such as definite plans to build, cost of the theatre, seating capacity, and so on. When those conversations took place, or what was said at different times, I don't recall.
The Court: Let me ask one question of counsel here. Reference is made in this to the interrogatories here, listing certain real property; does that list include the so-called Davis property?
Mr. Wright: I thought we read into evidence the answer relating to that acquisition.
The Court: It is interrogatory 31.
Mr. Wright: It is my recollection that we read the following data: "Location, Main Street, Perry, New York," Under the heading of "Location" there is "Main Street"; [fol. 3348] "Nature of interest, fee,"—"Date of acquisition, July, 1935." Under the heading "From whom acquired", "Davis." Under the heading of "Nature of Improvement now existing; vacant land."
The Court: It says "From whom acquired, Davis"?
Mr. Wright: Yes.
The Court: That is what I asked you about, the Davis property.

Mr. Wright: Yes, sir, under the heading "From whom acquired" appears the word "Davis." I think there was also reference to it as the Davis property by the witness.

The Court: Well, the testimony of Mr. Herzberger was: "Q. After Mr. May's conversation with you did you see any announcement in the paper with reference to that Davis property?

A. I did.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to. That would call for the contents.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Wright: It did not call for the contents. I asked if he saw it.

The Court: Yes, it does. It calls for some announcement with reference to the theatre property.

[fol. 3349] Mr. Wright: Mark these as the next exhibits for Identification.

"(Four newspapers, "Perry Record" were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 807, 808, 809 and 810 for identification")

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Now, Mr. Herzberger, do you recognize this document that has been marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 807 as a copy of the Perry Record for Thursday, July 11, 1935?

A. I do.

Q. Did you read it when it came out?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you note at that time the item on the first page there that is outlined in red pencil and headed "Exercise Option of Theatre Site"?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. McClennen: Why can we not have——

The Court: Sustained. All I think you can do at this time is to fix some date, as of that date, but the contents of the paper, of course, would be hearsay.

Mr. Wright: I think we are entitled to show what knowledge this witness had, whether by hearsay or otherwise. [fol. 3350] We went into extensive cross-examination of Mr. Essick, in which he was asked what rumors, what he had heard about Schine coming into the town. I submit this witness can always testify as to what he saw in the paper.

The Court: If it was received without objection, as these questions were, that is one situation. On cross-examination, that is another situation. There is no basis for this.

Mr. McClennen: The question was stating the contents of the paper.

The Court: I will let you show that he read that on the date it bears, such-and-such a date.

Mr. McClennen: That is not the objection that we make.

The Court: I know that.

Mr. McClennen: I am charging that Counsel for the plaintiff attempts to get in the contents of papers not yet admitted in evidence, and that is the ground of my objection.

The Court: Well, I think I am going to receive it in view of Mr. Herzberger's testimony. I did not have that in mind when I sustained the objection in the first place, the testimony of Mr. Herzberger was not in mind at all.

[fol. 3351] Mr. McClennen: I call your Honor's attention, that the witness was asked if he read this outlined—what was outlined in red in this newspaper.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: As if that was the thing that was offered of importance in this case.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: And outlined in red are these words: "Madam Ethel Snider of Cleveland, Ohio, nationally known astrologist and physiologist is spending the week in Perry. Madam Snider, a graduate of several universities——"

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, there is obviously a mistake. The red line at the bottom should have cut before "astrologist."

Mr. McClennen: There was an obvious mistake in what is offered then and what I was objecting to.

Mr. Wright: Clearly your red outline included an item which hasn't any relation to the case. It certainly isn't an item which could do the defendants any harm.

The Court: The red line also includes reference to the theatre. The objection is overruled. I will receive it under the construction stated by Counsel. The reception [fol. 3352] will be confined to that portion to which the witness has testified.

[fol. 3353] Mr. McClennen: Could we have outlined in an unmistakable way what is admitted?

The Court: I don't know that we should spend any time on that.

Mr. Wright: I think that is the only error in outlining.

Mr. McClennen: I had not seen the articles when I made the objection and Mr. Wright told how we went into town and got options, and I find that the article is that we went into town and bought the property, and that is the statement in the article. It is a very different one than outlined in the articles.

The Court: You were not finding fault that there is disagreement. Your criticism——

Mr. McClennen: My criticism is that I was relying on the argument made as to the contents of the papers, not on what was in the paper. I haven't had any reason to question it.

The Court: With reference to a lease and now the reference is to a purchase, and the point you make is there is a difference between a lease and a purchase.

Mr. McClennen: No, the argument presented for the plaintiff was that we went into town and got an option. [fol. 3354] The thing that is really offered to which we have no objection is the fact that we had made a purchase at this time.

The Court: An option rather than a lease. What I meant by my statement, I used the word "lease" rather than "option", but my inquiry was you do not criticize from your standpoint the fact there is testimony with reference to an option, and there is also testimony with reference to purchase of the property.

Mr. McClennen: There is no testimony with reference to an option, if the Court please; there is testimony as to a purchase and the witness' testimony was, so far as it showed a purchase by us of land, and there wasn't anything that we are in this court with in any way.

The Court: What is the testimony as to an option, then?

Mr. McClennen: There wasn't any.

The Court: Who was testifying to an option?

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright.

The Court: He hasn't testified at all.

Mr. McClennen: In arguing a paper was handed to your Honor, which I have not seen, and he told that, and I was basing my objection on that fact, assuming that it was a correct statement of the contents of the paper.

[fol. 3355] The Court: It wasn't meant there was testimony of an option. Now, the testimony shows it is a purchase. All right. Is that all of this witness? Cross-examine.

Mr. McClennen: I have no questions.

Mr. Kallis: That is all, Mr. Clarke.

If the Court please, Mr. Clarke was kind enough——

The Court: They are not marked.

Mr. Kallis: Yes, they are marked. I was going to say Mr. Clarke was kind enough to let us take these out of his files. I would like leave to substitute photostatic copies.

Mr. McClennen: I still object on the photostatic copies as well. There is included this lining of something that has nothing whatever to do, and so there be no misunderstanding we understand nothing else in the paper is received in evidence, except the date of the paper and the article that refers to this acquisition and plan.

Mr. Wright: That is understood.

The Court: As far as we can go the testimony given by Mr. Clarke.

[fol. 3356] (Thereupon the three newspaper articles previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 807, 808 and 809, were received in evidence.)

Matthew Weber, a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Kallis:

Q. Mr. Weber, where do you live?

A. Salamanca, New York.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Newspaper publisher.

Q. What, if any, newspapers are you connected with?

A. The Salamanca Republican Press, Daily, and the Cattaraugus County Republican, Weekly.

Q. How long have you been connected with the Salamanca Republican Press?

A. Since we established it in 1904.

Q. I show you what has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 854 for identification, and I direct your attention to the article in the column of the extreme right on the first [fol. 3357] page of that exhibit. Have you seen that article before?

A. I have.

Q. Will you please tell the Court who is the author of that article?

A. I wrote it.

Q. Were you acquainted with Mr. C. R. Dickerson on December 24, 1938?

A. I was.

Q. Did you have occasion to talk with Mr. Dickerson on that day?

A. My recollection is Mr. Dickerson came to my office.

Q. Can you tell the Court what Mr. Dickerson's position at that time was?

A. He was the Manager of the Schine Theatre in Salamanca.

Q. You say he came to your office?

A. That is my best recollection.

Q. Will you please tell the Court what conversation took place?

Mr. McClennen: That I object to.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. Had you had prior business dealings? Will you please state the substance of the conversation?

A. I may look at this to refresh my memory?

Q. Yes, you may.

A. Mr. Dickerson told me in substance that the Schine [fol. 3358] Company would build a new theatre on a lot which they previously had purchased on Main Street in Salamanca near the corner of Clinton Street. He told me that Mr. C. C. Young, the District Manager and John Eberson, an architect for the Schine Company had been in Salamanca the day before to inspect the property, that is, this lot, and that plans for a new theatre would be submitted shortly after January 1st, and bids sought immediately; that the plans called for completion of the theatre by the first of May.

The Court: What year was that, Mr. Weber?

The Witness: That was 1938. The Schine Company at that time was operating a theatre in Salamanca, known as the Andrews Theatre, and Mr. Dickerson said that the company planned to continue to operate the Andrews.

Q. Did Mr. Dickerson say what the contemplated theatre—or when it was expected to be built?

The Court: May, 1938?

The Witness: Plans called for the completion of the building by May 1st.

Q. What year?

A. 1938.

Q. This conversation you had with him was on December——

A. Yes, it would be May, 1939, the following May.

[fol. 3359] Q. The conversation you had with him was on December 24th, 1938?

A. Yes.

Mr. Kallis: Now, if the Court please, I offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 854 for identification in accordance with your Honor's previous ruling.

Mr. McClennen: If I might see it?

The Court: Who was the witness who testified?

Mr. Kallis: Just before him?

The Court: On the Salamanca situation?

Mr. Kallis: Irving Cohen.

The Court: What do your interrogatories show in regard to the property after that time?

Mr. Wright: Interrogatory No. 31, if the Court please. It states the following with respect to Salamanca: It says under "Location", "Main Street, Salamanca, New York".

"Nature of interest." "Fee." "Date of acquisition, July, 1927."

"From whom acquired. Ambuski, et, al."

"Nature of improvement now existing. None, used as parking lot."

The date of that interrogatory, I believe is some time in 1941.

[fol. 3360] Mr. McClennen: When does it say the land was acquired?

Mr. Wright: July, 1927.

The Court: Is that the period the Andrews Theatre was then standing?

Mr. Wright: This answer only deals with the unimproved property. I will have the answer as to the theatres in Salamanca. That appears in the answer to interrogatory 17-A, under the "Town Name, Salamanca, Name of Theatre, the Andrews."

"Nature of interest, lessee."

"Extent of interest, 100 per cent."

"Date acquired, October, 1924."

"Owner's interest, if any,——"

did you want the rest of it?

The Court: No, that is all.

Mr. Wright: Again our offer would be limited to the particular part of the paper. There is nothing outlined in this, but the right-hand column which deals with the matter the witness testified to. We are not interested in any other part of the paper other than the right-hand column of the front page.

Mr. McClennen: We object to it. I think that your Honor's ruling in the last case, if followed, would admit it [fol. 3361] over our objection. The article contains somethings not testified to by the witness, even as coming from Mr. Dickerson, if that is the right name, and this is the case of a talk with a local manager of the existing theatre, but I assume that your Honor's ruling would admit this over our objection. I make the objection.

The Court: It may be received the same as the other was. No evidence to show he testified it was the newspaper of that date.

"When was the first time you saw that Exhibit 854?"

"Well, I would say it was about four or five days after this paper was printed, and it was sent to me."

I see no other reference in the testimony of Cohen.

Mr. Wright: I think it is a fair inference if he read the paper that he saw this front page on which this item appeared.

The Court: I will receive it the same as before, anything except the testimony given by Mr. Weber, that is all.

[fol. 3362] (Thereupon the newspaper previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 854, was received in evidence.)

Mr. Kallis: That is all.

The Court: Any questions?

Cross-examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Weber, referring to the article in Exhibit 854, can you tell me when this theatre was actually completed, which they referred to?

A. I cannot. My memory for dates is not good. The theatre was built some little time after that.

Q. And would you scan down the article and tell us any respect in which the theatre built did not conform to the statement of what was going to be done?

A. I don't think it was built within the four months that was indicated.

Mr. McClennen: We make no contention that it was, but as to the character of the theatre, and so forth.

Mr. Wright: Of course, I think there should be showing first that he is in a position to know.

The Court: I assume if he can state he will state, or if he knows.

[fol. 3363] Mr. Wright: What the characteristics of the present theatre are, he said he doesn't know when it was completed.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. What is in the article was that it was to contain 1200 seats. You have been in the theatre?

A. I have been in it, yes.

Q. Have you any idea?

A. I would think it would be approximately 1200.

Q. What sort of an appearing theatre?

A. Very lovely theatre.

Q. Is it air-conditioned?

A. Yes.

Q. And does it have modern theatre equipment and fixtures?

A. I am not an expert on the equipment. I should think it was modern.

Mr. McClennen: I think that is all.

Mr. Kallis: That is all.

[fol. 3364] Michael Boumansour recalled as a witness by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been previously sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Mr. Wright: Before continuing the examination, I want to correct a mis-statement in the record that apparently was inadvertently made by Mr. McClennen. It was apparently due to the form of my question with respect to Ray Smith's testimony at page 1572, I asked the witness what position did he, that is referring to Ray S. Smith, hold with the Company during the period from August, 1933, through February, 1935. His answer was: "Branch Manager, Albany, November 23rd, 1931 to November 12, 1936." The statement had previously been made to your Honor he had ceased being Branch Manager in February, 1935, which apparently was due to notes made on the form of my question rather than the witness' answer.

The Court: When was it?

[fol. 3365] Mr. Wright: The dates are given by the witness, Branch Manager, Albany, November 23rd, 1931 to November 12, 1936. The statement had been made correctly by Mr. McClennen that the record agreed the deceased to be Branch Manager in 1935, and that was due to the form of my question, apparently, and notes taking on the question asked rather than of the witness' answer.

Mr. McClennen: I should say that that comment was correct. That is the question on page 1572 is, "What position did he hold with the Company during the period from August, 1933 through February, 1935?" And the answer "Branch Manager, Albany," and he then continues "November 23rd, 1931 to November 12th, 1936", and that latter part was not on my notes.

The Court: It is agreed he terminated in 1935.

Mr. Wright: No, I say the purpose of reading this was to correct the statement that he terminated in 1935 for it now appears from the testimony of the Witness Doherty that he continued as Branch Manager until November 12th, 1936. That was when he terminated as Branch Manager.

The Court: All right. You mean was that the Smith who [fol. 3366] succeeded Ayres?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Q. Mr. Boumansour, going back to the spring of 1937, when you were attempting to get second-run products for your theatre there, did you notice whether the Schine Malone Theatre was playing major product second-run there at that time?

A. No, nothing that I recall.

Q. The question was whether you noticed whether they were or not? Did you observe whether they were playing second-run or not?

A. I think they were not playing, they were not playing.

Q. As I recall your testimony before lunch, after you began to play second-run the prices at the Malone Theatre then were changed from 40 to 30 downstairs and 20 to 30 in the Balcony?

A. Yes.

Q. And you continued to change——

A. 25 cents.

Q. 25 cents, and when was the next change made, if any, in the admission price at the Malone and your theatre?

A. I couldn't say for sure about the date. There was some change.

The Court: You said you made it during rush hours, certain rush hours, 15 cents.

[fol. 3367] Mr. Wright: Yes.

Q. When was that change made when you dropped your price to 15 cents, during what hour was that?

A. Between 6:30 and 7 o'clock.

Q. When was it you instituted that price, as nearly as you can recall?

The Court: He said when Schine began to give the money away, he reduced his prices.

The Witness: Yes.

Q. What was the date of that?

A. I don't know the date.

Q. You can only fix it at the time the Schine Malone began to give the money away?

A. Yes, the money night.

Q. After that was there any change in the Schine balcony admission price at the Malone?

A. Well the one time the price was changed at the Malone Theatre to 15 cents at any time first-run, when I was charging 25 cents for second-run.

[fol. 3368] Q. Is that 15 cents all over the house or in the balcony?

A. It was the balcony at all times and 15 cents downstairs up to 7:30, 7 to 7:30, I don't recall exactly.

Q. What was the evening price during that period?

A. That was the evening price, that was the evening price.

Q. No, I understand the evening price in the balcony was 15 cents, but I meant the evening price downstairs.

A. Up to 7:30 or 7 o'clock, I don't recall exactly, it was 15 cents also.

Q. Perhaps I should have said after 7 o'clock, what was the price?

A. 30 cents.

Q. Can you tell us the approximate period that those prices continued?

A. Oh, it continued for approximately, I am not sure, for about 7 to 9 months.

Q. And do you know about when the beginning and end of that period was?

A. It lasted until—I don't recall exactly now, I could not tell for sure—I could not tell for sure until when it lasted.

Q. What is your best recollection as to the year in which that period began and when it finished?

A. Well, 1940.

Q. Ended in 1940?

[fol. 3369] A. About, I couldn't say for sure.

Q. It began some time in 1939?

A. Might have started in 1938 and ended in 1939, or 1939 and 1940, I don't exactly know.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this marked with the next exhibit number for identification.

(Thereupon document referred to was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 858 for identification.)

Q. I show you this clipping attached to Exhibit 858, and ask you if you recognize that as a clipping from the Malone Evening Telegram for January 10th, 1939?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see that at the time it appeared in the paper?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, with reference to the time you saw this newspaper item, identified as Exhibit 858, can you tell us whether about that time, or before or after you had any conversation with any representatives of the Schine Company?

A. After I saw this clipping in the paper, some time after, I took a trip to Albany and I was discussing this article with some branch manager in Albany.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have that stricken out. He was asked when he next had a talk with the Schine representative.

[fol. 3370] Mr. Wright: Will you read that question again? I think you will notice the question asked only for a conversation with the Schine Company.

The Witness: With the Schine?

Q. Yes.

A. The day that this article came out in the paper I was out of town myself.

Q. Did you see it when you got back?

A. I saw it when I got back.

Q. How many days later was that, do you remember?

A. About one day after.

Q. Did you have any talk with any one from the Schine Company after you got back and saw the article?

A. No.

Q. Then during the year 1938, did you have any conversations with any representatives of Schine?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. And how about during the year 1939?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When in 1939?

A. I can't exactly tell you the date of when it was, but it was late in the fall.

Q. The fall of 1939?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 3371] Q. Whom did you see then?

A. I saw Mr. Art Newman, representing the Branch Office——

Q. I don't think you understood the question. I asked you about who you saw from the Schine Company?

A. Schine?

Q. Yes.

Mr. McClennen: This is in the fall of 1939?

Mr. Wright: I so understand.

The Witness: Mr. Lynch, George Lynch.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. In my office.

Q. Where was that? At Malone?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who else was present?

A. Mr. Arty Newman.

Q. Who was he?

A. He represented Republic Pictures, Branch Manager of Albany.

Q. What was said then?

A. Well, the talk was——

Mr. McClennen: This, in this form, is objected to. Who said what?

The Court: State what was said.

Q. Give us the substance of the conversation as near as you can recall it.

[fol. 3372] A. Mr. Lynch and Mr. Newman said we were both working our heads off and not getting anywhere.

Mr. McClennen: May that go out, if your Honor please? The head has apparently stayed on.

The Court: Who said that?

The Witness: Mr. Lynch and Mr. Newman.

The Court: Both said it?

The Witness: Yes, one was saying one thing and the other was saying another thing.

The Court: You are saying now they both said the same thing?

The Witness: Well, pretty near.

The Court: Tell what Mr. Lynch said and what Mr. Newman said.

The Witness: I remember Mr. Lynch said to me that I think I was better to try to lease my theatre to Schine and that would be better for you, and better for the Schine organization, and let this fight be over with.

Q. What did you say?

A. I said I would lease them the place.

The Court: You would what?

The Witness: I told them I would lease them the place.

Q. Did you have any discussion with them then about terms?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 3373] Q. What was said about that?

A. I gave them my terms, and it was perfectly O. K. Mr. Lynch went out of my office——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment.

The Court: Perfectly O. K. might mean different things. What sis he say?

The Witness: He said to me "I will have to go out for a few minutes to make a telephone call".

The Court: All right.

The Witness: And he went out to the hotel and he told me at that time when he came back that he had called up Mr. Myer Schine personally in Florida, and that he has agreed that he will take my place at that term that we made.

Q. Was that all the conversation you had with him then?

A. Yes, that is all.

Mr. Wright: Have you the exhibits 82 and 83, I think they were, the agreements between this witness and the Schine Company? Are those marked for identification, or are they in evidence?

Mr. McClennen: Here are identifications 81 and 82.

Mr. Wright: I think those are the numbers.

Q. I will show you these, a lease marked for identifica- [fol. 3374] tion as Exhibit No. 81 and an agreement marked for identification as Exhibit 82, and ask you if you recognize those as copies of agreements that you made with the Schine Theatrical Company with reference to your theatre at Malone?

While the witness is looking over those, I would like to read an answer from the interrogatories with reference to Malone; interrogatory No. 31, under "Location", is the statement "Pearl Street, Malone, New York." "Nature of interest, option to buy or lease."

"Date of acquisition, January 10th, 1938."

"From whom acquired, Theresa Hines."

"Date on which interest terminated, February 10th, 1939."

"Nature of improvement now existing, commercial building."

Can you answer the question now? Will you read it to him again?

(Preceding question read.)

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will offer these exhibits 81 and 82 in evidence. Those were copies which were produced by Schine, and identified, I believe, at either New York or here.

[fol. 3375] (Thereupon lease previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 81 for identification was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon agreement previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 82 for identification was received in evidence.)

The Court: This is the second lease, is it? The testimony was that there was a prior lease which had expired.

Mr. Wright: I should have read the dates of these. Yes, this is the lease, Exhibit 81, is dated February 14th, 1941.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Wright: The agreement, Exhibit 82, memorandum of agreement, is dated January 21, 1941, preceding the making of the lease.

The Court: My point is, Schine had leased these premises once before?

Mr. Wright: Before the witness began to operate the theatre, yes, that was in 1936.

Mr. McClennen: Five years before, if your Honor please, and it had expired.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I call your attention to the date of this agreement, Exhibit No. 82, which is January 21, 1941; is that about [fol. 3376] the date that that agreement was made?

The Court: How is that? Is that about the date the agreement was made?

The Witness: Yes, the second one was made in January.

Q. Was there any difference in the terms of this agreement marked as Exhibit 82 in evidence and the agreement that you had or the terms that you had discussed with George Lynch in the fall of 1939?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, he has not yet stated what those terms were.

The Court: He can state what they were.

Q. What were the terms you discussed in 1939 with George Lynch which you just referred to?

A. The price was to be $8600 a year.

Q. The rent, you mean?

A. Yes, and I had to give my services for one year at $70 a week.

Q. In what capacity?

A. As a manager.

The Court: You mean you would receive that in addition to the $8600?

The Witness: Yes, $70 a week as a manager for one year.

Q. Then after you made this agreement marked as Exhibit 82, did you then enter the employ of the Schine Company?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 3377] Q. In what capacity?

A. As a manager.

Q. Of what theatre?

A. Of the Malone Theatre.

Q. What was done with the Plaza?

A. Well, the Plaza was operating three days a week, and with the manager of the—Mr. Mead that used to operate the Malone Theatre.

Q. Then how long did you continue as manager of the Malone?

A. About two years, just about, about, I can't say for sure, it might be a couple of months more or a couple of months less, but about two years.

Q. Then have you had anything to do with the theatre since that time?

A. No.

Q. Except as lessor?

A. No.

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment, that would be after May 19, 1942.

Mr. Wright: I suppose as to what has happened to him it is perfectly competent to take him down to the present time.

The Court: When did the two years expire, about what time?

Mr. Wright: Some time in 1943.

[fol. 3378] The Witness: 1943.

Mr. Wright: I don't think it is of any great importance. Just to make the story coherent, I suppose we ought to know.

The Court: I will let it stand. I don't suppose there is anything claimed for it by reason of his employment subsequent to 1942.

Mr. Wright: There is no significance one way or the other. I just wanted to complete it.

The Court: It continued through May, 1942?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. Then the operation of the Plaza Theatre, did that continue through that same period in the same way you have described?

A. Three days a week.

Q. And during this same period, after you became manager of the Malone, and through May, 1942, do you remember what the admission prices were then?

A. Well, at the time that I became manager of the Malone Theatre and was supervising at the same time the Plaza Theatre, our price was 30 cents and 25 cents at the Plaza.

Q. 30 cents, that is all seats, at the Malone?

A. No, 30 downstairs and 20 cents upstairs.

Q. Evening adult prices you are talking about?

[fol. 3379] A. Yes, sir.

Q. And 25 cents at the——

A. Plaza.

The Court: What did you say it was, 30 and 25 at the Malone?

The Witness: No, 30 and 20; 20 cents in the balcony and 30 on the mezzanine and the Plaza was operating at 25 cents, but both houses were running on the first-run pictures.

Q. That is [illegible]ring this same period?

A. Yes, si[illegible]

Q. Were there any second-run pictures played at the Plaza during that period?

A. No, not that I recall.

Q. I simply want to call your attention, Mr. Boumansour, to the paragraph in Exhibit No. 82, Paragraph 4, which states "Boumansour agrees in the event a lease is executed to deliver an agreement to Schine not to engage in the motion picture business in Malone, New York, or in any town in which Schine operates a motion picture theatre or in any town within a radius of 20 miles therefrom during the term of said lease."

Did you execute such an agreement?

The Court: He has already said he did.

Q. This refers to an agreement to make an agreement; [fol. 3380] 81 is the agreement to make the lease?

The Court: They are both in evidence, and the contract shows——

Mr. Wright: I am not sure that the agreement not to compete is in the—it is apparently not in the lease. I want to find out whether there was another agreement executed.

The Court: You mean a separate agreement?

Mr. Wright: Yes, whether we have them all here or not. Now, would you read the question?

(Last question read.)

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. Now, can you tell us about what the date of that was, or was that——

A. About a month ahead of the lease.

Q. Now, have you been able to locate a copy of that agreement?

A. Of this?

Q. No, the agreement not to compete that you just referred to.

A. To locate a copy of this?

Q. Perhaps you did not understand me. I asked you did you execute any agreement, after you made the agreement Exhibit No. 82 here, other than the agreement that is set forth in this Exhibit No. 81?

[fol. 3381] A. No.

Q. Which is the lease?

A. No.

Q. The lease agreement then is the only agreement you made?

A. That is it.

Q. I call your attention to the fact that the lease doesn't contain in it an agreement not to compete, or at least, I didn't read it there. You might look at the lease.

The Court: You called attention to it. What is your question?

Mr. Wright: Read it.

(Foregoing record read.)

Q. Did you make any other agreement with Schine with reference to leasing the theatre or not competing, other than the agreements that are set forth here in Exhibits 81 and 82?

A. I don't recall any other.

Q. Then, as far as you know, those were all that you made?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: You may cross-examine.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Did you promptly notify the Department of Justice of the making of this agreement, Exhibits 81 and 82?

[fol. 3382] A. No.

Q. You wrote the Department of Justice about it, didn't you?

A. I wrote the Department of Justice?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. What?

A. No, I don't recall that.

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark this paper for identification, please?

(Thereupon document referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-133 for identification.)

Q. Did you write the Department of Justice in the terms of D-133 for identification?

A. Yes, I did write that.

Q. You did write that?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: I offer that.

Mr. Wright: We have no objection, except that it apparently is immaterial. I don't understand what it is supposed to prove.

Mr. McClennen: Well, if you have no objection we won't discuss that.

Mr. Wright: I think the Court ought to see it.

[fol. 3383] Mr. McClennen: Well, if you object to it, why, yes.

Mr. Wright: Yes, I object to it as immaterial. I don't think it has any bearing on the suit one way or the other.

The Court: I want to see the second lease agreement there, too.

(Documents examined by the Court.)

The Court: Overruled. Received.

(Thereupon the document previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-133 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, there is no claim on our part that he had any complaint after he leased the theatre.

Mr. McClennen: No, I understand it to be the Department of Justice's contention that it is not material that he promptly notified Department of Justice of this agreement. We claim it is material.

Exhibit D-133 is addressed to the Department of Justice, Washington, D. C., and reads:

"Re U. S. against Schine, H. B. 60-6-30-33-3.

[fol. 3384] Gentlemen: This is to advise that I have succeeded in disposing of my theatre as planned. I have no further complaints. Everything is satisfactory here. Very truly yours, Michael Boumansour."

The Court: What is the date of that?

Mr. McClennen: April 4th, 1941.

The Court: All right.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. When you said that your letter to the Department of Justice was in the early part of June, 1937, had you been shown the letter of June 30th, 1937, which was produced by plaintiff's counsel here this morning?

A. I don't remember that letter.

Q. What?

A. I don't remember that letter.

The Court: Perhaps he did not understand your question.

Q. You remember that you testified this morning?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That you wrote the Department of Justice in the early part of June, 1937?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When/you testified to that——

A. Yes, sir.

Q. (Continuing)—had you been shown the date of the letter to the Department of Justice of June 30th, 1937?

A. I don't remember.

[fol. 3385] The Court: At that time when you testified you wrote to the Department early in June 1937, had you been shown this paper, purporting to be a letter dated June 30th?

The Witness: I don't remember.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. You don't remember. You arrived here in Buffalo when?

A. This trip? Do you mean this trip?

Q. This trip.

A. I arrived here Saturday morning.

Q. Saturday morning, what date?

A. I haven't got a calendar in front of me.

Q. I will tell you what the Saturdays are that occurred recently. One is the 21st of October, 1944, another is the 14th of October, 1944 and another is the 7th of October.

A. I guess the 21st.

Q. Had you been in Buffalo recently before that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you arrive that time?

A. Monday morning.

Q. Monday morning, what date?

The Court: What Monday do you mean? A week ago Monday.

The Witness: Week ago Monday.

[fol. 3386] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. That would be the 16th of October, 1944?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Since October 16, 1944 have you had your attention called to this letter of June 30, 1937 to the Department of Justice?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When?

A. Just about a week ago.

Q. About a week ago?

A. That Monday that I came here.

Q. That is some one of the attorneys for the United States showed you that letter of June 30, 1937?

A. Personally, I asked to see the file.

Q. You asked to see it?

A. Yes.

Q. And you saw it and you were in the office of the Counsel for the United States when you saw it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when you said that it was the early part of June 1937 did you recall that it was in fact the 30th of June, 1937?

A. It was written the 30th of June 1937.

Q. Yes, and when you said it was written in the early part of June 1937, did you remember that it was actually [fol. 3387] written on the 30th of June, 1937?

A. Really, it has been so long that I don't recall all these dates.

Q. Let us go back to see how long your memory really is. You have just said that in the office of the Counsel for the United States last week you saw this letter of June 30, 1937. Do you remember saying that?

A. Maybe I did.

Q. Maybe you did. Well, the reason that you just testified that you did was because you thought that you did?

A. Yes, even if you ask me again, I will have to say it over again. If it is really the 30th, because my memory is very vague.

Q. What I have asked you is having seen that letter dated June 30th, 1937 last week, did you remember this morning that that was the date of the letter?

A. I will have to see it over again in order to testify for sure, because all my dates I give you, it is only possible that is the date, because I don't recall any of these dates.

Mr. McClennen: May I see the letter?

Mr. Wright: It is right up there in front of the witness.

Mr. McClennen:

Q. This Exhibit 857 for identification you say that you saw in the office of the United States counsel last week? [fol. 3388] A. This letter?

Q. Yes.

A. No. I saw a file but not this. I wasn't even interested.

Q. And counsel for the United States showed you this letter?

A. This letter? No. I saw another file but I didn't see this.

Q. Oh, you didn't see this letter. You did see a file of correspondence of yours?

A. No. Do you want to know what I saw?

Q. I want to know as far as you know, and I only want to know that far. In going over the matter in the office of the counsel for the United States you now say that you were not shown this letter for identification number 857?

A. No.

Q. When did you make up your mind to say that that letter was written in the early part of June? (There was a pause.)

The Court: Can you canswer?

The Witness: I can't answer that question. It is a question that makes me say why I said it was in the early part of June.

Q. What?

A. Well, I thought it was in the early part of June.

Q. When did you make up your mind that it was in the early part of June, 1937 that you wrote this letter dated [fol. 3389] June 30th, 1937?

A. I can't even answer you.

Q. What?

A. I can't even answer your question.

Q. Was it last Saturday, 1944?

A. When did I tell you that, this morning? I told you that this morning. It was this morning that I made my mind up it was the early part of June?

Q. Do you remember just what it was that led you to make up your mind this morning that it was in the early part of June that you wrote this letter of June 30, 1937?

A. Yes. I could make up my mind, if you want to let me explain.

The Court: Just answer the question, and we will get along faster.

(Last question was read.)

The Court: It calls for a Yes or No answer.

A. Yes, I could explain.

Q. You never made up your mind to give that answer until the morning of October 23rd, 1944, have you?

Mr. Wright: That assumes, if the Court please, that he made up his mind at some other previous time as to what to say. There isn't any evidence of that at all.

The Court: I don't know. It may be just at that time [fol. 3390] or prior to that time. The question is tell when you made up your mind, the date. Was it in the early part of June. Now counsel asked you if you made up your mind today, the time when you testified you made up your mind.

A. Your Honor, I knew why I told June, because I knew what happened in June, and I was exhausted and I had to do such things. I do remember it was in June. I don't remember if it was the first part of June or the last part, but I remember it is early part of June. I see the letter the 30th of June and it is the 30th of June.

Q. You have testified to a contract that Mr. Ayres showed to you, concerning which you said that the prices were too high but you signed it?

A. Yes. I don't say exactly it is Mr. Ayres either. It is either one, Mr. Ayres or Mr. Smith. I don't exactly recall if it is Mr. Smith or Mr. Ayres.

Q. You have no memory whatever of which it was?

A. One of the two.

Q. But you don't remember at all. Your mind is perfectly blank?

A. Yes.

Q. As to which it was.

Mr. McClennen: I will ask to have this marked for iden-[fol. 3391]tification.

Mr. Wright: Is that a contract by Warner? We were asked for those contracts and we were told they were not available.

The Court: We haven't got through.

Mr. McClennen: I think it would be desirable to have it marked for identification.

Mr. Wright: So do I. I think it would be desirable in the future that contracts be made available to us the same time they are to you, but we subpoened them.

The Court: Mark it.

(Contract referred to was marked Defendant's Exhibit D-134 for Identification.)

Q. Is this your signature on Exhibit D-134 for identification, your signature is what I was asking you. You will find it down at the bottom of the contract. Is that you signature?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that the contract which Mr. Ayres or Mr. Smith showed you and in which you criticised the prices in and then signed.
A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you dated in some pictures at the time of that [fol. 3392] interview, did you not?
A. I don't remember.

Q. Well, perhaps I misunderstood your testimony. I will ask you definitely, did you date in some pictures, on the date that you signed that contract, protesting about the expense or the price of that?
A. I might have. I don't say I didn't.

Mr. McClennen: I will now ask to have this paper marked for identification.

(Contract thereupon marked Defendant's Exhibit D-135 for identification.)

Q. I show you paper marked Defendant's Exhibit D-135 signed by you?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall on that same date you made a contract with Warner for some first-run as well as for some second-run pictures?
A. I don't remember. I may have. If they were pictures.

Q. Look at this Exhibit D-135 and see. Aren't those pictures?
A. Those are gun pictures.

Q. Then I will go back. Do you recall that you made a contract with Warner for some gun pictures on that same day?

[fol. 3393] A. On that say- day?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't remember, sir.

Q. These are gun pictures which you contracted for first-run on that same day?

A. I don't remember now if they are first or second-run. Does it say on it? It must be.

Q. You look at it. I am asking for your recollection about it.

A. Yes, it says first-run on the contract.

The Court: First-run on the contract?

The Witness: Yes, that must have been first-run pictures.

Q. At the time of your signing D-134, Mr. Ayres, or Mr. Smith put before you a contract for 60 pictures of the Warner and First National productions of the '36-'37 season, second-run, did he not?

A. Yes, there is 60 pictures here, I guess.

The Court: Would those be D-134 you say, is that the contract, what does D-134 include?

Mr. McClennen: 134 is the one referred to for 60 second-run pictures.

The Court: For 1936-37?

Mr. McClennen: For the 1936-37 product.

The Court: You now just asked him about another contract which calls for 60 pictures.

[fol. 3394] Mr. McClennen: That is the one. 134 is the 60 pictures.

(Previous question read.)

The Court: These two contracts, I take it, are the same date, one is for a year's first-run.

Mr. McClennen: At the same time that he put before you the contract for the second-run, the 60 pictures he put before you a contract for six gun pictures, first-run?

The Court: He testified to it before that.

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. And that was on the 14th of June, 1937?

A. That is what I said there.

Q. At the time of testifying that your letter dated June 30th, 1937, was sent in the early part of June, 1937, you had in mind a reason why it was important to get that letter into the early part of June, 1937, did you not?

A. I can't remember, but I know.

Q. I ask you whether you had in mind why it was important.

A. I couldn't answer you that.

Q. Did you have any conversation with Mr. D. Struwe, a Warner salesman in the early part of 1937?

A. Yes, I believe I did.

Q. And did you say to him that you intended to go into a [fol. 3395] second-run policy starting May 1, 1937?

A. Maybe I did.

Q. And did he offer you a 60-picture deal, and you say that you only wanted 30 at that time, these relating to the present season '36-'37, and did he then offer you 30 pictures of '35-'36 product, second-run, and you say that you would not consider any proposition except a thirty-picture deal on the present season?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Is there anything in your memory to the contrary of that?

A. I couldn't tell you contrary and I couldn't tell you for either side.

Q. Now, can you tell me whether such conversation as you did have with him occurred in the early part of February, 1937?

A. I don't remember it.

Q. You do remember, don't you that you told him that you wanted only 30 pictures at that time?

A. I don't remember that, also.

Q. And do you remember now that he offered you 30 pictures of the 1935-36 season or 60 of the 1936-37 season?

A. I don't remember that, either.

Q. Well, I noticed there is the reference to May 1st, as the time when you were thinking of beginning on your second-run policy. How long before that did you talk with [fol. 3396] anybody connected with Warner's, either salesman, or branch manager, concerning the second-run product for that policy you were thinking of beginning May 1st, 1937?

A. That must have been before June that I talked with mostly all film exchanges in Albany that I would like to go into a second-run policy.

Q. That is before June, you had that?

A. Before June.

Q. And before May, 1937, you had had that talk, hadn't you?

A. I don't remember before May, but I knew it was before June.

Q. Do you remember whether Mr. Struwe's visit to you was before or after you had mentioned your second-run policy to either Mr. Ayres or Mr. Smith?

A. I don't remember, sir.

Q. You don't remember whether it was before or after? You never came to a willingness to take the whole 60 Warner pictures at the Warner prices until June 14th, 1937, did you?

A. No, I couldn't answer you that, either.

[fol. 3397] Q. You had two talks with Mr. Grassgreen about selling you Fox second-run, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how far apart were those two talks?

A. Between May and later; between May and later on.

Q. That is the first one?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was in May?

A. I couldn't tell you for sure; it was while I was in Albany on other business, I called on him, but I could not tell you for sure which exact months.

Q. It was some time before May, wasn't it?

A. Not for second-run. I have seen him for some slough pictures, before.

Q. Wasn't it some time before May, 1937, that you talked with him about second-run?

A. Maybe I did, too, I don't say I didn't.

Q. What is the first time that you remember talking with him on the second-run subject for your Plaza Theatre in Malone,—Mr. Grassgreen?

A. I couldn't tell you for sure which date, it is impossible.

Q. Well, may it have been in February?

A. Could have been in May, could have been in January, it could have been in December, I don't recall.

Q. That is, December of 1936?
[fol. 3398] A. Surely. I don't recall.

Q. That is, as a matter of fact, you are wholly unable to state the date of the conversation?

A. No.

Q. That is true, is it?

A. That is true.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I make this part of the cross-examination without waiving my objection to the Grassgreen conversation.

Q. Will you tell me the first time you saw Mr. Grassgreen, what you said and what he said on the subject of letting you have second-run?

A. The first time?

Q. The first time?

A. About second-run?

Q. About second-run.

A. I don't remember, sir.

Q. Well, but didn't you tell us this morning?

A. I told you about first-run, maybe; I didn't tell you about second-run.

Q. Not about second run?

A. Maybe I did, but I don't remember the date.

Q. But if you did tell us——

A. I know I have called on all of the exchanges.
[fol. 3399] Q. Just a moment, I was asking you about Mr. Grassgreen?

Q. Do you remember a word that Mr. Grassgreen said to you on the subject of second-run?

A. I don't.

Q. You don't?

A. Yes, if I can remember the words?

Q. You don't remember?

A. Yes, I do remember the words, I will go twenty years more, and I will remember them.

Q. That is what I asked you; tell me, not giving the date, but on the first occasion when you discussed second-run with Mr. Grassgreen, what did you say to him and what did he say to you?

A. What did I say to him and what he told me, is that what you want to know?

Q. That is what I asked you.

A. I asked him if there was a possible chance of getting second-run pictures. He laughed and he said "Bouman-sour, forget about it, we are not interested at all of selling second-run to Malone, because we have a franchise with our first-run, and we are satisfied, so just forget about it."

Q. Is that all that he said?

A. That I remember.

[fol. 3400] Q. Now, did you have another conversation with him on the subject of second-run in the spring of 1937?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember any?

A. No.

Q. And you don't remember anything that was——

A. I must have had, because——

Q. Not what you must have had; you don't remember any?

A. No.

Q. And you don't remember in any of the conversations as to second-run with Mr. Grassgreen any variation from what you have described in this first conversation?

A. I remember seeing him once in a restaurant. I was downtown in Albany and I asked him something about it, and he said "Come over and see me at the office," and I don't know if I did go that time or not, but I remember he sent me a letter to that effect, that he could not sell me second-run pictures, because on account they had a good first-run account in the town, and they were pleased with the income of it, and they didn't want any more.

Q. Just a moment. All I asked you was what he said, not about a letter; what did he say about second-run in the restaurant or subsequent to the meeting in the restaurant in conversation to you about second-run?

[fol. 3401] A. That is exactly the same what he wrote me in the letter.

Q. Well, if it was exactly what he wrote you in the letter, then tell us what he said without reference to the letter; what did he say in his talk with you and what was all that he said on the second-run subject?

A. I just told you. I been repeating that conversation over and over again.

Q. I am sorry to bother you, to ask you.

A. No bother.

Q. To ask you to state again in the language that it occurred what he said?

A. He said that they have one first-one customer in the Town of Malone, and they were satisfied with the income of it, and they had no room for a second-run with their Company.

Q. And that is all that he said in any of those spring interviews on the subject of second-run, is it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In a conversation that he had with you either in the very early part of May, 1937 or before that, did he inform you that if you would buy 100 per cent product, he would consider the deal and advise you immediately as to his disposition in the matter of a second-run sale?

A. If he did tell me that?

Q. That was the question.

[fol. 3402] A. Well, this question never was brought up to me.

Q. He never said anything of that kind?

A. No, I would have kissed his hand back and forth if he ever did.

Q. I didn't catch that last.

A. I said I would have kissed his hand back and forth.

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark this for identification?

(Thereupon document referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-136 for identification.)

Q. Is this your signature on D-136 for identification? Perhaps you can tell right from looking at the signature without reading the whole of the letter?

A. Yes, I wrote that.

Q. That is your signature?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, I will ask you is this the truth,—"I" meaning you and "you" meaning Mr. Grassgreen,—under date of May 6th, 1937:

"Some time ago when in Albany I had a talk with you in regard to second-run policy. You informed me at that time that if I would buy 100 per cent product, you would consider the deal and advise me immediately as to your disposition in this matter."

Is that a true statement?

[fol. 3403] A. Yes, I wrote that.

Q. Now, when he said that he would consider such a product, did you kiss his hand back and forth?

A. He never considered it at all.

Q. I asked you if you kissed his hand back and forth when he told you that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did?

A. At that time?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, this talk——

Q. No, no, just the hand and the kiss.

A. I didn't kiss him.

Q. You didn't?

A. No, I didn't kiss him.

Q. Well, now, that conversation was some time before 1937, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: May I see that, please?

(Defendants' Exhibit D-136 handed to and inspected by Mr. Wright.)

Q. Well, now, why didn't you kiss his hand back and forth when he made that proposition to you?

A. Why, because my theatre wasn't open at that time. I asked him. My theatre wasn't open at that time. I asked [fol. 3404] him, when he refused me first-run, I asked him if there was a possibility of second-run.

Q. In what month was that?

A. That was before I opened up. It must be early October, or something like that.

Q. Early October?

A. '36.

Q. 1936. So that when you said your conversations with him on the subject of second-run were between December and May, you were in error, were you not?

A. No, I wouldn't say I was in error.

Q. Now, when you opened and for some months thereafter, with the Republic and Monogram first-run and rejects of the first-run of the other distributors, you had a sufficient number of pictures with which to operate your theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you didn't consider the matter of going to a second-run until you found that you were getting short of first-run pictures, is that correct?

A. Correct, sir.

Q. Can you remember whether you had any conversation with any distributor's representative as to second-run [fol. 3405] pictures before your conversation with the Warner representative?

A. Sure, I did.

Q. You are sure of that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, now, which one did you have any talk with before the early part of February, 1937, and I arrest your attention on the date that I showed you in the Struwe matter?

A. I don't remember, sir, the date.

Q. Do you remember any with any other distributor's representative before the early part of February, 1937, or earlier than the talk with Mr. Struwe on the subject of second-run?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Can you remember of any one of them with which you discussed second-run before you discussed it with Mr. Struwe?

A. I never discussed anything with Mr. Struwe, never did.

Q. You told Mr. Struwe, didn't you that you were thinking of going to second-run May 1st?

A. If I tell him? I told him——

Q. Yes.

A. I don't remember telling him; but I didn't do any business with him.

[fol. 3406] Q. Came to see you, didn't he?

A. Oh, he used to come in every time he came to Malone. I might have told him, too, you see.

Q. Do you remember mentioning your plan of going to second-run at any time before you talked with Mr. Struwe on that subject?

A. I was planning even to go into second-run before I did even open the theatre at all.

Q. What I asked you was, whether you remembered any talk about getting second-run pictures with any distributor's representative before a talk with Mr. Struwe on that subject?

A. Sure.

Q. Well, now, keeping in mind the early part of February, 1937, tell me in person in each distributor's office, with whom you had discussed——

A. Second-run?

Q. Second-run?

A. With all the major distributors.

Q. No, no. The persons, the names.

A. The names?

Q. Yes.

A. I will give you Mr. Pielow.

Q. Mr. Pielow of——

A. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. I talked with either Mr. [fol. 3407] Ayres or Mr.——

Q. Smith?

A. Smith of Warner Brothers.

Q. Yes.

A. I have talked with—talked with the Paramount Branch Manager.

Q. Mr. Eastman?

A. Eastman, and Mr. Fox of Columbia.

Q. Columbia?

A. Mr. D. C. Flannigan of R.K.O.

Q. Do you remember any others you talked with about second-run before this talk with Mr. Struwe?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, what others?

A. Mr. Grassgreen of Fox.

Q. Grassgreen of Fox, and what others?

A. Well, that is the ones I talked with.

Q. Is that all?

A. Pretty near.

Q. Let us make it complete. Did you talk with somebody from Universal?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was that?

A. I don't remember. I don't remember the name of the branch manager at that time, because they changed in a [fol. 3408] short time the manager, and I don't recall.

Q. And did you talk with any branch manager of United Artists?

A. No, I met him once, a few months after that, in Albany. They have no branch in Albany, but I met him. He was——

Q. Then all these others you talked with about your project of second-run before February, 1937, did you?

A. I don't remember, sir, if it was before that.

Q. You have no recollection whatever of ever talking with any one of them before the talk with Mr. Pielow?

A. I have talked with them regarding second-run, but the date and the time I can't tell you.

Q. You have no present recollection of talking with any of them before the talk with Mr. Pielow in the early part of February, 1937?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Well, do you remember when Mr. Pielow talked over the matter with you, whether or not you had had any proposition for a second-run?

A. Yes, I had, sir.

Q. Before his?

A. No, if I had a proposition already from any other person for second-run, no, at that time, when I asked him for second-run, there was no other proposition coming in.

[fol. 3409] Q. And do you remember now when it was that you saw that the rejects and the Monogram and the Republic first-run were likely not to last you much longer in the operation of the theatre?

A. Well, when I was exhausted of Republic, oh, four or five years previously——

Q. I am asking you the time.

A. The time?

Q. When you foresaw that your Monogram, Republic and rejects of the other distributors were likely to prove short of your requirements; when that was?

A. That was around May.

Q. May of 1937?

A. 1937, around, I don't say for sure, either.

Q. But that is the best you can fix the date, around May?

A. It might be May; it might be June.

Q. What is your best recollection as to the time?

A. Oh, I would say between May and June.

Q. And when you saw the possibility that you wouldn't have enough of these first-run, did you take up for consideration the matter of going on with the first-run as far as you could and getting some second-run in addition to help you out?

A. I could not answer you that, sir.

Q. You don't remember giving any consideration to that?

[fol. 3410] A. Myself, particularly?

Q. Yourself.

A. I would have rather opened up with second-run, but I could not get the merchandise to open up, so that is why I had to take what was on the market.

Q. I was asking you about——

A. I know what you asked.

Q. Why not answer it instead of saying something else?

A. You put us in a position, so we have to answer you some way to clear your mind of what is going on.

Q. I see.

A. ~~Yes.~~

Q. I am glad you got that point.

A. Yes.

Q. What I asked you was, when the time was when you foresaw the possibility of the Monogram and Republic and other rejects proving insufficient to run your theatre, and taking up the consideration of getting some second-run, and you told me that it might have been in May or June, 1937. Now, what I have asked you is, did you consider the possibility of keeping on with your first-run as far as that would go and supplementing it with second-run; did you consider that possibility?

A. I can't answer that, neither.

Q. You have no recollection of considering that?

[fol. 3411] A. No.

Q. Well, does it lie in your mind that there was a time when you wanted to get 30 second-run pictures right away in order to show them?

A. I don't remember.

Q. And isn't it a fact that at that time Mr. Struwe told you that he would sell you the whole 60 of the 1936-37 run, but wouldn't sell you half of them?

A. There was never any business connection between me and Mr. Struwe about pictures. He used to come in as visiting, but never talked of business, because he was never allowed to talk business with me. That is what he always told me. He never talked business with me.

[fol. 3412] Q. Well, whether we call it business or not, you did tell him that you were intending to go to a second-run policy?

A. I may have.

Q. And you told him that you were planning to start it about May 1st?

A. I may have.

Q. And he offered you a sixty-picture deal and you said you only wanted thirty?

A. Never offered me any deal.

Q. Well, now, I wish you would look at this memorandum and see if it is not an accurate memorandum of a conversation between Mr. Strueme and you. That is the only one that relates to you.

A. I never had any business as far as a picture deal with Mr. Strueme.

Q. That isn't what I asked you. I asked you if that is not an accurate memorandum of that conversation?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember anything but what that is true, do you?

A. No.

Mr. Wright: Has that been identified?

Mr. McClennen: No. I will have the memorandum which I have shown the witness identified, being a memorandum [fol. 3413] of February 4, 1937 and approximately identified as being that which relates to the Plaza, Malone.

(Memorandum referred to was marked Defendant's Exhibit D-137 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: Do you mind if I see it?

(Document handed to Mr. Wright.)

Q. From 1922 to the fall of 1936 did you have any dealings with the branch managers of any of the distributors at Albany?

A. Between 1922 and 1936? I don't remember.

Q. Did you have any moving picture business in those 14 years?

A. Part time, yes.

Q. At the Plaza?

A. Yes.

Q. What was that part time operation? Give us the time of it.

A. I don't remember exactly now, but it was at least several times. I don't recall exactly now how long I have run the theatre myself.

Q. Can you recall any period from 1922 to 1936 when you operated the theatre yourself?

A. No, I don't remember.

Q. Is it your best recollection that you did not operate [fol. 3414] the theatre in that period?

A. I know that between 1922 and 1936 that was fourteen years——

Q. Perhaps that figure will enable you to answer the question, whether you operated yourself a moving picture theatre in that period?

~~A. I remember operating~~ it, but I don't remember how long, and what was the term?

Q. Between those years?

A. Yes, I did operate the place.

Q. What was it between 1922 and 1936 that you operated?

A. Because the theatre was opened. I opened this myself.

Q. What is the period, I am asking you.

A. I don't remember.

Q. Give us some idea.

A. I haven't any idea. I haven't got these figures.

Q. Did you operate that theatre at any time between——

A. Yes, after it was completed. I operated it.

Q. That was back in 1922?

A. 1922.

Q. For a year or so?

A. I don't remember how long, but I knew after I operated it for a short time the competition was very severe, I leased it for five years.

Q. And you leased it in about 1923?

[fol. 3415] A. Maybe.

Q. After that time——

A. I took possession of it.

Q. After that time?

A. After the five years.

Q. After that time in 1923 up to 1936 did you operate yourself?

A. I think I did for a short time.

Q. When was that?

A. I don't recall the date.

Q. Was it in 1928 or thereabouts?

A. I couldn't tell you for sure.

Q. Did you operate that theatre at any time between 1930 and 1936?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Between 1930 and 1936 did you have dealings with the branch managers at Albany of the various distributors, as far as you can recall?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember of any?

A. No.

Q. And you were in Europe in 1935?

A. Yes.

Q. And after the time of your seeing the branch managers as you testified to it, in the fall of 1936, you have had [fol. 3416] no occasion to deal with those particular branch managers, had you?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Did you know the policy, I mean, of changes a week on which the Malone Theatre was operating in the period a year or two prior to the end of their lease in September, 1936?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you know whether or not they were operating on a policy of four changes a week in that period of say the season of 1934-1935 up to the end of 1936?

A. Well, I made a check of that,

Q. And was that the policy?

A. The policy of three changes a week and four changes a week.

Q. Three of those changes were double features and one single feature?

A. Three changes of double some weeks, three changes of double and one change of single.

Q. Very soon after you opened, did you place an advertisement in the newspaper that the newspaper ad as a coupon with 25 cents would admit two adults to your theatre?

A. Yes.

Q. That is, almost at the outset you advertised a virtual 12 and one-half cents admission?

[fol. 3417] A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were operating at that time on first-run pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And soon after did you institute a dish give-away?

A. Yes.

Q. Those dishes cost what, something like 10 or 11 cents apiece?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that with a 12-½ cents admission you could get an 11 cent dish, is that it?

A. No.

Q. 25 cents admission for one and the other going in free, we will say, with a coupon?

A. No.

Q. You couldn't get an 11-cent dish?

A. No.

Q. What kind of dishes were those that you could get at that time?

A. They were ten-cent dishes.

Q. Ten-cent dishes.

A. Yes, but we were not giving it away to a person who goes in for 12½ cents.

Q. How much did he or she have to pay?

A. The person that has a dish has to pay the regular price [fol. 3418] of 25 cents.

The Court: A Dish for each one of them, everyone of them?

The Witness: No, just the ladies.

Q. Very early in 1937 you instituted the prize contests also, did you not?

A. Prize?

Q. Prize contests.

A. I don't know what you mean.

The Court: Prize contests.

Q. Give away a prize on some contest?

A. I don't remember that.

Q. You don't remember anything of that?

A. No.

Q. After you instituted your second-run policy you used at times to announce from the stage, did you not, to patrons that there is no use wasting their money paying high prices to see pictures anywhere else, that they would be coming along soon in your house?

A. I said that on one picture.

Q. Which picture was that?

A. It was a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

Q. What was the picture?

A. "Boystown."

Q. Pretty good picture, wasn't it?

A. You bet, a darn good one.

[fol. 3419] Q. You made that announcement?

A. Yes.

Q. At the time that the picture was playing in the other theatre, did you not?

A. If you will let me explain.

Q. No, just that time, it doesn't require any explanation. Did you tell us it was when that other picture was playing in the other theatre, was it?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you at all familiar with the Code of Fair Practices in the moving picture industry that the President approved in November, 1933?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you knew that that had been disapproved?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you instituted a policy of "Lucky", did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell us what "Lucky" is.

A. "Lucky"?

Q. Yes, describe it.

A. Lucky is a game very similar to Bingo.

The Court: Similar to what?

The Witness: Similar to Bingo. Your Honor, you have five beans and you put them on the B*I*N*G*O and in Lucky, Lucky is just contrary to Bingo. It is just to make [fols. 3420-3422] it from Bingo to Lucky. It is a game very much like Bingo.

The Court: You play it in the theatre, you mean.

The Witness: Yes.

Q. You instituted that in your theatre in 1937?

A. I don't remember, but I had the Lucky game?

Q. What?

A. I said I don't remember the date, but I had the game.

Q. You sought to have the distributors make you an allowance for the cost to you of the Lucky performance, did you not?

A. On some percentage pictures.

The Court: I think we had better suspend at this time until tomorrow morning ten o'clock.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until Tuesday, October 24th, 1944, at 10 a.m.)

[fol. 3423] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, October 24th, 1944, 10 o'clock A.M.

Appearances: Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Philip Marcus, Esq., and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorneys, in behalf of the United States.

[fol. 3424] PROCEEDINGS

The Court: I have examined a portion of the proposed exhibits and referred to the objections raised in them. I understood you yesterday to say that while your objections applied to all of them, certain of those were not objected to. I got that impression.

Mr. McClennen: No, they are all objected to.

The Court: I thought you said perhaps some of them were not included.

Mr. McClennen: Some of them had special objections that are not referred to in the general narrative, because those were not applicable to all of them.

The Court: I thought there were some. While your objections were general, I thought you meant there were certain of them that there was no objection to. The point of my statement is simply this: Admission of these documents involves a question about which the Court should be specially careful, I think, so I would like you to submit some authorities if you have them that will bear on the question of the admission of these documents. Some of them may [fol. 3425] be differentiated, I don't know. I did not examine enough of them to determine that. I went home last night and went over some of these, the general character of them.

Mr. McClennen: We have submitted our authorities in the preliminary printed memorandum, and I referred to them in the notation.

The Court: Does that cover the question of the admission of inter-company communications?

Mr. McClennen: It seemed to me that it did.

The Court: What have you to say, Mr. Wright?

Mr. Wright: We will be glad to submit a further memorandum, if your Honor please. I think at the time we submitted a trial brief, we also included a general discussion of authorities with reference to admissibility of evidence of that character. Of course, as to a specific discussion of each, we can give your Honor a memorandum with respect to any particular document that you may have some question about.

The Court: What I am concerned with is the question of the introduction of these inter-company reports and answers as concerns the question of necessity of the produc- [fol. 3426] tion of the authors of these communications. These are admissible, I take it, as inter-company statements, made by one who is a co-conspirator.

Mr. Wright: As I understood the question of necessity of production, it was settled last June at the time it was raised in the course of offering those documents. At that time your Honor ruled that it was not necessary to produce the author. The proof you would require was proof that it came from the company's files, and proof as to who these people were who wrote and received them, and that is the proof we made.

Mr. Rogers: I don't recall any general ruling.

Mr. Wright: The ruling, I think, is on page 305 of the transcript.

The Court: That might depend upon just what it was.

Mr. McClennen: Reference to your Honor's rulings are noted—objections to which your Honor is referring begin in the record at page 3285, and on page 3286 there is a reference to the action of the Court before, and it does not militate against any of the objections made at this time. [fol. 3427] Your Honor, at an early stage in the case was careful repeatedly to say that these various things, both the oral and the written, were received only subject to being connected up with the defendants. Now, we are approaching the end of the plaintiff's case. No such connection with the defendants has been made, and there is nothing to be admitted further on an expectation of something to come in the course of the plaintiff's case. I submit that the position which your Honor took at that time in no way affects the action which the Court should now take on the objections that are now made, and they rest upon their own intrinsic soundness, and the places in the brief or memorandum on this question of admissibility of evidence are referred to on page 3287 and 3288 of the record by specific reference to the pages of the printed memorandum where those authorities occur.

The Court: The plaintiff's, do you mean?

Mr. McClennen: No, if I said "plaintiff's" I am sorry. I meant defendants' memorandum of authorities.

[fol. 3428] The Court: I wish you would just submit anything you want to, because there is a question in my mind as to whether the action the Court has taken meets the situation now, or whether it does not. There is a specific situation presented rather than a general proposition. Perhaps the broad question is whether the proposition refers to all the files of one of the co-conspirators rather than to these matters in question. That is the broad question here.

Mr. McClennen: Of course, our fundamental contention with respect to that is that the evidence has shown no conspirator in respect to any of the matters to which these inter-office memoranda refer, and no conspiracy has been shown that would carry within its scope any of the things that are presented in these inter-office memoranda and make them in any wise binding upon the defendants.

The Court: If we assume for the purpose of the argument that there is certain proof of a conspiracy, then what do you say as to the admissibility of these inter-company communications?

[fol. 3429] Mr. McClennen: I should submit if we went so far as to say that, we would be making a mistake, that the evidence does not warrant it.

The Court: I am only saying, assuming there is some evidence from which the Court might find that there was a conspiracy between these major companies and the defendant, still it would be questionable whether it would be competent to show communications between some manager or some branch manager with the major companies.

Mr. McClennen: I respectfully submit that the only basis on which an assumption by the Court could be made would be the evidence that has been presented, and that there cannot be pointed out any evidence which would warrant such an assumption. At this stage of the case there is no occasion to make any assumption at all. The time has arrived when the evidence has to speak on this question so that we do not have to deal with how we would deal with these papers if we made an assumption.

The Court: No, no, assuming I found there was evidence of a conspiracy, then we come to the question—even then we [fol. 3430] come to the question of the admissibility of these letters, these communications.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I was dealing only with the first question that your Honor put to me, that is, the question of conspiracy. I can make my language no more impressive to your Honor than by reading to your Honor what the Supreme Court has said, and I quote from Glasser vs. the United States, 315 United States 60, a very recent decision, never brought to your Honor's attention by the parties in this case until this memorandum of authority was handed to your Honor on September 25th, 1944. In that the Court says, and I am reading from page 8 of the memorandum: "Declarations are admissible over the objection of an alleged co-conspirator who was not present when they were made only if there is proof aliaunde that he is connected with the conspiracy. Otherwise, hearsay would lift itself by its own boot straps to the level of competent evidence." That picturesque illustration that the Court [fol. 3431] itself has used is by way of warning that these statements should not be received, and then from them infer a conspiracy. It must be shown in some other way. This case is out of the ordinary class of cases where we had some conspirators joined, so that—let me illustrate without meaning anything by the particular name—the United Artists, we will say, is joined as a conspirator, a defendant conspirator. Then the statement made by the duly authorized agent of United Artists is admissible according to the ordinary principles of evidence against United Artists. It is not admissible against Schines until there has been shown actual conspiracy between Schine and the United Artists. In the case that we are now trying, United Artists is not a party defendant and, therefore, even if the statement was one authorized by United Artists, it is not admissible at all against the defendants in this case and is, therefore, not admissible in this case before it has been shown that there was a conspiracy between that company and the defend- [fol. 3432] ants, and that the scope of that conspiracy was of such a nature that this was an authorized act done in the course of the conspiracy. Now, as I have said, I am laboring in my own words, but I know nothing more impressive with this Court than the language of the Supreme Court of the United States directly on this point. Before we could deal with these various inter-office communications, it would be necessary to arrive at a conclusion as to each particular one of those distributors whose inter-office communications is offered, and determine whether that particular distributor had conspired with the defendants. It cannot be dealt with in a group.

[fol. 3433] When we get by this question of the conspiracy then we have these other objections, many of which were not present, the ground for them not present, in the particular evidence that was presented at the time when these general objections were discussed. Now here is a piece of paper that has the typewritten name of a branch manager. There is nothing to show that he ever uttered it, nothing to show that he ever signed it, nothing to show that he dictated it and in some instances right in the documents themselves indications of error in the statement contained in the document. We could not, on the present evidence, charge that man with that paper. We don't know if it, for instance, was from, we will say, the Albany branch office. We don't know that it ever went out of the Albany branch office. These papers were collected by the distributor to present here as what they found in their files in the home office—in the branch office. We don't know whether that paper ever left the hands of the man whose typed name [fol. 3434] appears at the bottom of it or was ever seen by him after it was typed.

Now, this is not a matter of dealing with an impossible situation for proof because if it is desired to show that that man said those things then he can be called by the plaintiff as a witness, then the objections will still exist that the mere fact that he put them on paper, if he did put them on paper, does not make them any more admissible than they would be intrinsically because he testified to those facts, but then the witness would be present and his recollection could be improved by showing some of the other papers of the time and we could then determine in the ordinary course in which an issue is determined, by evidence of witnesses whom we have an opportunity to examine, whether his statement is correct or not.

Now, again, we find by comparisons in other negotiations in this case differences between the communication that was sent and the carbon copy, even, or the subsequently [fol. 3435] made copy which render into importance the rule that it is the original and not the copy that should be produced, if anything is to be produced. Of course, I am not speaking here about the matter of photostats. It was, of course, the understanding that photostats should have the place of the thing photostated and they do not lift the thing photostated into any higher plane. A photostat of a copy should not be introduced until the original has been accounted for. No paper should be introduced until it is shown that it was, in fact, signed, or at least sanctioned, by the person purporting to sign it. It should not be introduced until it has been shown he transmitted it. So that, even if we get by this question of these being transactions wholly apart from the defendants, these papers, we respectfully submit, are not admissible in evidence and they are not in any wise covered by the decision that your Honor made with respect to a particular [fol. 3436] paper that was under consideration by your Honor last May or June when some papers were admitted expressly subject to their being connected up with the defendants. Some of these papers are not within the authority that has been shown of the purported signer of them, that is, authority from his own company. The result is simply to put in hearsay testimony. The fact of the communication is of no value whatever in arriving at a result in this case. Of course it was said before that they were not offered as evidence of the truth of the statements made in the papers, but that decision has not stood in the way of subsequent reference to those papers as if they were evidence of the truth of the matters stated in them and it is almost impossible for the most learned and careful Judges to avoid getting into mind the idea that the facts stated in a piece of paper that way or the statement contained in a piece of paper of that kind is a statement of a fact which he should [fol. 3437] treat as a fact and it violates the fundamental principles and men's rights ought not to be determined on hearsay testimony, and particularly when the witness is available to be called by the plaintiff and subjected to cross-examination to test the accuracy of the statement made.

I urge upon your Honor that what occurred last May and June in no manner stands against the recognition of the correctness of the objections now presented and that with the complete consistency with the position which the Court took at that time the Court may deal with these objections on their intrinsic merits and I urge that every one of the nineteen objections is sound. Of course, one of those objections may not apply to this paper and another may not apply to that paper, but that each one of them is sound and deserving of the support of your Honor as an able, considerate Judge, dealing with a very important question in this case.

[fol. 3438] Mr. Wright: If the Court please, as Counsel has advanced the rule of evidence that I think proves all together too much for his purposes; now, in making a case, in proving a conspiracy or combination between the Schine defendants and these distributors for the purpose of eliminating or restraining competition of Schine's independent competitors, we offer proof of three kinds, or, rather, four. We show what was done, what the dealings of these independents were with the distributors, what the dealings of Schine were with the same distributors, and what the dealings of the independents were with Schine. Now, in so far as this testimony of what transpired between the exhibitors and the distributors, that is always necessarily entirely hearsay in so far as the Schine defendants are concerned. There is no more reason for rejecting one of these inter-office memoranda, that are taken from the distributors' files, on the ground that the man who wrote it is not here to be cross-examined than there is for re- [fol. 3439] fusing to permit an independent exhibitor to testify to a conversation that he had with that manager on the ground that the manager is not here to be cross-examined.

Now, in proving any course of business testimony will always necessarily consist of both of the conversations that the exhibitors had with these people, oral negotiations, and it will also consist of contracts made between them, and it will also consist of whatever the company's records may show with respect to those negotiations and those contracts and, in making that proof, for our purposes most of what Counsel has said as to whether or not a particular letter was sent from the branch to the home office, or vice versa, or whether or not the facts in the memoranda may be contradicted by some other facts goes solely to one question and that is the weight to be given to the particular document. In so far as its admissibility is concerned, it is always admissible to show that the company records [fol. 3440] contain that particular memoranda or document. There can't be any question about that, and to the extent that the presence of the document in the Company's file is material or relevant to any of the issues in the suit, clearly the evidence that has been offered here is the best evidence obtainable on that particular fact.

Now, at the time Counsel has said that, with reference to some of these memoranda, we have stated that we were only interested in showing that the Company did have whatever knowledge was reflected in the memoranda which came out of its files, I think in other cases we have asserted that the document itself was also—tended to prove the facts that were stated therein—but in each case that question is a matter of the weight or the scope of the probative value that is to be given to the document. It does not go to the question of admissibility. It is always admissible for the limited purpose of showing that it was there. This [fol. 3441] first came up in testimony. The ruling I was referring to as having been made last June appears in the transcript for June 1st. At that time we offered an exhibit identified as P-13, which was a memorandum from Mr. Dillard of the Loew Company, and we attempted to identify it through Mr. Caskey and we were unable to do so sufficiently to satisfy your Honor. We offered the letter at page 300.

"I am offering this letter which has been marked as P-13 for identification."

Your Honor said, "I will receive it but I am going to strike it out unless it is further connected up."

And Mr. Rogers said, "And subject to my objection?"

The Court said: "Yes. It is only a photostatic copy, is it not?"

"Mr. Wright: Yes. I take it there is no objection from the fact that it is a photostat? Is that correct?

"Mr. Rogers: That is correct."

"The Court: What exhibit is that?"

[fol. 3442] "Mr. Wright: That is P-13. The date is April 7, 1938. It is a letter from Mr. Tyree Dillard, Jr., at the home office of the Loew Company, to the Cleveland Branch Manager, F. D. Drew. It reads (reading letter).

"Mr. McKay: Is that letter offered to show that the second run licensee was in fact changed?

"Mr. Wright: Yes, it is.

Mr. McKay: Then it is certainly objectionable on that ground, your Honor. It cannot be offered as proof of the facts stated in the letter, depriving us of our right of cross examination either of Mr. Drew or Mr. Dillard.

"The Court: The theory on which it would be admitted without the production of the individual writer would be that it appears as part of the records of the company, that they were taken from the records of the company.

"Mr. McKay: It is hearsay as it now appears.

"The Court: I said unless it is connected up as being [fol. 3443] part of the records of the company it will be excluded.

"Mr. Rogers: Your Honor, may I make this suggestion? It seems to me that a certain amount of elasticity may be in order at times, but here we have gone through the testimony of an entire witness, we have got his oral testimony, we have got documentation here, and we haven't a single scintilla of evidence by the plaintiff as to who these people are that wrote these letters, who these people are that are supposed to have made these statements. It seems to me that the plaintiff owes to this Court a more careful degree of preparation than that in the trial of a case. I think they might have devoted a day or devoted two days before bringing the witnesses on to having some accredited representatives of these producers appear and place these documents before the Court, and have these persons identified and have their authority identified, so that we would know just how far these people are authorized to act and what they are doing [fol. 3444] here. We have got a tremendous mass of unconnected documents, unconnected testimony, all hanging by a slender thread. When it comes to making motions to strike those motions are going to take a lot of the time of this Court.

"The Court: I have already passed on those questions. I presume that perhaps they would have some knowledge of the relationship of some of these parties named in these letters. I do not think an objection should be made from a captious standpoint. My view of the matter is that when the company is charged as a conspirator the records are competent as proof when the records are properly identified as company records. As I pointed out, in my view, several times their relation is the same as though they were a party to the action. There is a charge here that there is a conspiracy and if they are conspirators their records relating to these transactions directed to show a conspiracy, if they are properly identified, are competent. I do not [fol. 3445] think Counsel should make captious objections if there is no disagreement about the position that these gentlemen held. On the other hand, Counsel has the right to object and hold the plaintiff to its proof, and that is the proof by an officer of the company who knows that these are a part of the records of that company. It is the simplest thing in the world for an office man or a general manager to come here and testify that these are records taken from that office.

"Mr. Rogers: But the graver part is this tremendous mass of factual matter contained in these letters, which I think we are entitled to have evidence on.

"The Court: The Court will direct him to be here at any time you want them to examine on these letters.

"Mr. Rogers: It is more than merely directing him to be here to examine him on these letters. I think it is rather if the plaintiff is introducing these letters as evidence of the factual matter contained in these letters then we are [fol. 3446] entitled to have the evidence of witnesses as to these factual matters and not merely a declaration in a letter.

"The Court: I disagree with you on that. As I said before, if they are letters shown to have been kept in the regular course of business by one of these companies, and then they are identified as being part of that record, they are competent here. I mean by that you have not got to call one of these gentlemen here to testify that he wrote this letter and so-and-so received it. It is received because they are a part of the records."

The Court: The point of that discussion, first, is that to receive the document and then I don't know—permitting them, any records of the company, if it is claimed it is one of the co-conspirators who wrote some letter it is evidence in itself of conspiracy, as an admission against himself, wouldn't it?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Court: But I don't know. The broad question here is whether you can support all the records of the company. [fol. 3447] The backbone of that, of course, is, one point is, Mr. McClennen's point raised about the conspiracy, including the proof of these matters that are written about in these identified exhibits. Now, even the letters themselves being some evidence of a conspiracy, I don't know. I mean, the exhibits may be some proof of conspiracy or—I am not saying that they do, but they might. I don't believe they should be excluded because they are made a part of the account which goes to show there was a conspiracy, but I will look over this.

Mr. Wright: I would like to read the rest of page 305. I read, I believe, Mr. Rogers' or the Court's statement: "It is received because they are a part of the records."

Then Mr. Rogers said: "I will go as far as that, your Honor, but I do not go the rest of the way. That is where this writer of the letter attempts to set forth factually a state of facts which your Honor is going to take as testimony of [fol. 3448] the fact I think we ought to get evidence on those factual matters and we are entitled to evidence on those factual matters and to cross-examination.

"The Court: The question of connection, of course, is to be raised at the end of the trial.

"Mr. Rogers: And that is their duty in spelling out their case. He must get the witness on the stand and prove his facts by the witness.

"The Court: No, I do not agree with that statement."

In reliance on what was said at that time, I don't recall, we did not attempt to make further proof of the kind suggested until the witnesses were brought here to identify the documents and identify the writers and receivers, and I think on the basis of Mr. Rogers' objection at that time it was clear that all they were then concerned with, as far as cross examination goes, was a matter of sight, admittedly there was always evidence of the fact that the company had in its files the document and whatever information was in the document. but the objection was limited there to the [fol. 3449] insistence that if the document was going to be treated as anything more than that it was going to be treated as evidence of the fact that some one, and only that some one, the writer of the document, must be called and put on the stand.

The Court: Let me ask you, how do you give any force to the document itself unless you see some evidence of the fact contained in it?

Mr. Wright: In many cases the document will refer to facts proved by independent evidence. All that the document will show is simply that those facts were brought to the attention of the company, or were written to the company at the time.

[fol. 3450] The Court: How about other facts that are not disclosed?

Mr. Wright: As to those, I suppose it is a question of whether or not the fact is one which would normally be made to appear by evidence such as is recorded in the document. If it is, I suppose it would be accepted as evidence of that fact. If it is not, I suppose then the Court might require further proof as to what the facts were, but in any event, that question is a question of weight and not admissibility. The document would still be admissible to show——

The Court: It may be admissible for one purpose and not for another.

Mr. Wright: That is quite conceivable.

The Court: If it is your position that these documents are receivable for the specific purpose of showing the relation of the officials, one from the other, that is one thing. Of course, if they are offered as evidence of the statements contained in them wholly apart from any question of direct proof being given as to some of the contents, that is another question.

[fol. 3451] Mr. Wright: They are clearly evidence of the fact that the officials whose names appeared thereon did prepare those documents and placed them in the Company's files on or about the dates they bear.

The Court: I am speaking of the contents of the documents, outside of the question of the proof of the capacity of an individual. It does appear—some of these articles are not signed at all. Some of these letters are not signed. They are referred to at the top as made by somebody through somebody else. We have the broad question, it seems to me, of whether all the records of the Company, those charged with conspiring with the defendants, which relate to the question of the acts between the company and the major companies is competent. That is the particular question.

Mr. Wright: I submit, your Honor, communications are clearly competent to show those communications were written, that they occur.

The Court: You have to go further than that. Irrespective of that, you speak about the communications written. [fol. 3452] You distinguish the fact they were written from the fact of their contents.

Mr. Wright: No, I don't think it makes any difference as far as we are concerned whether somebody signed these communications or whether it says "From so and so to so and so" at the top. If it did, that would be another matter, but all we offer them for is what they appear to be on their face.

The Court: That is quite another question. That is the question here. If you offer the exhibits for the purpose of showing the relation of a branch manager or some official of a company as bearing on his authority to act in that capacity, that is one thing, but if they are offered as proof of the facts stated, that is another thing.

Mr. Wright: They are offered to show what he did, in any event, that the branch manager communicated the facts stated therein to whoever it appears they were communicated to, and vice versa. One thing more as to these letters. Some of these letters are letters passing between Schine and the distributors.

The Court: I am not speaking about those. I have not [fol. 3453] come to those.

Mr. Wright: I don't think you can generalize——

The Court: I am not trying to do that. That is true. That might stand on a different basis, of course. They might be connected with others, that is true, but I haven't got that far in the examination of these exhibits. There are so many exhibits I don't just recall what was said about that when they were identified.

Mr. Wright: As to the production of originals, wherever there is a copy of a letter to Schine we have served Schine with a notice to produce.

The Court: You do in your objection raise some question about the copies, although you say it does not make any difference. You apply that to photostatic copies.

Mr. McClennen: These contentions we have just been submitting are primarily dealing with this subject of what purports to be an inter-office communication, and we have not in this present argument—we can deal with that when the particular paper is presented. We have not been deal- [fol. 3454] ing with a communication from or to the defendants. I would like before this subject is left for the present to deal with three things stated by Mr. Wright in the course of the argument. He has read you what occurred with reference to a communication from Mr. Tyree Dillard and the remarks for the defendants with reference to that communication were in our dealing with that communication. We were not dealing with formalities. We were dealing with substances. Everybody knew who Mr. Tyree Dillard was, and there was convincing evidence that that was a letter from him to somebody else, so that none of those questions were involved there. Here we are dealing with an entirely difference situation, and the remarks applicable to Mr. Dillard's letter are not the remarks applicable to the inter-office communications, so-called, that are under consideration here.

The Court: You mean because he was identified as such an official?

Mr. McClennen: I mean because there was convincing evidence there that Mr. Dillard wrote that letter and that [fol. 3455] it was sent and that he was what he was with reference to that company. Now, that was the subject matter that was being discussed, and not the subject matter that is presented by these present communications.

Now, the other two things that I would respectfully ask your Honor's further consideration of are the two statements made by Mr. Wright that these are inter-office communications of a company charged with conspiracy. The only person charged with conspiracy here is the defendants. The defendants are charged with conspiring, if you please, with United Artists, but United Artists are not charged. The charge against them was dismissed.

The Court: I don't think that alters the situation. It is an act of a co-conspirator, whether he is charged in the suit or not. It is a question of what they did.

Mr. McClennen: It affects, if your Honor please, the propriety of asserting an argument in this case that United Artists is charged with conspiracy. I urge upon your Honor that United Artists is not charged with conspiracy.

[fol. 3456] The Court: I don't think it makes any difference so far as accepting the evidence is concerned, whether he is charged or whether he is not, if he did conspire. That is the question.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I was not dealing with the ultimate question. I was bringing back to your Honor's attention that the statement that United Artists is charged with a conspiracy is contrary to the record, because the charge against the United Artists has been withdrawn and they are not charged. We are charged with conspiring with them, which is a fundamental difference, I respectfully submit, as to the introduction of evidence, because if United Artists was charged then a properly proved admission of United Artists would be admissible in this case against United Artists, but it would not be admissible against the defendants until the connection had been made with the defendants, and, at least, if your Honor please, we can progress to a sound solution of these questions if [fol. 3457] the arguments are accurately presented as to the facts. I urge upon your Honor that the suggestion that United Artists is charged as a conspirator in this case is not so. They are not charged. Schines are charged with conspiring with United Artists. The Government abandoned the charge against United Artists and voluntarily dismissed the suit as to United Artists. I picked one name as illustrative of the entire situation.

The other thing is this: It was seriously argued to your Honor that presenting this piece of paper coming from the file of the company containing an assertion that somebody else said something was the same as calling these outsiders to the stand to testify that somebody said something to that outsider. Well, we can't cross-examine that piece of paper. We have had some of these outsiders, and before they got through with their testimony, it has been demonstrated from their own lips, the falsity of the statement in direct-examination as to what was said and done. Now, we cannot conduct a cross-examination of a piece of paper, [fol. 3458] and the distinction is as wide as the difference between a court of justice and an Indian powwow.

The Court: These witnesses are waiting, I assume. I think I will have to take this matter up later. I did not think we would go into the matter at length this morning, but we have witnesses here, and I think we better proceed.

Micheal Boumansour resumed the stand by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been previously sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Mr. McClennen: I have no further questions.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. This Exhibit D-133 was a copy of the letter that you wrote to the Department on that date?

A. It must be.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this marked for identification with the next plaintiff's Exhibit number.

[fol. 3459] Mr. McClennen: For identification?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

(Thereupon letter sent by Witness Boumansour to the Department of Justice, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 859 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this marked for identification, and this.

(Thereupon copies of two letters addessed to Witness Boumansour by the Department of Justice, were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 860 and 861 for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: These are all for identification.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. This document, plaintiff's exhibit 859 for identification, is that your signature on there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is the original of which Defendants' Exhibit D-133 is a copy?

A. Just alike.

Q. I will show you this letter addressed to you, or a copy of a letter addressed to you, which has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 860 for identification, and ask you if you received that shortly after that date on there, March 4th, 1941? Did you receive the original?

[fol. 3460] A. I received the original.

Q. Did you also receive the original of this Exhibit 861 shortly after February 8th, 1941?

A. Yes, I did receive this.

Q. Then, at the time you received these exhibit- 860 and 861, you were then managing the Malone Theatre for Schine, were you?

A. I believe—not this one here, because on February 8th, I was still operating my own theatre.

Q. At the time you got the letter of February 8th, Plaintiff's Exhibit 861 for identification, you were still operating the Plaza?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Although you had then signed the agreement to lease it to the Schine?

A. Yes, I signed the agreement just about a few weeks ahead.

Q. Then when you got Exhibit 860 in March, were you then managing the Malone Theatre for Schine?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you got that letter, do you remember what you did with it?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember whether you showed it to any one connected with the Schine organization?

A. I don't think so.

[fol. 3461] Q. Then, when this letter marked Exhibit 859 for identification was written, did you prepare that yourself?

A. I couldn't tell. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember whether you made the copy here marked Exhibit D-133 at the time the original Exhibit 859 was sent?

A. I never remember making this letter, but I know it is my signature

Q When you say "this letter" you are referring to the copy marked Defendants' Exhibit D-133?

A. I am sure I have signed this letter.

Q. By "this letter" you are there referring to Exhibit 859 for identification?

A. Yes. I have surely signed this letter, because it is my signature, but——

Q. At the time you sent that letter, did you have any discusssion about the letter with any respresentative of the Schine Company?

A. No.

Q. When was it that you signed this copy, Defendants' Exhibit D-133?

A. I don't remember at all.

Q. Do you remember what was done with this Defendants' Exhibit D-133 after you signed it, who, if anyone, you gave it to?

[fol. 3462] A. I don't recall at all both of these letters, but I know sure that they are my signature.

Q. You don't know what, if any, discussion you had with anybody in the Schine organization with reference——

A. Oh no, I am sure of that. There is nothing connected as far as Schine handing me any document of this kind to sign. I am sure of that.

Q. You are sure you signed this copy?

A. I signed this paper.

Q. What did you do with the copy after you signed it? Did you keep it in your own files?

A. I surely don't know.

Q. What did you do with your files at the theatre there when you left, did you take them with you, or did you turn them over to Schine?

A. No, they are still over there in my office.

Q. Your correspondence file?

A. Yes.

Q. Were all left with Schine——

A. No, no, I have my own office in the theatre, at the Plaza Theatre, on the second floor. My offices remain where it is.

Q. This Exhibit D-133, did that come out of your files?

A. I told you really the truth, I never remember seeing this paper.

[fol. 3463] Q. You mean prior to the time it was shown to you yesterday?

A. Yes, but in another way, it is surely, it is my signature.

Q. You don't remember when you signed it or what you did with it after you signed it?

A. No, this letter, I usually write with my head letter.

Mr. McClennen: What is the witness referring to by identification number now?

The Witness: 859.

Mr. Wright: We will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibits 860 and 861.

Mr. McClennen: These came from your files, Mr. Wright, did they?

Mr. Wright: That is right.

Mr. McClennen: Exhibit 859 also came from your files?

Mr. Wright: Yes, we will also offer 859.

Mr. McClennen: No objection.

Mr. Wright: Exhibit 861 is a letter dated February 8th, 1941, to Mr. Boumansour signed "Thurman Arnold", entitled "U. S. against Schine."

[fol. 3464] "Dear Sir: We are proceeding with our preparation for trial in the above-entitled case, and it is expected that a trial date will be set in the near future. We are, therefore, interested in learning whether anything has happened in the Malone situation since Mr. Terrell of the Department saw you during the latter part of July, 1941, which you think may be of interest to us in the prosecution of this case. What further negotiations, if any, have you had in regard to leasing your theatre to Schine? Have you been able to secure any first-run product for exhibition during the current motion picture season? What second-run product are you exhibiting during this season? Very truly yours."

Exhibit 860 is a letter dated March 4th, 1941, addressed to Mr. Boumansour, at the Plaza Theatre, Malone.

The Court: Mr. who?

Mr. Wright: Mr. Boumansour, Mr. Michael Boumansour, the witness.

The Court: Oh, yes. I thought you were speaking about [fol. 3465] a reply.

Mr. Wright: "Plaza Theatre, Malone, New York, re U. S. against Schine. Dear Sir: We have not received a reply to our letter of February 8th, 1941, copy of which is enclosed for your information. Very truly yours, Thurman Arnold."

Exhibit 859 is the original letter which is addressed to the Department of Justice, Washington, D. C., re U. S. against Schine. "Gentlemen: This is to advise that I have succeeded in disposing of my theatre as planned. I have no further complaints. Everything is satisfactory. Very truly yours, Michael Boumansour."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. You had informed Mr. Terrell of the Department, had you, in July, 1940, with respect to the negotiations with Schine then in progress?

A. I think I did. Nothing sure. I think I did.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this affidavit and two letters that are attached marked with the next exhibit number for identification.

(Thereupon affidavit with two letters attached, were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 862 for identification.)

[fol. 3466] Q. The first page of his Exhibit 862, do you recognize that as a copy of a letter you received shortly after October 30, 1939?

A. Yes.

Q. And the second page is that your signature on that letter?

A. Yes.

Q. October, 25th, 1939?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You wrote that on or about that date?

A. Yes.

Q. And the document attached there headed "Affidavit" was that sent with the letter to which it is attached?

A. I don't believe so. This document——

Q. Read the letter.

A. Yes, that went together with the letter.

Q. Is that your signature on the affidavit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was made on or about the day it bears?

A. 24th day of August, 1939.

Q. Made at Malone?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you shown that affidavit before you testified?

A. Yes.

Q. You read it?

[fol. 3467] A. Yes, sir.

Q. That affidavit set forth the facts, did it, as you recalled them at that time?

A. As I recalled them.

Q. About your dealings with Schine and the distributors?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I call your attention to page 7, and do you see anything there with reference to the letter to the Department of Justice?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the date of the letter appears there, does it not?

A. June 30th, 1937.

Q. June 30, 1937?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: Have you that Warner contract that was in evidence, I think it is Exhibit 132?

Mr. McClennen: I think you mean for identification D-134.

Mr. Wright: Yes, I do mean this, D-134. I thought that had been offered. We will offer it in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: That was for identification.

Mr. Wright: We are offering it now.

(Thereupon Warner contract previously marked Defendants' Exhibit D-134 for identification was thereupon received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 863 in evidence.)

[fol. 3468] Q. I hand you this document, which is marked in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit 863, and which was shown you on cross-examination. I believe you testified at that time that that is a contract you signed on or about the typewritten date there, June 14, 1937, is that right?

A. I know I have signed it, but I don't remember what date I signed it.

Q. Do you remember when you got an approved copy of that contract, if at all?

A. I must have had a copy of it but I can't recall now.

Q. I mean an approved copy. Did you ever get a copy of it? That is, get your application back with the approval of the Company noted on it?

A. I can't recall that.

Q. What was done with your contract records at the time you turned the theatre over to Schine?

A. Well, all the contracts that were in force of that same year they were still on—I still had on record, if I had to play myself I turned it over to Schine.

Q. How about the others, the older contracts, what if anything was done with those?

A. Like a copy of this?

Q. Yes, an approved copy of that.

A. I don't know. They must still be on file somewhere [fol. 3469] in my office.

Q. Did you bring any of those contracts down here with you?

A. No.

Q. Before you testified did you have an opportunity—did you make an examination of any contracts?

A. No.

Q. In making the contracts you did make the typewritten date as ordinarily the date of the application?

A. Really, I can't remember.

Q. What was the ordinary course of business in making the contracts you made, or that you testified to, for second-run pictures? Did you first make an application?

A. Yes.

Q. Sign an application?

A. Yes.

Q. Then a typewritten date would be put in at that time?

A. Well, in cases, but in this particular case that was not the way it was done, this particular contract.

Q. Of course, on your ordinary contracts you signed an application?

A. Signed an application.

Q. Typewritten date would be put in there at the time you signed the application, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Later you would receive an approved copy of the [fol. 3470] application?

A. Of the application.

Q. Is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have any recollection what happened with respect to this particular contract, Exhibit 863?

A. I never signed any other copy of this contract before. I mean just the original, that is all.

Q. That was the copy you signed?

A. That contract was written as it is, as it stands right there, and I came over to the Albany office and I signed it right there without looking any more.

Q. Do you remember whether you got an approved contract at a later date or whether you took the contract with you then?

A. No, I didn't take any contract with me at that time.

Q. You weren't given any approved contract then?

A. Not at that time.

Q. Do you have any recollection as to when you got an approved contract?

A. I can't recall that.

Q. I show you this Exhibit 857 for identification and I call your attention to the fourth paragraph and ask you if that refreshes your recollection as to whether or not at the time you wrote that letter of June 30th you had received [fol. 3471] an approved contract like this Plaintiff's Exhibit 863?

A. I am quite positively sure that when I wrote this letter there was no contract signed with the Warner Bros.

Q. You mean signed by whom?

A. I mean that due to the fact that I wrote this letter of June 30th it is because I was entirely out of——

Mr. McClennen: May that last be stricken out?

The Court: Just answer the question.

(Last question read.)

A. This letter, dictated by me and signed by my assistant.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I was referring to the contract. Your statement relating to the contract, you mean it was not signed by you or was not signed by the company?

A. That is my signature right there.

Q. I understood you to say at the time you wrote the letter of June 30th you didn't think this contract, Plaintiff's Exhibit 863, had been signed, and I was trying to find out whether you meant by that your signature or the signature of the sales manager?

A. This is my signature right there on the contract.

Q. That had been signed, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. But you had not received a copy signed by Mr. Sears, [fol. 3472] is that right?

A. Not at that time.

Q. June 30th?

A. No.

Q. With reference to the time that you bought other second-run products, was that before or after June 30th?

A. After.

Q. And the dates on which you made those other contracts and the season's pictures you bought would appear on the face of the contracts?

A. Mostly.

Q. I noticed this contract here that is marked as 863 calls for the pictures of—can you tell me by looking at it which season that covers?

A. I can't see anything.

Q. Maybe I can find it.

The Court: Isn't it on the back?

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I call your attention to what appears on the back there.

A. Season 1936-37.

Q. These second-run pictures you bought on this contract, Exhibit 863, in June, 1937, do you know about how many of those had already been released and played in the Schine houses, first-run?

A. Of these here?

[fol. 3473] Q. Yes.

A. I can't recall, but at that time they were mostly all played.

Q. The season only had a couple of months to run, isn't that right?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to as leading. For second-run purposes it is obvious that the season had about six months to run.

The Court: The terms are variable here. There seems to be no definite time as far as I know from the record.

Mr. Wright: I think it appears from the record, and also from the contract.

The Court: Let him state what time, if he knows. He said '36-'37 season. Did you run those pictures there that are shown in that contract?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

The Court: Over what period of time did you run them?

The Witness: I usually exhibit about six to eight pictures a week so I can't recall exactly the time it would take to exhibit all these pictures.

The Court: Six or eight a week.

Q. At the time this contract was handed to you and you [fol. 3474] signed it, was anything said about second-run pictures for the '37-'38 season?

A. No.

Q. At a later time, do you recall when it was, if at all, that you got '37-'38 products second-run?

A. Oh, I did.

Q. I say, do you recall when it was?

A. Not exactly.

Q. Did you later talk to the Warner Exchange about '37-'38 pictures for second-run?

A. Well, yes, later. After most of these pictures were all played.

Q. That is, after these pictures that are on this Exhibit 863 were played?

A. Were played.

Q. And prior to that time was any offer made to you, or was anything said, about you playing '37-'38 pictures?

A. No.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to. This has nothing to do with the cross-examination.

The Court: I don't know. We have gone over these dates here. He testified the dates in 1937. Have you gone over this, Mr. Wright. I don't know whether it has been during that time.

[fol. 3475] Mr. Wright: Well, I think we can show what else was bought and when by the contracts, when and if they were produced. They are subpoenaed. So far we have only had some of them.

The Court: Testified to the pictures he got in the fall of '37 and also various pictures from other companies:

By Mr. Wright:

Q. You recall how long it was after you made that or sent in that affidavit that is part of Exhibit 862 that George Lynch saw you? I believe you testified yesterday that you saw him in the fall of 1939?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that before or after that letter of yours dated October 23rd that is attached to Exhibit 862 for identification?

A. Is this 862? Is this the letter you are referring to?

Q. No, I refer to your letter.

A. This letter right here. I can't recall. I don't know if it is before or after.

Q. Did you see him in 1940?

A. Yes, I saw him in 1940.

Q. Where did you see him then?

A. Where?

Q. Yes.

[fol. 3476] Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. That has been gone into and was left on cross-examination without any dealing with that subject.

The Court: He said on direct examination the fall of 1939, "I saw George Lynch". That is the direct examination.

Q. Now I — asking him: Did you see him at any time after you sent that affidavit in to the department?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that?

A. That is when I—a few days before I closed the deal of leasing the theatre in 1940, late in 1940.

Q. Late in 1940?

A. Yes, pretty near in December, 1940.

Q. Did you at any time furnish Mr. Lynch with a copy of that affidavit?

A. Yes, but not in 1940.

The Court: What?

A. Not in the year 1940.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. When was that?

A. I don't recall now, but I know I did furnish him with a copy.

Q. Can you give us the approximate time?

A. I can't recall the time.

[fol. 3477] Q. Can you recall it with reference to the time you had this conversation about a deal for the theatre?

A. Maybe I could.

Q. Let's see if you can.

The Court: What are the dates of 81 and 82?

Mr. McClennen: 81 is February 14, 1941. 82 is January 21, 1941.

The Court: All right. That takes care of that.

The Witness: I can't recall exactly the date but I know that I did furnish him with a copy.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Was it sometime between that first conversation you had with him and the time you made the agreement that is marked in evidence here as Exhibit 82, which is dated January, 1941?

A. It is much before this.

Q. By "this" you are referring to——

A. Much ahead of this.

Q. —Exhibit 82?

A. Yes, ahead of this.

The Court: The affidavit bears a date, doesn't it? Don't you know when you drew it and showed it to Lynch?

The Witness: I can't remember, your Honor, the time I did show it, but I know I did show it.

[fol. 3478] By Mr. Wright:

Q. Then when you showed it to Lynch did you have any conversation with him about the affidavit?

A. Yes.

Q. What was said?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, if your Honor please.

The Court: Overruled.

A. That is when the deal didn't go through.

The Court: He asked you what was said when you showed that to Lynch.

The Witness: What he said? At that time he took the affidavit from me and he showed it to somebody else in the office.

Q. Did he say anything to you about it?

A. Not himself.

Q. Did Mr. Myer Schine say anything to you about it?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Well, when was this now, as nearly as you can recall?

A. It is in '39.

Q. Then what was said about the deal after you gave him the affidavit, copy of the affidavit, what was said?

A. Well, they couldn't do any deal unless I had this affidavit returned to me, the original. We couldn't make any deal unless you could withdraw the affidavit with the Department.

[fol. 3479] The Court: Who said that?

The Witness: I recall Mr. McKay.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Where was that?

A. I can't exactly tell you the date.

Q. Can you recall the place?

A. Yes.

Q. Where?

A. In Gloversville.

Q. And then did you do anything about withdrawing the affidavit?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do?

A. I called up Washington, called up Seymour Graber.

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. I object to his going any further.

The Court: The point is whether he got the affidavit back, not what talk he had. Did you get the affidavit back?

The Witness: No.

Mr. Wright: I will ask you again whether you had any conversation with anybody with the Schine Company before this letter, Exhibit 859, was written to the Department?

A. I don't recall. I know——

[fol. 3480] Mr. McClennen: He should not go further.

The Court: He said he does not recall.

The Witness: I don't recall it.

Q. You don't remember whether you wrote that or dictated it or somebody else did?

A. It is my signature.

The Court: That does not answer the question. Do you recall whether you dictated it or somebody else?

The Witness: No, I don't recall.

Mr. Wright: Have you the letter from the witness to Mr. Grassgreen, I think that is No. 133?

Mr. McClennen: I think you have reference to Defendants' Exhibit 136 for identification.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. With respect to Defendants' Exhibit 136 for identification, that was referred to on cross-examination, did you get any answer to that letter other than this letter which has been marked in evidence as Exhibit 195?

A. I wrote this letter.

Q. Yes. The question was whether you got any answer to it.

A. No, never.

Q. As I understood it, you previously testified you got that Exhibit 195 shortly after that date?

A. Yes.

[fol. 3481] Q. Other than this Exhibit 195 I call your attention to the fact Exhibit 195 states: "Following up your recent letter, I regret to inform you I will not be interested in serving second-run in the city of Malone." Now, did you write any letter before that, other than this one marked for identification Exhibit 136?

A. No, I never wrote any letter before that.

Q. Or afterward, between that date and May 21st?

A. No, that is all, as I recall.

Q. You were asked on cross-examination yesterday by Mr. McClennen: "Well, now, why didn't you kiss his hand back and forth when he made that proposition to you?" Was there any proposition made to you by Mr. Grassgreen?

A. No.

The Court: He didn't say there was a proposition. He said he would have done this.

Mr. Wright: I wanted to make it clear there wasn't any proposition made. Mr. McClennen's question assumed there had been and I did not catch it at the time.

Mr. McClennen: Not at all. The assumption was what he said in the letter was true.

The Court: I am speaking about his oral testimony.

Mr. McClennen: Yes, but what I said about the proposi-[fol. 3482] tion, the context showed was the proposition contained in his letter of May 6th that refers to——

The Court: He hadn't made that proposition, you mean?

Mr. McClennen: He testified that that statement was true of what he said Mr. Grassgreen had proposed to him.

Mr. Wright: I will offer the letter in evidence.

(The letter referred to, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit 136 for identification was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 864.)

The Court: Had he made him a proposition, if he had made such a proposition he would have shook his hand, and so forth.

Mr. McClennen: The course of the testimony was before I showed him this letter I asked him if Mr. Grassgreen had made such a proposition as the one stated in the letter and he said he had not.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: That he would have kissed his hand if he had.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: Then, if your Honor please, I showed him the letter and he then said Mr. Grassgreen did make [fol. 3483] that statement. I was speaikng about the first conversation.

Mr. Wright: The letter is dated May 6, 1937, addressed to 20th Century-Fox Film Corporation, Film Row, Albany, N. Y., attention Mr. Grassgreen. "Dear Sir: Some time ago when in Albany I had a talk with you in regard to second-run policy. You informed me at that time that if I would buy 100 per cent product you would consider the deal and advise me immediately as to your disposition of this matter. I am now open to buy pictures as follows: 100 per cent 1937-1938 product, also shorts and news reels, 25 pictures 1936-1937 product. If this proposition is O.K. please send your representative here at his earliest possible convenience. Hoping to receive a reply by return mail I remain, Yours truly."

Q. Did Mr. Grassgreen at any time offer to sell you 100 per cent of the product, or any other part of the Fox product, for second-run?

[fol. 3484] A. If I recall, he might have approached me before I even opened up the theatre.

Q. I don't think you understood the question. I didn't ask you if you talked to him. I asked you if he made you an offer?

Mr. McClennen: I submit that statement should not be made. There isn't any report he didn't understand.

(Last question read.)

A. No, I never did.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

[fol. 3485] Recross examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. That is, this statement in your letter of May 6th, 1937, in the first paragraph, Exhibit 864, is not true, is it?

A. In one way, there is a difference——

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, the first statement—the statement does not say he made an offer of pictures.

Mr. McClennen: There is nothing the matter with my question, and I think my brother must know it.

The Court: Go ahead. State whether it is true or not.

Mr. McClennen: Read the question so that he will have it clearly before him.

(Question read.)

The Witness: I can't answer that question.

Q. Well, it is true or it is not true.

A. I can't answer it.

Q. Which is it?

A. I can't answer it.

Q. You mean, don't you, that you won't answer it?

A. I can't understand the question, how this is——

Q. Let me see if I can't make it clear to you: You see this statement that you made?

[fol. 3486] A. Yes.

Q. Some time ago?

A. Yes.

Q. "When in Albany I had a talk with you in regard to second-run policy. You informed me at that time that if I would buy 100 per cent product you would consider the deal and advise me immediately as to your disposition in this matter." Did Mr. Grassgreen say to you some time before May 6th, 1937, what you stated in your letter that he said to you?

A. He may have, I don't recall. He may have, but I don't recall.

Q. Well, now, considering your disposition to be truthful, now that you see it in the letter, don't you think that he said just that to you, namely, "You informed me at that time that if I would buy a hundred per cent product you would consider the deal and advise me immediately as to your disposition in this matter"? Don't you, seeing what you said in your own letter, recall that that is just what Mr. Grassgreen said to you?

A. He may, but I don't recall.

Q. Would it be equally true for you to say he "He may not, but I don't recall"?

A. He may not, and I don't recall. I will tell you both ways.

[fol. 3487] The Court: Why would you write that in the letter if it were not so? Why would you write what Mr. Grassgreen said if it were not the fact? Can you explain a reason?

The Witness: Reason is, seven years away from today.

The Court: No, no, why would you write a letter making that statement if it were not accurate?

The Witness: He might have told me something about it, your Honor, that if I do buy a hundred per cent, but he never came through with it.

The Court: You said in this letter he had told you that. Is that true? That is the point.

The Witness: It might have been true, it might not. I don't know, your Honor.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

The Court: We will take a recess now.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P. M.)

[fol. 3488] After recess, 2 o'clock P. M.

Appearances: As before noted.

Leon J. McCarthy, a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Where do you live, Mr. McCarthy?

A. Canandaigua.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Newspaper man.

Q. With what paper?

A. I was formerly connected with the Daily Messenger in Canandaigua.

Q. In what capacity?

A. Editor.

Q. Were you editor of the Daily Messenger in May, 1938?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will show you this page marked for identification as Exhibit 806, and ask you if you recognize that as the page from that paper published on Tuesday, May 10, 1938?

A. That is right.

[fol. 3489] Q. You were the editor on that date?

A. Yes.

Q. You know Mr. William McFarland?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was he?

A. He is the manager of the Playhouse Theatre.

Q. In Canandaigua?

A. Canandaigua.

Q. Calling your attention to the statements in the second and third paragraphs of the first column there, can you tell us whether or not those statements came to you from Mr. McFarland?

A. Yes, that is true.

Mr. Wright: We will offer this exhibit 806 in evidence. The part in which we are particularly interested is the item in the left-hand top corner of the page there, on which the exhibit number appears, and I assume it may be understood that any data in the item which is not based on statements from Mr. McFarland may be disregarded for our purposes?

Mr. McClennen: This is objected to. It would be impossible to know what it is going to be claimed was attrib-[fol. 3490]utable to Mr. McFarland. It has not appeared in evidence what Mr. McFarland said to the witness and we make the objection that what he did say on the present showing is not admissible in evidence.

The Court: Isn't that true? There is nothing yet to show that the statements therein contained were statements made by Mr. McFarland to the witness.

Mr. Wright: (I referred to the second and third paragraphs in the exhibit, which I take it speaks for itself.

The Court: Who is the gentleman who testified with relation to that theatre?

Mr. Wright: This exhibit I believe was identified when Mr. Lauer was on the stand.

Mr. Kallis: Shall I read your Honor the relative portions——

The Court: What is the date of that?

Mr. Kallis: The date of the testimony?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Kallis: October 11th, at page 2562, is where it really begins.

The Court: What was his name?

Mr. Kallis: Anthony J. Lauer. Mr. De Toto testified [fol. 3491] with respect to the same item last June 7th—6th or 7th.

The Court: June 6th or 7th?

Mr. Wright: This is Mr. Lauer's testimony there.

(Handing testimony to Court).

The Court: Perhaps the witness can state what conversation he had.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, it is already—read the question and answer there.

(Question and answer read, as follows:

> "Q. Calling your attention to the statements in the second and third paragraphs of the first column there, can you tell us whether or not those statements came to you from Mr. McFarland?
>
> A. Yes, that is true.")

Mr. Wright: It appears on the face of the exhibits.

The Court: The statement came to you? You mean made to you by Mr McFarland?

The Witness: Well, the statement, the announcement—may I see that and I will clarify that?

Mr. Wright: Surely.

(Handing exhibit to witness.)

Mr. McClennen: What Mr. McFarland said is objected to on the usual ground.

[fol. 3492] The Court: His answer was that it came to him. I was trying to find out what he meant by that.

Mr. McClennen: I am saving the major objection.

The Court: We have not come to that yet. We will pass on that later.

The Witness: The second paragraph says "Announcement was made today"——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment.

The Court: How did it come to you, that is the point? Don't read it. Were you talking to Mr. McFarland?

The Witness: I don't recall at the moment that I talked with him or that I wrote this particular article. My best recollection is that one of the reporters handled it, although I knew at the time that it was coming subject to release later, and as the article itself states——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment.

The Court: You can't state the contents. I will receive it. Mr. Lauer testified he read this particular article. Objection overruled.

Mr. McClennen: I again urge upon your Honor that the last statement of the witness does not even connect this [fol. 3493] with Mr. McFarland. He is not sure he talked with Mr. McFarland.

The Court: This is the newspaper which Mr. Lauer testified that he read. That is his testimony, that he read that particular column.

Mr. McClennen: He did testify to that effect when your Honor excluded for the time being, until it was connected in some way. Now it is not connected in any way. Just a reversal of your Honor's ruling on the subject.

The Court: It is connected with the publication.

Mr. McClennen: Connected with anybody connected with the defendants.

The Court: By his own testimony, he said that was published in such and such a paper.

Mr. McClennen: What was under consideration was, when your Honor excluded it, not that that was not the newspaper and not that it did not appear in the newspaper, but that it was not attributable to the defendants in any way. That has not changed. This witness does not recall that he even talked with Mr. McFarland.

The Court: Very true. Therefore there is no evidence [fol. 3494] that Mr. McFarland ever said any of the things that appear in the newspaper.

The Court: My thought was this: Was an article written Mr. Lauer upon which he acted, or failed to act, whichever it was?

Mr. McClennen: That was the situation at the time your Honor excluded it until it is shown it was connected in any way with us, and it is not shown.

The Court: Objection overruled. Received in evidence.

(The newspaper article, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 806 for identification, was received in evidence.)

The Court: Is that all?

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Did you personally have any talk with Mr. McFarland prior to this issue of May 10, 1938, Plaintiff's Exhibit 806?

A. Yes, I had talked with Mr. McFarland in regard to this purchase as mentioned in that article, but I don't recall whether it was before or after, however.

[fol. 3495] Q. You don't recall whether it was before or after this article was published?

A. After that.

Q. At the time this article was published, Plaintiff's Exhibit 806, the first two paragraphs, had Mr. McFarland told you any of the things set out in the first two paragraphs, that is, before this was published?

A. As I recall it, I met Mr. McFarland one day on the street.

Q. This was before this was published?

A. Yes. There had been a rumor——

Mr. McClennen: May that be stricken out, if your Honor please?

The Court: He objects to the use of the word "rumor." You met Mr. McFarland?

The Witness: I asked Mr. McFarland if the Schine people were planning to construct a new theatre and he said "Yes," that there were some plans under way and that he expected an announcement would be made soon, and as this article shows——

Q. Never mind. Is that all he said to you?
A. Yes, in substance, that is it.
Q. That is all that occurred before this newspaper article went out?
[fol. 3496] A. As I recall it, yes.
Q. And you did not write the article?
A. I don't think I did, sir.
Q. Do you recall when the new theatre in Canandaigua was completed?
A. The new theatre?
Q. Yes. There has been a theatre built in Canandaigua since May 10, 1938?
A. Referring to the Lake Theatre?
Q. I mean the Lake Theatre.
A. Yes, I remember it was constructed. I can't give you any dates. I don't recall that.
Q. Was it soon after this article?
A. I couldn't tell you that, sir, without looking it up.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.
Mr. Wright: That is all.
Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, merely to reserve our rights, I move that the newspaper article be stricken out.
The Court: Denied.

[fol. 3497] Robert I. Pierce a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Pierce?
A. Ilion, New York.
Q. What is your occupation?
A. I am now in the retail shoe business.
Q. How long have you been so engaged?
A. Five years.

Q. You were formerly in the theatre business at Ilion?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Connected with what theatre?

A. Various theatres, since 1915.

Q. All in Ilion?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the name of the last one?

A. The last one was the Capitol Theatre.

Q. That was operated by what company?

A. Young & Whitney, Inc.

Q. What position did you hold with the corporation?

A. Stockholder, Secretary-Treasurer and Manager.

Q. That Capitol Theatre there was built when?

[fol. 3498] A. In 1925.

Q. By whom?

A. Yonng & Whitney, Inc.

Q. In 1925, when the Young & Whitney Company built the Capitol, what other theatres were there in Ilion?

A. The Old Ilion Opera House, Big Ben Theatre, and the Temple Theatre.

Q. Who owned those theatres?

A. The Ilion Opera House and Big Ben Theatre were owned by Young & Whitney. The Temple Theatre was owned by the United Odd Fellows Association.

Q. Then at that time was there a theatre operating in Herkimer?

A. Yes, there were two theatres, the Star Theatre and Richmond Theatre. No, at that time the new theatre, it was called the Gem, which is now the Liberty.

Q. And what other?

A. The Richmond.

Q. Do you know who operated those theatres?

A. The new theatre was operated by a company of Moyer, Gloo & Irvin. The Richmond Theatre was operated by Schultz & Letson.

Q. Where are the towns of Herkimer and Ilion, with reference to each other?

A. Herkimer is three miles east of Ilion.

[fol. 3499] Q. And where are they with reference to Utica?

A. Ilion is ten miles east of Utica. Herkimer is three miles further east.

Q. Where are the town- of Herkimer and Ilion with reference to Little Falls?

A. Herkimer is ten miles west of Little Falls and Ilion is thirteen miles west of Little Falls.

Q. When you built the Capitol Theatre, tell us what kind of theatre it was with reference to size and appointments?

A. Why, I think it was classed at that time as one of the magnificent theatres for a town of its size in the country.

Q. How big was it?

A. 1300 seats, approximately.

Q. All on one floor?

A. No, 1100 seats on the ground floor and about 200 in the balcony.

Q. And do you recall what its approximate cost was?

A. Around 300 and some thousand dollars.

Q. During the years 1925 through 1928 what sort of a picture policy was it operated on?

A. You mean in relationship to Herkimer?

Q. Well, first, with reference to the pictures.

A. That was really before there was any protection [fol. 3500] granted either way. There was open buying. We bought some ahead of Herkimer. Herkimer bought some ahead of us. There was no protection from Utica.

Q. What, if any, change occurred in 1928?

A. 1928 the Herkimer house and the Little Falls house was taken over by the Schine circuit, approximately at that time.

[fol. 3501] Q. Then they operated the houses in Herkimer and Little Falls how long, if you remember?

A. They operated until Fox took them over. I think it was 1934. Now, I am not positive of that date.

Q. You continued to operate the Capitol Theatre at Ilion during the same period until Fox——

A. Yes, sir.

Q. —took that theatre over, too?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall that year might have been 1930?

The Court: You said "theatre, too." What theatre are you referring to, taken over by Fox, the one in Herkimer?

Mr. Wright: All three.

The Witness: Those dates are quite hazy. It might have been 1930 or 1931. It was along in there.

The Court: What did they take over then?

The Witness: The Fox theatres took over Herkimer, Ilion and Little Falls.

The Court: You said Schine took them over first and then Fox?

The Witness: Yes, I think Schine took them in 1928.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Then during the period that Schine was operating in Herkimer and Little Falls, when you were operating in [fol. 3502] Ilion——

Mr. McClennen: You are now going to what period, the 1928 period?

Mr. Wright: The question I asked him, I think, speaks for itself. Read the question.

(Last question read.)

Mr. McClennen: It appears there was more than one such period.

Q. With specific reference to 1928 through 1930, or whenever the deal with Fox was made. During that time, when did you play pictures at Ilion, with reference to when they played in Herkimer and Little Falls?

A. Put that question again, please.

(Question read.)

A. Behind Herkimer.

Q. And Little Falls?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you took your Capitol back from the Fox Company, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember about when that was?

A. They operated it two years. They operated approximately two years. I couldn't give you the definite date——

Q. When you got it back?

A. Two years from the time——

[fol. 3503] Mr. Rogers: A little louder.

The Witness: We took it back approximately two years. I think they operated it close to two years.

Q. By "they" you are referring to Fox Metropolitan?

A. Fox Metropolitan Theatres, that is right.

Q. That would be in 1932 or 1933 that you got it back?

A. January, whatever year it was.

Q. Then do you know whether or not Schine resumed operation of the houses at Herkimer and Little Falls?

A. It was some short time afterwards. I think we got possession of our house ahead of Mr. Schine. I think it was several months.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have these contracts marked with the next Plaintiff's Exhibit numbers for identification.

Mr. McClennen: Are those for identification only?

Mr. Wright: These are being marked for identification.

(Thereupon six contracts referred to were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 865 through 870 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: Would you——

Mr. McClennen: Before you get to those, would you let us have these?

Mr. Wright: I will hand you these while he is marking [fol. 3504] the others. Mark these 871 and 872, respectively.

(Thereupon two agreements referred to were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 871 and 872 for identification.)

Q. I show you these documents marked——

Mr. McClennen: Before you go on, would you let us know what they are, so we can follow them? 865 is a Paramount, August 20, 1935, with Young & Whitney.

866 is a Paramount unsigned. I don't see the date at the moment.

867, Columbia. I don't see the date.

868, Warner, October 17, 1935, approval date.

869, United Artists, sometime in—February 1st, 1936.

Mr. Wright: Those are all marked as one exhibit. Those United Artists contracts are all marked as one exhibit.

Mr. McClennen: And there are three of the same date. 870 is an R.K.O., January 20, 1936.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I show you this memorandum of agreement marked as Exhibit 871 for identification, which is dated December 10th, [fol. 3505] 1936, and ask you if you recognize the signatures on that agreement?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. The signature on behalf of Young & Whitney, is that Mr.——

A. Frank C. Whitney.

Q. On behalf of the Perry Theatre Corporation?

A. John A. May.

Q. Was that document, Exhibit 871 for identification, made on or about the date it bears?

A. It was made on that date.

Q. Then I will show you this Exhibit 872 for identification, and ask you if you recognize the signatures on that?

A. Yes.

Q. Those are——

A. Frank C. Whitney, and Robert I. Pierce.

Q. The second is your signature?

A. Yes.

Mr. Rogers: Will the witness please speak up? We can't hear him here.

Q. Who signed that on behalf of the Perry Theatre Corporation?

A. I think it is Schussman or something, I can't make it out.

Q. Selzmer?

A. That is right, Selzmer.

[fol. 3506] Q. This agreement dated May 24, 1937, marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 872 for identification, that was executed on that date, was it?

A. Right, yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: We offer 871 and 872 in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: This 872 ought to be fastened together. It is loose, three pages of it.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibits 871 and 872, previously marked for identification, were received in evidence.)

The Court: Are there any questions raised about these other exhibits?

Mr. McClennen: There is no objection.

The Court: I mean the others as well. You mentioned a group of them.

Mr. McClennen: These others have not been offered yet.

The Court: I did not know whether there was an objection or not.

Mr. McClennen: I don't know whether they are going to be offered.

The Court: It has not been offered. I assume they will be. You can look them over.

Mr. Wright: Yes, they will be offered.

Mr. McClennen: They will be offered as part of this witness' testimony?

[fol. 3507] Mr. Wright: Yes, I was going to ask him a question as to what they were, and then offer them—where they came from.

Mr. McClennen: There is no objection to them if they will be offered.

The Court: If it is by consent, you can state what they are.

Q. As I understand it, these contracts that have been marked as exhibits for identification 865 through 870, inclusive, are all of the contracts that you brought with you which relate to feature pictures and were made by you during the period from 1932 to 1936?

A. That is all I had in my possession, yes, sir.

The Court: 1932 to 1936, you say?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: It is suggested to me, if your Honor please, as to Exhibit 871 and Exhibit 872, that in what I have just stated, we are not waiving our general objection.

The Court: Oh, no.

Mr. McClennen: That these are purely local transactions, and they are not admissible. We desire to have that objection apply to these as well.

The Court: Received.

[fol. 3508] (Thereupon contracts previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 865 through 870, inclusive, for identification were received in evidence.)

Mr. McClennen: I notice that Exhibit 872 refers to an agreement executed concurrently therewith, which is not with the paper. The agreement 871 is an agreement five months earlier in date, so that the whole of the May 24th, 1937 transaction is not shown by Exhibit 872.

[fol. 3509] Q. Mr. Pierce, was there another agreement executed on the 27th when Exhibit 872 was executed?

A. This agreement was made previous to that.

Q. Wait a minute. The date on this 871 is December 10, 1936?

A. That is right.

Q. The question I asked you was whether when either one of these agreements were made, 871 or 872, were there any other agreements made on those dates?

A. I don't think there was. I don't remember.

Q. Then do you remember when you turned over possession of the Capitol Theatre to Schine?

A. September 1, 1937.

Q. September 1, 1937. Were there some more papers exchanged on that date? Just possession of the theatre?

A. Just possession. Oh, yes, there were papers. No, I wouldn't say there was.

Q. As far as you know, the only agreements you made——

A. This was the agreement which was fulfilled on September 1, 1937.

Q. When you say "this", you are referring to 871 and 872?

A. This one here, the purchase.

Q. After this agreement, 871, was made, did you have anything to do with buying a film for the theatre?

A. No, I didn't buy any further film.

Q. That is, after December, 1936?

[fol. 3510] A. After this agreement was signed I didn't buy any further film since Schine took it over.

Q. Prior to December, 1936, what, if any, connection did you have with the buying of the film for the Capitol Theatre?

A. I done all the buying.

Q. That is, during the period from the time you took it back from Fox until you sold it to Schine?

A. That is right.

Q. I call your attention to the provisions in this Exhibit 870, 865, 866 and 868, the provision, "Ten days after Herkimer." Do you recall whether you had any conversation with any of the exchange managers about that [illegible]vision?

A. About the clearance situation on this p[illegible]icular contract?

Q. On the contracts that you made with, let us say with Warner Bros., who did you deal with?

A. Personally with Ray Smith.

Q. Who was he?

A. He was a branch manager.

Q. When you dealt with Smith did you have any conversation with him with respect to where you were with reference to Herkimer?

A. I asked for reduction of clearance.

Q. Just answer yes or no to the conversation.

[fol. 3511] A. Yes, I did.

Q. Do you recall when you had that conversation with him or those conversations with him?

A. It was when he was in my office negotiating for the contracts.

Q. That was more than once?

A. Every time. Every year when I negotiated contracts.

Q. During what years?

A. Every year on the purchase.

Q. 1933-34?

A. '33, '34, '35.

Q. What was said when you talked to him in your office?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, three different conversations should not be included in one question.

The Court: The first one you recall.

Mr. McClennen: We object to the conversation anyway, the contract tells what contract they made.

The Court: Sustained. State the talks separately and as near as you can the time.

Q. Can you recall any particular one as distinguished from another?

A. This contract, for instance, here.

Q. By "this one here," you are referring to this Exhibit 868 of Warner's?

[fol. 3512] A. Yes.

Q. What is the date of that?

Mr. Wright: That is dated October 7, 1935.

Q. At the time you made that contract do you recall whether you had any conversation with Mr. Smith about the clearance?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was that?

A. In my office in Ilion.

Q. At Ilion?

A. Yes.

Q. What was said then?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

A. Part had been sold at Herkimer and clearance had been given.

Q. Was anything said by you in reference to the clearance?

A. I was told it was out of their hands.

Q. Trying to get at what you said, if anything.

A. There wasn't much I could say, except ask for reduction on the clearance, which was not granted.

Q. Had you prior to that time asked Mr. Smith for a reduction in that Herkimer clearance?

A. The previous year.

Q. Do you recall what it was?

[fol. 3513] A. No, I don't.

Q. Whe-ver you negotiated the contract?

A. Whenever I negotiated the contract.

Q. What was said then?

Mr. McClennen: Objected to.

A. Practically the same thing.

The Court: Was that about the same time as the other contract?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: State the conversation.

Mr. Wright: As clearly as you can recall.

A. The product had already been sold in Herkimer. I couldn't negotiate a different contract.

The Court: What did you say to him on that subject?

The Witness: That the contract—clearance had been set up at Herkimer. I could buy the pictures that way. I asked him for clearance but he couldn't give it to me. I could ask for reduction but he couldn't grant it.

The Court: What did he say?

The Witness: Reduction in clearance?

The Court: Reduction in clearance. Why did he say?

The Witness: The pictures had already been sold to Herkimer with a clearance.

Q. Did you discuss with him at any time playing pictures [fol. 3514] at Ilion with or ahead of Herkimer?

A. I discussed it with him but it was useless because they didn't sell me my product until after they had sold Herkimer.

Q. Did you have any discussion with him as to the relative character of the theatres at Herkimer and your theatre?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

The Court: The question is the conversation was had. It is leading.

Mr. Wright: Strike it out.

Q. Now did the Schine theatres at Herkimer compare with your theatre with reference to size and age and general construction?

Mr. McClennen: That, if your Honor please, has been ruled out time and again. He can describe each of the theatres, not the comparison.

The Court: That is very true. I don't know how he can base the question of the priorities here on the size of the theatre.

Mr. McClennen: The objection I am making——

The Court: I am agreeing with you.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. You know what the age of the Schine theatre in Herkimer was?

A. It was two years older than the Capitol.

[fol. 3515] Q. What was its size, about?

A. Its size was, I think, around 1100.

Q. Do you know how many of those seats were in the balcony?

A. I think there were more seats—close to 600 seats—more seats in the balcony.

Q. What is the general character of the population of Ilion?

A. Ilion has a little different type population. It doesn't have quite as many foreign extraction as Herkimer. It is practically all American mechanics, where Herkimer, I think, has a large portion of foreign population.

Q. What were the admission prices at the Schine theatre at Herkimer and your Capitol Theatre at Ilion?

A. The same.

Mr. McClennen: At what time?

Q. During the period 1933 through 1936.

A. 10, 20 and 30 cents, same both places.

Q. 10 for what?

A. 10 for children, 20 balcony, and 30 for loges and lower floor.

Q. Who did you deal with at Paramount?

A. Eastman.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. In his office.

Q. Whereabouts?

[fol. 3516] A. Albany.

Q. Did you have any discussion with him there as to when you could play films with reference to when they played in Herkimer?

A. I was not allowed to buy them until they had already been sold to Herkimer.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have that stricken out.

The Court: It is not responsive.

Q. You will have to state, as nearly as you can, just what was said, what you had to say and what he had to say.

Mr. McClennen: General objection.

The Court: Approximately the time when it was said.

A. Asking him for reduction of protection, I was told the same thing, that they had already been sold with protection in Herkimer.

Q. What occurred——

A. All the major companies.

Mr. McClennen: May that be stricken out, if your Honor please?

The Court: Not responsive. Strike it out.

Q. That occurred with reference to Paramount on how many occasions would you say during the period 1933 through 1936?

A. Every year.

Q. Every year when you made a season deal?

A. There was one year that we were led to believe that [fol. 3517] we might purchase Paramount.

Q. Do you know what year that was?

A. I don't know off-hand. I think it was 1933 or 1934.

Q. What was the conversation you had with them that year?

A. That they had closed with Schine at that time.

Q. Do you remember what time of the year that was?

A. No, I do not.

Q. What else was said?

A. That was all.

Mr. McClennen: Objection.

A. That they had closed with Schine and I might buy the pictures clear.

Q. Clear of what?

A. Protection.

Q. Clear of Herkimer protection. Were you given a chance to buy them that way?

A. No, I was not. Eventually Schine bought the pictures with protection.

Q. Who did you do business with at RKO?

A. C. R. Halligan.

Q. He was what?

A. Branch Manager.

Q. At Albany?

A. Yes.

Q. Where did you see him when you talked to him about a deal?

[fol. 3518] A. At my office in Ilion.

Q. Did you have any conversation with him about playing pictures clear of Herkimer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you talk to him about it?

A. At the time I negotiated the contract.

Q. You mean each year?

A. Each year, yes.

Q. That is during the period 1933 through 1936?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was said then?

Mr. McClennen: The same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

A. The pictures had already been sold in Herkimer, with existing protection.

Q. What was said by you?

A. There was nothing I could say. I either had to buy them or let them go. Didn't have any choice.

Q. Were you doing business with Fox then?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who did you make your Fox deals with?

A. Made those with a salesman. I think his name was Keith Goldsmith.

Q. Did you have any talks with Goldsmith about playing clear of Herkimer?

[fol. 3519] A. I did.

Q. When did you talk to him about it?

A. The day we signed the contracts.

Q. You mean each year that you made a season deal?

A. Yes.

Q. What was said then?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: The same ruling.

A. Pictures had already been sold at Herkimer, existing protection was granted.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this marked with the next plaintiff's identification number.

(The letter referred to was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 873 for identification.)

[fol. 3520] Q. I will show you this exhibit 873 for identification and ask if you recognize the signature on there?

A. Yes, Keith Goldsmith, Salesman for the Fox Film Corporation.

Q. Was that signed and given to you on or about the date it bears?

A. It was a rider attached to our contracts.

The Court: Contract of that year?

The Witness: That year. Mr. Schine has the contracts now.

Mr. Wright: I will offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 873 in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: This is objected to, if your Honor please, because it is part of the contract on its face, and the contract is not attached to it, so that it is not a whole document.

The Court: Should it not be included with the contract exhibit?

Mr. McClennen: The contract exhibit has not been offered.

Mr. Wright: He hasn't got the contract. He said these were all the contracts that were marked, for feature pictures.

The Court: Let me see it.

Mr. McClennen: It is also evident that it is an unauthorized statement, agreement, not signed by any authorized [fol. 3521] representative of the company.

The Court: Overruled.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 873 previously marked for identification was received in evidence.)

Q. After you got that Exhibit 873, do you recall whether any of the other major companies sold you any features with less than ten days protection in favor of Herkimer?

A. No, it was ten days. It states ten days there, written "ten days" on the contracts.

Q. Whom did you do business with at Metro?

A. Ralph Pielow.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. I think the last contract was signed in my office.

Q. At Ilion?

A. Ilion.

Q. Did you ever discuss with him whether or not you could play films at the Capitol clear of Herkimer?

A. I did.

Q. What did he tell you?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Witness: Same thing, pictures had already been sold to Herkimer with existing clearance.

Q. How often were you told that?

A. Every time I negotiated for new contracts.

[fol. 3522] Q. That was once a year?

A. Once a year.

Q. Do you recall whom you dealt with at Universal?

A. I can't place the name. The last year it was Nate someone, but I can't recall the name. Nate Sauber, I think.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. In his office.

Q. Where?

A. At Albany.

Q. Did you have any talk with him about playing pictures clear of Herkimer?

A. I did.

Q. What did he tell you?

A. Same thing.

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Witness: Pictures had already been sold at Herkimer.

The Court: When was that?

The Witness: The last contracts that I signed.

The Court: What is the date of that, 1936?

The Witness: 1936.

Mr. Rogers: Will the witness please raise his voice? We can scarcely hear him.

Q. Did you talk to him about it before then?

A. I talked to him every time we signed a contract.

Q. That was how often?

[fol. 3523] A. Yearly.

Q. What was said in the prior years?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: The same man each year?

The Witness: No, no. That year. The previous year I think it was a fellow by the name of Dana in the office.

Q. Do you remember the conversation?

A. I am kind of vague on Universal, because they changed managers so often.

Q. Do you remember what conversation you had with Dana?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: Practically the same, asked for reduction in clearance.

Q. You said you asked for reduction in clearance. What did he say?

A. Pictures had been sold to Herkimer with existing clearance.

Q. United Artists, whom did you deal with?

A. Salesman.

Q. Do you remember his name?

A. I don't remember his name.

Q. I will show you this Exhibit 869, United Artists contract, and ask if that refreshes your recollection?

[fol. 3524] A. Herman. The last name is Herman.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. At my office.

Q. Did you have a conversation with him about playing clear of Herkimer?

A. No, I don't remember in that particular case that I did, United Artists. I knew the pictures had already been sold to Herkimer.

Q. Do you remember having any conversation with anybody from United Artists about that clearance?

A. No.

The Court: Did Schine have any theatres in Ilion?

The Witness: He has now, yes.

The Court: At that time?

The Witness: No, he did not.

Mr. Wright: I think that is all, except these exhibits. I suppose it may be understood that they be read in evidence.

The Court: Yes, they are in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: That is, we understand that Exhibits 865 to 870 are now in evidence?

The Court: Is there any point you make about those exhibits?

Mr. Wright: What is that?

The Court: Is there any point you make on any of these [fol. 3525] contracts?

Mr. Wright: They show the amount of purchase price and the one agreement, I believe, is an agreement not to compete for a period of ten years on behalf of Mr. Whitney and Mr. Pierce in any similar business in the Village of Ilion or within a radius of 35 miles. ~~I have~~ just been informed by Mr. Kallis in response to a subpoena served on the distributors they have produced contracts for this same period. I am going to offer——

Mr. McClennen: Before you get to new exhibits, while we are dealing with the introduction of 865 to 870, it is called to my attention that 870 is a short.

Mr. Wright: That is attached to a feature contract.

Mr. McClennen: The paper marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 870——

Mr. Wright: If you object, I will be glad to remove it and have the stamp placed on the feature contract.

Mr. McClennen: That will simplify it.

Mr. Wright: Put this 870 stamp on here.

(Handing to reporter.)

Mr. McClennen: And cross it off the other one, so that we do not have confusion.

[fol. 3526] The Court: These are the same contracts.

Mr. Wright: The contracts I introduced in evidence were those that the witness produced. In pursuance to a subpoena served on the distributors, they have produced some, and I think before offering them I had better compare the ones he produced so that there are no duplications. I will put in those which are not duplicates of what are already in evidence. You may cross-examine.

Mr. McClennen If later contracts are going to be put in as part of this witness' testimony, they ought to be put in before he leaves the stand. I have no objection to going ahead with the cross-examination now.

Mr. Wright: That is what I intended. I just wanted to compare these with the ones produced by the distributors, so that we can eliminate any duplications.

Mr. McClennen: I was merely calling attention to the fact that they ought to go in as part of this witness' testimony, while he is on the stand.

The Court: They will.

Mr. Wright: That is right.

Mr. McClennen: Then we are in accord.

[fol. 3527] Cross-examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. I want to show you these exhibits and see if you have not, I think inadvertently, made an error in one of your statements. You notice Exhibit 871 is an agreement of December 10, 1936, calling for a subsequent sale of the properties therein mentioned. If you will speak out loud, because we all want to hear.

A. Yes.

Q. Now, pursuant to that agreement, among other things, as a part of that sale, you executed this agreement, Plaintiff's Exhibit 872, of May 24, 1937?

A. That is right.

Q. And in that you observed that there is a reference to a sale and conveyance by agreement executed concurrently herewith. Now, you notice that in Exhibit 871, there was no conveyance. Is it not a fact that on May 24th, 1937, you did concurrently with the execution of 872, execute a conveyance?

A. No, I don't recollect.

Q. Well, now, I show you Exhibit for Identification number, Plaintiff's Exhibit 85 for identification, an agreement dated May 24th, 1937. This is a photostat, and do you recognize the signature of Frank C. Whitney on there for [fol. 3528] Young & Whitney, Incorporated?

A. Yes.

Q. As you see that, it enables you to state, does it not, that at the time of executing Exhibit 872, May 24th, 1937, Young & Whitney, Inc., did also execute a conveyance?

A. Yes. It was such a long period, I have forgotten some of the papers.

Q. I was sure it was just an inadvertence on your part. Without going into the details of the instrument, that was a conveyance of the whole ownership of the Capitol Theatre in Ilion, and a transfer of a lease of the Temple Theatre in Ilion and a transfer of the old Opera House property?

A. That is right.

Q. Those properties in Ilion had all been in the ownership and control of Young & Whitney, Inc., at least since the early part of 1933?

A. That is right.

Q. And there was no Schine interest in Ilion at that time?

A. No, there was not.

Q. And there was but one theatre operating company in Ilion at that time, namely——

A. Young & Whitney.

Q. Young & Whitney, Inc.?

[fol. 3529] A. That is right.

Q. How far away was Herkimer?

A. Three miles.

Q. From 1929 to something like 1933, the Fox Metropolitan operated the Ilion Theatre?

A. Yes.

Q. And the Herkimer Theatre?

A. That is right.

Q. And in those days the Herkimer Theatre had a clearance of 14 days over Ilion?

A. That is right.

Q. When you or the Young & Whitney Company made their first contracts in 1933 for product after that company had reacquired that Ilion operation, you bought subject to a 14-day clearance in favor of Herkimer?

A. No, it was reduced to ten days, I think, in some instances.

Q. Well, now, aren't you thinking of a later date, and before I ask you to answer that question, I show you some agreements which I will ask to have marked for identification.

The Court: The agreement was marked?

Mr. McClennen: I see that I haven't here all that I want in this connection. May I have from Plaintiff's counsel the [fol. 3530] agreement of January 24th, 1933, the Paramount contract with Young & Whitney, Inc., for the year 1932-1933 product?

Mr. Wright: They are all here together. I think that is the top one. I was going to put them all in a folder, and if we had a folder, it would not be necessary to mark these contracts separately.

Mr. McClennen: I think I should want these with a separate number for the examination of this witness.

Mr. Wright: All right.

Mr. McClennen: May I also have the contract of March, 1933, of R.K.O. with Young & Whitney for 30 features of the 1932-1933 product for the Capitol?

Mr. Wright: Here is March 2nd, 1933, that is the group.

(Handing documents to Mr. McClennen.)

Mr. McClennen: And the Warner First National contract with Young & Whitney for the 1932-1933 product.

(Document referred to produced.)

Mr. McClennen: Perhaps instead of having them marked, in view of the suggestion that plaintiff desires to keep them together in folders, will you look at those that I have mentioned and recall that there was a clearance of 14 days [fol. 3531] in favor of Herkimer in the contract that you made for Ilion, that is, the Young & Whitney, Inc., made for Ilion in January, 1933. That refreshes your recollection?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. That you did buy subject to 14 days clearance?

A. Yes.

Q. And would that enable you to say that in all those earlier contracts, while Fox Metropolitan was still operating the Herkimer Theatre, the Ilion theatres of Young & Whitney, Inc., were subject to a 14-day clearance in favor of Herkimer?

A. That is when Young & Whitney operated it?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. And when Fox Metropolitan was still operating the Herkimer Theatre?

A. I presume it was the same clearance.

Q. Now, thereafter the Herkimer Theatre came into the hands for operation of the Schine organization?

A. That is right.

Q. And the clearance was reduced to ten days in favor of Herkimer over Ilion?

A. When you say—it was not returned immediately.

Q. But not long after the Schine organization took over?

[fol. 3532] A. That is right.

Q. From that time on the Schine organization did not receive as much clearance in favor of Herkimer as had been in operation under the Fox Metropolitan operation of Herkimer?

A. That is right.

Q. The means of communication between Herkimer and Ilion is over good roads, and they are short?

A. Yes.

Q. And there are people living within a mile and a half of your theatre in Ilion as it was, and a mile and a half of the theatre in Herkimer?

A. That is right.

Q. It was clearly a commercial benefit to Herkimer to have clearance over Ilion?

A. That is right.

Q. Would tend to make the patronage of the Herkimer Theatre larger than it would be if it did not have that clearance?

A. That is right.

Q. Herkimer is the shopping town of the area, is it?

A. Why, it is the county seat. I presume it would be classed as a shopping town, that is right.

Q. It is the local center of that general vicinity?

A. Yes.

[fol. 3533] Mr. Wright: I want to put the contracts in. I will have them marked by folders.

Mr. McClennen: Are you having them marked for identification?

Mr. Wright: I am offering them.

Mr. McClennen: Are you offering them in a group?

Mr. Wright: By distributors. I have season contracts for each distributor, that were produced by the distributors, in a separate folder, and I am asking to have each folder marked.

The Court: You mean each company's contracts in one folder, for several years?

Mr. Wright: Yes, that is right.

Mr. McClennen: Then may the contents of the folder, each paper, have a separate letter, so that we will know what is in the folder, and a description in the stenographer's record of the date and parties to the contract?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: Then if we find, in this wholesale introduction, that some things got in that ought not to be in we can call attention to it and have it taken out, if it should be.

The Court: Yes.

[fol. 3534] The Court: Surely.

(The five folders referred to, containing various contracts were received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibits 874, 875, 876, 877 and 878 in evidence, and each separate paper in each folder was marked commencing with "A", etc.)

(See last page of today's transcript for descriptive list.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I will show you these Fox contracts that are in evidence in this folder marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 877, and call your attention to the first four of them, which contain the words "Usual clearance". Can you say what that meant in those contracts?

A. "Usual clearance" meant the established clearance behind Utica and Herkimer.

Q. Established how?

A. By the Clearance Board in Albany.

Q. What was the Clearance Board?

A. I don't know. Members of the exchanges who arrived at the clearance, evidently.

Q. Then do you recall what the usual clearance was during this period?

A. Fourteen days, thirteen behind Utica, fourteen behind Herkimer.

The Court: To save time we will take a recess for five minutes.

(Short recess.)

[fol. 3535] By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Pierce, did I understand you to testify on cross examination that when Fox had the theatres at Ilion and Herkimer——

A. When Fox had the Ilion theatre?

Q. Yes.

A. I know they did for a while.

Q. What the arrangements were; did you have anything to do with the contracts that Fox made?

A. Not the contracts. I managed it for Fox. I knew that the same condition existed.

Q. The name of the operating corporation was what, the Central New York Theatres, Inc.?

A. Not in Ilion. That was in Herkimer.

Q. Operated the Herkimer theatre. Did you ever see contract made by the Central New York Theatres, Inc., which simply sold the pictures first-run at the Liberty or Capitol at Herkimer or Ilion?

A. No, I never did.

Q. Did you see the contracts that were made?

A. No, I never did.

Q. You had nothing to do with making the contracts?

A. No, not under the Fox operation.

Q. You don't know what the clearance provisions, if any, were that prevailed between Herkimer and Ilion during the [fol. 3536] Fox operation?

A. I do not.

Q. And those would appear in whatever contracts Fox made?

A. That is right.

The Court: Operating the theatre, wouldn't you know the time? You operated the Ilion theatre while Fox was the owner of both. You would know?

The Witness: Yes, I would know. There was still a clearance existing. I managed it for seven months.

The Court: That clearance was fourteen or ten days?

The Witness: It was fourteen days when it started. I don't know how it finished up.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. What seven months are you talking about?

A. The first seven months.

Q. The first seven months that Fox took over?

A. Yes.

Q. Of the Central New York Theatres, Inc., operation?

A. That is right.

Q. Then you ceased to become manager and that would be the 1931-32 season?

A. That is right?

Q. Did you know what the clearance provisions of the contracts were at that time with Fox, that were negotiated? [fol. 3537] A. I did not. The bookings were all made in Syracuse.

Q. I understood you to tell the Court that you knew that there was a 14-day clearance continued at that time; is that correct?

A. My intention was not to say that.

Q. The fact is you don't know?

A. I had no access to the contracts whatever. I did not know what the bookings were that were arranged in the booking office in Syracuse.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Recross-examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. You did know when you got back the Ilion theatres, and the Fox Metropolitan was still operating the Herkimer Theatre, that the Herkimer theatre then at the beginning of 1933 had 14-days clearance?

A. Yes, I was aware of that as soon as I started operation.

Q. And you found that to be what was the then existing clearance?

A. That is right.

Q. And that is the clearance referred to in this Paramount contract, Plaintiff's Exhibit 878-A, dated January, 1933?

A. That is right.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I think the contract speaks for itself. I don't understand what he means by [fol. 3538] that. The contract states what the clearance was for that year.

Mr. McClennen: Yes, I have brought out the fact that this 14-day clearance was persisting at that time; I would make it perfectly clear,—and instead of the witness I could have called your Honor's attention to Plaintiff's Exhibit 878-A is a Paramount contract of January, 1933, and it provides for 14 days after Herkimer.

The Court: That was the clearance of all of the companies there at that time?

Mr. McClennen: At that time.

The Court: While he was operating Ilion and while Fox was operating Herkimer.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Now, you spoke of the Clearance Board at Albany. That was the Clearance and Zoning Committee set up under the N. R. A.?

A. That is right.

Q. And this Fox contract of September 20, 1934, which has the term clearance usually, I call your attention to these words in it, and I am referring to Plaintiff's Exhibit 877-B, the words "Clearance usual", and then the words "This contract is subject to the ruling of the Clearance and Zon- [fol 3539] ing Committee"?

A. That is right.

Q. And that is what you had reference to as the Board?

A. That is right.

Q. And in the case of some of the companies at that time that was ten days, and in the case of others it was fourteen days?

A. That is right.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Pierce, did you know at the time this contract with Paramount, dated January 24, 1933, was made, whether or not Schine or Fox was then operating the theatre at Herkimer?

A. Well, I must have been aware of it at the time. I can't recollect the date. I must have been aware who was operating the theatre.

Q. Do you have any recollection now?

A. No, I couldn't tell you.

Q. Whether it was Schine or Fox?

A. No, I couldn't.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright, I don't want to intrude on your method of examination, but don't these contracts that [fol. 3540] you put in show it was the Fox Metropolitan that was operating at Herkimer at that time?

Mr. Wright: I don't recall putting in any contract of Fox Metropolitan. The only contracts I offered were those made by Young & Whitney, and I don't think it appears in any of those contracts as to who was operating the theatre at Herkimer at the time any of these contracts were made.

The Court: Would it make such a difference whether the fourteen days continued prior to Schine?

Mr. Wright: I don't see it makes any great difference. I didn't want the witness to be led into making statements, by Mr. McClennen, that he was not competent to make.

The Court: Somebody here should be able to say which was in operation then.

Mr. Wright: The interrogatories should show.

Mr. McClennen: The interrogatories should show if at this time we did not have the Herkimer theatre.

Mr. Wright: If the witness can't recall, obviously, he can't state.

Mr. McClennen: The witness had recalled enough to say that he knew. Now, let me make sure.

[fol. 3541] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Let me make sure. You were aware in the common sense, when you got your Ilion theatres back at the beginning of 1933, that the Fox Metropolitan operation was still going on at Herkimer?

A. Yes, they were, for several months, I think.

The Court: Next witness.

LAWRENCE J. CARKEY, a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Where do you live?

A. Utica, New York.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Theatrical business.

Q. What theatre?

Mr. Rogers: Will the witness speak up? We can't hear him. Was that Utica, New York, where you say you lived?

The Witness: Utica, New York.

[fol. 3542] The Court: What theatre?

The Witness: Family Theatre.

Q. How long did you operate that theatre?

A. Since March 25th, 1940.

Q. Before that were you engaged in the theatre business?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where?

A. Prior to that I was in Pennsylvania.

Q. Operating theatres?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you familiar with the Town of Ogdensburg, New York?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you formerly run a theatre there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For whom?

A. Schine.

Q. When was that?

A. 1926.

Q. What was the name of the theatre?

A. Strand Theatre.

Q. You operated that for how long—you managed the theatre how long for Schine?

A. From September, Labor Day, until the following March.

Q. Then did you have occasion to be in Ogdensburg after that?

[fol. 3543] A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you there in 1940?

A. Not operating theatres.

Q. When was the last time you had any connection with theatre operations there?

A. Oh, possibly 1928, something like that.

The Court: By that you mean some time other than the time you operated the theatre?

The Witness: I was division manager for the Schine Circuit, and I used to go in there after I left there as manager.

Q. That until 1928?

A. Between 1926 and 1928.

Q. What theatres were there in Ogdensburg at that time?
A. The Star, now the Pontiac and the Strand.
Q. Then did you go back there in 1940?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What time of the year?
A. About in July.
Q. What theatres did you notice there then?
A. Strand and Pontiac.
Q. Were they both operating?
A. The Strand was operating.
Q. The Pontiac was closed?
A. I believe Saturdays and Sundays and week-ends.
[fol. 3544] Q. It operated Saturdays and Sundays?
A. Yes.
Q. How big is that Strand Theatre?
A. Oh, possibly thirteen or fourteen hundred seats.
Q. That was how old?
A. What was that?
Q. Do you remember when it was built?
A. It was built back in 1916.
Q. The Pontiac, how large was that?
A. Possibly 700 seats.
Q. Do you recall when that was built?
A. Prior to the Strand, way back.
Q. What was the occasion for your going to Ogdensburg in July, 1940?
A. I tried to find a location for a new theatre.
Q. When you went there, what did you do?
A. I found a location.
Q. Where?
A. City Market, in the City of Ogdensburg.
Q. Where was that City Market with reference to the theatres that were there?
A. On Isabella Street.
Q. Was there a theatre in it at the time?
A. No, sir.
Q. What, if anything, did you do about converting those [fol. 3545] premises to a theatre?
A. They were especially adapted for a theatre, the building.

Mr. McClennen: I move to strike that out.
The Court: Yes, it is not responsive. What did you do?
The Witness: What did I do?

The Court: Yes, what did you do?

The Witness: Repeat the question again, please.

(Question read.)

The Witness: Well, we hadn't done nothing.

Q. Well, did you talk to any city officials about——

A. We talked to the Mayor and the City Clerk.

Q. Then after you talked to the city officials about that, did you return to Ogdensburg again?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this certified copy of the minutes of a meeting of the Common Council held September 4, 1940, marked with the next exhibit number for identification.

(Thereupon certified copy of minutes of Common Council meeting at Ogdensburg, marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 879, for identification.)

Q. I will show you Plaintiff's Exhibit 879 for identification and ask you if the part beginning "City Treasurer, [fol. 3546] City of Ogdensburg, dated August 10, 1940" is a copy of a communication from you?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will offer this exhibit in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: We object on the ground that this is most local in its character, would be a local transaction if it could be described as a transaction, but it is no transaction at all, not in any way admissible in this case, and not to be put in through this witness, having no relation whatever to the defendants in any way.

The Court: Is this certified by the clerk?

Mr. Wright: Yes, this is certified by "I, Simon S. Sargent, City Clerk of said city, do hereby certify"——

The Court: Let me see what it says. I thought counsel said it was not connected with the witness in any way.

Mr. Wright: No, he said, I believe, not connected with the defendants in any way.

The Court: Objection overruled, received.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 879, previously marked for identification, was received in evidence.)

[fol. 3547] Mr. Wright: Mark these.

(Thereupon two blue-prints referred to were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits No. 880 and 881 for identification.)

Q. Then, after your bid was accepted, Mr. Carkey, did you have any plans prepared?
A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, if your Honor please. It does not appear that the bid was accepted. It appears ~~there was a~~ vote of the City Council on the exhibit your Honor has let in.

The Court: It was accepted by action of the Council, the very last clause.

Mr. Wright: It states here: "Alderman Caldwell moved that the bids as enumerated be accepted with the exception of the MacNaughton Market Lease in the bid of Ernest Whitcomb on nine lots. Seconded by Alderman Ramie, all voting in the affirmative with the exception of Alderman Doe voting nay. Motion carried."

The Court: Read the very last.

Mr. Wright: At the bottom of the second page, "Alderman Caldwell moved that the bid of L. J. Carkey be ac- [fol. 3548] cepted subject to a lease to be drawn up by the Market Commissioner together with the Corporation Counsel for a term of ten years with an option of five years. Carried, ayes all."

The Court: What is that certificate? I did not look at the certificate. It seems to be contradictory.

Mr. Wright: I do not so understand it.

The Court: Oh, I see. I will permit him to answer that he drew—certain plans were drawn at a certain time.

Mr. McClennen: My objection was to the characterization in the question.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: If what he wants to show is after that date——

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. I will show you these plans marked Plaintiff's Exhibits 880 and 881 for identification, and ask you if you can tell us what those are?

A. These are plans for the proposed theatre on the MacNaughton Market Building in Ogdensburg.

Q. Who prepared that?

A. Michael D. De Angelus.

[fol. 3549] Q. He is a theatre architect?

A. Yes.

Q. About when were those prepared?

A. Between July 15th and August 15th of 1940. I think it was August 26th, to be exact. I am not sure. It is in there somewhere. I am not sure of the date. It may have been September.

Q. Some time in August or September?

A. That is right.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this letter and lease marked with the next two exhibit numbers.

(Thereupon copy of letter and lease referred to were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 882 and 883 for identification.)

Q. I will show you these exhibits 882 and 883 for identification and ask you if you can say what those are, respectively?

A. Yes, it shows the William B. O'Connell——

The Court: What are they?

The Witness: It is a letter enclosing a copy of proposed lease from the City Council in Ogdensburg.

Q. The letter you refer to is Exhibit 882 for identification?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You received the original of that letter?

[fol. 3550] A. Yes, sir.

Q. On or about September 30th?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 1940. With the letter was enclosed this agreement marked Exhibit 883?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will offer 882 and 883 and 880 and 881.

Mr. McClennen: These three exhibits are objected to on the grounds already stated with respect to the vote. Exhibit 883 is particularly objected to on the further ground that it never became an effective instrument and is not in accordance with the terms of the vote or the bid which the vote purported to accept.

The Court: I think it would be competent, if at all, on the question of what activities the witness made. It would be competent, if at all, to show what activities he engaged in in connection with the effort as claimed to construct a theatre. Not the question of the contents of the instrument. The fact some instrument was prepared. I don't think these plans—he testified the plans were drawn. I think the two [fol. 3551] exhibits should be received as going to show the activities on the part of the witness directed to the purpose.

Mr. Wright: By the two you are referring to 882 and 883. There isn't any claim that this lease was actually entered into.

The Court: The only reason is, showing what his activities were in that connection.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibits 882 and 883, previously marked for identification, were received in evidence.)

Q. Did you execute a lease with the city for this property described in Exhibit 883?

A. No.

Q. Did you go ahead with any theatre project in Ogdensburg?

A. No, sir.

Q. Why not?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

The Court: I will let him state what occurred.

The Witness: I couldn't get the film of the product for the City of Ogdenburg.

Mr. McClennen: I move to strike that out.

The Court: Yes. State what occurred.

Q. Tell us what, if any, efforts you made to get——

[fol. 3552] Mr. McClennen: May that go out, what he said, if your Honor please?

The Court: Yes, strike it out. He made an effort to get films, he said.

Mr. Wright. Just a minute.

The Court: State what happened.

The Witness: After the proposed lease was offered me?

The Court: Yes.

The Witness: I made an effort to contract the various major picture companies for product for this proposed theatre in Ogdensburg. I was advised by each one of them——

Mr. McClennen: May that be stricken out?

Q. Just tell us who you contacted and where.

A. I contacted M.G.M., Warner Brothers, Columbia——

The Court: Who, that is the point?

The Witness: Gene Vogel of M.G.M., salesman. George Tucker of R.K.O., salesman. Jerry Spandau, Universal, Manager. Richard Struwe, Warner Brothers, salesman. Jack Arms of Columbia, salesman. Fred Sliter, Fox salesman, and I can't recall the United Artists salesman.

[fol. 3553] Q. Were those salesmen you have referred to salesmen you were doing business with at Utica?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, if your Honor please, grouping masses of men in a question that way.

The Court: I will let him state he knew these men at certain points and certain places.

Mr. McClennen: That was not the question put, if your Honor please. I object to the question that was put.

Mr. Wright: I don't see that there is any objection to grouping that as such, if they fall into a group.

The Court: Objection overruled. Whether he did business with these men at Utica, is the answer "Yes"?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Where was it that you saw them with reference to product for Ogdensburg?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to. It is obvious he couldn't have seen all eight of them at one place.

The Court: State where it was.

[fol. 3554] A. At my office in Utica.

Q. When was this? Can you recall the approximate time you saw any one of the particular individuals there?

A. July 15th, between the 1st and 15th of July.

The Court: Of '40?

The Witness: Of 1940, yes, sir.

Q. You say you saw them all then?

A. Between the 1st of July and July 15th.

Q. Then do you recall what order you saw them in, or which one you saw first? This is with reference to Ogdensburg.

A. I saw them one at a time, and do you want me to explain the conversation? I saw them one at a time.

Q. I want to fix the order, if you can. If you don't remember the order——

A. I don't know the order in which I seen them all.

Q. Do you remember the individual conversations you had with them?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which individual did you talk to there?

A. Richard Haas of Paramount. I called him in my office from Albany, told him I was negotiating for a theatre——

Mr. McClennen: This is subject to our objection.

The Court: Go ahead.

A. —I was negotiating and had an O.K. to erect a theatre in Ogdensburg and asked him if second-run product was [fol. 3555] available in the city of Ogdensburg and he told me that he thought—he told me that second-run product was not sold in the city of Ogdensburg; and I told him I would be ready in a few weeks to talk to him about product. He said, "All right".

Q. And who else did you see at that time?

A. I seen Jack Arms of Columbia Pictures Corporation along about the same time, and asked him—told him I was about to erect a theatre in Ogdensburg, and asked him if second-run product would be available in Ogdensburg, and he told me "Yes".

I seen Richard Struwe, a salesman for Warner Bros., and told him that in a few weeks I would be ready to talk business with him on product for the city of Ogdensburg, if it would be available, second-run, and he told me "Yes".

I contacted George Tucker, salesman for R.K.O., and told him in a few weeks I was thinking—I had a proposed lease, erecting a theatre in Ogdensburg, and asked him if he would have second-run product available, and he told me "Yes". He didn't know of any second-run product sold in Ogdensburg. He knew it was not.

I contacted Gene Vogel, salesman for M.G.M., and asked him if second-run product would be available in Ogdensburg [fol. 3556] that fall, and he told me there was no second-run product sold. I contacted Jerry Spandau, Manager of Universal, and asked him if the second-run product was available in Ogdensburg, and he told me "Yes". I told him I would be ready to talk to him in a few weeks.

I talked with Fred Sliter, salesman for Fox, and asked him if second-run product would be available in Ogdensburg in a few weeks and he told me "Yes".

That cleans up the major product and people I talked with.

Q. When was the next time you talked with these people you just mentioned about product for Ogdensburg?

Mr. McClennen: I have not interposed a separate objection. Of course, it is understood it applies to all that.

The Court: Yes.

A. This first talk I was telling you about was prior to the proposed lease. It was before I received this proposed lease and then I started and went through this thing with the city officials in Ogdensburg.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have it stricken out, if your Honor please.

The Court: Yes, strike it out. What happened afterwards?

[fol. 3557] A. I went ahead with the negotiations for this lease and contacted——

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have it stricken out, if your Honor please.

The Court: No.

Mr. McClennen: Conclusion of that kind, if it is admissible at all, it should be that he saw so-and-so and talked with so-and-so, or wrote so-and-so and talked with so-and-so, and not his conclusion. I object to the answer and ask to have it stricken out.

The Court: Did you get through with your negotiations? Did you describe the negotiations and talk?

Mr. McClennen: It is for the Court to determine. It is not for the witness.

The Court: State what was done.

The Witness: I notified the Mayor and City Council and City Clerk in Ogdensburg that I was practically sure——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. It does not appear whether this was oral or written, and what he said in either instance, and not notified. I object to this.

The Court: Sustained.

[fol. 3558] Mr. Wright: I take it it is proper for him to say he notified the Mayor and City officials?

The Court: What was done? Did he talk to them or write to them?

Mr. Wright: I take it that comes under the head of what was done.

Mr. McClennen: If notification was in writing the paper should be presented.

The Court: He can say what he did.

The Witness: I drove to Ogdensburg personally. I told them I was practically sure of product.

Mr. McClennen: I object to this, if your Honor please.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. You went to Ogdensburg and you saw—when was this you made the trip you just referred to?

A. Around July 15th, around in there, perhaps before.

Q. Was this after you had the conversations with the film salesmen you just referred to?

A. That is right.

Q. You went to Ogdensburg?

A. That is right.

Q. And talked to whom there?

A. The City Clerk and the Mayor.

Q. Then what did you do after that?

A. Well, they advised me—

[fol. 3559] Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. You can't say what was said. Just tell us what you did.

A. I told them I was ready to proceed with this proposition.

Q. Then what did you do?

A. Well, I had to wait until they got permission from the State to lease that property for other than a market place. They had to get a court order in order to lease that property.

The Court: You mean the City had to get a court order?

The Witness: Yes, sir, because money appropriated for that property was partly appropriated by the State back in the old days when they had the farmers bring their produce there.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Do you know whether such a court order was obtained?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained. The Court order is the best evidence.

Q. What did you do then after you had these conversations in Ogdensburg? Did you go back to Utica?

A. I went back to Utica.

Q. Then did you see any of these film salesmen again?

A. Not yet, no.

Q. What did you do next?

[fol. 3560] A. I had to wait until I heard from Ogdensburg.

Q. Did you hear from Ogdensburg between August 15 and September 30 when you got this agreement, Exhibit 883?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, was that in the form of a letter?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Well, do you recall about when it was?

A. Between August 15 and 30th.

Q. Between August 15th and August 30th?

A. I think it was around before the 15th of August. I think it was the last of July.

Q. Well, then, after you received this further word from Ogdensburg, did you then contact any of the film salesmen?

A. I didn't contact the film salesmen until after August 15th.

The Court: Didn't, what?

The Witness: Didn't contact the film salesmen again until after August 15th.

Q. How soon after did you see them?

A. Between August 15th and the next week or so.

Q. Where did you see them then?

A. My office in Utica.

Q. Who did you see at that time?

A. I saw Fred Sliter of Fox Film Corporation.

Q. What was said then?

A. Told him I was ready at that time to sign contracts [fol. 3561] for second-run product in Ogdensburg, N. Y.

He advised me Schine had bought second-run. He told me they were told by their home office that Schine had bought second-run product in the city of Ogdensburg.

Mr. McClennen: Objected to, if your Honor please.

The Court: Receive it.

The Witness (Continuing): And it could not be available to me, although he could sell me third-run, which I was not interested in.

I contacted Mr. Struew of Warner Bros. and asked him to come in my office. He came in. I told him——

Mr. McClennen: Same objection, if your Honor please.

The Court: Same ruling.

The Witness (Continuing):—I was ready to talk product in the city of Ogdensburg, as per our conversation of a few weeks before. He told me he was very sorry for me, that he was instructed by his home office that Schine had bought second-run in the city of Ogdensburg.

I called in Jerry Spandau of Universal and his salesman was with him. I can't recall his name.

Mr. McClennen: Same objection to this.

[fol. 3562] The Court: Overruled.

The Witness (Continuing): I told him I was ready to talk to him about second-run product for the city of Ogdensburg, and he told me he was ready at that time and he could have made out a contract that day in my office for second-run product in the city of Ogdensburg. I called in Jack Arms, of Columbia. I told Jerry Spandau at that time—he was the first one who offered me second-run—and I told him I would see him in a coule of days, that I wanted to have the major companies in there. I was satisfied I could get second-run Universal.

I called in Jack Arms of Columbia and told him I was ready to talk second-run product for the city of Ogdensburg, as per our conversation of a few weeks before.

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Court: Same ruling.

The Witness (Continuing): And he advised me second-run had been sold to Schine.

I called in Richard Haas of Paramount and told him [fol. 3563] I was ready to buy second-run product for the city of Ogdensburg as per our conversation——

Mr. McMcClennen: The same objection.

The Witness (Continuing): And he advised me Schine bought second-run product for the city of Ogdensburg. I called in Gene Vogel of M.G.M. and told him I was then ready to talk to him.

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

The Witness (Continuing): And he informed me second-run product had been sold in Ogdensburg; that they had been informed by their home office of such fact.

I talked to George Tucker of RKO and he advised me second-run product had been sold in Ogdensburg, which left me only the Universal product.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have the last stricken out.

The Court: The last may be stricken out.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Then what did you do?

A. I had this proposed lease in my possession, ready to sign, so I wrote Ogdensburg, the County Clerk——

Mr. McClennen: I object to that.

[fol. 3564] Mr. Wright: You can't say what you wrote to them.

Q. After you saw these other salesmen did you go back and talk to Spandau about second-run?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you have any further negotiations with any of the film companies for second-run in Ogdensburg?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Mr. McClennen: No questions.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

The Court: We will suspend at this time until tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until tomorrow, Wednesday, October 25th, 1944, at 10 o'clock A.M.)

[fol. 3571] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., ET AL., Defendants

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, October 25th, 1944, 10 o'clock A. M.

APPEARANCES:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Philip Marcus, Esq., and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorneys, in behalf of the United States.

Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rogers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Edward M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the Defendants.

[fol. 3572] PROCEEDINGS

CHARLES S. CANTWELL, a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

(Copy of Ogdensburg Journal, Thursday, September 26, 1940, page 7, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 884 for identification.)

(Copy of Ogdensburg Journal, Saturday, October 26, 1940, page 4, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 885 for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, it appears by the record of yesterday that Exhibit 880, the blue print of September 17, 1940, and the Exhibit 881, are marked for identification only. I had had the impression they had been admitted over our objection.

The Court: They were not received.

Mr. McClennen: They were not received?

The Court: No. He testified the plans were drawn. Of course, Counsel, if you desire to inquire——

Mr. McClennen: No, I just want to be sure that the record was as the matter was left.

[fol. 3573] Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Cantwell?

A. Ogdensburg, New York.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Managing Editor of the Ogdensburg Journal.

Q. How long have you held that position?

A. That particular position since 1928.

Q. I show you a document that has been marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 884 and ask you if you recognize that as page 7 of the Ogdensburg Journal for Thursday, September 26, 1940?

A. That is right.

Q. And I call your attention to the article in the third column from the left at the bottom of the page, headed "Schine Pontiac to open on seven-day basis." Can you tell the Court where you got the information that is carried in that article?

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. It has not appeared he got the information and it is only material if it comes from somebody connected with us.

Mr. Wright: Well, I asked him where he got it.

Mr. McClennen: That is, the person from whom he got it?

The Court: Did you get the material that appears in that exhibit?

[fol. 3574] The Witness: I handled this particular article, yes.

The Court: Now the question is: What was the source of the information that appears in that article?

The Witness: This article was brought in to my office by Jacob Weber, who was the Manager of the Strand Theatre in Ogdensburg.

The Court: By Mr. Weber?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: Go ahead. Does that appear as an advertisement?

Mr. McClennen: That was a news article.

The Court: Oh, a news article?

The Witness: A news article quoting Mr. Weber.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Then I call your attention to this document that has been marked for identification as Exhibit 885 and I ask you if you recognize that as page 4 of the Ogdensburg Journal for Saturday, October 26, 1940?

A. That is correct.

Q. And I call your attention to the ad headed "Schine Pontiac" at the bottom, in the left-hand corner. Do you recall whether that was published as a paid ad on that day?

A. I have no connection with the advertising department but I can testify that it was published on that day in the Journal on that page.

[fol. 3575] Q. And that it was an advertisement?

A. An advertisement of the Pontiac Theatre.

Mr. Wright: I will offer these Exhibits 884 and 885, but it has been already agreed with Counsel that if they are received the papers themselves need not be detached and the data we have referred to, appearing on those exhibits, may simply be read in evidence, and we have already had the reporter record the contents.

Mr. McClennen: We object to the introduction of the papers.

The Court: Well, I think Exhibit 884, the first one, should be received. The next question is: Does it show here who put the advertisement in?

Mr. Wright: I beg your pardon?

The Court: It does not show here who put the advertisement in.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I don't think there is any dispute about the fact it is in the record that the Strand

Theatre there is the Schine Theatre and I don't think there is any doubt but what anybody else, other than the Schine people, advertised the attractions at the Schine theatre.

The Court: Of course, what we don't think about it is not [fol. 3576] very conclusive.

Mr. Wright: I take it there is no dispute about that point.

Mr. McClennen: Seeing that advertisement in the newspaper, I imagine that Mr. Weber probably authorized that be put in. That is all I know about it, and nobody else authorized it.

The Court: That is not the point of your objection then?

Mr. McClennen: The point of my objection went to the other article particularly and I have no objection to its appearing that in the newspaper there was this advertisement. I disclaim its being attributable to anybody but Mr. Weber.

The Court: Objection overruled. I will receive them.

(Page of newspaper, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 884 for identification, was received in evidence.)

(Plaintiff's Exhibit 884 reads as follows: "Schine Pontiac to Open on Seven-day Basis.

Announcement was made this morning by Jacob Weber, [fol. 3577] Manager of Schine theatres in Ogdensburg, that starting Friday the Pontiac Theatre on Isabella Street will run full time.

Mr. Weber stated that now that the fall season is here it is felt that with the curtailment of outdoor activities opening the Pontiac will give the theatre patrons a choice of pictures at any time.

The operating policy will be the most liberal ever offered in this part of the country, he said. All programs will be double-featured, and the usual procedure will be that one picture will be one which has been brought back as an outstanding production, while the second feature will be a first-run. A selected program of short subjects will also be featured.

The admission price will also be reduced.

The opening features for Friday and Saturday are "Saturday's Children" and "Ride-em-Cowboy".") (Plaintiff's Exhibit 885 reads as follows: "Schine's Pontiac, Ogdensburg, N. Y.

(And some detailed description of these two pictures.)"

[fol. 3579] Mr. Wright: We have other volumes of the Journal, with respect to which we wanted to make some negative proof and I discussed the matter with Counsel, who agreed that we could handle this without the identification and offering of the Journal in evidence, by simply making a statement as to the contents.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Wright: What we wanted to show by these issues, which are complete from October 26, 1940, the date of Exhibit 885, through the edition of January 31, 1941, with the exception of November 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th, and December 31, 1940, and January 1, 1941,——

The Court: The charges, you mean?

Mr. Wright: No, what we wanted to show was that the last date during that period on which an ad for the Pontiac Theatre appeared was, I believe, Saturday, December 14, 1940.

The Court: The defendant is willing to concede the date of the last publication, subject to the source, the question of the source?

Mr. McClennen: I said to Mr. Wright that there is, of course, no opportunity to consult this period at this time [fol. 3580] and that if he will give his personal assurance that that was the last advertisement within that period, with the exception of the papers not available, as he has described, that we would take that as the equivalent of the introduction of the newspapers themselves.

The Court: That stipulation is unnecessary to consider only the termination, that is all.

Mr. McClennen: That is all the newspapers there are here.

The Court: There are a lot of newspapers there. We have the last date. That's all.

Mr. McClennen: The last one that is here is January 31, 1941, and this is confined to the period from October, 1940, to January 31, 1941.

Mr. Wright: There is one qualification I would like to add to that. I say that the issue of Sunday, December 15, 1940, also appears to be missing here, and in addition to the showing that the last ad——

What did I say there before?

(The reporter read as follows: "Mr. Wright: No, what we wanted to show was that the last date during that period [fol. 3581] on which an ad for the Pontiac Theatre appeared was, I believe, Saturday, December 14, 1940.")

Mr. Wright: That the Pontiac advertised throughout the period from November, or from the date of Exhibit 885, that is, October 26, 1940, through December 14, 1940, and then did not advertise; there were no ads for the Pontiac after that date through January 30, 1941. Now, of course, this is based on a hasty check that we ourselves made this morning and, of course, if it appears on a further check that there are any inaccuracies, and what I say, I assume an appropriate correction can be made.

The Court: Are you concerned with the publications prior to the last publication? The question here is, in other words, on the statement made by both Counsel, seems to be the question of when the last publication was.

Mr. Wright: There isn't any doubt about that.

The Court: Do you want all the papers, all those dates, you mean, between these two dates shown?

[fol. 3582] Mr. Wright: Yes, in so far as—I stated the period for which we had the publications of the newspaper here, and then my statement was with reference to those newspaper publications, the dates on which Pontiac advertisements appeared and the period when they did not appear.

The Court: You said awhile ago that the question, this question, did not concern the question of charges or prices.

Mr. Wright: No, I was not offering it for that purpose. This was merely to show the discontinuance of the Pontiac operation during this period.

[fol. 3583] Mr. McClennen: That, of course, is not part of our agreement at all. The Pontiac was not discontinued.

Mr. Wright: I did not suggest that it was.

Mr. McClennen: I think you were a little inaccurate in your language. It better be corrected right away.

Mr. Wright: The purpose of the offer was not to show any particular admission prices. That is all.

The Court: Any cross-examination?

Mr. McClennen: No questions.

The Court: Next witness.

William C. Smalley a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Smalley, what is your occupation?

A. I am President and General Manager of the Smalley Theatres.

The Court: You have to speak louder than that.

Q. You have to speak louder so the Court and counsel can [fol. 3584] hear you.

A. Manager and President of the Smalley Theatres.

Q. Where do you live?

A. Cooperstown, New York.

Q. What business is the Smalley Theatres engaged in?

A. Theatrical business.

Q. Operation of motion picture theatres?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where?

A. Cooperstown, Stamford, Delhi, Walton, Sidney, Oxford, Norwich, Camden, Dolgeville, St. Johnsville, Fort Plain, Johnstown. Then I have two summer towns, that run three months a year.

Q. Which are those?

A. Hensonville, Sharon Springs.

Q. How long have you been engaged in the business of operating theatres?

A. About 30 years.

Q. Calling your attention to the year 1930, did you operate in Norwich then?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you begin operations there?

A. It was November 4th.

Q. 1930?

A. 1930.

[fol. 3585] Q. What was the name of the theatre?

A. Strand Theatre.

Q. Were any other theatres operating in Norwich then?

A. Yes, sir, the Colonial Theatre.

Q. Who was operating the Colonial then?

A. Fox Theatres.

Q. During the 1930-1931 season, can you tell us what major film product you exhibited at the Strand?

A. R. K. O., Pathe First National, United Artists and Columbia.

Q. What did you have for the 1931-1932 season?

A. 1931-1932, I had all of First National, all of Warner and all of Columbia.

Q. For 1932-33?

A. 1932-33 I had a split with R. K. O., a split with Warner Brothers, a split with First National, a split with Columbia, a split with United Artists.

Q. When you say "a split" what do you mean?

A. I mean an equal split of half the pictures.

Q. The other half were played at the——

A. At the other theatre.

Q. Colonial?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then do you recall when Schine resumed operation of the Colonial?

[fol. 3586] A. I believe it was in the spring of 1933.

Q. Then, did your theatre burn down in 1932?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that?

A. March 24, 1932.

Q. Was it rebuilt?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And reopened by you?

A. Yes, it was a new theatre and reopened on November 10, 1932.

Q. Then was it renamed?

A. Yes, it was renamed the "Smalley Theatre."

The Court: Was that in 1932, did you say?

The Witness: 1932, yes, sir.

Q. Then, calling your attention to the spring and summer of 1933, did you see, or have any conversation with anybody with reference to licensing the Warner product for the 1933-1934 season?

A. Yes, sir, I saw Mr. Ray Smith, the Manager.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. In Albany.

Q. About when was that?

A. About June.

Q. What was said then?

Mr. McClennen: The usual objection.

[fol. 3587] The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: I just asked about the split——

The Court: What is that?

The Witness: I asked him if I was going to get a split of his pictures for the new season. He told me that he could not tell me anything about that, because that was done in New York.

Q. Then, did you see him later in the summer with reference to a product for Norwich?

A. Yes, he came to Cooperstown in August.

Q. What was said then?

Mr. McClennen: Same objection.

Q. About pictures for Norwich?

A. He came in and said that he was ready to sell me the new product, and so we went in and sat down and started talking over a new deal, and we went over several of my theatres and when he came to Norwich, I said, "What about Norwich?" He said, "Well, I can't sell you any pictures in Norwich." I said, "I need pictures in Norwich just as bad as I do in my other towns," and so we talked about the deal for a few minutes, and he said "Why, I will call up Andy Smith"—he was the salesmanager. So he called up Andy Smith, and he came back and told me that he could not sell [fol. 3588] me Norwich, so he would have to let the thing drop. I told him all right, and he went away, and that is all there was to it.

Q. Then, what other theatres were you operating at that time that you say you talked to him about?

A. Well, I was operating—I was not operating some of the theatres I am operating now. They were different small theatres that I turned over to small operators. I mean they were different theatres than I named. I think there was the Sherburne I was running then, and the Hamilton.

Q. I just wondered about how many there were.

A. About 11 theatres.

Q. About 11 theatres you were talking about?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: Mark these as the next exhibit number.

(Thereupon letter dated November 4th with enclosure, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 886 for identification.)

Q. I will hand you this document marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 886 for identification and ask you if you received that with the attached document shortly after November 4th, 1933?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will offer in evidence Exhibit 886.

[fol. 3589] Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, in connection with the discussion yesterday morning, I desire, if your Honor will permit, to have it made a little more explicit on the record, when these communications, oral or written, between the outsider and the distributor are received in evidence by your Honor. I assume from what was said yesterday that it is with the understanding that they are received as communications and not as any evidence of the truth of the statements contained in them. I take it that this will serve as a good illustration. Here is a letter marked for identification Plaintiff's Exhibit 886, in which it is stated that all the pictures at Norwich of this particular company are under contract to the Schine Theatre. Of course, in many instances, it makes no difference, because the fact—and very likely in this case—the fact is shown by extraneous evidence, but I ask that this type of testimony and exhibit be received not as evidence of the fact as stated in the letter. That was under discussion yesterday morning [fol. 3590] with your Honor, and we ask your Honor to make that ruling, that is, that they are received only as the communications that took place and not as evidence of the truth of the things recited in the oral or written communications, because they are manifestly in that respect so far as we are concerned, merely hearsay, and that the receipt of the evidence be limited to the fact of the communication, and not to the fact declared in the communication, whether it be an oral or written communication. I make the objection to this exhibit marked for identification 886.

Mr. Wright: The document is offered generally, your Honor, without restriction as to what may be the facts or not the facts. This is what Mr. Smith wrote at that time. If it is the truth, it is the truth. If it is not the truth, and contradicted by something else, then it is not true. In any event, that has nothing to do with its admissibility in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: The catch in that remark, if your Honor please, is "If it is contradicted by something else." Now, [fol. 3591] in the course of arguing to your Honor, Mr. Wright said, and it was read to you yesterday, that, of course, these were not offered as evidence of the truth of the statements contained in them——

Mr. Wright: That is not correct.

Mr. McClennen: But merely as to the communications that were made. I have been interrupted by the statement that that is not correct. I am referring to the statement that was read to your Honor yesterday from his position. Now, if he is offering these, and if they are received as hearsay evidence of the truth of the statement contained in them, we have one impressive objection. If they are received only as communications we have a less impressive objection, and it is time, I submit, that it be made perfectly clear whether your Honor is receiving these as evidence of the truth of the statements contained in them, or only as the communications which passed between the parties speaking and the party listening or the party writing and the party receiving the letter. The record should be clear on this, because I respectfully submit that if these are received [fol. 3592] as evidence of the truth of the statements made in them, there is an unanswerable objection to them, that we are having the facts proved against us by hearsay testimony, and I urge upon your Honor that the ruling determine whether these are being received as evidence of the truth of the statement contained in them or only as the communications which passed between the speaker and the listener, or the writer of the letter and the recipient of the letter.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, in the statements that were made yesterday by me with reference to the reception of certain documents, merely to show that certain knowledge was brought home or for other purposes not connected with the truth of the document, it was confined to inter-office memoranda. I said in some instances we would expect the document to establish the truth of the matter that appears on there, and others we were not interested in that precise question. In so far as these letters which are written to witnesses are concerned, there isn't any occasion at the time [fol. 3593] the document is offered for your Honor to attempt to determine whether or not the statements made therein are true or not. Certainly they are, I suppose, prima facie evidence of the truth of the facts that are being communicated if they are facts over which one who writes the communication is supposed to have accurate knowledge. Certainly there is no occasion for your Honor each time any of these exhibits is offered and received in evidence to make any ruling whatsoever as to whether or not what was said in the document is taken as true or false. That, of course, depends upon the view of all the evidence in the case.

Mr. McClennen: There is the precise statement. Of course, it is not necessary for your Honor to determine whether the facts stated are true or false, and no one paying attention to what I have just said could have inferred that I was asking anything of the kind, but here is the statement reiterated that this letter, if it goes in, is prima facie evidence of the truth of the statement contained in it. That [fol. 3594] does not call upon your Honor to determine whether it is true or false, but it does call upon your Honor to resolve the issue between us on this question of the significance of the evidence that is offered. We urge that a letter from an outsider to a distributor, or from a distributor to an outsider is not prima facie evidence of the truth of the statement contained in the letter, that it is no evidence whatever. Now, this is a very fundamental question and one that must be decided, I respectfully submit, by your Honor, and I ask your Honor to rule that these are not received as any evidence of the truth of the statements contained in them. I do not ask your Honor to find that the statements contained in them is false, but I ask your Honor to rule that the letter, if it goes in, is not even prima facie evidence, or any other kind of evidence of the truth of the statement contained in the letter. Now, I am either right or wrong in that contention, and if I am wrong, why your Honor's ruling will determine it. If I am right, I am entitled to have the [fol. 3595] ruling made.

The Court: The exhibit here purports to be a letter from the witness to one of the distributors, as I understand it.

Mr. Wright: No, if the Court please, it is a letter from the General Sales Manager of one of the distributors to the witness.

The Court: Oh, the theory on which a considerable part of the testimony has been received has been that these branch managers or officers occupy positions—general sales managers—were acting within the scope of their authority in the conduct of the affairs to which these letters relate. Standing alone, certain of these letters, such as the one here and other letters, there might be little significance. It has to be connected up, of course, all the time bearing in mind that the distributors represented by these officers are alleged co-conspirators. Of course, the paper itself, if it is received simply for the purpose of showing a communication under a certain date, that might mean very little, but if the Court is correct in its position that the acts of the general sales [fol. 3596[manager bind the company, then it seems to me what the sales manager has written or what he has spoken is competent to be received as some evidence of the fact. I cannot follow your reasoning unless our fundamentals are wrong. Of course, if the general sales manager, Mr. Smith, named here, had no authority to write these letters, to transact business in connection with the Norwich situation, then, of course, my foundation for the reception of this letter as evidence is false.

Mr. McClennen: I apparently have failed to make my position clear. I have no question that Mr. Smith, being the writer of the letter, had authority from Warner to write that letter. He had no authority to tell any one in the world for Schine that Schine had bought his pictures, and it is not binding upon Schine in any way, and it is not evidence that Schine had bought the pictures.

The Court: You waive aside the question of the conspiracy, it seems to me.

Mr. McClennen: I am making my contention and I am seeking your Honor's ruling on my contention. If my con- [fol. 3597] tention is sound, this letter, if it goes in, should be so limited that it is no evidence against Schine, that Schine had bought the pictures as stated in that letter. If I am wrong in my contention, I urge upon your Honor that you make a ruling——

The Court: I shall do that, and I think I realize the importance of the ruling. I might say this, in connection with this letter, this specific exhibit, that this witness has testified to the same facts that are purported to be set forth in this exhibit. He testified Smith told him—I think he did—am I in error?

Mr. Wright: The conversation he had was with Ray Smith, I think, the Branch Manager.

The Court: Oh, that is another Smith.

Mr. Wright: There are two Smiths.

Mr. McClennen: I am not speaking about this being an accurate statement of the conversation between this man and Warner. This presents an opportunity for a specific determination. If your Honor receives this in evidence, we ask you to rule that it is no evidence that, in fact, Schine had bought this Warner contract at this time. I dare say [fol. 3598] that the fact was so, but the difference is this: If this letter goes in as prima facie evidence that we had made this contract with Warner, if it becomes at all important, we have got [illegible] go forward with evidence to show that we did not. If this letter does not go in as evidence that we have made that contract with Warner, then the plaintiff, if it is a material fact, must go forward with evidence to show that we had bought it. I conceive of no way in which to make this clearer, and it is a very important matter as we approach the time when we are called upon to introduce evidence. If these statements, hearsay as to us, are to be taken as truth of the facts stated in them, then there is one line of defense for us to take. If they are taken merely as I respectfully submit they should be, as evidence only of the communication that passed, then there is another line of defense to be taken by us.

The Court: What would be the reason for the introduction if they were offered simply to show that a communica- [fol. 3599] tion passed? To show the date or something?

Mr. McClennen: Why, I don't know what the reason would be. I had assumed that your Honor had received them so as to see what information Warner had at the time Warner acted in the way that it acted, and not as hearsay evidence of what we had done.

The Court: You go a little further when you say you assume it was offered to show that the information was brought to Warner on which Warner acted.

Mr. McClennen: And I am asking that it be limited to that, and not be taken as evidence that Schine had made that contract with Warner. The distinction is perfectly clear. I am right or I am wrong in that contention, and I urge upon your Honor that you rule on that position.

The Court: In taking that position the Government is placed in the position of having to show what was actually done by Warner in this respect.

Mr. McClennen: Was actually done by Schine.

The Court: Or by Schine—well, you say it is receivable [fol. 3600] as showing the information on which Warner acted. The next question is, how did Warner act?

Mr. McClennen: All I say is that this letter should be received as no evidence that Schine had that contract which Warner said that Schine had and——

The Court: Would it make any difference, assuming there is evidence to establish that there was a conspiracy? Would that make any difference in your position?

Mr. McClennen: No, I have stated my position which is that such a letter as this, conspiracy or no conspiracy, and waiving aside any question of whether there has been any evidence of any conspiracy at this time—I contend that in the present state of the evidence in this case, when this letter is offered, that this exhibit 886 for identification, if received, is no evidence that we had made—that Schine had made the contract with Warner therein stated. Now, if I am wrong in that contention, I take it your Honor will so rule, and my objection will be saved. I have taken a specific [fol. 3601] case, because it runs all the way through.

The Court: Yes, it runs all the way through.

Mr. McClennen: If I am right in the contention, your Honor in receiving it will receive it not as evidence of the fact that Schine had a contract with Warner. I have selected this as illustrative clearly and definitely of the distinction which we make, and urge upon your Honor that we have a ruling upon that question.

The Court: The same comparable situation would arise in respect to a large group of exhibits offered here, showing inter-company communications.

Mr. McClennen: It would arise in the case of many of those.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: Of course, some of them are not letters in which anything is stated that Schine had done. Here is something that it is stated that Schine had bought the Warner contract. Now, it furnishes a clear opportunity for us to know how we are to proceed in the defense of this case, and I urge upon your Honor to rule that this letter just received is limited so that it is no evidence that Schine [fol. 3602] had made the contract with Warner stated in the letter, and that if that is a material fact, then that fact must be shown in some other way.

The Court: Aren't these contracts available, Mr. Wright?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, if your Honor should so rule at this time, I think your Honor would be clearly in error. I don't think there is any question at all about the propriety of the position that has been taken so far, that the communications made by the responsible officials of these distributors who are charged as co-conspirators with respect to the business they transacted with Schine, which is in issue in this case, is prima facie evidence of those facts that they set forth, whether they set it forth in a letter to one of these exhibitor witnesses, whether they set it forth in a letter to Schine or whether they record it as a part of their own records. I don't understand that there is any dispute at all among the authorities on that precise point. If your Honor were to now rule that these numerous com-[fol. 3603]munications that have been offered here with witnesses on the stand, with respect to which the point has not heretofore been raised, that, of course, would mean an entire recasting of our case. The consequences would be, as counsel pointed out, we would then, of course, seek to make other proof of those same facts. However, we don't think there is any necessity for such a recasting of our case, or furnishing additional redundant evidence to prove something is so which a responsible official of one of these companies has said is so with respect to his dealings with Schine.

The Court: In this particular case, of course, it is easy enough to produce the contract, is it not?

[fol. 3604] Mr. Wright: In that case there probably would be a contract, that is right.

The Court: It would show whether he had any rights.

Mr. Wright: That is true, but if we were going to be put now to a re-examination of all of the material which has gone in evidence here and determine in which instances we thought it was necessary to confirm or supplement a statement that had been made by one of these officials, as to what the facts were, we would then have to present a different and considerably more extensive case than we have presented, and I submit it would be clear error to compel us to do so, because there isn't any question about the fact that these statements that these people made are at least prima facie evidence of the truth of what they are talking about.

The Court: You have offered in evidence many of these contracts made for pictures and it is easily producable, the contracts made by Warner with Schine for Norwich.

Mr. Wright: We have put numerous contracts in evidence, of course, and we shall put more in, but I submit [fol. 3605] that it is an entirely futile and redundant proceeding to put in evidence a contract to prove something that has already been established by other means.

The Court: Wouldn't it make your case stronger to have the document itself, showing what the terms were, rather than stated by an official of the company?

Mr. Wright: That, I suppose, is a question that occurs in every case that at some point there is a cut-off as to the extensiveness of the record or proof which we want to make. When we have competent evidence in the record of a certain fact I see no reason why we should then attempt to produce additional evidence of the same fact.

The Court: Of course, it is less conclusive upon the Court than the document itself would be. It might give less weight by reason of the fact you don't produce the contract.

Mr. Wright: Decisively a question of weight.

The Court: I give you an exception.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, there was one thing that Mr. Wright said, which I want to refer back to. [fol. 3606] He said these things have been going on in this way. Mr. Rogers made it crystal-clear when this matter was up, and it is right there, read to your Honor yesterday, and I think the page is 286, I have it not before me, of the testimony, that these should not be received, these communications, oral or written, should not be received as any of the evidence.

The Court: Who do you mean made that statement?

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Rogers.

The Court: I don't question that. The point was raised all right. I thought you stated Mr. Wright made the statement.

Mr. McClennen: No, I said Mr. Rogers, and the reason I said it was because of Mr. Wright's statement, nothing that the Court has said, that this was going on in this way, and

I was recalling to your Honor's attention the fact that Mr. Rogers had made it last May or June.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: And at that time this statement appears that of course these are not to be taken as evidence of the [fol. 3607] truth of the matters contained in them. Now, there is nothing at the present time——

The Court: What followed that statement by Mr. Rogers when made?

Mr. McClennen: Have you got that here?

Mr. Rogers: They have it here.

Mr. McClennen: I am speaking of this now, not with respect to what your Honor has done.

The Court: I want to know what the Court said at that time, with reference to the statement by Mr. Rogers; if the Court said it was received under those circumstances, under those conditions, why, the Court wants to know that.

Mr. McClennen: I understand it can be gotten here in a moment.

The Court: Have you other witnesses, Mr. Wright, to follow this?

Mr. Wright: This is the last witness, if the Court please.

The Court: Is this in reference to Norwich alone?

Mr. Wright: Yes, principally as to Norwich.

The Court: I want to step to the telephone just a moment.

(Short recess taken.)

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, the paper that [fol. 3608] was under consideration at the moment, on page 286, was an inter-office communication of one of the distributors. Mr. Rogers said: "May it please the Court, of course these letters cannot be accepted as establishing factually what is contained in these letters. That should be established by the plaintiff by competent evidence, and that is exactly why I objected to the admission of these letters. Mr. Wright: Of course they are not offered for that purpose."

Now, that is what I refer to.

Mr. Wright: Would you mind reading the rest of it?

Mr. McClennen: No, I would be very glad to read the rest of it, but what I referred to was the correctness of my statement of what Mr. Wright had said, and Mr. Rogers having made the assertion that these were not to be taken as any evidence of the truth of the facts in them. Mr.

Wright said "Of course they are not offered for that purpose." Mr. Rogers then continued: "If they are offered not for that purpose will you limit the purpose for which [fol. 3609] you claim they are offered?

Mr. Wright: They are clearly offered to show that Columbia could not and would not deal with this exhibitor until it had been unable to make the deal with the Schine Company and——

The Court: Your letters do not show that, do they?

Mr. Rogers: No.

Mr. Wright: The letter P-10 says very clearly 'We can make more money by selling Long here, get more money out of Long than they would get out of Schine', but Bissell's letter to Jackter says, 'We had to hold the deal up on account of Schine', and what these letters very clearly establish is that they were not able to sell——

The Court: Standing alone they would not show that. I will receive the letters, anyway. If they are competent for any purpose they are competent to be received."

That was said on the strength of what Mr. Wright had [fol. 3610] said, as I have read it to you, "Of course they are not offered for that purpose."

Now, that is what I am urging here, and there has been no change of position. That has been maintained throughout.

The Court: True.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please,——

The Court: I don't think it is necessary to go into that. I overrule the objection and receive the exhibits and give you an exception.

Mr. McClennen: You overrule my motion to have the effect limited so it shall not be taken as evidence of the truth of the matter stated in the letter?

The Court: Yes.

(The letter referred to, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 886 for identification, was received in evidence.)

Q. After you received this letter, Exhibit 886, did you have any further talk with Ray Smith?

A. Yes. Mr. Smith came down to Cooperstown again.

Q. That is Ray Smith you are talking about?

A. Yes, Ray Smith, the manager.

Q. Where did you see him there?

A. I saw him in Cooperstown, in my office.

[fol. 3611] Q. How long after you got this letter was this?

A. I would say two or three weeks.

Q. Then what was said then?

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, to avoid the misunderstanding hereafter, I object to the receipt of this, and I ask your Honor to rule that if received it is not as evidence of the truth of the statements made in the conversation.

The Court: I deny your motion and note your reasons for the objection, the grounds of your motion. Proceed. When was it?

Mr. Wright: Will you read the last question?

(Last question read by reporter.)

A. Mr. Smith come in and told me he couldn't do anything for me; that the product was gone and he couldn't sell me any pictures for that season.

Q. I show you this telegram, dated May 22nd, from you to A. W. Smith, Jr., and letter attached, dated May 24th, both 1934, from Smith to you, marked for identification as Exhibit 888, and ask you if you sent the telegram and received that letter, on or about the dates that they bear?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And I will show you this letter, dated August 9, 1934, [fol. 3612] from you to Mr. Smith, Jr., and the reply dated August 9, 1934, from you to Mr. Smith, Jr., and the reply dated August 13, 1934, from him to you, both marked as Exhibit 887 for identification, and ask you if you wrote and received those letters, respectively, on or about the dates there?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will offer these Exhibits 887 and 888 in evidence,

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, this question having been clearly presented, it will be constantly up and I hate to make a motion every time.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: And the objection every time. May it be understood——

The Court: Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: —as to each of these communications heretofore received and hereafter received, communications between an outsider and a company not Schine, a party to it,——

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: —that we persist in the objection and also in the motion that the letter or oral communication [fol. 3613] should not be taken as evidence of the truth of the matter stated in it, and that your Honor has overruled our objection and denied our motion?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: And our objection is saved.

The Court: That is all that is necessary, it seems to me.

(Mr. Wright hands the letters referred, Plaintiff's Exhibits 887 and 888 to the Court.)

(The telegram and letter, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 887 for identification were received in evidence.)

(The letter, August 9, 1934, and reply, dated August 13, 1934, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 888 for identification were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: If your Honor has read them I won't bother reading them into the record.

The Court: Yes.

(Six papers were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 889, 890, 891, 892, 893 and 894 for identification.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Between the time you got this Exhibit 888 and Exhibit 887 did Mr. Ray Smith, or any other representative of [fol. 3614] Warner's call on you with reference to selling you a product for Norwich first-run?

A. No, sir.

Q. Then after you received Exhibit 887 what, if any, efforts did you make to license Warner Bros. pictures first-run in Norwich?

A. Well, when I was in Albany I would ask the manager if anything different developed. He would say "No, the pictures are sold." That's all I can do.

Q. With reference to the next season, that would be the '34-'35 season?

A. The same way. I wasn't able to buy any product in the next season either.

Q. And the same thing would be true with respect to 1935-36?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. '36-'37?

A. Yes.

Q. '37-'38?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. '38-'39?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. '39-'40?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. '40-'41?

A. Yes, sir, with the exception of once in a while I might [fol. 3615] get a rejected picture during those years. They would spot book or sell me one rejected picture, something like that.

Q. I am referring to season deals, either for a split or for a full deal.

A. No, I wasn't able to buy any.

Q. During that period was there any discussion of terms?

A. Terms?

Q. For Norwich; what you would pay or what you wouldn't pay?

A. No.

Mr. McClennen: This is as to Warner's?

Mr. Wright: Yes, as to Warner's.

A. Yes, as to Warner's.

Q. Then do you recall when a new method of selling was introduced under the consent decree?

A. I believe about '41.

Q. The fall of '41?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell the Court what change occurred in the method of selling Warner films at about that time?

A. Well, they sold their pictures in blocs of five or four, whatever it might be, a bloc of pictures.

Q. Beginning with the fall of 1941 and through the rest of '41, did any one from Warner's offer you or offer to discuss terms with you on any of those blocs that were [fol. 3616] then released?

A. Well, for my other towns, but not for Norwich.

Q. My question was with respect to first-run Norwich.

A. Yes.

Q. Was that true also with reference to 1942 through the month of May?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: You mean by that you did not get the first-run up to May, 1942?

The Witness: No, sir.

The Court: What effort did you make after 1941, after the consent decree, what effort did you make?

The Witness: I tried the same way. I sent wires, letters, and everything.

The Court: All right.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Going back to the year 1933, I will hand you this letter from Mr. Streimer, to you, dated June 27, 1933, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 889 for identification, and ask you if you received that on or about that date?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: We offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 889 in evidence.

(The letter referred to, dated June 27, 1933, Streimer to Smalley, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 889 for [fol. 3617] identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Exhibit 889 is dated June 27, 1933, addressed to Mr. William C. Smalley at Cooperstown, "Dear Bill: Will you kindly see to it that play dates are submitted to us as soon as possible in accordance with the list I left with you showing the undated pictures in your various towns—not forgetting the Disney's.

I'd appreciate very much having this cleaned up before I leave for the Chicago convention, so that I shall be in a position to show that everything is dated.

I have taken the matter up with Mr. Lichtman regarding a split in Norwich on the new product and Al told me to work out a split with you when I got back from Chicago. At this time I might also advise that I received a telegram from Mr. O. L. Van Horne, representing himself as your attorney, concerning the new season's product for Norwich, and I replied to him by separate letter to this effect.

[fol. 3618] With kindness regards, Sincerely yours, United Artists Corporation, Moe Streimer, Sales Manager."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Streimer was the manager at the New York Exchange?

A. Yes.

Q. Then Mr. VanHorne was your attorney at that time, was he?

A, Yes, sir.

Q. After you received this Plaintiff's Exhibit 889 did you see Mr. Streimer?

A. I didn't see Mr. Streimer until August.

Q. Where did you see him then?

A. At Utica.

Q. And who was present at that conversation? Who else was there, any one?

A. Mr. Streimer and myself.

Q. What was said then?

A. Mr. Streimer told me that Schine's had made a complaint to Mr. Lichtman that I had cut my admission prices in some of my towns and he said Mr. Lichtman was very sore about it and before I could discuss to split any more he had to see me to see what it was all about, and I told him it was very untrue, that I hadn't cut any admission prices, and I gave him my admission prices, and he took them back [fol. 3619] with him and he told me he would go back and try again, but he would appreciate it if I would write Mr. Lichtman in regard to the situation.

Q. I will show you this copy of a letter, dated September 5, 1933, from you to Mr. Lichtman, which has been marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 890. I ask you if that is a copy of a letter that you wrote Lichtman on or about that date?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then after you wrote the letter to Lichtman marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 890 did you have any further conversation with Mr. Streimer about first-run United Artists for Norwich?

A. Well, I called him up several times to see whether he could get the split for me and whether he could get me any pictures, and finally he told me, in December, he couldn't get me any, the pictures were sold. he couldn't get me any pictures.

Q. In the meantime had you written him the letter of November 2, 1933, which is from you to Mr. Streimer, and received the reply attached, dated November 4, 1933, both of which are marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 892 for identification?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: We will offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 892 in [fol. 3620] evidence.

(The letter, dated November 2, 1933, and reply, dated November 4, 1933, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 892 for identification, received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Plaintiff's Exhibit 892 consists of a copy of a letter from Smalley to Mr. Streimer, dated November 2, 1933:

"Dear Mr. Streimer: We are asking once more for the opportunity to buy or lease from your Company an equal split of your 1933-34 product, as previously promised, for our Smalley theatre, Norwich, N. Y.

Very truly yours, William C. Smalley."

And the reply, dated November 4, 1933, from Mr. Streimer to Mr. Smalley, states: "Dear Mr. Smalley: Acknowledging your letter of November 2nd, please be advised only this morning we received a letter from the Schine Company, pursuant to our correspondence, concerning a split in Norwich, from which we are quoting below in full:

'In response to your letter of October 30, you are ad- [fol. 3621] vised that we are not in a position to give up a split of your product in Norwich, N. Y., in view of the fact that we have contracted for only such pictures as we actually need to operate our theatre. Signed J. Myer Schine.'

According to this letter you ought to be in a position to buy a lot of other product for Norwich. However, I'll keep after them so far as our own product is concerned and do everything I can possibly can to effect a split.

Sincerely yours, United Artists Corporation, Moe Streimer, Sales Manager."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Then after you got that letter I just read do you recall about when the next time was you saw Mr. Streimer?

A. In December, he called me up and told me that the product had been all sold and he couldn't get me a split.

Q. Now I show you this letter, dated November 9, 1933, from you to Mr. Streimer, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 893 for identification, and ask you if that is a copy of the letter you wrote to him on or about that date? In this letter dated [fol. 3622] November 11, 1933, from Mr. Streimer to you, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 894 for identification, is that the reply you received on or about that date?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 893 and 894 for identification.

(The letter, dated November 9, 1933, Smalley to Streimer, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 893 for identification was received in evidence.)

(The letter, dated November 11, 1933, from Streimer to Smalley, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 894 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Plaintiff's Exhibit 893 is a letter, dated November 9, 1933, from Mr. Smalley to Mr. Streimer, and it says:

"Dear Moe: I note that 'I'm No Angel,' 'Tugboat Annie,' 'Golddiggers,' and other pictures are playing Norwich four days, but your pictures such as 'The Bowery' are only playing two days.

I fail to see the drift of Schine's letter to you and your statement that although Schine bought all of your product [fol. 3623] there should be plenty left. Schine is not only demanding all of your product but he is demanding the product of every other Company, including Monogram.

I am today taking the matter up with the proper authorities in Washington, to see if I see if I shall have 50 per cent of the United Artists Pictures.

Mr. Rosenblatt informed me that I was to have an equal split of pictures from various companies until I had enough to operate my theatre in Norwich. I had already told him that you promised me 50 per cent of your product, but after receiving your last letter I shall, of course, have to refute this statement.

Very truly yours, William C. Smalley."

[fol. 3624] Q. Who was Mr. Rosenblatt?

A. He was the head of the motion picture theatres of the N.R.A.

Q. Administrator of the N.R.A. Code Authority?

A. Yes.

The Court: Mr. or Mrs. Rosenblatt?

The Witness: Mister.

Mr. Wright: Then, Exhibit 894, the reply, is dated November 11, 1933, addressed to Mr. Smalley. "Dear Bill: I have your letter of November 9th, and in reply want to advise that I am going to be in Gloversville on Tuesday of this coming week at which time I am going to try to force an issue direct with the Schines for a split in Norwich. I will advise you of the results of my efforts which I hope will be successful. With kind regards, sincerely, United Artists, by Moe Streimer, Sales Manager."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. And then, did you receive any further advice from him as to the result of his efforts?

A. Well, he called me in December and told me he could not get any pictures for me for Norwich.

[fol. 3625] Q. Then, I will show you this letter of August 9th, 1934, from you to Al. Lichtman, General Manager of United Artists, and the reply to you dated August 14th, 1934, both marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 891, and ask you if you wrote and received those letters on or about the date they respectively bear?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: We offer Exhibit 891.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibit 891, previously marked for identification, was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Mark these, please.

(Thereupon group of contracts referred to were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 895 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: Plaintiff's Exhibit 891 is a letter of August 9, 1934, from Mr. Smalley to Mr. Lichtman. It states: "On May 22nd, I sent you a telegram as follows: "I desire to buy or lease at least 50 per cent of your 1934-1935 product for use in Smalley Theatre, Norwich, New York stop. Please have your representative contact me immediately.' Up to this date your representative has not called on me or communicated with me, and I again request that you [fol. 3626] have him contact me at once, because I desire to buy or lease at least 50 per cent of your 1934-1935 product for Smalley Theatre, Norwich, New York. Very truly yours."

The reply dated August 14, 1934, states:

"We are in receipt of your esteemed letter of the 9th. We have an appointment in the near future to talk with the Schine Theatrical Enterprises who bought our product in Norwich last year. If we can arrange to sell you some of our pictures, at Norwich, we will be glad to do so. Frankly, we have an obligation for all the pictures to Schine, inasmuch as he bought them last year, also because they are good customers, and they usually buy our pictures for all their theatres. However, we will tell Mr. Schine at the time we negotiate with him of your desire to buy some of our pictures and all things being equal we would like to accommodate you. Just as soon as we see Mr. Schine, we will communicate with you either through Mr. Streimer or our Mr. [fol. 3627] Harry Gold. Thank you for your interest. Sincerely yours, United Artists Corporation." I believe that is A. Lichtman, Vice President and General Manager.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I will show you these contracts clipped together with a tab "United Artists, 1934-1935", which has been marked for identification collectively as Plaintiff's Exhibit 895, and ask you if those are the contracts for the United Artists pictures that you bought for first-run in your theatre at Norwich during that season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The deal was made with whom representing the United Artists?

A. Well, part of the deal was made in November by Mr. Streimer, and the other part of the deal was made later on by Mr. Herman.

Q. The contracts dated in November, 1934, are those negotiated with Mr. Streimer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And those bearing the later dates of April, 1935, those were with Mr. Herman, the salesman?

A. Mr. Leon Herman.

Q. Then, did you play those pictures that year?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 3628] Q. Between the time you got the letter from Mr. Lichtman that I last read to you, letter of August 14, 1934, and November, 1934, had Mr. Streimer or Mr. Herman offered you any of those pictures?

A. Well, we had a deal going along right along, trying to buy the pictures, and in November we was able to buy them. I mean, it might have been one time or it might have been two or three times.

Q. Had they been offered to you prior to the time you bought them in November?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What, if any, efforts did you make to buy or license the United Artists films first-run in your theatre at Norwich for the succeeding season? That would be 1935-1936?

A. I tried the same usual way, starting in as soon as the season opened, the buying season, and during the summer I probably saw Mr. Streimer two or three times in New York and once in Cooperstown.

Q. That is with reference to first-run of the 1935-1936 season?

A. 1935-1936 in Norwich, yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall what was said on those occasions?

A. Well, he told me that he was going to try to get me the product, because I had it the previous year, and he said [fol. 3629] certainly there would not be any reason why I would not receive a split if I did not get it all for the 1935-1936, but I never was able to buy any of them.

Q. You did not get a split?

A. No, sir.

Q. Or the season's product was not offered to you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you recall when you were told that you could not have a split of the product or all of it?

A. In December, up to the middle of December.

Q. About the middle of December, 1935?

A. Yes.

Q. Who told you that?

A. Mr. Streimer.

Q. Where was that?

A. That was in, I believe, in New York.

Q. Any one else present?

A. Well, there was probably—there might have been somebody in the office present, I don't know, outside of Mr. Streimer and me.

Q. What was said?

A. He just told me he had tried every way that he knew of, and he said that the deal, the Schine deal, had been handled by some one higher up, and it took it out of his hands, so he could not do anything else, who sold—it was [fol. 3630] sold as a circuit deal, and he was unable to do anything for me.

Q. Did you make any efforts to license the United Artists films for the 1936-1937 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Season deal, that is?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do in that connection?

A. Well, I done practically the same thing, started in as soon as the picture season opened and tried to buy all the while, from then up to December.

Q. Were you offered a season deal?

A. I was never offered anything, with the exception sometimes they would offer me a foreign picture, one picture or two pictures from the foreign market.

Q. Was that true also with respect to the 1937-1938?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. These leading questions——

The Court: That is true.

Mr. Wright: Well, I will take him over it.

Q. What did you do with respect to the next season, 1937-1938?

A. I tried the same way for every year right up to 1942 without any success.

Mr. Wright: Mark these with the next exhibit numbers.

[fol. 3631] (Thereupon correspondence between Mr. Van Horne and Mr. Sauber, marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 896 and 897 for identification.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Do you know whether this telegram, dated June 26th from Van Horne to Sauber, Manager of Universal, and the reply from Sauber to Van Horne, dated July 10th, 1933, were sent and received on or about the respective dates they bear?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Mr. Van Horne that is referred to there was the man who was your attorney at the time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you write and receive on or about the dates they bear, this letter from you to Nate Sauber, dated November 2nd, 1933 and the reply of November 4th, 1933, marked for identification as Exhibit 897?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: We offer Exhibits 896 and 897 in evidence.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 896 and 897, previously marked for identification were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Exhibit 896 is a wire from Van Horne to Sauber, Manager of Universal Film Exchange at Albany. [fol. 3632] "Smalley Theatres, desire the opportunity to buy or lease at least 50 per cent of your 1933-1934 product first-run for Smalley Theatre, Norwich, New York. Our percentage of product to be on an equitable basis."

The reply of July 10th, 1933, from Sauber to Van Horne states:

"Answering your telegram of June 26th, with regard to your request for 50 per cent of our 1933-1934 product for showing at the Smalley Theatre, Norwich, wish to advise that we are not in position to make available for sale any of our product. We are serving the Schine Theatrical Enterprises, who are now operating in Norwich under a franchise agreement which has been in effect since August 1st, 1931. This particular franchise covers all towns that are now operating or any additional theatres they might acquire during the life of our agreement. In accordance with the workings of this franchise, we have no alternative, but to make available to Schine's Norwich Theatre all of the product we intend releasing during the 1933-1934 season. [fol. 3633] Very truly yours, Universal Film Exchanges, by Nate Sauber."

Exhibit 897 is a letter dated November 2nd, 1933, from Mr. Smalley to Mr. Sauber. It states:

"We are asking once more for the opportunity to buy or lease from your company a reasonable portion of your 1933-1934 product for Smalley's theatre, Norwich, New York."

The reply, dated November 4th, 1933, states:

"Replying to your communication of the 2nd, again wish to advise that we are not in a position to offer your theatre in Norwich any portion of our 1933-1934 feature product. If you will recall, we stated in our recent communication that Universal was tied up with Schines Theatres on a franchise agreement whereby we are obligated by the terms thereof to make available our feature product to all Schine theatres."

It is signed by Nate Sauber.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I will show you this document previously marked for [fol. 3634] identification as Exhibit 422, a letter from W. F. Rodgers, or a copy of a letter from W. F. Rodgers, to William C. Smalley, dated July 20th, 1933, and ask you if you have made any search of your files to locate the original that corresponds to that letter?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you been able to find the original?

A. No, sir, I was not able to find the original.

Q. Have you attempted to locate the letter of July 11th that is referred to in the first paragraph of that letter?

A. No, sir—during the N.R.A. I had all my letters——

Q. I don't think you understood the question. Have you attempted to locate the letter of July 11th?

A. I did try to locate it.

Q. Could you find that?

A. No, I could not. 7

Q. Do you have any recollection now as to whether or not you received the original of that letter?

A. I would not want to say that I received it, or I did not receive it, because I haven't the copy, or I haven't the letter.

Q. You don't recall at this time whether you got it or not?

A. I would not want to say.

Q. In the 1933-34 season what major product did you [fol. 3635] first-run for your theatre at Norwich?

A. 1933-1934?

Q. Yes.

A. I had Columbia and a split with R.K.O.

Q. Any others?

A. No, sir, with the exception of independents.

Q. Then for the 1934-1935 season, what, if any, first-run product did you have for the Norwich Theatre?

A. 1934-1935 I had United Artists.

Q. Any others?

A. No other, only slough pictures or rejected. That is the way they call them.

Q. What major first-run, if any, did you have there for the 1935-1936 season?

A. I did not get the question.

Q. I say what major first-run product did you have for the 1935-1936 season?

A. I just had a split of Columbia.

Q. Then for the 1936-1937 season?

A. I did not have any, only just rejects and slough pictures.

Q. For 1938-1939?

A. No major.

The Court: You asked about that before.

Mr. Wright: I am asking him now about what he had in the theatre. I had asked him before with reference to [fol. 3636] negotiations over this period with the companies.

The Court: He testified before after a certain date he did not have any first-run.

Mr. Wright: What was the last question and answer?

(Last question and answer read.)

The Court: 1941, he said, once in a while he got a reject. Go on,

Q. For 1939-1940 and 1940-1941, you had no major first-run, regular deal, either?

A. No deal, but just rejected pictures.

Q. And the same thing was true with respect to 1941-1942 through May, 1942?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. During the period when you had no regular season's deal with first-run major product at Norwich there, what, if any, efforts did you make to license such films other than those you have already spoken about with reference to United Artists and Warner?

A. Well, I sent a wire or telegrams and letters and practically the same that I did Warner's and United Artists, practically every year.

Q. Each season?

A. Every season, yes, sir.

Q. You talked to the Exchange Managers?

[fol. 3637] A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: This is objected to. It cannot be grouped in this way.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Well, can you tell specifically, let us say with reference to R.K.O. now, when was the last year you had a split of the R.K.O. product?

A. 1933-1934.

Q. Then the next season did you try to license for 1934-1935?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whom did you talk to about that?

A. I talked to Mr. McEvoy and Mr. Halligan, and they told me that Schine had a deal for their product, and it was a selective deal, and whatever pictures they rejected I could have, and that is what I did receive, that is what I bought from that day right up to today, is all I ever received from R.K.O., is rejected pictures.

Q. With reference to Columbia, when was the last time you had a split of Columbia?

A. 1935-1936.

Q. Then, did you attempt to license pictures for Norwich for the 1936-1937 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whom did you talk to about that?

A. I think it was Phil Fox, Manager in Albany.

[fol. 3638] Q. What was said?

A. Well, I tried to——

Mr. McClennen: A little louder, please.

The Witness: —buy a product, or buy a split, but I could not buy it, that is all.

Q. Was there any discussion of terms?

A. Well, I offered the same terms that Schine or I paid before. I offered the same terms that I paid before, or Schine was paying.

Q. Can you tell us what, if any, efforts you made to get Metro product during the 1933-1934 season?

A. Well, I sent a wire. Of course, they always sent me back a very courteous letter that they had a good customer in Norwich.

Q. You had not used the Metro product there before?

A. No, sir, I never used any Metro.

Q. Then, from 1933-1934 through 1940-1941, was any offer made to you of a deal for Metro pictures there?

A. Why, I think, not for a deal. I had a few rejected over a period of years.

Q. I am talking about first-run in all these cases?

A. No.

Q. Then, when the new method of selling began in September, 1941, were you given any opportunity to license any Metro blocs?

[fol. 3639] A. No, sir.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained. It calls for a conclusion. Strike it out.

Q. Did you have any conversation with any representative of Metro with respect to the blocs released beginning in August or September of 1941?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whom did you talk to?

A. I talked to Mr. Ripps.

Q. Who was he?

A. He was the manager of the Albany Exchange.

Q. Had you done business with him in your other towns?

A. Yes, I do business with him in all my other towns.

Q. What was your conversation that you had with him?

A. Well, he just—I just asked him about a picture. I says "What about a picture once in a while for Norwich out of some of these blocs." He just smiled and said "You know the situation. We have been over that for years." That is all there was to it.

The Court: Was there anything to prevent your bidding on these pictures?

The Witness: I didn't——

Q. Was there anything to prevent you bidding on these pictures after 1941?

[fol. 3640] A. I bid, but they just tell me that they have a satisfactory account, they don't want to change their account in Norwich. It wouldn't make any difference what I paid or bid, I wouldn't get the pictures. I could not buy the pictures.

Mr. McClennen: I ask that the last be stricken out.

The Court: Yes, the latter part may be stricken out.

Q. With reference to Fox, will you tell us what, if any, efforts you made to get Fox product first-run for your theatre in Norwich beginning with the 1933-1934 season?

A. Yes, sir, I tried to buy with wire or letter and conversation.

Q. Whom did you talk to at Fox?

A. Pardon.

Q. Whom did you talk to at the Fox Company? Whom did you have your dealings with?

A. I think at that time Grassgreen.

Q. What did he tell you?

A. Well, he told me that Schines had all the products bought, and they were a satisfactory customer, and that there was no pictures for sale for me.

Q. Then did they offer you a season first-run deal at any time during the seasons 1933-1934 through 1940-1941?

A. No, sir.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

[fol. 3641] The Court: Strike it out.

Mr. Wright: What they offered, I think, is——

The Court: No, no, that is a conclusion. He may state what was said.

Q. Tell us, then, the talks, as nearly as you can recall them, that you had with Fox representatives after the 1933-1934 season that you have just referred to?

A. I tried every way to buy——

The Court: No, no, what you said.

Q. Just what was said as nearly as you can recall.

A. Well, I sent letters and wires to Fox——

The Court: No, no, what did you say to somebody and what was the reply as you remember it?

The Witness: I talked to Mr. Grassgreen, the Manager.

The Court: What did you say to him and what did he say to you, as you remember it?

The Witness: I asked him if I would be able to buy some Fox product, and he said, "No, you can only buy just the reject pictures Schine don't like," and that is all I could ever buy.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have that last stricken out.

The Court: Strike it out.

Mr. Wright: I think he can say——

The Court: What he could buy is a conclusion. That is not proper.

[fol. 3642] Q. Is that all you ever did buy?

A. That is all I ever did buy, yes.

Q. Beginning with the new method of selling in the fall of 1941, did you have any conversations with the Fox representatives about licensing the films first-run for your theatre at Norwich in blocs?

A. Yes, I have tried to buy blocs——

The Court: What?

The Witness: I tried to buy blocs of pictures each year.

Q. State what you did.

A. In bloc, I tried to——

Mr. McClennen: I ask that it be stricken out.

The Court: It is not responsive.

Q. I called your attention specifically to the fall of 1941, when the small bloc sales began, do you recall whether you had any conversation with any representative of Fox with reference to those blocs that began to be released then?

A. Yes, I tried to buy a bloc.

Q. Whom did you talk to?

A. I talked to the Manager of the Fox Film Exchange in Albany.

Q. Do you remember who that was, or what his name was?

A. It was not Mr. Grassgreen. It was—I can't think of his name for the minute.

[fol. 3643] Q. Was it a fellow that you did business with in your other towns?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us what was said?

Mr. McClennen: This is objected to because the witness characterizes this person as the manager of the Fox Albany Exchange, and not Mr. Grassgreen.

The Witness: Mr. Harry Alexander.

The Court: Just a moment. Can you tell whom you talked with?

The Witness: Yes, Mr. Harry Alexander. He was the manager at that time. It just slipped my mind.

Mr. McClennen: May that last be stricken, if your Honor please?

The Court: He talked with Mr. Harry Alexander. That is the man you talked with?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: The rest may be stricken out, if your Honor please?

The Court: Yes.

[fol. 3644] By Mr. Wright:

Q. Did you know what Mr. Alexander's job was there?

A. He was manager.

Q. At Albany?

A. Yes.

Q. What was said?

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have it stricken out, if your Honor please. The evidence has been put in and it shows that Mr. Grassgreen was the manager at this time, and this witness obviously would not be able to know who was the manager, in the face of the Company's statement it was Mr. Grassgreen..

Mr. Wright: Could I see the record on that?

Mr. McClennen: Page 1369.

Q. Do you remember whether it was Grassgreen or Alexander, or who it was you actually talked to?

A. Mr. Grassgreen was manager, and Mr. Alexander was in there the same time Mr. Grassgreen was, because Mr. Alexander became manager after Mr. Grassgreen went to Boston.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have it stricken out, that characterization.

The Court: He didn't ask about that.

Q. At the time you had this conversation do you recall [fol. 3645] whether it was with Alexander or with Grassgreen?

A. Will you tell me what year you are talking about?

Q. I am talking about the fall of '41.

A. That was Mr. Grassgreen.

Q. When the new method of selling went into effect?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Who was it?

The Witness: Grassgreen.

Q. Did Mr. Grassgreen, or did Mr. Alexander, or anybody else, offer to you any of those blocs of pictures?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, if your Honor please.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Can you tell us what was said?

Mr. McClennen: By whom?

Q. At these conversations you had.

Mr. McClennen: I object if it is "these conversations".
The Court: Sustained.

Q. Do you recall any particular conversation you had with respect to the blocs of films offered by the Fox Company in the fall of 1941?

A. When I was trying to buy—when I bought the product for my other towns I asked Mr. Grassgreen——

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to. All he was asked is if he remembered the conversation.

The Court: Do you remember the conversation about the [fol. 3646] bloc-buying, buying pictures in blocs, some time in 1941?

The Witness: I was unable to buy a bloc.

The Court: I know. But do you remember a conversation with some official in reference to that?

The Witness: I had a conversation with Mr. Grassgreen, the manager of the Fox.

The Court: All right.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. What was said?

A. I asked him if he would sell me a bloc of his pictures for Norwich. He said "No, the picture is already sold to Schine."

Q. Did you have any other conversation with him at that time?

A. Well, practically the same thing every time they come with a block of pictures. They sold five at a time.

Mr. McClennen: May that be stricken out?
The Court: Strike it out.

Q. You did talk to him each time there was a bloc of five released?

Mr. McClennen: Objected to.
The Court: Sustained.

Q. Just tell us when, after this first conversation, you had any further conversations with Mr. Grassgreen with [fol. 3647] reference to Fox pictures for first-run in your theatre at Norwich?

A. Well, I bought—they sold the pictures in blocs of five and every time they offered me a bloc of five pictures for my other towns I tried to buy them for Norwich. I don't know what else I can say.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have it stricken out.

The Court: Strike it out, not responsive.

Q. All you can say is what the conversations you had were, as nearly as you can recall them, if you can fix, first, the approximate dates when you had them.

A. After the consent decree went in 1941 I had conversations with Mr. Grassgreen and Mr. Grassgreen told me it was impossible to sell me any pictures.

The Court: That is the conversation you told us about before?

Q. That is with respect to the first bloc that was offered?

A. That is the first bloc.

Q. Did you have a conversation with respect to the next bloc?

A. Yes, I had a conversation.

Q. What was said then?

Mr. McClennen: This is with Mr. Grassgreen?

The Court: With whom was this second conversation? was this the same man, you mean?

[fol. 3648] The Witness: Yes, Mr. Grassgreen.

The Court: That would be when?

The Witness: That would be '41. I suppose he is talking about '41. Is that what you are talking about?

The Court: You told about the conversation in '41, with reference to buying a bloc. Now is this another one the same year?

The Witness: I wouldn't say whether the next bloc—I cant remember when the next bloc came out, but if it came out in '42 I had a conversation with him then in reference to buying pictures for Norwich, and I asked him if there were any pictures for sale for Norwich and he would say "No."

Q. Now can you tell us something about the general characteristics of your theatre at Norwich?

A. Why, it was built in 1932, Spanish type, and all modern, up-to-date equipment.

The Court: How many seats?

The Witness: 856, all on the lower floor, just one floor.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Can you describe, generally, the Colonial Theatre there, with reference to size and age, if you know?

A. The Colonial Theatre was built in 1914.

[fol. 3649] Q. How large is it?

A. I think it is 1046 or 1044, 1046, I believe, and about 690 seats on the lower floor, and 356 in the balcony, I think is what it is.

Q. Was your theatre, and the Colonial Theatre, the only theatres that were operating in Norwich during this entire period you have been talking about, from '33 through '41?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Norwich is the largest town in which you operate a theatre?

A. No, sir, Johnstown.

Q. And is yours the only theatre in Johnstown or is there another theatre there?

A. No, there is another theatre there, a small theatre.

Q. With respect to the other towns you have operated in, those are all one-theatre towns, are they?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: What materiality has this?

Mr. Wright: I just wanted to give a general picture of the nature of his operations.

The Court: We are not concerned with the other towns. Let us not spend any unnecessary time, whether the others are one-theatre towns or not is immaterial, as far as I can see.

[fol. 3650] Mr. Wright: All I wanted to ask is for the size.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Those were all towns of less than 4,000 people, were they, the other towns?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Throughout this period you played the major product in the other theatres you had?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: He stated that before.

Q. Can you tell us the general location of these other towns you operated in, with reference to the towns in which Schine operated theatres?

Mr. McClennen: If this is being dealt with for Norwich only, I object to this question.

Mr. Wright: If, what?

Mr. McClennen: I understood the Court's suggestion to be we were dealing with Norwich and I understood that this was the place that we were going into, and if so, it is wholly immaterial, the relationship between his other towns and Schine.

Mr. Wright: The complaint covers these features with respect to the other towns, if the Court please. There are allegations with respect to unreasonable clearance over [fol. 3651] towns in which he operated theatres, and I wanted to ask him where those towns were with reference to the Schine towns.

The Court: You are going to show none of these towns were within unreasonable clearance of Schine?

Mr. Wright: Yes, the Schine contracts, of course, will themselves show what the clearance provisions were, but the contracts will not show the locations of the towns over which Schine held clearance, that he operated with respect to the Schine towns. I simply wanted to ask him to locate his towns with reference to those Schine towns.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, the reason I made the objection, Mr. Wright informed me that he was going into Norwich, that he was going to refer to the other towns, but my understanding of what he said—perhaps I misunderstood him—was that he was not going into the question of clearance in these other towns. We have no objection to his going into the clearance in these other towns, but we don't want just a little bite of it. We have got to cross-examine extensively on those if we are to go into them. [fol 3652] Now, if we are to go into them it is because of the clearance charges and we should know whether it is purposed to press with this witness the matter of the clearance charges. I inquired of Mr. Wright, with a view to the preparation to be made. We can go into the clearance all right but we ought to know whether that is a part of what this witness is to testify to and we ought not to be embarrassed by any saving of time when it comes to cross-examine on those subjects.

The Court: I don't want to spend any unnecessary time. If it isn't material he shouldn't go into it.

Mr. Wright: The statement I made to Mr. McClennen was that the testimony would be principally devoted to Norwich. I do intend at this time to cover with the witness any specific product negotiations with respect to any other town. We do expect to show that Schine, by means of the franchises and other circuit deals that it made, got unreasonable clearance in favor of its towns over town- in which [fol. 3653] this witness operated. We expect to show that principally by the contracts themselves. All that we are now offering to show by this witness and all that we propose to take him over on his direct examination is the relative positions, geographical locations, of these towns with respect to the Schine theatres.

The Court: I will let him locate these towns and, of course, — the question of clearance comes up he will be entitled to go into other towns.

State, as quickly as you can, where these towns are located.

The Witness: Only on clearance?

The Court: No, where are they located. That is all.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Just give us the location of the towns where you operate theatres that follow Schine towns on major products and cover the town you follow and the distance between your town and that town.

A. Cooperstown is 23 miles from Oneonta; Delhi is 21 miles from Oneonta.

Q. You operate a theatre in Cooperstown?

A. And I operate the theatre in Delhi.

[fol. 3654] Q. Both of those follow Oneonta?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Go ahead.

A. And then my Sydney theatre has to follow the Norwich theatre, which is 24 miles away.

Q. That is your theatre at Sydney?

A. Yes.

Q. That is 24 miles from Norwich?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Any others?

A. Oxford is my theatre, which is eight miles away from Norwich, and that has to follow Norwich, and St. Johnsville.

Dolgeville is my theatre and St. Johnsville and Dolgeville, and they have to follow Schine's theatre in Little Falls, and Johnstown is a small theatre and that has to follow the Schine theatre in Gloversville.

Q. Those theatres you just named have all been operated by you during what period?

A. During 1930 up to today.

Q. From 1930 to date?

A. Yes.

Q. I don't belive you stated how far St. Johnsville and Dolgeville were from Little Falls.

A. St. Johnsville is, I would say, about eleven miles, [fol. 3655] and Dolgeville is about nine.

The Court: If this is going to take much longer we will have to adjourn. It is a quarter past 1.

Mr. Wright: I would say it would take another five or ten minutes.

The Court: We had better adjourn now until two o'clock.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until two o'clock P.M.)

[fol. 3656] After Recess, 2 o'clock P. M.

Appearances: As before noted.

William C. Smalley, a witness resumed by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, testified further as follows:

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Smalley, how far is Johnstown from Gloversville?

A. I would say about three miles.

Q. Calling your attention to the month of May, 1934, did you have a conversation with Mr. Myer Schine at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where?

A. It was May 24th.

Q. Whereabouts?

A. At Johnstown, New York.

Q. Where in Johnstown?

A. Johnstown is right next to Gloversville.

Q. No, I say whereabouts in Johnstown?

A. At the Johnstown Hotel.

Q. Who else was present if any one?

[fol. 3657] A. No one else was present.

Q. What was said at that conversation?

A. Well, Mr. Schine made an appointment with me to meet him at Johnstown in reference to ten pictures that was awarded by the N.R.A., and we discussed the 10 pictures——

Mr. McClennen: I ask that this be stricken out. What was said?

The Court: Yes.

Q. Tell us as nearly as you can remember what was said by him and what was said by you?

A. Well, Mr. Schine told me that he had the ten pictures that he was willing to reject to me, and I told Mr. Schine that I did not know whether I was going to accept them—the pictures or not, because I might appeal the case, and so then we went over the pictures again and talked about them, and then Mr. Schine said to me, he said, "Bill, why don't you sell me your Norwich Theatre?" And I said "Myer," I said, "why don't you sell me your Norwich Theatre?" And he says, "I am buying theatres; I am not selling them," and the discussion was that if I made up my mind to sell the Norwich Theatre or lease it, that I would let Mr. Schine know.

Q. Those pictures you were talking about were pictures for what theatre?

A. Norwich Theatre.

[fol. 3658] Q. Then did you ever at any later date let him know that you wanted to sell your theatres?

A. He didn't ask me about my theatres. He just asked me about Norwich.

Q. Your Norwich Theatre?

A. No, I never let him know.

Q. Then did anybody else from the Schine organization ever talk to you about buying any of your theatres?

A. Yes, sir, Mr. Willard McKay.

Q. When was that?

A. September 10, 1934.

Q. Nineteen what?

A. 1934.

Q. The date of the conversation with Mr. McKay?

A. September 10th.

Q. Yes, but——

A. 1933.

Q. The year?

A. I told you——

Q. Where was the conversation you had with Mr. McKay?

A. Mr. McKay was 1940.

Q. What time in 1940?

A. It was May—September 10, 1940.

Q. 1940?

A. Yes.

[fol. 3659] Q. Where was that?

A. That was in Albany.

Q. Was any one else present there?

A. No, sir.

Q. What was said at that time?

A. Well, I met Mr. McKay at the Ten Eyck Hotel, and Mr. McKay invited me to Keeler's for dinner. We went down and had dinner, and in about 15 minutes Mr. McKay says "I am here to make a proposition with you for your circuit for the Schine Theatres," and I told Mr. McKay that I was not interested, and he said "Well, if you ever are, let me know."

Q. Is that all that was said then?

A. That is all — was said regarding the dealing, except we might be talking back and forth something.

Mr. Wright: That is all. Cross-examine.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. In the early part of 1942, that is, before May 19, 1942, did you have some signboards with reference to your theatre between Johnstown and Gloversville?

A. I wouldn't know.

Q. By that do you mean that you don't know?

A. No, sir, I do not.

[fol. 3660] Q. Do you get to Johnstown from time to time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you there in the early months of 1942?

A. In Johnstown? Why, I might have been. I don't know.

Q. Well, have you any recollection of being?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you have any recollection of traveling the road between Johnstown and Gloversville?

A. I very seldom ever go to Gloversville.

Q. Now, perhaps that will enable you to answer my question which is: Do you have any recollection of traveling the road between Johnstown and Gloversville?

A. No, sir, I haven't.

Q. You have no recollection of ever going over that road?

A. Oh, yes, I have been over the road.

Q. How often?

A. I would say maybe once a year, maybe, something like that.

Q. Well, then, you do recall going over that road perhaps once a year?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For a number of years back?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. On any of your trips did you ever see a sign of which I show you a photograph?

[fol. 3661] A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that sign*ed* erected by your theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And do you remember how long that sign was up before May 19, 1942?

A. No, I wouldn't.

Q. Well, you do remember that you had a sign on the road between Johnstown and Gloversville, do you not?

A. No, I didn't say that. I said I remembered those signs. I wouldn't know. The managers put those up, put up the billings. I wouldn't know where the locations were.

Q. Don't you ever remember seeing one of them up?

A. I have seen them in Johnstown, but I don't remember seeing one between Gloversville and Johnstown.

[fol. 3662] Mr. McClennen: I will offer the photograph referred to.

Mr. Wright: Has it been marked?

Mr. McClennen: No.

Mr. Wright: The photograph appears to be immaterial and certainly is not related to anything Mr. Smalley testified to on his direct examination.

Mr. McClennen: It is related to clearance which he testified to on his direct examination.

The Court: Let me see it.

(Mr. McClennen hands photograph referred to to the Court.)

Mr. McClennen: It is quite as material as the distance between Johnstown and Gloversville, which he testified to on his direct examination.

The Court: It relates to clearance, you say?

Mr. McClennen: Yes, if your Honor please.

The Court: Standing alone it does not. I thought you meant it had some necessary direct connection with clearance. I will receive it.

(The photograph referred to was received in evidence and marked Defendants' Exhibit D-138.)

Q. I show you another photograph of a sign. Did you ever see such a sign as that in North Arlington Avenue, [fol. 3663] Gloversville?

A. No, sir, I never did. I wouldn't know where North Arlington Avenue was.

Q. Did your knowledge of your Johnstown theatre ever go so far as to know that you were billboard advertising it in Gloversville?

A. No, sir. The manager takes care of that and puts out the billboards and puts up the posters. I wouldn't have time to go all over and check up where every one of those billboards was every time he changes it.

Q. Didn't you have anything to do with the policy of the operation of the Johnstown theatre?

A. Do I have anything to do with it?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Did you approve of the idea of putting up billboards in Gloversville advertising the Johnstown theatre?

A. Well, I told the manager to take care of that himself. I didn't pay any attention to that. I gave him authority to put out billboards and put out posters.

Q. In Gloversville?

A. No, I didn't say in Gloversville. Any place he saw fit.

Q. Did you ever inquire where he put them up?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever caution him not to put them up in Glov- [fol. 3664] ersville?

A. No, sir.

Mr. McClennen: I will offer this second photograph.

Mr. Wright: That is objected to.

The Court: It has not been identified by him as one of the signs, has it, irrespective of where it is put up?

Mr. McClennen: I think it would be arguable from the testimony thus far that he is subject to charge of responsibility for this sign.

The Court: No proof yet it was put up in Gloversville, or anywhere.

Mr. McClennen: What?

The Court: No proof yet it was put up anywhere. It bears a name?

Mr. McClennen: That is true. And I am appreciative of the caution of having these things proved directly.

The Court: Ask the witness. Why don't you inquire of the witness if it is one of the signs he saw put up in different places? Nothing to show yet.

Q. Is this, referring to this same photograph, the type of sign that was put up by your manager?

A. Yes, this is one of my billboards, if that is what you [fol. 3665] want to know.

Mr. McClennen: Well, I will offer this as one of his billboards, without the presence of any assertion as to where it was put up.

Mr. Wright: Same objection. There are two now just alike.

The Court: I will receive it. Of course, it is necessary to connect it up.

(The photograph referred to was received in evidence and marked Defendants' Exhibit D-139.)

Q. Clearance in favor of the Schine theatres in Gloversville over your theatre in Johnstown was of financial advantage to the Gloversville theatres, was it not?

A. I wouldn't know that.

Q. How long have you been in the business?

A. Thirty years.

Q. And you wouldn't know whether clearance in favor of the Gloversville theatres was of assistance to those theatres in their competition with the Johnstown theatres?

A. Oh, yes, I would say yes to that.

Q. That is, it was?

A. Yes.

Q. Of substantial advantage?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Would it be apt to preserve to the Gloversville theatres patronage that might otherwise go to Johnstown?

[fol. 3666] A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the same thing is true with respect to every other one of the Schine theatres that you have mentioned that have clearance over your theatres?

A. I don't quite get that.

Q. It is of financial advantage to the Schine theatres in each of the localities that you have mentioned to have clearance over your theatre in the locality, is it not?

A. No, I wouldn't say that. In towns 23, 24 miles away, I wouldn't say it does.

Q. Does that clearance hurt your theatre in any way?

A. Well, it hurts me in booking.

Q. It hurts you in box office receipts?

A. No, booking pictures.

Q. It doesn't diminish your box office receipts a particle?

A. Not 23, 24 miles away, I would say not.

Q. So as far as box office receipts are concerned you have not been injured at all in those theatres by the fact that a Schine theatre has clearance over your theatre?

A. Oh, yes, I have been injured to the extent I am not able to book my pictures when I want to book them.

Q. That affects your box office receipts?

A. Yes, sir, it does.

Q. And it has the effect of having some of those patrons [fol. 3667] go to other theatres?

A. I imagine so, yes.

Q. And benefits those other theatres to that extent?

A. Yes.

Q. In your negotiations for pictures you seek clearance in favor of your theatres over other theatres in the locality, do you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you regard it as important to your business to have that clearance?

A. Well, not necessarily.

Q. If not necessarily, then possibly?

A. Well, if I didn't have it by way of Schine having clearance over me in another town and if I didn't have clearance over the other little town the other side of me, the other little town the other side of me would get the pictures before I do, because they would have an automatic clearance, which Schine has against me.

Q. And some of the theatres over which you have clearance are theatres that are not ahead of Schine theatres or open booking with them, isn't that true?

A. I don't quite understand that.

Q. Well, perhaps I will put it more simply then. You seek clearance for some of your theatres that are not in a vicinity of a Schine theatre, do you not?

[fol. 3668] A. Yes.

Q. And you get it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you seek it because you think it will help your theatre in the competition with the theatre against which you have the clearance?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It is a valuable part of the purchase of the picture to you, is it not?

A. Is it part of the purchase of the picture, did you say?

Q. I say, it is a valuable part of the purchase of the picture?

A. Yes, to a certain extent.

Q. In those theatres against which the Schine theatres have clearance you purchase, to some extent, by selective contracts, do you not?

A. In the towns where Schine has selective clearance?

Q. In towns over which Schine has clearance you have, in some of them, selective contracts, have you not?

A. Most all of them.

Q. Most all of them. And selective contracts which you have are contracts by which you have the right to select a certain number of pictures of the year's release?

A. Yes.

Q. And the prices are determined, in part, by the char-[fol. 3669] acter of the pictures over which you have the right of selection?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the effect of those selective contracts is to give you the better part of the year's release of the particular company, without being obliged to take the whole of that season's release?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your circuit consists of about how many theatres, take it the first part of 1942?

A. 1942, fourteen.

Q. Fourteen. And in 1932 it was about the same number?

A. No, eleven.

Q. Eleven.

A. I believe that is what it was.

Q. Was that eleven after the Smalley theatre in Norwich had been built?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you have what you call a closed town in every one of those theatres except Norwich?

A. Norwich and Johnstown.

Q. Norwich and Johnstown?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in those towns which you call closed towns you do not buy all the product of any particular distributor, do [fol. 3670] you?

A. Well, I do from probably 25 per cent of the majors, of the big majors.

Q. Take it in general, in your closed towns do you buy substantially all the first-run product of Paramount?

A. Practically, yes.

Q. And of Loew's?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And of Warner's?

A. Yes.

Q. And of RKO?

A. No, I wouldn't say. I didn't buy as many RKO.

Q. And of Fox?

A. What are you speaking of now? I mean are you speaking of the present time?

A. No, I am not speaking of the present time because we are not speaking of anything after May of 1942. Were you buying in that period of from '32 to '42 in your closed towns substantially all of Fox's product?

A. Well, I couldn't tell on that, no.

Q. Any recollection at all about that?

A. I think maybe one year I might buy it all, or 80 per cent, and the next year I might buy 60 per cent. My situation is I could only use so many pictures and I try to buy some from everybody, every major company.

[fol. 3671] Q. In those closed towns, as you call them, did you buy all or substantially all of the product of Universal?

A. No, sir.

Q. Or of United Artists?

A. Well, I might not buy the foreign pictures or the rejects, or something like that.

Q. But you would buy the regular line of United Artists?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Columbia, did you buy the full line in your so-called closed town, of Columbia?

A. No, sir, I think there were about four or five years I didn't buy any Columbia pictures. Maybe it was three years.

Q. In your closed towns?

A. In all of my towns.

Q. Which of the four or five years in which you did not buy any pictures of Columbia in any of your towns?

A. Might have been four or five; might be three or four. I am just guessing at that.

Q. Why did you say four or five? Was it in your recollection that that was fairly descriptive of the number of years you did not buy Columbia in any of your towns?

A. Well, it might be more or less.

Q. Might be more or less than four or five years?

A. Yes.

[fol. 3672] Q. You mean it might be as many as six years you did not buy any Columbia in any of your towns?

A. It could be, yes.

Q. What do you mean by "it could be"? Was it?

A. Well, I don't know.

Q. I wonder if you have any way of thinking it over and telling us whether you are not able, from your recollection, to say that there was no period of six years in which you bought no Columbia pictures for any of your towns?

A. No, I couldn't. I couldn't tell that.

Q. If it may have been six years in which you did not buy any Columbia in any of your towns, when were those six years?

A. When were the six years?

Q. Yes.

A. I would say from '37 to '42.

Q. That is, as your memory serves you now, from 1937 to 1942 you bought no Columbia pictures in any of your towns, is that correct?

A. No, I wouldn't say that.

Q. What did you mean by '37 to '42?

A. You asked me between what period that I thought.

Q. Yes.

A. I told you it was probably between that period and '42.

[fol. 3673] Q. That is the six years that you thought of were between 1937 and 1942?

A. I didn't say six years. I said four or five years, more or less, because I don't know.

Q. Do you also recall that you said it might have been as many as six years in which you did not buy any Columbia pictures in any of your towns? Do you remember saying that?

A. I might have said it.

Q. You don't even remember you said it within the last fifteen minutes?

A. I said I remember saying three or four or four or five years. I remember that.

Q. But you remember saying that it might have been six years, don't you?

A. Yes.

Q. And you remember saying that those six years might have been from 1937 to 1942; you remember saying that, don't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And by that you meant to leave it that it might be that from 1937 to 1942, in those six years, you might have bought no Columbia pictures in any of your towns?

A. I didn't say that. I said I might have bought in not all of my towns. You were speaking of all of my towns. [fol. 3674] I might have bought some Columbia pictures in some other towns and might have bought ten pictures in one town, twenty pictures in another town, and thirty pictures in another town. I didn't mean that they were left right out entirely, that I didn't have a Columbia picture running in any theatre.

Q. Do you remember saying there might have been a period, and it might have been six years long, in which you did not buy any Columbia pictures in any of your towns?

A. If I said that it was an error. I didn't mean it.

Q. You don't recall why you said it, do you?

A. Well, because you asked me the question.

[fol. 3675] Q. You answered it regardless of whether it was so or not, is that it?

A. Oh, no, I wouldn't say that.

Q. Why wouldn't you say that?

A. Because I wouldn't. I am trying to tell you to the best of my memory what I had.

Q. Well, is it the best of your memory that in the six years, 1937 to 1942, you did not buy any Columbia pictures for any of your towns?

A. No, I did not say that. I would not mean that.

Q. Is it the best of your memory that there never was a year from 1932 to 1942 in which you did not buy some Columbia pictures for some of your towns?

A. That is correct, I bought some pictures for some towns.

Q. But there were a good many of those years in which you did not buy Columbia in any of your towns except Norwich, is that true?

A. It might be, yes.

Q. It was, was it not, according to your recollection?

A. No, I say it might be. I couldn't tell whether I bought them for Norwich alone one year, and then maybe the same year I bought some for some other town. I can't remember that, that's all.

Q. In those closed towns if a distributor does not furnish pictures to you, that distributor has no opportunity that [fol. 3676] year to show that distributor's pictures in the town. That is true, is it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the distributors in their negotiations with you ordinarily negotiate with you for your entire circuit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they strive to sell you as many pictures as possible in your closed towns?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they try to sell their pictures in the towns where there is buying competition to those exhibitors who will buy their full line product in that exhibitor's closed town, do they not?

Mr. Wright: May I hear that question.

The Witness: I would not say what they done in general. I wouldn't know anything about that.

Mr. Wright: What was that question?

(Question read.)

Mr. Wright: As to what the distributors try to do generally, I suppose, that should come from some distributor witness rather than from Mr. Smalley.

Mr. McClennen: What was the answer?

(Answer read.)

Q. With those exhibitors that you dealt with, at times you [fol. 3677] told them that you would not buy in some of your closed towns if they would not sell you first-run in Norwich?

Mr. Wright: I think you said exhibitors. I suppose you meant "distributors".

Mr. McClennen: Thank you. I meant distributors. Will you read the question with that correction?

(Question read.)

The Witness: Well, I bought all the other pictures for my other towns, but I couldn't get any pictures in Norwich, so that wouldn't make sense.

Q. That is a piece of information, but now if you will just turn your attention to the question and answer it.

The Court: Did you tell them that, that is the question, that you would not buy the pictures unless they sold you for Norwich?

The Witness: I might have told them that in order to get pictures.

Q. You might have told them that quite a number of different times in the ten years?

A. Oh, no, I wouldn't say quite a number of different times.

Q. Well, how many times should you say in your recollection that you had told them that?

A. If I didn't buy Columbia——

Q. No, how many times?

[fol. 3678] A. How many times? Well, I would say once.

Q. Why do you say once?

A. Because you asked me.

Q. Well, if I asked you twice, would you say twice?

A. Not necessarily.

Q. What?

A. Not necessarily, because you don't let me explain the question you are asking me.

Q. Well, you explain to me the question that I am asking you, will you?

A. You ask the question and let me hear it again. Let me hear the question again, please.

(Question read, as follows: "Q. Well, how many times should you say in your recollection that you had told them that?")

A. I might have told them that to get the pictures, but that didn't interfere me from buying in the other towns.

The Court: How many times, is the question, the number?

The Witness: Oh, I would say quite a few times, but I didn't word it in that way.

The Court: You answered the question.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. When you built in 1932, the Smalley Theatre in Norwich, was that the first time that there had been by name a Smalley Theatre in Norwich?

[fol. 3679] A. Well, I called the old theatre the Smalley Strand, the one before it burned up.

Q. You mean the Smalley Strand bore the name on the outside of the Smalley Strand?

A. That is the way it was advertised, Smalley Strand.

Q. Wasn't it advertised as Smalley's Strand?

A. Because it was the Strand——

Q. I say, wasn't it advertised as Smalley's Strand, the name of the theatre being the Strand and the name of the operator being Smalley? Wasn't that it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the first time that you named the theatre the Smalley Theatre was when you built it in 1932?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you complete the building of the Smalley Theatre?

A. When did I complete it?

Q. Yes.

A. I opened it November 10th.

Q. What year?

A. 1932.

Q. Now, how long had there been no theatre in the town except the Colonial at that time?

A. You mean the difference between the fire and the time that I opened?

Q. The difference between the time when the Strand disappeared in the fire and the time when you [fol. 3680] opened the Smalley, how long a time was that?

A. It was about seven months.

Q. About seven months?

A. Yes.

Q. And in those seven months, you had no occasion for any pictures of any distributor in Norwich, is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. At the time that the Strand burned, you had under contract enough pictures to have run the Strand for a good six months, had you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was the Strand built?

A. In 1919.

Q. And was it equipped for sound?

A. That I couldn't tell.

Q. Did you know anything about the Strand prior to 1930?

A. Well, I know the gentleman that operated prior—before Mr. Schine took it over.

Q. When was that?

A. I think Mr. Schine took it over in 1922.

Q. You had known of the operation before that?

A. I knew Mr. Ford, the man who operated it before that.

Q. From its condition in 1922, did you know anything about it until 1930?

[fol. 3681] A. No, I didn't know anything about it.

Q. The Strand Theatre had how many seats?

A. By golly, I forget. I don't remember.

Q. Well, see if you can't give us some idea. You know that your new theatre, the Smalley, had 856. How did the old Strand compare in seating capacity?

A. Well, when I took over the old Strand, I remodeled it, and reseated it, so I don't remember how many seats the old Strand had, but I could tell you how many seats I had after I remodeled it.

Q. How many seats did you have in 1930 after you had completed your remodeling?

A. I think it was 742, that is as nearly as I can remember.

Q. 742?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember how many new seats you put in, that is, how much you increased the seating, if at all, in 1930?

A. No, I couldn't tell that.

Q. Was the theatre in operation at the time that you took it over?

A. No, sir.

Q. What time did you open it up?

A. Open up——

Q. In 1930, the Strand?

A. On the 5th of September, I think.

[fol. 3682] Q. On the 5th of September, 1930. How long had it lain idle at that time?

A. I wouldn't know.

Q. Weren't you in Norwich investigating before you acquired that theatre enough to get some idea of how long it had been idle?

A. The people that owned the theatre came over to Cooperstown, and I went and leased the theatre before I went—without going over and looking at it.

Q. You mean you never saw the theatre from 1922 until you took a lease of it?

A. I wouldn't say that. I might have been in it—in and out of it once or twice. I don't know.

Q. Before signing the lease of the theatre, how many times, then, recently, had you been in the theatre, the Strand Theatre?

A. Recently?

Q. That is, before you signed the lease under which you opened up in September, 1930?

A. I don't think I had been in it a year before that, I would say a year. It was a year anyway.

Q. Was it in operation the last time you were in it?

A. I believe it was, yes.

Q. Did you go there on an inspection tour, or just to go to the movies?

[fol. 3683] A. No, I just dropped in. I have a habit, when I go to a town, drop into a theatre and look over the back rail and walk out to see whether there is any business or not.

Q. Do you remember doing that in 1930 before you signed the lease?

A. No, I didn't go into the theatre in 1930 before I signed the lease.

Q. But perhaps the year before you signed the lease, you had been in the theatre and looked over to see how the business was?

A. Well, I just went in and glanced around. I had no reason to go into the theatre for anything, because I wasn't interested in the theatre whatsoever.

Q. You said you had a habit of going in to see how business was in the theatre?

A. I might go in a theatre here in Buffalo, and walk in and say "Hello" to the manager and look over the rail and see if there is any business in the house and walk out.

Q. You might do that sort of thing in Norwich?

A. Yes.

Q. The theatre was operating at the time you did this?

A. Yes.

Q. And it was running on second-run product at that time?

[fol. 3684] A. That I would not know.

Q. You mean with your knowledge of the theatre business, you would not know right away whether the product was first or second-run?

A. You are talking about something in 1929. For me to remember that I walked into a theatre and remembered whether it was second-run picture or first-run picture——

Q. Oh, you did not mean, then, that you did not know at the time. You meant you don't remember now whether it was running second-run?

A. Yes.

Q. Didn't you make any investigation before you took a lease as to the way in which that theatre had been operating?

A. No, the people came over and seen me, people that owned the building came over and saw me and asked me if I wanted to lease it. I said "No, I don't believe I am interested." They said Mr. Schine did not want it or the Fox did not want it, and they asked me if I wanted to lease it, and I said "No, I did not think I was interested." They came back two or three times and finally they gave me a pretty good proposition and told me that they would put in some of the money and help fix it up and remodel it, and I said "All right," and I signed the lease with them [fol. 3685] before I ever went over and saw the theatre.

Q. Did they tell you anything indicating that it was a good theatre for you to take on beyond the fact that neither Fox nor Schine wanted it?

A. No, they told me, one of the things they brought out the most, at that time the Strand Theatre had some apartments in it and a couple of stores, and they said they wanted me to come over and run it, because the people were kicking over there. I said I would not be interested in that, that would not bother me any, and I said if I went over there I would want the house remodeled.

Q. Well, now, apart from the fact that the people were kicking and that Schine did not want the theatre and Fox-Metropolitan did not want the theatre, what else did they tell you about the theatre that seemed to make it a good proposition for you to take the lease on without looking at it?

A. Well, the lease they gave me, I thought it was a good proposition. After they told me they would pay for fixing it up and putting on a stage and so, I figured there must be four walls there, anyway.

Q. Where did you get the idea that it needed fixing up?

A. Pardon?

Q. Where did you get the idea that it needed fixing up?

A. Well, what I wanted was a stage more than I wanted [fol. 3686] anything else.

Q. Well, where did you get the idea that it needed a stage?

A. Because they told me they did not have any.

Q. What else did they tell you that made that an attractive type of theatre for you to get?

The Court: Is it essential to go into these details, Mr. McClennen?

Mr. McClennen: I am desirous of developing, if your Honor please, the type of house this was in the competition for pictures with the Colonial.

The Court: I think it should be done in a less roundabout way. I think we will save a little time by going right to it. He said he did not see the theatre prior to the time he bought it. He can describe the building. You asked him why he did not know there was a stage there and he said he was told that. You can ask him his knowledge of what the building was.

Mr. McClennen: I suggest to your Honor we are very much interested in the candor of this witness, and I should like to develop those things that might bear on it, but I will depart from the line on your Honor's suggestion.

By Mr. McClennen:

[fol. 3687] Q. Describe to me the condition of that theatre at the time you first went into it in 1930?

A. Well——

The Court: Go ahead and describe it. You ought to be able to do that.

The Witness: That is just what I was thinking. It had a booth in the middle of the auditorium. I remember that, and we took that out, and, of course, I don't know who owned the equipment, if Mr. Schine or whoever owned the equipment that was in there, that was taken out before we went in there, and what we done is redecorated the place and put on a small stage, Western Electric sound and fixed it up and went ahead. That is about all I can tell you.

The Court: Was this a large opening—had it been used for a picture show before?

The Witness: Oh, yes, there was a picture show in there.

The Court: Who did you say owned it before that?

The Witness: Mr. Layton.

The Court: You mentioned another name was the owner of operator.

The Witness: Mr. Schine.

The Court: When was that? When did Mr. Schine [fol. 3688] operate it?

The Witness: Mr. Schine had it, I think, from 1922 to 1929, when he sold out to Fox.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, so that there may be no misunderstanding, he did not own it. Schine did not own it.

The Court: I did not know. It was operated by Mr. Schine from 1922 to 1929?

The Witness: When I went in there Fox was operating the Schine house, the Fox people, and this house was, that I went in, was the other house that—I don't know whether it had been closed or whether it was running. I wouldn't know that.

The Court: I thought he said Schine leased this particular house, the so-called Strand.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor is inquiring for the fact?

The Court: Yes, I am inquiring from the witness.

Mr. McClennen: The fact is that the Schines operated as lessees from 1922 to 1929.

Mr. Wright: The witness so stated.

Mr. McClennen: The Strand Theatre. What?

Mr. Wright: As I understood it, that is what the witness said.

The Court: I just wanted to get it straight in my mind. [fol. 3689] At that time Fox was operating the other theatre?

Mr. McClennen: No, your Honor.

The Court: Do you mean Schine was operating both of them?

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Schine became the owner of the Colonial in 1921. He operated the Colonial and he operated the Strand as lessee from 1922 to 1929.

The Court: That answers my inquiry. Go ahead.

Mr. McClennen: And then Fox-Metropolitan operated both of them, both the Colonial and the Strand.

The Court: To the time the witness took over?

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Is that correct?

A. I don't believe Fox ever run the Strand. I think the Fox just took over the Colonial.

Q. You mean you did not see the operation in the Strand Theatre after 1929?

A. I did not see the operation?

Q. You spoke of being in the Strand Theatre in 1929 and it being in operation?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know by whom it was being operated at that time?

A. No, sir, I do not.

[fol. 3690] Q. Well, now, you were describing what you did to the Strand in 1930. Had you described all that you did?

A. Well, no, I haven't described. I might have put down carpets, or I might have painted the outside, or I might have done a lot of things. I don't remember exactly all the little details.

Q. Do you remember any big things?

A. Yes, I put in Western Electric sound. That was pretty big.

Q. Do you remember anything else?

A. I put in some seats.

Q. Do you mean the theatre was not equipped for sound at all when you took the lease?

A. No, sir.

Q. That is, it had never been operated as far as you knew up to the time you took the lease as a theatre with sound, that is, for sound pictures?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. So that at that time it was a brand new operation for it in the fall of 1930?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was the first time that it had ever operated with sound as far as you know?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And by that time substantially all the pictures pro- [fol. 3691] duced by the various distributors were sound pictures, were they not?

A. Yes, they was practically in 1930—some of them were half and half and some of them were a hundred per cent.

Q. Up to the time that you opened the Strand, there was no place in Norwich in which a distributor could have his sound pictures shown except in the Colonial?

A. That I would not know.

Q. Well, you never in any investigation that you made then or thereafter discovered any other place, did you?

A. I didn't know whether there was ever sound in the Strand Theatre or not when Mr. Schine run it. I didn't know anything about that.

Q. You never heard of there being sound in that theatre?

A. I don't remember, no, sir.

Q. When you visited the theatre there was no sound equipment in there?

A. I don't remember that. I remember going into the theatre and going through town on my way to Hamilton, and I just stopped off and looked the theatre over, that is all.

Q. So far as you were concerned, you took it up as a new proposition at that time?

A. As far as I was concerned, I put in sound when I opened up, if that is what you mean.

[fol. 3692] Q. You did not take on any existing good-will of anybody else?

A. No.

Q. You started a new proposition?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You operated up to the time of the fire, a year and a half, about?

A. Yes.

Q. And at that time the Colonial was already running the first-run of the great bulk of the moving picture releases of the period?

A. They were running all of the first-runs, did you say?

Q. The great bulk, I say?

A. Great part of it?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I had quite a lot of product in 1930-1931.

Q. Well, now, for 1930-1931, the Colonial had Metro, that is, Loew's?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Paramount?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Fox?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. R.K.O.?

A. No, I had R.K.O.

[fol. 3693] Q. They had no R.K.O.?

A. Not as I knew of.

Q. Did they have any Warner?

A. Yes, they had all of Warner.

Q. That included First National?

A. No, I had First National.

Q. That is, dealing with it in terms of Vitagraph, Vitagraph put out all the Warner pictures and all the First National pictures?

A. Not in those days, no. They were supposed to be partners, but they had different exchanges, and there were different salesmen and different contracts and different managers.

Q. And the Colonial had all of Warner?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did the Colonial have all of Universal?

A. I believe it did, yes, sir.

Q. Did the Colonial have all of Columbia?

A. No.

Q. Did the Colonial have any of Columbia?

A. That I don't remember. I had Columbia, but I don't know as I had a hundred per cent or not. I had——

Q. Did the Colonial have United Artists?

A. No, I had United Artists.

Q. Did the Colonial have any United Artists?

[fol. 3694] A. That I would not know.

Q. Now, of R.K.O., you had a split of the product in 1931 to the time of the fire, did you not?

A. No, I did not. I did not have R.K.O. I didn't have R.K.O.—I had R.K.O. 1930-1931, not 1931-1932.

Q. That is, you did not have R.K.O. 1931-1932?

A. No, sir.

Q. And when the 1932-1933 product was released you had no theatre in operation?

A. When the 1932-1933——

Q. Yes.

A. Was released?

Q. When that releasing season began, you had no theatre in operation?

A. Yes, I had a theatre in operation.

Q. When did it burn down?

A. It burned down March 24th.

Q. March 24th, 1932?

A. Yes.

Q. When the 1932-1933 releasing season opened, you had no theatre in operation, isn't that so?

A. The releasing season opened in the fall always, and 1932-1933 would start just about the time I opened my new theatre.

Q. You mean R.K.O. releasing season started in 1932-[fol. 3695] 1933 in November?

A. No, I wouldn't say November. I think they used to be in September.

Q. When did you open your theatre?

A. November 10th.

Q. What?

A. November 10th.

Q. Now, is it not pretty easy for you to say that when R.K.O. releasing season for 1932-1933 opened in September of 1932, you had no theatre in operation? That is true, is it not?

A. Yes, that would be true.

Q. Now, you say from 1931-1932, that season you did not have the R.K.O. product?

A. No, I did not have the R.K.O. product.

Q. And Fox-Metropolitan was then operating the Colonial Theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. They showed in that season R.K.O. product?

A. Well, I imagine they did, yes.

Q. Then, for the 1933-1934 season, that was after Schine had re-acquired the Colonial and was operating it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in that season you had one-half the R.K.O. product?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 3696] Q. That was more of the R.K.O. product than you had had since the 1930-1931 season, was it not?

A. I beg your pardon? I had a split of it the year before you are talking about.

Q. Then I misunderstood you. Didn't you say that for the 1932-1933 season you did not have the R.K.O. product?

A. No, I had the split in 1932-1933. I said 1931-1932. I said I did not have R.K.O. 1931-1932. I had a split 1932-1933.

Q. Then you had a split of the 1933-1934 R.K.O. product?

A. Yes.

Q. And a split was approximately 26 pictures?

A. Why, I imagine so, yes.

Q. And then of the 1934-1935 product you had 20 R.K.O. pictures?

A. They were the rejected pictures. I had no contract. I just took the pictures that were rejected by Mr. Schine.

[fol. 3697] Q. My question was whether you had them or not? Did you?

A. Yes, I had 20 RKO pictures.

Q. And you had, for the 1935-36 product RKO, 15 pictures?

A. I imagine. I am saying yes. I would have to check my records to be correct.

Q. Then the next year, the 1936-37 product, you had from 28 to 34 pictures, that is, not more than 34 and not less than 28, of the RKO product?

A. But I don't know as I got that many.

Q. That was your contract?

A. That was the contract I had.

Q. And for 1937-38 you got the same kind of a contract, that is, for not less than 28 nor more than 34 RKO pictures?

A. There is a clause in there——

Q. Did you get that contract?

A. I got some RKO pictures.

Q. And the provision there was that you should have not less than 28 nor more than 34?

A. Well, the provision was that Schine would have the choice.

Mr. Wright: It seems to me the simplest way to get at the provision is to offer the contract.

The Court: It is cross-examination.

Mr. McClennen: I was perfectly willing to do this. I thought this was so clear we could get it as quickly the [fol. 3698] other way.

The Court: He can state. It is cross-examination. He can state, if he knows.

Mr. Wright: As I understand it, it is perfectly clear from the contract what he got were the pictures that Schine rejected. If there is an attempt to show there was something else, all right.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright, I am not cross-examining you. I am cross-examining the witness.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Is this contract dated September 7, 1937, approval date September 9, 1937, with RKO, the one that you refer to?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: Is that one the producers produced?

Mr. McClennen: That is one Mr. Clagett—yes, it is from distributors' files.

Mr. Wright: It apparently was previously identified. I thought we might as well put it in under the same number.

Mr. McClennen: We might just as well give it a number. It is alone.

(The contract, dated September 7, 1937, approval date September 9, 1937, with RKO, was received in evidence and marked Defendants' Exhibit 140.)

[fol. 3699] Mr. McClennen: Defendants' Exhibit 140 is the contract just described in the questions to the witness, signed by Smalley Chain Theatres, Inc., W. C. Smalley, and the clause as to the pictures is: "Exhibitor agrees to use all pictures rejected by Schine, not to exceed 34 pictures or to be less than 28 pictures, if distributor produces 54 features as scheduled."

Q. What was the reason for inserting, do you recall, the top limit of 34 pictures in the contract?

A. What was the reason for that?

Q. Yes.

A. I wouldn't know.

Q. What?

A. I wouldn't know, what that reason was for.

Q. You knew why the figure 28 was inserted, did you not?

A. Well, Schine has the pick of all of those pictures there.

Q. You knew why the figures 28, was inserted, did you not?

A. I think there was a percentage figured out that I would get a certain percentage of the pictures and after Schine rejected so many, why, I would get a certain percentage of them. I think that was the way it was figured out.

Q. What was the percentage based on, do you remember?

[fol. 3700] A. No, I don't.

Q. You notice that this was based on a total production of 54 pictures, a split would have meant 27. Now, why was 28 put in as the number that you should be entitled to get?

A. 28 instead of 27?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't know.

Q. Now, in the case of Columbia you had some contract in every year from the 1936-37 season through the 1940-41 season, did you not?

A. Those were rejects. I had no contract, I don't believe.

Q. Didn't you?

A. I say I don't believe I had a contract.

Q. Don't you remember having a contract?

A. I think most of the—I might have a contract if they sold me three or four rejects.

Q. Do you mean to say you don't remember having a contract with Columbia in those years?

A. I had so few contracts with the majors.

Q. I am asking you about Columbia.

A. Well, Columbia is supposed to be a major.

Q. And therefore do you remember whether you had contracts in those years for Columbia?

A. I did the year I had the split.

[fol. 3701] Q. You had some contract with Columbia in every one of those seasons, did you not?

A. Well, I had—there might be a minimum contract. You can't make a contract up at the beginning of the season for pictures if you don't have them.

Q. Did you have some contract with Columbia in every one of those years?

A. I might have had.

Q. Don't you remember that you did have?

A. No.

Q. For 1935-36 is this Columbia contract, dated August 12, 1935, approved August 21, 1935, signed by you? Look at the signature. That is what I am asking you about. It is down at the bottom of the page.

A. Yes, but, by the way, you said on that other contract it was my signature and it was not. On the other contract you showed me it was "per". You did not read the "per", the one who signed it.

Q. Which was the "per" one? The RKO?

A. Yes.

Q. It was your contract, wasn't it?

A. Yes, but——

Q. Look at this and see if this is signed by you or by a "per"?

A. This is signed by me, yes. This is the year I had the [fol. 3702] split. I said I had a contract the year I had the split.

Q. All I was asking you was whether this was signed by you.

A. Yes, it was.

Mr. McClennen: I will offer that.

Mr. Wright: No objection.

(The contract, dated August 12, 1935, approved August 21, 1935, Columbia Pictures Corporation, was received in evidence and marked Defendants' Exhibit 141.)

Mr. Wright: That was what season?

The Court: '36-'37?

Mr. McClennen: That is '35-'36, if your Honor please. Now, this contract, Defendants' Exhibit 141, by Columbia, with W. C. Smalley, reads: "Total number of feature motion pictures offered 52; total number of feature motion pictures licensed 52."

Q. That was the contract that you made, was it not?

A. No, sir, I made an understanding I would release 50 per cent, before they would let me buy this.

Q. You agreed to take 52 pictures unless they chose to recall half of them?

A. Yes, that is right.

Q. And the contract that you signed and they signed was for 52 pictures, was it not?

[fol. 3703] A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then there was a separate agreement made, which is attached, is it not, to Exhibit 141?

A. Yes, sir

Mr. McClennen: The attachment, if your Honor please, is in terms: "It is agreed and understood between both parties that Columbia Pictures Corporation shall have the privilege of withdrawing one-half of the 52 pictures from this contract sold to William C. Smalley of the Smalley Theatres, Norwich, N. Y., this date. It is also understood and agreed that the one-half of the product which shall be withdrawn will be determined by Mr. William C. Smalley of the Smalley Theatres, Norwich, arranging two even splits of the product, and the opposition theatre, which may buy the other one-half of the split shall have the privilege of selecting which split they wish to buy, or the opposition theatre may arrange the split and Mr. Wm. C. Smalley of the Smalley Theatre, Norwich, New York, will have the privilege of selecting which one-half of the product they shall retain."

[fol. 3704] The Court: It seems to be a sort of contradictory position, doesn't it? It gives one party the right of selection and then the other party the right of selection.

Mr. McClennen: No, if your Honor please, it gives Mr. Smalley first this opportunity to arrange the two blocs.

The Court: What do you mean by "arrange"?

Mr. McClennen: I mean to determine which picture shall go in one bloc and which in the other.

The Court: Where do they go from the bloc? Do you mean by that Mr. Smalley could select 26 out of the group or half of them?

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Smalley may determine which shall go in one bloc and which shall go in the other bloc and then the opposition theatre may determine which of those blocs it will take or——

The Court: You mean grouping half of them together and half of them together?

Mr. McClennen: That is exactly it.

The Court: And then select which bloc?

[fol. 3705] Mr. McClennen: The opposition selects which bloc they will take, and conversely, if the opposition determines what shall be in each bloc then Mr. Smalley has the choice of the blocs.

The Court: 50-50?

Mr. McClennen: 50-50.

Q. Now, when you made your contract for the rejects for the 1938-39 season, do you say that you offered to pay as much for the select pictures as Schine paid?

A. In 1938-39?

Q. Yes.

A. Whose product?

Q. Columbia.

A. Well, offered to pay whatever they asked. They asked a price.

Q. Well, you say you offered to pay what Schine was paying for the select product?

A. No, the understanding is that when they split the product if——

Q. I am not speaking of split product. I am speaking of the time when you made the contract for rejects.

A. Oh, rejects.

Q. At that time you say you offered to pay as much as Schine was paying for the select product?

[fol. 3706] A. Oh, no, I wouldn't pay as much for rejects as I would for selects.

Q. No, no. Don't you remember saying that you said that you offered, if you could have the select product, to pay as much as Schine was paying?

A. That is right.

Q. And at that time Schine was paying $125 a picture for the select pictures, was he not?

A. I don't know.

Q. You knew what you were offering to pay, didn't you?

A. I wouldn't know anything about what Schine paid for pictures.

Q. You just said, without knowing what Schine was paying, you would pay what Schine paid; is that it?

A. No, when they would come in to me they would say, "We certainly wouldn't sell you any cheaper than we would sell Schine", and I said, "That's all right. I will pay the same price."

Q. You did not inquire what that price was?

A. What was the use of inquiring what the price was?

Q. You did not inquire what the price was?

A. I inquired if they would sell me pictures.

Q. You did not inquire what the price was?

A. I did not inquire about the price.

Q. That is what I have asked you.

[fol. 3707] A. If I could get a picture to inquire about——

Q. You did not inquire about the price that Schine was paying at the time you had this talk about you would pay whatever Schine was paying, did you?

A. If I did inquire they wouldn't tell me.

Q. You didn't inquire, did you?

A. Certainly I did.

Q. You did?

A. Certainly.

Q. Did they tell you he was paying $125 a picture?

A. That I wouldn't remember.

Q. Did they tell you under preferred pictures, in the preferred bracket, he was paying $150 a picture?

A. I wouldn't know what they told me.

Q. You wouldn't know but what those were the figures that Schine was paying?

A. How would I know?

Q. You didn't know, did you?

A. No.

Q. And you got your pictures for $25 a picture, did you not?

A. I don't know. If I did I did. I don't know.

Q. Don't you remember anything about it?

A. About rejects?

Q. Or about the price of rejects?

A. Yes.

[fol. 3708] Q. Wasn't it $25?

A. I imagine that is right, about right, yes.

Q. And that was the price, the highest price, that you paid for Norwich to Columbia in any subsequent year?

A. I don't think that is true. You have got contracts that you just looked at that I paid over $100 for pictures in Columbia. You had a contract here a few minutes ago.

Q. After 1938-39?

A. On 1938-39, no. I didn't pay it to them because I didn't have the opportunity.

Q. I ask you whether it wasn't a fact that those you bought from Columbia or after you paid only $25 a picture?

A. I couldn't swear to that.

Q. Well, do you remember paying any more than $25 a picture after that date for any Columbia pictures?

A. I don't remember whether I did or whether I didn't. I paid whatever they asked me.

Q. Now, in buying pictures you have found, have you not, that you can sometimes get a better price out of the distributor if you don't hurry up too much in buying? Haven't you found that?

A. If I don't hurry up?

Q. Yes.

A. I will buy pictures in Norwich any time I can get them.

[fol. 3709] Mr. McClennen: Will you read the question?

The Witness: Are you talking about Norwich or talking about all theatres in general?

Mr. McClennen: I am talking about buying pictures that you are familiar with.

(Previous question read by reporter.)

A. Not necessarily, no.

Q. You never found that out?

A. Sometimes you do and sometimes you don't.

Q. You have found out, have you not, that when the season has progressed so far that you are the only available customer for the distributor that you can sometimes make a better trade on prices, have you not?

A. No, that is silly.

Q. What?

A. That is silly.

Q. You have found that to be silly, have you?

A. No, I say it is silly to make that statement.

Q. You have found it to be silly to wait until late in the season in buying, have you?

A. No, I never did wait until late in the season unless we had some argument about something, but I mean I wouldn't—of course today it is different when you are buying five pictures at a time.

Q. Oh, I was referring to the earlier time. You did not [fol. 3710] make your Columbia contract for the 1936-37 product until April 30, 1937, did you?

Mr. Wright: What product are you talking about?

Mr. McClennen: The Columbia product.

Q. That is a fact, isn't it?

A. '36-'37, for the '35-'36, did you say?

A. I said '36-'37 product. You did not make your contract for, you did not sign your application for, before April 30, 1937, did you?

A. Speaking about Norwich?

Mr. Wright: I submit the examination would be quite a bit fairer if he would be shown the contract.

The Witness: Speaking of Norwich or the towns?

Q. Speaking about Norwich.

A. Probably not, if I signed a contract, because they wouldn't know what pictures were rejected before that time.

Q. I show you contract of Columbia, approved May 6, 1937, purporting to be signed W. C. Smalley, by—can you tell me the name of the signer?

A. Tarbell.

Q. He was your manager?

A. No.

Q. Who was he?

[fol. 3711] A. He was a fellow who assists me in booking, that's all; a booker.

Mr. McClennen: I will offer that.

Mr. Wright: No objection.

(The contract, approved May 6, 1937, with Columbia Pictures Corporation was received in evidence and marked Defendants' Exhibit 142.)

Q. Now I call your attention to Defendants' Exhibit 142 and it is clear, is it not, that it is for twenty pictures, without any name or designation to the particular pictures, except they are of special feature attractions, group W-4, with the provision in the run and clearance, first run only on pictures rejected by the Colonial? Those are the terms, you see, of the contract?

A. Yes.

Q. And no pictures had to be rejected before you made that contract?

A. Well, it says right on there "rejected pictures", so I couldn't get them until they were rejected. It says right in your clause they were rejected pictures and how could I get them until they are rejected?

Q. What is there that stood in your way of making that contract in the fall of 1936 for 20 pictures, limited to be only those that should be rejected by Schine?

[fol. 3712] A. Well, I tried other ways to buy the pictures and I couldn't. All I got were the rejects.

Q. You referred to the efforts which you made to get pictures and correspondence with respect thereto. Did you receive a letter of June 3, 1940, from Leonard S. Picker of the Legal Department of Columbia, addressed to you, in the terms of what purports to be a copy of a letter?

(A pause.)

The Court: Can't you tell whether that is a copy of a letter received by you?

The Witness: I have to get down in it to tell whether I received it. I believe I received that letter. I think I have a copy of it.

Mr. McClennen: I offer that.

Mr. Wright: No objection.

(The letter, dated June 3rd, 1940, to Smalley, was received in evidence and marked as Defendants' Exhibit 143.)

(Mr. McClennen read Defendants' Exhibit 143 as follows:

"June 3rd, 1940.

Mr. William C. Smalley, Smalley Theatres, Cooperstown,
N. Y.

Dear Mr. Smalley:

Your telegram of May 27th addressed to Mr. Abe Mon- [fol. 3713] tague has been turned over to me for my attention.

I beg to advise you that the offer made by Columbia to you in the past, as repeated in a letter addressed to you by my associate, Mr. Moross, is once again repeated by me, namely—that Columbia Pictures Corporation is ready, willing and able to have its representative meet with you and discuss the licensing of an equitable split of our pictures to you provided you are prepared to pay a fair price for the same.

According to our records, Mr. Louis Weinberg, of our Sales Department wrote you on December 7th, 1939 that he would be glad to meet you at any place convenient to yourself if you would give him forty-eight hours notice, and I am certain that if you had a sincere desire to buy Columbia Pictures you could have found some time between December 7th, 1939 and January 4th, 1940 to meet him.

However, despite your failure to meet with our business representative, Columbia has made honest and sincere efforts to contact you and sell you a fair and equitable split, [fol. 3714] but at no time have you been willing to sit down with Mr. Weinberg to discuss same.

As you undoubtedly know, Mr. Weinberg is leaving today for the Columbia convention and will not be available to discuss this matter with you until June 18th, and if you are sincere in the statement you made in your wire of May 27th, you can make arrangements with Mr. Joe Miller, our Albany Branch Manager, for an appointment with Mr. Louis Weinberg for any time after June 18th.

Yours very truly, Leonard S. Picker, Legal Department.")

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Did you receive a letter of November 13, 1939, addressed to Smalley Theatres, Inc., signed by Irving Moross, of the Legal Department, of which I show you what purports to be a copy?

A. Yes.

Mr. McClennen: I offer that.

Mr. Wright: No objection.

(The copy of letter, dated November 13, 1939, signed by Irving Moross, to Smalley Theatres, Inc., was received [fol. 3715] in evidence and marked Defendants' Exhibit 144.)

(Mr. McClennen read Defendants' Exhibit 144 as follows:

"November 13, 1939.

Smalley Theatres, Inc., Cooperstown, N. Y.

Attention Mr. W. Smalley

Gentlemen: Your letter November 7th, addressed to Mr. A. Montague, has been turned over to me for reply. Upon investigation of your complaint I find that the same is entirely unfounded as for a number of years past we have offered to you at least one-half of our product for exhibition in your theatre in Norwich. Our offer to you has been on fair and reasonable terms. In each instance you have declined to accept such offer and have made a counter-offer in terms so low that the terms were not acceptable to us. I would be very happy to have our representative meet with you and discuss licensing of a split of our pictures to you provided you are prepared to pay a fair price for the same.

Yours very truly, Irving Moross, Legal Department.")

[fol. 3716]. Q. Of the 1936-1937 product, did the Columbia Company have a lot of trouble with your circuit in procuring datings and liquidating of the 1936-1937 product?

A. I wouldn't know that.

Q. You don't remember anything of that?

A. I remember there was some deal where at the end of the season we bought some pictures for the next year to wash up the following delinquency on the previous year, that's all I remember, there was some kind of a deal on it.

Q. When the releasing season came to the end, you were behind on the playing of the product that you had of that season?

A. Well, there was some pictures there that we did not care to play, and it was understood with the Columbia people that they would rechange them for some others on the new season.

Q. And they, you remember, were urging you before the end of the season to play up those pictures, and you said you did not want to play them?

A. I said I did not want to play them?

Q. Yes.

A. There is a lot of pictures I don't want to play, but I have to.

Q. What I said was, you said to them that you did not [fol. 3717] want to play those pictures?

A. I don't recollect that.

Q. You recollect within the last three minutes saying that there were certain of those pictures that you did not want to play?

A. Yes, I said that.

Q. Didn't you tell them you did not want to play them?

A. Well, I would have to play them if they don't——

Q. Didn't you tell them you did not want to play them?

A. No, I did not tell them in that way.

Q. Do you know how they found out that you did not want to play them?

A. They exchanged them for some other pictures.

Q. Do you know how they found out that you did not want to play them?

A. They probably wrote me a letter and told me about it, is all I know.

Q. Now, you referred to a complaint that was made about your low-admissions. Do you remember your testimony this morning on that subject?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Having cut——

A. Yes.

Q. As early as 1934 you had cut admission prices for children at matinees down to 5 cents, had you not?

[fol. 3718] A. I think we run a couple special matinees for children. Never was no regular price.

Mr. Wright: Where was this? I did not hear the town.

Mr. McClennen: 1934.

The Witness: Is this supposed to be Norwich?

Mr. McClennen: Norwich.

Mr. Wright: Is this Norwich?

Mr. McClennen: This is Norwich.

Q. You advertised in the town five-cents admission for children?

A. That was just for special matinee.

Q. You did advertise it, did you not?

A. I might have put it on——

Q. Don't you know that you did?

A. I imagine I did.

Q. Why say you might have when you know that you did, did you not?

A. If you had an ad of it I did, yes.

Q. Then again in 1934, you put in that same ad, did you not?

A. Well, I couldn't tell how many I put in, or I couldn't tell how many of those special kiddie matinees I ran. I don't remember.

Q. You advertised in 1934 that five-cent admission for children matinees a number of times, did you not?

A. I wouldn't know how many times that I advertised it.

[fol. 3719] Q. You remember that it was a goodly number of times, don't you?

A. I remember it was two or three times.

Q. And then you repeated that same thing in later years, did you not?

A. That—I don't know that, no.

Q. Then you advertised free tickets to students, did you not?

A. Free tickets to students?

Q. Yes, that is exactly what I said, free tickets to students?

A. No.

Q. You advertised them, did you not?

A. I never run any free shows.

Q. What?

A. I never run any free tickets that I know of.

Q. You never advertised any free tickets to students?

A. Unless there was some catch in it, I don't know.

Q. You mean to say they could not get in even if they tried it?

A. Oh, no, I don't mean that, but I mean, there must be some catch in your paper you have there or something.

Q. Did you ever see any of these tickets that I show you?

(Handing to witness.)

The Court: What is your answer? Did you see these [fol. 3720] tickets?

The Witness: Yes, sir, I have seen those tickets.

Q. And did you issue tickets to children at five cents?

A. I have already stated we had kiddies' matinee. I don't know what tickets we used for the kiddies' matinee. There is no price on those tickets.

Q. Did you ever see any of these which I show you bearing a stamp date of October 25th, 1939 on the reverse side?

A. Yes, that is a kiddie matinee.

Mr. McClennen: I offer that.

Mr. Wright: This is objected to on the ground it is immaterial to any of the issues here that are being tried.

The Court: What does it purport to be?

Mr. McClennen: This purports to be a free ticket good for all students.

Mr. Wright: That has nothing to do with the direct-examination.

The Court: Overruled.

(Thereupon ticket purporting to be a free ticket to students, was received in evidence and marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-145.)

Mr. McClennen: This is a card about three or four inches long, two inches wide, saying: "Smalley's Norwich Theatre, [fol. 3721] special morning matinee, Saturday, October 21st, at 10 A. M. Big triple show. Hit No. 1, from the famous Sunday comic strip, Dick Tracy's G-men. Hit No. 2, Gene Autry, "Smiley Burnette," "Home on the Prairie." Hit No. 3, Jack London's famous story "Mutiny of the Elsinore." This is positively one of the greatest kiddie shows ever to play in Norwich. Notice: Be sure to bring this ticket. You may get in free. Good for all students."

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. You say that one of the distributors told you that a complaint had been made about your reducing prices, do you not?

A. Well, if that is what I said, that Schine made the complaint.

Q. You told that distributor that you had not reduced prices?

Mr. Wright: I think the Court's attention should be called to the fact this is 1939, and that conversation that was testified to in the direct testimony occurred in 1933, a six-[fol. 3722] year difference. Obviously this testimony as to this matinee has no relevancy to that conversation.

Mr. McClennen: Is this by way of objection to my question, or just argument to bring to the attention of the witness?

Mr. Wright: It is by way of additional objection to your offering this ticket, as to what happened in 1939 which was not covered on direct, which has nothing to do with the direct-examination and is improper cross-examination.

The Court: No mention has been made of the date.

Mr. Wright: On this ticket.

The Court: The point is your remark to the Court might call attention to some specific date. I don't know what may follows.

Mr. Wright: I understood it had a date on it. There is a date on the back, October 25th, 1939.

The Court: Yes, I have seen it. Go ahead. It may be connected up with some reduction of prices, on the date the reduction was made.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. A few minutes ago you stated that you had never issued any free admission tickets, did you not?

A. Well, that——

[fol. 3723] Q. Do you remember that you stated that a few minutes ago?

A. Yes, I made that statement. That is not an admission ticket there. That is not a ticket.

Q. What?

A. That is not a ticket. I probably would not run another 10 o'clock matinee again in five years. I just give the kiddies a treat once in my life. I had a right to do that, if I wanted to.

Q. You advertised free admission to students, did you not?

A. To children in the morning.

Q. To students, did you not?

The Court: The paper shows, I think, Mr. McClennen.

Mr. McClennen: Well, if your Honor please, the witness testified that he never did such a thing, and I am trying to get him to admit that he did.

The Court: He had admitted they issued these tickets here. We may conclude what that is from what it states.

Mr. McClennen: I was pressing as a cross-examiner in the hope that the witness would be willing to admit that he had made a mis-statement on the witness-stand in view of what I have shown here. If your Honor thinks I should [fol. 3724] not press it further, I will not.

The Court: There is already testimony here that he did not change his prices. You claim this to be in contradiction of that. We have to get through with this witness today. I have to get away soon, or we will have to keep the witness over until Friday.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, there is a witness here that I have with some documentary material from the United Artists whom we told we would excuse today. It is just a question of identification of documents, and I would like to interrupt and put him on if this is—if the examination is not going to be finished today.

Mr. McClennen: I should hope the examination would be finished today.

The Court: You think so?

Mr. McClennen: Of this witness?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: I hope so.

The Court: I don't know how long you will be. Don't misunderstand me. I don't want to curtail you in your examination. The only point is, if we don't get through today, [fol. 3725] we have to go on Friday, that is all.

Mr. McClennen: I am ready to do whatever suits the convenience of the Court. If I should suspend with this witness now, I am perfectly willing to do so, but I think I can finish today if I am not interrupted, and still leave time for this witness to take the stand to identify documents, but I am perfectly willing to do whichever is wanted.

The Court: You better proceed now. Proceed.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. What was your admission price, your advertised admission price at your theatre at this time?

A. At which time now?

Q. At the time when these free tickets to students were issued, what was the admission price of your theatre at that time?

A. I couldn't tell you offhanded.

Q. Was it 10 and 20 cents?

A. You mean 10 and 20 for—I never run for 10 and 20 cents at night.

Q. Apparently you can tell us this much about it. Can't you tell us what your admission prices were?

A. They have never been 10 and 20 cents at night. I know that.

[fol. 3726] Q. What have they been?

A. They have never been below 25 cents.

Q. Never been below 2[illegible] cents at any time?

A. If you bring out something that might happen once every four or five years, like you did on this morning show, there might have been a benefit or something like that. I might give some benefit, five cents on a ticket or ten cents on a ticket, I don't know, but my regular run of admissions has never been below 25 cents.

Q. Do you recognize this photograph as of a display ad of yours?

A. Well, that still would not be 22 cents.

Q. Does that mean that you do recognize it or don't?

A. What is that?

Q. I asked you if you recognized that——

A. It says "Smalley's Norwich Theatre." I couldn't tell you where this is, but I am reading what it is, but that probably included tax—22 cents net and 3 cents tax would be 25 in those days.

Q. Do you recall that in January, 1942, you had display signs saying "Smalley's Norwich Theatre, the most entertainment for the least money, prices 10-20 cents"? Do you remember having those?

A. It don't say that.

Q. Do you remember having such as I have just said?

[fol. 3727] A. I say that it looks like one of my signs. I don't know anything about it. It don't tell me where the location is or where it is or what it is. You come—it looks like a banner or something, but it has got "Smalley's Theatre" on, so it must be a picture of one of my advertisements. I don't know.

Mr. McClennen: I offer that.

The Court: You read the word "Norwich", didn't you?

Mr. McClennen: Yes, your Honor.

Mr. Wright: We have the same objection that we had to the other.

The Court: Overruled.

(Thereupon photograph was received in evidence and marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-146.)

Mr. McClennen: I will show this to your Honor.

(Handing photograph to the Court.)

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Now, will you describe to me the Colonial Theatre at this time, that is, January, 1942?

A. You say "at this time"? How do I know that is 1942, that picture you showed me? You just showed me a picture. It might have been taken 15 years ago.

Q. That is the kind of advertisement you might have issued any time along in the last 10 or 15 years?

[fol. 3728] A. I don't know when it is. You didn't give me any date.

Q. But you remember now that this 10-cent admission was advertised on banner form by you time and time again?

A. Oh, no, no.

Q. And throughout the years from time to time?

A. No, no.

Q. Well, what time? Can you remember when you put those 10 or 15-cent banner advertisements out?

A. Probably when we didn't have any pictures.

Q. Well, that was true of the whole period, was it not?

A. Pardon?

Q. That was true of the whole period, was it not?

A. Yes.

Q. That is, throughout the ten years from 1932 to 1942, you issued from time to time these banners, 10-20-cent admission advertisements, because you did not have any pictures, is that it?

A. That is not what I said. You said 1932. I said nothing about 1932. You told me this picture that you showed me was between 1936 and 1942, and I said I didn't know about it.

Q. Well, do you mean that on a number of occasions in that period you were advertising 10 and 20-cent admissions?

A. No, I don't know of any time I was advertising, but you showed me a picture where I was, and I would like to [fol. 3729] know where it was.

Q. You know very well, don't you?

A. I don't.

Q. And that you issued 10 and 20-cent banner advertisements?

A. I know what you showed me, a picture.

Q. You know you issued those, don't you?

A. I know I saw that picture.

Q. You know it was issued by you, don't you?

A. No, it was not issued by me.

Q. Whom was it issued by?

A. My manager, or anybody.

Q. Oh, your manager. You know that your manager issued such advertisements from time to time?

A. I would not say from time to time. It might have been a special occasion, or something else, like this morning matinee you showed me here.

Q. You notice that that banner does not say anything about a special occasion, don't you? You notice that?

A. It don't say anything about tax, either, does it?

Q. If it doesn't say anything about tax, would it enable you to say that you noticed that it did not say anything about special occasion on the banner?

A. Let me see the picture.

(Photograph handed to witness.)

[fol. 3730] A. What I mean to say here——

Q. All I asked you was, you noticed that it did not say anything about special occasion, did you not?

A. No, I don't see anything about special occasion, but I say, that price there could be a net price of 22 cents and a 3-cent tax is 25.

Q. Do you know whether you sent along with the banner when it was published, somebody to explain to those who saw the banner that they might have to pay some more besides this? Do you remember whether you did anything of that kind?

A. I don't know what you are driving at.

Q. Couldn't you answer the question without knowing what I am driving at?

A. In the old days, when the tax first came in, people advertised a net, their prices net, and they had to pay a tax on it. They didn't know until they got to the box office what the tax was going to be.

Q. What was the tax on a 20-cent admission in January, 1942, do you remember?

A. Tax on a 20-cent admission?

Q. Yes.

A. It would be 2 cents, I imagine, I don't know. 3 cents for 25-cent ticket, I think.

Q. That was the meaning of the "22" on the banner, was [fol. 3731] it not, including tax you would have to pay 22 cents?

A. No, 22 and 3 is 25.

Q. The banner does not say anything about that?

A. I know the banner doesn't say anything about it.

The Court: You have three different prices there. Were you advertising three prices?

The Witness: Well, the price would be children 10 cents and the other price——

The Court: That indicates 22 is the total with tax, that is the point.

The Witness: The other price would be matinee. Prices were different at matinee than at night.

The Court: You have three prices, 10, 20, 22.

The Witness: Yes, that would be three prices, 10 cents all day for children and probably in the afternoon it would be 20 plus 2, and at night 22 plus 3. It could be, but I don't know what this means. I don't remember. I don't make the banners.

Q. What it means, does it not, that your price of admission was 20 cents and there was 2 cents tax, so that the amount a person had to pay was 22 cents to get in?

A. What does the other side mean? You tell me what this side means. What does that side mean?

Q. If you look at the two sides and see they are exactly [fol. 3732] the same, you will be able to answer both questions at once.

A. That is what I say.

Q. That is, you know, Mr. Witness, as you sit there, don't you——

A. No, I don't know, or I would say so.

The Court: Just answer the question. Go ahead with your question. He answered before you completed your question.

Q. You know that what you intended to convey by that advertisement or your manager intended to convey was that the top price of admission was 20 cents plus a 2-cent tax, making it 22 cents, and that is the reason the 22 was put in bolder type. You know that, don't you?

A. No, I don't know that. You don't, either.

Q. I beg your pardon?

The Court: Strike out the last part, not responsive.

The Witness: I say you don't know that, either.

The Court: That is not necessary. Strike that out.

Q. At the time referred to, that is, January, 1942, will you describe the Colonia Theatre?

A. 1942?

Q. In January, 1942.

A. I don't believe I have been in the Colonia.

[fol. 3733] Q. What?

A. I have not been in the Colonia Theatre in 1942.

Q. When was the last time you were in the Colonia Theatre?

A. Golly, I couldn't tell you.

Q. Can you give me any idea at all?

A. No, I couldn't.

Q. Have you been in there at any time prior to May 19, 1942, and since 1938?

A. I might have been.

Q. Have you any recollection that you were not, or that you were?

A. No, I have not.

Q. The last time that you were in there, will you describe that theatre?

A. Describe it? About all I know about it, it is a theatre, and it has got a balcony, and it has got a long lobby, got some stores in front, some office building. It has a stage, has carpet and seats, just the same as any other theatre. Paint on the wall just the same as any other theatre.

Q. That is the best description you can give to the Court that desires to know the character of that theatre, is it?

A. What else do you want to know about it?

Q. Was it a first-class theatre?

[fol. 3734] A. Yes, I would say it was first-class.

Q. Right up, modern improvements in every way?

A. I should think so, yes.

Q. A desirable house in which to show first-run pictures?

A. Yes.

Q. The best house in town?

A. No, sir.

Q. It was the best house in town up to November, 1932, was it not?

A. That I couldn't tell, because I was not there then. I did not go in until 1930.

Q. What did you understand the date in my question to be?

A. I thought you said 1922.

Q. 1932, I said.

A. I beg your pardon.

Mr. McClennen: Now, if you will read the question and put an emphasis on the " '32" as you read it.

The Court: What he means is before your theatre was rebuilt, I suppose. The best theatre before your theatre was rebuilt?

The Witness: Well, I would say after I remodeled my theatre——

The Court: No, no.

The Witness: That is what he asked me.

[fol. 3735] Q. I said "before".

A. Is that what you asked me?

Q. What?

A. Is that what you asked me, 1930 to 1932?

Q. If the Colonia was the best house in town in that period?

A. Yes, I would say it was, yes, sir.

Q. Now, tell me the respects in which the Smalley Theatre built in 1932 is superior to the Colonia Theatre as it was in 1939?

A. I never said it was——

The Court: I don't think we ought to pursue that examination. He has described the Colonia Theatre as a first-class theatre. It seems to me you are going a good ways drawing conclusions from the facts that there are some differences in the construction of the buildings. Whether it was elaborate, that might bear on the questions involved here, but both are suitable for use as first-class and second-class pictures. The details of comparison of theatres, it seems to me is spending needless time.

Mr. McClennen: I suspend in deference to your Honor's suggestion on that subject. That is all.

The Court: Mr. Wright, we will have to go along.

[fol. 3736] Mr. Wright: I have this material. I will try to put it in as fast as I can.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I will show you this telegram, dated May 27th, from you to Mr. Montague at Columbia, and ask you if that is the telegram you sent on or about that date?

A. That is it.

Mr. Wright: Mark this with the next plaintiff's exhibit number.

(Thereupon telegram dated May 27th, from Smalley to Montague, referred to, marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 899 for identification.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I will show you this letter, December 4th, 1939, from you to Mr. Moross, and ask you if you wrote—if that is a copy of a letter you wrote on or about that date?

A. This is the attorney?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, that is the answer to the other letter.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have that marked with the next plaintiff's Exhibit number.

[fol. 3737] (Thereupon letter dated December 4, 1939, from Smalley to Mr. Moross, referred to, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 900 for identification.)

Q. I will show you this telegram dated May 4th, 1939, from Abe Montague to O. L. Van Horne, and ask you if that was received on or about that date?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this marked with the next Plaintiff's Exhibit number.

(Thereupon telegram dated May 4th, 1939, from Montague to Van Horne, referred to, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 901 for identification.)

Q. I will show you telegram from Van Horne to Montague, dated May 2nd, 1939, and ask you if you recognize that as the copy of the telegram that was sent to Mr. Montague on that date?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will ask that this be marked with the next Plaintiff's Exhibit number.

(Thereupon telegram from Van Horne to Montague, dated May 2nd, 1939, referred to, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 902 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: I will offer in evidence those exhibits 899 through 902.

[fol. 3738] Mr. McClennen: We object to each one of these, 899, 900, 901 and 902, and also ask that if received, they be not received as any evidence of the truth of the statements contained in them, and in order that your Honor may observe the significance of this in one of the many respects I call your Honor's attention to identification 902, to the fact that it is from an attorney and not in the course of business and indicative of the self-serving statements made in the process of working up a case.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please——

The Court: What does that mean "per Federal Officials"?

Mr. Wright: Both Exhibits 143 and 144 offered by the defendants were letters received from counsel for Columbia. This completes the picture of this so-called attorney correspondence with Columbia.

The Court: What does that mean "per Federal Officials"?

Mr. Wright: I will ask the witness.

Mr. McClennen: These have not yet gone in evidence, I understand.

The Court: No.

By Mr. Wright:

[fol. 3739] Q. Do you know, Mr. Smalley, what the phrase in this Exhibit 902 for identification "per Federal Official's Advice" refers to?

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. That I object to.

The Court: All right. I will receive them.

Mr. McClennen: I renew my motion, if your Honor please, that these be not received as any evidence of the truth of the statements contained in them.

The Court: Motion denied.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 899 to 902, inclusive, for identification, were received in evidence.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. After you got this letter, June 3rd, 1940, marked as Defendants' Exhibit 143 in evidence, did you have any conversation with Mr. Weinberg or Mr. Miller about Columbia pictures for Norwich?

A. Well, Mr. Weinberg and Mr. Miller came up to Cooperstown and saw me.

Q. When was that?

A. I think it was in 1943, I think.

Q. I am talking about with reference to June 3rd, 1940, did they come to see you after or in 1940 after that?

A. Mr. Miller did, but Mr. Weinberg did not.

[fol. 3740] Q. When did you see Miller?

A. I should say it was—I would say about August.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. Cooperstown.

Mr. Rogers: Please raise your voice. We can't hear a word you are saying. What did he say?

(Question and answer read.)

Q. What was said then?

A. Mr. Miller told me Weinberg couldn't come up, that he would have to make an appointment later for him to come, and that he was riding Weinberg, and as soon as he heard from him, why, they would come up and see me.

Q. Then did they ever come up and see you in 1940?

A. 1940, no, I think it was the next year that they came up and saw me.

Q. 1941?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know when it was in 1941 that they saw you?

A. I think it was in June or July, one or the other.

[fol. 3741] Q. Then it was in June or July, 1941?

A. No, it was earlier than that. I would say June. I think that is about when it was, in June.

Q. June, 1941?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember what was said then?

A. I took it up with Mr. Weinberg, that I had been corresponding with him and talking with Joe Miller and talking with Phil Fox in regard to clearance. The reason we couldn't get together with Columbia,——

Q. Just say what the conversation was.

A. I am telling you the conversation that I said to Mr. Weinberg, the reason we couldn't get together with Columbia was the clearance, that Columbia was demanding more than the other major companies over my other towns.

Q. This was with respect to Norwich?

A. No.

Q. I am asking you with respect to Norwich. Did you have a conversation with respect to Norwich?

A. Yes, this was in regard to Norwich. We couldn't get together in Norwich because he wouldn't sell me Norwich alone and he wouldn't sell me my other towns unless I paid the clearance which they had which was a lot more than the other major companies was giving Schine.

Q. Then there was no deal then made for Norwich?
[fol. 3742] A. No, there was no deal made.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Recross-examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. I show you, Mr. Smalley, a contract dated December 17, 1940, with Smalley Theatres, Inc., signed by H. L. Johnson, with the notation Joe Miller as the Columbia salesman, and approved December 20, 1940. Was that a contract which you made?

A. Are you referring to the conversation I just had?
Q. I am asking you if that is a contract which you made?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. And with what person did you negotiate that contract?
A. Joe Miller.
Q. And at what time?
A. The time it was signed there.
Q. Around about December, 1940?
A. Yes.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have it marked.
Mr. Wright: We have no objection.

(The contract referred to, dated December 17, 1940, approved Dec. 20, 1940, with Columbia Pictures Corporation, was received in evidence and marked Defendants' Exhibit 147.)

The Court: A Columbia contract, was it?
[fol. 3743] Mr. McClennen: A Columbia contract, Defendants' Exhibit No. 147.

Q. This Exhibit, Mr. Smalley, recalls to your mind that you were in error just now in saying that you didn't see Mr. Miller in 1940?

A. I didn't mean Mr. Miller in regard to this. I meant in regard to a split or first-run contract in Norwich.
Q. Then you did see Mr. Miller after the time when he came up first and said that Mr. Weinberg could not come at that time? He did come again in 1940 and negotiated with you for a contract, did he not?
A. Yes, according to that.

Q. And your statement that you did not see Mr. Miller in 1940 was incorrect, was it not?

A. No. It might be incorrect if I said I hadn't seen him. I mean I hadn't seen him and Mr. Weinberg, which the letter you had there—that Mr. Weinberg and Mr. Miller was coming up and see me, and they didn't. That is what I meant, Mr. Miller and Mr. Weinberg did not come up together.

The Court: Is that all?

Mr. Wright: I think your Honor's attention should be called to the fact——

The Court: Is that marked?

Mr. Wright: Yes. First-run pictures rejected by Colonia [fol. 3744] Theatre.

Mr. McClennen:

Q. And during all this period you were getting second-run pictures from the various distributors, were you not?

A. Yes.

The Court: That is all. Is this other documentary evidence?

Mr. Wright: I think we can stipulate that.

Mr. McClennen: It is suggested we need not take your Honor's time. Mr. McGrath is here. I understand he has some papers and I suppose he will say that he has brought those papers from his Company's files.

Stephen W. McGrath resumed the stand in behalf of the Plaintiff, having been previously sworn, was examined and testified further as follows:

The Witness: That is correct.

Mr. Wright: I thought we could have the material marked and identified without the presence of the Court.

Mr. McClennen: That is what I thought.

The Court: Submit the papers to Mr. McClennen and then we will see.

M.. McClennen: The witness has handed — a paper and that can just as well be marked for identification.

[fol. 3745] Mr. Wright: Yes, I was going to say if the Court wants to get away I don't see any reason for the Court's presence.

The Court: How many are there?

Mr. Wright: Just one.

(The paper, dated February 9, 1941, United Artists' clearances, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 903 for identification.)

(Paper, subpoena, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 904 for identification.)

Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. McGrath, as I understand it, this document introduced here marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 903 for identification is the only document you have been able to locate in the United Artists' files containing the descriptions contained in the exhibit marked 904 for identification, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. Have you exhausted the records of the Company in that respect?

A. I have exhausted the search.

[fols. 3746-3749] Mr. Wright: That is all.

The Court: We will adjourn until Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until Friday, October 27, 1944, at 10 o'clock A.M.)

[fol. 3750] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants

Thursday, October 26th, 1944, 10 A. M.

In the absence of the Judge and by agreement of counsel there are marked for identification papers as follows:

Those so marked are for identification only.

Those marked without objection are introduced in evidence.

APPEARANCES:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Philip Marcus, Esq., and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorneys, in behalf of the United States.

Edward P. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rogers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Edward M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the defendants.

[fol. 3751] OFFERS IN EVIDENCE

Mr. Marcus: The first matter on this morning is the introducing in evidence portions of Schines' answers to the Government's interrogatories. It is suggested that this be done by introducing the material in these answers by page reference with the understanding that the similar page in the original answer filed with the Clerk of this court will be considered to be in evidence.

The first two pages in Schines' answers to interrogatories being a prefatory statement are offered in evidence.

The following matter in Schines' answers to interrogatory No. 2 are offered in evidence. The information in column 1 in respect to Myer Schine, Louis Schine and John A. May, and the statement under the heading of "Name and Period of Employment of Marsh Gollner, District Manager, 10/1/38 to date."

There has been read in evidence the information in respect to Louis Lazar, transcript pages 500-501, and in respect to Lee Insley, transcript page 2954.

Mr. McClennen: Then we understand that nothing in [fol. 3752] answer to interrogatory No. 2 except what has been specifically stated is in evidence.

Mr. Marcus: That is right.

We offer in evidence the following portions of Schines' answers to interrogatory No. 3. The information stated in respect to J. Myer Schine, Louis W. Schine, John A. May, Willard S. McKay, and George V. Lynch. The information in respect to John A. May has been in part read in evidence at transcript pages 151-152.

It is understood that the above statement refers to the information in respect to the Schine Chain Theatres, Inc.

As to Schines' answers to interrogatory No. 3 in respect to Schines Circuit, Inc., the information stated in respect to Louis W. Schine, John A. May, Willard S. McKay, is offered in evidence.

In respect to Schines' answers to interrogatory No. 3 as to the Schine Theatrical Co., Inc., the information stated in respect to J. Myer Schine, Louis W. Schine, John A. May, is offered in evidence.

In respect to Schines' answers to interrogatory No. 3, [fol. 3753] concerning the Schine Enterprises Corporation, the information stated as to J. Myer Schine, Louis W. Schine and John A. May is offered in evidence.

In respect to the answers in response to interrogatory No. 3, concerning Schine-Lexington Corporation, the information stated as to J. Myer Schine, John A. May, Willard S. McKay and Louis Lazar, Eugene Custer and Lou Hensler, is offered in evidence.

It is believed that information in respect to Louis Lazar has been read into the record at transcript pages 500-501.

In respect to Schines' answers to the Government's interrogatory No. 3, as to the Chesapeake Theatre Corporation, the information stated in respect to J. Myer Schine, Louis W. Schine, John A. May, Willard S. McKay and Marsh Gollner, is offered in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: It is understood that no other parts of the answer to interrogatory No. 3 are to be deemed in evidence.

Mr. Marcus: Schines' answer to interrogatory No. 4 is [fol. 3754] offered in evidence.

In respect to Schines' answers to interrogatory No. 7, the information stated as to Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., as to Class A common and Class B common, is offered in evidence.

The foot-note at the bottom of the page in respect to the St. Lawrence Holding Company is included in this offer.

We also offer in evidence Schines' answers to interrogatory No. 7 as to the ten largest stockholders of preference stock as of 8/31/40, Schinebro, Inc., 3,146 shares, J. Myer Schine, 1,384 shares, Louis W. Schine, 1,352 shares.

We also offer the statement made at the bottom of page 4 to Schines' answers to Interrogatory No. 7, to the effect that as to other Schine corporate defendants all stock held by the Schine Chain Theatres, Inc.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer there goes in evidence the other portions of the answer to interrogatory No. 7 as to the other stockholders and holdings in the class [fol. 3755] from which the above portion has been sorted out.

Mr. Marcus: The Government does not agree with this contention. It is our purpose in offering the mass of material in these answers to put in just the matters that are necessary in order not to make the record larger than it would otherwise be. We suggest that as to any matters which the defendants would like to offer in evidence in respect to these answers be made upon application to the Court, or, perhaps, after conference with plaintiff's counsel upon stipulation.

Mr. McClennen: We do not accept the suggestion.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence Schines' answer to interrogatory No. 16. In respect to Schines' answers to interrogatory No. 17, 17-A, 18 and 23, we offer in evidence the following portions:

The first page of Schines' answers to interrogatory No. 17, except for the statement made in respect to the Regent Theatre in Amsterdam, New York, under the heading "Remarks Re Closing Periods," "Open occasionally or part [fol. 3756] time, as business warrants."

Mr. McClennen: We make the same claim that this answer is in as a whole by this offer and that the deletion of a part of the particular answer is ineffective.

Mr. Marcus: The Government does not agree with this contention.

As part of this offer in evidence of the material on the first page of Schines' answers to interrogatory 17, 17-A, 18 and 23, the supplemental schedule to interrogatory No. 18 in respect to Amsterdam, New York, is offered in evidence.

[fol. 3757] Mr. McClennen: We contend that this makes the whole of the supplemental schedule a part of the evidence.

Mr. Marcus: We also offer in evidence Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 18, as contained in the supplemental schedule in respect to Auburn, N. Y.

Mr. McClennen: We make the same contention as in the case of the preceding portions of a supplemental schedule.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence page 2 of Schine's answers to interrogatory No. 17-A, 18 and 23, except for the statement made under the heading of "Name of purchaser, if so, or remarks."

Mr. McClennen: We contend that this offer puts into evidence the whole of the answer referred to and that a portion of it may not be elided in this way and that the elision is ineffective.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23, as contained on page 3, except for the statements made under the heading: "Remarks re Closed Period," for Corning and Cortland theatres, Cortland, N. Y. [fol. 3758]

Mr. McClennen: We contend that this offer puts in evidence the whole of that page with respect to the theatres referred to in the offer and that the elision of a part may not be made and that it is ineffective.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence the answers made in respect to interrogatory No. 18, as contained in the supplemental schedule concerning Corning and Cortland, N. Y.

We offer in evidence page 4 of Schine's answers to interrogatory 17-A, 18 and 23, except for the statement made under the heading, "Remarks re Closed Period," for the Temple Theatre at Geneva, N. Y.

Mr. McClennen: We make the same contention, that a part of a single item of an answer in this way may not be elided, that the part so attempted to be elided is in evidence, and that the elision is ineffective.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence page 5 of Schine's answers to interrogatory 17-A, 18 and 23, except for the statements made under the heading "Remarks re Closed Period" for the Richmond Theatre, Herkimer, the Temple [fol. 3759] Theatre, Ilion and the Crescent Theatre, Newark.

Mr. McClennen: We make the same contention that by this offer the portions of the item attempted to be elided are in evidence and that the attempted elision is ineffective. An answer cannot be distorted by leaving a phrase of a part of it out.

Mr. Marcus: The Government at this time would like to make clear that, in part, it is not offering the statements except for the reason that it believes that they are self-serving declarations and conclusions.

The Government also offers in evidence Schine's answers to Interrogatory No. 18, contained in the supplemental schedule in respect to Herkimer, N. Y., save for the statement "Obsolete," and in respect to Newark, N. Y., and in respect to Little Falls, N. Y.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the schedule as a whole is in evidence, that the attempted elision is ineffective and would distort the answer as to the particular items as to which the answer has been put in evidence.

[fol. 3760] Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence page 6 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23, except for the statements made under the heading, "Remarks re Closed Periods", for the Hippodrome Theatre, Little Falls, and the Hi-Art Theatre, Lockport, N. Y.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the entire answers as to these items are in evidence, that the attempted elision is ineffective and that the answer may not be distorted by removing a phrase from it, or attempting to do so.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence page 7 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23, except for the statements made under the heading, "Remarks re Closed Periods", for the Pontiac Theatre, Ogdensburg, and the Strand Theatre, Onenta, and we also do not offer in evidence the statements made under the heading "Name of Opposition Theatre", for Norwich, because that matter has been testified to.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the items from an item attempted to be elided are in evidence; that the attempted elision is ineffective and that an answer may [fol. 3761] not be distorted by omitting a phrase of the particular item of the answer.

Mr. Marcus: The Government also offers in evidence Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 18 as contained in the supplemental schedule in respect to Ogdensburg, N. Y., and Oswego, N. Y.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the schedule is in evidence, that a portion may not be elided in this way and that to leave out a portion of an item distorts the answer.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence page 8 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23. We are not offering in evidence Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 18 as contained in supplemental answer in respect to Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the parts just stated, attempted to be elided, are in evidence, that the attempted elision is ineffective, and that an answer may not be distorted by leaving out a portion of a phrase in this way.

Mr. Marcus: The record should show that the statement omitted by the Government from its offer in respect to [fol. 3762] Rochester, refers to matters contained on page 9 of Schine's answers to interrogatory 17-A, 18 and 23.

We offer in evidence page 9 of Schine's answers to interrogatory 17-A; 18 and 23, except for the statement made under the heading "Remarks re Closed Period", for the Seneca Theatre, Seneca Falls.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer this entire page is in evidence; that the attempted elision is ineffective and that an item of an answer may not be distorted by leaving out a phrase thereof.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence Schine's answers to interrogatory 17-A, 18 and 23, as contained on page 10.

We offer in evidence page 11 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23.

We are not offering the statement made in respect to Athens, Ohio, the Court Theatre, as contained in Schine's answers to interrogatory No. 18 in the supplemental schedule.

We are offering in evidence Schine's answers to inter- [fol. 3763] rogatory 17-A, 18 and 23, as contained on page 11, and as contained in the supplemental schedule of answers to interrogatories No. 18, except as otherwise stated.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this introduction in evidence the portions attempted to be elided are in evidence; that the attempted elision is ineffective, and that an answer may not be distorted by leaving out a phrase thereof.

Mr. Marcus: The Government asks that it be stated for the record that these answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23 are made in respect to specific theatres in specific towns and in respect to different interrogatories.

We offer in evidence page 12 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23, except for the statements made under the heading "Remarks re Closed Period" for the Court Theatre, Athens, the Strand Theatre, Bellefontaine, the Southern Theatre, Bucyrus, and for the State Theatre, Bucyrus, and also for the Star Theatre, Delaware, Ohio.

[fols. 3764-5] Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the parts attempted to be elided are in evidence; that the elision attempted is ineffective and that an answer may not be distorted by leaving out a phrase of it.

Mr. Marcus: We also offer in evidence Schine's answers to interrogatory 18 as contained in its answers to that supplemental schedule in respect to Bellefontaine, Ohio, Bucyrus, Ohio, and Delaware, Ohio.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the parts attempted to be elided are in evidence; that the attempted elision is ineffective and that an answer may not be distorted by leaving out a phrase thereof.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence page 13 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23, except for the statement under the heading "Closed Periods, if any", made in respect to the Opera House, Kent, Ohio, "Unable to obtain product."

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the part attempted to be elided is in evidence, that the attempted elision is ineffective, and that an answer may not be dis-[fol. 3766] torted by leaving out a phrase of it.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence page 14 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23.

We also offer in evidence Schine's answer to interrogatory 18 as contained in its supplemental schedule in respect to Norwalk, Ohio.

We offer in evidence page 15 of Schine's answers to interrogatories No. 17-A, 18 and 23, except for the statement made under the heading "Remarks re Closed Periods" for the Opera House at Wooster, Ohio.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the entire page is in evidence; that the attempted elision is inffective, and that an answer may not be distorted by leaving out a phrase of the particular part of it.

Mr. Marcus: The Government at this time asks Defendants' Counsel to supply the date of the dismantling of the theatre and the lapsing of the lease in respect to the Wallace Theatre, Wooster, as stated in Schine's answers to interrogatory 17-A, the date not being supplied.

[fol. 3767] Mr. McClennen: We have not the date here at hand.

Mr. Marcus: We also offer in evidence Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 18 as contained in the supplemental schedule in respect to Wooster, Ohio.

We offer in evidence page 16 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23.

We also offer in evidence Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 18 as contained in supplemental schedule in respect to Richmond, Kentucky.

We offer in evidence page 17 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23, except for the statement made under the heading "Remarks re Closed Periods", in respect to the State Theatre, Richmond, Kentucky.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the part of the phrase of the answer attempted to be elided is in evidence; that the attempted elision is ineffective and that an answer may not be distorted by leaving out a phrase of the particular item.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence page 18 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, 18 and 23, and we also [fo. 3768] offer in evidence Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 18 in respect to Cambridge, Maryland, for the purpose of the answers to these interrogatories, except the statement made at the end of Schine's answer to supplemental schedule No. 18.

We offer in evidence page 19 of Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-A, No. 18 and 23.

We offer in evidence Schine's answers to interrogatories 17-B and 17-C.

We offer in evidence Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 15, consisting of seven pages.

We offer in evidence page 1 of Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 19, page 2, page 3, page 4, page 5. On page 5 of Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 19 I am informed by Defendants' Counsel that the proper date under heading "Date Acquired" for the Southern Theatre, Bucyrus, should be April, 1937.

Page 6, except for the statement under the heading "From Whom Acquired", in respect to the Princess Theatre, [fol. 3769] Medina, the Government believes that the defendants are mistaken in this respect.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by the introduction of this page 6 the portion attempted to be elided is in evidence and that the attempted elision is ineffective and that the answer may not be distorted by leaving out a portion thereof, and that the belief of plaintiff's Counsel should not become a part of the record.

We stipulate that with respect to this item of acquisition of 25 per cent interest, the actual acquisition was as is already having appeared in evidence in the trial of this case.

Mr. Marcus: We agree.

Page 7, page 8, page 9, page 10 and page 11.

We do not offer in evidence page 12 of Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 19.

Mr. McClennen: We contend that by this offer the portion which has been stipulated should be furnished and was furnished on this page is in evidence.

[fol. 3770] Mr. Marcus: We ask that the record show that the heading of Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 19 on page 12 is as to theatres built by the Schine defendants, the following information is furnished pursuant to stipulation, and that all the other information supplied in Schine's answers to interrogatory numbered 19 are under the heading with respect to each financial interest acquired by the defendant on or after August 31, 1931, with respect to theatres listed in answer to interrotatory No. 17, the following information is herewith furnished.

Mr. McClennen: The contents of the answers to interrogatories and the page in question appear in the text as filed in court.

Mr. Marcus: We offer in evidence Schine's answer to interrogatory No. 22.

We offer in evidence Schine's answers to interrogatory No. 31.

Mr. McClennen: We call to the attention of plaintiff's Counsel that in the answer to interrogatory No. 31 the next to the last item on the page, the date of the option to buy or [fol. 3771] lease is stated as January 10, 1938, and that this is a typographical eror and should read "January 10, 1939."

Mr. Marcus: Subject to anything in the record to the contrary, we accept the change.

We offer in evidence Schine's answers to interrogatory No. 32, consisting of two pages. We understand that interrogatory No. 32 consists merely of one page and we are offering that page.

We also offer the certification made by John A. May in respect to the answers to the interrogatory.

(The play-off sheet for 1939-1940 season was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 704-W.)

(Whereupon, a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P. M.)

[fol. 3777] After recess, 2 o'clock P. M.

Appearances: As before noted.

Mr. Wright: Plaintiff's Exhibit 718-A is a page taken from Exhibit 718, which shows the play-off of United Artists features, first-run, at Auburn, New York, for the seasons 1934-35 and 1935-36.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 718-B is the page from Exhibit 718, which shows the play-off of United Artists features in Lockport, New York, first-run, for the season 1931-32, 1932-33 and 1933-34.

718-C, is the page which shows the play-off in the same town for the seasons 1934-35, and 1935-36, first-run.

718-D, is the page from 718, which shows the play-off at Bucyrus, Ohio, first-run for 1934-35 and 1935-36 seasons.

718-E, is the sheet which shows the first-run play-off at Mount Vernon, Ohio, for the 1934-35 and 1935-36 seasons.

718-F is the sheet which shows the first-run play-off at Norwalk, Ohio, for the 1934-35 and 1935-36 seasons.

[fol. 3778] Mr. McClennen: It is understood that the letters "P.N.P." indicate "Paid not played."

Mr. Wright: 718-G is the page showing the first-run play-off at Van Wert, Ohio, for the 1934-35 and 1935-36 seasons.

718-H is the page showing the first-run play-off at Little Falls, New York, for the 1934-35 and 1935-36 seasons.

718-I is the sheet which shows the first-run play-off at Norwich, New York, for the 1934-35 and 1935-36 seasons.

(Thereupon the sheets referred to were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 718-A, 718-B, 718-C, 718-D, 718-E, 718-F, 718-G, 718-I in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Will you mark this?

(Thereupon United Artists Corporation answers to interrogatories Nos. 15 and 16, previously marked for identification, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 719.)

Mr. Wright: This folder designated Malone, New York, Paramount, Boumansour, will be marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 905, and it contains all of the documents produced by [fol. 3779] Paramount Pictures, Inc., and Paramount Film Distributing Corporation in response to the subpoena served upon it returnable October 21st, 1944, calling for the production of "All license agreements between your company and Michael Boumansour for the exhibition of feature motion pictures at the Plaza Theatre, Malone, New York, for the motion picture seasons 1936-37 through 1941-42," such document being Plaintiff's Exhibit 905-A, a contract dated September 19, 1938, for group S-10, second-run.

907-E is contract dated October 31, 1940, for "Pinocchio," second-run.

908 is a folder containing all of the documents produced by Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., in response to a subpoena returnable October 23rd, 1944, calling for "All license agreements between your company and Michael Boumansour for the exhibition of feature motion pictures at the Plaza Theatre, Malone, New York, for the motion picture seasons 1936-37 through 1941-42."

This is also produced in response to the subpoena. If you want to give testimony to the other thing we will put your testimony in the record.

Mr. McClennen: This is not the time for putting testimony in.

Mr. Wright: I submit on this particular question we can come to an agreement as to what happened. We do want the testimony in as to just what happened. All we are [fol. 3783] covering here is what you produced in court in response to the subpoena.

Mr. McClennen: If you persist in indicating that this folder is all that Warner produced in response to the subpoena, we protest that that statement should not go on the record, because of the fact that we are advised that Warner in pursuance of the subpoena sent to Buffalo certain contracts and that one of those contracts was asked for for the purpose of cross-examination of Mr. Boumansour by defendants' counsel and was handed by Warner's representative to defendants' counsel at that time, used in the cross-examination and subsequently put in evidence by plaintiff's counsel as plaintiff's Exhibit 863.

Mr. Wright: This folder, Exhibit 908 contains all of the documents produced in response to the subpoena of ——, ——, calling for "All license agreements between your company and Michael Boumansour for the exhibition of feature motion pictures at the Plaza Theatre, Malone, New York, for [fol. 3784] the motion picture seasons 1936-37 through 1941-42," except Plaintiff's Exhibit 863 and the contract marked as Defendants' Exhibit 155 for identification which were delivered to counsel for the defendants prior to the receipt by plaintiff's counsel of any advice to the effect that those contracts were in Buffalo.

Mr. McClennen: At the request of defendants' counsel in court where the papers were in the course of the cross-examination of the Witness Boumansour for the purpose of their being available for that cross-examination.

Mr. Wright: Such documents are, 908-A, contract dated, —and these are all the application dates,—January 23rd, 1940 for second-run of 1939-40 features with letter of June 26th, 1940 from G. L. Sears to Michael Boumansour and three notifications of elimination attached.

908-B is dated January 23, 1939, "The Great Garrick," "Wine, Women and Horses," "Expensive Husbands," "They Won't Forget," "Missing Witnesses," "Patient In Room 18," "Mystery House," "Fools For Scandal," first-run.

[fol. 3785] 908-C is dated March 20, 1939, contract for second-run of the 1938-39 features with a notification of cancellation of 13 features attached and notation that cancellations offset by 12 other releases.

908-D is dated January 23rd, 1940, for second-run of six John Wayne Westerns.

908-E is dated 12/28/36 for "Lucky Legs," "Jail Break," "Broadway Hostess," "Man of Iron," "Widow from Monte Carlo," "Murder of Dr. Harrigan," "Personal Maid's Secrets," "Two Against the World," first-run.

We will offer this Defendants' Exhibit D-155 in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit 909.

It is stipulated that in response to subpoena served upon 20th Century-Fox Film Corporation, returnable October 23, 1944, calling for "All license agreements between your company and Michael Boumansour for the exhibition of feature motion pictures at the Plaza Theatre, Malone, New York, for the motion picture seasons 1936-1937 through [fol. 3786] 1941-42," that no documents were produced.

Mr. McClennen: The Fox representative states that none have been found or produced.

Mr. Marcus: The Government is now offering in evidence leases as hereafter specified, produced by the defendants, pursuant to a notice to produce, dated October 11, 1944.

Mr. McClennen: It is stipulated that the defendants may withdraw the original and substitute photostats.

Mr. Marcus: I ask to have these five documents marked in evidence.

(Thereupon five leases referred to were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 910, 911, 912, 913 and 914 in evidence.)

Mr. Marcus: Plaintiff's Exhibit 910 in evidence is a lease between Stanhope Boal, lessor and the Sidney Theatre Corporation as lessee for the Bijou Theatre in Piqua, Ohio, for three years and two months, from the first day of May, 1931, to the 30th day of June, 1934. The lease is dated May 16, 1931.

[fol. 3787] Plaintiff's Exhibit 911 in evidence is a lease covering the Bijou Theatre in Piqua, Ohio, between the Piqua National Bank & Trust Company of Piqua, Ohio, Trustee under the Will of Stanhope Boal, deceased, by August S. Clause, Assistant Trust Officer thereof, as lessor, and the Belpak Theatre Corporation of Ohio, as lessee for the term of two years from the first day of March, 1934 to the 28th day of February, 1936. The lease is dated February 23, 1934.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 912 in evidence is a lease between the Piqua National Bank & Trust Company of Piqua, Ohio, Trustee, under the Will of Stanhope Boal, deceased, by George M. Peffer, Trust Officer thereof, as lessor and the Belpak Theatre Corporation of Ohio, as lessee, for the Bijou Theatre in Piqua, Ohio, for a term of two years from the first day of March, 1936 to the 28th day of February, 1938. The lease is dated the 15th day of February, 1936.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 913 in evidence is a lease between the [fol. 3788] Piqua National Bank & Trust Company of Piqua, Ohio, Trustee, under the Will of Stanhope Boal, deceased, by George M. Peffer, Trust Officer thereof, as lessor, and the Belpak Theatre Corporation of Ohio, as lessee, for the Bijou Theatre in Piqua, Ohio, for a term of two years from the first day of March, 1938, to the 28th day of February, 1940. The lease is dated November 27th, 1937.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 914 in evidence is a lease between between the Piqua National Bank & Trust Company of Piqua, Ohio, Trustee, under the Will of Stanhope Boal, deceased, as lessor, and the Belpak Theatre Corporation of Ohio, as lessee of the Bijou Theatre in Piqua, Ohio, for a term of five years from the first day of March, 1940, to the 28th day of February, 1945. The lease is executed as of the 10th day of January, 1940.

(Thereupon two leases were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 915 and 916 in evidence.)

Mr. Marcus: Plaintiff's Exhibit 915 in evidence is a lease and option to purchase between Robert A. Landry, individ- [fol. 3789] ually, and Robert A. Landry and Mildred C. Madlin, as Executors of the Estate of Ruby F. Castle, deceased, to Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., of the Star Theatre, Ogdensburg, New York, commencing September 6, 1941, and expiring September 6, 1946, at noon. The lease was executed as of the 25th day of October, 1941.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 916 is a lease and option to purchase by the Ogdensburg Strand Theatre Co., Inc., to Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., of the Star Theatre, Ogdensburg, New York, dated September 6, 1936, expiring September 5, 1941. The Star Theatre referred to in Plaintiff's Exhibit 916 is also known as the Pontiac. The lease was executed August 20, 1936.

(Thereupon a lease was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 917 in evidence.)

Mr. Marcus: Plaintiff's Exhibit 917 in evidence is a lease between the Ogdensburg Strand Theatre Company, Inc., and Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., of the Star Theatre in Ogdensburg, New York, dated September 6, 1926 for a term [fol. 3790] commencing the 6th day of September, 1926, to the 6th day of September, 1936.

Mr. McClennen: The lease of the Strand Theatre simultaneous with that of the Star, Exhibit 917, not being called for by the notice to produce is not here in court, and I understand that the plaintiff does not desire it.

Mr. Marcus: That is right.

(Thereupon a lease and agreement were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 918 and 919, respectively, in evidence.)

Mr. Marcus: Plaintiff's Exhibit 918 in evidence is a lease made the 31st day of October, 1934, between Henry Pohl and Rebecca Pohl, lessors, and J. Steel, of Oberlin, Ohio, and William K. Selman, of Cleveland, Ohio, as lessees, of premises located in the City of Norwalk, as described in said lease on which premises subsequently the Forum Theatre was built. The lease is for a term of 10 years beginning on the 1st day of January, 1935 and ending on the 31st day of December, 1944. The lease is executed as of the 31st day of October, 1934.

[fol. 3791] Plaintiff's Exhibit 919 in evidence is an agreement as of the 5th day of January, 1942, between Henry Pohl and Rebecca Pohl, called the lessors, and the Norwalk Theatre Corporation, called the lessee, reciting the assignment of a lease bearing date the 31st day of October, 1934, marked in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit 918, stating that the aforesaid lease marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 918 is cancelled.

(Thereupon a lease and two agreements were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 920, 921 and 922, respectively.)

Mr. Marcus: Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 920 in evidence is a lease beween G. W. Croucher, as lessor and Newark Theatres, Inc., dated the 15th day of April, 1926, of the building known as the Crescent Theatre Building, located in Newark, New York.

Mr. McClennen: Referring to Newark, you have heretofore had marked for identification Exhibit 83, leasing the Crescent Theatre at Newark.

Mr. Marcus: I offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 83 for identification in evidence.

[fol. 3792] (Thereupon the lease referred to, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 83 for identification, was received in evidence.)

Mr. Marcus: Continuing in respect to Plaintiff's Exhibit 920 in evidence, the lease is for a term of five years, from the 15th day of April, 1926, to midnight, April 14, 1931.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 921 in evidence is an agreement made the 15th day of May, 1934, between Rose E. Croucher, as lessor, and Dominion Operating Co., Ltd., as lessee, leasing the Newark Theatre Building, Newark, for a term of 2 years, from the first day of October, 1934, to the 30th day of September, 1936.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 922 in evidence is an agreement between Rose E. Croucher and Dominion Operating Co., Ltd., extending the lease dated May 15, 1934, for a term of five years from the first day of October, 1936, to the 30th day of September, 1941. The agreement is dated May 14th, 1936, and is executed by Rose E. Croucher as of the 19th day of May, 1936, and by J. A. May, as Comptroller of the [fol. 3793] Dominion Operating Co., Ltd., May 28th, 1936.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 83 in evidence is an agreement made August 23, 1940, between William G. Croucher and Altus P. Croucher, as lessors, and the Dominion Operating Co., Ltd., leasing the building known as the Newark Theatre Building, for a term of five years, from the 1st day of October, 1941, to the 30th day of September, 1946. It is understood that these leases refer to the Crescent Theatre in Newark.

(Thereupon two leases, an option and an agreement, were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 923, 924, 925 and 926, respectively, in evidence.)

Mr. Marcus: Plaintiff's Exhibit 923 in evidence is a lease made the 8th day of January, 1926, between J. J. Lanigan, as lessor, and Hi-Art Theatre Corporation, as lessee, leasing the Hi-Art Theatre in the City of Lockport, New York, for a term of 10 years, commencing on the 10th day of January, 1926, and ending on the 9th day of January, 1936.

(The contract between Kronik and Paramount, Amsterdam, N. Y., referred to was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 339-A.)

Mr. Wright: And we will offer three contracts, contained in the same folder, made between Amsterdam Consolidated Corporation and Paramount for first-run at Amsterdam, for the Group S-6, S-7 and S-8 features, respectively, as Exhibits 339-B, 339-C and 339-D, respectively.

[fol. 3816] (The three contracts between Amsterdam Consolidated Corporation and Paramount at Amsterdam, for Groups S-6, S-7 and S-8 were received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibits 339-B, 339-C and 339-D, respectively.)

Mr. Wright: We offer the contract between Schine and RKO for first-run at Auburn, N. Y., contained in folder 622 for identification, for the 1933-34 season, as Plaintiff's Exhibit 622-A.

(The contract between Schine and RKO, for 1933-34 season, was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 622-A.)

Mr. Wright: Will you mark these, please?

(The two contracts referred to were received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 948.)

Mr. Wright: Plaintiff's Exhibit 948 is two contracts, both dated August 20, 1934, between the State Bucyrus Co. and Vitagraph, Inc., for Warner and First National Productions, respectively, in the State Theatre at Bucyrus, Ohio.

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark this as the next defendants' exhibit?

(The papers referred to were marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-148-A, B, C, D, E and F, respectively, for identification.)

[fol. 3817] Mr. McClennen: Defendant's Exhibit D-148 A is a contract, Vitagraph with the State-Bucyrus Company, M. H. Bryer, July 13, 1935, approved July 23, 1935, first-run, and attached to that is "B," the accompanying memorandum, July 13, 1935, signed by "F. J. B." and "C," July 13, 1935, signed by Vitagraph by Brant and State-Bucyrus Company by Bryer, and "D," Warner; State-Bucyrus Company, undated, approved September 5, 1935, and "E," cancellation, December 2, 1935, signed by M. A. Mooney, Branch Manager, and "F," another cancellation, December 11, 1935, signed by M. A. Mooney.

Mr. Wright: We object to Counsel for the defendants offering at this time the contracts that they are as appropriate to their case. We have no objection to the identification at this time but we do object to the offer in evidence and I might say if we proceed in this manner we are not going to be able to close the case today.

Mr. McClennen: I have completed all of this kind that I have in contemplation for today and I put it in for con- [fol. 3818] venience, as it is connected with Bucyrus.

Mr. Wright: It is marked for identification. We object to its being admitted at this time. We have no objection to its being identified.

Mr. McClennen: Well, you can put the marking on.

[fol. 3819] Mr. McClennen: These papers marked D-148-A to 148-F for identification I now offer, inasmuch as we are proceeding in the absence of the Court for the joint convenience of the Court, plaintiff's counsel and defendant's counsel, as exhibits. I recognize that there is no one present to determine whether they may be marked as exhibits, and it was only for the convenience as the Town of Bucyrus was in the plaintiff's offer that I offered them at this time and persist in the offer to be passed on by the Court when the Court is present if counsel is disposed not to recognize this convenient method of having them in.

Mr. Wright: I will offer in evidence three contracts contained in Exhibit 698 for identification, as Exhibits 698-A, B and C, respectively, which are in their order a first-run contract between Schine and Universal for Corning, New York, dated November 21st, 1933, a second-run contract between the same parties for the same town, December 11, 1933, and a contract for second-run between Gaby and Cohen [fol. 3820] for Corning, dated September 12th, 1933.

(Thereupon three contracts, Universal, Corning, New York, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 698-A, 698-B and 698-C.)

Mr. McClennen: Note that 698-A has an approval stamp of Universal by J. R. Granger, and the paper is dated November 21st, 1933, recited to be with Schine Theatrical Company, Inc., but has no signature.

Mr. Wright: I next offer a series of contracts contained in the folder identified as Exhibit 637 in evidence as 637-A, B, C, D, E and F, respectively. Each exhibit consists of two sheets, one for First National Productions and the other for Warner Brothers productions. A is dated August 29th, 1934, and is between Schine and Vitagraph for first-run Corning.

637-B bears the same date and is between the same parties and covers second-run, Corning.

637-C is between Gaby and Vitagraph and is dated October 15, 1934, and covers third-run, Corning.

[fol. 3821] 637-D is dated September 14th, 1933, and is between Schine and Vitagraph for first-run, Corning.

637-E is between the same parties and bears the same date and is for second-run, Corning.

637-F is between Gaby and Cohen and Vitagraph and is dated March 28th, 1934, and covers third-run, Corning.

(Thereupon six contracts, each containing two sheets, one for First National and one for Warner Brothers were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 637-A to 637-F, inclusive.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence nine contracts from the folder marked for identification as Exhibit 326, as Exhibits 326-A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H and I, respectively.

Mr. McClennen: These are all as to what place, Corning?

Mr. Wright: Yes, this is Corning material.

326-A and B are contracts between Schine and Fox for second-run, Corning, K-3 product, 326-A being for Fox and B representing 20th Century-productions, both dated August 5th, 1935.

[fol. 3822] 326-C is dated August 24, 1936, and is between Gaby & Cohen and Fox for K-3 product at the Plaza Theatre at Corning.

326-D and E are contracts between Schine and Fox, both dated June 29th, 1934, for first and second-run, Corning, respectively on K-2 product.

326-F is dated November 20th, 1934, between Fox and Gaby & Cohen for K-2 at the Plaza Theatre.

326-G is a contract between Schine and Fox, dated August 3rd, 1933, for the Fox Theatre, Corning, K-1 product.

326-H is between Schine and Fox, dated October 23rd, 1933, for second-run of group K-1 in Corning.

326-I is between Gaby & Cohen and Fox, dated December 4, 1933, for second and third-run in Corning, K-1.

(Thereupon nine contracts relating to Corning, Fox, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 326-A to 326-I, inclusive.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence as Exhibit 611-A and B, two contracts from the folder identified as Exhibit 611, [fol. 3823]. A being one between Schine and Metro, dated February 14, 1934, for second-run, Corning on 1933-1934 features and B one between Gaby & Cohen and Metro, dated February 20, 1934, for exhibition of 1933-34 features at the Plaza, Corning.

(Thereupon two Metro contracts relating to Corning were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 611-A and 611-B.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibits 341-A, B, C, D and E, respectively, five contracts contained in Exhibit 341 for identification, which are as follows:

341-A is dated June 29, 1933, between Schine and Paramount S-4 productions, first-run, in Corning.

341-B is dated April 11, 1933, between Fred Gerber and Paramount for S-4 productions, second-run at the Plaza, Corning.

341-C is dated September 27, 1933, between Schine and Paramount for first-run of S-5 productions in Corning.

341-D is dated December 23rd, 1933, between Schine and [fol. 3824] Paramount for second-run Corning on group S-5.

341-E is between Gerber and Paramount for second-run at Palace, Corning, dated August 26, 1933, for group S-5.

(Thereupon five Paramount contracts relating to Corning, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 341-A to 341-E, inclusive.)

Mr. Wright: With respect to Corbin, Kentucky, I want to offer in evidence four contracts, which have been previously marked for identification 30, 31, 37 and 42, and a document headed "Cancellation or alteration of the contract," previously identified as 39.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibits previously marked for identification as 30, 31, 37, 39 and 42 were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: I want to call attention to the fact, I think, all of these were previously offered and objected to last May or June.

Mr. McClennen: Note that the defendants object as to Exhibit 39 to its reception in evidence as any proof of the truth of the memorandum contained on it. It is our understanding that its unlimited admission is covered by the [fol. 3825] ruling heretofore made by the Court, and we note our persistence in the objection to that ruling.

Mr. Wright: I will offer in evidence contract previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 635-A.

(Thereupon contract previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 635-A for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: We will offer in evidence as Exhibit 642-A, a contract between Southland Amusement Company and Vitagraph, dated June 30, 1939, for fourth-run in Lexington, 1939-1940 product, at the Opera House, taken from Exhibit 642 for identification.

(Thereupon contract between Southland Amusement Company and Vitagraph was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 642-A.)

Mr. Wright: I next offer as Exhibit 611-A, B, C and D, four contracts taken from Exhibit 611 for identification.

611-A is for Warner Brothers productions, dated September 14, 1931, between W. Wood and Warner for the Hippodrome Theatre at Little Falls, first-run.

[fol. 3826] 611-B is two sheets, one for First National productions and the other for Warner Brothers productions, both dated October 25th, 1932, between Vitagraph and Central New York Theatres Corporation, for first-run at Rialto Theatre, Little Falls.

611-C is two sheets, one for First National and one for Warner Brothers productions both dated May 16th, 1933, between Schine and Vitagraph for first-run at Rialto, Little Falls.

611-D is dated August 5th, 1935, between Schine and Vitagraph for first-run, Little Falls.

(Thereupon four contracts pertaining to Little Falls, Vitagraph, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 611-A to 611-D, inclusive.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence as Exhibits 672-A, B, C, D, E and F, respectively, six contracts taken from Exhibit 672 for identification.

672-A is between William Wood and Columbia for first-run at Hippodrome, Little Falls, dated October 23rd, 1931.

[fol. 3827] 672-B is between Central New York Theatres and Columbia, dated October 18, 1932, for first-run, Little Falls.

672-C is dated October 30, 1933, between Schine and Columbia, for 1933-1934 season, Little Falls.

672-D is dated November 12th, 1934, between Schine and Columbia, for first-run, Little Falls.

672-E is dated November 18, 1935, and is between Schine and Columbia for Little Falls, 1935-1936 season.

672-F is dated July 23rd, 1936, between Schine and Columbia for 1936-1937 features at Little Falls.

(Thereupon six Columbia contracts pertaining to Little Falls were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 672-A to 672-F, inclusive.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence as Exhibits 324-A, B and C, three contracts taken from Exhibit 324 for identification, which are, 324-A, a contract between Fox and Schine, dated August 3rd, 1933 for first-run, Little Falls.

[fol. 3828] 324-B, a contract between the same parties, dated June 23rd, 1934, for first-run, Little Falls.

324-C, a contract between the same parties, dated August 5th, 1935, for first-run, Little Falls.

(Thereupon three Fox contracts pertaining to Little Falls were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 324-A, 324-B and 324-C.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence as Exhibit 604-A, B, C, D and E, five contracts from Exhibit 604 for identification.

604-A, dated September 30, 1932, between Central New York Theatres Corporation and Metro for first-run, Little Falls.

604-B, dated May 23rd, 1933, between Schine and Metro for first-run, Little Falls with rider attached dated May 23rd, 1933.

604-C, dated August 10, 1933, between Schine and Metro for first-run, Little Falls, with rider attached, dated August 10, 1933.

604-D, dated October 5, 1934, between Schine and Metro, [fol. 3829] first-run, Little Falls.

604-E, dated July 11, 1935, between Schine and Metro, first-run, Little Falls.

(Thereupon five Metro contracts pertaining to Little Falls were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits No. 604-A, to 604-E, inclusive.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence as Exhibit 399-A, B, C, and D, respectively, four contracts from Exhibit 399 for identification.

399-A is a contract between Fox Metropolitan Play Houses, Inc., and Paramount for group S-3 in Little Falls.

399-B is a contract between Schine and Paramount for first-run, Little Falls, group S-4.

399-C is a contract for first-run, Little Falls, group S-5, signed only by George Lynch.

399-D is dated September 19, 1934, between Schine and Paramount for first-run, Little Falls, group S-6.

(Thereupon four Paramount contracts pertaining to Little Falls, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 399-A to 399-D, inclusive.)

[fol. 3830] Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence as Exhibits 604-F, G and H, three contracts from the folder identified as Exhibit 604.

604-F being a contract between Schine and Metro, dated October 30, 1931, for first-run, Lockport, 1931-1932 features.

604-G being dated December 29, 1932, between Reliance Theatres, Inc., and Metro for first-run, Lockport, 1932-1933 features.

604-H being between Schine and Metro, dated July 31, 1933 for 1933-1934 features, first-run, Lockport.

(Thereupon three Metro contracts pertaining to Lockport were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 604-F, 604-G and 604-H.)

Mr. Wright: For Mount Vernon, Ohio, we have four contracts between E. W. Long and Son, and Metro which were produced by him but after the time that Long was on the stand. They should have been identified at that time, but we want to offer them now. It is understood those are contracts made with Metro.

Mr. McClennen: These you say came from Mr. Long's file?

[fol. 383 Mr. Wright: That is my understanding, that those were produced by him rather than Metro. I did not have them at the time he was examined.

Mr. McClennen: These will take a new number?

Mr. Wright: Yes, they will take the next Plaintiff's exhibit number.

Mr. McClennen: If you will describe them to me. These will be 949-A, B, and so on?

Mr. Wright: I think we might as well number them consecutively.

Mr. McClennen: All right.

Mr. Wright: 949 is dated May 16, 1938 and is between Long and Metro for 1937-1938 product, second-run, Mount Vernon.

950 is dated May 16th 1938, betwen the same parties for second-run, Mount Vernon on 1938-1939 product.

951 is dated December 14, 1936, between the same parties and is for second-run, Mount Vernon, 1936-1937 features.

952 is between the same parties, dated December 3rd, 1936, and is for second-run, Mount Vernon, for the "Great Ziegfield."

Mr. McClennen: Just one picture?

Mr. Wright: The "Great Ziegfield."

[fol. 3832] (Thereupon four Metro contracts pertaining to Mount Vernon were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 949, 950, 951 and 952.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence as Exhibit 635-A, B, C and D, respectively, four contracts from the folder identified as Exhibit 635.

635-A consists of two sheets, one covering Warner Brothers productions and the other First National productions, both dated September 5, 1934, between Vitagraph and C. O. Federick, covering first-run, Norwalk, Ohio, at Moose Theatre.

635-D is dated March 24th, 1936, between Belpik and Vitagraph for both First National and Warner Brothers productions at Forum Theatre, Norwalk.

[fol. 3833] (Thereupon four Vitagraph contracts pertaining to Norwalk, Ohio, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 635-A to 635-D, inclusive.)

Mr. Wright: Here are two Norwalk Columbia contracts, that I do not have an identification number for. I believe they were both produced by Max Rose from the Columbia files.

953 is between Schine and Columbia, dated Sept. 26, 1936, for first-run, Norwalk, at Forum Theatre, for 1936-1937 season.

954 is between Loyal Order of Moose and Columbia, dated August 9, 1935, for first-run, Norwalk, at Moose Theatre for 1935-1936 season.

(Thereupon two Columbia contracts pertaining to Norwalk were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 953 and 954.)

Mr. Wright: The next is a contract between Schine and Columbia for Norwich, New York, which is dated July 23rd, 1936, and I believe was produced by Mr. Rose at the same time the contracts which were produced and offered in evidence during Mr. Smalley's cross-examination.

[fol. 3834] (Thereupon contract between Schine and Columbia for Norwich, New York, was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 955.)

Mr. Wright: And we will offer in evidence Paris, Kentucky contract between Fox and Schine, dated December 13, 1938, which was previously marked for identification, as Exhibit No. 219.

(Thereupon contract previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 219 for identification, was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: We offer in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit 604-I, contract from Exhibit 604 for identification, between Van Wert Amusement Company and Metro, dated September 27th, 1934, for 1934-19335 features, first run, Van Wert.

(Thereupon contract between Van Wert Amusement Company and Metro, was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 604-I.)

Mr. Wright: We will offer in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit 606-A and B, respectively, two contracts from Exhibit 606 for identification, which are:

606-A is one dated July 11th, 1935, between Glove City [fol. 3835] Amusement Company and Metro for first-run Van Wert, 1935-1936 features.

606-B is dated December 31st, 1936, between Carl Moore and Metro for second-run, Van Wert, 1936-1937 season.

(Thereupon two Metro contracts pertaining to Van Wert were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 606-A and 606-B.)

Mr. Wright: We offer in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibits 635-A and B, respectively, contracts from Exhibit 635 for identification.

635-A consists of two sheets, one for Warner Brothers and the other for First National productions, both between Van Wert Amusement Company and Vitagraph, dated September 7, 1934, for first-run in Van Wert.

635-B, contract between Belpik and Vitagraph, dated August 10, 1935, for Van Wert, for the Warner Brothers and First National productions.

(Thereupon two Vitagraph contracts, pertaining to Van Wert, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 635-A and 635-B.)

[fol. 3836] Mr. Wright: We offer in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibits 399-A and B, two contracts from Exhibit 399 for identification.

399-A is dated September 12th, 1934, between Van Wert Amusement Company and Paramount for first-run, Van Wert, on group S-6.

399-B, between Belpik and Paramount for Van Wert on group S-8, dated April 15, 1936.

(Thereupon two Paramount contracts, pertaining to Van Wert, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits No. 399-A and 399-B.)

Mr. Wright: Then we will offer this contract between Schine and Paramount, dated September 19, 1935, for group S-7, Van Wert, and previously identified as Exhibit P-45 for identification.

(Thereupon contract, previously marked for identification as Exhibit P-45, was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence as Exhibits 344-A, B and C, three contracts taken from Exhibit 344 for identification, which are:

344-A is dated August 25th, 1936, between Carl Moore [fol. 3837] and Paramount for second-run, Van Wert on Group S-8.

344-B is dated November 23rd, 1937, between Schine and Paramount for second-run, Van Wert, on group S-9.

344-C is dated September 22nd, 1938, between Schine and Paramount for second-run, Van Wert on groups S-10.

(Thereupon three Paramount contracts, pertaining to Van Wert, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 344-A, 344-B and 344-C.)

Mr. Wright: We offer in evidence as Exhibit 324-A and B, two contracts taken from Exhibit 324 for identification, 324-A, being dated October 9, 1935, between Belpik and Fox for group K-3 at Van Wert, Ohio.

324-B is dated March 12th, 1935, between Van Wert Amusement Company and Fox for group K-3, Van Wert, Ohio.

(Thereupon two Fox contracts, pertaining to Van Wert, Ohio, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 324-A and 324-B.)

Mr. Wright: We offer in evidence as Exhibits 330-A, B and C, three contracts taken from Exhibit No. 330, for [fol. 3838] identification, which are:

330-A, is dated December 18, 1936, between Carl Moore and Fox for second-run, Van Wert on K-4.

Exhibit 330-B, is dated June 24th, 1937, for second-run, Van Wert on K-5, between Moore and Fox.

330-C, is dated January 31, 1938, for second-run, Van Wert, K-6, between Moore and Fox.

(Thereupon three Fox contracts, pertaining to Van Wert, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 330-A, 330-B and 330-C.)

Mr. Wright: I have here two Columbia contracts for Van Wert, which I believe were produced by Max Rose after the previous identification. One of them is between Moore and Columbia for Van Wert for the 1935-1936 season, dated April 8th, 1935.

957 is dated September 26th, 1936, between Schine and Columbia, for first-run, Van Wert, 1936-1937 season.

(Thereupon two Columbia contracts, pertaining to Van Wert, were received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 956 and 957.)

Mr. McClennen: Note on Exhibit 956 that the run is "Only run Van Wert."

[fol. 3839] Mr. Wright: We are now offering in evidence the United Artists' agreements, which were identified as Plaintiff's Exhibits 122 to 161, inclusive.

(The United Artists' agreements, previously marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibits 122 to 161, inclusive, were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: We are offering in evidence a document previously identified as Plaintiff's Exhibit 312, but are substituting therefor a photostatic copy which has attached to it the clearance schedule referred to in Exhibit 312, and are asking to have the photostat attached to the schedule marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 312 in evidence. The letter is December 22, 1939.

(The photostat with attachment referred to, dated December 22, 1939, was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 312.)

Mr. Wright: We will offer the documents previously identified as Plaintiff's Exhibits 281, 313, 314 and 903, all of which relate to United Artists clearance for the Schine Circuit.

[fol. 3840] (The documents relating to United Artists clearance for Schine Circuit, previously marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibits 281, 313, 314 and 903 were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Mark these with the next exhibit numbers.

(Schedule dated November 16, 1938, was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 958.)

(List of clearances dated February 19, 1941 was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 959.)

Mr. Wright: Plaintiff's Exhibit 958 is schedule dated November 16, 1938, signed on behalf of United Artists by B. N. Stearn and Schine Enterprises by E. A. Lynch, which was produced by the defendants.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 959 is a list of clearances dated February 19, 1941, headed "United Artists Clearances, 1940-41," signed by B. N. Stearn, on behalf of United Artists and L. Goldstein, on behalf of Schine Enterprises, produced by the defendants.

We will offer this exhibit, previously marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 717 for identification, which is United Artists [fol. 3841] release schedule as Plaintiff's Exhibit 717 in evidence.

(The United Artists release schedule, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 717 for identification was received in evidence.)

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P. M.)

[fol. 3842] After Recess: 2 o'clock P. M.

Appearances: As before noted.

(Proceedings continued in the absence of Judge Knight by agreement.)

Mr. Wright: We will now offer in evidence the agreements that were previously marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibits 96, 97, 111, 113, 117, 118, 120 and 121, under the same numbers.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 96 refers to exhibits attached thereto, marked A, B, which are not attached. I assume that they can be furnished and attached to that exhibit or you can substitute a complete copy.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 97 also refers to Exhibits A and B, which were not attached, and I assume those can be supplied.

(Thereupon the agreements previously marked Plaintiff's exhibits 96, 97, 111, 113, 117, 118, 120 and 121 for identification were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: I will offer in evidence as Exhibit 687 the letter and attached release schedule for Paramount Pic- [fol. 3843] tures, which was previously identified as Plaintiff's Exhibit 687.

(Thereupon the letter and attached release schedule for Paramount Pictures, previously marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 687 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: And I will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit 619, the Metro release schedules previously identified as Exhibit 619.

(Thereupon the Metro release schedules previously marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 619 for identification were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: And I will offer in evidence as Exhibit 645 the Warner First National releases, previously identified as Plaintiff's Exhibit 645.

(Thereupon the Warner First National releases, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 645 for identification, were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: I will offer in evidence the Fox release schedules as Plaintiff's Exhibit 337, which are contained in the folder previously identified under that number.

[fol. 3844] (Thereupon the Fox release schedules, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 337 for identification, were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Then I will offer in evidence as W- 33 (17) the two-sheet contract, dated August 29, 1934, between Schine and Vitagraph for third-run at the State or Dixie Theatres, Rochester, N. Y., which was previously identified as W-33 (17).

(Thereupon the contract, dated August 29, 1934, between Schine and Vitagraph, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit W-33(17), was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: And I will offer in evidence as Exhibit W-33(16) the two sheet contract for Warner Bros. and First National Productions, dated August 29, 1934, between Schine and Vitagraph for fourth-run at the Liberty or Riviera, at Rochester, N. Y., which was previously marked for identification, under the same number.

(The contract for Warner Bros. and First National Productions, dated August 29, 1934, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit W-33(16) for identification was received in evidence.)

[fol. 3845] Mr. Wright: And I will offer in evidence as Exhibit W-18 the contract between Schine and Vitagraph for fourth-run at Liberty or Riviera at Rochester, N. Y., dated July 24, 1935, previously identified under the same number.

(The contract between Schine and Vitagraph, dated July 24, 1935, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit W-18, was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: And I will offer in evidence as Exhibit W-19 the contract dated July 24, 1935, between Schine and Vitagraph for fourth-run at the State or Dixie theatre, Rochester, N. Y., previously identified under that number.

(The contract dated July 24, 1935, between Schine and Vitagraph, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit W-19 for identification, was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: I will offer in evidence as Exhibit F-87 contract between Schine and Fox, dated June 20, 1934, for repeat runs, at State for Dixie on Group K-2, previously identified under the same number.

(The contract between Schine and Fox, dated June 20, 1934, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-87, was received in evidence.)

[fol. 3846] Mr. Wright: I will offer in evidence as Exhibit 613 A and B the two contracts contained in Exhibit 613 for identification. A being dated July 11, 1935, between Schine and Metro, for second-run at Watertown, N. Y., for 1935-36 features, and "B" being contract for the same season between Vorunkis and Metro for subsequent runs, Watertown, dated September 7, 1935.

(Thereupon a contract, dated July 11, 1935, between Schine and Metro, for 1935-36 features, was received in evidence and marked Exhibit 613-A.)

(Thereupon a contract, dated September 7, 1935, between Vorunkis and Metro, for 1935-36 features, was received in evidence and marked Exhibit 613-B.)

Mr. Wright: Then I will offer in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit 328 A, B, C and D, respectively, contracts from the folder identified as Plaintiff's Exhibit 328, which are: A, dated August 3, 1933, between Schine and Fox for second-run for Watertown, on Group K-1.

B, dated June 22, 1934, between the same parties, for [fol. 3847] second-run, Watertown, on Group K-27.

C, a two-page contract, dated August 5, 1935, Group K-3, second-run, Watertown.

D, dated June 17, 1936, between the same parties, for K-4, second-run, Watertown.

(Thereupon the contract, dated August 3, 1933, between Schine and Fox, Group K-1, was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 328-A.)

(Thereupon the contract, dated June 22, 1934, same parties, Group K-27, was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 328-B.)

(Thereupon the contract, two pages, dated August 5, 1935, Group K-3, was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 328-C.)

(Thereupon the contract, dated June 17, 1936, same parties, for K-4, Watertown, was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 328-D.)

Mr. Wright: I offer in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit 343 A, B, C, D, E, F and G, contracts from Exhibit 343 for identification, which are:

A, one dated 11-29-33, between Schine and Paramount for Group S-5, second-run, Watertown.

B, dated September 19, 1934, same parties, same run, [fol. 3848] for Group S-6.

C is dated September 13, 1935, same parties, same run, Group S-7.

D, dated April 10, 1936, same parties, same run, Group S-8.

E, superseding contract dated August 3, 1936, same parties, same run, same season.

E, October 28, 1937, same parties, same run, Group S-9.

G, September 22, 1938, same parties, same run and Group S-10.

(Thereupon the contract from Exhibit 343 for identification dated 11-29-33, between Schine and Paramount for Group S-5, was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 343-A.)

(Thereupon the contract dated September 19, 1934, same parties, for Group S-6, was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 343-B.)

(Thereupon the contract, dated September 13, 1935, same parties, Group S-7, was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 343-C.)

(Thereupon the contract, dated April 10, 1936, same parties, Group S-8, was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 343-D.)

[fol. 3849] (Thereupon the contract superseding contract dated August 3, 1936, same parties, same run, same season, was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 343-E.)

(Thereupon the contract, dated October 28, 1937, same parties, same run, Group S-9 was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 343-F.)

(Thereupon the contract, dated September 22, 1938, same parties, same run, Group S-10, was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 343-G.)

Mr. Marcus: Will you mark these, please?

(Thereupon the lease referred to was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 960.)

(Thereupon the agreement referred to was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 961.)

(Thereupon another lease referred to was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 962.)

Mr. Marcus: Plaintiff's Exhibit 960 in evidence is a lease dated the 16th day of September, 1933, of the Opera House, Wooster, Ohio, for the term of two years, beginning September 1, 1933, and ending the 31st day of August, 1935, with the option on the part of the lessee to have the term extended [fol. 3850] for an additional period of three years. The lessor is the City of Wooster, Ohio, and the lessee is the Wooster Theatres, Inc. It is stated that the Director of Public Service and Safety, having duly advertised for bids for five consecutive weeks, the Wooster Theatres, Inc., presented its bid for the leasing of said premises, which bid was the highest and best bid therefor and was accepted.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 961 in evidence is an agreement between the City of Wooster, Ohio, and the Wooster Theatres, Inc. It is executed as of the 3rd day of October, 1935. It provides that in exercising their three-year option the lessee and the lessor agree to certain modifications specified in the agreement.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 962 in evidence is a lease appearing to be made on or about April, 1938, between the City of Wooster, as lessor, and the Wooster City Opera House, the highest and best bidder of the Opera House, Wooster, [fol. 3851] Ohio, for the term of three years, beginning June 1, 1938, and ending May 31, 1941, with an option on the part of the lessee to have the term extended for five years.

Mr. McClennen: It is stipulated that this option was exercised extending the lease to May 31, 1946.

Mr. Marcus: It is stipulated that defendants need not answer plaintiff's request for admission of facts served on October 25, 1944, the defendants having produced leases concerning the items asked for in said request.

Mr. Wright: Mark these for identification.

(Thereupon the sixteen contracts referred to were marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 963 to 978, inclusive, for identification.)

Mr. Wright: We offer in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibits 963 through 978, inclusive, sixteen contracts, which are all of the documents produced by 20th Century-Fox Film Corporation in response to paragraph 1 of subpoena returnable October 25, 1944, calling for all contracts for exhibition of [fol. 3852] the following group of films in Syracuse, N. Y.:

"Charlie's Aunt", "Dressed to Kill", "Wild Geese Calling", "Private Nurse", and "Sun Valley Serenade", except for a contract for this group of films for second-run exhibition in the Regent Theatre at Syracuse, which has not yet been located, but which, when received, may be identified and received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit 979.

Then we will offer in evidence the tabulation previously marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 832, under the same number.

Mr. McClennen: What you have just stated now is your complete description of the exhibits? You are not going into detail beyond that?

Mr. Wright: At this time, no. We can have a description read in.

Mr. McClennen: I didn't ask that. I wanted to make sure that you are not going to, so my notes would conform to the stenographer's.

(Thereupon the tabulation referred to, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 832 for identification, was received in evidence.)

[fol. 3853] Mr. Wright: And we will offer as Plaintiff's Exhibit 980 the two pages bearing pencil notations, clipped together, and previously identified as Defendants' Exhibits D-114 and D-115, respectively.

(Thereupon the two pages referred to, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibits D-114 and D-115 for identification were received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 980.)

[fol. 3854] Mr. McClennen: It should be noted that Exhibit 980 is composed of two sheets of paper, one in Mr. Wallace's handwriting and the other in Mr. Smith's handwriting that were shown to the witness and spoken of separately, one as D-114 and the other as D-115 for identification.

Mr. Kallis: Just a moment on that.

Mr. Wright: The notation is there. The record speaks for itself. It is perfectly clear.

We offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 53 in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: Note that the receipt of Plaintiff's Exhibit 53 in evidence is objected to.

Mr. Wright: Do you want this presented to the Court or marked over your objection?

Mr. McClennen: I do not see that it makes any particular difference as long as our objection is there on the record.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 53 previously marked for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. McClennen: I understand these papers have no marking in the present record.

Mr. Wright: It is part of the record of the case. It is [fol. 3855] not a record made in court.

Mr. McClennen: I want to have this record show numbers that are mentioned as put in now.

Mr. Wright: It will.

Mr. McClennen: Well, then, all right, let's have it.

Mr. Wright: We will offer in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibits F-101 (1) to F-102 (40), inclusive, 40 contracts between Fox and Schine previously identified under the same numbers, and we also offer as Exhibits F-101 (42) and F-101 (43), two contracts between Fox and Schine previously identified under the same numbers. All of these contracts F-101 (1) through F-101 (43), relate to the 1935-1936 season.

Mr. McClennen: Put this note on the record. Mr. Wright's statement of these identification numbers has reference to the identification of them in the taking of a deposition of Mr. Selmser at Gloversville by the plaintiff in April, 1942, and the numbers do not appear elsewhere in this record in this court.

Mr. Wright: What was that statement?

(Statement read.)

Mr. Wright: That's right.

[fol. 3856] (Thereupon 40 contracts between Fox and Schine, previously identified, were received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibits F-101 (1) to F-101 (40), inclusive, and F-101 (42) and F-101 (43).)

Mr. Wright: We have served a series of notices covering the originals of letters which we have offered from time to time, and we would like to have those letters produced, if you have them, before we complete our offer to the Court.

Mr. McClennen: We have produced as you have asked for them every one that we had that was so asked.

Mr. Wright: Let us go over the list. Letter from H. D. Shreffler, dated January 23rd, 1926, on the letterhead of Castambe Theatre, addressed to Mr. Louis Lazar, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Mr. McClennen: I could not tell by that description whether you have asked in court for that particular one or not.

Mr. Antevil: That is P-74 for identification.

Mr. Wright: I think P-74 is the copy. We asked for the original. As I recall, the introduction of the copy was [fol. 3857] objected to. While we served notice to produce——

Mr. McClennen: We have not here in the court-room at this moment that particular letter. We have handed you originals in the court-room as they have been asked for.

Mr. Wright: When would you be able to tell us whether you can produce or not this particular document?

Mr. McClennen: Not until we have time to investigate the file to see whether we have it.

Mr. Wright: I would assume that would have been done at the time you received the notice to produce.

Mr. McClennen: I think very likely it was. We had them ready, those that we were able to find, and, as they have been asked for in the course of the proceeding, we have produced them. We were not aware on this particular morning you wanted that letter, and we haven't it here. If we have it among our papers here, we can produce it tomorrow morning.

Mr. Wright: Suppose we go down the list, then. We also ask for your copy of letter from Louis Lazar, Schine Theatrical Co., and Belpik Theatre Corporation, Belle- [fol. 3858] fontaine, Ohio, dated January 14, 1936, addressed to the Shelby Globe, Shelby, Ohio, relative to deal for rental or possible outright sale of a theatre building in Shelby, Ohio, which is also specified in the notice to produce served on October 11th.

Mr. McClennen: The same comments would apply there. If you give us a list, and will check those that you want us to produce in court tomorrow, we will see if we have them, and produce them if we have.

Mr. Wright: We want all of the letters which have been specified in the notice to produce heretofore served upon you that have not as yet been produced. If you want any additional specification——

Mr. McClennen: Do you mean you are going to put in evidence all these voluminous lists of letters? We don't want to have to go down through a great long list when you are not going to put in a great many of them. By this time, I take it, you know which ones you want to put in, and if you will tell us which those are, we will try to get them, and if they are here, we can get them right away. We will [fol. 3859] have them here in court tomorrow morning.

Mr. Wright: I think we have offered secondary evidence with respect to every one of those letters that are listed.

Mr. McClennen: Then I understand that those you do not have any particular desire for us to produce.

Mr. Wright: We desire to have them produced in view of the objection made that what we offered was not an original, and, in the absence of such production, I assume that objection has no merit.

Mr. McClennen: I am advised that we have no indication that we have ever received the notice from which you have just been reading.

Mr. Wright: I think you are mistaken on that, Mr. McClennen. There is no question about the notice from which I have just read. You have it there.

Mr. McKay: To the best of my recollection I never saw it.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright, the notice that you refer to has on it two letters. Those two letters, if we found them, would be over in the office, and we can have them here [fol. 3860] tomorrow morning. We cannot have them earlier than that, and those are the only two letters that we know of covered by a notice to produce which has been served on us. It certainly is the only notice that I can recall that has come to my attention.

Mr. Wright: Mr. Schilz advises me he thinks that other notice was sent by mail, and he is checking to see what was done in that connection.

Mr. Rogers: This is before Mr. McClennen was in the case.

Mr. Wright: Yes, that is right.

Mr. McClennen: If you have got a list that you can hand us of the original that you really want produced in the case, we can check and see whether we have those or any of them here, and if we have them here, we can produce them tomorrow morning, but I want a list to go by.

Mr. Wright: Mark these. In marking them, just mark the pink feature copy, not the pink copy on shorts or news. Just the pink feature. That will be one in each folder.

Mr. McClennen: Those will be new consecutive numbers?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: I think the record should show what your [fol. 3861] exhibit number is. Will you put in the date of the contract, the name, for example, Loew's to Schine?

Mr. Wright: We might cover that by a statement all of these are Loew or Schine contracts for a particular season.

Mr. McClennen: These are all Loew's?

Mr. Wright: Yes, and have him note the towns and runs.

Mr. McClennen: If you will put into the record that they are all Loew's contracts to Schine and the respective exhibit numbers or dates, and put in the dates and the towns and the run.

Mr. Wright: It should be noted these are all 1940-1941 season.

[fol. 3862] (Thereupon 83 contracts between Loew's and Schine for the 1940-1941 season were received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibits 981 (1) to 981 (83), tabulated as follows):

[fol. 3867] Mr. Wright: With reference to a notice to produce consisting of seven pages, addressed to Mr. McKay, Mr. Rogers and Mr. McCarthy, calling for the production of certain original letters, our records show that a copy of the notice was mailed to Mr. Rogers on August 5, 1944, and that the original was mailed to Willard McKay on the same date.

Mr. McKay: Let me state that I never received it.

Mr. Homans: When was it mailed?

Mr. Wright: It was mailed August 5, 1944.

Mr. Schilz: I offer in evidence RKO National Release schedules for the season 1933-34, 1934-35, 1935-36, 1936-37, 1937-38, 1938-39, 1939-40, 1940-41, 1941-42. They had previously been offered as Plaintiff's Exhibit 634 for identification. I will offer them under the same number.

(Thereupon the RKO national release schedules, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 634 for identification, were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Plaintiff offers in evidence documents previously identified as Exhibits 516, 549, 430, 433, 435, 494, 496, 500, 499, and 574.

The offer just made is in addition to the offer made of [fol. 3868] the documents previously identified by the following numbers:

Plaintiff's Exhibits 76, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 176, 178, 179, 190, 216, 218, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 236, 243, 259, 273, 282, 283, 286, 288, 292, 300, 307, 308, 310, 318, 319, 321, 322, 323, 338, 356, 361, 363, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 374, 381, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 390, 393, 396, 397, 412, 413, 425, 426, 444, 488, 497, 518, 519, 526, 527, 528, 530, 539, 542, 554, 559, 560, 561, 566, 567, 574, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 662.

And delivered to Judge Knight in accordance with Mr. Wright's letter to Mr. McClennen of October 19, 1944.

(At this point in the proceedings Judge Knight presided.)

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, in addition to the documents that we are marking in evidence, we have now offered an additional group of memoranda——

[fol. 3869] The Court: They have been marked?

Mr. Wright: Yes, previously marked documents. These are documents (handing the documents to the Court) previously marked for identification, which the reporters have already listed.

The Court: Are they objected to?

Mr. Wright: As I understand it, the same objection goes to these that was made to those your Honor already has in your possession.

Mr. McClennen: As I understand it now, just before your Honor came in, Mr. Wright made offer of the 89 identified exhibits which have heretofore been handed to your Honor.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: And these that he now, I will say, adds to that group, beginning with identification number 546 and ending with identification number 574, these last being arranged in order of dates, and we make the objection that we have heretofore made and discussed with your Honor as to all of these.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Wright: Before closing our case I want to call your [fol. 3870] Honor's attention to testimony which I think is judicially noticeable before your Honor because it was taken in a prior proceeding in this case before your Honor. I call your attention to it now in case there is any question as to the accuracy of the transcript which was made. If there is we will, of course, offer to make proof of what was said.

I refer specifically to the testimony of John A. May that was given at the hearing before your Honor on March 20, 1944, in connection with the motion for leave to purchase the Liberty Theatre at Cumberland, Maryland. The part I want to call your attention to is as follows:

Page 55:

"John A. May was called as a witness on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Goodwin:

Q. Will you state your name?
A. John A. May.
Q. Your address?
A. Gloversville, New York.
[fol. 3871] "Q. Your occupation?
A. Comptroller of the Schine Chain Theatres."

'Then on page 66, under Cross-examination by me the following testimony appears:

"Q. You are familiar with the policy in your company in acquiring theatres, are you not? You have something to do with that policy?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that policy is, is it not, wherever you go into any situation, to secure control of it by getting control of all of the first-run theatres, isn't that correct?

A. That is sometimes advisable from a business standpoint. It isn't necessary.

Q. You found advisable and have actually achieved that result in 75 per cent or 80 per cent of the situations in which you operate theatres, isn't that true?

A. Possibly, yes.

Q. Well, it is true, is it not?

A. Yes.

Q. If your acquisition and policy in Cumberland follows the course that your acquisition and policy has previously followed in other situations you will wind up in possession [fol. 3872] of all of the first-run theatres there, isn't that correct?

A. Barely possible.

Q. It is not only possible, it is quite probable, is it not?"

This goes to page 67:

"A. Well, it is not necessarily so.

Q. You regard that a desirable situation from Schine's standpoint, do you not, to control all the first-run theatres in the town?

A. Yes."

Then the further question is asked:

"Q. As far as you are concerned there is no public advantage to competition in any situation, is that right?

A. I would not say so, no. Competition sometimes is desirable in some lines of business.

Q. As far as Schine is concerned, it is more desirable to have a monopoly, is it not?

A. Not necessarily.

Q. The fact that you have achieved those monopolies in 75 per cent of your situations you say you regard as purely accidental?"

It goes to page 68:

"A. It depends upon your definition of what 'monopoly' is.

[fol. 3873] Q. I wish you would answer my question.

A. I don't like the word 'monopoly.'

Q. Well, whether you call it a monopoly or whether you call it a closed town, or use any other name that you like for it, it has been a definite policy of Schine's, has it not, to acquire all of the first-run theatres in any particular community in which Schine enters?

A. Yes, sir."

The Court: Was this testimony taken on the question of the disposition of the Liberty Theatre?

Mr. Wright: This was taken at the time—that is right—in connection with the motion to acquire the Liberty Theatre, made by Schine, and this is being offered as an admission made by one of the defendants here in the course of that hearing.

The Court: Is there an objection to that?

Mr. McClennen: We make the objection that has been made in other similar situations, that this related to a local acquisition and not something which had any tendency to restrain or monopolize interstate commerce as evidenced by the fact that your Honor, if I am rightly informed, hearing the testimony, permitted the acquisition of this theatre [fol. 3874] and, so far as it is offered as an admission by a defendant, we ask that it be confined to the defendant May as he was the only one who made this admission, if it was an admission, and only if he was called as a witness in court and not in any respect in the course of the business of the defendants or any of them.

The Court: The first question you raised is the question of this being local. That would have to apply here because we are dealing with this statement as concerns the whole charge of conspiracy. Now, if the Court was right in holding that these are not local transactions and this so-called admission relates to the whole thing, the admission, or so-called admission, as to whether this is a monopoly or policy of the Company, relates to the policy and monopoly as to interstate actions. In other words, if this is not a local transaction, then, of course, the admission applies to all—[fol. 3875] in relation to the way the monopoly, if it is called a monopoly—what was said in that respect?

Mr. McClennen: Evidently I have not well expressed myself to make myself clear to your Honor.

The Court: You are urging the same objection you urged before right through the case, that it is a local transaction, to be applied to each situation by itself?

Mr. McClennen: More than that. The matter before the Court was the question whether we should be permitted to acquire a theatre in Cumberland, if I rightly understand the situation.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: And the witness was before the Court on that one subject.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: Of that one local transaction. That did not clothe him with any representative capacity to deal with other defendants. He was required in his duty to the Court to answer the questions that were put to him, in that he was not engaged upon the business of the defendants; he was before your Honor as a witness, and what he said on [fol. 3876] the witness stand is not an admission with respect to any other defendants, and particularly because the issue then up for consideration was the one of the right to acquire a particular theatre in a particular locality.

The Court: I think you have got to look beyond that, at what was said. No matter what case was being examined it would be entirely—nothing in any way connected with these proceedings—the sale of any theatres. Assuming that in some other suit he had testified that such-and-such was the policy of the Company wouldn't his declarations be—wouldn't that be binding and be material as far as the Company is concerned?

Mr. McClennen: I most respectfully submit now that when a man is called in another suit to testify he is not engaged in the business of the defendants in any way and while his expressions may be binding upon him and while if he were called here now he could be confronted with this as cross-examination, this is now being put in by the [fol. 3877] plaintiff as the Government's testimony.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: And it is not a part of the province of a witness on the stand to make admissions binding upon anybody but himself as admissions and that is part of the objection which we urge, and I merely want——

The Court: Of course, it looks to me as though the proceedings start with the sale of the Liberty Theatre. That is entirely an independent suit.

Mr. McClennen: I understand that that was entirely independent of this suit.

The Court: I am so considering, anyway, and of course it is unusual. Isn't that the fact that that is an independent proceeding?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, the decree under the order under which the proceedings were held was, of course, an order entered in this suit and these proceedings, as I understand them, were a part of this suit, and when your Honor entered an order approving the Liberty acquisition it was entered appropriately without prejudice to such rights as we might have to the divestiture of that theatre.

[fol. 3878] The Court: Yes.

Mr. Wright: Upon the completion of the entire case, upon the merits.

The Court: I know, but does that have to do with the question of monopoly or violation of the Anti-Trust Law here? It appears to me like it is an independent proceeding.

Mr. Wright: Regardless of whether you regard it as an independent proceeding or part of the proof, Mr. May took the witness stand for the purpose of assisting in or establishing a record upon which your Honor would permit one or more of these defendant corporations to acquire that theatre. As such he was clearly embarked on the business of the corporation and I don't think there is any question at all about the admissibility here of such admissions as he might have made while engaged in so testifying, both as to him individually and as to this corporation.

The Court: Of course, it is in the nature of an admission.

Mr. Wright: As a defendant in the suit. He, of course, may take the stand on behalf of the defendants and explain [fol. 3879] what he said there, in any way that he chooses, but we are entitled to——

The Court: You are producing the evidence upon the admission—upon the trial of this side of the case?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Court: They have the right, of course, have they not, to cross-examine Mr. May?

Mr. Wright: The theory under which admissions of a defendant are admissible in evidence, as I understand it, not based upon any assumption that cross-examination was available but because the defendant had made a statement which is inconsistent with the position he assumes in the lawsuit, and as to such statements, whenever they are made, under circumstances as this one was made, for example, in a judicial proceeding under oath when he was about the business that we are concerned with here, the statement is clearly admissible for that purpose and an admission against interest.

The Court: What do you say in answer to his statement [fol. 3880] that the admission is not binding upon the corporation?

Mr. Wright: I would like to call your Honor's attention to Section 340 of Article 33 of the Civil Practice Act of this State, which states:

"The admission of a member of an aggregate corporation who is not a party"—this goes further than that we are concerned with here——

"shall not be received as evidence against the corporation unless it was made concerning and while engaged in a transaction in which he was the authorized agent of the corporation or unless it was made while a member of such corporation and testified as a witness concerning a transaction of the corporation when the official record of such testimony shall be received."

That, it seems to me, is precisely the situation that we have here with the additional element that Mr. May himself was a defendant and that testimony was taken not in [fol. 3881] some unrelated lawsuit but in this lawsuit itself.

The Court: Wouldn't it have to be binding in that proceeding?

Mr. Wright: I think not, if the Court please. This deals with the general question of the admissibility of admissions.

The Court: With respect to a corporation, that is the point of the rule. That does not go to the question of admission as concerns the different proceedings. Of course, while what has been done, they started this action years ago, has nothing to do with the acts themselves, the sale of a theatre during a trial.

Mr. Wright: Assuming it was an independent proceeding, I cannot conceive of any circumstances under which a defendant or an officer of a corporation could make a binding admission if he cannot make one when he is testifying on behalf of the corporation in connection with a matter concerning corporate business under oath. I would suppose those were circumstances under which admissions of the highest possible probative value could be made.

The Court: That corporate proceeding?

[fol. 3882] Mr. Wright: In that proceeding. The testimony is not received because it is an admission, it is received because a witness there testifying just like any other witness. The only time we are concerned with the admissibility of such testimony as an admission is when it is offered in another city from the original one in which it occurred and was made.

The Court: Isn't the point of that rule that the admission of the officer is an admission as against the corporation? That is the purpose of that rule, isn't it?

Mr. Wright: Yes. I take it the rule extends to the doctrine of admissions, generally. If it were merely considering what happens in a suit, or a corporate officer testifies on behalf of the corporation, there isn't any question, of course, but what that evidence, even without any statute, or considering the law of admissions, is admissible and binds his corporation. What we are concerned with here is the extent of such statements that an officer of a corporation makes at some other time and place are admissible against him and the corporation in a subsequent proceeding, and I understand the law to be that where the officer makes a statement in the course of performing the corporation business, which relates to that business and which he is authorized to make, then that statement may be, when properly proved, used as an admission against him and the corporation in any subsequent proceeding, in so far as it may be relevant to the issues then being tried. I do not understand that Counsel himself has suggested that there is any disagreement as to that rule of law.

[fol. 3883]

Mr. McClennen: Well, there is. If you did not understand it you misunderstood what I just said.

I submit, if your Honor please, that the theory of admissions being binding upon somebody else than the man who spoke is that they constitute the words of the corporation, if you please, which he was authorized by the corporation to utter. When a witness is called to the witness stand he is not engaged on the business of the corporation. He is engaged in the business of giving testimony to a court and if the corporation knew that the witness was of the opinion or belief that a certain thing was the fact, and the corporation and the corporate officers, other than himself, were of the belief that it was not the fact, that if in that testimony it would be possible for what he said to be an admission by the corporation then it would be within the power of the corporation and the right of the corporation to say at this juncture, "You are not to open your mouth because we do not believe that what you believe is the fact."

[fol. 3884]

Now, manifestly, they cannot do it when he is testifying in a court, and the very illustration that I use shows that when testifying in court he is not engaged upon the business of the corporation and he is not authorized to make admissions in the proceeding in which he appears; what he says is effective, not as admissions, but as testimony, and it goes no further.

[fol. 3885]

It is a fundamental of the law of admissions by a cooperator, an officer of the corporation, that an admission made after the period of the conspiracy in question or before the beginning of the conspiracy in question, is not a part of the carrying out of that conspiracy.

It is not an admission that is binding upon the other parties. There are those initial and terminal limits.

[fol. 3886] Now, when this witness was testifying in court, he was not engaged in the carrying out of any conspiracy. He was engaged in giving the testimony in accordance with his belief on the facts concerning which he was interrogated. That was not an admission by the corporation when he made that admission. It was a statement of a piece of evidence by himself, and it went no further.

The Court: Are we very far apart on this question here, whether we treat it as an admission by the defendant corporation, or whether we treat it as a- admission by the individual? The position of the company is shown here.

Mr. Wright: I think we are agreed it is clearly admissible. The only question is whether or not, the extent to which it is admissible against other defendants than the defendant May.

Mr. McClennen: What an astounding remark. We are not clearly agreed on any such thing.

The Court: I think the discussion centers around the question largely of whether it is binding on the Company. [fol. 3887] I thought perhaps we did agree on that phase of it. That is the question here, how it should be treated if received. That is right, is it not?

Mr. McClennen: I had just stated, if your Honor please, as my position just before this remarkable statement was made that we contended that a statement by Mr. May on the witness-stand had its effect as testimony in the cause in which he was testifying, and that it stopped there.

The Court: Your position is that it is not receivable at all under any circumstances by reason of that fact?

Mr. McClennen: My position here is, first, that it is not receivable at all, and, second, that if it were received it should be received as an admission of Mr. May only, if it is received as an admission.

The Court: That is just exactly what I inquired about. If it is received as his statement, simply as his admission, rather than an admission of the company itself.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I was not addressing myself to anything that your Honor had said. I was [fol. 3888] addressing myself to Mr. Wright's statement that I agreed to something which I do not agree to.

The Court: I thought we agreed in that respect. Do you have something further?

Mr. Wright: There is one case I think on this question of admissibility against the corporation, that is, Pan American against U. S., 273 U. S., 456. That was the case in which Mr. Doheny, while President of the oil company appeared before a Senate Investigating Committee. In the course of his testimony he made certain statements. At a subsequent trial in which he was a defendant—

The Court: Individually?

Mr. Wright: No, in which his corporation was a defendant.

The Court: And individually, also?

Mr. Wright: I believe he was also an individual defendant. In that trial over objection his statements before the Committee were received in evidence, and the Court held that under the facts and circumstances in that case Doheny had acted for the corporation within the scope of his authority, when he testified before the Committee and [fol. 3889] his statements were, therefore, properly taken as admissions by that corporation and were admitted against the corporation in the subsequent suit. Now, we have the same situation here. Mr. May did not appear in this court to buy that theatre himself. He appeared voluntarily for the purpose of satisfying your Honor that his company should be permitted to acquire that theatre. I don't think there is any question at all under the Pan American case that the testimony is admissible.

The Court: I will receive the evidence, and I will determine the question of the weight of the evidence, that is all.

Mr. McClennen: May I, before this matter is cold, call your Honor's attention, that in the case cited the corporation was under investigation by a Senate Committee. That was the business of the corporation that was then up. In the proceeding that was before your Honor, your Honor was not trying or purporting to try, or attempting to try, and that was not a part of the proceeding, a transaction of the corporation concerning an alleged conspiracy or policy [fol. 3890] of business. The matter up for consideration by your Honor was whether it was proper for this corporation to obtain this local theatre in this one place at this time, and your Honor decided that it was proper that that should be done. Now, I am not making these statements by way of seeking to persuade your Honor further on the ruling you have already made, but so that it may be perfectly clear on the record, the distinctions which I am making.

The Court: I will receive it, but I will give it such weight as I determine. Anything besides exhibits now?

Mr. Wright: I have some additional matters, yes.

The Court: What is your plan about tomorrow. Do you want to go on tomorrow? Do just as you men agree. It makes no difference to me.

Mr. McClennen: I think it would very seriously inconvenience my associates to be here tomorrow, and, therefore, I am afraid my suggestion to your Honor is an admission that I was not permitted or authorized to make.

The Court: What is that?

[fol. 3891] Mr. McClennen: I will say that when I suggested to your Honor that we go on tomorrow, I made an admission which I was not authorized by my associates to make.

The Court: I would just as soon not be here.

Mr. Wright: Before we adjourn, I would like to give your Honor a memorandum, a copy of which I have given to counsel.

The Court: What is that concerning?

Mr. Wright: Which concerns decisions of the Appeal Board under the consent decree with respect to certain clearances that are in evidence in this case. The decisions themselves I do not believe are judicially noticeable, because they are not officially reported, but I have procured certified copies which I would like to have marked in order that there——

The Court: Relating to what?

Mr. Wright: These decisions are five in number. They relate to clearances there established in evidence in this case by contracts which are in evidence, and they are decisions which hold those clearances to be unreasonable.

[fol. 3892] The Court: You mean Schine clearances?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Court: How do they come up?

Mr. Wright: They come up under the consent decree, the consent decree which was attached to the memoranda set up a system of arbitration whereby an exhibitor who complained that clearance held over his theatre by another exhibitor with respect to pictures of one of the consenting companies, either Fox, Loew, Metro, R. K. O., or Warner was unreasonable, he would have the right to arbitrate the question before an arbitrator and secure an award to that effect if the clearance was unreasonable. The decree then set up a system of review of these arbitrators' decisions by a three-man board which was appointed by the District Court of New York for that purpose, and these decisions I am referring to here are the decisions of that three-man Appeal Board reviewing awards of arbitrators made in proceedings brought by independent exhibitors who complained about certain clearances held by Schine Theatres.

[fol. 3893] The Court: Schine, of course, was not a party to the consent decree.

Mr. Wright: That is quite true, but these arbitration rules provide when the exhibitor files his complaint, he shall give notice to other exhibitors affected, and then the other exhibitors affected have the opportunity to intervene and become a party. In all but one of these cases, Schine exercised that intervention privilege and was a party.

The Court: You don't mean to be binding——

Mr. Wright: Not at all, nothing more than such persuasive value as their intrinsic merit may give them upon a reading by your Honor.

Mr. McClennen: On this statement of Mr. Wright, I submit your Honor should not read them. In 1939 there was presented to this Court and your Honor, the suit we are now trying, and in that there were allegations made concerning the reasonableness of clearances. The issue has been opened and is now open before your Honor. These decisions are not brought as res adjudicata, as just stated by Mr. Wright. If they are not res adjudicata, they are merely [fol. 3894] somebody else's view about these clearances. Whether these clearances are reasonable or not, is to be taken by your Honor on evidence of the facts. Now, you cannot be assisted in the slightest by knowing that some gentlemen, be they members of the Appeal Board or some other position, entertained a certain view concerning those clearances. They were not experts on the subject. They have not been called as witnesses where they could be cross-examined as to what they knew about what they were doing, as to whether the case was properly tried before them, as to whether the facts on which they reached their conclusions were all the facts, and I submit that——

The Court: Are these the reports of the arbitrators or the reports of the appeal?

Mr. McClennen: This is the decision of the Appeal Board, sometimes confirming and sometimes not the action of the arbitrator in reaching his conclusion, and all of them, with one exception, after May 19th, 1942. Whoever they are by, I submit your Honor's mind should not be affected at all by what somebody else thought upon the issue which is [fol. 3895] an issue, to be decided by you, and that they should not even be looked at by your Honor. They can be of no assistance whatever. They contain views and opinions of men not experts on the subject.

The Court: Supposing there were an article in Harper's Review or some other monthly magazine, some local article, should I read it?

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor would be willing to read it in this case, we would like to give you an article in The Saturday Evening Post that made a survey of these very clearances and reached some conclusions, and if this sort of thing is admissible, why, that would be a matter that might be at least of interest to your Honor. I submit your Honor should not look at it.

The Court: I will let you submit what you want, and as I said before, I have to pass on the question myself independent of anybody else as far as the issue here. If it is not res adjudicata, I am not bound by any action taken. What else have you got today?

Mr. Wright: I think that will conclude our case, sub- [fol. 3896] ject to a check.

Mr. McClennen: These I understand do not go in evidence in this case.

Mr. Wright: Merely for the purpose—the purpose of marking them is simply to——

The Court: I supposed you were ma-king them as part of the brief. You refer to them in the brief?

Mr. Wright: If it might be understood that these are correct and true copies of the decisions in question, there is no need to have them marked in evidence.

The Court: Oh, no, they are not part of the evidence, Submit it the same as a brief is submitted.

Mr. Wright: The only purpose for marking them would be to eliminate the question of lack of judicial noticeability.

The Court: If you can take judicial notice of them. Of course, they do not need to be marked.

Mr. Wright: If there is no objection on that ground, they need not be marked.

Mr. McClennen: If they are not to be evidence in the case, it becomes unnecessary to consider whether you can take judicial notice or not. We protest that they are not before your Honor.

The Court: I am not receiving them as any evidence of [fol. 3897] any fact, any matters they contain. Simply as I understand it in the nature of a brief to the Court of a situation or holding, that is all.

Mr. Wright: That is correct, your Honor. There is one more thing I should like to call your Honor's attention to, that is, the testimony, certain testimony of the witness Burke at the same hearing on March 20th, 1944, to which I——

The Court: What is the name?

Mr. Wright: Thomas H. Burke, at the hearing of March 20th, 1944. Mr. Burke, if your Honor recalls, was the man who owned the Liberty Theatre, which was involved in the supposed acquisition at the time. He testified in that proceeding as a witness called on behalf of the defendants, and the part of his testimony that I wanted to bring to his Honor's attention which I think is also judicially noticeable by your Honor by virtue of its having been given in a proceeding in this suit, is as follows——

Mr. McClennen: Before you read it, I submit this should [fol. 3898] not be read to the Court, that is not admissible.

The Court: What do you claim for it?

Mr. Wright: Briefly the testimony that I am referring to is that which refers to events prior to the entry of the order. Testimony that was developed on cross-examination.

The Court: Transactions by Burke with Schine or his representative?

Mr. Wright: With Schine and with Warner. There was testimony on cross-examination with reference to a so-called sellaway of the better Warner pictures during 1941, and also of conversations between Burke and Mr. May with reference to acquisition of the Liberty in the same year. The admissibility here, or the consideration of the testimony here, I think, depends entirely on whether your Honor views the record there made as a part of this suit. If your Honor takes the position that this testimony was not given in this proceeding, then I think it is true that we would have to call Mr. Burke as a witness in order to make proof. However, I believe that it clearly appears that the proceeding in which [fol. 3899] the testimony was given was a proceeding in the course of this suit.

The Court: I think it is going too far, because that testimony was not given in the light of any—pendency of any action in this court. It is a separate action, than the testimony of Mr. May. This is a statement of a third party.

Mr. Wright: That is right.

The Court: Well, I don't think it can be received. Anything further?

Mr. Wright: I think that is all, subject to a check of the marking of documents. There have been a number of documents that we have not had actually marked.

The Court: Do you want to go on next week Monday?

Mr. McClennen: Yes, your Honor.

The Court: I think we will have to put it on at 2 o'clock. I have a long argument in the morning. It would be safer to put it down at 2 o'clock.

Mr. McClennen: As I understand it, Mr. Wright, the evidence is now closed subject to a checking of papers——

Mr. Wright: Subject to a ruling——

[fols. 3900-3905] Mr. McClennen: I was about to say that, of course, your Honor has not yet ruled on that long list of exhibits and, of course, that is still open, but barring those two things, the checking of the exhibits, and with that the plaintiff's case is ended.

The Court: All right. We will adjourn until 2 o'clock Monday.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until Monday, October 30th, 1944, at 2 o'clock P. M.)

[fol. 3906] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants.

Continuation of trial October 30th, 1944, at 10:30 o'clock.

APPEARANCES:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Philip Marcus, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorney, in behalf of the United States.

Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rogers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Edward M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the Defendants.

[fol. 3907] PROCEEDINGS

In the absence of the Judge, and by agreement of Counsel, there are marked for identification papers as follows:

Those so marked are for identification only.

Those marked without objection are introduced in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: I hand you herewith, Mr. Wright, as requested, lease of June 15, 1933, Lawrence M. Wooley, Executor under the Will of Norman L. Bates, to G. C. Theatre Corp., of property known as Richardson Theatre, corner of East First and Oneida Streets, Oswego.

May 1, 1935, letter exercising option for three years from July 31, 1935;

July 5, 1938, lease of same to same of same property.

June 17, 1940, extension, same to same, of same property, for one year, ending July 31, 1941.

June 30, 1941, notice of extension for one year from July 31, 1941.

Mr. Wright: We will ask to have the lease dated June 19, [fol. 3908] 1933, and the attached exercise of option, dated May 1, 1935, marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 982.

Mr. McClennen: Note the usual objection, local transaction exclusively.

(Thereupon the lease dated June 19, 1933, referred to was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 982.)

Mr. Wright: We will ask to have the lease dated July 5, 1938, marked in evidence as Exhibit 983.

(Thereupon the lease dated July 5, 1938, referred to was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 983.)

Mr. Wright: The agreement dated June 17, 1940, as Plaintiff's Exhibit 984 and the letter dated June 30, 1941, as Exhibit 985.

(Thereupon the agreement, dated June 17, 1940, referred to was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 984.)

(Thereupon the letter, dated June 30, 1941, referred to was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 985.)

Mr. Wright: We will ask to have the Columbia release schedules for the seasons 1938-1939 through 1941-1942, in- [fol. 3909] clusive, previously identified as Exhibit No. 682 marked in evidence under the same number.

(Thereupon the Columbia release schedules previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 682 for identification were received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Mark this stipulation, dated October 17, 1944, with respect to film rentals paid by the exhibition of Paramount features at Auburn, N. Y., during the 1932-33, 1933-34, and 1934-35 motion picture seasons, as the next exhibit.

(Thereupon the stipulation, dated October 17, 1944, re Paramount features at Auburn, N. Y., was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 986.)

Mr. Wright: Mark the stipulation regarding total film rentals paid by the Schine Circuit to Fox for the seasons 1935-36 through 1939-40, respectively, as Plaintiff's Exhibit 987.

(Thereupon the stipulation re rentals, Schine Circuit to Fox, referred to was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 987.)

Mr. Wright: And the stipulation relating to the total feature film rentals paid by the Schine Circuit to Loew for the [fol. 3910] seasons 1935-36 through the seasons 1939-40, respectively, as Plaintiff's Exhibit 988.

(Thereupon the stipulation re rentals Schine Circuit to Loew referred to was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 988.)

Mr. Wright: And the stipulation relating to feature film rentals received by Paramount from the Schine Circuit for the seasons 1934-35 through 1939-40, respectively, is marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 989.

(Thereupon the stipulation re rentals Schine Circuit to Paramount referred to was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 989.)

Mr. Wright: The stipulation as to total film rentals received from the Schine Circuit by RKO for the seasons 1935-36 through 1939-40 will be Exhibit 990.

(Thereupon the stipulation re rentals Schine Circuit to RKO referred to was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 990.)

Mr. Wright: The stipulation relating to the feature film rentals received from Vitagraph, Inc., for the seasons 1934-35 through 1939-40, respectively, will be Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 991.

[fol. 3911] (Thereupon the stipulation re rentals Vitagraph, Inc., referred to was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 991.)

Mr. Wright: I will offer in evidence the stipulation concerning the directorship in the Universal Pictures Company, Inc., held by J. Myer Schine during the period April 19, 1934, to March 3, 1938, and the connection of Willard S. McKay with that Company during the period 1931 through 1940.

(Thereupon the stipulation re directorship referred to was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 992.)

Mr. Wright: I will offer in evidence this stipulation of September 28, 1944, as to service of prints by Columbia, United Artists, Universal, Fox, Loew, Paramount, RKO and Warners to defendant's theatres in Virginia, Delaware, Maryland and Kentucky, from exchanges in Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, Pa., and Cincinnati, Ohio.

(Thereupon the stipulation, dated September 28, 1944, referred to was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 993.)

Mr. Wright: We are offering in evidence as Plaintiff's [fol. 3912] Exhibit 994 the stipulation offered by Counsel for defendants with respect to the theatres operated by the various operating corporations listed in the answer to interrogatory No. 15.

(Thereupon the stipulation re theatres operated by various operationg corporations referred to was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 994.)

Mr. Wright: Will you mark the request for admission of facts served on the defendants by the plaintiff with the next number? This request is dated June 6, 1944.

(Thereupon the request for admission of facts, dated June 6, 1944, referred to was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 995 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: And defendants' first answer to said request marked for identification as Exhibit 995 will be Exhibit 996, and which was filed some time in August, 1944.

(Thereupon defendants' first answer to request for admission of facts referred to was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 996 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: We will also have the supplemental answer to request for admission of facts filed by defendants and [fol. 3913] dated September 25, 1944, and served September 24, 1944, marked with the next exhibit number for identification.

(Thereupon the supplemental answer to request for admission of facts, dated September 25, 1944, referred to was marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 997 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: We will offer in evidence paragraph 19 of Plaintiff's Exhibit 995 for identification and paragraph 19 of Exhibit 997 for identification.

(Paragraph 19 of Plaintiff's Exhibit 995 for identification reads as follows:

"19. On November 10, 1941 there were no theatres in the following towns other than those operated by the defendant exhibitors or in which the defendant exhibitors owned a financial interest.

Mr. Wright: We are also offering paragraph 10 of Exhibit 995 for identification and paragraph 10 of Exhibit 997 for identification.

(Paragraph 10 of Plaintiff's Exhibit 995 for identification reads as follows:

"10. About ninety per cent of the total film rental paid by the exhibitor defendants during the five years preceding the filing of this suit was paid to the eight major distributors.")

(Paragraph 10 of Plaintiff's Exhibit 997 for identification reads as follows:

"10. Denied. It is admitted that the percentage would be well upwards of 75 percent.")

Mr. Wright: We are offering paragraph 98 of Exhibit 995 for identification and paragraph 98 of Exhibit 996 for identification.

[fol. 3917] (Paragraph 98 of Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 995 for identification reads as follows:

"98. That the Answer to Interrogatory No. 16 would be the same now as it was at the time the answer was submitted October 6, 1941.") (Paragraph 98 of Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 996 for identification reads as follows:

"98. The defendants admit that the answer to Interrogatory No. 16 would be the same now as on October 6, 1941.")

Mr. Wright: And we offer paragraph 99 of Exhibit 995 for identification and paragraph 99 of Exhibit 996 for identification.

(Thereupon the contracts between Fox and Schine, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits F-2 to F-64, inclusive, were received in evidence.)

[fol. 3925] Mr. Wright: The next we are offering in evidence are deal sheets between Fox and Schine, identified as F-102 to 109, inclusive, under the same numbers.

(Thereupon deal sheets previously marked for identification were received in evidence as follows:

Plaintiff's Exhibit F-102, Hamilton.
Plaintiff's Exhibit F-103, Glens Falls.
Plaintiff's Exhibit F-104, Herkimer.
Plaintiff's Exhibit F-105, Hudson Falls.
Plaintiff's Exhibit F-106, Little Falls.
Plaintiff's Exhibit F-107, Malone.

Plaintiff's Exhibit F-108, Athens, Ohio.

Plaintiff's Exhibit F-109, second-run, Oneonta and Gloversville, New York.)

Mr. Wright: We offer deal sheet dated October 27th, 1937, between Fox and Schine for Fostoria, Ohio, to be marked in evidence as F-110, the number under which it was previously marked.

(Thereupon deal sheet dated October 27th, 1937, between Fox and Schine for Fostoria, Ohio, previously marked for identification was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-110.)

[fol. 3926] Mr. Wright: We offer Exhibit F-111, which is a deal sheet for the Princess Theatre, Medina, Ohio, dated 10-11-39.

(Thereupon deal sheet for Princess Theatre, Medina, Ohio, dated 10-11-39, previously marked for identification was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-111.)

Mr. Wright: Exhibit F-112, is deal sheet dated 10-28-36, Palace Theatre, Watertown.

(Thereupon deal sheet dated 10-28-36, Palace Theatre, Watertown, previously marked for identification was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-112.)

Mr. Wright: Exhibit F-113 is a deal sheet dated August 11, 1937, Perry, New York.

(Thereupon deal sheet dated August 11, 1937, Perry, New York, previously marked for identification was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-113.)

Mr. Wright: Exhibit F-114 is deal sheet dated 8-11-37, Penn Yan, New York.

(Thereupon deal sheet dated 8-11-37, Penn Yan, New York, previously marked for identification was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-114.)

Mr. Wright: Exhibit F-115 is deal sheet dated 4-27-37, [fol. 3927] Ilion, New York.

(Thereupon deal sheet dated 4-27-37, Ilion, New York, previously marked for identification was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-115.)

Mr. Wright: We are offering Exhibit F-117——

Mr. McClennen: No 116 at this time?

Mr. Wright: No.

Exhibit F-117 is contract between Fox and Schine for Pikeville, Kentucky, Group K-6.

(Thereupon contract between Fox and Schine for Pikeville, Kentucky, Group K-6, previously marked for identification, was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-117.)

Mr. Wright: Exhibit F-118, same parties, same group, Paris, Kentucky.

(Thereupon contract between Fox and Schine for Paris, Kentucky, Group K-6, previously marked for identification, was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-118.)

Mr. Wright: F-119, same parties, same group, Middlesboro, Kentucky.

(Thereupon contract between Fox and Schine for Middlesboro, Kentucky, Group K-6, previously marked for identification was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-119.)

[fol. 3928] Mr. Wright: Exhibit F-120, same parties, same group, Granville, New York.

(Thereupon contract between Fox and Schine, for Granville, New York, group K-6, previously marked for identification were received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-120.)

Mr. Wright: F-121, same parties, same group, Harlan, Kentucky.

(Thereupon contract between Fox and Schine, for Harlan, Kentucky, group K-6, previously marked for identification were received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-121.)

Mr. Wright: Exhibit F-122, the same parties, Lexington, Kentucky, groups K-6, 7, 8 and 9.

(Thereupon contract between Fox and Schine, for Lexington, Kentucky, groups K-6, 7, 8 and 9, previously marked for identification were received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit F-122.)

Mr. McClennen: As requested, I hand you what purports to be a copy of a letter dated January 14th, 1936, from Louis Lazar to the Shelby Globe.

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have that marked with the next plaintiff's exhibit number, and we will offer it.

[fol. 3929] Mr. McClennen: The objection is saved.

(Thereupon copy of letter dated January 14th, 1936, from Louis Lazar to the Shelby Globe, was received in evidence and marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 998.)

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright, you have asked us to produce a letter dated January 23rd, 1936, from H. D. Schreffler, to Louis Lazar, Bellefontaine, Ohio, apparently referring to identification P-74. We find no indication of the receipt of such a letter.

Mr. Wright: I offer Exhibit P-74 in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: Note an objection to the receipt of Exhibit P-74 in evidence.

(Thereupon letter dated January 23, 1936, from H. D. Schreffler to Louis Lazar, Bellefontaine, Ohio, previously marked for identification was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit P-74.)

Mr. Clagett: We offer Plaintiff's Exhibits P-69 and P-70, which have previously been marked for identification.

Plaintiff's Exhibit P-69 is a contract between the Bucyrus Theatre Company, by Phil Charnas, with Paramount, dated September 11th, 1934, for pictures at the Southern Theatre, [fol. 3930] Bucyrus.

Plaintiff's Exhibit P-70 is a contract between Schine Theatrical Enterprise and Paramount, dated September 17th, 1935, for the exhibition of pictures at the Schine or State Theatres, Bucyrus, Ohio.

(Thereupon contract between the Bucyrus Theatre Company, by Phil Charnas, with Paramount, dated Sept. 11th, 1934, previously marked for identification, was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit P-69.)

(Thereupon contract between Schine Theatrical Enterprise and Paramount dated September 17th, 1935, previously marked for identification, was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit P-70.)

Mr. Wright: At page 3851 of the transcript it appears that Exhibits 963 through 978, inclusive, were offered in evidence and have actually been marked in evidence, although their reception in evidence was not recorded in the transcript at the time. These are Fox contracts for Syracuse.

Mr. McClennen: Are these different seasons?

Mr. Wright: No, one group of pictures.

Mr. McKay: Five special pictures, the names appear in [fol. 3931] the transcript at page 3852.

(Thereupon Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 963 through 978, inclusive, in evidence, as should have been recorded at page 3851 of the transcript.)

Mr. Wright: That, I think, concludes the offers. There are quite a number of marking errors to be corrected. I suppose that can be done at any time, but we might as well note now the ones we have so far noted.

Mr. McClennen: Is it worth while now? That is purely a mechanical operation.

Mr. Wright: The duplicate exhibit number should be noted now.

Mr. McClennen: Well, all right, put it in the record now.

Mr. Wright: The Warner contract in evidence as Exhibit 642-A should be remarked as Exhibit 635-F.

(Thereupon Warner contract received in evidence as Exhibit 642-A is remarked as Exhibit 635-F in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: The Paramount contracts that were marked 399-A, B, C and D should be remarked as 339-E, F, G and H.

(Thereupon Paramount contracts previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 399-A, B, C and D, should be remarked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 339-E, F, G and H, in evidence.)

[fol. 3932] Mr. Wright: The Warner contracts marked as Exhibits 611-B, C and D, should be remarked as 635-G, H and I.

(Thereupon contracts previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 611-B, C and D, were remarked as Plaintiff's Exhibits — G, H and I in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: The Paramount contracts marked as Exhibits 399-A and B should be remarked 339-I and J.

(Thereupon Paramount contracts previously marked as Exhibits 399-A and B should be marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 339-I and J in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: The Metro contract marked as 606-A should be remarked as Exhibit 604-J.

(Thereupon Metro contract previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 606-A should be remarked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 604-J in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: The Warner contracts marked as 635-A and B should be remarked as —J and K.

(Thereupon Warner contracts previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 635-A and B should be remarked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 635-J and K in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: The Norwalk Warner contracts marked as 635-A through D should be remarked as 635-L, M, N [fol. 3933] and O.

(Thereupon Norwalk Warner contracts previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 635-A through D, should be remarked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 635-L, M, N and O in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: 635-C-1 and 2, for Warner and Fostoria contracts that are marked as 635-A and B should be stricken out as duplications of contracts offered under other numbers.

That is all the corrections we have now, but I am sure that a further check is going to reveal further discrepancies of that kind. The only thing I can see to do is to take them up with the reporter and you people as they occur.

Mr. McClennen: Now, that closes your evidence, except for something like 100 identified exhibits which the Judge has under consideration to see whether he will let them in or not?

Mr. Wright: That is it. Conceivedly his ruling on those might cause us to offer something further.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P.M.)

[fol. 3934] After Recess, 2 o'clock P.M.

Honorable John Knight presiding.

Appearances: As before noted.

The Court: I am sorry I was detained. I had some other business to attend to.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, we were very glad of the extra time. We put in a day's work this morning already in your absence.

There have been put in with the stenographer a lot of exhibits that carry the plaintiff's regular exhibit number through exhibit 998.

The Court: Those were exhibits marked for identification.

Mr. McClennen: Marked as in evidence, to save going over it again.

The Court: Are they new exhibits?

Mr. McClennen: Those that have these new numbers are new exhibits.

The Court: Plaintiff's Exhibits?

Mr. McClennen: Plaintiff's Exhibits.

The Court: These exhibits do not include any submitted to the Court in this folder?

[fol. 3935] Mr. Wright: No, they do not, your Honor.

The Court: They run through 998?

Mr. McClennen: Yes. This completed his case, except the matter of something like one hundred and some identified exhibits that your Honor has under consideration and if your ruling on those exhibits was such that he had to put in more evidence that would still be open, otherwise, the plaintiff's case is at a close, depending upon your ruling on those.

The Court: I want to give them some attention, but before we come to that, I don't know just what the record discloses about the decisions of the arbitrators in these cases before the Arbitrator. What does the record show? I received that some day in some way.

Mr. Wright: The decisions that were handed to your Honor were, I believe, all decisions that the Appeal Board—I don't recall if there were any arbitrators' awards.

The Court: What was it you submitted?

Mr. Wright: What we submitted were decisions of the Appeal Board reviewing decisions of the arbitrators.

[fol. 3936] The Court: The point I am going to make on the rest of those is that they are not a part, that the decisions are of no binding force upon this Court.

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Court: Submitted as part of the brief is one thing, but what somebody else said, I don't think the Court should recognize that as an adjudication.

Mr. Wright: I think the record is clear in that respect.

The Court: Do you understand that?

Mr. McClennen: I think the record made clear that they were not in evidence. We urged that your Honor should not read them even, because they are decisions on factual matters. They are not decisions on any propositions of law. In that connection I would say that if your Honor is going to read those decisions then in like manner we would like to call to your attention the decision in No. 61.

[fol. 3937] The Court: I will stop you right there. I am not going to consider the decisions except as part of the brief, that is all. If it is submitted as part of the Government's brief, then, of course, you will have an opportunity to answer it. I am not going to examine it now.

Mr. McClennen: A cognate case is No. 61, in No. 61, the Appeal Board decision of March 25th, 1943, in the matter of the arbitration between the Sidney Theatre Corporation and the distributors therein named.

Now, I mention this only because if that territory is to be surveyed, even if in connection with a brief by your Honor at a later date, then this one should be considered also, but we do not offer it or urge it.

The Court: What I said is that you will have an opportunity to reply, if it is submitted. I don't think it should be considered by this Court in any way at this time.

About these exhibits, I have examined a considerable number of these which I think should be received. The main point of my reception of those is they are largely [fol. 3938] communications from Schine or Schine's representatives with the companies, these here, I will give you those. (Referring to group of exhibits.)

By way of illustration, in Exhibit 539, a letter from Mr. Kramer to Mr. Smith, of Warner Brothers, "I have just received the following wire from Mr. Lynch of Schine Enterprises," and he quotes the telegram. Is the telegram in evidence?

Mr. Wright: May I see the exhibit?

The Court: Yes.

(Document handed to and inspected by Mr. Wright.)

Mr. Wright: No, I do not believe it is. I don't know that there is a copy of such a telegram available. As far as I know it was never produced.

The Court: What?

Mr. Wright: As far as I know no such telegram was produced.

The Court: This relates to the Bellefontaine situation.

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Court: What do you claim for that exhibit?

Mr. Wright: Well, this communication shows that on or [fol. 3939] about this date, September, 1932, Mr. Kramer, the Branch Manager of Warner, at Cleveland, advised the General Sales Manager, Mr. Smith, that he had received this request for product from the Schine Enterprises, Inc.

The Court: What does that prove?

Mr. Wright: Well, in this particular connection, I suppose that simply shows the course of business between Schine and Warner, that they advised the information came into the branch that Schine wanted to acquire that product at that time, and that was passed along to the home office. In order to fit the thing into the entire picture, for that situation, I would have to refer back to the Bellefontaine exhibits.

The Court: Standing alone that would not——

Mr. Wright: Standing alone it does not prove anything more than what I have just said.

The Court: It is difficult to connect these up.

Mr. Wright: It is difficult to handle them in this way.

The Court: Unless we receive them all,—there are a great many here.

Mr. Wright: They all have to be considered in connection [fol. 3940] with all the other evidence in connection with the situation.

The Court: On the other hand, you cannot just throw in all the records of the companies here.

Mr. Wright: I was perfectly willing to offer those and have them discussed, each one individually. It was, I think, at your Honor's suggestion that we filed them all at once.

The Court: I do not know about that. I do not think there is any question about the rule that inter-company communications are properly received in this case, but, at the same time, I think the communications must be connected, or they must be some evidence in and of themselves, or connected with some other part of the testimony, because in this case there is charged a conspiracy with these distributors. I think the authorities hold that particular inter-company communications are receivable under circumstances corresponding to those here.

The rule in the Minneapolis case was one where the Court ruled to the same effect, that the question of conspiracy makes these communications competent.

[fol. 3941] Mr. McClennen: This particular exhibit, Exhibit No. 539, furnishes an illustration of the particular thing that we urge.

We first urge that such an inter-company communication as Exhibit 539 for identification should not be received at all for the reasons extensively set out at pages 3285 to 3288 of the record.

The Court: That is in the memorandum filed with the Court, you mean?

Mr. McClennen: Yes, your Honor, and in the discussion in the record at page 3424 to 3458. If we do not prevail in persuading your Honor that the communications should be excluded altogether, then we urge for the reasons set out in the record at pages 3589 to 3610, that it should not be received as any evidence of the facts stated in it. The fact in this particular case in the statement—or the statement in this particular case is the statement that Mr. Kramer, the Branch Manager, has received a telegram from Mr. Lynch.

Now, we urge that this exhibit, if received, should not be received as any evidence that Mr. Lynch had sent such [fol. 3942] a telegram. This is a specific illustration of what occurs in others of the inter-company, inter-office of the distributor company communications. The objections to the introduction of each of the something like 100 communications now under consideration, we urge that each separately should not be received and each separately that if it is received, the statement be not evidence of what it purports to say.

This happens to be an inter-office communication of one of the companies. The objection would apply to all of them. The request for limitation would apply to all of them. The same objection and the same request for limitation would also apply to each communication between an employee of a distributor and an outsider, whether it be an oral communication or a written communication.

[fol. 3943] The Court: Well, I don't agree with that view. As I expressed myself before, inter-company communications are tied in with, you might say, other testimony in the case. Then I think they are receivable. Of course there are some instances here in which they perhaps are not so, but, as I said at the outset, quite a number of these exhibits examined showed direct contact with the defendant.

Here is a telegram, for instance, Exhibit 243, concerning 1931-32 and 1932-33 product, Schine Enterprises.

Here is another one here, Schine Enterprises, which includes communication from the Schine representative, as I recall it. There are a lot of exhibits here that seem to be—here is a letter, Exhibit 171 for identification, signed by Mr. Lynch to the Fox Film Corporation, New York. A good many of these exhibits include correspondence directly from Schine companies to one of the major companies. Of course, a different rule, I assume, would be applicable to those exhibits, rather, other rules [fol. 3944] apply to others and would not apply to that. There is another exhibit, No. 338, from Mr. Lynch.

Here is a letter to Mr. Schine of this group. I think you will find some more that do not come within the rule which you seek to sustain or claim.

Mr. McClennen: I had understood that your Honor had ruled against our objection and our motion already and I merely, that is, in the earlier time, but I merely referred to it again because your Honor had singled out a particular paper that it seemed to me was a concrete example of what we were talking about. That is, about communications, inter-office communications, of a distributor and communications between a distributor and outsider, whether oral or written.

Now, my remarks were directed, particularly, to Exhibit 539 for identification as a specimen case and I did not mean to over-argue in any way but merely to make clear to your Honor what our objection is.

[fol. 3945] The Court: The branch manager is the third party. I think they are competent if connected up with other proof in the case. There may be some of these—quite a number of them—that I am doubtful about any connection, but, an exhibit like this, I doubt whether it should be received, the one from Mr. Grady, the branch manager.

Mr. McClennen: You say it should be received?

The Court: I doubt, I say. It is to the Kentucky Theatre, Mr. Merrenbloom, and it says, among other things: "The surest way to keep opposition out of your town, Louis, is to have some long-time franchises tucked away in your safe and even though you would probably pay us a little more money under a franchise than you would if you bought from year-to-year, the franchise is still great insurance."

I think a declaration coming from the branch manager is hearsay unless there was something here to show—was it Mr. Lynch?

Mr. McClennen: Would your Honor indicate the number you just mentioned?

[fol. 3946] The Court: Exhibit No. 190.

Mr. McClennen: I should urge that a declaration of that kind in Exhibit No. 190 was of the same character as that in Exhibit 539.

Here is a declaration in Exhibit 539: "It is very evident that some one is taking over the Opera House in competition to the Schine Enterprises." Now, that is a declaration and opinion and in that sense of an extraneous fact and is in the same category in that respect as the declaration in Exhibit 190 to which your Honor has just referred. They both contain statements ostensibly of facts outside, and it is that that we subject that they should not be received as evidence of.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I think what the question comes down to here is purely a matter of weight. Now, your Honor may not attach the significance to any of these things that are referred to that we attach to it, or you may not be persuaded that they prove the things we say they prove, but I take it that is a question different from their [fol. 3947] being admissible, in the first instance. They are admissible if they are evidence of the facts which we say we want to draw to your attention. This letter of Grady to Merrenbloom, which your Honor just mentioned, is a record kept between Fox Film Company of a view that their branch manager expressed with reference to the question of franchises at that time. We think that that fact that that had happened is significant in connection with the interpretation that is ultimately to be placed by your Honor on the purpose and effect on the numerous franchises that have been introduced in evidence, many of them outside the presence of the Court, and this to the extent that that issue is a material one this document is clearly evidence which may be considered in connection with the determination of the issue.

The Court: Well, I think it makes a difference where it comes from. If that statement were made by one who had authority to make it, one of the policy-making members [fol. 3948] of the corporation, or something of that kind, it would be of different weight. But supposing a branch manager or salesman or somebody else writes and says, "Here you have to take a franchise", does that show any authority?

Mr. Wright: Again I say that only goes to the weight. There isn't any question Grady had the right to write Merrenbloom.

The Court: He had the right to sell pictures and that, yes.

Mr. Wright: This is a letter he wrote in the course of performing his duties and it was kept as part of the Fox Company records. Your Honor may properly say this has considerably less weight than a similar letter written by, say, Mr. Sussman or Mr. Kent, the President, but it still is something which your Honor is entitled to consider. It has attached to it what consideration it should be given. It is expressing his view what a franchise would and would not do, and I submit it is clearly admissible for that purpose, even though your Honor may disagree with us as to the [fol. 3949] amount of weight to be ultimately attached to it.

The Court: It does not seem to me—I don't think you can assume the authority of a branch manager to make a statement of that kind. Unless that is connected up.

Mr. Wright: He clearly has authority to solicit independent exhibitors. He writes this letter in the course of soliciting one and this is what he says. Certainly no further proof of authority than that is necessary to make it admissible as far as the weight to be given to it is concerned. Of course, it has less weight than if the same statement had been made by some one who had a greater measure of responsibility in determining the policies of the Fox Company, but this is still a fact to be considered with numerous other facts as to what the Fox Company did, in determining what its purposes were.

Mr. McClennen: The Exhibit 190 is evidently an urging by the branch manager upon an outside exhibitor, not of the Schine group, that he should take a franchise, and [fol. 3950] offering him that franchise. That fact is wholly apart from the expression of opinion which he makes as to the effect of that. The matter that I am particularly urging is not only that the letter should be excluded but if it is received that it should not be received as evidence of the things stated in it, but only as a communication from the branch manager to what is described as the independent exhibitor, urging a franchise upon him.

The Court: If it is to the effect of a franchise being urged upon him, that is all I think the plaintiff is asking for.

Mr. Wright: No, if the Court please, we offer it as evidence of the fact that it was urged upon him for the reason set forth in the letter. It is evidence of the fact that Grady did express the views that are stated here with respect to the purpose and effect of the franchise on this occasion. Now, that is only one fact which, taken alone, might not be regarded as having any significance at all by your Honor, [fol. 3951] but it is a fact which we are entitled to prove as part of the multitude of facts which we rely on to make our case.

[fol. 3952] The Court: Well, here is another thing here, let us take up some of these that I called attention to. This is the one on the Corbin situation. It sets out the sales of pictures and at the bottom it says——

Mr. McClennen: The number of that, if your Honor please?

The Court: Yes, 393. It says:

"This deal was intended for a new theatre to be built in Corbin by Mr. Scott. In the meantime, the Schine Circuit have acquired the Hipp and Kentucky theatres and have made a deal with Mr. Scott whereby the new theatre will not be built. Mr. Miller negotiated a new contract with Schines, making it necessary to cancel this contract with Mr. Scott, please approve."

What bearing has that?

Mr. Wright: This. I happen to recall the circumstances. Mr. Scott, you will remember, started to build a theatre in Corbin, and he signed an application for a contract with Universal. The application was taken. He never got an approved contract back. This shows what happened to that contract that he sent to Universal. That contract was [fol. 3953] apparently approved and never sent to him and cancelled, instead, when Schine made the deal with Mr. Scott to stop constructing his theatre. This completes the picture as to what happened to Scott's application.

The Court: My point was this, I did not think there was any disagreement about the facts. It states the cancellation of these contracts after the sale by Scott, which is not disputed.

Mr. Wright: We attach some significance to the fact it does show Universal had approved his contract, although they had not delivered the approved contract to him.

The Court: In the meantime Scott had sold out.

Mr. Wright: What Schine was negotiating for and made the deal, of course, apparently while his, Scott's contract was being held up by Universal, and we attach significance to the fact that it was held up.

The Court: You mean as a reason why he sold, because he could not get Universal?

Mr. Wright: Yes, in part.

Mr. McClennen: It would be, of course, impossible to go [fol. 3954] into a discussion of the facts surrounding this matter. This shows that after Mr. Scott had withdrawn from his plan, if his investigations be called a plan, that there was, of course, no occasion for a contract with him for a theatre which he had not and might never have had, so that there was, of course, no reason for sending him a contract which he could not use in any way. The principle doesn't change in any way from what appears in the case of other exhibits that we urge should not be taken as any evidence of the truth of the statements contained in them.

The Court: Well, there is another one that is about Jones and the Lockport matter.

I am going to receive these exhibits. I think there is a doubt about some of these, but I think the Court can take care of those in the consideration of the case. There are so many of them that are not of any special significance that they are material, I will receive them.

Mr. McClennen: That applies to the whole 100?

The Court: Yes.

[fol. 3955] Mr. McClennen: Then without going into them, may we hand them to the stenographer and let him make a record by number, showing the date, from whom to whom?

The Court: I am receiving these on the assumption they are connected up in other parts of the testimony. That is the point. If they are not, I will deal with them later.

(Thereupon certain exhibits previously marked for identification were received in evidence. See page 3983 for detail.)

Mr. McClennen: Then, not seeming to be repeating too much, I now move that these exhibits, and I move it with respect to each one of them, be received only as a communication and not as any evidence of the truth of the statement contained in the communication.

The Court: What does that mean, as evidence of a communication?

Mr. McClennen: Well, I go back to Exhibit 539 as illustrative. We ask that the statement in Exhibit 539, now in evidence, that Lynch had sent a telegram to Kramer be no evidence that Lynch had in fact sent a telegram to [fol. 3956] Kramer.

The Court: All right. How about the balance of the material in the exhibit?

Mr. McClennen: I spoke of that as illustrative of exactly what I am speaking of, that either this is going to be received as evidence that Lynch had sent a telegram or is not to be received as evidence that Lynch had sent a telegram, and I am urging that it be received as no evidence that Lynch had sent a telegram.

The Court: Well, what do you say? What I am trying to get at, that statement is clear; this letter contains a statement that "It is very evident that some one is taking over the Opera House in competition to the Schine Enterprises, and I am passing this information along to you for the reason that if you have made your first-run deal with them, you also can handle the second-run deal as well for the 1931-32, 1932-33 product."

That later statement may have some relevancy, and your application is to strike out everything except that there [fol. 3957] was a communication with somebody. You pick out a statement that there was a telegram sent, and that telegram should not be accepted.

Mr. McClennen: What I intended to say was, first, that the letter should not go in at all, and you have ruled against us on that. Next, that if it goes in, it goes in only as Kramer's communication to the home office that Lynch had sent a telegram, but not as any evidence of the fact that Lynch had sent a telegram, so that dealing with this alone, the case closes barren of any evidence that Lynch had in fact sent any such telegram as is there stated.

The Court: That is very clear; that is the statement. As to whether the Court should consider other statements in the letter, other than referring to the reception of the telegram,—the other one to which attention was called, I think is a similar instance. For instance, this one here to Merrenbloom has two statements. The first might not be objectionable and the last be objectionable, or they both [fol. 3958] might be objectionable from the standpoint of the case.

Mr. McClennen: I had understood that your Honor was not going to allow our motion, but I stated it because this presented a very good opportunity for an illustration and coming, as it does, at the close of the plaintiff's case, and when we are about to go forward with the defendants' case; now, assuming that there is no evidence anywhere else in the case as to whether Lynch had sent a telegram or not, it seemed that we ought to be apprised of the fact whether we are meeting a case in which, by virtue of this letter, there is evidence that Lynch sent that telegram or whether we are meeting a case where, although there is this communication, there is no evidence that Lynch sent such a telegram, so that at the proper time we may argue before you that there is no evidence that Lynch had sent such a telegram. Now, I know of no way of making our position clearer on this than this particular concrete illustration and we are anxious to know whether there is, by virtue of the [fol. 3959] receipt of this letter, evidence in the case that Lynch did send that telegram or no evidence that Lynch did send that telegram.

The Court: Well, I am going to receive it, because I want to know about it. You may be correct in your viewpoint in that respect, but it might not be well taken if there is some evidence in other parts of the proof in the case, I mean, with reference—to illustrate here—there is the question of whether Schine did buy the product for these years for second-run. It appears in the evidence, I mean now, the fact he sent the telegram, and the fact he got the contract. The telegram would mean a little bit more——

Mr. McClennen: I should submit that the fact that Schine did buy the product or did not buy the product for those years was no evidence that Lynch had sent the telegram as stated in the letter. Now, I understand that your Honor is receiving that letter as evidence that he did send the telegram, and I am now saving my objection to that ruling.

[fol. 3960] The Court: Well, you mark these exhibits. Is that all you have?

Mr. Wright: That is all we have, your Honor.

The Court: The plaintiff rests. I had a number of exhibits here.

Mr. McClennen: Well, I take it that the stenographer will mark these all in evidence by the same number as the identification number and in the sequential order of the numbers.

If your Honor please, the evidence for the plaintiff now being closed, I move to strike from the evidence separately the many letters that have been received in evidence over our objection, the many communications so received, both in writing and orally, on the ground that the evidence has not connected the particular communication, whether it be an oral one or a written one, a communication between different employees of a given distributor, one with another, or a communication between an employee of a distributor and an outsider.

I recognize that I am dealing with exactly the same sub-[fol. 3961] ject matter with which your Honor has just been dealing, but for the perfection of our rights we move so to strike separately each one of the communications for the reasons that have been extensively discussed this afternoon before your Honor, and which were stated at pages 3285 to 3288, and pages 3424 to 3458, and pages 3589 to 3610.

The Court: Let me go back to just one question. The first objection you made here was they were not from the defendants' files. I understand you do not raise that question.

Mr. McClennen: If the Court please, these did not come from the defendants' files.

Mr. Wright: There is no question of this particular group coming from the defendants' files.

Mr. McClennen: There is no question that they did not come from the defendants' files.

The Court: They came from the distributors' files.

Mr. Wright: From the distributors' files, I should have said.

Mr. McClennen: Precisely.

The Court: When I looked at it at first I thought you were raising the question there wasn't sufficient proof of [fol. 3962] them coming from the source from which they came.

Mr. McClennen: My motion to strike is brought concretely to attention with these something like one hundred exhibits that have just been received in evidence, but, of course, it applies to exhibits all the way back from the beginning of the trial.

The Court: You do not raise any question about them having come from the distributors' files?

Mr. McClennen: Those that are shown to have come from the distributors' files, we raise no question about their having come from the distributors' files.

The Court: Is it not the contention of the Government that they all came from the distributors' files?

Mr. Wright: As to these your Honor has been ruling on, it is our understanding, and I believe they were so identified at the time the distributors' representatives were on the stand. I don't understand there is any dispute about that testimony.

Mr. McClennen: Now, I await your Honor's action on the motion.

The Court: Well, I understand that. If these come [fol. 3963] from some agent's files or somewhere else, it creates an entirely different situation. I assumed all the while there was no question raised that these last referred to exhibits came from the distributors' files.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, many of these papers and communications that are the subject matter of this motion were not those that came from the distributors' files; they came from other sources. Those that are shown to have come from the distributors' files are clearly shown. I don't recall it, but I think this last one hundred all came from the distributors' files.

The Court: That is what I am talking about.

Mr. McClennen: I am moving for the exclusion of similar things from the beginning of the trial, so there will be no question about it.

The Court: In my last remark I had in mind only this one hundred, because when I first referred to your memorandum of objections I thought you possibly were objecting to the source of these documents. Now, we understand each other.

[fol. 3964] All right, the motion is denied, in all respects denied.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, before going to the opening, I speak of one matter. The witness Mooney testified to prices of admission at his theatre in Bellefontaine, and that the defendants' theatre in Bellefontaine, and in cross-examination practically adopted the newspaper of Bellefontaine's statement of the admission prices that were presented; subsequently, by agreement, out of your Honor's presence, the newspapers were put into the record, or what either side chose to read from them. That is at page 2290 to 2299. I think it was the next day I called your Honor's attention to what had been done, and stated that that must be read to your Honor. We claimed that that should be read as a part of the cross-examination of Mooney, and your Honor stated at page 2327 that I might read them to you at any time. Strictly I think that I should offer them now to your Honor, but it obviously would be much more in-[fol. 3965] telligible for your Honor to deal with them when we come to evidence concerning Bellefontaine, than to put it in at this particular moment.

The Court: You mean it contradicts his testimony, as I recall it?

Mr. McClennen: Yes, and I just present the offer now, and shall welcome your Honor's permission——

The Court: You are speaking about the newspaper now?

Mr. McClennen: Speaking about the newspaper.

The Court: I think you should offer it as part of your cross-examination, or part of your case.

Mr. McClennen: I deem that properly I should offer it now as part of that cross-examination, but I suggest to your Honor it would be more intelligible to your Honor if the actual reading took place when we got into our case in connection with Bellefontaine, if that is agreeable to your Honor.

Mr. Wright: We would object at this time to it being offered as part of the cross-examination, because the newspaper wasn't produced until after Mr. Mooney left the stand. Some of the data in the newspaper are not self-[fol. 3966] explanatory. There are gaps in the papers in which no admission prices appear. Even to get a proper grasp of the situation even as to admission prices, it should have been asked while Mr. Mooney was here.

The Court: You do not deny the prices stated in the paper?

Mr. Wright: No, as to what the paper shows, there isn't any question about that, we have read that into the record, and it is in the record. The only objection I have is as to its being offered as part of the cross-examination. The only thing is I think it it should be offer- as part of the defendants' case, because Mr. Mooney was not available when it was considered.

The Court: It is only one item of evidence. I do not think it makes much difference.

Mr. McClennen: Then I offer it now and ask to defer the actual reading of it to your Honor until later.

The Court: Very well.

Argument

Mr. McClennen: In opening this case to your Honor for the defense, now that the evidence for the plaintiff is closed, [fol. 3967] I would prefer to make no prediction as to the length of time that we will require to present the defense, because it is dependent upon so many circumstances of the future. We believe, as at present advised, that we shall be able to introduce that evidence in less than the 29 days which have been taken for the plaintiff. We shall make it as much less than that as we can, adequately presenting the evidence.

In the long run it will shorten the time consumed if I may outline to some extent the facts as we contend them to be. In stating them as facts, in the course of the opening, I am stating them as facts, so far as the evidence has already established them, and as facts which we propose to show to you by evidence and, therefore, of course, when I refer, in the course of the opening, to a thing as a fact, I recognize that frequently it is not yet a fact proven before your Honor, but is a fact which we expect to offer evidence to prove.

In order to make the facts, as they come forth in the evi- [fol. 3968] dence, clearly significant, it is advisable that we present to you in outline the principles of law which we contend are controlling in this case, so that the true position of any fact in this case may be apparent in the light of the law as we contend that it is.

This case is dependent for a recovery, if any there can be by the plaintiff, upon the Sherman Anti-Trust Act; indeed, the jurisdiction of this Court over the matters presented here is dependent upon that law, if it should so appear that some wrong has been done in any way by the defendants, and we believe and urge that it has appeared so far and will continue to appear that the defendant has done no wrong in the matters under consideration.

[fol. 3969] This, however, is a small part of the situation for, should it appear that there has been a wrong done, it is of no consequence in this case unless there is a violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, and when I use that phrase I, of course, include in it that Act as it may have been amended from time to time up to the present time. There are only two sections of that Act that are brought in play here, the first section and the second section. Of course I lay to one side the later section which gives the remedy. The right, if any, to complain is based upon Sections 1 and 2 and unless there has been that which one or the other of those two sections condemns there is no case here present.

Under Section 1, conspiracy, culmination or contract by the defendant with someone else is essential. This means that so far as Section 1 is concerned it makes no difference that the defendant restrained even interstate commerce unless there is a contract, combination or conspiracy to do so. [fol. 3970] Now, for brevity, I absorb those three words, "contract", "combination and/or conspiracy" into the one "conspiracy", because, manifestly, that is the broadest term of them all.

Our first contention is that there is not, and that at the close of the evidence in the whole case there will be no evidence calling for a finding that there has been a conspiracy by the defendant to restrain interstate commerce. The only conspiracy alleged is a separate conspiracy by the defendant with certain distributors separately. These distributors are not parties to this case.

Now, for brevity, I use the word "Schine", not merely to mean Mr. Schine but to mean, as a rough, convenient expression, those organizations which are defendants here.

The distributors I abbreviate in the same way, into Columbia, Fox, Loew's, Monogram, RKO, Republic, the United Artists, Universal and Vitagraph, or more conveniently called Warner.

[fol. 3971] Mr. Wright: I don't like to interrupt, but there are no allegations in the complaint with respect to Monogram or Republic.

Mr. McClennen: If you had not interrupted I was about to say that there was no allegation of a conspiracy between Schine and Republic or Monogram, and I was telling your Honor the terms that I was going to use to describe the leading distributors in the motion picture industry.

Mr. Wright: I am sorry, I misunderstood you.

The Court: Let Counsel proceed.

Mr. Wright: I thought he was undertaking to summarize the complaint.

The Court: Proceed.

Mr. McClennen: Now, as the case now stands the plaintiff does not make any charge against any distributor. The plaintiff has dropped the charges against the particular distributors, Columbia, Fox, Loew's, Paramount, RKO, the United Artists, Universal and Warner. That repetition makes me fearful that I omitted the name Paramount in the first list.

The plaintiff continues to charge against Schine only [fol. 3972] that Schine conspired with Columbia alone, that Schine conspired with Fox alone, that Schine conspired with Loew alone, that Schine conspired with Paramount alone, that Schine conspired with RKO alone, that Schine conspired with United Artists alone, that Schine conspired with Universal alone, that Schine conspired with Warner alone.

There has been, we contend, in the plaintiff's evidence, no evidence of any one of those eight separate conspiracies and we predict that at the close of the whole evidence there will be no evidence of any one of those eight conspiracies. The term "conspiracy" has a concrete meaning. The fact that it takes so much miscellaneous evidence to establish a conspiracy tends to break down decent regard for true expression in defining what a conspiracy is.

A conspiracy, after all the evidence is in, if one is shown, can be stated as concretely with the same statement of its [fol. 3973] terms and scope as a contract can be stated. In fact, a conspiracy is but a loosely stated form of contract. Essential to conspiracy is the existence of an agreement, not formally stated, not necessarily expressed in words, but derivable from the evidence as a whole, but there must be an agreement, not merely a concurrence of action by a concert of action, an understanding together, not in the sense of comprehension or appreciation but in the sense of agreement, and unless that agreement is shown the charge of conspiracy must fall.

That agreement must be proved with the same certainty that an ordinary contract is proved. The difficulties of traveling through the evidence, the extent which things on the borderline of immateriality may be considered, none of those considerations make against the fact that the conspiracy must, in the end, be proved by a fair preponderance of the evidence, just as any other fact must be proved.

Under the second section of the Sherman Anti-Trust [fol. 3974] Act there is a provision condemning the monopolization or attempt to monopolize interstate commerce. That is a thing which may happen without the assistance of a co-conspirator. One man, by running a corner in the stock market, without the knowledge or conscious cooperation of any broker, or any one else, may monopolize a certain stock in the market and monopolize interstate commerce in that stock.

Much confusion has been brought into the consideration of this matter by the conception that a unitary position is a monopoly. It is not. In no place probably in shorter compass is this set out than in the extensive opinion in the Standard Oil case, where there is developed clearly that for monopolizing, as the term is used in the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, there must be something which constitutes unreasonable restraint of trade. To put the thing very concretely, a man sees a flourishing, prosperous town, with no [fol. 3975] place of laudable amusement in it. He goes into that town and he builds a theatre. He builds it so well, so adequately, that it pleases the possible patrons in the town. He builds it large enough to accom-odate all those patrons. He goes on for years in that situation. He has not monopolized anything. Now, that is the kind of a thing that avid pursuers of success in the trial of cases like to call a monopoly, like to call the towns in which a man has a monopoly, when all that he has done is to create something that never existed before. To com-at that disposition, to misdescribe a situation, takes time and patience, but the fact remains that that man is not a monopolist.

In this particular industry there has grown up another phrase, a short-cut phrase, that is not harmful in any way until you come to stretch its meaning over something that it does not mean, a closed town. Now, all that is meant, as these men in this industry use the term, is that there is no [fol. 3976] other theatre in the town. They do not use it in the sense that anybody has closed that town to access by anybody else of sufficient ability, industry, wisdom and resources, to enter that town. I speak of the term because it is inevitable that it shall be used and it is not a misleading term if there is always kept in mind the fact that the term does not in any way indicate intrinsically any impropriety of conduct whatever, but frequently indicates the commendable, industrious, wise, diligent spirit that has put into that town something that nobody else has had the disposition or energy to put into that town. That is not monopolizing.

If, after the pioneer in the town has built that theatre, somebody else buys it from him, that does not monopolize that town. In this respect it makes no difference whether the man who owned the theatre wanted to sell it and got an excessive price, or a fair price, or too small a price. It [fol. 3977] still is not a monopolization. There was the selling operator of that theatre before. He was not monopolizing and the man who took his place by purchase is no more monopolizing than the seller was. The scope of enterprise is not lessened in any way by the transaction.

After an investigation has been made by your Honor into the various acquisitions that have been shown here as made by the defendants, so far as the Sherman Anti-Trust Act is concerned, it will be immaterial whether they were fair and good bargains for the seller or were not. The effect upon the industry is just the same, the substitution of one owner and operator for another owner and operator.

In the particular case there are two reasons why that does not constitute a violation of Section 2 of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, one, that it does not constitute monopolizing and the other that it does not constitute monopolizing of interstate commerce. I am not speaking now of the fact [fol. 3978] that the transaction takes place locally alone. There are many things which constitute a restraint of interstate commerce that take place locally. The parties involved may never leave the State.

Let me put an unimaginable case. If one man in New York meets another man in New York and is successful in buying the wheat production of the Western fields of a given season, so that he has them all, it is not the fact that he did not move out of his tracks in New York that is the determining factor. It is a fact that his act has had the direct and substantial effect of monopolizing the interstate wheat commerce of the country.

Here in this case we are dealing with something entirely different. An exhibitor of motion pictures is not in the business of interstate commerce. A distributor of motion pictures to exhibitors frequently is engaged in the business of interstate commerce. An exhibitor of motion pictures is no more engaged in interstate commerce than the man [fol. 3979] who runs the village grocery store in the same town. It makes no difference that he may get his bananas from the American Fruit Company, his sugar from the American Sugar Refining Company, his provision in beef and otherwise from the packers at a distance. His business is a local business. Nothing could be more definitely local. A man who runs a theatre locally is no more engaged in the business of interstate commerce than a man who runs a ball park or a skating rink. It has nothing to do with interstate commerce.

Now, the reason that the Sherman Anti-Trust Act was limited at the time it was passed to interstate and foreign commerce was because that was the only thing that was within the province of Congress to legislate upon. Congress might not, under the Constitution, take steps to prevent unreasonable restraints of local competition, unreasonable restraints of local trade. This matter is fundamental in the case now on trial. It distinguishes this case from the [fol. 3980] many that have got into the books, foreign, pretty much all of them. The distributors engaged in interstate commerce have been the parties sued. Their conduct, if it was proven to be in restraint of commerce, was easily in restraint of interstate commerce. Such is not the case with the exhibitor.

Repeatedly the Court has said that to come within the prohibitions of this Act there must be a substantial and direct restraint upon interstate commerce and the interstate is the important word that removes this from the domain of government of State to the domain of the United States.

We contend that on the evidence thus far introduced, if there has been any restraint of commerce, if there has been any monopolization of commerce, it has not been a restraint upon interstate commerce or a monopolization of interstate commerce. Of course, I am not at this time bringing to your Honor's attention the decisions which support the [fol. 3981] contention which I am presenting. I believe that every decision, certainly of the Supreme Court of the United States and of the courts of appeals of the several circuits that have dealt with this problem, are in accord on it and that there is nothing left for debate upon that subject. The cases are briefly referred to in the supplemental pre-trial, white-covered brief for the defendants, filed September 26, 1944, and more extensively covered, except as to the later decisions that did not exist at the time, in Mr. McKay's memorandum of law filed with your Honor in 1942.

The next step in bringing clarity into this case is to lay before you in one place this motion picture industry as it has developed, with its features, many of them not common to the industries that we knew forty and more years ago, and that we know mostly now. It is an entirely different field of operation, in many respects, than is occupied by any other industry.

[fol. 3982] Now, as it must necessarily take a little time for this, if agreeable with your Honor, I would rather not break it in the middle, if we could wait for that until tomorrow morning, unless your Honor prefers to go on.

The Court: No, it is after half-past 4. I would like to adjourn at this time, unless you want to go on with it.

We will recess until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until Tuesday, October 31st, 1944, at 10 o'clock A. M.)

[fol. 3992] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, October 31st, 1944, at 10 o'clock A.M.

Appearances: Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Philip Marcus, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorney in behalf of the United States.

Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rodgers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Edward M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the defendants.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I resume at the point I left off at yesterday afternoon.

The application of the principles of law, which we have submitted, to the conduct of the defendants can best be stated after the facts of that conduct, as they have been proved or are to be proved, are laid before you. Fundamental to the proper appraisal of the defendants' conduct is the development and methods of business of the distributors of motion picture film.

That brings us to a consideration of those methods and what the distributors have done or tried to do. It is of no consequence in the case that is on trial against the defendants whether the distributors, or any of them, have behaved rightly or wrongly in their conduct with the public or with their customers and intending buyers. That broad statement is not cut down by this exception: If the defendants have restrained interstate commerce then it does become important to know whether the distributors or any [fol. 3994] of them has co-operated by agreement in that restraint. It is only in that connection that the conduct of the distributors is of any consequence in this case, and the burden is not upon us to justify in any respect the courses of conduct which the distributors have pursued.

I do not mean by this to indicate that there is anything in their conduct, shown in this case, in any respects reprehensible. I merely point out that we are not called upon to assume the burden of convincing you of a proper appraisal of the rightness of the conduct of the distributors. The only person, the only defendants charged in this case are these or this exhibitor and to that we address ourselves, and it is only in order that there may be a proper appraisal of that conduct that I refer to the distributors at all.

The motion picture industry, in the feature picture sense, had its beginnings about 1912. There is a span of 30 years to be covered before the 19th of May, 1942.
[fol. 3995] I shall constantly make the error, I fancy, of speaking in the present tense. Your Honor will understand, I have no doubt, that when I speak of these matters I am speaking exclusively to what happened before the 19th of May, 1942, as that is the date which the plaintiff has set to the acts of the defendants of which the plaintiff complains, and I use that date only on that account.

Another matter, there was a somewhat substantial change in the methods of doing business by some of the distributors after 1940, pursuant to the decree entered in the District Court of the United States for the Southern District by the consent of the distributors and of the United States, and I speak generally of the methods in existence before that time arrived.

In that span of 30 years there has been, of course, many developments in the industry. The early days are important only as shedding light on the days that are involved in this case.

The producers of film have concentrated their production [fol. 3996] efforts, each one of them, to a considerable extent to California. When I say each one of them, of course, I am speaking of those distributors who are producers, not a distributor like the United Artists that does no producing, and there may be some of the other distributors that do no producing.

The feature film has come to mean a film a mile or more in length, to distinguish it from shorts, single-reelers and two-reelers for other divisions that do not conform to the definition of length necessary to make the production a feature production.

Production in its present sense did not come into existence until about 1928. I chose that date roughly as the time when the production of feature pictures, accompanied by sound, substantially began. That was an extremely radical change, a change in many ways. The acoustical properties of a theatre or a store that had been improvised into [fol. 3997] a theatre were a minor consideration prior to that date as compared with what those were after that date.

The expense of production, the time required for production of a picture was greatly increased by this change. The value of the picture to the producer, the necessary valuation to cover the expense of production, the value of the picture to the distributor to cover those features and to obtain the distributors' appropriate part of the ultimate value of the displaying of his picture was greatly increased.

The amount that he had to charge, and that he ought to charge, was greatly increased. The only way in which properly conceived and carried out, and artistically good and entertainingly valuable pictures could be obtained was by putting large amounts of money into the effort to make this better production. This could not be done unless adequate box office receipts would enable the exhibitor to pay either by percentage or rental the amount which was necessary to meet these costs, and these greatly added costs of [fol. 3998] production. The number of pictures that could be produced by any distributor or producer in a given space of time was greatly reduced because of the added time necessary to gather in, not merely those persons who could have their pictures taken, but those persons who could really act and synchronize their expressions with their actions, and in many cases those who had musical, vocal or instrumental abilities, as well, a tremendous increase in requirements came with that, and a corresponding impossibility of producing as many pictures as might have been produced in the old days before that which took place.

In the marketing of pictures there was, in the early days, a great variation in methods. It was a tremendous undertaking to get any systemization into this industry that would make it possible for a theatre-operator to get pictures in quantity at the time and of the character required for his particular theatre. He could not get them all from one source and there arose the normal business strife [fol. 3999] between the distributors, to have him get as many as possible of his pictures from the particular distributor, and to get the proper time allotted to those pictures for the best results to that distributor. It has become a commonplace that the week end time, conspicuously Saturday and Sunday, but varying in its beginnings and endings in different places, is the preferred time, the time that will bring the greatest attendance and therefore the greatest revenue from the showing of a particular picture.

Each of the ten or a dozen distributors wants to get as much of that time in that particular desirable theatre as he can get. It develops a hard competition between the distributors in this respect. It is a matter that can be determined by the exhibitor by no fixed rules. He has to trade it out in his negotiations with the different distributors. Of course that is done at times by the allocating of those preferred times to the best product of each distribu- [fol. 4000] tor. That presents another complication.

The distributors desire, so far as possible, to have their pictures shown in a given theatre in the order of release of those pictures. That is one of the points at which they strive. Conceivably the dozen different distributors may each produce an outstanding picture, release it on, we will say, on the 15th of January, and then there is the unsolvable problem, the exhibitor wants to show in his theatre those outstanding pictures at an early date. He wants to show them in preferred times when they will bring in the best results, and there is no solution of that problem. It has just to be cut across to try to get the various requirements, giving to each distributor the preferred time, giving to each distributor an early date, and at the same time endeavoring to conform to the order of release of the pictures.

In the development of the industry it has come about that [fol. 4001] the distributors classify their pictures into annual seasons, beginning about the first of September. It is obvious why that period, or thereabout, in the year is chosen as the dividing time. It is a commonplace that except for summer resorts the summer is the lighter time in the exhibition of motion pictures and the desire is, therefore, to get the product of the year started at a fresh time, in the fall, which under normal conditions is apt to be one of the best times in the year.

This division between the releasing seasons is important, more to get some organization into the industry than anything else. They have got to have periodic limits on their descriptions of their product and therefore when we speak of a releasing season we speak of a year beginning approximately September 1st. That does not mean that the pictures released necessarily must be played even first-run before the first of September of the next year. They [fol. 4002] may extend into the later period, and, on the other hand, some pictures of, what I will call, the September 1 season may be released earlier than September 1. There are incidental cases in evidence already of pictures of, I will say, the '41-42 season, that were released in July of '41. Again, a great deal of confusion may be met unless it is kept in mind that the playing season in the later runs extends way beyond the year of release. To make that specific. A picture released on the 1st of September, on the 15th of August, 1939, belonging to the releasing season of 1938-39, may not get its first-runs all out of the way in the course of the next month. Where those runs take place will determine something of when the second-runs will take place. The second-runs may not be played for many days after the first-run and the subsequent-runs after that.

The clearance that is placed in favor of the first-run upon the second-run may define the time when for the first time the exhibitor may have the right to exhibit the picture, but [fol. 4003] it by no means determines the time at which he can exhibit the picture, for several reasons. He cannot date into his theatre each picture of each distributor that is just expiring with respect to clearance, because he has got to have regard to what else he is going to show in his theatre at that time. He has got to have regard to whether it is the proper time in his theatre to show this picture. The mere fact that it is released does not make it desirable that he should show a picture in which Christmas carols predominate on the 4th of July or that he should exhibit in his theatre, in those areas where there is a high sense of religious disposition, in the Lenten season.
[fol. 4004] He cannot put into his theatre on a Good Friday a hilarious picture without offending the taste of many of his possible patrons. There are an infinite number—infinite is too large a word—there are many reasons why pictures, in the proper exhibition business, cannot be shown immediately they are available. That is only one of the considerations that stand in the way of this mathematical figuring out of when a picture is going to be shown.

There is another very important consideration; that is the matter of positive prints, and before I speak further of its effect in the way that I have just mentioned, I go back to the matter of production.

Since the sound pictures have come in, after the enormous expense of the production of a picture, we have reached only the stage of the negative that is taken. By the way, of course, there is no such thing as a moving picture. Each picture on the reel is a still picture, catching the expression [fol. 4005] or the action of the moment, with another one taken so rapidly that the eye is deceived into the belief that it is a continuous affair, but it is, of course, nothing but a sequence of a very large number of still pictures.

When sound came in first, one of the devices was a separate taking of the sound and that had to be produced, had to be projected, synchronizing with the picture. It was an almost impossible thing. I dare say that you may, yourself, have observed in the early days when the words came out an appreciable length of time after the mouth in the picture was closed, and the synchronization was a matter that could not be fully mechanically accomplished and it was necessary to have an adjuster sitting right there to correct the difficulty. Then came the putting of the sound track on the reel itself.

Now, after that enormous production expense is by, and the negative produced, there is nothing yet ready for the [fol. 4006] presentation of the picture by the exhibitor. Positives have to be made. A single positive of a picture of feature length is an expensive thing; very small as compared with the production of the negative, but still substantial.

It is immaterial for the present to attempt to state exact figures, but running somewhere from near $200 a particular positive up to several hundred, and particularly in the technicolor pictures.

Now, a picture may be leased for its first-run at, we will say, a $1,000, and the exhibition goes down through subsequent-runs that may get down as low, ultimately, as $25, $20, $15 and $10 rental for that picture, an amount of rental that hardly covers the expense of handling the positive that is furnished to the theatre.

Now, obviously a producer, having a film, could not make a $200 positive for each $10 or $25 theatre or, indeed, for any of the rentals that are commonly charged for a deferred-run, even if it is only deferred to second-run. The possi- [fol. 4007] bility of getting the pictures into these cheaper cost theatres has been brought about by making the positive do as many tours of duty as is possible.

In the United States there is this very large amount of theatres equipped for sound. Whether it is ten thousand or fifteen thousand is unnecessary to resolve for present purposes.

To get this into more concrete position, I refer to some particular district of distribution. The larger dozen distributors have about 30 to 32 different districts in the country called exchange districts. These figures that I am now stating are very approximate only. A distributor having 32 exchange districts may make approximately 320 positives of a particular picture, so that a district can be allocated, say, 10 positives. That district may have 500 theatres within its confines. Some pictures practically every theatre in that district will show; some pictures less than the whole will show. That means that ten positives have got to serve [fol. 4008] possibly 500 theatres.

Now, 10 positives, it is obvious, can serve no more than ten theatres on a given night. That means, in the figures that I have just mentioned, that a positive has got to go through 50 tours of duty in order to make the ten positives spread over the 500 theatres. The time required for a tour of duty of a positive, on the average, may be in the vicinity of four days to a tour of duty possibly five. A positive going into an exchange center theatre may go out to the theatre that day, back the next day,—if it is a one-day exhibition,—and be inspected in the inspection room and go out again, so that the matter might be accomplished, if it was a one-day showing, in a total of three days, but in those places in the exchange centers it is much more likely that the picture, that the positive will operate in the first-run, it may be a week, it may be for considerably more than that; on the other hand, there is almost no theatre that shows a picture [fol. 4009] that doesn't show it at least two days. The theatres on the extreme limits of the area served out of an exchange may require from one to two days of time to transport the film out to the theatre, the positive out to the theatre, and two or more days to get it back again, with two more days for the time that it is on exhibition in the theatre, and the day for inspection on return, so that you may well have that positive busy for a week in serving that theatre.

The two extremes that I speak of are the reasons for taking four or five days as a fair average time for a tour of duty. That means then that it is going to take from 200 to 250 days for that positive to serve the whole of the 50 theatres that it must serve.

This makes it necessary for these, what I will call mechanical reasons, to have some theatres showing much after the release date. If there were no provisions for clearance and availability, the mere mechanics of the industry would require this length of time before some of the theatres could [fol. 4010] show the pictures.

The same mechanical difficulties that I speak of make it impossible, on the figures assumed, for more than ten theatres in that district to show the picture at the same time.

There is, of course, this strong contest amongst the exhibitors to be the ones to get that print early. It is a contest that manifests itself in the communications with the distributors, but the contest is really between the large number of exhibitors, all of whom are actuated by the same desire to get the print.

When the picture is shown in the first-run, in the principal place, when that positive is engaged, the one possibility of making progress in exhibition is to have the other nine making a first-run showing in nine other theatres so far removed from each other and from this first theatre that their first-run showings will not detract from the attendance at the other places. That is, I am picking places at random. [fol. 4011] One may be shown in Buffalo another in Rochester, another within a small town not within the range of easy access to either of the other two, and so on through ten theatres to which those prints are allocated in exhibition.

Care has to be taken to see that the first-run exhibition is not deprived of its just possible returns by the knowledge of the patrons that they may see the picture within too short a time, either at a less admission price or at a theatre that they like to attend better than the chosen first-run theatre, either because that theatre, that first-run theatre is not convenient to them, or for many other reasons. The important thing is that the showing shall not take place soon enough so that the largest reasonably possible revenue shall not be obtained by the first-run theatre. This is of prime import- [fol. 4012] ance, not only to the exhibitor but to the distributor. This is demonstrably true in the case of percentage pictures. It is about as obviously true in the case of flat rental pictures. In the case of the percentage picture it is a mere matter of computation. The more that comes in at the box office of that theatre the more money directly the distributor receives for that picture. But the flat rentals are determined by the possibilities. The flat rentals of a given year are determined when the contract for that year for that flat rental picture is made, but in determining what that flat rental should be one of the things closely observed is what comparable pictures did in that theatre the preceding season. Of course, the exhibitor wants to get his rental as low as possible, within reason, and the distributor wants to get that rental as high as possible, within reason. One of the tests of what shall be done in bringing one of those [fol. 4013] two points of view into focus is what a similar picture did the year before. Therefore, both the distributor and the exhibitor are interested in what the first-run return at that theatre is, in the long run, quite as much for the flat rental picture as for the percentage picture.

There is another element that comes in. These rentals are determined on prospects of the picture, what the picture will do. It is a matter of experience that a very fine picture, artistically well-produced, with high expectations, does not take with the public generally, all the public, of particular communities, and as a result the picture is rated, when it is shown, as the trade term is, a "flop". These distributors are doing business over a long period of years with these respective exhibitors. If the development shows that too high a price has been fixed in the original contract it is not a matter of prudent business to insist on the full rental or to ignore the request of the exhibitor for an allowance or reduction.

[fol. 4014] At this point there comes into play a very important item. The distributors recognize the importance of dealing in a businesslike spirit with a businesslike exhibitor. They come to know that exhibitors, some exhibitors, are decent in their negotiations with the distributor. They come to know that other exhibitors are what, in modern slang, are called "chiselers", and that they will try to get allowances which the facts do not warrant. They make allowances to the first type of man and decline them to the second, because they do not believe that they can rely on the representations which the second man makes. This disposition to make allowances is another reason why the distributor is directly interested in what the picture does in the theatre and is, therefore, directly interested in having the service of that picture under such conditions that the box-office receipts will not become lessened by this experience of intending patrons that they can see the picture too soon elsewhere. [fol. 4015] The very large proportion of the revenue of each distributor comes from the first-run exhibitions of that picture. It is useless, for purposes of this case, to attempt to get that into any fixed percentage. It would be different with some distributors from what it would be with others, but with all it is safe to say that it is way above half of the revenue that comes from that first-run production, as against the numbers of second-run that that picture may go through.

In the matter of clearance the most important thing is the sequence of the runs, more important than the length of time of the clearance. It has always been recognized, and is recognized in the consent decree, that the owner of the picture should be able, with a free hand, to determine to whom he will license the first-run of his picture, because it is known how much there is involved in those words:

"Oh, I have seen that picture before. I am not going [fol. 4016] tonight to that theatre because I have seen that picture before."

The consent decree, of course, fixes no rules of law by a judicial determination of those rules of law, because it was a consent decree and was entered because it was a consent decree, because it was the consent of the parties to it, but it does do this: It shows the approval of a court of justice to a settlement arrangement that has been made by the parties to the litigation, an approval which a court would not give consciously if it was doing any wrong to outsiders. There is in the consent decree, then, this clear recognition of the existing principle of law that the distributor may select his first-run customer.

In the case now on trial we are dealing with the matter of clearance in a very different way from what might have been the case in 1939 when the suit began. As to clearance, of course, the only question would be whether there should be a dismissal of the case so far as that feature was concerned, [fol. 4017] or an injunction against a particular clearance. The latter releases would be inappropriate now, anyway, because the policy of the United States, as evidenced by its consent to the decree, is that there shall be set up tribunals that are at once accessible to any exhibitor who thinks that he is being subjected to too much clearance and who may determine, as fair men of affairs, viewing the situation, whether the particular clearance that the distributor has chosen to place in the first-run contract is unreasonable. That whole department really drops out of any important consideration in this case for that reason. The propriety of imposing clearance is determined by whether that clearance will assist to preserve the revenue of the first-run theatre.

I speak of first-run theatre here for brevity. Of course second-run theatres frequently are given clearance over third or subsequent-run houses, but it is not necessary to [fol. 4018] go into that further detail. The propriety of the clearance is determined by whether it will serve the purpose of preserving or increasing the revenue of the first-run theatre by removing this antagonistic possibility of going to another theatre too soon to see the picture.

Now, the test of that is not at all whether it does or does not hurt the prospects of the second-run theatre. The clearance is properly imposed to accomplish the purpose designed. The distributor owns this picture. He has the right, and it is reasonable that he should exercise it, to determine whether he will exercise it by giving the whole of the exhibition of that picture to one theatre and never giving it to another, just as he might withhold the picture from exhibition all together, and may sell the whole of that license to one theatre, and there is nothing unreasonable in his doing that if it will serve the purpose of getting the best return [fol. 4019] to that distributor from that theatre, either because it is a percentage exhibition or because he, the distributor, can get a larger rental from that exhibitor if the picture, if the whole exhibition right, is given to that exhibitor.

So far as these five distributors were concerned, a radical change, by agreement, was made in consenting to the consent decree. There was a provision in that that subsequent-run houses should be permitted to apply for subsequent runs of the picture and that the distributor was called upon to furnish some run on particular terms. That was no determination that that was a legal requirement. Manifestly, the consent decree was a matter of compromise and the distributors possibly to give up their existing legal right to sell their pictures for all exhibition to one the theatre. They subjected themselves to this requirement, which has its force by their consent, and the approval of the Court. [fol. 4020] It does not change the law in any way. It still is the law that distributors unaffected by that agreement can sell their exhibition rights of a picture entirely to the customer whom they choose.

Since it is their legal right and reasonable that they should exercise it, that they sell exclusively to one exhibitor in a district, so it is their legal right and reasonable that they should exercise it to sell that picture exclusively to that exhibitor for a period of, we will say, 50 days and then that they shall have the right, so far as that exhibitor is concerned, to sell it to somebody else. I have chosen the expression 50 days at random just to make the position concrete. The thing, of course, which they may not do, any more than the owner of a horse in making a sale may do, is to make use of their legal right to accomplish some sinister result that they are not entitled to accomplish. So long as they are placing the clearance at what in the judgment of the distributor and the exhibitor will bring about [fol. 4021] the result of giving the best return to the first-run house, their judgment is determinative. It is a business proposition. It cannot be otherwise determined. We have had evidence already in the case, from sources none too favorably disposed to the defendants, that clearance is very valuable to the run and in the periods stated. The chief complainant against clearance has informed the Court that the clearances imposed against his theatres were of real commercial value to the theatres of the defendants which enjoyed the benefit of that clearance.

For these several reasons it would seem that the clearance matters drop out of the case, so far as matters of any importance are concerned, and leave us free to devote time to the matters of real consequence in the case.

I have spoken of the disposition of the distributor in this way to get the most that he can, by way of financial return, out of his picture. There are several other things which [fol. 4022] enter into the consideration in the legitimate, proper negotiations between distributor and exhibitor.

It is manifest that the almost country-wide effect upon the success of a picture is determined by the type of houses in which it is first shown. The effect in a smaller locality than the width of the country is even greater. From this it follows that the distributor naturally, and actually, desires to get his picture shown first-run in the house that he thinks in that locality is the best house for the purpose. That may be because of the repute of the house in the community; it may be because of the type of the theatre in its general characteristics; it may be, and one of the most important considerations, the confidence of the distributor in the type of showmanship that is in operation at that house, whether the operator knows the way of attracting the possible attendance, knows how to advertise in the best way, [fol. 4023] knows what to do in the matter of advertising, knows what, from a sensitive appreciation of the needs of the community, will be the thing that will be most attractive to show in that community at that time. All of these are the considerations that are far more determinative of the choice of the distributor than is the particular financial return in film rental for this particular picture. He is looking at his whole field of operation in that town. He is looking at it for this year and for the years to come.

In dealing with the exhibitor the distributor, of course, is much influenced in his judgment as to which customer to select by historic considerations. Has he had a long period of satisfactory dealing with this particular proposed customer? Has he had not so satisfactory dealings with the other proposed customer? Has he had more satisfactory dealings with the new customer that comes on the scene than he has had with the existing customer? None of these [fol. 4024] questions are answered by any inflexible rule.

If the new house or the renovated house is better in the long run for his, the distributor's revenue, it is a reason, at once, why, ~~if~~ he can get his picture into the renovated house or the new house, on any endurable terms, so that he gets a foothold in that house, it is a reasonable, a fair and proper proposition that he should do so, and these are the considerations that actuate the distributor in determining to which house he should sell.

In the same way, in the spirit of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act for free competition, it is proper and reasonable that the new man should seek to get the desirable pictures for his theatre. It would be quite at variance with the underlying conceptions of the Anti-Trust Act if there were built up a position of prior legal right by reason of what had happened in the past. If, by proper negotiation, the new man can persuade the distributor that his theatre is a [fol. 4025] better one for him to exhibit in, so much better that in the new venture the distributor can afford to give him less burdensome rentals than before, it is important, in order to carry out the spirit underlying the Anti-Trust Act, that the distributor should have the right to do this and that the exhibitor should have the right to make the effort.

There has been much said already about the power of a circuit in buying pictures. There has been little said so far about the importance to the industry and to the attending communities in having a circuit engaged in this business.

Now, the first thing to be noted is that the fact that the circuit operates in more than one state does not change the situation in any way. Exhibition by one exhibitor in one town in one state, being a typical example of something that is not interstate commerce, that does not change its character in any way by multiplication into other states. Each theatre is still engaged in exhibition and not in [fol. 4026] interstate commerce.

There is another way in which the circuit is an important advantage to the industry and to the public. In the long run, properly prepared and shown pictures cannot be exhibited at admission prices that will not cover the cost of those operations and a reasonable profit thereon. In the long run the attending public is interested in this way, in having the cost of operation from the beginning of the production of the picture to the time when it is passed through its exhibition on that screen, as low as possible, and there is an inevitable reflection in the admission prices, endurable admission prices which the exhibitor can endure to place on the exhibition as against a higher price that he must charge if those costs are higher.

In the negotiation for the pictures it is an expensive thing for a small, single operator to go through all the traveling and negotiating and setting off of one distributor against another in the buying of his pictures, as compared [fol. 4027] with the expense of conducting such negotiation for one hundred or one hundred and fifty theatres at once. There is a great saving in the operation which enures eventually to the benefit of the attending public.

There is something more than this. The distributor, in determining how much he must get from this theatre for this picture, is necessarily influenced by how much he is going to get for this picture in the aggregate from one hundred or one hundred and fifty different theatres.

The distributor is subjected in this way to the appeal of the circuit exhibitor to make him sufficiently low terms so that his circuit can live throughout. If a distributor, instead of having to conduct one hundred and fifty negotiations, by paid employees, can conduct one negotiation, of course, that negotiation is necessarily going to take very much more time and energy from its beginning to its completion than is taken for the single case, but the effect in the saving of administrative expense is great. The competition [fol. 4028] of the exhibitor with the distributor to buy, is a competition in which, if the distributor is to be kept to low terms calls for an intelligent and strong exhibitor to secure those terms.

There is nothing prejudicial to the public interest in the existence of a circuit as a means of getting these pictures from their original production into their display on the screen in the theatres to the satisfaction and enjoyment of patrons well served.

There is another element of high importance in serving this operation, and that is the possibility and the actuality of the circuit exhibitor having a trained personnel to inspect and care, in the engineering sense, for his different theatres throughout the circuit, giving a care, consideration and protection to the safety of patrons that a small theatre operation cannot afford at all.

The circuit, therefore, is not in any respect intrinsically an invasion of any principles of the Sherman Anti-Trust [fol. 4029] Act.

The possibility of the main relief sought in this case being granted, it seems to me, does not exist. The idea of making a capital case out of this, to execute and condemn to death a circuit, is, I submit, inconceivable.

If the circuit were a production of restraint of interstate commerce there would be a different question presented. I submit that even then it would be inconceivable that the circuit should be extinguished and its assets in theatres beneficently given by the Government to other men who had nothing to do with the production of the result. I say "given," of course, given after an opportunity that might be afforded for some return in money to the circuit on a slaughter sale, forced by a court decree.

[fol. 4030] To approach the matter at all, however, it is necessary to see whether this circuit has been built up by restraint of interstate commerce. That is an entirely different question from whether here, there, or elsewhere, there can be found some instance of what would be called restraint of interstate commerce in a particular instance. I submit that on the facts so far in evidence, and on those to be introduced, there is not even that in the case, but if this were otherwise it still would be important to know whether the growth of this circuit from its beginning has been a normal growth, the result of diligence, skill, perseverance and wisdom, or whether it has been the product, in general, of seizing from other men, by a restraint of interstate commerce, that which they had created. Have these men proceeded in a proper manner as creators of a great volume of commerce or have they proceeded to unreasonably diminish that commerce?

This makes it necessary to bring to your attention the [fol. 4031] growth of this enterprise, to show you that it has been normal, businesslike, and accomplished by a high degree of diligent attention, skill and wisdom.

Mr. Schine's connection with this industry begins almost with the beginning of the feature motion picture industry.

He had theatres before those that play any part in this case. The first theatre that this, I urge, uncalled for attack upon him would, if successful, rip away from him was acquired twenty-seven years ago in Gloversville, where he has lived ever since. It is a striking commentary on this idea that the success has been due to an improperly acquired position to look at that first place. He entered there with an inferior theatre, with others having the best of the product. He operated in such an approved way, with no strength of financial position of any kind, that soon he, and his theatre, was the one that was succeeding in a way that brought about the desires of the operators of the better [fol. 4032] theatres to dispose of their theatres to him. It was no different in character from what he has gone on to since. As an example of what industry, perseverance, skill and wisdom will produce in a competitive world to arouse the envy and jealousy of others, and an effort even advanced by representatives of the Plaintiff to destroy rather than to create successful competitive effort.

By two years he had acquired an interest in the next town, speaking chronologically, whose name appears in this case, Oneonta, in 1919. The third town was Norwich, in 1921. By the beginning of 1923 he was in five towns. One of those was Lockport, where he began in 1922. The next town named was Auburn, where he acquired a half-interest in 1923, getting the other half four years later.

By the beginning of 1924 he was in eight towns. Canandaigua he entered in 1924, Corning in 1924, Rochester in 1924, Geneva in 1924, Salamanca in 1924.

[fol. 4033] By the beginning of 1925 he was in sixteen towns. In 1925 he was in Herkimer, in 1925 he was in Little Falls.

By the beginning of 1926 he was in twenty towns. In 1926 he was in six more towns, making twenty-six of these. One was Malone, another was Ogdensburg, reaching twenty-six towns.

By the beginning of 1927, he was in 1927 in Syracuse, in Watertown, and by the beginning of 1928 he was in thirty-four towns.

By the beginning of 1929 he was in forty towns. In 1929 he sold nearly all of his theatres to Fox-Metropolitan. Why it was not quite all is immaterial to this case. His act was indicative not of seizing upon the motion picture industry but of reducing greatly his position in that industry.

In the year 1930 he sold several more of his theatres. By the end of 1930 the only towns in which he had formerly had theatres which he retained were Buffalo, Lockport, Geneva, Malone, Massena, Ogdensburg, Rochester, a total [fol. 4034] of seven towns, plus a half-interest in Amsterdam. That is, he was a smaller operator in numbers than Mr. Smalley then owned in a short time thereafter. He was a smaller operator than Messrs. Essick and Fine were at a little later date.

In 1930 he built and opened a theatre in Cortland. This then presents the situation as we enter 1931 when we are confronted with this charge of this powerful operator having such a strong hold on the distributors of motion pictures. It was in the year 1931 that he entered Bellefontaine.

If your Honor please, this is a case of so many, many, many details that it is almost impossible to be sure that one has got them all right. I have tried to state these dates and these numbers after a careful examination, and you will know I am confident that if it develops that an error has been made by me it is fully unintentional and not the result of any failure to try to get the facts in shape to [fol. 4035] present them to you in the most intelligible manner.

Now, one of the towns about which we have heard much is Bellefontaine. In 1931, having acquired property not developed as a motion picture theatre, at an expense of $27,500, Mr. Schine built the Holland Theatre, a splendid theatre, at an expense of $196,800. At that time there were in the town one operating theatre. It seems to me that it was the Strand, but like enough I have got it wrong, and two that were not operating and had not operated for a long time. That theatre, the Strand, if that is the right name, was the one which Mr. Mooney testified was the only thing he had to sell at that time and he sold it for $2500 later. At the time that I am speaking of, if I recall aright, he was not operating the Strand.

Now, the complaint seems to be, about Bellefontaine, that the distributors, having presented to them for the first time an opportunity to sell their first-run pictures to [fol. 4036] a new, up-to-date theatre, costing over $120,000, each decided that they would sell their first-run pictures to that theatre. I say that it is a misfortune in the pursuit of a just result that we should be brought here in an effort to show that we did something wrong in getting those first-run pictures. We could not have put an enormous investment of this kind into the town unless we had supposed that the common sense, the common business judgment, of each distributor would make him rush to sell us the first-run pictures, rather than sell them to an old theatre, not in good condition, and in a town where this new theatre was wholly adequate to all the needs of the town for motion picture attendance patrons to be served to their liking.

In that same year, 1931, Mr. Schine was in Wooster. The name has been mentioned and therefore I mention it.

The next name that has been mentioned as calling for any real consideration is Mt. Vernon. Mr. Schine was there [fol. 4037] in 1934.

A change had taken place in 1933, with a few immaterial exceptions, and pursuant to an order of Court in bankruptcy proceedings of what I will call Fox-Metropolitan. I don't know just the company but it was that organization to which Mr. Schine had sold in 1929, pursuant to that order of the Court, and with a few exceptions and theatres that Fox-Metropolitan had given up on the expiration of the lease or disposed of otherwise, Mr. Schine got back a lot of theatres that he had obtained originally between 1917 and 1929.

[fol. 4038] He had then again become a circuit of a considerable number of towns; I haven't the figure at hand as to the number. Passing again, Mt. Vernon, acquired in 1934, we come to 1935, when he was in Seneca Falls, in Bucyrus, in Norwalk, in Van Wert and in Perry to the extent of the acqusition of land and the development of a project of a new theatre. In 1936 he was in Lexington and in Paris. In giving these names, I am making no reference to names about which no complaint whatever has been shown in evidence, regardless of the complaints made in the bill of complaint.

In Lexington and Paris, the interests were acquired by the fairest of negotiations, on Mr. Schwartz' own testimony, which the plaintiff has brought to you.

In 1937, he was in Ilion, in Medina and in Shelby. Those are the towns in which the creative genius of this man, his industry, his skill, his intelligence, his wisdom, has placed him. These are the towns which it is insinuated that it is the duty of the Government of the United States [fol. 4039] to seek to get away from him and to give some one else.

I have spoken of the realities of this great extension which this man has made to the possibilities of interstate commerce, in contra-distinction to the slightest subtraction, reduction of that commerce or any restraint whatever on that commerce.

In that contribution to the commerce, the local opportunity of the community to see motion pictures in properly conducted houses under enjoyable conditions, and at reasonable prices, there has been expended for the cost of land and buildings acquired $6,509,100. There has been added to the facilities for the opportunity for the public of the particular communities to see motion pictures, under those conditions, there has been added in cost of buildings and improvements since acquisition $3,506,400; that is to the properties owned by the defendants. To the leased properties defendants have made additions and improve- [fol. 4040] ments at their expense of $631,600. In addition to this, in the properties only partly owned, the defendants have added about $270,000. That is then in what they have created above what they bought from others, they have added about $4,400,000, which some one has had the heart and the temerity to suggest should be taken away from the defendants and given to some one else at such a sale as the Court might order and at such a price as some one else might be willing to pay.

Now, I have spoken of these facts, before making the specific applications of the principles which we urge govern the case.

I turn to those now, to deal with all the things that have—the classes of all the things that have been suggested on behalf of the plaintiff, in order to submit to you that interstate commerce is not unreasonably restrained by building a theatre, even if it is the only theatre that ever arrives in the town and does not make the builder a monopolist [fol. 4041] of interstate commerce by adding the one theatre to the perhaps ten thousand in the country.

The Court: It is really a question of law. These things you are discussing are questions of law. Why deal with them at this time?

Mr. McClennen: Well, I had thought that the plaintiff, in opening, had announced propositions of law as guiding in the listening to the evidence and that it would facilitate the proper appraisal of the evidence as it went along if I briefly did the same, doing no more, by way of projecting those questions of law before your Honor, before the evidence is introduced, than the plaintiff had done, and intending only briefly to indicate the application to the case on which we are to present evidence.

The Court: The thought I had in mind is, the Court understands the positions. It is a question of the application of law or the question of the construction of law and its applicability to the situation. Go ahead. I did not mean to curtail you. Proceed.

[fol. 4042] Mr. McClennen: I think I have only a few minutes needed for that purpose.

As I said: (1) The building of a theatre does not unreasonably restrain interstate commerce even if it is the only theatre in the town;

(2) Telling a competitor already in the town of a plan to build that theatre in advance of doing it is not a restraint of interstate commerce;

(3) Buying an existing theatre, whether by fair dealing or by arousing apprehension, and with an agreement of the seller not to destroy the goodwill that he is selling by going into the theatre business within a short time in that town, is not a restraint of interstate commerce;

(4) Securing the best pictures on the best runs and terms for the defendants' theatres is not restraint of interstate commerce;

(5) Increasing a market from other theatres for the product of Republic, Monogram and other distributors by buying the needed product of the distributors that have [fol. 4043] been named in this case, the 8, is not a restraint of interstate commerce;

(6) Increasing the competition between the distributors to sell their product in the town where the defendants are the only possible purchasers are not restraints of interstate commerce.

Very briefly stated, I think, that I have stated the only claims of restraint of interstate commerce which has been supported,—I won't say supported,—attempted to be supported by the introduction of any evidence in the case which we now proceed to the introduction of our evidence in defense.

The Court: You have completed, have you?

Mr. McClennen: Yes, if it please the Court.

The Court: We will suspend now until 2 o'clock.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P.M.)

[fol. 4044] After Recess, 2 P.M.

Appearances: Same as before noted.

J. Myer Schine, a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, and having been first duly sworn was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Where do you reside, Mr. Schine?

A. Gloversville, N. Y.

Q. How long have you resided there?

A. 27 years.

Q. That is beginning in 1917?

A. 1917.

Q. When did you first enter the business of exhibitor of motion picture film?

A. I was connected in 1914——

Q. Just the time is all I need.

A. —with theatres in Syracuse and then I went — Syracuse to Gloversville in 1917.

Q. Was that consecutive? Was there any extended period of time when you were out of the business?

A. No, that was about a week or two after I sold out my [fol. 4045] interest in Syracuse I went to Gloversville.

Q. The theatres in Gloversville are the earliest which you acquired which are now a part of your circuit?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you inform us what you did, by way of entry into the exhibition business in Gloversville?

A. After I sold out my interest in Syracuse a film salesman told me that there was available a theatre in Gloversville known as the Hippodrome and I went there and found the theatre was being operated by the Odd Fellows Lodge of that city and I met the Trustees and we worked out a lease by which I agreed to pay a rental of $1500 a year for a period of fifteen years.

Q. You were about 27 years old at that time?

A. About 25 years old at that time.

Q. About 25 years?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you describe that Hippodrome Theatre at that time?

A. The Hippodrome Theatre was originally a skating rink and this skating rink was converted into a motion picture theatre principally by building a false floor in the interior, which gave it a pitch, and installing a projection booth and a screen and some wooden-veneer chairs on the floor, and that's about all that was done to make it appear as a theatre.

[fol. 4046] Q. Do you remember how many seats it had?

A. It had about 750, and also it had a number of steps to walk up in order to get there. The building originally had about six steps to walk up in order to get into the building but when they raised the back of the floor inside it added about six more steps, so it really was a second-story building, with windows on each side, which were covered with some plush drapes to keep the lights out.

Q. Is this a good representation of the theatre at that time?

A. That is just about the way I found it. Some of the men in the picture are still employed in the theatre.

Mr. McClennen: I offer this.

Mr. Wright: Objected to as completely immaterial and irrelevant to any of the issues in the case.

Mr. McClennen: I don't care to press it.

The Court: He described it. I think that is probably sufficient.

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark this for identification?

(Thereupon the photograph of Hippodrome Theatre, Gloversville, referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-149 for identification.)

[fol. 4047] Q. Now, at this time had you any interest in any moving picture producing company?

A. No.

Q. In any distributing company?

A. No.

Q. In any other theatre?

A. No.

Q. At this time what were some of the prominent producers of the better class of moving pictures?

A. There was Paramount which at that time dominated the field, and there was Fox. Metro was not released under the name—oh, yes, it was released, pardon me, under the name of "Metro".

Q. By the way, let me interrupt you, Metro at that time was a producing company, not yet connected with Goldwyn or Mayer?

A. That is right.

Q. Proceed, what other prominent——

A. And there was a company known as Triangle and there were a number of smaller companies whose names I don't recall.

Q. What other theatres were there in Gloversville at the time?

A. There was a brand new theatre, a very fine theatre known as the Glove.

[fol. 4048] By the Court:

Q. What?

A. The Glove.

Q. The Glove?

A. The Glove. It had been built about a year or two before 1917, and the same people who operated the Glove also had a vaudeville theatre known as the "Family". The Family was also an upstairs house like the one I got, perhaps a little more so, and they played in that house vaudeville and pictures. It was not a nice theatre, but the Glove was a very fine theatre and played pictures exclusively.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. What were the pictures in those days that the Glove played?

A. The Glove had Paramount and in those days Paramount released 104 pictures. They also had——

Q. You mean 104 pictures a year?

A. Yes, two pictures a week, and they also had most of the pictures released, most of the good pictures released by various other companies, except Metro and Fox, which were furnishing pictures at the rate of one a week each to the Hippodrome.

Q. This was before the days of double-featuring, was it not?

[fol. 4049] A. Yes, sir.

Q. And do you recall in those days how many changes a week the Glove made?

A. The Glove made three changes a week, I believe. They had no Sundays then.

Q. You subsequently became the owner of the Glove, also?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the period before you entered into the Glove in any way, what pictures were you showing at the Hippodrome?

A. Well, when I came there they had under contract "Fox" and "Metro", but in those days contracts were only good for four weeks. Either party had a right to cancel the existing contract, and after I was in Gloversville for about six weeks I had a cancellation from Fox and Metro, both, and they sold the product to the other houses. I succeeded in getting Triangle pictures.

Q. How many were Triangle releasing?

A. Triangle was releasing about 80 a year, but they were then about to discontinue business, and they weren't making pictures regularly, and then I bought some pick-ups, whatever I could get.

Q. And were those your sources of supply up to the time of the Glove, of your entering into the Glove?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Describe the way in which the possibility of your going [fol. 4050] into the Glove came before you.

A. When I came to Gloversville I found the business in the Hippodrome was very slim, very, very little, and I checked as to the reason why. Some nights when we played a good picture the crowd still wouldn't come, and I came to the conclusion that they don't like to come to the theatre because the theatre was inadequate. Its wash rooms were very bad; projection was poor and ventilation was bad, and I immediately proceeded to correct those phases of the theatre, and after spending about four or five thousand dollars in redecorating and putting in new projection machines, and new screen, and improved ventilation, and the public spaces, the business seemed to improve and had continuously improved until the Odd Fellows asked me to buy the building from them, and I did buy the building and then made plans to make the Hippodrome into a modern theatre. This required an expenditure of about thirty or thirty-five thousand dollars, which we did, and when we opened the theatre, we had a capacity business every day, and then the owners of the other theatres, through a real estate man, came to me and wanted me to meet them and I did meet them, and they asked whether I would be interested in buying their theatres. After some negotiations I did buy their two theatres.

[fol. 4051] Q. And the Glove you have operated ever since?

A. We have operated it ever since.

Q. And do you remember which year it was that you obtained the Glove, as you have just described?

A. In 1920.

Q. Now, have you a memorandum of the amount that you expended and have expended for the acquisition and improvement of those two theatres, the Hippodrome and the Glove?

A. You mean since to date?

Q. Yes.

A. I think I have, yes.

Q. Tell us, first, how much you expended for the acquisition of the ownership of those two theatres.

A. We paid for the Hippodrome $22,500, and the Glove, $126,000.

Q. What have you put into the building and improvement and equipment since that acquisition?

A. We have spent on the Hippodrome— —

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I don't like to interrupt, but I think some statement ought to be m[illegible] as to what the materiality or relevancy is of this situation, before we go into these matters. It is not clear to me.

The Court: I was wondering myself what the relevancy is of these transactions.

Mr. McClennen: The plaintiff is contending that this circuit should be dissolved and these theatres taken [fol. 4052] from us and I think it is material to show how much we have expended in bettering the theatres.

The Court: The details, perhaps, concerning it might be immaterial. I mean you can show the amounts expended, without the descriptions of the theatres.

Mr. Wright: Even that, if the Court please, the plaintiff is not making any contention Mr. Schine should be deprived of any of these theatres for any amount less than what his investment is in them. I don't see what possible relevancy that investment has.

The Court: I think perhaps the details are unnecessary, but it is all right to show what he expended.

Mr. McClennen: I was simply asking the round amounts.

The Court: I think it was referring to some of the testimony received in the tracing of the purchase, and so on. I will let you show the amount he expended all together.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. What are the amounts expended in the improvement of the two theatres?

The Court: That is, up to date.

[fol. 4053] A. $227,000 was expended for improving the two theatres.

Mr. McClennen: The next place, if your Honor please, that has been mentioned is Oneonta. The interrogatory answers already read show that the Strand in Oneonta was obtained in October, 1919. The Oneonta, November, 1922——

The Court: That is, the Strand at Oneonta and the Oneonta, you mean?

Mr. McClennen: The Strand at Oneonta was October, 1919. The theatre Oneonta at Oneonta——

The Court: Yes, I understand.

Mr. McClennen: —was November, 1922. And the Palace, formerly the Maxey, was leased in 1923 and the ownership obtained in September——

The Court: What was that last name?

Mr. McClennen: The Palace, formerly known as the Maxey, September, 1927.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Will you refer to your memorandum and inform us how much you expended for the acquisition of the Palace and of the Oneonta Theatre, both in Oneonta?

A. Palace, $161,800.

Q. And the Oneonta?

A. The Oneonta, $130,000.
[fol. 4054] Q. Since its acquisition what have you expended on the improvement of those two theatres?
A. About $30,000.

Mr. McClennen: The answers to interrogatories with reference to Norwich show that the ownership of the Colonia was obtained in November, 1921.

Q. Will you refer to your memorandum and inform us the cost of the acquisition of the Colonia?
A. $80,700.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, we, of course, object to all of this data, on the ground it is immaterial and irrelevant. It seems to me considerable time could be saved. If they want to present a comprehensive memorandum of these expenditures, then we could agree that the witness would testify that those amounts were expended. I don't see the necessity of taking the witness over each one.

The Court: The Norwich may stand on a different basis than the others because that is one of the cities concerning which testimony has been given. That is Norwich.

Mr. McClennen: I will offer the memorandum, if your Honor please, that Mr. Wright suggests, as the next ex-[fol. 4055] hibit.

Mr. Wright: Well, we would agree that Mr. Schine, if asked about each of these theatres and towns, would testify that the figures set forth here are correct, although we, of course, preserve our objection that all of this data is immaterial and irrelevant, not within the issues we are trying.

The Court: Received.

(Thereupon the memorandum concerning the Colonia Theatre referred to was received in evidence and marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-150.)

Mr. McClennen: Of course, it would serve no useful purpose to read this great mass of figures to your Honor at this time.

The Court: No.

Mr. McClennen: I merely call attention to the fact that the figures are as stated in my opening this morning.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. When you acquired the Colonia did you acquire the Strand in Norwich at the same time?

A. No, a little later.

Q. How much later did you acquire the Strand?

A. I should say about a year later.

[fol. 4056] Q. Were those two theatres, the Colonia and the Strand in Norwich, both included in the sale in 1929 to Fox-Metropolitan?

A. No.

Q. Fox-Metropolitan did acquire the Colonia?

A. The Colonia on lease.

Q. Did you negotiate with them with a view to their taking the Strand?

A. Yes.

Q. And what conversations did you have on that subject?

A. They did not want to take it.

Q. What happened to the Strand? Did you continue to operate it?

A. No, we leased it to some one else for the period our lease still had to run.

Q. Do you remember how long that was?

A. That was, I should say, about three or four months.

Q. And then at the end of that lease did your connection with that theatre, in all respects, terminate?

A. Yes.

Mr. Wright: Excuse me. Has the period when that occurred been fixed?

Mr. McClennen: That was in 1929.

Q. Describe the Colonia as it was in 1929, '30 and '31?

A. The Colonia Theatre was a large, complete theatre, large stage, good ventilation and good seats, with nice [fol. 4057] entrance and was housed in an extraordinary substantial building which was built by local citizens' subscription. It was regarded as the outstanding theatre in the whole area.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike it out as not responsive.

The Court: The last part may go out, "It was regarded as the outstanding theatre in the whole area."

Q. In the surrounding 50 miles from the Colonia did you know of any theatre approaching equality to the Colonia?

A. Binghamton had as good a theatre, which is 40 miles.

Q. How far away is Binghamton?

A. 40 miles.

Q. With that exception was there any other within 50 miles?

A. No.

The Court:

Q. How far is Norwich from Utica?

A. I should say about 65 miles, 70 miles.

Q. Further than Syracuse?

A. Yes.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Describe the Strand at the time your lease of it expired around about 1929 or whatever the date was?

A. The Strand was a much smaller theatre. It had no stage. The ceiling was low and the projection booth was on the ground floor, so when you walked in you had to walk around the booth in order to get in the theatre. It was what [fol. 4058] was known as a glorified store show.

Q. Do you remember the time when you put these $29,500 of improvements into the Colonia, I am referring to Defendants' Exhibit No. 150?

A. I believe improvements were made from time to time, but the major improvements was made in 1938.

Q. That is in 1938?

A. Yes, sir, 1938.

Q. And when those improvements were made, how was the Colonia in reference to modern standards?

A. It was as modern as any theatre could be.

Mr. Wright: Well, if the Court please——

The Court: That is not responsive. I don't know how modern it could be.

The Witness: It had fine cushion seats with springs. It had a ventilating system and was finely decorated with rather attractive marquee, plenty of lights in front, and what was more important, the projection and the sound was the very latest type.

The Court: The outside the same, was the outside changed?

The Witness: Yes, the outside was changed with a new marquee, and the inside had fine carpets, and it was, I would say, an outstanding theatre.

[fol. 4059] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Has that theatre been operated from the inception of your operation as a first-run run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. During the time that you operated the Strand how was that operated?

Mr. Wright: I don't think the date has been fixed yet.

The Witness: The operation was the same as had been operated by the previous exhibitor, a Western house, and secondary feature house.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. When you say a Western house, you mean for the exhibition of pictures?

A. Of action.

Q. Pictures called Western?

A. Yes, sir, Western pictures.

Q. Describe in some more detail what is classified as a Western.

A. A Western, as a rule, is a picture that has a lot of action in it. Usually the story is not too logical, but it has many thrilling incidents which pleases a good many people.

Q. Are there communities in which a Western has a better appeal than a better picture?

A. Oh, yes.

[fol. 4060] Q. What, as your experience goes with the theatre going public, what are the places where you get that?

A. In Kentucky we find Westerns are particularly sought after by the public, much more than the so-called big stars.

Q. The answers to interrogatories show that in Lockport the Palace was acquired in 1927. Had you become interested in any respect in Lockport prior to that date?

A. Yes, sir, 1927, you mean?

A. I think it was 1927 that is in the answer to the interrogatories?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you fix approximately when it was that you became interested in Lockport?

A. I believe it was in 1922.

Q. What was the interest then and how acquired?

A. A real estate agent from Buffalo wrote me.

Q. And as a result of that did you see anybody?

A. Yes, sir. He drove me down to Lockport, and we met Mr. Thurston, the owner of a theatre known as the "Temple" and——

Q. What conversation did you have with Mr. Thurston?

A. Well, Mr. Thurston——

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, how can that possibly be relevant to anything we are trying here?

[fol. 4061] The Court: I will let him state what he did. State what you did.

The Witness: Mr. Thurston told me——

Mr. Wright: No, what you did.

The Witness: What I did? We bought the theatre.

Mr. McClennen: I presume that called for what conversation he had. That is what he did.

The Court: Yes, with the seller.

Mr. McClennen: That is what he is about to give.

Mr. Wright: We object to that.

The Court: If it is limited to what he said he would take for it and what he would give for it, is one thing. If it goes further it is another.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I don't see what that has to do with the case. It is an acquisition. There was no testimony offered with respect to this acquisition he is testifying about.

The Court: Was it listed in those just read in evidence here?

Mr. Wright: That is right, but we offered no testimony with reference to negotiations in connection with that theatre, nor the circumstances in the acquisition at all.

The Court: Does it appear in the exhibit the amount paid [fol. 4062] for the Temple and when acquired?

Mr. McClennen: It appears in the exhibit against Lockport, that the Rialto was acquired for $27,500, and the Palace for $200,000, and that the expenditures in the improvement of the building and so forth were $126,400. The name "Temple" does not appear.

The Court: I will let him state—I will let you show what happened to the Temple, but the conversation between him and the seller I don't think is material. It is incompetent.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Do you get the limits that his Honor suggests?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Proceed.
A. We bought the Temple Theatre.

The Court: In 1922, you say?
The Witness: In 1922, about that, I think.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Do you remember what amount of money——
A. I think we paid $70,000, I believe.

The Court: Seventy?
The Witness: Seventy.

Q. The answers to the interrogatories, which have been read, show that the ownership of the land for the Auburn [fol. 4063] Theatre was acquired December, 1923, and that the Palace Theatre was acquired as lessee in November, 1923, and the Jefferson was acquired as lessee in March, 1927 to the extent of 50 per cent, and the remaining 50 per cent from the Shea interest in August, 1937.

The Court: Where did you say that was? What town?
Mr. McClennen: Auburn.

Q. Now, pause before you answer this question. What brought the Auburn situation to your attention? You may proceed to answer.
A. You mean from the very beginning?
Q. Yes.
A. Mr. Schwartzwolder, who was operating the Palace Theatre, had written to me to come out and see him.

Mr. Wright: That is objected to, if he is going to go into negotiations here, I don't think that is material.
Mr. McClennen: I judge this is an objection.
Mr. Wright: That is right.
The Court: Well, I will let him——
Mr. McClennen: Then I don't press the matter any further.

The Court: I will let him state how he happened to go to Auburn. I will let him state that.

Mr. McClennen: If the negotiation is so immaterial to this case that the statement of it is objectionable, I don't care [fol. 4064] to go into it at all.

The Court: I don't think so. We are concerned with theatres here. I will allow you to show what was done with reference to them, what was paid for these theatres, as bearing on their condition. I guess it already appears in the stipulation, unless there is something further in the exhibits.

Mr. McClennen: It appears from Exhibit No. 150 that the property acquired in Auburn was at a cost of $83,500, that is, for the Auburn Theatre, and that there was subsequently expended on it $245,000; that the Palace Theatre in Auburn was acquired as lessee and there was expended in the improvement of it $14,500, and that the Jefferson Theatre was acquired by lease, and there was expended on it $4500. These sums, of course, are wholly apart from the sums that the lessors may have expended in the improvement or building of the property and are only the expenditures by the lessees.

Mr. McClennen:

Q. Now, will you describe the Jefferson Theatre in Auburn, New York, as it was when it was being operated [fol. 4065] as your leading theatre there?

A. The Jefferson is a theatre seating——

Mr. Wright: Can we have the date fixed?

Q. It is suggested that we would like the date or the period during which you operated the Jefferson Theatre as your leading theatre in Auburn.

A. That was prior to 1928.

Q. Beginning first when?

A. In about 1927.

Q. And your operation of that as the leading theatre was interrupted by the Fox Metropolitan operation from 1929 to 1933?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then resumed by you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, perhaps the simplest way is to take 1933 and describe the Jefferson Theatre then.

A. It was a theatre that had been built quite some time ago. It had a lower floor seating about 650, a balcony seating around 300 and a second balcony seating another 300. While it was a nice theatre, I wouldn't call it a modern theatre.

[fol. 4066] Q. At that time what other theatres were operating, that is, in 1933, in Auburn?

A. In 1933 there was the Strand, which had previously been a hall built for conventions and concerts, and converted into the motion picture theatre. It was rather old, had no modern appliances, and it had a bad location. And then the Palace, which was a theatre seating about 1100, but lacked modern facilities. And then there was the Capitol, which was an up-stairs house, rather old, and that's all there was in town.

Q. Do you remember when it was that you built the Auburn?

A. In '38.

Q. It appears that you spent $245,000 in the building of that theatre. Why did you build it?

A. Well, the town didn't have a modern theatre and the town needed a new theatre.

Q. Describe the Auburn Theatre.

A. The Auburn Theatre is located in the heart of the city, has a fine large lobby, spacious public rooms, with every modern convenience, has a large auditorium with very luxurious seats, finely decorated walls, refrigerated air, which works on a basis of conditioning the air as wanted, and is very attractive all the way through to the point where it brings people from all around the entire area to Auburn.

[fol. 4067] Q. After you had opened the Auburn that, of course, was your first-run, preferred house?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you do with respect to the other theatres that you had there?

A. The Palace continued on the same policy I had before. The Strand was at that time condemned by the local authorities, as being unsafe. We closed it and ultimately tore it down. The Jefferson we modernized and re-seated to make it attractive, but we couldn't keep it open regularly for lack of pictures.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike out the latter part. He can testify what he did, but as to why requires some considerable examination.

Mr. McClennen: That is part of what he did.

The Court: He can state whether he was able to acquire pictures.

Mr. Wright: He can state what he did with reference to trying to get pictures for it, but his statement purely that he closed it because he couldn't get pictures; the fact he closed it certainly is not objectionable.

Mr. McClennen: Your Honor; I have been guilty of a court offense in not restraining my merriment as I think [fol. 4068] of the efforts made by my Brother Wright to have other witnesses tell why they closed their theatres. I had those questions in mind in proceeding with this examination. Now I submit that the answer should go forward.

The Court: Well, I think, when the objection is raised, that the witness be required to state what efforts he made, what the results were.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Will you state the efforts you made to get product for the Jefferson Theatre?

A. We made every effort possible.

Mr. Wright: Now, I move to strike it out as not responsive.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: I should think that was very responsive. It may be rather a generalization.

The Court: Too broad.

Q. Did you direct that any applications be made to people who have pictures for sale?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you participate personally in carrying out of those directions or was it done by others?

A. I participated in some instances but mostly the request for the pictures was carried on by others.

[fol. 4069] Q. What did you find as to availability of pictures for the operation of the Jefferson?

Mr. Wright: That is objected to. If it is important he can recite the negotiations he had and he can have whoever else he had who participated in them say what their negotiations were, so your Honor would be in position to know whether there were pictures available to that theatre or whether there weren't. I don't think he can make that conclusion for your Honor.

Mr. McClennen: All that is of consequence is to show why the curtailment of the Jefferson operation took place. It doesn't make any difference beyond that.

The Court: It is an important inquiry as to why the questions involved here, as to why he had to close a certain theatre. I think you should make proof of facts, rather than a conclusion. It requires some endeavors to do it, some endeavors should be shown.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, we are not proceeding here in a complaint against anybody for our having been obliged to close the Jefferson Theatre. There is the [fol. 4070] difference. Or curtail its operations. But we are here to show that there is a proper transaction.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: By the defendant to curtail his own theatre——

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: —by reason of the situation that he found to exist.

The Court: Yes, that is very true.

Mr. McClennen: And that is all I am asking.

The Court: I think that proof should be made by showing the efforts that were made, rather than his conclusion, that every effort was made and he was unable to, for the very reasons you suggest.

Mr. McClennen:

Q. Without any generalization as you gave before, state the efforts which you made, either by personal contact or by direction to others, to get enough product so that you could run the Jefferson in full as it had theretofore run.

A. Well, I spoke to two or three representatives, asking whether we could get second-run after the Capitol and Columbia pictures.

Mr. Wright: I ask to have who these representatives were [fol. 4071] and when.

The Witness: Mr. Weinberg was the representative.

The Court: And the other company?

The Witness: Columbia.

Mr. Wright: And when was this?

The Witness: I wanted to buy——

Mr. Wright: When, was the question.

The Witness: That was about, I would say, about three years ago.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Would you state again when it was the Auburn opened up?

A. The Auburn opened in '38 and we found that playing in the Palace six pictures, in the new theatre three, and the Capitol absorbing about eight a week, took up all the pictures.

Mr. Wright: That is objected to as a conclusion. He can state what the theatres played, but as to whether that took up all the pictures is something else.

The Court: The direct inquiry is what he did and, if he didn't get pictures, show what happened. You spoke about Mr. Weinberg, one of the representatives?

The Witness: Columbia representatives.

The Court: Did you see anybody else?

[fol. 4072] The Witness: Well, there wasn't anything further that I did myself.

The Court: What did Weinberg tell you?

The Witness: He said he doesn't want to sell second-run in town.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. At that time how many pictures a week were you playing at the Auburn?

A. Three.

Q. Was that being run as a single-feature house?

A. Single-feature for four days and double the last half of the week, three days.

Q. So that you took one picture for four days and two pictures for three days?

A. Yes. The single-feature was sometimes run three days, depending on the merits of the pictures. Once in a while we run it five days.

Q. How many pictures were you running at that time at the Palace?

A. Palace we ran six.

Q. How many pictures were being run at the Capitol?

A. Six to eight.

Q. So far as other distributors were concerned for pictures for the Jefferson your information was confined to the reports that were made to you with respect thereto, [fol. 4073] was it?

A. Yes.

The Court: What theatres were running first-run aside from the Auburn?

The Witness: The Auburn ran first-run. The Palace had first and second-run. The slough pictures, second-run, and the Jefferson played the week-end with two first-run pictures, but we had to keep closed the rest of the week.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike that "we had to".

The Court: It was closed?

The Witness: It was closed, yes.

The Court: Leave that stand.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Was there any reason known to you personally, beyond this lack of pictures that you have described, for closing the Jefferson down to a week-end operation?

A. No.

Mr. McClennen: The answers to interrogatories with respect to Canandaigua show that the Playhouse was acquired in October, 1924, and that the Lake was leased November, 1939, and the Fee obtained August, 1940.

Q. Now, from 1924, except for the period of the Fox-[fol. 4074] Metropolitan, 1929 to 1933, did you operate the Playhouse in Canandaigua continuously?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it was run as a first-run theatre?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did you take up for consideration the possibility of building an additional theatre in Canandaigua?

A. I think it was '37.

Q. Did something happened in Canandaigua likely to affect the theatre need of the town?

A. Yes.

Q. What was it?

A. The State was—I don't know whether it was the State or the Federal Government—was constructing a very large hospital there and it was expected that several hundred families would move into town as a result of it.

Q. Did you make any examination in the town to see what was possible by way of theatre sites there?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember when you hit upon the site that you finally acquired?

A. Yes.

Q. And when was that?

A. In '38, I believe.

Q. Do you remember how long a period of time you en- [fol. 4075] gaged in the efforts to proceed to the determination of a site of building and the necessary plans and specifications and the building and completion of the theatre?

A. About two years, I believe.

The Court: You said you hit on the site in '38. Do you mean by that you acquired the site in '38?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: Two years to complete the project?

The Witness: About that.

[fol. 4076] The Court: It took two years to complete the present building?

Mr. Wright: I did not hear the last question.

(Question read, as follows: Q. Do you remember how long a period of time you engaged in the efforts to proceed to the determination of a site of building and the necessary plans and specifications and the building and completion of a theatre.")

Mr. Wright: That is objected to, both on the grounds it is leading and calling for a conclusion. He can say as to when it was built. As to what happened in the intervening time, it should be brought out by facts.

The Court: Yes, he should state what was done.

Mr. McClennen: Then do I understand that is all out of the record?

The Court: I understand your question contemplated the consideration of things mentally, perhaps.

Mr. McClennen: I wasn't making any objection. I wanted to be sure that was off the record so I have a clear way to proceed.

The Court: All right.

Mr. McClennen: Then I understand it is stricken out.

[fol. 4077] Q. Do you remember how continuously the building of that theatre and its preliminaries of sketches, plans and building plans and specifications and attempts at bids and actual operation of the building went on?

A. You mean previous to the commencement of construction?

Q. Yes.

The Court: Including the construction.

Q. And including the construction?

A. It took about two years.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, it isn't clear yet what took two years.

Q. Well, what do you mean, Mr. Schine, took two years?

A. The planning and finishing the theatre.

Q. Were you actuated in any way in taking the steps relative to building the theatre by any knowledge that any one else was thinking of building there or opening a theatre?

A. No.

Q. Did you know that Mr. Wallace had thought of the subject of building in Canandaigua?

A. Well, I heard rumors to that effect.

Q. Do you remember when it was that you heard any rumors about it?

A. I do not remember.

Q. Was it after or before you entered upon this project as you have described in 1937?

[fol. 4078] A. I couldn't tell you because I don't remember as to when the rumors were afloat.

Q. It appears that the first step in the matter of the title to the land was the obtaining of the lease in November, 1939, and that the title itself was obtained in August, 1940. What steps had you taken, yourself, with reference to the project of building there; that is, by way of seeing what could be done in the way of planning a theatre adapted to the land, or to which the land was adapted, do you remember?

A. Yes. I went out to Canandaigua and looked over the various sites and this site was particularly suitable, and the owner came to Gloversville and a lease was negotiated with an option to buy the land and the building. We then proceeded to engage an architect and plans were drawn and the contractor was given the job to construct a theatre,—I should say reconstruct, because the intent was to use the walls.

Q. That is the walls of an existing building?

A. Of the existing building. The price was fixed by the architect and the contractor as $12,000, but after construction started it appears that an error was made in the planning and one of the walls gave way with the unfortunate result that a man got killed, and that tied up for some time with court litigation, and the contractor refused to go [fol. 4079] through with his plans and did, and for months the matter was argued pro and con, until we had to, in order to get it finished, agree to pay the additional cost in excess of the price which was about, I would say $15,000 or $18,000 more than the price agreed upon by the contractor.

Q. It has appeared from Exhibit D-150 that the property for the Lake Theatre cost $15,000, and that the expenditure thereafter upon it was $38,500; that the Play House had been acquired for $180,000 and there was expended upon it thereafter $16,700. Do you remember when that Play House expenditure took place?

A. I would say about 1937 or '38, '37, probably, I am not sure of the date.

Q. Will you describe the Lake Theatre upon its completion?

A. The Lake Theatre is a smaller theatre than the Play House. It is located in the very busy part of Canandaigua, has fine lavatory space for men and women and seats about 400 or 450. It has fine upholstered spring cushion seats, and the latest projection equipment, as well as sound equipment, and it is very artistically decorated.

Q. You have spoken of the expected increases coming from the hospital. What was the actual development in the town as it turned out?

[fol. 4080] A. As it turned out we kept the Lake Theatre open for some time and lost money and we finally had to close it. The expected increase in population did not materialize.

By the Court:

Q. From the Veterans Hospital, you mean?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You spoke about a third theatre, I did not get that name.

A. The Lake.

Q. What is that name?

A. Not in Canandaigua, there is a Lake in Rochester.

Q. No, the Play House, Lake and what is the third one?

A. No, there is only two.

Q. Both on the same side of the road?

A. The back of the Lake Theatre abuts the Play House. The Lake is on the main street and the Play House is off the main street. They both go back together with an alley in between.

Q. Both on the east side of Main Street?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Turning to Corning. The answers to interrogatories show the acquisition of the Fox or the Liberty, as it was then known, in October, 1924, and the acquisition of the State in that same month, and the acquisition of the Palace, [fol. 4081] formerly the Regent, in April, 1938. Directing your attention to October, 1924, will you relate what you did to acquire those two theatres, or any others at that time in Corning in 1924?

A. We acquired three theatres in Corning in 1924.

Q. And what were they?

A. They were the Regent, which was later named the Palace; the State and the Liberty which later was rebuilt and called the Fox.

Q. The Liberty at some time burned down?

A. The Liberty burned down.

Q. Do you remember when that was?

A. I think it was in 1924, just when we were acquiring it, and it burned down.

Q. Did you build the Fox?

A. The Fox.

The Court: What is the name?

Q. The Fox?

A. The Fox was built by us.

Q. On the site of the Liberty?

A. On the site of the Liberty.

Q. How soon did you build the Fox after the burning of the Liberty?

A. About three years later or four years later, I believe it was finished in 1929.

[fol. 4082] Q. These theatres passed to Fox Metropolitan in 1929?

A. They did.

Q. And what did you get back in Corning in 1933?

A. I want to make a correction there. The Regent did not pass to Fox. The Regent we sold to a man by the name of Gerber, who was a manager for us. We sold to Fox Metropolitan the State and the Liberty, which was, I stated, later named the Fox.

Q. And the Regent, later called the Palace, was the one that Mr. Gerber acquired?

A. Gerber. The Regent was closed at the time we sold it to him.

By the Court:

Q. What was the last answer, the Regent was closed when?

A. At the time we sold to Mr. Gerber.

Q. That was subsequently known as the Palace?

A. The Regent is known as the Palace now.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Did you have to do, yourself, with the acquisition of that property in 1924?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And from whom did you acquire it?

A. From Mr. Dygert.

Q. Did you acquire other theatres in other places from him?

[fol. 4083] A. Yes, sir.

Q. As a part of the same transaction?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. There was, when it came to you then, what—or, there were what theatres in your operation in Corning?

A. When it come back from Fox Metropolitan?

Q. In 1933, yes.

A. The State and the Fox.

Q. What other theatres were there in 1933 in Corning?

A. There was the Palace and across the bridge was the Plaza.

Q. And the Palace was in the operation of Mr. Gerber?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the Plaza of Mr. Gaby and Mr. Cohen?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you describe your two theatres separately as they were in 1933?

A. The Fox was a brand new theatre. It had all modern improvements and appointments. It had been finished in 1929 as stated and had all the very latest equipment. The State was an old theatre, in good condition, but had not been running regularly. I think they were running it week-ends, and when we took it over we followed that policy.

Q. Now, describe the Palace.

A. The Palace was a smaller theatre, seating about 500. [fol. 4084] Mr. Gerber had expended some money and made a rather attractive, little theatre out of it, and it was specially well located on the main street.

Q. Now the Plaza?

A. Well, the Plaza was located across the railroad track. It had a community of its own, with several stores, and it is a small theatre and lacks in modern appliances.

Q. The Fox was operated as the first-run theatre, was it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. From the time it was built?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And has continued to be ever since?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the operation of the State in the period from 1933 to——

A. Well, the State closed and opened, and operated intermittently, and usually it ran week-ends, but occasionally we tried to operate it for a full week.

Q. What, in the period from 1933 to 1938, was the operation of the Plaza?

A. The Plaza ran first and second-run pictures.

Q. What was the operation of the Plaza?

A. Well, they ran mostly Western pictures, some second and third-run.

Q. Do you know, was the Plaza built as a theatre, or was [fol. 4085] it renovated over?

A. It is a converted store theatre, but it is a little better than the average store show. It has a high ceiling.

Q. Will you relate the facts of your acquisition of the Palace from Mr. Gerber in 1938, or leading up to that acquisition?

A. Mr. Gerber had sent for us, or for me, rather, and I could not go down to see him, so I sent down Mr. May, and he worked out a lease with him for ten years, whereby we paid him an advance rental of $7500, I believe, and I think we were paying him a rental of either $6500 or $7500 a year. He complained of illness and wanted to retire and——

Mr. Wright: I move to strike it out. This is a conversation that he apparently had with some one else, I take it.

The Court: Well, of course, if he talked with Gerber—he said Mr. May did this.

Q. This you were about to state was not of your own knowledge?

A. No, Mr. May told me Mr. Gerber was very sick.

Mr. McClennen: Then I consent to that going out.

Q. At the time of your acquisition of this lease, did Mr. May make some report to you of what Mr. Gerber had told him as to his reasons for retiring?

[fol. 4086] A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

Q. What did you say you paid him? You said something about $7500.

A. $7500 advance rent, and I don't remember, your Honor, whether it was $6500 or $7500 a year for a ten-year lease.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. The answers to interrogatories as to Rochester show that you acquired some interest in the Webster Theatre in 1927. Prior to that acquisition you had some talk, did you, with Mr. Tishkorf?

A. I did.

[fol. 4087] Q. At that time what theatres did you have, in one way or another, in Rochester?

A. You want me to give you the names or just the number.

Q. The names.

A. The Grand, the Liberty, the Riviera, the State.

The Court: We will suspend for five minutes.

(Short recess taken.)

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. It has appeared that there was an acquisition of the Grand by you in 1924. Was that the beginning of Rochester, as far as you were concerned?

A. Yes.

Q. At the time of the conversation with Mr. Tishkoff was Mr. Fogel also present?

A. You mean the first conversation?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. It was Mr. Tishkoff alone?

A. Alone.

Q. Now, at that time, it has appeared, there was a Plaza Theatre between the proposed site of the Webster Theatre and the existing State Theatre. Did you have anything to do with that theatre, the Plaza?

A. No.

[fol. 4088] Q. Do you know who was the operator of that theatre?

A. I can't recall his name. He was a Colonel, called as such, "Colonel," and I don't remember his name.

Q. Will you come to the conversation that you had with Mr. Tishkoff, the first conversation, on this subject of a proposed Webster Theatre?

A. Well, the conversation took place rather informally at the Seneca Hotel, in the lobby. I met him there and we chatted, and then I asked him whether it was true that he and his associates proposed to build a theatre in the neighborhood of the State and the Plaza and he said it was true, and I asked him whether he thought the location was suited for a third theatre. He said he didn't know. I then asked him, "How did you happen to get into it?" He said, "I don't know. My partner got into it and I just went along with it, but" he said "why don't you come up to my office tomorrow and I will have all my associates there and see if we can't work out something whereby we might have a partnership in the theatres?" And the next day I did go up. Mr. May went along with me and Mr. Schafer, who was a local manager, went along, and we met in Mr. Tishkoff's office of the Murray Theatre and there was Mr. Fogel and two other men—I can't think—who was it—Mr. Robfogel [fol. 4089] and someone else. I don't know his name. And we talked about a new theatre they proposed to build and I pointed out——

Q. No, not what you pointed out.

A. I told them——

Q. Just the best that you can, after seventeen years, relate that conversation. Somebody said something and somebody else said something, and who said it, and what it was.

A. I told the group of men there that the neighborhood is already over-seated and that the Plaza had just been remodeled and there isn't enough room for a third theatre, and we talked pro and con, and talked the possibility of forming a partnership, but we couldn't get anywheres. I was not agreeable to it and——

Mr. Wright: I move to strike that. Let him say what he said.

The Court: He objects to the word "agreeable."

Q. Just how you put it.

A. I told them we wouldn't go into partnership and I told them they were over-seating a neighborhood and there is no reason why they should; if they really wanted to build a theatre there were so many other neighborhoods where a theatre is needed, but they said they owned a lot and they were going ahead with it. Well, I said there was no sense to it, any more than there would be sense in build- [fol. 4090] ing a theatre in the neighborhood near the Murray, and after some conversation about different things I left their place, and that terminated that conversation that we had.

Q. Have you stated all that you recall that occurred in that conversation?

A. Well, I don't remember of anything else.

Q. Was anything said in substance that if they persisted in going ahead with the Webster project that you would put in a theatre next to the Murray?

A. No.

Q. Anything approaching that in any way?

A. No.

Mr. Wright: Well, if the Court please, just say what was said.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: Well, I have asked him what was said.

The Court: You said "anything approaching that." He can state the conversation. He said there was no talk about it.

Q. Is it the fact that there was no talk about the possibility of you building another theatre near the Murray, beyond what you have already stated?

A. It is a fact.

Q. When did you next have any conversation with Mr. Tishkoff or with Mr. Fogel, touching the subject of the Webster project?

[fol. 4091] A. We had several talks. I used to go to Rochester quite frequently and we would meet in the hotel and talk generally.

Q. Now come to the first one you can remember where there was anything said about this Rochester project, and do the best you can to tell us who said what?

A. Well, I met Mr. Tishkoff and Mr. Fogel together and they——

Mr. Wright: Can we have the time of this and the place?

Q. Can you fix the time in any way?

A. Oh, that was the same year when they were building the theatre. It was in about '26, I believe, or '27.

Q. It has appeared, I think, that the actual date was 1927.

A. Yes. Well, they told me how they had gone ahead and that the theatre is reaching completion and that they thought it would be an advantage to both if we could form a partnership whereby we would take a half interest in the lease and I asked him on what terms. They said, "$20,000 a year rent," and I told him, "I will think the matter over." I met him again later——

Q. Let me interrupt you. This was a lease that was to be taken from this group?

A. Yes.

Q. As the owners of the property?

A. Yes. Mr. Tishkoff was one of the owners of the [fol. 4092] property, and four others. I met him again and at that meeting they had Mr. Robfogel and Mr. Bigger, was one of the men, and they were willing to form a corporation in which we would have a half interest and they would have a half interest. This corporation would lease the Webster from the owners but to do that they told me the leasing corporation would have to put up $20,000 as advance rent, of which I would have to put up ten, and I also would have to take half of the product run first in the State and give them. We, in lieu of that, would get a contract to buy the pictures and we would get five per cent of the gross receipts. The operation, however, would be in the hands of Mr. Fogel.

After some weeks I agreed to that.

Q. In all of this had anything more than you have now stated been said in any of the conversations with reference to the Murray Theatre, or any project of building a theatre near the Murray Theatre?

A. No.

The Court: When was the Webster built?

The Witness: In '28.

The Court: '28?

The Witness: Yes, I think that is the date. The State was built about a year before that.

[fol. 4093] By Mr. ~~McClennen~~:

Q. Was anything said in any of those conversations about your buying power, if a theatre was put up near the Murray?

A. No.

[fol. 4094] Q. My associates called to my attention that I haven't asked you about the type of theatres in Lockport. Will you describe the theatres in Lockport, taking it at first when you acquired your interest, as you have already stated, and take them one by one and describe the Rialto?

A. When we first acquired the Temple, it was an old theatre, built cheaply, and lacked in modern appointments and equipment. Its projection was good, but the seats were not, and the building was a very cheaply constructed building. At that time there was one other theatre which was a rebuilt store show and it was known as the Hi-Art. After we acquired the Temple we found business was exceedingly good, in spite of the poor theatre we had, so we decided to build a new theatre and, after looking around for sites, Mr. Thurston, of whom we bought the Temple, suggested that we buy his building across the street, which had at one time been operated as a skating rink, but was at the time we speak of used as a garage, a very large building. I looked it over, brought an architect to make a survey as to its suitability and we finally bought the building. We then proceeded to rebuild it into a modern, large picture theatre.

At about the same time a group of men started to build the Palace Theatre and, rather oddly, they used the same [fol. 4095] architect. Our theatre was finished several months before the Palace was finished, and it was then opened for first-run pictures.

Q. And this theatre you are now describing is the——

A. Rialto.

Q. Rialto?

A. Rialto. The Rialto had a great advantage over any other theatre they had there before, because it had a very large downstairs seating capacity; had about 1500 seats on one floor and only about 75 or 100 in the balcony. After the——

Q. Well, now, next describe the Palace, when it was subsequently completed.

A. The Palace was a very fine theatre too and it was built primarily for vaudeville; a big stage, high loft, and a very large balcony with boxes around the sides and the theatre was leased to Paramount by the owners.

Q. Well, now, what became of the Temple Theatre?

A. The Temple, if you don't mind, I would like to go on further, if you want a little more about the theatre. In the meantime, and at the same time, the Hi-Art was also rebuilt into a much larger and better theatre than it had been before.

Q. Who did that?

A. This was done by a man named Lannigan, so the town, from having no theatre worth while, had three good [fol. 4096] theatres, and the Temple was the poorest of the three, and the product situation was so bad we ultimately tore it down.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike it out.

The Witness: We could not get pictures for the Temple, so we tore it down.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike it out.

The Court: Strike it out.

The Witness: Well, all right.

Q. Well, you tore the Temple down?

A. I tore the Temple down.

Q. Apart from the product situation as you discovered it to be, was there any other reason why you tore the Temple down?

A. Well, there was no reason except we didn't do business in there.

Q. Then did the Hi-Art and the Rialto go over to the Fox Metropolitan?

A. No, if you don't mind, I want to correct you a little. The Hi-Art we didn't own at that time.

Q. Did the Rialto go over to the Fox Metropolitan?

A. No.

Q. After the ending of the Temple did you operate the Rialto?

[fol. 4097] A. Well, we operated while the Temple was there as well as afterwards the Rialto Theatre.

Q. And during the time that you were operating the Rialto, and the Temple, was Paramount operating the Palace?

A. Paramount had also taken a lease on the Hi-Art, and after an attempt to operate it for a while, they closed up the Hi-Art and they were then operating the Palace. We were operating the Rialto, and come to think about it, we operated for a while the Temple, too. They played vaudeville and pictures in the Palace, and we played the best pictures in the Rialto.

Q. What was played in the Temple?

A. In the Temple was played secondary and second-run. By "Secondary" I mean slough pictures.

Q. Now, you say that—am I right that Paramount closed the Hi-Art?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You continued on operating the Rialto?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. There came a time, it has appeared, when the Palace went into the Dickinson operation?

A. That was later.

Q. That Palace was owned by the Elder-Dickinson, the father of the witness here?

A. No, it was owned by a group which was controlled [fol. 4098] by the Elder Dickinson.

Q. Now, when the younger Dickinson began to operate, either for himself or anybody else, the Palace, what else was done in the operation in Lockport?

A. When he first began to operate the Palace?

Q. Yes.

A. The Rialto was then the only theatre in operation.

Q. And how long had it been since there had been any other theatre except the Rialto in operation?

A. You mean how long after——

The Court: When he took over.

Q. When he took over.

A. After he took over, well——

Q. At the time he took over?

A. We were ousted from the Palace and we then proceeded to——

By the Court:

Q. You were ousted from the Palace?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You rented the Palace from Dickinson?

A. No, we had the Palace after that.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. When did you acquire the operation of the Palace?

A. Well, I believe it was in 1928 Paramount was operating the Palace and we were operating the Rialto, and we were [fol. 4099] both losing heavily——

Mr. Wright: I move to strike out as to what Paramount was doing, not responsive.

The Court: Well, when were you operating the Palace?

The Witness: In 1928 we started to operate the Palace as well as the Rialto.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. And you continued to operate the Palace and the Rialto, both of them how long together?

A. About two or three years, I would say.

Q. And during the latter part of that period was there any other theatre operating in Lockport?

A. You mean while we were operating the Palace and the——

Q. Rialto.

A. And the Rialto? No.

Q. And what was the operation which you conducted in each of those two theatres during the time that you were operating both of them?

A. The Palace played vaudeville and pictures most of the time. Part of the time it played pictures only. The Rialto played the better pictures at one period. Later——

Mr. Wright: If he means better than what played at the Palace, I move——

The Court: What do you mean?

The Witness: The best pictures, the first-class pictures.

[fol. 4100] Later, however——

Mr. Wright: I think he ought to state what pictures they played, what companies played at various theatres, and your Honor can draw your own conclusion as to which had the better pictures.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Well, if further detail is desired, what picture was the Rialto playing first-run in those days?

A. You mean in the early part?

Q. I am now speaking in the period when you were operating the Rialto and then took up the operation of the Palace?

A. At the time the Rialto was playing the first-class releases.

The Court: The first-run, you mean?

The Witness: First-run.

Q. And do you remember of what distributors?

A. Well, of all distributors.

Q. Then when you lost the lease of the Palace you had on your hands the Rialto in operation and the Hi-Art idle, is that correct?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Have I omitted something that is in your mind?

A. Yes, sir, if you don't mind me telling it. Later we found vaudeville in the Palace wasn't paying.

[fol. 4101] Mr. Wright: I object to that.

Q. Wasn't paying?

A. Wasn't paying.

Mr. Wright: I object to that volunteered statement.

The Witness: We dispensed with vaudeville and we found——

Mr. Wright: Before he goes any further, I think he ought to be examined by counsel and give a response to counsel.

The Court: State what you did, you discontinued vaudeville?

The Witness: Yes, and we moved the best pictures we had into the Palace.

The Court: From the Rialto?

The Witness: Out of the Rialto.

The Court: First-run, you mean?

The Witness: Yes, and we played at the Rialto first and second-run and Hi-Art was still closed.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Then when you lost the lease of the Palace, you were engaged up to that time in the operation of two theatres in Lockport?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the loss of the Palace reduced you to one operating theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 4102] Q. And from then on what did you play at the Rialto?

A. We then picked the first-class, first-run pictures and then we proceeded to make the necessary improvements in the Hi-Art and put the policy of the Rialto into the Hi-Art.

The Court: What?

The Witness: The policy of pictures, the same pictures that we had at the Rialto we moved over to the Hi-Art.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. So that your Rialto was then your best first-run house, and the Hi-Art was your second best of first-run, and your second-run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that operation continued on——

A. Until about 1937.

Q. It has appeared from the answers to the interrogatories that the Palace operation by you ended in December, 1932. Do you remember at that time whether or not you had made your contracts for Lockport product for the releasing season of 1932-33?

A. We had our contracts made at that time.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that is a crucial date. The contracts themselves would be the best evidence if they are available. If they are not available, then we [fols. 4103-4104] can take this.

Mr. McClennen: I don't know whether they are already in evidence or not. I should have to check over the mass of exhibits.

Q. Put in another way, whatever contracts were made by you for Lockport for the 1932-33 product, had they been negotiated before December, 1932?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Did you say before December, 1932?

Mr. McClennen: Before December of '32.

The Court: Oh, yes.

Mr. McClennen: I am using that date because——

The Court: It is all right.

Mr. McClennen: Because of the answers to the interrogatory showing that was the time when this operation of the Palace ceased.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: Now, if your Honor please, I hate very much to speak of a personal matter, but I have been standing on my feet for six hours now, except for the noon intermission.

The Court: I know what is following. I intended to adjourn at five. We might as well adjourn now.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until November 1st, 1944, at 10 o'clock.)

[fol. 4105] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil. 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants.

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, November 1, 1944, 10 o'clock A.M.

Appearances: Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Philip Marcus, Esq., and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorneys, in behalf of the United States.

Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rogers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Edward M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the Defendants.

[fol. 4106] PROCEEDINGS

J. MYER SCHINE resumed the stand in behalf of the Defendants, having been previously sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

By Mr. McClennen:

I am sorry to open the month confessing an error. On page 4032 of the opening I said that the half-interest in Auburn was acquired in 1923. I should have said the whole interest.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Resuming, Mr. Schine, with Lockport, on which we were at the close yesterday, it appears from Defendants' Exhibit D-150 that the original acquisition cost of the Rialto was $27,500 and the building additions, and so forth, thereafter $118,400. Was that $118,000, the bulk of it, expended in the early development of that theatre?
A. Yes.
Q. And that would be along in the middle '20's?
A. Yes, that was in '23, I would say.

The Court: Did you buy the Rialto as early as '23, you say?
The Witness: Yes, might have been a little later.
[fol. 4107] The Court: You had the Temple in '22?
The Witness: It might have been '24, thereabouts.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Coming now to Salamanca in 1924——

The Court: '24, did you say?
Mr. McClennen: 1924, yes.

Q. What did you acquire in Salamanca at that time?
A. The Andrews Theatre.
Q. When was the land acquired on which you subsequently built your new theatre?
A. I think it was in '27, if I am not mistaken.
Q. When did you take up with the architect the matter of preparing for building on that land?
A. In '38.

Q. And can you tell me what time?

The Court: You bought the land in '27?
The Witness: Yes.

A. I would say about the middle of the summer of '38.
Q. I ask you to refresh your recollection from this letter which I show you, or copy of letter, and tell me when you sent the blue prints to the architect?
A. According to this letter——
Q. No, not according to the letter. I want you to look at the letter and tell me——
A. In August.
[fol. 4108] Q. What time in August?
A. 23rd of August.

The Court: '38?
The Witness: '38.
Mr. Wright: Could we have that marked?
Mr. McClennen: The paper referred to is marked for identification.

(Thereupon the copy of letter, dated August 23, 1938, referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-151 for identification.)

Q. Describe that theatre on its opening.
A. You mean the new theatre?
Q. The new theatre.

The Court: Did you say when it was opened?

Q. Do you recall when it was opened?
A. It was opened, I think—it was started in '40, construction started in '39 or '40, I don't remember. It was opened about a year later.
Q. Now, if you will describe.
A. It is a theatre seating around 1,250, and is constructed of brick and steel. It is fire-proof and has all modern conveniences for public spaces and wash room facilities for men and women. It has a large lower floor and balcony, with stores in front.

The Court: That would be on the south side of Main [fol. 4109] Street or on the north?
The Witness: Well, your Honor, I couldn't quite tell.
The Court: On the opposite side from the Dudley Hotel?
The Witness: It is on the other end as you drive in.

The Court: Across the River, is it?
The Witness: Yes.
The Court: Oh, yes, I recall that, on the left-hand side.
The Witness: Yes.
The Court: I know most all of these towns pretty well, to which you refer here.

[fol. 4110] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. From Exhibit D-150 it appears that you expended in the original acquisition, at whatever the date was, I think you said 1927, $24,300, and in the construction and improvement thereafter $164,300.

The Court: Three hundred what?
Mr. McClennen: $164,300.
The Witness: That is right.

Q. Coming now to Syracuse, in 1927, according to the answers to interrogatories, what did you acquire there?
A. The Eckel Theatre.
Q. That was an operating theatre at the time you acquired it?
A. It was.
Q. At some time you entered into an arrangement with R.K.O. for joint operation of that and some of the R.K.O. theatres?
A. That is right.
Q. Downtown?
A. That is right.
Q. Now, what were those downtown theatres?
A. You mean operated by R.K.O.?
Q. The R.K.O., yes.
A. They had the Keith, the Paramount and the Strand.
Q. What was the first that brought to your attention the [fol. 4111] possibility of this joint operation?
A. Well, while I was in New York I met one of the representatives of R.K.O., Senator Walters, and he was asking me about Syracuse.

Mr. Wright: I object to the conversations between the witness and Senator Walters.
The Court: Was Senator Walters representing R.K.O.?
The Witness: Yes.
The Court: All right.
Mr. McClennen: You have to stop there.

Q. Now, that developed into the joint operation in what proportions?

A. We got 40 per cent and R.K.O. got 60 per cent of the net profits.

Q. Did those percentages continue at that?

A. It continued for five years.

Q. Then was the proportion changed?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. To what?

A. To 30 per cent for us and 70 per cent for R.K.O.

Q. Dealing with those theatres that you have just mentioned, that is the Eckel and these three of R.K.O., under the arrangement you did what in the operation?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I assume there is a contract that sets forth who was to do what. If there is, I [fol. 4112] think that would be the best evidence.

The Court: Do you mean by the inquiry who actually operated?

Mr. McClennen: All I want is in the practical operation, specifically, who did the buying and booking for those theatres.

The Witness: R.K.O. did the buying and booking.

By the Court:

Q. Did you say when this year's arrangement was made with R.K.O.?

A. The first arrangement was in 1935, I believe.

Q. Altogether until what time?

A. It was for five years.

Q. You said it was later——

A. Later it was renewed again, but we only got 30 per cent out of it.

Q. That went on for how long?

A. That is still in existence.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. When the change was made from 40 per cent down to 30 per cent for you, was there any change in the buying and booking?

A. No.

Q. That was still conducted by R.K.O.?

[fol. 4113] A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Did that include the Eckel also?
The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. Now, after the disposal of the theatres that you made in 1929 and 1930, I direct your attention to Buffalo, Lockport, Geneva, Malone, Massena, Ogdensburg, Rochester and a half interest with the Shea organization in Amsterdam; did you retain any other places?
A. You mean immediately after this disposition?
Q. No, retain——
A. Immediately after we sold?
Q. Immediately.
A. We had two other towns, East Rochester and Fairport, which was disposed of to some other exhibitors at about the same time.
Q. And with that exception did you retain any other than I have mentioned?
A. No.

The Court: You mean by your answer that after this arrangement you had no other theatres?
The Witness: No other theatres.
The Court: I thought in your opening you spoke of several, a number of theatres which he had retained.
Mr. McClennen: These are the ones.
The Court: Aside——
[fol. 4114] Mr. McClennen: No, Buffalo——
The Court: You said aside from those.
Mr. McClennen: Aside from those.
The Court: I did not recall that you included Buffalo in that exception before.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. To put it less awkwardly than I did, after these disposals, including East Rochester, and so forth, the only places that you retained were in Buffalo, Lockport, Geneva, Malone, Massena, Ogdensburg, Rochester and a half interest in Amsterdam?
A. Right.

Mr. McClennen: Turning now to Bellefontaine I bring to the Court's attention another correction that should be made in my opening. At page 4036 I said at the top, with reference to this new theatre in Bellefontaine, the Holland, which I had described on the preceding page as having been the site acquired at $27,500, and the expense of building the the theatre above that $196,800, I said at the top of page 4036, "Costing over $120,000". Obviously I should have said "Costing over $220,000".

Now, if your Honor please, with reference to Bellefon- [fol. 4115] taine, pursuant to your Honor's leave, at page 2327, I should like to put before you the publications in the Bellefontaine newspaper set out at pages 2290 to 2299, which I will read to your Honor. I suggest that the stenographers need not take this down again.

The Court: It is marked as an exhibit?

Mr. McClennen: No, your Honor, it is in the text of the testimony. This was after your Honor adjourned and we took off from the paper what either side wanted.

(Whereupon Mr. McClennen commenced to read the preceding record at page 2290, which was not reported in pursuance to the foregoing instructions.)

[fol. 4116] The Court: What is the population of Bellefontaine?

The Witness: About 10,000.

The Court: What were the theatres, outside of the Strand and the Holland? Does it appear that there are others? Were there other picture shows there?

The Witness: There were two closed theatres.

The Court: Oh, yes, the Opera House——

The Witness: And the Majestic.

Mr. McClennen: The reason that I offered this evidence that I have just read in the effort to have it a part of Mr. Mooney's testimony was because of the flat contradiction between the prices and Mr. Mooney's statement, but it serves its purpose as well put in at this time.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Schine, what first directed your attention to the possibility of going into Bellefontaine?

A. Our manager from Sidney, Ohio,——

Q. In consequence of what he said to you did you receive any communication, or have any conversation with some one else?

A. I had a conversation with one of the citizens of Bellefontaine, who came over to see me in Sidney, Ohio.

[fol. 4117] Q. Do you remember his name?

A. Mr. Peters.

Q. And what did he say to you?

Mr. Wright: That is objected to. I don't see it makes any difference what Mr. Peters said to him at that time.

The Court: Yes.

By Mr. McClennen: I propose to show, if I am permitted to do so, that Mr. Peters and a group of citizens of Bellefontaine came to Mr. Schine and urged upon him the need of a new and proper theatre for Bellefontaine, that this was not at all a projection of himself into the town, but was at invitation from prominent citizens of the town. Now I urge that that is material.

The Court: Of course, in the first place, what was said between them may only be shown, if it is shown at all, and in the next place it seems to me he can show that a delegation came to him with reference to the establishment of the theatre in Bellefontaine.

[fol. 4118] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Well, is that latter, as his Honor has stated, the fact?

A. Yes.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, we object.

The Court: I will overrule the objection.

Mr. Wright: It doesn't make any difference whether he was invited in or whether he conceived the idea himself. He went in.

The Court: It may have some bearing.

Q. You acquired the land for your carrying-out of that invitation in 1930?

A. I think it was.

The Court: You say carrying-out of the invitation. There is no proof of any invitation.

The Witness: It was either '29 or '30.

Mr. McClennen: I didn't quite understand.

The Court: You said "carrying-out of the invitation." There is no proof of any invitation. Members of that town came to see him with reference to putting up a theatre, and as the result of that he may state what happened. You used the word "invitation." Of course that raises the point of the objection.

Q. Was this acquisition of this land as a result of the [fol. 4119] call of that deputation upon you?

A. Yes.

Q. It appears from Defendants' Exhibit D-150 that the original cost was $27,500 and that the building and improvement was in addition $196,800. Now, was the theatre to which those figures relate the Holland, which opened on February 12, 1931?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you describe that theatre at that time?

A. This theatre is built of brick and steel and completely fire-proof and is known as atmospheric. It has clouds and stars in the ceiling and, due to its name and the architect, who happened to be Dutch, the design was of Dutch character, with windmills and various other decorations, and seats around 1400 people, with every modern convenience and appointment for public spaces and air-conditioning and cushioned seats with springs in them, and the very latest projection and screen, which gave that town a theatre they were all proud of.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that is objected to.

The Court: The latter part of the statement, that it gave them a theatre they were proud of, may go out.

[fol. 4120] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Come now to Mt. Vernon and 1934. From what source did the idea of your going into Mt. Vernon come to your attention?

A. From the owner of two theatres of Mt. Vernon.

Q. And who was that?

A. Mr. Smoots.

Q. And what was the two theatres?

A. One was the Vine which he owned and the Memorial, which he had under lease.

Q. As a result did he meet you somewhere?

A. I met him in Mt. Vernon.

Q. And what conversation did you have with him?

Mr. Wright: That is objected to, if the Court please.

The Court: Sustained. I will let you show that he purchased these theatres.

Q. Did he propose to you that you acquire his theatre and the lease he had of the Memorial?

Mr. Wright: That is also objected to, calling for a conclusion as to what the conversation was.

Mr. McClennen: But it is wholly immaterial——

The Court: I will let him state what the proposal itself was. I will let it stand.

Q. What was Mr. Smoots' proposal?

[fol. 4121] A. He proposed to lease us his Vine Theatre and sell us the lease on the Memorial Theatre.

The Court: How do you spell that name?

The Witness: Smoots, S-m-o-o-t-s.

Q. Now, at about that time did Mr. Platt see you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did Mr. Platt—first, what was Mr. Platt's connection with the theatre business?

A. Mr. Platt operated the Lyric.

Q. And did Mr. Platt propose to you what should be done with respect to that?

A. Yes.

Mr. Wright: That is objected to, if your Honor please.

The Court: That calls for a conclusion.

Mr. Wright: I think he should be confined to saying what he did, not what Mr. Platt did.

The Court: What was done with reference to the theatre?

The Witness: Mr. Platt proposed to sell us the equipment and lease of the Lyric, provided he could get a job to manage the theatres.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike it out. This is just an indirect way of getting in the conversations that were excluded.

The Court: Did Mr. Platt testify?

[fol. 4122] Mr. Wright: No.

Mr. McClennen: No, your Honor.

Mr. Wright: There wasn't any testimony at all with respect to these acquisitions.

The Court: What is that?

Mr. Wright: There was no testimony offered by us with respect to these acquisitions.

The Court: Well, I think it is competent to show that some one came to him and proposed a proposition for the purchase and sale of the property.

Mr. Wright: What difference could it possibly make? If you were going to attempt to judge whether the proposal did come from him, or had come from Mr. Schine, I suppose it would be necessary to know the entire conversation that occurred. It is always a conclusion as to what happened, assuming it is material.

The Court: That would not be so. It might be entirely separate from anything else, as an offer, but it has a bearing.

Mr. Wright: If it is in writing, I suppose the written offer, if one was made, could be produced and that is the best [fol. 4123] evidence. If it is a conclusion to be drawn from the conversation itself, then it seems to me it is just as objectionable as the conversation itself would have been. There is no occasion, as I see it, to permit this witness to characterize the results of these negotiations as proposals made to him any more than they would be characterized as proposals he made to the man he dealt with. In each case, I suppose it would be eventually that there were proposals back and forth.

The Court: I will let him state what he said on the subject, what he said he would take for the property.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. What did Mr. Platt say with reference to the sale of the property of the Lyric to you?

Mr. Wright: Just a minute, do I understand your Honor's ruling now to be that he may go into all conversations with respect to acquisitions with respect to which we offered no testimony?

The Court: I will meet that situation when we come to it. [fol. 4124] I confine the ruling to this one thing. Go on and state what he said.

The Witness: He said he would like to sell us the equipment and lease of the Lyric Theatre provided he could get a job to manage the theatres in town.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. About when did you close your deal with Mr. Platt?

A. Well, it was about a month after we acquired the Smoots theatres.

Q. Well, that would be how early in 1934?

A. I would say it was in February.

The Court: That was in writing, I presume?

The Witness: I beg your pardon?

The Court: That was in writing?
The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. Subsequently did you have any survey made with respect to improving the Vine or building another theatre?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And when did you begin on the making of that survey?

The Witness: Yes.
The Court: When?

Q. When?
A. Oh, when, that was—we first made moderate improvements on the Vine, and about a year later we started to make a survey of enlarging the Vine, and making that into a [fol. 4125] modern theatre.

Q. And when did you begin on that survey, that is, how soon after your deal with Mr. Platt which you have placed in February, 1934?
A. Oh, I would say in 1935 we started to make a survey of the Vine Theatre, and we had the architect give us an opinion as to what could be done with it.

Q. What was the location and the description of the three theatres, the Vine, the Memorial and the Lyric? Take first the Vine. Before you had made any changes in it, where was it located and what was its description?
A. The Vine was near the busy part of the square, a little off the main street and the theatre itself was a one-floor theatre seating about 600 people. It had a high ceiling, but lacked in modern appointments and conveniences and the lobby was very short.

Q. Very short?
A. Short, yes, had no depth to it. The Lyric was an old——

Q. Location first.
A. The location was 100 per cent location of the town.
Q. Well, by that you mean it was——
A. The finest location we could get; right on the square and the busy part of the city near the chief department store.

Q. Was that the site on which you subsequently built?
[fol. 4126] A. Yes, sir.

Q. The new Vernon Theatre?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Describe the Lyric Theatre as it was in the beginning of 1934.

A. The Lyric Theatre was a very narrow building. I should say it was one of the first theatres built for motion pictures; had a high ceiling, but only had one aisle in the center, with about four or five seats on each side. It had no lavatory facilities and had a stove in the rear of the theatre right in the aisle.

Q. You mean a heating stove?

A. Yes, a heating stove, and the booth projected right over part of the audience, and the ceiling of that was low. Is that all you want?

Q. Now, the Memorial, its location and description.

A. The Memorial was out of location.

Mr. Wright: That is objected to. He should state where it is.

Mr. McClennen: Strike out "out of location".

The Court: Tell where it was.

The Witness: The Memorial was on top of a hill, I would say about a block and a half or two blocks from the business section and was a county building.

[fol. 4127] Q. A county building?

A. A county building where they have county offices, and in the entrance you have to walk, I would say, about 100 feet off the sidewalk and the entrance was just an ordinary door. It has no appearance of a theatre. Then you walk into a hall which contains seats, has a balcony and is equipped with a booth and screen. Its seating capacity, however, was larger than either the Vine or the Lyric.

Q. Did the Lyric site, as it was in 1934, and at the time of your survey, furnish enough land for the building of the Vernon which you built on that site later?

A. No.

[fol. 4128] Q. What was necessary in order to get an adequate amount?

A. We had to buy additional land.

Q. Will you describe the New Vernon Theatre when it was completed?

A. The New Vernon Theatre——

Mr. Wright: Can we have the date?

Q. It is suggested you give the date of completion? Have you that in mind?

A. I don't think I have. It was probably in '37. I haven't got the date, I am sorry. Was it '37? I could look up my notes. '37 or '38. It was in '38, April, '38.

Q. Describe the Vernon at its completion in April, 1938?

A. It is a modern, fire-proof constructed theatre with a wide marquee in front, no stores, and it has a large lobby, and in-doors it is decorated in a very modernistic style. It has the finest seats obtainable, as all the other equipment. It has a fine mezzanine, furnished rather attractive, and comfortable, has fine public spaces for men and ladies upstairs and downstairs, and seats around 1300 people.

Q. It appears from Defendants' Exhibit D-150 that in the additions, including improvement of the Vernon, you expended $48,600. Was that substantially all expended in the period from 1934 to the opening in 1938?

A. You mean by us?

[fol. 4129] Q. By you, yes.

A. That was all respent on the building after it was completed.

Q. By that do you mean that the owner of the land spent sums in addition to that?

A. The owner built the building and we equipped it.

Q. So that this was but a part of the cost?

A. Yes.

The Court: The equipment part?

The Witness: Yes.

Q. Do you happen to know approximately how much the owner's expenditure was?

A. You mean besides the land or with the land?

Q. I mean above the land.

A. Above the land, I think they spent $120,000 to $130,000.

Mr. McClennen: I offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit D-148-A, B, C, D, E, and F for identification.

Mr. Wright: We have no objection.

(Thereupon the Vitagraph contract dated July 13, 1935, paper dated July 13, 1935, paper dated July 13, 1935, and contract approved September 5, 1935, cancellation notice, dated December 11, 1935, and cancellation notice, dated December 11, 1935, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibits D-148-A, B, C, D, E and F, respectively, for identification were received in evidence.)

[fol. 4130] Mr. McClennen: Defendants' Exhibit D-148-A is a Vitagraph contract, dated July 13, 1935, approved by Vitagraph July 23, 1935, with the State-Bucyrus Company, by M. H. Breyer, Secretary.

Defendants' Exhibit D-148-B is a paper dated July 13, 1935, attached to the contract, saying "This is the same deal as last year, except that on the Shorts and 32 features I gave him the privilege of three or four days instead of two or three days. He figures he may go to two changes a week. However, I gave him no assurance New York or you would approve. I tried to get an increase on this but you know the set-up. I also got the 14 de luxe trailers in at $4 instead of $3 and the four pictures at 25%, show a 15% increase. The paying arrangement on figures to start at expiration of present paying arrangement. Regards, F. J. B."

Defendants' Exhibit D-148-C is July 13, 1935. "It is agreed that in consideration of contract signed by Warners, First National and Vitagraph 1935-36 product, Vitagraph, [fol. 4131] Inc., agrees to cancel the Shorts unplayed from season 1934-35. The amount not to exceed $60." That is signed by Vitagraph, Inc., by F. J. Brandt and by the State-Bucyrus Co., by M. H. Breyer.

Defendants' Exhibit D-148-D is a contract for the 60 Warner-First National productions of the 1935-36 seasons, signed by Vitagraph by F. J. Brandt and by the State-Bucyrus Company by M. H. Breyer, Secretary, and approved September 5, 1935.

Defendants' Exhibit D-148-E is the cancellation notice of the First National part of this contract, dated December 11, 1935, by M. A. Mooney, Branch Manager.

Defendants' Exhibit D-148-F is the cancellation notice of the Warner's pictures of this contract and dated December 11, 1935, both "E" and "F" signed by M. A. Mooney, say: "This house was taken over by the Schine Theatrical Co., Inc. Re-submitting new contract signed by Schine's." [fol. 4132] That is in the block on the paper headed, "Reason for cancellation."

The Court: That is Warner's?

Mr. McClennen: That is Warner's in both cases.

The Court: What do you claim for these particular contracts?

Mr. McClennen: To meet Mr. Breyer's testimony. He had evidently forgotten this contract.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, there is nothing in his testimony at all inconsistent with what has been offered. He testified he signed that application and sent it in. He never got an approved contract. This shows what happened to that application.

Mr. McClennen: I won't go into argument at this time.

The Court: All right.

Mr. McClennen: I submit that Mr. Breyer did not testify in the way just stated and that this is inconsistent with his testimony, and we attribute it to forgetfulness on his part.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. It has appeared that you acquired the interest of Mr. Charnas at Bucyrus. What was the first thing that came to your attention with reference to that possibility, that resulted in your making that arrangement?

A. You mean with Mr. Charnas?

[fol. 4133] Q. Yes.

A. I met Harry Charnas in New York, a brother of this Charnas, and we had dinner together.

Q. Never mind the dinner, and so forth. He said something to you about this and what did you say?

A. He talked to me about a possibility about buying out his brother.

Q. What did he say?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I don't see how it is proper here to go into a conversation that this witness had with a brother of the witness about buying out the other witness's theatre.

The Court: Well, I suppose the question is how he came into the picture there of buying, to show he had a discussion with a brother of the owner about this theatre.

Mr. Wright: I don't understand what it is competent to show. How can that possibly, any more than if he had a conversation with me or your Honor, or any one else, relative to buying that theatre? What relevance has that got to any of the issues that we are trying here?

The Court: It may not be of great materiality but I think [fol. 4134] it is competent to show he met somebody who brought up the subject of this theatre.

Mr. Wright: He might have discussed this theatre with representatives of the exhibitors with Charnas' aunt, his uncle, his father, twenty other people. If we are going into that field it seems to me there are no limits to the lawsuit.

The Court: It shows how it came about, on the subject of purchase, that is all.

Mr. Wright: Let him ask him, then.

The Court: You met the brother of Mr. Charnas?

The Witness: Yes, and he——

The Court: Never mind, what you said to him. What next happened?

The Witness: We bought him out after we——

The Court: Bought the brother out?

The Witness: Yes, after the price was agreed on.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. You did not buy out the brother who made the proposal to you?

A. No, we saw his brother.

Q. Was this conversation of Harry Charnas' the first thing that occurred with respect to the purchase that you subsequently made from his brother?

[fol. 4135] A. Yes.

Q. In that conversation did Harry tell you that his brother wanted to sell out?

A. Yes.

Mr. Wright: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained. I think it sufficiently appears.

Mr. McClennen: I was putting it intentionally leading, to avoid all the extraneous parts.

The Court: You testified that is the first you knew of this matter was the talk with his brother in New York. If you want to show when it was, with reference to the time he bought it——

Mr. McClennen: I beg your Honor's pardon?

The Court: I will let you show when it was with reference to when he bought it.

Q. How long was it before you bought out Mr. Charnas that his brother Harry spoke to you about it?

A. I would say it was several months.

Q. Seven months?

A. Several months.

Q. You pause before answering this question: What did Harry Charnas at that time say to you on the subject matter of a purchase of his brother's interests?

Mr. Wright: Same objection.

[fol. 4136] The Court: Sustained.

Mr. McClennen: I offer, if your Honor please, to show that the witness, if permitted to answer, would say, in substance, that Harry Charnas informed him that his brother wanted to go to another place and wanted to sell out his interest to Mr. Schine so that he could do so.

The Court: Perhaps you may elicit the information from the brother from whom it was purchased.

Mr. Wright: That is precisely the point. The brother from whom the purchase was made, as I recall, testified.

The Court: What is that?

Mr. Wright: Mr. Phil Charnas, from whom the purchase was made, was on the stand here. They had ample opportunity here to cross-examine him.

The Court: The objection is sustained.

Mr. Wright: Instead of asking questions of this kind.

The Court: The objection is sustained to this question.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Was it in consequence of the conversation with Harry Charnas that the purchase from his brother was made?

A. Yes.

[fol. 4137] Mr. Wright: That is objected to. That calls for a conclusion as to what factors influenced the purchase. There may have been a very substantial number. I think that is a conclusion that your Honor should draw. He can state what all the circumstances were prior to that purchase and then I think your Honor can make a decision as to whether or not the purchase resulted simply because he had talked to Harry Charnas, or whether there were other factors that entered into the particular purchase.

The Court: What do you mean by "all the circumstances"?

Mr. Wright: Well, the circumstances are, among other things, that that was a theatre there which was operating in competition with one he had, that Schine was then engaged in expansion program in that part of Ohio. He can tell what their activities were at that time when they bought the theatre. That, it seems to me, are the circumstances. He also had conversation with his brother Harry and from those circumstances I suppose your Honor can draw the [fol. 4138] conclusion as to what, if any, factor made them decide to make the deal.

The Court: This question goes too far, but it looks to me, by reason of the conversation he had with the brother, that he went to that person's brother and as the result purchased the property.

Mr. Wright: That is not what this last question was.

The Court: That is very true. I think that is as far as he can go. I mean as to that. He can inquire whether, by reason of that talk with the brother, he went to the brother's brother and took up the subject of the purchase of the property. Let him answer that.

[fol. 4139] Mr. McClennen: Well, I am not sure that he went himself.

The Court: Or if he sent somebody.

Q. Was it in consequence of this conversation with Harry Charnas?

A. Yes.

Mr. Wright: That is objectionable.

The Court: Oh, no, I will let him answer, by reason of this talk, after this talk, or by reason of this talk about a possible sale of this property he went or sent somebody to the one who told him.

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. It appears in Exhibit D-150 that for the Bucyrus Theatre at Bucyrus, you expended for the acquisition $15,500, and for improvement on that or construction $81,500?

A. Yes.

The Court: I suppose it appears what theatres there were in Bucyrus?

Mr. Wright: I think that was testified to by Mr. Breyer and Mr. Charnas.

Q. And from the answers to interrogatories that the land was acquired in August, 1935 and the theatre, the Bucyrus, completed in 1936. Will you describe that theatre after its completion?

A. That theatre is a modern structure, built of brick and [fol. 4140] steel, and has all modern improvements with ample public spaces for men and women. It is air-conditioned and has a lower floor, furnished with fine upholstered seats, and it also has a balcony. It has two small stores in front and a marquee with a large sign in front of it, and is located in the heart of the city, which I might say is a 100 per cent location, I would call it.

Q. What was the thing that started you on that acquisition?

A. I received a letter from——

Q. And in consequence of that letter did you have any conversation with any one?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, this entire line of testimony, of calling attention to what started you then, and in consequence of this, did you do that, all calls for a mass of conclusions this witness isn't competent to make, and I think your Honor should make. I think what should be done is to show what the facts and circumstances were, fix the time when certain things occurred prior to the acquisition, what occurred, and as to whether or not any of those things that occurred, or some other facts that occurred, [fol. 4141] were the moving factors, it seems to me should be decided by the Court and not something we should have from this witness.

The Court: Well, if you follow that line I think the question in the present form is incompetent because it really calls for a conclusion as to the contents of letters. I will let you show, as you did before, that he received a letter on a certain date and what he did subsequent to that. It isn't a question that he received a letter that related to the subject of the participation, it speaks for itself, because if it was received you should produce it.

Mr. McClennen: I will proceed to show then what took place without any reference to any letter.

Q. Did a group of citizens of Buycrus call on you?

A. They asked me to call on them.

Q. And about when was this?

A. That was about the early part of 1935.

Q. And what conversation—do you remember the names of any of those gentlemen?

A. I do not.

Mr. Wright: Does it appear this was in the form of an [fol. 4142] oral invitation, or are you getting back to the letter?

The Witness: That was a—the letter was the invitation.

Mr. Wright: It seems to me, if we are going to have that, we ought to have the letter.

By the Court:

Q. Did you answer that you received a letter from them and out of that you met this group?
A. I received a letter to stop in Bucyrus on the next trip, which I did.

The Court: He said he received a letter to stop in Bucyrus on his next trip.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. When you met these gentlemen will you state the conversation that you had?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that is objected to. It doesn't even appear who these gentlemen were, or where and when he met them. Certainly the conversation he had with them would not be material in any event.
The Court: The same situation as before. He may state they came to him and discussed the subject of erecting a theatre, but to go into the question of whether they invited him to build a new building is a question of the conversation [fol. 4143] and would not be competent.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Is the fact as put to you by his Honor correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, what was the conversation?
A. The conversation was——

Mr. Wright: That is objected to.
The Court: No, you are going a little farther than what I said. What I said was I would let him tell they came to see him on the subject of building a theatre at that place, but not the details of the conversation.

Q. That is the fact, is it?
A. That is the fact.
Q. Did they take you to see an uncompleted theatre in the town?
A. They took me to see an uncompleted theatre in the town.

Q. And did they talk with you on the subject of how that theatre had come to be in that shape?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what was the state of completion or incompletion of that theatre at that time as you saw it?

A. The walls were up, and the steel was up, and it had been standing that way for two or three years, and they told me it was an eye sore in town, and they would like to [fol. 4144] see——

Mr. Wright: That is just an effort to get in what is already objected to and ruled out.

The Court: Describe the building.

The Witness: The walls were up and the steel, the girders on the roof, were up and it was standing there.

The Court: Partly, you mean?

The Witness: Partly completed.

The Court: We will suspend for five minutes.

(Short recess.)

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Was the Bucyrus Theatre that you built put upon the incomplete structure that the deputation from Bucyrus had shown you?

A. We completed the unfinished structure that was standing there.

Q. Now, will you describe the capacity of that theatre?

A. I think I just did describe it.

The Court: What is that?

The Witness: I thought I did describe the Bucyrus Theatre.

The Court: No.

Q. I think you did not state the seating capacity. Do you bear that in mind?

A. It has about a little less than 1300 seats.

[fol. 4145] Q. Come now to Van Wert, Ohio. It appears that you acquired—it appears from the answers to interrogatories that you acquired the Van Wert Theatre or that later the Van Wert Theatre became such in February, 1935. Can you tell me when the architects were put to work on the preparation for that construction?

A. In '34.

Q. Do you remember at what time in '34?

A. I couldn't say the exact time.

Q. Do you remember how long it took to complete the construction of that theatre before February, 1935?

A. I think it took about six or eight months.

Q. Well, that would enable you to state something of how early in 1934?

A. It was the early part of 1934.

The Court: When did you open it?

The Witness: We opened it in February, 1935.

Q. I think, or, do you recall the course of the preparations for the taking of the lease and the preparing for construction of the theatre before the lease was taken, that is, the preliminary investigations?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And had you obtained the architect's blue-prints before you entered upon the lease?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 4146] Q. And you think something like six months before?

A. Something like that, yes, sir.

Q. Come now to Perry in the year 1935.

The Court: Perry, you said?

Mr. McClennen: Perry.

The Court: In 1935?

Mr. McClennen: In 1935.

Q. This has reference to matters preceding the dealings with Mr. Herzberger. Will you mark this for identification?

(Thereupon blue-prints for theatre at Perry, New York, were marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-152 for identification.)

Q. Referring to Exhibit D-152 for identification, a set of blue-prints dated September, 1935, were these blue-prints for a new theatre which you had in contemplation for Perry, New York?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark these three for identification as D-152-A, B and C?

(Thereupon specifications for theatre building at Perry, New York, were marked as Defendants' Exhibits D-152-A, D-152-B and D-152-C for identification.)

Q. I show you three sets of specifications for identifica- [fol. 4147] tion, D-152-A, B and C. Are these the specifications for that same theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall, or can you tell by refreshing yourself from these the time fixed for receiving bids for the construction of this theatre?

A. October 4th, 1935.

By the Court:

Q. Did you acquire the land at that time?

A. The land was acquired previously.

Q. To that time?

A. To that time, that was the date set by the architect.

Q. You had acquired land prior to 1935?

A. Yes, we owned land at that time.

Q. Where was that?

A. That was in 1935.

Q. Where?

A. In Perry?

Q. Yes.

A. It was on the main street known as the Davis property. It used to be a garage. A wooden structure was on it. I think it is across from one of the office buildings there.

Q. Near the hotel?

A. No, the hotel, I think, is further up. We are down below a little bit. It is on the corner.

[fol. 4148] Mr. McClennen: Coming now to Paris, Kentucky. Will you mark this for identification?

(Thereupon an ordinance was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-153 for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark this as Defendants' Exhibit D-153-A?

(Thereupon the permit referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-153-A for identification.)

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Referring to Defendants' Exhibit D-153-A, dated October 7, 1937, can you tell me when, approximately, you received that permit?

A. Oh, we received it about the early part of October.

Q. In what year?

A. In 1937.

Q. And when did you receive this ordinance, Defendants' Exhibit D-153 for identification? Was it before it or after the time you received the permit of October 7, 1937?

A. Well, it was just before that. About the same time I would say regarding both.

Mr. McClennen: I offer these Exhibits D-153 and D-153-A in evidence.

Mr. Wright: No objection.

[fol. 4149] (Thereupon the ordinance previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-153 for identification was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon the permit previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-153-A for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. McClennen: This Defendants' Exhibit D-153 is an ordinance of the Council of Paris, Kentucky, setting out the authorization of a permit to the Phoenix Amusement Company for the erection, maintenance and operation of a motion picture theatre on the lot in Paris, Kentucky, described in it, and Defendants' Exhibit 153-A is the permit to——

The Court: You referred to it as an ordinance.

Mr. McClennen: The first was an ordinance for a permit.

The Court: All right.

Mr. McClennen: Defendants' Exhibit D-153-A is entitled: "Permit to Phoenix Amusement Company for erection, maintenance and operation of a theatre in the city of Paris, Kentucky," and starts out with the words "Pursuant to ordinance No. A." And ordinance No. A is Defendants' Exhibit D-153, and the permit is dated October 7, 1937.

Q. Did you proceed to have planned the theatre to be con-[fol. 4150] structed pursuant to that ordinance?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you remember when you got bids for its construction?

A. We first got bids in '37.

Q. What time in '37?

A. About the middle of the summer, I think.

Q. I attract your attention to the fact that the ordinance is dated October 7, 1937.

A. Yes, but it took some time to draw the plans and get the things ready, and then we sent it out to the contractors. It was probably the early part of the spring or summer.

Q. Of what year?

A. Of '38, I think it was.

Q. You were inadvertent in saying '37 earlier?

A. Yes.

The Court: Was the building completed in '38?

The Witness: The building was not completed in '38. It was completed in about '40, I believe.

The Court: '40?

The Witness: Yes. In 1939 it was completed; I beg your pardon.

Q. Mr. Schine, for the acquisition of theatres have you personally made any threats or misrepresentations?

A. No.

[fol. 4151] Mr. Wright: Just a minute. If the Court please, that question is objected to. He is entitled to say what he did and what he said to people, and that, I take it, is for your Honor to conclude whether what was done and said constitutes a threat, or anything of that sort; not competent for him to state.

Mr. McClennen: This, if your Honor please, is not what he did. It is what he did not do. He cannot describe it in any way.

The Court: Testimony on the part of the Government here with reference to acts by the defendant or his associates. Of course, the testimony is what was said.

Mr. Wright: The testimony as to what was said or done. If there is anything any witness testified to what was said or done that he thinks is wrong he should so state. That is the way the testimony should be given. It isn't proper to have him say he never made any threats or never did acts from which your Honor might conclude was the threat or not the threat. It is something for him not to say.

Mr. McClennen: I submit that when in a bill of complaint [fol. 4152] in equity a man is charged with making threats or misrepresentations that he is in a position where he is entitled to show that he did not do anything of the kind, even if no evidence has been introduced, and of course you can't go in any way to this point except by the straight negative if he did nothing of the kind. If he did something then is the time for a statement of the conversation, or what not, but if he did not do anything of the kind there is no conversation to be stated.

The Court: Of course the word "threats" itself is a conclusion. An act. I would think it would be sufficient on the part of the defendant if it meets the issue to direct the inquiry to the particular individuals who have testified with reference to acts directed to show threats.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, no witness has testified to any threats by Mr. Schine.

The Court: I know, but they testified he did so-and-so.

Mr. McClennen: They have not testified to anything of that sort so far as Mr. Schine is concerned.

[fol. 4153] The Court: Well, if that is true why is it incumbent upon the defendant to deny it?

Mr. McClennen: I think it is not incumbent upon the defendant, but advisable that the defendant should do so, when he stands charged by a solemn complaint on the files of the Court with having done such a thing.

The Court: Well, there is some testimony that indicates, from which the conclusion might be drawn, that certain things were threatened to be done if certain other things were not done.

Mr. McClennen: I urge upon your Honor by Mr. Schine personally, and that is this question. He is personally a defendant.

The Court: We will recess now until 2 o'clock.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P. M.)

[fol. 4154] After recess, 2 o'clock P. M.

Appearances: As before noted.

(Thereupon photostatic copy of excerpt from Telegraph-Forum, Bucyrus, Ohio, Friday, September 6, 1935, marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-154 for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I asked to have marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-154 for identification a photostat of the Telegraph-Forum, Bucyrus, Ohio, Friday, September 6, 1935.

The Court: Is that marked?

Mr. McClennen: It is marked for identification.

The Court: What is it marked?

Mr. McClennen: As D-154.

I, this morning, put in evidence as D-148-D a contract with the State Bucyrus Company by M. H. Breyer, Secretary, approved by Vitagraph September 5, 1935. On that contract, amongst others, is the Warner Production No. 905. The Warner release schedule, Exhibit 645 shows that No. 905, released September 7th, 1935, was the picture "Page [fol. 4155] Miss Glory" with Marion Davies heading the cast.

The reason for offering the Exhibit 154 is that it advertises Marion Davies——

Mr. Wright: Just a minute. There isn't any proof at all that this so-called ad here actually appeared as an ad. He has a photostat there that he says is a copy of the paper which we have had no opportunity to check, and if Breyer were here I suppose he could check all of this, which is now being offered long after Breyer has left the stand and after we have been deprived of the opportunity of asking Breyer what he knows about this material that is now being offered, with nothing more than counsel's statement as to what it is and what it contains.

Mr. McClennen: As I was saying, in describing the offer, it is an advertisement of Marion Davies in "Page Miss Glory," three days, starting Sunday. Sunday following September 6th, 1935 was September 8th, 1935, one day after "Page Miss Glory" was released, according to the Warner schedule, Exhibit No. 645.

[fol. 4156] I offer this.

The Court: What significance has that particular showing?

Mr. McClennen: Because of the argument this morning with reference to this contract with Mr. Breyer, dated in approval September 5th, 1935, that this is an advertisement by the State Theatre, Mr. Breyer's theater, that that picture was coming on Sunday, September 8th, bearing out, we submit, the furnishing of that picture to Mr. Breyer pursuant to the approved contract.

The Court: Well, what is the evidence to the contrary? What is the evidence of Mr. Breyer with reference to that?

Mr. McClennen: The evidence of Mr. Breyer was that he did not have the Warner contract.

The Court: This is Warner?

Mr. McClennen: This is to meet that.

The Court: What is this exhibit here? This was a Warner production, did you say?

Mr. McClennen: The Exhibit No. 645 already in evidence shows that this was a Warner production number 905, released September 7th, 1935, and this advertisement is to [fol. 4157] show its play by Mr. Breyer's theatre on September 8th.

The Court: The point of counsel is there is no basis for the reception of the photostatic copy, no foundation has been laid.

Mr. McClennen: I recognize the fact that they have nothing but our assurance that this is a photostatic copy. Photostatic copies have been received in the past. I urge that this be received.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I think your Honor ought to understand the state of the record here and the purpose for which this offer is apparently made. Mr. Breyer, while on the stand, testified that he made this application for Warner product for the 1935-36 season; that he never got an approved contract back and that he didn't get the product. We put in evidence and there is in evidence, in addition to his contract, the contract which was made between Warner and Schine for the 1935-36 season, which is, I believe, Exhibit No. 62, which showed that the contract with Schine for that season's product was ap- [fol. 4158] proved on July 25th, 1935, and it also appears in this contract that production No. 905 was omitted from the deal that was made with Schine.

Now, if this had been brought up, this attempted impeachment, suggested impeachment had been brought up while Breyer was here on the stand, the facts could have been developed as to how that one particular picture happened to play, if it played, but there is certainly no way in which that can be determined at this time, simply by offering a piece of paper here which shows he advertised that one picture, assuming that he did advertise and play it. There is nothing in that fact to contradict the story that he gave from the witness-stand to the effect that he sent in his application, did not get an approved copy back and did not get the 1935-1936 pictures which this exhibit 62 shows were sold to Schine on a contract that was approved prior to the time of approval stated on this contract that is in evidence here as D-148-D.

[fol. 4159] The Court: You claim it is not properly proved and that they have no effective proof?

Mr. Wright: That is right.

The Court: On the first objection I would have to rule with you.

Mr. McClennen: That is on the ground that we have not proved that this is a photostatic copy of the newspaper?

The Court: Well, yes.

Mr. Wright: Assuming it to be a photostat, the time to have offered it was while Breyer was on the stand so we could have asked what the circumstances were, how he happened to get that particular picture.

The Court: No, I do not sustain on that ground.

Mr. McClennen: Before I go to the next offer I will ask to have it marked for identification with the next number, and the reply attached with an "A" of that number.

(Thereupon the two letters referred to were marked Defendants' Exhibit 155 and 155-A for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: I offer the exhibit for identification, D-155 and D-155-A in evidence.

Mr. Wright: There is no question but what these letters [fol. 4160] were written and sent, but what they offer to prove is beyond me.

Mr. McClennen: I understand that that is my Brother's objection to their being received in evidence.

Mr. Wright: Yes, indeed, and I would like to know what the purpose of the offer was.

Mr. McClennen: The purpose of the offer was to show that the representatives of the Department of Justice were apprised of the fact before ever Mr. Breyer was put on the stand that this contract that I have put in this morning was in existence and that there is no surprise and that the reason why the objection that this is a photostat and not the original is pressed at this time is the purpose.

Mr. Wright: There is no claim of surprise at the introduction of these contracts. The only claim that was given was that the photostat of the newspaper ad should have been brought to Breyer's attention at the time he was on the stand, so that he could have given the facts, whatever they were, with respect to the advertising or playing of that one particular picture which appears in the ad.

[fol. 4161] Mr. McClennen: Pardon me. There was also another objection that this was a photostat and not the original, which was the objection that prevented my presenting the merits of the question.

Mr. Wright: You are quite right.

The Court. This letter does not refer to this particular play at all as a particular number?

Mr. McClennen: It refers to this contract, if your Honor please.

The Court: Yes, it refers to this contract, that is true. I don't think it is material. Of course, if you have made the proof in the regular way and shown the publication of this. Do you claim that is taken from the public newspaper?

Mr. McClennen: This is a photostat made last summer at their request, after Mr. Breyer had testified and left the stand, not known to us while he was on the stand, of this periodical.

The Court: Where do you claim it appeared?

Mr. McClennen: It appeared in The Telegraph-Forum [fol. 4162] of Bucyrus, Ohio, in the issue of Friday, September 6, 1935.

The Court: Well, I don't see any reason why the defendant should not be permitted to show the publication of this article.

Mr. Wright: Well, if the Court please, assuming that Breyer advertised on September 6th this picture, there isn't any claim on what is in evidence here that Schine bought that picture away from him. That picture is excluded from the contract which is in evidence, which Schine bought for the 1935-36 season.

The Court: Well, your argument is it is immaterial?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Court: Objection overruled. I ruled before it is not the best evidence.

Mr. Wright: Well, it certainly is not any evidence, if the purpose of it is to show that he played the picture. I don't know what the facts are with respect to actual play of the picture. For all I know, it may have been pulled before it was played. All this means is, if this sort of thing goes into evidence at this time, that we have to get hold of Breyer on some fact that it seems to me is inconsequential in any event, [fol. 4163] and then opens up additional possible rebuttal. This should have been, if it was thought to be of any real importance, it should have been covered at the time Breyer was on the stand. That is my point.

The Court: Counsel just stated he obtained this photostat after the time Breyer testified.

Mr. Wright: In what way does it impeach Breyer's testimony?

The Court: I don't know that it does. You claim that it does not. If it does not, it doesn't do any harm.

Mr. Wright: It just clutters up the record and gives Counsel an opportunity for making an argument based on inferences, when we had a witness here who could have stated the facts had they been inquired into.

The Court: It is not sufficiently proved anyway, so I will sustain the objection at this time.

Mr. McClennen: I understand your Honor's ruling was, so far as ~~materiality is concerned~~—

The Court: Not the best evidence.

Mr. McClennen: Yes. But I don't want to get the custodian of this newspaper here, if it is going to be excluded when that comes in.

The Court: No, I shall receive it.

[fol. 4164] Mr. Wright: You won't have to get the custodian of the newspaper here. We do want a reasonable opportunity to find out what the circumstances were about that particular ad. It will not be necessary.

Mr. McClennen: On the question if it was in the newspaper?

Mr. Wright: If you will give us a copy of it we will be glad to send it to Mr. Breyer and find out what the facts are.

Mr. McClennen: You will send it to the newspaper, I take it?

Mr. Wright: I assume Mr. Breyer would know whether he saw it in the newspaper at that time or not, or whether he made such an ad in the newspaper, and whether or not the picture was played. Those are all things we would want to know about.

Mr. McClennen: This question, as far as using the photostat is concerned, would it not satisfy you if we secured the certificate of the newspaper that this is a photostatic copy?

Mr. Wright: Surely. No question about that.

The Court: And you can send it to Breyer and see what his intention was.

Mr. McClennen: The statement of Mr. Breyer, to which I direct attention in this, is on page 1035 of testimony [fol. 4165] before your Honor, where the question is: "Did you ever get Warner's product for the 1935-'36 season?

A. I did not."

We do not charge Mr. Breyer with intentional falsehood in that. We wish to prove that he made a mistake.

The Court: The omission in this one picture?

Mr. McClennen: The omission in stating he did not get Warner product.

The Court: The omission states the one particular product, you mean?

Mr. McClennen: Any Warner product of that season.

The Court: That is true. You claim he only got one, don't you, one Warner product?

Mr. McClennen: I cannot, at the moment, assert how many he got. I don't know. I am asserting that he got the contract approved September 5, and played the next day, and that the exhibits in evidence in this 135 series show the cancellation later of this contract and the submission of the Schine contract, which I infer was dated in accordance with the original contract, and that that accounts for that date. I have nothing in support of that assertion [fol. 4166] except what appears on the face of the papers.

The Court: Well, we come back to what I had in mind. What your contention is, I understand here, is, so far as you have been able to establish, there is one of these pictures he did actually play included in the contract with Warner. The only one this advertisment purports to show is the one in the public ad, the showing of one picture?

Mr. McClennen: This particular publication shows the showing of one of these pictures and we argue from that, inferentially, that he got this contract.

The Court: I understand that.

Mr. McClennen: That had been approved for the whole line of 1935-36 Warner and First National productions.

The Court: All right.

J. MYER SCHINE resumed the stand in behalf of the Defendants, having been previously sworn, was examined and testified further as follows:

Direct examination (Continued).

[fol. 4167] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Schine, returning from Bucyrus to Bellefontaine, I show you a copy of Plaintiff's Exhibit 170, a letter of October 21, 1932, from Mr. Sichelman to yourself, and I direct your attention to the fourth paragraph of that letter and I ask you whether Mr. Granger, on or prior to October 21, 1932, promised that Fox would not sell any one in Bellefontaine? Read the letter before you answer the question.

The Court: Let me see: Who do you claim Mr. Granger is?

Mr. McClennen: This is Mr. James R. Granger, then of Fox.

The Court: A Manager?

Mr. McClennen: A Manager. And this letter was in the group that your Honor admitted over our objection at the end of the plaintiff's case.

The Court: Purporting to be from Mr. Granger?

Mr. McClennen: To Mr. Sichelman from Mr. Granger, and it contains a statement——

The Court: Mr. Sichelman is who?

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Schelman was Mr. Granger's assistant.

The Witness: I take it the name instead of Schwartz is Smertz; isn't it?

Mr. McClennen:

Q. Well, my question to you is: Did Mr. James R. Granger, on or prior to October 21, 1932, promise you that Fox would not sell any one in Bellefontaine?

A. No.

[fol. 4168] Q. Did you in any conversation with Mr. Schmerz inform Mr. Schmerz that Mr. Granger had made such a promise?

A. No.

Mr. Wright: Can I see the exhibit, please?

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment, I can give you a copy.

Mr. Wright: Oh.

Q. Mr. Schine, did you, in the course of negotiations for the acquisition of any theatre, at any time say to the prospective seller that if he did not sell to you he would have difficulty in getting product for his theatre?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you say to any such person that if he did not sell to you you would open up another theatre?

A. No.

Q. In the town?

A. No.

Q. Have you told any one else to make any such statements in negotiating for theatres for you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you at the time of any such negotiations aware that any one had made any such statements?

A. I was not.

Q. Have you in any way approved of the making of any such statements?

[fol. 4169] A. I have not.

Mr. Wright: That is objected to, calling for a conclusion.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Wright: That is a matter for the Judge, what happened, what he did.

The Court: State if he has ever done anything in connection with any such statement.

Q. Have you said to anyone that you approved of their making or having made any such statements?

A. I never did so.

Q. Have you had any conversation with any employee of Columbia, Fox, Loew's, Paramount, R.K.O., United Artists, Universal and Vitagraph, that any one of them should not deal with a competing exhibitor to you?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that calls for a conclusion, based on the series of unspecified conversations on unspecified subjects. What is the net conclusion to be drawn from all these negotiations he may have had with these people is something, I suppose, that could only be drawn from a consideration of what was actually said and what the circumstances were under which these conversa- [fol. 4170] tions occurred.

Mr. McClennen: These are very specific conversations that I am asking him about, namely, the conversations that never occurred.

The Court: Just read the whole question.

(Question read.)

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Have you written any such statement to any of them?
A. No.

Q. Have you said to anyone of them that if they made such a sale you would not buy from them elsewhere in your circuit?
A. No, sir.

Mr. McClennen: That concludes the direct examination.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Schine, the figures on this Exhibit D-150, that first column showing the town, next column the theatre, then the column "Cost of Land and Building Acquired", does that cost in that column represent the cost of the land on which the particular theatre named there was located was acquired?

A. That cost represents the land and/or land and building.

Q. Well, in every case is it the land on which the theatre [fol. 4171] was erected or does it include other land?

A. Well, it includes the land on which the building was erected plus the building itself, if we bought a building already erected.

Q. And does it include whatever land you might have acquired in connection with that theatre even though you did not erect a theatre on it?

A. Well, in specific cases it probably—on this list there is no such an item.

Q. Well, how about the Auburn Theatre there at Auburn, that $83,500, does that represent the cost of the land on which the Auburn Theatre stands?

A. On the Auburn land, no, that does not represent the land alone, but it represents the land as originally bought plus the carrying charge of the land.

Q. What do you mean by the carrying charge of the land?

A. Well, taxes, interest and insurance.

Q. And does it include other land that was bought in Auburn on which a theatre wasn't built?

A. Yes, for exit purposes.

Q. Does it include the church property you bought there?

A. That is the church property.

The Court: What is the church property?

The Witness: On which the theatre is built.

Q. And that property was bought when?

[fol. 4172] A. In 1926, I believe.

Q. Do you remember when it was bought with reference to the time that you got the Palace from Schwartzwolder?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long before was it?

A. At about the same time.

Q. Was it before or afterwards?

A. It was just before.

Q. And at that time there was nothing on the property but an abandoned church?

A. A church, yes, sir.

Q. And you didn't buy that property, then, did you, for the purpose of conducting any services there?

A. No.

Q. Then after that you said it was when you made the deal with Schwartzwolder for the Palace?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, on these items that you have got listed here as leased properties, what does that figure that is included under the heading, that is stated under the heading "Additions and Improvements" cover?

A. Well, that means putting in extra equipment and decorating and making such improvements as we thought would be necessary.

Q. Does that include the cost of the leases?

[fol. 4173] A. Well, it wouldn't because the leases would be written down by that time. This was gotten up recently.

Q. Well, do you know whether it includes or not what was paid for a particular lease in the cases where you paid something for a lease?

A. It does not.

Q. Are you sure of that?

A. Well, I can see by the figure this cost us a great deal more than that. The lease cost us a great deal——

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Schine, we are all interested in what you say.

Q. Calling your attention again to Auburn, the Palace Theatre doesn't appear on the list at all, does it?

A. In there (indicating).

Q. It is there, yes. The item $14,500, you say that doesn't include what, if anything, was paid to Mr. Schwartzwolder for his lease?

A. No.

Q. That consists of what?

A. This consists of improvements made on the Palace Theatre.

Q. What improvements?

A. Well, we put in new seats and decorated it and fixed up the ladies' and men's room.

Q. When was that?

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Schine, it is difficult for the Court [fol. 4174] to hear and for us to hear.

The Witness: Pardon me. That was after we acquired the Palace.

Q. You don't remember when, though?

A. Well, this would be in 1926, I would say.

Q. Well, do you know?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was what you spent in 1926 in remodeling that theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And nothing has been spent since then, is that right?

A. Well, it is possible that instead of $14,500 it may be a little less and after that we would have mostly maintenance.

Q. Well, you have your maintenance expense in that figure there?

A. Well, by maintenance I don't mean taking care of it, I mean by retouching, redecorating, something like that, but we haven't done very much with it since.

Q. Items of that kind are all included under the heading "Additions and Improvements?"

A. No, this was the basic cost.

Q. Well, then, there was nothing, that column doesn't represent anything done by way of additions and improvements since you got the Palace from Schwartzwolder, is [fol. 4175] that right?

A. No, it does not.

Q. And where a theatre doesn't appear on the list at all, that means nothing was spent with respect to the additions or improvements as to that particular theatre?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, because it leaves out of consideration those theatres that were bought and disposed of and so are not any longer on the list.

Mr. Wright: I am trying to find out what is on and what isn't on.

The Court: He can explain that.

The Witness: What was the question, please?

(Question read.)

The Witness: I wouldn't know that, if they omitted to list the theatre then, of course, it just wouldn't be on the list.

Q. What is that list supposed to represent?

A. This list was taken off our books and represents exactly as stated on the top of the column.

Q. Well, is that supposed to include whatever your books show by way of additions and improvements or original expenditures on all of the theatres that you now have under lease or ownership?

A. Unless—these were taken off the books.

[fol. 4176] The Court: The books were present, and it refers to your present holdings, is that it?

The Witness: Yes.

Q. All of them, is that right?

A. Unless some theatres were omitted—I don't know.

Q. Who prepared the data?

A. Our auditing department.

Q. They would know, wouldn't they?

A. I assume they would, yes.

Q. Now, who was it in your auditing department that prepared this, do you know?

A. Miss Thompson.

Q. Well, actually, she would be in a better position to give testimony here as to what is in and what not in that list, and what it covers than you would, wouldn't she?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to. A witness isn't called upon to conclude whether she is a better witness than he is or not.

The Court: Ask him if he knows personally about these expenses and expenditures.

The Witness: I requested such a list and this was submitted to me.

Q. All you know is that is what you got?
A. Yes.

Q. Now, as to these acquisitions, this—or, this first [fol. 4177] column here on your own theatres "Cost of Land and Building Acquired", in each instance that may or may not represent an expenditure by one or more of your companies, isn't that right?
A. I don't quite understand the question.

Mr. Wright: Would you read it?

(Question read.)

The Witness: That is right.

Q. And in many instances it represents amounts that were invested by somebody else before you ever took over the property, isn't that right?
A. You mean in this column?
Q. Yes.
A. No, this represents only what we put in the properties.
Q. Well, then, your former answer was incorrect.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, that comment is objected to.

Q. This column then represents what you paid for the property?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And in the case where you bought a corporation which happened to own the theatre that you acquired——
A. Yes, sir.
Q. These figures represent what you paid for the cost or what you paid for the stock in the corporation?
[fol. 4178] A. That is right.

Q. And that may or may not represent the amount of money that went into any particular theatre, is that right?

A. That represents the amount we paid.

Q. And I say you are not in a position to say what, if any relation the amount you paid for the stock of a particular theatre holding corporation has to what the investment was in any one of those theatres, is that right?

The Court: If the company whose stock was bought owned more than one theatre——

Mr. Wright: Perhaps I can make it clear this way:

Q. The figures that you have recorded here are simply the amounts that you paid, that is, when you bought a corporation that owned a theatre, for the stock interest in the corporation that you acquired, is that right?

Mr. McClennen: You are now referring to that first column?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Witness: That is right.

Q. And those figures, the relation between those figures and what that corporation or somebody else may have actually put into the property is something you are not in a position to state at this time, is that correct, something that isn't disclosed by that list?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, those amounts that were expended, you didn't [fol. 4179] mean to have the Court understand, when you referred in your direct testimony, in saying you had spent this money, that any of it represented a personal investment on your part, did you?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to. What he meant to have the Court understand or infer is not for the witness to say. What he said is important.

The Court: Ask him if he understood he was testifying to that effect.

Q. Is it your testimony, Mr. Schine, that these amounts that are listed on Defendants' Exhibit D-150 were expended personally by you?

A. No.

Q. None of them were, were they?

A. No.

Q. And the money that was put in was furnished by various corporations in which you had some interest, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In some cases, and in other cases it was borrowed?

A. Well, we spent the money.

Q. I understand the money was spent. I am talking about the source. There is nothing here to show how much was borrowed or how much came out of the——

[fol. 4180] A. That is right.

Q. —company itself. And it all come out of the pockets of the people who patronized your theatres eventually, didn't it?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

The Court: I don't see how it makes any difference.

Mr. Wright: I understood the purpose of these elaborate figures here was to show that Mr. Schine had made some special contribution of some $6,000,000 to the welfare of the motion picture industry.

The Court: I suppose the corporation did probably expend its money for a certain purpose. That purpose would be—the money was to be derived through industry. It is not claimed he did this personally, that his company purchased or obtained these theatres.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. And all the money——

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment before you go on with the question. The purpose was the one that we stated.

The Court: What?

Mr. McClennen: The purpose was the one that we stated, that the improvements in theatres and building of theatres [fol. 4181] above the original cost had in the case of owned property amounted to $3,506,600, that was the purpose.

The Court: I think it was actually paid out of the company.

Mr. Wright: He hasn't answered that.

The Court: The answer is it was paid out of the company.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. And all the money paid by these companies came from the motion picture operations of those companies, is that right?

A. Part of it came from stockholders that we sold the stock to.

Q. Other than that?

A. Other than that it was from the company.

Q. And those companies were all companies engaged in the motion picture theatre operation?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was their source of income?

A. Motion picture operation or real estate.

Q. Real estate operated incidentally or in connection with the operation of theatres?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you got any non-theatre investments in there?

A. Not here, but we have real estate that are not theatres.

[fol. 4182] Q. Did you ever see the answers to the interrogatories that were filed in this case by and on behalf of your companies?

A. No.

Q. I want to call your attention to the fact that you stated in response, the defendant stated in response to interrogatory No. 19, as to theatres built by the Schine defendants, that the cost of construction, including land, building and equipment of the Auburn Theatre was $242,716.88. Do you recall seeing that figure before?

A. You mean this figure here? $245,000 is given here. (Referring to exhibit.)

[fol. 4183] Q. I was calling your attention to the figure that you supplied in answer to interrogatories. It was $250,859 cost for construction, including land, building and equipment.

A. Well, this is the——.

Q. I also call your attention to the figures on your Exhibit 150 here, which show the cost of the land as $83,500 and the cost of the building and improvements since acquisition, $245,000.

A. Well, I don't know what the interrogatories are, but these are the statements given to me by our auditing department.

Q. When did you say that that theatre was finished?

A. It was finished, I believe, in '38.

Q. Have you made any major improvements in it since '38?

A. Well, we add on now and then.

Q. I say have you made any major improvements in the Auburn since then?

A. Yes.

Q. How much have you spent on improvements?

A. I haven't the figures here, except this list.

Q. Well, have you figures that would show? You know you haven't spent more than a few thousand dollars in that respect, don't you?

A. Well, I don't think we spent a lot of money. We [fol. 4184] installed a number of items that cost a few thousand dollars.

Q. Well, is there any way that you can, as you sit there, reconcile the discrepancy between the total of $320,000 that is shown as the investment there and $242,000 figure that was furnished in the answer to the interrogatory?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to as assuming that there is a discrepancy, when it is obvious from the face of the papers that there is no such discrepancy. One was the cost of the acquisition of land and such building as was on it, to which is added the cost of a new building and improvement. The other shows land and new building, if it was a new building.

The Court: Without equipment, you mean?

Mr. McClennen: No, with equipment also.

The Court: I don't see the distinction you make then.

Mr. McClennen: Well, let ~~me~~ illustrate what I mean. If they bought an existing piece of property for $83,000 and demolished a building, leaving only the vacant land with, we will say, $27,000, I am imagining that, if the cost of the land, then added to that the cost of the new building, [fol. 4185] appears in the answer to the interrogatory. The two things are not stating the same thing.

The Court: I suppose there are times it will show the both things, the total cost, and of course the total cost would include the building that was demolished, in addition to the land. It would include the valuation of $83,000.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, the interrogatory——

The Court: I don't know how these headings are described.

The Witness: The headings, your Honor,—— (Handing papers to the Court.)

Mr. McClennen: The interrogatory asks a different question than the one covered.

The Court: It says, "Cost of land and building acquired". The next is, "Cost of new building and improvement". It would make a total in that case of $255,000.

Mr. McClennen: Yes. If your Honor please, if what is asked in the interrogatory for the cost of the land and the new building put upon it, it is a different thing from the original investment than has been shown to be stock in the corporation, owning the property.

The Court: Building and land, they both are real estate, [fol. 4186] I suppose. I don't know. In Auburn, cost of land and building, $83,500, cost of building and improvements since acquisition, that means cost of land and building would be $38,000. How does your interrogatory read?

Mr. Wright: The interrogatory answer reads: "Cost of construction, including land, building and equipment, $242,716.88".

The Court: If it included building in that land the total would be the same. That figure is $242,000.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, this original cost in Exhibit D-150 in that column would include the land and the church upon it.

The Court: It says so at the top, "Land and building".

Mr. McClennen; The church burned down, and in the answer to the interrogatory they did not include what they had paid for the burned church. That included what they had paid for the vacant land, plus the building they put on.

The Court: As I said before, it is a question of whether they can include the real estate in both. Read that caption again, Mr. Wright.

Mr. Wright: The answer states, "Cost of construction, [fol. 4187] including land, building and equipment, $242,716.88.

The Court: All right.

Mr. McClennen: That is briefly put. That answer does not include the church burned down.

The Court: Whether it does or does not, it might and it might not.

Mr. McClennen: I was making my comment because of the assertion there was an inconsistency between the two figures, assuming there was no such inconsistency.

The Court: Ordinarily, if you are buying two pieces of land, buying that property and land, including it as part of the land, you speak of it as the land.

Mr. Wright: Let me see if I can find out from the witness what actually occurred.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. This $83,500 item is that what you paid for that land that the old church was on at the time you acquired it before you got the Palace from Schwartzwolder?

A. No.

Q. What did you pay for that?

A. I can't tell you, but this figure appears high and I shall be glad to call up and get the information you want.

Q. I don't want the information. I want to know what [fol. 4188] you know about the figures on the list.

A. I am not in position to tell you now but I shall be glad to find out for you.

Q. You don't know what you paid for the property with the church on it at the time you bought it?

A. No, I don't recall it.

Q. And that property just stood idle there until 1938, didn't it? You did nothing with that?

A. No.

Q. The building on there was virtually worthless, was it not?

A. Well, it was not worthless.

Q. Well, was it used for anything?

A. No.

Q. Just stood there?

A. Stood there.

Q. And then the building burned down?

A. That is right.

Q. In '38?

A. No, it was a little earlier than that, I believe.

Q. Can you recall whether you collected insurance on the building?

A. Yes, we collected some insurance.

Q. Do you know how much?

A. I do not recall.

Q. Was that deducted from the cost of what you paid there?

[fol. 4189] A. I cannot say by these figures, but I will have it in the morning for you.

Q. If somebody wanted to know what the actual cost of that land on which the Auburn Theatre is built, and the building, your figure of $242,000 that you furnished in the interrogatory would be about right, wouldn't it?

A. I wouldn't know that at this time. I will know it in the morning though.

Q. Calling your attention to this item on the Colonia Theatre at Norwich: You say cost of land and building acquired, $80,700. That theatre was acquired, was it not, from the corporation?

A. Yes.

Q. You did not buy any land and buildings. What you bought was stock in a corporation? You bought a controlling interest, didn't you?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, is $80,700 what you paid for the controlling interest in that corporation?

A. For all of it.

Q. All of what?

A. All of the stock, assets.

Q. All of the stock that you bought?

A. Yes.

Q. You don't know how much you paid for the control?

[fol. 4190] A. I do not know.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Schine, continue to remember that you are testifying chiefly for the Court to hear and not Mr. Wright.

The Witness: All right.

The Court: I can hear him. Maybe you can't.

The Witness: Mr. Wright is so close.

The Court: How large a place is Norwich?

The Witness: Norwich is 8,000.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. As far as any figures on this paper, Defendants' Exhibit D-150, are concerned they do not show what the Colonia Theatre, land and theatre building, actually cost, do they, to construct?

A. The Colonia cost much more than is indicated in this column.

Q. Just answer the question.

Mr. Wright: Will you repeat that?

(Last question read.)

A: No.

Q. Do you have records, Mr. Schine, which show the actual construction costs?

A. No.

Q. Those improvements you have there for the Colonia, that shows $29,500, and those represent improvements made [fol. 4191] on the Colonia Theatre?

A. It does.

Q. And I believed you testified on your direct examination those were made all in 1938 or the major part of them?

A. Not all. Major part.

Q. What was it you did then?

A. We re-seated, redecorated.

Q. What do you mean when you say re-seated?

A. Plush seats.

Mr. McClennen: Show that the answer was broken off because it was not completed when the next question was put.

The Court: It was re-seated.

Mr. Wright: It is probably obvious. I wanted to get a definition of the term before we left it.

The Witness: Re-seated.

Q. What do you mean? New seats?

A. Yes.

The Court: Go on.

A. (Continuing) Redecorated and various other improvements in the public spaces, like the wash rooms and carpets and a marquee.

Q. And how much did those improvements cost you just described?

A. Well, I haven't got the figures here. The total spent [fol. 4192] is $29,500 all together.

Q. Yes. Will you answer the question?

Mr. Wright: Will you read the question?

(The question was read.)

A. Well, I would say probably cost around $20,000.

Q. I believe you testified yesterday with respect to reseating one of your theatres at Auburn, the Jefferson?

A. Yes.

Q. When you said re-seating then did you mean buying new seats?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. That was probably about '39 or '40.

Q. And when you did that you actually took out the old seats and put in new ones?

A. Yes.

Q. That is what you call re-seating?

A. Yes.

Q. You just did not recover them?

A. No.

The Court: Did you put $100,000 into a theatre in a place like Norwich?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: $83,000 is for a site and building?

The Witness: Yes.

[fol. 4193] The Court: It seems such a large amount to me for the size of the place.

The Witness: You can't get anything for less, if you want a nice theatre.

The Court: It is a lot of money to put into a place of that size.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Calling your attention to Lockport: I understand that you first bought the Temple there?

A. Yes.

Q. And then you converted—what was it—a skating rink into the Rialto?

A. We bought a building and built a theatre there, used the old walls and the roof.

Q. At about that time, as I understood your testimony, the people in the town there built the Palace?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember which project started first there?

A. Well, the foundation of the Palace was started six or eight years before by a different company and then it stopped. They didn't do anything then.

Q. And it was revived at about the time that you started to convert the Rialto?

A. Yes.

Q. A little bit before, wasn't it?

[fol. 4194] A. I wouldn't remember that.

Q. And then when it was completed it was operated by Paramount?

A. Yes.

Q. And at that time Paramount was out of your circuit, was it not?

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. That is objected to as assuming that Paramount had ever been in the circuit.

The Court: Let him ask if Paramount was furnishing him pictures at that time.

Q. Were you buying Paramount features in your theatres you were then operating?

A. We bought Paramount pictures every year except one year or so.

Q. What year was that?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Might have been the year in which the operation of the Palace was taken over?

A. I don't recall what year it was.

Q. And then shortly after that you made a pooling arrangement with Paramount, isn't that right?

A. Not shortly after that.

Q. Well, how long after?

A. Well, I believe it was about two years after that.

Q. That you made the pool?

[fol. 4195] We made a partnership.

Q. And under which you split the profits from the town 50-50 between you and Paramount, is that right?

A. There weren't any profits to split.

Q. Well, whatever was earned was to be divided equally between you and Paramount?

A. That was the intent, but there were losses instead.

Q. You had the only theatres there, is that right?

A. No, Mr. Lanigan had a theatre there.

Q. Are you talking about the period before or after you made the pool?

A. That was before.

Q. And the agreement which you made, the pooling agreement, called for an equal division of the profits between you and Paramount, isn't that right?

A. That is what the partnership called for, yes.

Q. And you continued to manage the theatre?

A. Yes.

Q. And bought the films for them?

A. Yes.

Q. And you didn't mean to suggest here that there were no profits after the pooling arrangement was made, did you?

A. I do.

Q. There was none?

A. No profit, but losses.

[fol. 4196] Q. During that time, however, you received fees for booking the films?

A. I received a fee of $30 a week for managing the town.

Q. And you booked films too?

A. And booked films.

Q. Then you also testified, I think, that while this pool was in operation you kept the Hi-Art and the Temple both closed, weren't they?

A. The Hi-Art was closed before the partnership took place.

Q. Just answer the question.

Mr. McClennen: That, I submit, answers the question.

The Court: Were they both closed during the time of the partnership, that was the question, both the Hi-Art and the Temple.

A. Yes.

Q. And the Temple was then later converted into commercial property?

A. No, it was demolished.

Q. It was demolished and the Hi-Art stayed closed until when?

A. Well, it was opened in about '33, I would say.

Q. October, '33?

A. I don't remember the month.

Q. And when was it that you closed the Palace?

A. When?

Q. Yes.

[fol. 4197] A. In December, 1932, I believe.

Q. That was when you left the premises, but had you closed before then? Were you still operating?

A. We left forcibly.

Q. You say you were operating up until the time you left?

A. Yes.

Q. You hadn't closed it before then?

A. No.

Q. And then how long did this pooling arrangement with Paramount continue?

A. Until Paramount refused to put up more money.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike that.

The Court: The time.

Q. Just answer the question.

A. It terminated about that time.

Q. About the same time?

A. Yes.

Q. Then you got out of the Palace?

A. Yes.

Q. Then this pool with RKO, you say, was made in 1935?

A. In Syracuse. Yes.

Q. Did you have a pool with them anywhere else?

A. No.

Q. And before that time you had been operating the Eckel Theatre there?

[fol. 4198] A. The Eckel Theatre.

Q. RKO had all the other first-run theatres, except Loew's?

A. Loew's, yes.

Q. And that pool operates through the S. K. E. Operating Company?

A. Yes.

Q. And you own 30 per cent of the stock of that corporation?

A. There are two types of stocks there, A and B. We get 30 per cent of the profits. Originally it was 40 and 60. They got 60 and we got 40. The directorship, however, is equally divided, 2 and 2.

Q. Who are the two Directors who represent your interests?

A. I think myself is one and Mr. McKay is another, for convenience, living in New York.

Q. And the RKO directors?

A. They are—I know Mr. Kingsberg is one and an attorney, I think it is Whittman, is the other.

Q. And this division of profits that occurs through payment of dividends on stock, or is there some agreement in addition to the stock ownership with respect to how profits are to be divided?

A. Are you speaking of the first arrangement?

Q. Let us begin with the first arrangement.

A. I would like to have that question again, please.

(Question read.)

[fol. 4199] A. There is an agreement whereby we were to get 40 per cent and RKO would get 60 per cent.

Q. This is a written agreement you are talking about?

A. Yes.

Q. Who were the parties to that agreement?

A. I think it was RKO was one and one of our corporation was the other.

Q. Then is there another agreement in effect now, or modification of that agreement?

A. Yes.

Q. You still have a written agreement, then, that covers the——

A. Yes

Q. —division of profits?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you produce a copy of that agreement for us?

A. Not here, but I assume I could.

Q. You have one?

A. I think so.

Q. With reference to Canandaigua, Lake Theatre, I recall you said you opened it and then closed it, on your direct testimony; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. How long was it you kept it open?

A. Several months.

[fol. 4200] Q. How many?

A. I would say about four or five months.

Q. Do you have an accurate record of that period?

A. I haven't here of that period but I can find out exactly the dates.

Q. Those few months are the only time it has ever been operated?

A. No, we tried again several times.

Q. You refer to a Veterans Hospital there that had something to do with your deciding to build that theatre?

A. Yes.

Q. Then that Veterans Hospital was built, was it not?

A. It was.

Q. So that there wasn't any change in your plans caused by any change in the plans for the Veterans Hospital, is that right?

A. I don't quite get your question.

[fol. 4201] Q. Will you read it?

(Question read.)

A. The plans were changed by lack of business.

Q. Just answer the question.

A. Well, I think I have answered it.

Q. Will you repeat the question to him?

(Question read.)

A. The Veterans Hospital caused us to build the theatre.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike it out. Will you attempt to answer the question?

The Witness: If you will ask it to me so I can understand it a little better, I will try to answer it.

Q. Listen to it carefully.

(Question read.)

A. Why, I don't know as the Veterans Hospital changed any plans.

Q. You know they didn't?

A. Most likely didn't, I don't know anything about it, except they were to build one.

Q. And they built it?

A. Well, they built it and it didn't help our business.

Q. Now, you remember testifying this afternoon about completing this theatre in Salamanca, the last one there?

[fol. 4202] A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said, I believe 1939?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Actually it wasn't completed until about three years later, was it?

A. In Salamanca?

Q. Yes.

A. I think you are wrong, Mr. Wright, pardon me. I don't want to question you, but when you said I said it was completed in 1939, I didn't say that as far as I recollect.

Q. What did you say?

A. I don't remember.

Q. What is your best recollection now as to what you said?

A. Regarding what, the Salamanca Theatre?

Q. Yes, when it was completed and opened?

A. I said it was completed about 1940 or '41.

Q. That is what you said, is it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, what is the fact?

A. I have my notes here. I can give you the information you want. It was finished in 1942. It was held up by some material they could not get according to my notes.

[fol. 4203] Q. Now, you have a set of records there which contain an accurate record of these dates you testified to?

A. Regarding the completion of the Salamanca Theatre?

Q. Yes, do those appear in your records, isn't that right?

A. Yes.

Q. If you wanted to give the Court an accurate statement of when these openings occurred you could have supplied an accurate record, couldn't you, and wouldn't have to rely on your memory?

A. I don't feel as though I wanted to delay the answer, it is about correct.

Q. You haven't answered the question. Will you read it?

A. I shall be glad to do so.

Q. I am not asking you to do it; I am asking you if you could not have done it instead of getting on the stand here and relying — your memory?

A. I could have done it. I could have referred to the record.

Q. Are there any of those other dates you gave us about openings or starting the construction that you think are as wrong as the one you gave on Salamanca?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, the witness is not called upon to compare, in a long examination, the different answers given for the different places, the forms of the [fol. 4204] questions varying as to those places.

The Court: I will let him answer whether there is any variance in the dates in the construction of other theatres.

Mr. McClennen: That wasn't the question I was objecting.

The Court: Or the comparisons.

The Witness: I don't think there was any inaccuracies in my answers.

The Court: The answer was it was opened in 1941, as I have it.

The Witness: Well, it was finished in 1942. There was some material they had to have.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, the testimony as to Salamanca was not in error as to date as given by the witness.

The Court: My record is its opening was in 1941; it was bought in 1927, opened in 1941; the land was bought in 1927 and the opening was in 1941, as I have it.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, the note that we have is that the construction started——

The Court: Are you reading his testimony?

Mr. McClennen: No, I was reading from a note, in order that there might be no misunderstanding as to what the tes- [fol. 4205] timony was, and I, of course, haven't the stenographer's notes here, but the note that was made at the time was that he stated the construction started in 1939 or 1940, and opened a year later.

The Court: That would be 1941, wouldn't it?

The Witness: Opened a year later. It was opened in 1942.

The Court: 1941 would be the same date I have.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. You testified, didn't you Mr. Schine, with respect to the time when you got a permit for that theatre, did you not?

A. No.

Q. You didn't testify to that?

A. In Salamanca?

Q. Do you recall when you got the permit to start construction?

A. I do not.

Q. Does October, 1941, sound about right, is that right?

A. I don't know whether that would be the date or not.

Q. It might have been, you didn't start construction until the fall of 1941, is that right?

A. No, we started earlier than that.

Q. Did you get a permit before October, 1941?

A. I don't know when the permit was got.

Q. You usually get a permit before you start construction, [fol. 4206] don't you?

A. Well, that is the usual procedure.

The Court: You must have some records to show.

The Witness: I haven't any records here, your Honor.

The Court: I mean you must have it somewhere?

The Witness: Yes, we would have a record in the office.

The Court: When you commenced construction and whether it was October?

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. And you opened in the fall of 1942, according to the best of your recollection now, is that right?

A. In the summer of 1942, I believe.

Q. It was after August, wasn't it?

A. No, it was opened in August, not after.

Q. August what?

A. 1942.

Q. Do you know the date?

A. No.

Q. Now, with respect to this conversation you had, the conversations you had with Mr. Tishkorf on Rochester, as I understand you, all you told him about building a theatre near his Murray Theatre was that it would be foolish for you to do it, is that right?

A. Near the Murray Theatre?

[fol. 4207] Q. Yes.

A. It would be foolish for him to do it?

Q. I understood you testified what you told him, all you told him about building a theatre near his Murray Theatre was that it would be a foolish thing for you to do?

A. Yes, that is what I told him.

Q. And that is all you told him about it, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And had you ever actually had any negotiations with respect to building a theatre near his Murray Theatre?

A. No.

Q. Never did?

A. Never did.

Q. Not at any time?

A. I was offered theatres in every part of Rochester, but I never gave it any consideration.

Q. Well, were you offered one near the Murray?

A. Well, I was offered in every part of the city. It probably included in that section as well.

Q. Are you referring now to offers of existing theatres?

A. No, new theatres.

Q. Somebody offered to build a new theatre for you?

A. That is right.

Q. Near the Murray Theatre, is that right?

[fol. 4208] A. I don't know whether it was near the Murray. I never went out to look at the site.

Q. You knew that the site that you talked about was right around the corner from the Murray on Lyle Avenue, didn't you, whether you looked at it or not?

A. Well, I did not know how close it was to the Murray.

Q. Well, you knew where the location was, didn't you?

A. No, I didn't go to look at the location.

Q. Just answer the question.

A. What was your question?

Mr. Wright: Will you read it?

(Question read.)

The Witness: I knew in what section of the town it was; approximately.

Q. And you know Mr. Goldstein?

A. Which Mr. Goldstein are you referring to?

Q. Well, what Mr. Goldsteins do you know in Rochester?

A. I know a lot of them.

Q. The one you discussed the location new the Murray Theatre with?

A. Well, I talked to many people in Rochester, and I don't remember their names.

Q. You don't remember whether these discussions you had with respect to a theatre near the Murray were with Goldstein or some one else, do you?

[fol. 4209] A. No.

Q. Do you remember when they occurred?

A. No, I don't.

Q. As a matter of fact, they occurred about the same time that you were negotiating with Tishkorf and Fogel, isn't that right?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Would you say they didn't occur then?

A. At one period every builder was offering me theatres in every part of the city.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike it out.

Q. Just see if you can answer the question.

The Court: Strike it out.

Mr. Wright: Will you read him the last question?

(Question read.)

The Witness: In reference to what theatre are you referring?

Q. The construction of a new theatre near the Murray?

A. I don't recall considering a new theatre near the Murray. I gave no consideration to offers of that type.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike it out.

Q. I did not ask you what you were considering.

The Court: Just answer the question and save time.

The Witness: I would say "No."

Q. No what, that you did not have any negotiations with respect to a theatre near the Murray at or about the time [fol. 4210] you were negotiating with Fogel and Tishkorf for the Webster, is that your testimony?

A. That I didn't have?

Q. Yes, your testimony is now you didn't have at or about that time, is that right?

A. Well, we—I can't remember when it took place—we had negotiations or we talked about theatres most every time I was in Rochester. Whether it was before or after I met Tishkorf, I can't recall.

Q. Now, you say, as I understood your direct testimony, when you first talked to those people about the Webster you told them that was no place to put a theatre and you didn't want any part of it, you didn't want any interest in it, is that right?

A: I didn't tell them in that way, Mr. Wright.

Q. You told them you were not interested in acquiring any interest in the theatre, isn't that correct?

A. That is right.

Q. Then later you told them you would take a half interest, is that right.

A. That is right.

Q. And the deal that you made, you got a half interest in the property and you got 5 per cent of the gross for booking the films, is that it?

A. Yes, and we invested $10,000.

[fol. 4211] Q. When you say you invested, you mean you advanced half of the first year's rent, is that right?

A. Well, I had to give them that, not the first year's, no.

Q. Is that the kind of expenditure you have listed on this Exhibit D-150 as an investment or cost of land or building or leases?

A. Do you see the Webster Theatre there?

Q. I am just asking you. Just answer my question.

A. No.

Q. You don't regard that as a capital investment, is that right?

A. No, not advanced rent.

Q. And part of the deal was that they were to get pictures to play with the Dixie and be able to play half the Dixie's product at the Webster?

A. Half the State.

Q. The State, I beg your pardon?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So what it came down to, wasn't it, you gave them half of the State's pictures for five per cent of the gross?

A. No.

Q. Well, that is what happened?

A. No, we gave them half of the pictures, because we were interested in the theatre. We had a half partnership in it.

[fol. 4212] Q. And you got a percentage of the gross for taking care of the booking and buying of films?

A. And supervising the management.

Q. I understood you to say the management was in the hands of Mr. Fogel?

A. Mr. Fogel, but we were supposed to supervise it.

Q. I believe you gave testimony yesterday with respect to Corning, did you not, Mr. Schine?

A. I did.

Q. You undertook to tell us how the State had been operated there before you got it and after you got it?

A. Well, I can answer that question because it is broad.

Q. Well, read the question again.

(Question read.)

A. Got it when? I got it twice.

Q. When you got it back in 1933?

A. In 1933, yes, sir.

Q. And you said, I think, that it had just been operated showing Western pictures before that or on week-ends, Westerns and some second-run.

A. You mean after,—in 1933?

Q. The prior operation, that was your statement as to the prior operation?

A. When who had it?

Q. Fox.

[fol. 4213] A. Fox,—I was informed that they were running secondary pictures and Westerns in the State Theatre.

Q. And just operating it week-ends?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then I think you said that you maintained the same policy after you took it over.

A. I think we did, yes.

Q. As a matter of fact, your policy varied widely, did it not, during the next few years that you operated that theatre?

A. Oh, we tried every policy.

Q. You didn't have any set policy for it at all?

A. No, we tried every policy, but didn't make it pay.

Q. Your statement was incorrect, that you just simply followed the policy that had been followed by Fox?

A. For a while we did.

Mr. McClennen: That question is objected to, as contrary in its assumption as to what the witness said.

The Court: He said now he followed the policy for a while.

Mr. McClennen: The question was, it was incorrect. I was objecting to the question, that it was not incorrect.

The Court: He may ask him whether he made a statement [fol. 4214] that it was incorrect.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. That is what you testified to on direct-examination, that you followed the policy Fox had followed?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I understand your testimony to be you followed a wide variety of policies?

A. Later on.

Q. How much later?

A. From time to time, if the policy we had didn't work, we tried another policy.

Q. You tried a number of policies, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir, we did.

By the Court:

Q. You mean by "policy", a change of prices?

A. A change, a different way of booking; sometimes booked it Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and then when you find it is too long a run, you would book it in for Sunday and Monday only.

Q. The policy included, you mean, the type of picture and price?

A. That is right.

Q. And the changes?

A. That is right.

[fol. 4215]. By Mr. Wright:

Q. And that policy that you ran it on was directed, was it not, toward the acquisition by you of the Palace?

A. No.

Q. Had nothing to do with that?

A. Nothing to do with it.

Q. You weren't interested in acquiring the Palace at all while you were operating the State?

A. Well, I never gave it much consideration.

Q. Just answer the question.

A. What was the question?

(Question read.)

A. No.

Q. Never had any negotiations with respect to the Palace until 1938, is that right?

A. Never had negotiations as far as I know, I have no recollection of ever having negotiations.

Q. You personally, you don't know what negotiations may have been going on with other members of the organization?

A. Well, I would know if they had.

Q. Well, do you know?

A. I do not.

Q. You mean you don't know whether there were or not?

A. I have not heard of any negotiations.

Q. You know Mr. Gerber is dead, don't you?

[fol. 4216] A. Yes, sir.

Q. Died in 1940?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know where his son is?

A. I do not.

Q. You don't know that he is overseas?

A. I do not.

Q. Now, at the time that purchase was made, Mr. Robert Gerber was engaged with his father, Mr. Frederick Gerber, in operating the theatre, was he not?

A. I understood so.

Q. Well, you knew that he was?

A. I did not, but I was told he was.

Q. Didn't he go to work for you as a manager?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that was part of the deal?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then he worked for you for two years?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then you let him go?

A. We did not let him go.

Q. He left, anyway?

A. He resigned.

Q. And at the time the deal was closed you for one knew that Mr. Robert Gerber was not interested in leaving the [fol. 4217] theatre business?

A. I did not know that.

Q. Think anybody else in your organization did?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't have any idea then as to what did transpire in the negotiations which led up to that sale?

A. Well, I have a pretty good idea.

Q. And entirely second-handed, isn't it?

A. No, I was kept informed.

Q. I say your information was second-hand?

A. Well, if you call it second-hand.

Q. And the impression you attempted to convey to the Court that the sale occurred because Mr. Gerber was ill, was entirely based on what other people told you, isn't that right?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to in that form.

The Court: I don't understand the question myself. Read the question there.

(Question read.)

The Court: I will let him say whether he did seek to convey the impression that it was because Mr. Gerber was ill that the sale took place.

The Witness: Mr. Gerber was ill, and I knew he was ill.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Just answer the question that the Court asked you.

[fols. 4218-4219] The Court: Didn't you attempt to convey the impression to the Court that it was because Mr. Gerber was ill?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Do you know the name of the man who had the negotiations? You know who gave you the information?

A. About his illness?

Q. About the deal?

A. Yes.

Q. Mr. John May, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. May is available here; there is nothing to keep him from testifying in the case?

A. I don't know of anything.

Mr. Wright: I think, your Honor, this would be a good point to suspend if you are agreeable.

The Court: All right. We will suspend until tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until Thursday, November 2nd, 1944, at 10 o'clock.)

[fol. 4220] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, November 2nd, 1944, 10 o'clock A. M.

Appearances:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Philip Marcus, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorney, in behalf of the United States.

Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rogers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Edward M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the Defendants.

[fols. 4221] PROCEEDINGS

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright, we have got over the telephone from Miss Thompson, the best we could overnight, all those figures about which you were inquiring if you find that you want them.

J. MYER SCHINE resumed the stand in behalf of the Defendants and testified further as follows:

Cross-examination (continued).

By Mr. Wright:

Q. You have the Auburn figures there now, Mr. Schine?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Will you tell us what was paid for the church property?
A. The church property cost originally $35,000. We bought additional——
Q. That was for the land and the building on it?
A. And the church, yes. We bought additional land which cost us $13,000 and another plot of ground which cost $5,316.
Q. When were those purchases made?
A. The church property was bought in——
Q. I am referring to the latter.
[fol. 4222] A. To the land that was bought in about—one piece was bought in 1937, I think, and the other piece was bought at about the same time.
Q. And that was the total cost of the land on which the Auburn Theatre stands?
A. That was the basic cost. We also spent, since its acquisition, in taxes and insurance, approximately $15,000 and the interest on the investment was $31,500.

By the Court:

Q. That would mean from the time——

A. From the time we bought the property.

Q. Up to the time of construction?

A. Up to the time of construction.

Q. Completion?

A. Yes, sir, the total is, therefore, $99,816. We received insurance, when the church burned down in the sum of $16,893.80, leaving a net investment of $82,922,20. No interest was computed on the cost of the second or third lots.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Was that interest item $31,500?

A. Correct.

Q. That was interest accrued on the $35,000 investment?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Over——

[fol. 4223] A. 15 years.

Q. 15 years?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that interest actually paid or set up according to an arbitrary formula?

A. Actually paid at 6 per cent.

Q. To whom?

A. Well, we borrow money all the time and we pay that interest.

Q. You don't know whom the money was borrowed from, or who got the interest payments?

A. Well, for a period there was a mortgage on the property and we borrowed the money from banks at 6 per cent interest.

Q. Now, then, what was the actual cost of the building and equipment?

A. The actual cost of the building and equipment was $240,000 less $316.53, which would be $239,683.47.

Q. So that the information you supplied in the answers to the interrogatories I called your attention to was to the effect that the cost of land, building and equipment was $244,000 and some odd cents, that was an in-currate figure?

A. That was 150 per cent correct.

The Court: 150 per cent?

[fol. 4224] The Witness: Yes, your Honor, and I will tell you why. They did not charge for the land when they made up that figure. They only charged for one piece of property which cost us $5,316 plus the cost of construction and equipment, and that is how they arrived at your figure.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Yes, and in furnishing that figure then the error lay in not including the total cost of the land on which the building had been constructed?

A. They did not include the cost of the basic land.

Q. Now, on these other figures that you have given us on that Exhibit D-150, where you have land cost noted there, does that also include the cost of land and cost of, let us say, unexercised options that might have been taken on land in connection with the ultimate construction?

A. No, those are figures actually taken off our books.

Q. I assume they came off the books, but I am trying to get at how your books are set up. Do you include in your land costs such costs as options which might not have been exercised or costs of plans which were not used, and things of that sort?

A. They would not be included in the cost of the land.

[fol. 4225] Q. What that shows is not the actual cost, original cost, plus taxes and interest?

A. No, it does not include the taxes.

Q. What carrying charges does it include?

A. Nothing at all in the rest of it.

Q. You mean the Auburn figure was set up in a different manner from the other figures?

A. The Auburn figure was set up exactly as I told you.

Q. Yes, well, was the same method used in general in computing the other figures that are on Exhibit D-150?

A. No, sir.

Q. Why not?

A. Well, at the time the church burned it was allocated on a basis of $35,000 with $30,000 for the building and $5,000 for the land, and when it burned—then the building was depreciated right along each year—and when it burned down, having received the $16,000 in insurance, the land did not cost anything on our books, but that is the actual cost of what we have laid out in money.

Q. Then sometimes you used the cost as it appeared on your books, and in other cases you used other costs, is that right?

A. In this case we set up the figures exactly as it cost originally.

[fol. 4226] Q. Now, all the other figures are costs as per your books?

A. As paid without including taxes or insurance on any of these properties.

Q. But including interest, is that right?

A. No interest.

Q. Not including taxes, interest, or any other carrying charges?

A. That is right.

The Court: You are referring now up to the time of operation?

The Witness: Yes. This was a vacant lot where the others are operating theatres.

The Court: That would not be charged in that way?

The Witness: That is right.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. So that actually your book cost on that land was then the $5,000 figure, approximately the $5,000 figure, that was used in supplying the answer to the interrogatory?

A. That is the way they got up the interrogatories. The actual cost is $83,500.

Q. I believe you testified yesterday, or the day before, that you entered into the theatre business in Syracuse, is that right?

A. Right.

Q. You operated or participated in the operation of the [fol. 4227] Novelty Theatre there?

A. That is right.

Q. From 1917 to 1920?

A. No, it was from 1914.

Q. From 1914 to 1917?

A. That is right.

Q. Then you said you had sold out?

A. I did.

Q. The interest you had there was a lease?

A. A lease.

Q. And did you sell the lease to somebody else?

A. I did.

Q. Who?

A. Mr. Buck and Mr. Schafer.

Q. Then when you took this theatre over in Gloversville,—I believe it was the Hippodrome?

A. That is right.

Q. —that had been operated as a theatre before you took it over, was it not?

A. It was operated by different people and closed at different times.

Q. There was a theatre there at the time you took it over?

A. Yes, just as I described it.

Q. And you bought the Glove and took over the Glove and Family in 1920?

[fol. 4228] A. In 1920.

Q. And you closed the Family and operated the Glove and Hippodrome?

A. Not immediately.

Q. How soon afterwards?

A. Well, we ran it part-time. You see,——

Q. Just answer the question.

A. All right.

Q. When did you close it finally?

A. Finally we leased our theatres in Gloversville to the Fox-Metropolitan Company.

Q. That would be in 1929?

A. That is right.

Q. By the way, you didn't sell any of your theatres to Fox, did you?

A. No.

Q. You simply made a lease?

A. Made a lease.

Q. And then you got them back when the Fox-Metropolitan theatres went into bankruptcy?

A. That is right.

Q. Then I understood you to say yesterday that you bought or leased the Lyric Theatre from Mr. Smoots and you took over a lease he had on the Memorial?

A. No, we leased the Vine Theatre from Mr. Smoots.

[fol. 4229] Q. The Vine?

A. Yes.

Q. And you took over the lease he had on the Memorial at the same time?

A. That is right.

Q. What connection did Mr. J. S. Payne of Cleveland, Ohio, have with the Vine Theatre?

A. Mr. Smoots, six months after he leased the theatre to us, died and Mrs. Smoots married Mr. Payne.

The Court: Married Mr. Payne?
The Witness: Yes. Mrs. Smoots married Mr. Payne after her husband died.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. The lease than was with Payne?
A. No.
Q. You made the lease originally with Smoots?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And then shortly after that you acquired the Lyric from Mr. Platt?
A. Yes.
Q. And then you closed the Lyric and the Memorial, did you?
A. The Memorial was closed when we first got it.
Q. Answer the question.
A. I am answering it.

Mr. McClennen: I submit that answers it.
[fol. 4230] The Court: After he got the Lyric?
The Witness: The Memorial was closed.
The Court: It was opened after you got it?
The Witness: We opened while we were remodeling the Vine and then after the Vine reopened we found the Memorial did not pay to operate it. We ran for awhile and then we closed it.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Just answer the question as to the other theatre, the Lyric.
A. The Lyric was operated for a period full time, then business was so bad that we operated it week ends.
Q. You can give the explanation when your Counsel is examining you. All I want to find out is what the facts were as to when these closings occurred.
A. All right.
Q. As I understand it, you got the Vine and the Memorial from Mr. Smoots, and at the time you got them you say the Memorial was closed and the Vine was operated?
A. That is right.

Q. You then continued to keep the Memorial closed and you continued to operate the Vine, is that right?

A. At first we made an attempt to open the Memorial and then we found it didn't pay. We closed it again.

Q. You closed it how long after you acquired it, that [fol. 4231] you closed it again?

A. Several weeks after we acquired it.

Q. Was that before or after you acquired the Lyric from Mr. Platt?

A. That was after we acquired the Lyric, because the Lyric was acquired at about the same time.

Q. Then at the time you acquired the Lyric that was operating, is that right?

A. That was operating.

Q. And then when did you close the Lyric?

A. As soon as we found it was losing money.

Q. Just give it to us in terms of a date.

A. I should say a few months after that we closed part time.

Q. A few months after you acquired it?

A. Yes.

Q. You shut it down to part time?

A. Yes.

Q. Then when was it you shut it down all together?

A. Well, when business got very bad.

Q. Just give it to us by date.

A. I am not sure of dates nor am I sure we closed it all together.

Q. You don't remember?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Platt managed all your theatres in Mt. Vernon for [fol. 4232] you after you took over the Lyric, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Still does today?

A. Yes.

The Court: Where?

Mr. Wright: In Mt. Vernon is where these theatres were located.

Q. Mr. Schine, yesterdayI think you testified that you sent some blue prints, or a blue print, to your architect in connection with Canandaigua in 1938, August, 1938. Do you recall that?

A. I don't recall testifying that way.

Q. What is your recollection now as to whether you did send the architect blue prints at that time?

A. I don't recall sending blue prints to the architect about Canandaigua at that time.

Q. Well, if it happens that you so testified would you say now you think you were mistaken?

A. I would.

Mr. Wright: Have you the Defendants' Exhibit D-151?

Mr. McClennen: 151, what is that?

Mr. Wright: It was a letter, I think, of August, 1938.

Mr. McClennen: Is that an exhibit or for identification?

Mr. Wright: Identified only, I believe.

Q. I hand you this letter that was marked Defendants' [fol. 4233] Exhibit D-151 for identification and see if that refreshes your recollection what the testimony was?

A. This does not apply to Canandaigua, sir.

Q. What does that apply to?

A. Salamanca.

Q. And it was with reference to Salamanca that you sent blue prints to the architect about that time?

A. It states so right on the top of the letter.

Q. I know what the letter states. I am asking you.

A. Yes. This is so.

Q. And the only blue prints referred to in that letter is a blue print of a lot, is it not?

A. That is right.

Q. Your testimony is not that you sent a blue print or prints of any theatre building to the architect at that time; is that right?

A. I certainly wouldn't have any theatre building blue prints to send to an architect.

Q. Just answer the question.

A. Well, I did.

Mr. Wright: Would you read it?

(Question read.)

The Witness: No.

Mr. Wright: Have you the letter, Defendants' Exhibit 45, a letter, I believe, addressed to Mr. Schine that was identified [fol. 4234] and not offered, with reference to Medina? Have you got a copy of it?

Mr. Antevil: It will probably be back today. It went out the first thing yesterday morning.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright, doesn't that Exhibit D-151 for identification say blue prints of the land?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

[fol. 4235] Q. Mr. Schine, I am calling your attention to a letter dated in March, 1937, signed by several citizens of Medina, Ohio; do you know the letter I am referring to? Do you recall receiving such a letter?

A. I do not know what letter you are referring to, sir.

Q. You don't recall if you received it or not?

A. No, I get a good many letters, and I would like to see the letter.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright, are you in your question referring to this identification 45?

Mr. Wright: Yes, I am.

Mr. McClennen: That was the letter from the lodge, I think.

Mr. Wright: As I recall, it was signed by a number of people connected with the Odd Fellows Lodge in Medina.

The Witness: I remember that letter.

Q. Do you recall that letter now?

A. I remember that letter.

Q. Do you remember receiving it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. With that letter in mind can you tell me whether in your testimony yesterday you sought to give the Court the impression that whenever you got a communication from local citizens that communication was an invitation to come into the town to build a theatre?

[fol. 4236] Mr. McClennen: That I object to.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Now, do you recall testifying about the Strand at Auburn?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I don't believe you testified as to when that was first acquired; can you tell us that?

A. I believe it was in 1927.

Q. That was after you acquired the Palace?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you had the Strand and at that time M. A. Shea was operating the Jefferson?

A. We did not have the Strand alone. Mr. Shea had an option on the Strand, and he sold me a half interest in the Strand.

Q. Now, when was it Mr. Shea began to operate the Jefferson, then?

A. I do not know.

Q. Well, it was prior to that time, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then you were operating the Palace in opposition to Mr. Shea's Jefferson, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. Then you and Mr. Shea made a pooling arrangement where you divided the town, is that correct?

A. We made a partnership for joint operation.

[fol. 4237] Q. And split the profits from all theatres operated in the town, is that right?

A. We had a 50-50 interest.

Q. That 50-50 interest extended to all theatre operations in the town, didn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You don't remember whether you got the Strand before or after you made that pooling arrangement?

A. It was after we made the partnership arrangement.

Q. When you acquired it did you operate it?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. How long?

A. Until it was condemned by the building authorities.

Q. When was that?

A. That was in about 1935 or '36,—1934 or '35, I would say. I don't want to give you dates, because I may be wrong on the exact date.

Q. 1934 or '35, and what do you mean when you say it was condemned, just what was done?

A. The building authorities demanded that the balcony be rebuilt, that the beams supporting the roof be replaced and the wiring be completely changed, and that entailed a much larger expense than the building warranted.

Q. You mean that they told you that those repairs and improvements would have to be made if you wanted to [fol. 4238] keep on operating it as a theatre, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. You think now that was some time in 1935?

A. I think it was about that time.

Q. You testified yesterday at 4067 that—let us see if this recalls what you said—"Q. After you had opened the Auburn that, of course, was your first-run, preferred house?" and the answer is "Yes".

A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. And what did you do with respect to the other houses that you had there? A. The Palace continued on the same policy I had before. The Strand was at that time condemned by the local authorities, as being unsafe——"

A. That is right.

Q. Well, you opened the Auburn in 1938, did you not?

A. I mean it had been condemned previously.

Q. Then what you you meant to say was it had been condemned three years before?

A. That is right.

Q. The Auburn was completed?

A. That is just what I meant to say.

Q. And you went on to say that you closed it and you ultimately tore it down; how long did you keep it standing there closed?

A. Oh, we kept it standing closed, you mean, for the period?

[fol. 4239] Q. Yes, when was it?

A. That was, well, the building proved to be so unsafe——.

Q. Just give me the time, just answer the question.

A. That was, I would say, around 1940, I would say, or 1939, I can't give you the exact date.

Q. 1941 or '42?

A. No, it was earlier than that.

Q. Earlier than what?

A. Earlier than 1942.

Q. You can't give the year?

A. I can't give you exactly the year. If you will pardon me, I may refer to my notes and see if I have got it.

Q. Go ahead.

(Witness examines notes.)

A. No, I have no record of it here, I am sorry.

Q. Then you went on to say, after you said you closed the Strand and ultimately tore it down, "The Jefferson we modernized and reseated to make it attractive, but we couldn't keep it open regularly for lack of pictures"; do you recall saying that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then when was it that you closed the Jefferson?

A. I don't believe the Jefferson was closed wholly at any time. I think it was open week-ends.

Q. Well, when did you cut down the operation?

[fol. 4240] A. Well, I couldn't say just when, I don't think it was ever cut down completely. Sometimes, when we had product we would play a full week, and if we didn't, we would close during the early part of the week and open week-ends.

Q. It is a fact, isn't it, after you acquired the Auburn and opened the Auburn, you kept right on operating the Jefferson full time for a substantial period?

A. We kept it open when we had the product.

Q. Just answer the question.

A. Well, I did answer it. We kept it open as long as we had the product.

Q. Listen to the question.

A. All right.

Q. And I don't want an answer in terms of your conclusions; I want an answer in terms of dates.

A. I am giving you the answer according to the facts.

Mr. Wright: Will you read it to him?

(Last question read.)

The Court: "Yes" or "No" answer to that.

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: You spoke on your direct-examination of modernizing the Jefferson. When was that done?

The Witness: That was done in about——

[fol. 4241] The Court: I mean with reference to when the Auburn started.

The Witness: After the Auburn started.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Now, at page 4073, do you recall testifying in this way, question by Mr. McClennen: "Q. Was there any reason known to you personally, beyond this lack of pictures that you have described, for closing the Jefferson down to a week-end operation?", and you answered "No", is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, the fact is, is it not, that whenever you closed the theatre, the decision to close is governed by the fact of whether or not it is finally advantageous to you to close it or to keep it open, isn't that right?

A. Well, if you have no pictures, it is financially——

Q. Just answer the question.

The Court: You would prefer to keep it open, it isn't a question of pictures, it is a question of its profitability.

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. There are a number of other factors which enter into that determination of profitability other than picture sup- [fol. 4242] ply, isn't that right?

A. Oh, there might be some.

Q. One reason might be it might assist negotiations with the landlord?

The Court: What?

Q. Might assist your negotiations with the landlord for renewals, if you had a theatre closed, is that right?

A. Not with me, sir.

Q. You never close theatres prior to negotiations for a renewal of the lease?

A. We never close a theatre for that purpose.

Q. Just answer the question.

The Court: You never closed a theatre prior to the renewal of the lease?

The Witness: Well, I can't recall. If the theatre is profitable we don't close.

Q. Now, do you recall closing the Strand in Syracuse prior to negotiating renewals, don't you?

A. That theatre was a losing theatre.

Q. Just answer the question.

A. Yes.

The Court: That, you said, was condemned?

The Witness: No, that is in Syracuse Mr. Wright is referring to, the Strand in Syracuse.

Q. Now, in your testimony about the pictures that were [fol. 4243] available for the Jefferson, do you recall saying this at page 4071, a question by Mr. McClennen: "Q. Would you state again when it was the Auburn opened up?

A. The Auburn opened in '38 and we found that playing in the Palace six pictures, in the new theatre three, and the Capitol absorbing about eight a week, took up all the pictures''; do you remember saying that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was a correct statement, was it?

A. About correct, yes, as to the number of pictures.

Q. Were you talking about feature pictures there?

A. Feature pictures, yes, sir.

Q. Now, it is a fact, isn't it that during the year 1938 the Capitol never played more than four pictures a week?

A. I wouldn't say that is a fact.

Q. Well, do you know whether it is or isn't?

A. I know they played double features there and have three to four changes a week.

Q. You know that, do you, they had that in 1938?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are positive of that?

A. I wouldn't say I am positive. They may change their policy every week, I don't know, but I have seen the newspapers of Auburn, and I saw how often they changes their pictures.

[fol. 4244] Q. Well, you know that they used three changes a week, double features, or six pictures a week during 1938, is that right?

A. They used a minimum of six.

Q. A minimum of six features

A. Six features.

Q. Each week during the year 1938?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Throughout the year?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then your testimony is the same for 1939?

A. Well, it would be about the same, yes, sir.

Q. Well, how did you happen to say here that they were using eight a week?

A. They used between six and eight.

Mr. Rogers: Pardon me, Mr. Wright, the testimony is not that; the testimony is about eight a week as appears in the record.

Q. How did you happen to use the figure "about eight a week"?

A. They used sometimes three changes a week double features which would be six and sometimes four changes a week double features which would be eight.

Q. Your testimony now is during the year of 1938 they were using sometimes eight pictures a week, is that correct?

[fol. 4245] A. That is right.

Q. And you know that to be a fact?

A. That is a fact.

Q. And you are quite sure about it, you don't have any doubts?

A. Well, as sure as anybody can be, I am not there at all times or any time.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright, I invite your attention to Page 4072, the answer last on the page.

Mr. Wright: We will take him over the entire testimony with respect to what was played, if you will just be patient.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: I am not at all impatient.

The Court: Just a moment, Mr. McClennen, let him proceed. You have a right on redirect examination to bring out any of these things you desire.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I expressly put my remarks so that it should not come to the attention of the witness but I thought Mr. Wright was in a misapprehension when he put his question as he did, and I called it to his attention on that account. If he doesn't desire it, [fol. 4246] of course, I do not press it.

Mr. Wright: Would you read the last question and answer?

(Question and answer read.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Well, your company maintains records of the play-off of pictures in Auburn, doesn't it?

A. As far as our theatres are concerned, we have a record of it.

Q. And you keep track of what plays at the opposition house, too, don't you, where there is one?

A. Well, those records are not kept systematically. We get reports as to what the other theatres are playing.

Q. And is the best evidence your company has as to what actually played the Capitol during the year 1939-

1938, the recollection that you are now giving us from the stand?

A. I was informed that they played between six and eight features a week.

Q. And you made a special effort to determine the accuracy of that information, Mr. Schine?

A. I didn't make a special effort, no.

Q. Well, who informed you of that?

A. Our booking department.

Q. And your only basis then for saying that you knew that they played six to eight features a week is that that [fol. 4247] is what your booking department told you, is that right.

A. That is right.

Q. And whether they are right or wrong, is something that you don't know?

A. Well, I assume they are right.

[fol. 4248] Q. Calling your attention to page 4072, you say there, in the answer to the question: "Q. How many pictures were you running at that time at the Palace? A. Palace we ran six.

Q. How many pictures were being run at the Capitol? A. Six to eight."

Now I will call your attention to the previous testimony so you can see if you can recall what time you were talking about. This was after you had a conversation you were asked about the conversation with Weinberg of Columbia. You said, "He said he doesn't want to sell second-run in the town."

A. That is right.

Q. Mr. McClennen asked you: "Q. At that time how many pictures a week were you playing at the Auburn?" You answered: "A. Three."

"Q. Was that being run as a single feature house?

A. Single feature for four days and double feature the last half of the week, three days.

Q. So that you took one picture for four days and two pictures for three days?

A. Yes. The single feature was sometimes run three days, depending on the merits of the pictures. Once in awhile we run it five days.

Q. How many pictures were you running at that time at [fol. 4249] the Palace?

A. Palace we ran six.

Q. How many pictures were being run at the Capitol?

A. Six to eight."

What time was that?

A. Well, that was after the Auburn Theatre opened.

Q. Well, how long after?

A. Well, I couldn't say exactly. We frequently modified the policy and run three changes a week at the new theatre, but in the past few years it has been running on a basis of two changes a week all the while.

Q. Is that the best answer you can give to my question?

A. Well, that is the best answer I can give, yes.

Q. And if you wanted to give the Court an accurate picture of what features played your theatres during this period, or any other time, you have records in the booking department which would show those facts, haven't you?

A. I have, and I believe I gave the Court the correct answer.

Q. Well, all you know is what your booking department supplied; is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. If there are any errors you are not in a position to say what they are or how they occurred?

A. Well, I doubt whether they were errors deliberately.

[fol. 4250] Q. Just answer the question.

A. All right.

(Question read.)

The Court: I think it appears he said his statement is based on the report in the booking department.

Mr. Wright: I beg your pardon?

The Court: He said his statement is based on the report of the booking department.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. The fact is, is it not, that you don't know how many pictures, how many feature pictures, were played at the Jefferson Theatre during 1938 or at the Capitol Theatre during 1938, 1939, 1940, or any other year, do you?

A. I do not know the exact number, but approximately I do know.

Q. And you don't know how many were played each week during those periods, do you?

A. Not exactly.

Q. Well, you don't even know, with any accuracy, approximately, do you?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Of your own knowledge?

A. Of the information I have had from our booking department.

Q. I am talking about you, yourself.

[fol. 4251] A. Well, I haven't checked that.

Q. You personally don't have any knowledge on that subject, other than what you say your booking department gave you?

A. That is right.

Mr. Wright: If your Honor please, I move to strike this testimony that has been given as to how many pictures have been played at these theatres of his and the opposition. Certainly it clearly appears his statements are not the best evidence of those facts. He has no personal knowledge on the subject at all.

The Court: What is the testimony offered by the Government with respect to these theatres in the time that they were operating?

Mr. Wright: We gave testimony as to what the general policies were. I don't think we had any testimony which undertook to show the exact number of pictures played per week at any particular time. Now, if that is material I submit that the records should be brought here which show what was played. If it isn't, there is no occasion for Mr. Schine to make these statements which put us to the necessity of producing the evidence which will rebut [fol. 4252] them.

The Court: Were you at Syracuse from time-to-time personally?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: You know, yourself, of the showings of the pictures at these two theatres during that time?

The Witness: You refer to Auburn, don't you, your Honor?

The Court: I mean Auburn. I beg your pardon.

The Witness: I wouldn't know exactly how many pictures were played each week, because I don't keep track of each week's bookings, but the information I had is in accordance with what I testified to.

The Court: My point is, did you know personally about the showing of these pictures, whether you knew at that time, on the occasion of your visit at Auburn whether they were showing these pictures?

The Witness: When I was there at different times they either showed six or eight, meaning three changes or four changes a week.

The Court: Those occasions are within your personal knowledge?

The Witness: Yes.

[fol. 4253] The Court: I think the statements of the information from the booking department is hearsay. I believe it is hearsay, aside from what he has personally observed. I think the balance of his testimony relative to information obtained in the booking department is hearsay.

Mr. McClennen: If the motion of Mr. Wright is directed to what was brought out in direct examination, in this respect, we have no objection to its allowance. We do object to his cross-examining and bringing out facts and then having that stricken out.

The Court: It should all be stricken out, or, of course, there was no objection raised on the direct examination, anyway.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, he simply gave these as facts.

The Court: I suppose your intent is to strike out all the testimony with reference to it?

Mr. Wright: Surely, with reference to it all. My only point is that there is no need, or there shouldn't be any need, to have us bring in rebuttal for evidence which is not competent anyway.

[fol. 4254] The Court: It seems to me it should be stricken on both the direct and cross.

Mr. McClennen: I object to the cross-examiner experimenting with the facts and after he has brought them out moving that his own be stricken out. I urge that that should not be done.

The Court: No, I believe after inquiries, if the information is not first-hand knowledge, if it is developed——

Mr. McClennen: Your Honor was stating your understanding of my agreement. I do not agree that what he has elicited on cross-examination should be stricken out. I have no objection to the allowance of his motion as to the direct examination, but that is the extent of anything being done by consent. What your Honor rules is a separate question.

The Court: Do you apply it to all of his cross-examination of this subject, do you mean, or just portions of it? It seems to me to strike out his statements with reference to the number of the showings of these types of pictures at these theatres.

Mr. McClennen: Your Honor, I take it, refers only to the [fol. 4255] Capitol Theatre, not his own theatres?

The Court: Yes, the Capitol.

Mr. McClennen: I await your Honor's ruling. We urge what has been brought out by Mr. Wright in cross-examination should not be stricken out.

The Court: Well, of course, I don't think it should all be stricken out. I limit the portion which should be stricken out, both as to the direct and the cross-examination, the statements of the witness as to the number and type of showing of pictures for specific times at the other opposition theatre.

Mr. McClennen: Well, does your Honor include in that the testimony of the witness when he was at Auburn?

The Court: No, no, that is just the point. I don't include that. I leave that in. I made it specific. Well, as to that, in so far as it is shown to refer to information obtained from his booking department.

Mr. McClennen: As to what was playing at the Capitol Theatre.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, our motion goes farther than that. It goes to what was played at all of the [fol. 4256] theatres, which was based on something the booking department told him rather than what he observed himself.

The Court: Do you apply it to his own theatre, you mean, as well?

Mr. Wright: Why, yes. If some one were here who kept the records, we would expect to show on cross-examination that the statements which were made with respect to the policy of his own theatres are not accurate.

The Court: Well, if he makes a statement and it is not accurate——

Mr. Wright: I say the statement is made without any opportunity on our part to cross-examine the man who has the first-hand information, I say the statement, to the extent it is based on something his booking department told him, should go out.

The Court: He can know about bookings of his own theatres.

Mr. Wright: He says that he does not.

Mr. Rogers: There is no such testimony, no.

Mr. Wright: Let me ask a question.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Schine, as to the number of feature pictures played in your theatree in Auburn during the years 1938, 1939, [fol. 4257] 1940, is there any part of that testimony that is not based on information that was supplied you for this purpose by the booking department of your theatre?

A. I know the policies of our own theatres.

Q. Let us just see what you know about policies during that period. You know, do you, how many features played each of your theatres in Auburn during the year 1938, is that right?

A. Not exactly, no, but I know the policy which would be at first when we opened the theatre we tried to run with three features a week playing Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, or Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and double features Thursday, Friday, Saturday. Then we played Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and double feature Wednesday and Thursday. An other double feature Friday and Saturday or a single feature Wednesday and Thursday and a single feature Friday and Saturday.

Q. What theatre are you talking about?

A. The new theatre.

Q. The Auburn?

A. Yes. Then we finally settled on a policy playing one feature first half of the week and two features the last half of the week.

Q. Do you know when that change occurred?

[fol. 4258] A. I do not know exactly the date.

Q. You don't know when. What do you know about the policy of the Palace?

A. The Palace Theatre plays three changes, two features each.

Q. You are talking about what period?

A. Well, I talk about a period substantially the entire period.

Q. What entire period?

A. Between '38 and the present. That is what you are referring to, isn't it?

Q. What you are referring to, what you know about it?

A. Yes.

Q. Is there any particular week you might sometime have played seven features, with four changes?

A. That is possible.

Q. It is possible they did that for a substantial period of time?

A. It would be possible but I don't think it is probable.

Q. Well, you don't know, do you?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Now, the Jefferson?

A. The Jefferson played, at first, a policy similar to the new house, one feature the first half and two the last half, and then we tried different policies and finally—— [fol. 4259] Q. Do you know when the change occurred?

A. I don't know the exact date.

Q. Do you know the approximate date?

A. Well, the approximate date was from time to time after the new theatre opened—I can't give you the exact dates because we had many policies there.

Q. Do you know what the other policies were?

A. Yes. The other policies were the last half——

The Court: The Jefferson?

The Witness: The Jefferson.

A. —the last half of the week we played two features.

Q. That was one of the policies?

A. That was one.

Q. And what were the others?

A. The others were playing all week.

Q. How many features?

A. Three or four.

Q. Or five?

A. I don't think so. Not that I can recall.

Q. Well, you don't know whether there was a time when you played five or six or seven features at the Jefferson?

A. We never played seven features.

Q. You might have played five or six?

A. I wouldn't want to testify to that.

Q. You don't know?

[fol. 4260] A. But I am testifying to the best of my knowledge and I believe it is quite accurate.

Q. It isn't as accurate as your booking records, is it?

A. Not absolutely, no.

Q. They would be the best evidence of what policy you pursued in each theatre with respect to the number of features and the time during which it was, is that right?

A. That would be accurate so there is no error on a single feature.

Q. Let us see what you know about the policy at the Capitol. The information you got yourself you say you visited Auburn?

A. I visited Auburn.

Q. What were these occasions when you visited Auburn and you noticed the policy of the Capitol?

A. That was just when I happened to visit the theatres.

Q. Well, when?

A. During the summer of '38 or the fall. I visited several times.

Q. Do you know when?

A. I couldn't give you the date, no.

Q. You don't know the times at all that your observation of the policy at the Capitol relates to, is that right?

A. I visit the Auburn several times a year but I can't give you the exact date as to when.

[fol. 4261] Q. You can't give us the times or what you saw on any particular occasion with reference to the Capitol, is that right.

A. Well, I couldn't give you an accurate, detailed statement.

Mr. Wright: I renew my motion, your Honor.

The Court: I rule, as I have indicated before, that I refuse to strike out the testimony with reference to his own personal knowledge, to which he has testified, as to the Capitol Theatre. The testimony is that he has some personal knowledge of what was done, but other than as to the specific number of pictures that may be stricken out as hearsay.

Mr. Wright: I think that is all.

The Court: No further cross?

Mr. Wright: That is all.

The Court: Any redirect?

Mr. McClennen: No, your Honor.

That is all.

If your Honor please, we had planned on the expectation that Mr. Schine would be on all this week. When it began to be apparent that it was ending earlier we have hurried in some witnesses. I think that I can't get any here until [fol. 4262] 2 o'clock. If your Honor would adjourn until then we should be able to go on.

The Court: Is there anything else we can do in the meantime, anything else you have in mind?

Mr. McClennen: I don't know of anything.

I understand that some of the witnesses have arrived and we can go on in a very few minutes, if your Honor will adjourn until 12 o'clock.

The Court: All right, recess.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 12 o'clock M.)

(Whereupon at 12 o'clock M. a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P. M.)

[fol. 4263] After Recess, 2 o'clock P. M.

Appearances: As before noted.

William C. Rowell, a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Rowell, what is your residence?

A. Rochester, New York.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. I am a representative for 20th Century-Fox pictures.

Q. A salesman?

A. A salesman.

Q. Did you occupy that same position in September and October of 1941?

A. I did.

Q. It has appeared in the testimony of Mr. Wallace in this case, beginning at page 2807, that you called upon him on September 11th, 1941. Does that date conform to your recollection?

A. It does.

Q. Did you go because of some direction from some one else?

[fol. 4264] A. Well, I went at the request of Mr. Wallace, that he was interested in pictures.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike it out. It is not responsive.

The Court: First answer "Yes" or "No", if he went in response to somebody else. I sustain the objection.

Mr. McClennen: I will preface that question by another.

The Court: All right.

Q. Did you receive information of a telegram that Mr. Wallace had sent to your office?

A. Mr. Samson communicated that information to me.

Q. And it was in consequence of that that you went to see Mr. Wallace

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Without going into the details of what Mr. Samson said, did you receive from him instructions as to what you might say to Mr. Wallace?

A. I made that visit with Mr. Samson.

Q. And on that visit on the 11th of September, 1941, will you relate to the best of your recollection what was said by Mr. Samson, Mr. Wallace and yourself in as near as you can the order of the conversation, stating who said what?

A. Well——

[fol. 4265] Mr. Wright: Has this conversation been placed yet?

Mr. McClennen: This conversation is placed as the 11th of September.

Mr. Wright: I mean as to geography.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. This conversation was in Syracuse?

A. At the Strand Theatre.

Q. At the Strand Theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, will you——

A. Mr. Samson really carried on the conversation.

Q. Tell us what Mr. Samson said.

A. He asked Mr. Wallace what he was interested in. Mr. Wallace told us he was interested in various runs, and if I can recall correctly——

Mr. Wright: That is objected to. Let him state what was said. That he was interested in various runs calls for a conclusion. Let us have the conversation.

Mr. McClennen: I agree.

The Witness: Well, Mr. Wallace was interested in some first-run.

Q. No, what Mr. Wallace said.

The Court: What did he say? Did he say he was interested in them?

[fol. 4266] The Witness: You are asking me to go back a great many years.

The Court: Give the substance of it.

The Witness: Mr. Wallace was- some first-run pictures and we told Mr. Wallace we had an established first-run account and there were no first-run pictures available. He asked for second-run and we informed him we had an established second-run account and there was no second-run available. He asked for third-run and we also told him we had a third-run account of many years standing. Then Mr. Wallace said he was interested in anything at that time. Part of the time, if I recall it correctly, Mr. Wallace could not give us a definite policy that he was going to operate the theatre on.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, this again is in the field of a conclusion.

The Court: What did he say in substance, that he could not give you any definite policy.

The Witness: Well, we did not make a deal that particular day because you can't make a deal on any kind of a product unless you know the policy the theatre is going to operate on.

[fol. 4267] The Court: What did he say about an indefinite policy, what did he say about that, the substance of it?

The Witness: Well, we did not make Mr. Wallace a proposition that day, and we told him we would see him later.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. When did you see him next?

A. I believe the date was October 3rd.

Q. And was any one else with you at that time?

A. I was alone.

Q. At this meeting on October 3rd, 1941, was it at the same place, at the Strand Theatre?

A. The Strand.

Q. By the way, Mr. Samson, whom you have mentioned, was what?

A. He was Manager of our Buffalo Exchange.

Q. Now, before you went to this conversation with Mr. Wallace on October 3rd, 1941, had you had some conversation with Mr. Samson with respect to what you should do? I don't ask you what it was. Now, don't tell me what it was. I want to know whether you had any conversation on that subject.

A. Yes, sir, after we left the theatre that day we had a [fol. 4268] discussion on it.

Q. Now, on October 3rd, 1941, when you went to Mr. Wallace, had you already prepared a memorandum of possible offers to make to him?

A. No.

Q. I show you three papers which I will ask to have marked for identification with the next exhibit numbers.

(Thereupon the three papers referred to were marked as Defendants' Exhibits D-156, D-157 and D-158, respectively, for identification.)

[fol. 4269] Q. Are these three exhibits for identification, Defendants' Exhibits 156, 157 and 158 in your handwriting?

A. Yes, sir, they are.

Q. When were they written?

A. Well, they were written in Mr. Wallace's office, after he gave me his definite house policy.

Q. Then, before we go to these memoranda, will you state what Mr. Wallace said was his house policy on October 3, 1941?

Mr. Wright: I think that we ought to have the entire conversation and then as to what was said about the house policy can be gotten from that.

A. There was a record made of the house policy, as far as I can remember it.

Mr. Wright: Just a minute.

The Court: Just a moment. Go ahead and state what was said by Mr. Wallace.

The Witness: I asked Mr. Wallace if he had a definite house policy at that time. He gave it to me and from that house policy——

The Court: Just a minute.

Mr. Wright: What we want to find out is what he actually said to you and what you said to him.

The Court: Just a moment, Mr. Wright.

[fol. 4270] The Witness: As near as I can recall the house policy——

The Court: Just a moment. Let us go back a moment. We just want to save time and confusion, if we just limit our answers to the conversation, if you remember the substance of it, but what did you say on the subject matter?

The Witness: I will start all over again. He gave me the house policy.

The Court: Did you ask him?

The Witness: I asked him for the house policy. I wrote it down as he gave it to me.

The Court: All right.

The Witness: Now what?

The Court: You mean by "house policy"——

The Witness: Method of operation, the days, changes, the admission price, and various other things that go into the operation of the theatre.

Mr. McClennen: I will ask to have these two papers marked for identification.

(Thereupon the two papers, dated October 3, 1941, referred to were marked as Defendants' Exhibits D-159 and D-160 for identification.)

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Are these two papers, Defendants' Exhibits D-159 and [fol. 4271] D-160 for identification, in your handwriting?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were they written on October 3, 1941?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark another for identification?

(Thereupon the paper, dated October 3, 1941, referred to, was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-161 for identification.)

Q. Is that paper, Defendants' Exhibit D-161 for identification, in your handwriting?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was that written on October 3, 1941?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do any one of these papers contain what you wrote with respect to the house policy?

A. This one does.

Q. You say "This one does", referring to Defendants' Exhibit D-159 for identification?

A. That is the house policy I am talking about.

Q. With that before you, will you tell me, in as near Mr. Wallace's language as you can, what he said his house policy was?

A. Well, Sunday, Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday he was going to charge them an admission of 25 cents an evening net, 25 cents; matinee, net 20, and children [fol. 4272] was ten cents. On Tuesday and Friday evenings there were 24 games of Bingo, $650 give-away, with admission to adults 50 cents net. He was to have two changes a week of pictures. They were to run Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday; another change Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Policy in pictures, first-run if available; second-run, if available; third-run, if available. If those runs were not available he was interested in anything we had for sale.

Q. Did you then have some talk with him with respect to what you could offer him?

A. From the result of that I made him a proposition, which I put on paper.

Q. I show you Defendants' Exhibit D-156 for identification. From that can you state what you said to him as your proposition?

A. Well, this is a list of older top-grossing pictures, which the price was stated, and there was a companion picture, as I remember, everything double feature, and if he was interested in these pictures that I would send him a list of the companion pictures that were available for selection, and that he could buy these pictures in blocs of five, groups of five. That's all.

Q. And it was stated in the terms that you set down in [fol. 4273] this memorandum?
A. Just as it is there.

Mr. McClennen: I will offer this.
Mr. Wright: No objection.

(Thereupon the paper dated October 3, 1941, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-156 for identification was received in evidence.)

Q. Did you make to him any other proposition?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. Is this Defendants' Exhibit D-157 the proposition?
A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: I will offer this.
Mr. Wright: No objection.

(Thereupon the paper dated October 3, 1941, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-157 for identification was received in evidence.)

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Did you offer him a third proposition?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. I show you Defendants' Exhibit D-158 for identification. Is that the third proposition?
A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: I offer that.
Mr. Wright: No objection.

[fol. 4274] (Thereupon the paper, dated October 3, 1941, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-[illegible]r identification was received in evidence.)

Q. Relate, as nearly as you can, all that was said about these three propositions, 1, D-156, the other, D-157, and the other, D. 158, and I lay them all three before you to assist you refresh your recollection as far as it does.

Now, permit me to call this to your attention. You have stated in answer to several questions before the result in terms, "He wanted", and so forth. See if you can't give it in the terms that were said. Of course, we don't expect you are going to remember every word, but "he said" and "I said" with respect to those three separate propositions.

A. Well, I can take this D-157, I will recall more on that than any. Mr. Wallace objected to one thing, the fact that with his policy of Bingo he was unable to stand a 35 per cent of the gross.

The Court: What did you say first about the policy of Bingo?

The Witness: With his policy of $650 Bingo, give-away, they were unable to stand to pay 35 per cent of the gross receipts.

The Court: To your Company?

The Witness: I beg your pardon?

The Court: He couldn't stand to pay 35 per cent of the gross receipts to your Company, you mean?

The Witness: Correct.

[fol. 4275] The Court: If he had $650 Bingo.

The Witness: Yes. There was very little was said, as I can recall, on the balance of the pictures. I told Mr. Wallace I would discuss the Bingo proposition with Mr. Samson.

The Court: I thought you said this was the proposition made by you to him.

The Witness: I did make that proposition but he objected to a certain part of this proposition.

The Court: He objected to the amount?

The Witness: He objected to paying 35 per cent of the gross and giving away $650 Bingo.

The Court: You said——

The Witness: I said I would discuss that point of the thing with Mr. Samson.

The Court: All right.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Was there anything said in the conversation referring to this first one about the character of the pictures and as to their availability?

A. I don't recall anything regarding the character of the picture. Mr. Wallace did question the availability, that it might be after every other theatre in town, which didn't happen to be a fact as probably of the subsequent-runs there were twelve or thirteen of them that hadn't [fol. 4276] been sold.

Mr. Wright: Is this a conversation now or is this something else?

By the Court:

Q. Did you tell him that or did he call attention to that?

A. He did question the availability date.

Q. What did you say when he did that?

A. I told him that——

Q. You say there was a large number available, did you tell him what they were?

A. I told him we hadn't sold but very few of the balance of the accounts, that is all I can recall of this, outside of the availability date and percentage; the availability date was in the conversation.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. I notice on Exhibit D-157 there are some statements of availability, were those put on there at the time?

A. At the time I made the proposition out.

Q. That is, that "Charlie's Aunt" would be available October 29th, 1941?

A. That is correct.

Q. And "Private Nurse" November 20th, 1941?

A. That is correct.

Q. And "Wild Geese Calling" December 10th, 1941?

A. That is correct.

[fol. 4277] Q. Then again the two, "Sun Valley Serenade" and "Dressed to Kill", it appears "Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, available December 10th, 1941"?

A. That is correct.

Q. And that was the date that you told him they would be available?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, as originally written at first were these words "Ahead of Empire" on the sheet?

A. No "Ahead of Empire" was put on the sheet as we went through it, discussing it as these sheets were written, and he wanted to be assured that these pictures would be "Ahead of the Empire", so I added it on both sheets individually. There was a carbon copy of this.

The Court: Did you give him a copy of these?

The Witness: Yes, I did.

Mr. McClennen: I will say, if your Honor please, that Exhibit 818 has fastened together with a feature release sheet attached at the end of it, three sheets; the first sheet is apparently a carbon copy of Exhibit 156, except that the words "To be selected in groups of five" are written on this first sheet of Exhibit 818 in original pencil and is not carbon from the other sheet.

[fol. 4278] The Court: Does it appear on the original?

Mr. McClennen: It appears on the original, but it appears on the carbon not in carbon. That is, it is obvious that the carbon had been made before those words were put on.

The Court: It does appear on the original?

Mr. McClennen: It does appear on the original and does appear on the carbon, first impression on the carbon.

The Court: All right.

Mr. McClennen: Then exhibit 157 is like the carbon which is the second sheet of Exhibit 818, with these differences, that on the carbon there appears the words "$650 Bingo—From Gross". That does not appear at all on Exhibit D-157 on the carbon. There is also in pencil, not in carbon "50-50-over $1200". That does not appear on the original. The words "Ahead of Empire" appearing on D-157 do not appear in carbon on the second sheet of Exhibit 818, but is written in in pencil "Ahead of Empire", again apparently added after the carbon had been made.

Exhibit 158 appears by carbon as the third sheet of Exhibit 818, with this exception, the words "No run" which [fol. 4279] appear on the original D-158, do not appear in carbon on the third sheet of Exhibit 818, but are written in in pencil "No Run", evidently added after the carbon had been made.

The Court: As I have the testimony of Mr. Wallace, didn't he testify that he played the runs shown on these exhibits?

Mr. McClennen: I am sorry, I haven't it in mind at the moment.

The Court: He also testified that Exhibit 818 was the offer of Mr. Rowell.

Mr. Wright: The offer he testified to is just what has been referred to here as this exhibit 818. This is what Mr. Wallace identified when he was on the stand.

The Court: Yes, he said it was the proposed offer by Mr. Rowell. All right.

Mr. Wright: Yes, sir.

The Court: All right.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Was there any talk as to what season's product this proposal, Defendants' Exhibit 157 was?

A. Well, that was current product.

Q. That was current product?

[fol. 4280] A. Current product.

Q. That is of the year 1941-42?

A. Current releases.

Q. This proposal, Defendants' Exhibit D-158, of what season's product was that?

A. That was the previous season's product.

Q. That is the 1940-41?

A. 1940-41, the 1940-41 season.

Q. Now, this other proposition, Defendants' Exhibit 156, what was the significance of the words "Return engagement special" at the top of the sheet?

A. Well, these pictures were older, they had been top grossing pictures and we were bringing them out as return engagement special productions.

Q. Was there anything said with respect to whether these three propositions were alternate propositions or separate propositions or together?

A. They were to be bought just as they were written.

By the Court:

Q. What does that mean, were they alternate propositions?

A. He could buy any or all of them, just as he pleased, just as they were written on the individual sheets.

Q. The question is whether they were duplications, different pictures in each group?

A. Well, there were three individual propositions there.

[fol. 4281] Q. What I am getting at, were the individual propositions of separate productions, I mean, pictures?

A. No, they were separate propositions, they were a number of products on each sheet, one was not dependent on the other. He could take any one of those propositions or could have them all.

Q. That isn't the question. Was there a duplication of pictures on the sheets?

A. No, sir.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. I call your attention to Plaintiff's Exhibit 978, with the approval stamp stencil April 13th, 1942; Exhibit 977, with the approval stamp date January 21, 1942; Exhibit 976 with the stencil acceptance date January 12th, 1942; Exhibit 975 with the stencil acceptance date December 18th, 1941; Exhibit 974 with the stencil acceptance date December 18th, 1941; Exhibit 973 with the acceptance stencil date October 30th, 1941; Exhibit 972 with the acceptance stencil date October 30th, 1941; Exhibit 971 with the stencil acceptance date October 30th, 1941; Exhibit 970 with the stencil acceptance date October 25th, 1941; Exhibit 969 with the stencil acceptance date October 17th, 1941; Exhibit 968 with no stenil, but having a date stamp on it of September 24th, 1941; Exhibit 967, no stencil, but a stamp date September [fol. 4282] 24th, 1941; Exhibit 96[illegible] with the stamp date September 24th, 1941; Exhibit 965, no stencil, with the stamp September 25th, 1941; Exhibit 964, with the acceptance stencil date October 14th, 1941; and No. 963 with the acceptance date October 14th, 1941 in stencil. Will you look at that group or set of exhibits and inform me whether you had — to do with the sale of any of those contracts? If you find that you did have, state the exhibit number as you answer.

A. Well, Exhibit No. 978 I did; Exhibit 977, yes; Exhibit 976, yes; Exhibit 975, yes; Exhibit 974, yes; Exhibit 973, yes; Exhibit 972, yes; Exhibit 971, yes; Exhibit 970, yes; Exhibit 969, yes; Exhibit 968, yes; Exhibit 967, yes; Exhibit 966, yes; Exhibit 965, yes;—do you want me to turn these over that I had nothing to do with?

[fol. 4283] Q. No, just mention that you didn't, with the number.

A. 964, no. 963, no.

Q. At the time that you made the offers to Mr. Wallace on October 3, 1941, were the pictures available as stated by you to him?

A. On those dates.

The Court: You mean those dates on the exhibits?

The Witness: The dates that are written on that exhibit, whatever the number is.

Mr. McClennen: The witness refers to Defendants' Exhibit D-157 and to the second page of Exhibit 818.

Q. You left with Mr. Wallace, did you, these first three pages of Exhibit 818?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were they separate sheets at the time you left them?

A. Separate sheets, absolutely.

Q. After you had made these three offers to Mr. Wallace on October 3, 1941, relate, as nearly as you can, all of the conversation, if there is any left, beyond what you have already stated.

A. Well, on one of those sheets—I would have to see the number—he thought there were too many pictures. On this particular sheet he thought there were too many pictures.

Q. You are referring to Defendants' Exhibit D-156?

[fol. 4284] A. I am referring to Exhibit D-156, and at that time I wrote on the sheet that they could be selected in groups of five. That's all there was in reference to that. There was no comment on this, as I recall.

Q. Referring to Exhibit D-158?

A. D-158. And there was no further comment on that, outside of the fact that he did make me a counter-proposition, as I recall now.

Q. You are referring to Defendants' Exhibit D-157?

A. I am referring to Defendants' Exhibit D-157.

Q. And what did he say?

A. As near as I can recall, I made a counter-proposition that he could take his house expense and the cost of the Bingo and we would split over $1600 gross, as I can recall. There should be a report on that because I sent a report in. I can't give you the exact figure because it is too far back.

Q. Now, in that connection, on the sheet that you say you left with him, which has now been stapled as a part of Exhibit 818, appear the words "50-50 over 1200". Does that recall anything to your mind?

A. This I know nothing about. This isn't my writing.

Q. Well, what did you say about a counter-proposition?

A. I believe it was $1600 split figure, that he be permitted to deduct the house expense, and I believe it was the amount [fol. 4285] of the Bingo and split over $1600. I believe that was his counter-proposition.

The Court: Was that the counter-proposition to your No. 2 proposal there, $600 Bingo proposition?

The Witness: No, I hadn't made him any proposition outside of the 35 per cent, and I told him I would discuss it with Mr. Samson and he told me he would make a counter-proposition to discuss.

The Court: That is the one offered on the basis of $1600 or $1650?

The Witness: Right. I believe it was $1600. I can't state positively.

Mr. McClennen: It is Defendants' Exhibit D-157 that is the 35 per cent.

The Court: There are three of those?

Mr. McClennen: Yes. He made this counter-proposition, you say, and you said you couldn't do anything about it but discuss it with Mr. Samson?

A. I would discuss it with Mr. Samson.

Q. Did you subsequently discuss it with Mr. Samson?

A. I did.

Q. And after that discussion did you return at some time to Mr. Wallace and see him again at the Strand Theatre?

[fol. 4286] A. I did.

Q. And I show you two papers that I will ask to have marked for identification.

(Thereupon the two papers dated October 10, 1941, referred to were marked as Defendants' Exhibits D-162 and D-163 for identification.)

Q. These two papers are marked for identification D-162 and D-163. Are they in your handwriting?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you write them?

A. On October 10, 1941.

Q. And is that the date of your next interview with Mr. Wallace?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, with the assistance of those memoranda will you relate, as nearly as you can, the whole of that conversation in the terms "he said" and "I said," or "I said" and "he said"?

Mr. Wright: The date of this?

Mr. McClennen: October 10, 1941.

A. Well, in relation to the counter-proposition, or that is the proposition of the percentage pictures with Bingo and his counter-proposition, I made him another proposition in which I offered to permit him to deduct the difference between the Bingo admission and the regular admission [fol. 4287] before computing the percentage.

Q. Did he say anything about that?

A. I can't recall whether he did or not.

Q. And it is to that that this Exhibit D-163 refers?

A. That is the proposition it refers to.

Mr. McClennen: I will offer Defendants' Exhibit D-163.

Mr. Wright: No objection.

(Thereupon the paper dated October 10, 1941, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-163 for identification was received in evidence.)

The Court: What do you mean, deduct the difference between the Bingo admission? That is an additional amount?

The Witness: No, he was charging 50 cents for Bingo and 25 cents was his normal admission. I allowed him to deduct the difference between 50 and 25, otherwise I would only receive the percentage on the normal admission, nothing to do with the additional admission to see the Bingo.

The Court: All right. Did the house receive any revenue for the playing of Bingo, other than the admission?

The Witness: I didn't get you.

The Court: It might be involving some question of lia- [fol. 4288] bility. I don't know. I don't mean this case. What is the difference? Do they generally charge for the Bingo?

The Witness: Well, a number of theatres run pictures and Bingo.

The Court: The point of my inquiry was whether the admission was increased, the price that the spectators pay to play the game.

The Witness: I couldn't answer that, sir.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Now, does this Exhibit D-162 for identification also refer to this same matter of your interview on October 10, 1941?

A. This is my report to the office on the result of the visit of October 10th. That is my report to the office.

Q. Was anything more said at that interview on October 10, 1941?

A. If there was I can't recall it.

Q. Was there in any form or words any acceptance or rejection of the pending offers?

A. Well, there wasn't any acceptance or I would have written a deal.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

[fol. 4289] Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Rowell, how long have you been a film salesman for Fox?

A. 25 years.

Q. And in the course of performing that job you ordinarily take an application when you solicit contracts?

A. If we can make a satisfactory deal, yes.

Q. That is the way your business is ordinarily done, isn't it? You go out and talk to the exhibitor first and then you work out a deal, you fill out a contract form, is that right?

A. If we come to terms that is the way it is done.

Q. You write up a contract and the exhibitor signs the application?

A. That is right.

Q. And then you send it in to the Exchange and take it back to the Exchange?

A. Either mail it or take it in.

Q. And it goes to the home office?

A. Right.

Q. And if it is approved it is sent back to the exhibitor?

A. Right.

Q. And if it is disapproved then what do you do?

A. Go back to the exhibitor.

Q. And see if you can make a better deal?

[fol. 4290] A. That is right, see if we can get the terms the Company wants.

Q. Then, before you solicit an exhibitor on any particular deal, what do you do with respect to determining how much film rental he ought to pay?

A. What do I do?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, I have covered that territory for 25 years and I pretty near know what the terms ought to be. It isn't a question of sitting down and working out a deal with myself. I have sold those accounts for 25 years.

Q. In Syracuse?

A. I worked in Syracuse off and on for 25 years.

Q. And you know and you knew at the time back there in '40-'41 what the Syracuse theatres were accustomed to pay for Fox films?

A. Correct.

Q. All of them?

A. No, there are some of them I didn't handle.

Q. Those you didn't handle you weren't familiar with, is that right?

A. Not fully familiar, no.

Q. Had you handled the Strand before?

A. No, sir.

Q. That is the first time you ever sold the Strand?

[fol. 4291] A. I will take that back. Years ago, yes, the early '20s, I handled the Strand Theatre.

Q. When Warner was operating it?

A. No, before Warner was operating it. When Moe Marks was operating it.

Q. You hadn't sold any pictures to the Strand since then, is that right?

A. I didn't sell them any then.

Q. What?

A. I didn't sell them any then.

Q. I say you haven't sold any since?

A. No, sir.

Q. Then when you went out to see Wallace to make this offer had you made any inquiry to determine what the Strand had been paying for Fox films?

A. Well, the Strand hadn't been playing any Fox films of that particular run. This was completely a new venture, completely new run, completely new everything.

Q. See if you can answer the question.

Mr. Wright: Will you read it?

(Question read.)

A. No.

Q. As I understood your testimony, the first thing that happened when you saw Wallace alone was that he told you what the policy of the house was and you wrote it down on [fol. 4292] this piece of paper that is marked Defendants' Exhibit D-159?

A. That is correct.

Q. Was that some paper you brought with you or did he give it to you? Do you know where it came from?

A. It came from the back of my book. It happened to be the hotel I stop at and it was some scratch paper I had in the back of my book.

Q. You had some paper in your pocket and you wrote this down?

A. In my book.

Q. Then the next thing that happened was that you wrote down these propositions here that are set forth in Defendants' Exhibits D-156, D-157 and D-158?

A. Correct.

Q. Where did you get the paper for those, that they were written on, do you know?

A. Possibly back of my book, probably from Mr. Wallace's office.

Q. You don't know where it came from?

A. I can't tell you. I just pick up any paper and stick it in my book.

Q. You just picked up these papers. Did you have a sheet of carbon paper with you?

A. Always.

Q. And you took the carbon and put it in between the [fol. 4293] two sheets. You wrote these out. Which one did you write first?

A. I can't tel you that. I can say I wrote this one first because that was your current product.

Q. 157 first?

A. I would say so, yes.

Q. And then did you write 156 and 158 immediately or was there some talk about 157?

A. I wrote them all out together.

Q. First you wrote out 157?

A. It probably was the first one.

Q. Then you wrote out the other two immediately with the copies. Then what did you do with the copies?

A. Gave them to Mr. Wallace.

Q. Did you give those to Mr. Wallace?

A. I retained those.

Q. Then when you had your discussion of the terms did you discuss them separately?

A. As an individual deal. They were individual deals.

Q. You discussed each one individually, is that right?

A. Individually.

Q. Which one did you discuss first, do you remember?

A. I would still make a guess that it was the current product.

Q. You still think it was 157?

A. Because that is what he was more interested in.

[fol. 4294] Q. In the course of the discussion you wrote down "Ahead of Empire," on your original 157 there?

A. Right.

Q. And then you reached over and wrote down "Ahead of Empire" on this sheet that is attached to 818?

A. That is correct.

Q. Then you had the discussion about the Bingo. Was that when you had that discussion?

A. We were discussing this proposition here (indicating).

Q. The current product. You didn't write anything down with respect to the Bingo, is that right, on either?

A. Just what do you mean on that? Do you mean in respect to something I agreed to let him do?

Q. No, as to what he had said he had wanted to do in respect to Bingo.

A. These were proposition sheets.

Q. There was nothing written by you?

A. Not on those sheets.

Q. On either copy, with respect to Bingo?

A. No, sir, not on those sheets.

Q. With respect to your D-157, you told them that you had been authorized by the Company to make this particular proposition that is set forth there?

A. (Witness nods in negative.)

Q. What did you tell him?

[fol. 4295] A. I told him that was the proposition we were making.

Q. Whose proposition was it?

A. It was mine. It wasn't the Company's. It was my proposition.

Q. This was your idea of what the deal ought to be?

A. No. I had, after our first visit, seen Mr. Samson. We had generally discussed terms but we could not put anything down, anything concrete, until we had a house policy, and from the house policy I made out those deals.

Q. After you got the house policy, this that you wrote down here on this proposition sheet, as you have referred to it, marked D-157, was your idea of what he ought to pay for those pictures in that theatre on that policy?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you didn't, as I understand it, have any authority to accept or make the deal at that time if he had said "Yes, I want them at those terms"; is that right?

A. If he said "Yes, I want them", I would have written a contract.

Q. You would have then prepared an application, is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you would have him sign it?

A. That is correct.

Q. And the application would have had to go through the [fol. 4296] normal channels?

A. Through the normal channels.

Q. And be approved before he had a deal, is that right?

A. Yes.

[fol. 4297] Q. And then the same thing,—oh,—with respect to those availability dates, now, how did you determine those?

A. How did I determine those dates?

Q. Yes.

A. I had my third-run dates. I determined them from the third-run dates.

Q. You knew then when these pictures were going to play third-run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then what did these dates represent with respect to availability in terms of number of days after third-run?

A. Well, that I can't answer, because I don't think they are all the same. I don't think they are the same number of days.

Q. Well, how did you determine it?

A. Well, that was determined from a lapse of playing time between third-run and the time I made it which would permit other theatres to play the pictures, certain theatres that it was necessary to protect on account of the $650 Bingo; not necessarily the theatres, but our own product it was necessary to protect.

Q. What were the pictures you wrote the availability date to protect?

A. It would be what theatres that had been sold at that particular time, I can't answer what those were.

[fol. 4298] Q. You don't know what those were, but those included the first three runs, is that right?

A. First three runs.

Q. As I understand you to say these availabilities were all after the first three runs?

A. Correct.

Q. So you had then sold the first three runs?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By the way, at this point have you been able to locate the second-run contracts yet? I might say, so that your Honor would know what these contracts are about here, these that were identified as Exhibits Nos. 963 to 978, inclusive, were produced in response to a subpoena calling for all of the Syracuse contracts for the sale of these five pictures that are contained in this offer and the exhibit No. 979 was left open for the second-run contract which was not available at the time these others were identified, and I, of course, would like to have that contract before we conclude the examination of Mr. Rowell.

Mr. Caskey: You can't.

Mr. Wright: You had it here once before.

Mr. Caskey: We sent it back. It is in New York.

The Court: Well, is there any dispute about the fact that there was this second-run contract?

[fol. 4299] Mr. Wright: Well, I don't know. At the time I asked for it there seemed to be some question as to whether there was a contract or where it was.

The Court: How would that have any effect?

Mr. Wright: I wanted to know definitely here what the situation was with respect to those first——

The Court: You mean the first——

Mr. Wright: The first three runs.

The Court: That they were exhausted, you mean?

Mr. Wright: No question about the fact that the first three runs had been sold on these five pictures at the time you made this offer, is that right?

The Witness: That is correct.

Mr. McClennen: In order that the record may not confuse us at a later time, this request for the production of these contracts is addressed to Warner's representatives and not to the defendants; Fox representatives, I beg your pardon.

The Court: You wouldn't naturally concede that you had the second-run; you wouldn't have the second-run contracts, you mean?

Mr. McClennen: We wouldn't be having the second-run.

[fol. 4300] The Court: No, I say that.

Mr. McClennen: The reference in this long list of contracts that were put in, it appears that there were only four that had been accepted.

The Court: The witness said that they had all been exhausted.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. The first three runs were sold, were those all exclusive runs in Syracuse?

A. Exclusive runs, first-runs, second-runs, third-runs.

Q. Then there were some other theatres, you say, that you, in addition to those that you fixed these availability dates to protect?

A. Not to protect the theatres, but to protect our pictures.

Q. Well, protecting your pictures in other theatres than those first three runs?

A. We had some valuable pictures there, and pictures running a house with Bingo $650——

Q. Let us see if I can get an answer to the question, the first-run theatres there that had contracts for the pictures were what, do you know?

A. First-run theatres?

Q. Yes, maybe this will help you.

A. R.K.O., Paramount and Capitol.

Q. That is according to this contract No. 963, the first- [fol. 4301] run was all for exhibition in the Paramount, Strand, Keith and Eckel, is that right?

A. Strand is something I didn't make the contract for; Paramount, Keith or Eckel.

Q. That was made at a time when the Strand was still in the pool?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then the exhibit No. 964 is the contract for a move-over at the Eckel, is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. That would be a run immediately following the first-run?

A. Not a run, it is a move-over.

Q. Well, the picture would play under this contract marked Exhibit No. 964 immediately after the conclusion of the play date at the Paramount, Keith or Eckel, is that right?

A. Well, you have the conclusion that it is at the finish of the engagement. It was a move-over and as soon as one house was finished it was moved over to the other house.

Q. That is what I was saying.

A. You said at the conclusion of the engagement; there isn't any conclusion of the engagement until it finishes at the Eckel.

[fol. 4302] Q. Then the picture would play at the Regent; is that right?

A. That is the second-run theatre, that is correct.

Q. That we don't have the contract for; then that would play at the Cameo?

A. Correct.

Q. Third-run, not less than seven days after the run at the Regent, is that right?

A. I don't exactly know the clearance offhand, but whatever is on there, third-run, Syracuse, seven days after Regent Theatre, seven days clearance on all subsequent-runs.

Q. Do you know what the interval was there that the Regent was supposed to play behind the Eckel?

A. 30 days.

Q. 30 days. Then after the conclusion of the run at the Cameo a picture would be available to all of the other runs in Syracuse, is that right, simultaneously?

A. Well, not all of them, no. There are some other runs that might have a clearance over some other in the particular zone, but, generally, they would be available after the Cameo.

Q. Well, now, what if any theatres were there other than the Regent and Cameo and Keith, Paramount and Eckel that you fixed this protection with reference to?

[fol. 4303] A. This protection?

Q. Yes.

A. None I have reference to there, but you said they would be available for all theatres; there are some theatres that they wouldn't.

Q. I understood you to say that in fixing these availability dates that are on this Exhibit D-157, you fixed those with reference to protecting the exhibition of these pictures in certain theatres?

A. Those theatres that had already been sold the product.

Q. Now, you don't know then what the names of those theatres are?

A. What the theatres are now, I could not tell you without the contracts.

Q. You don't know whether they included more than I have just mentioned or fewer?

A. Well, it wouldn't include the Regent and Cameo, because they are prior runs.

Q. And it wouldn't include the Novelty, either?

A. If the Novelty had been sold prior to that time (September 12th, yes, it would include the Novelty.

Q. And Happy Hour?

A. Novelty and Happy Hour, yes, I would say so. I would say it wouldn't include this, because it was a late dating house.

[fol. 4304] Q. And the Harvard?

A. The Harvard, possibly include the Harvard.

Q. And is that the Turn Hall?

A. No, it didn't include the Turn Hall at all because the Turn Hall wasn't sold at that time; it couldn't include the Turn Hall.

Q. It happens the Turn Hall was sold here October 9th, is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And this offer was made on October 3rd, is that right?

A. Correct.

Q. So then——

A. It didn't include this offer.

Q. So those theatres you were protecting then in addition to the first three runs were the Harvard, the Happy Hour and the Novelty?

A. Not the theatres, I was protecting——

Q. Is that right?

A. Not the theatres, I was protecting my product.

Q. You were protecting the exhibition of your product by these availability dates?

A. Not the Novelty?

Q. The Novelty, yes.

A. The Novelty happens to be a very, very late dater, six months after the release.

[fol. 4305] Q. Do you want to correct your testimony?

A. Not the Novelty, you said the Novelty.

Q. You said, as I understood, that the ones you fixed the preference for product, those were the ones sold prior to October 3rd?

A. The Novelty didn't include that.

Q. Did you say that?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. It now appears you were mistaken?

A. On the Novelty. After all, I am guessing what contracts were sold there; you have them in front of you, I don't know, you have them in your hand. You let me see them, and I will tell you which theatres I was protecting or which pictures.

The Court: Is it necessary to go all over this again? He states here he left out the Novelty. We are now concerned with the question of priority with reference to some of these first three runs over Wallace at the Strand.

Mr. Wright: It is important to show, from our standpoint, what these other theatres were with reference to which he fixed his protection.

The Court: He has already told you, he gave you a list of them. Now he says while it appears to have included the [fol. 4306] Novelty that shouldn't be included.

Mr. Wright: That is what I want to find out, whether there are any other corrections he wants to make.

The Witness: Those are the two theatres. (Referring to contracts). The Novelty appears to have been sold, but wasn't protected. If I protected the Novelty the availability wouldn't be on here until January, February, or March or April.

Q. The Harvard appears here?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Harvard admission price was what?

A. 20 cents.

Q. 20 cents evening adults, and children 10 cents?

A. Correct.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Witness, it is very hard for the stenographer, your not speaking louder.

The Court: You are around the corner there so much. Speak louder.

Q. Then, the price for "Charlie's Aunt" in this contract for the Harvard was what?

A. $27.50.

Q. And the price on "Charlie's Aunt" that you quoted to [fol. 4307] Mr. Wallace was $200?

A. Correct.

Q. And according to your policy notations, Mr. Wallace was to play that at the Strand at a 25-cent evening admission?

A. Correct.

Q. And he was to pay you $200 for playing "Charlie's Aunt" on a 25-cent admission after the Harvard had played the same picture at 20 cents at a $27.50 rental, is that right?

A. Correct.

Q. And setting up——

By the Court:

Q. That difference in price, what was that based on, the difference in the charge or the question of patronage?

A. The difference in the possibility of the theatre grossing. Some theatres can gross $2,000 and another gross $1,000 and another gross $100.

Q. How did the Harvard compare with the Strand?

A. With the Strand, just a fraction of the gross.

Q. The size of the theatre?

A. The size of the theatre?

Q. Yes.

A. Oh, possibly a third, maybe not that much.

Q. Larger, you mean?

[fol. 4308] A. Smaller. Probably it would seat a third or less than the Strand.

Q. How do you account for the difference in the price?

A. In admission?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, Mr. Wallace apparently put an admission on the Strand Theatre with the idea that it would be as cheap an admission as there was uptown, and not having a first-run picture he probably thought that was a suitable price. I don't know why he put a quarter on. The Harvard put 20 cents on because they thought that was a suitable price for a neighborhood theatre.

Q. I mean your charge?

A. Our charge?

Q. Yes, to the Harvard.

A. The cost of the picture?

Q. Yes.

A. The price of pictures are predicated on the gross of the theatre or the possibility of grossing, not on how much admission they charge, not on how many seats they have; it is predicated on the possibility of that theatre grossing.

Q. The grossing would necessarily depend on the size of the theatre?

A. No, the size of the theatre doesn't mean the amount [fol. 4309] the theatre can gross.

Q. That, combined with the charge for admission?

A. Providing they fill their seats, yes, it would have a lot to do with it, but first they have to fill their seats.

Q. They charge so much for the Harvard and so much for the Strand?

A. The Strand is a downtown theatre, one is a neighborhood theatre; one runs all day and the other runs just in the evening.

The Court: I did not understand about that. I did not know about that.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Now, going back to the Novelty, you had sold the Novelty at the time you made this offer, hadn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And as far as your contract was concerned, there was nothing to prevent the Novelty from playing these pictures that you had on your offer to Mr. Wallace ahead of the Strand, is that right?

A. There was nothing to prevent them providing he got them in and played it ahead of that particular date; that way he would have played them ahead.

Q. Will you just answer the question; would you read him the question?

[fol. 4310] A. I believe the question you will have to read for me.

(Preceding question read.)

A. That is right.

Q. And the price at which the Novelty played films was the price fixed on this contract, 15 cents for adults evenings?

A. That is correct.

Q. And the rental is $25?

A. Correct.

Q. And as far as Mr. Wallace is concerned, how many theatres played ahead, played these films on your exhibit

No. 157 ahead of him, other than those we have mentioned, depended entirely on when you would happen to make a contract with them, is that right?

A. Well, wait, at the time this was made there was no contract made with the others.

Q. I say, there wasn't anything to prevent you from, as far as the deal, your offer to Wallace was concerned, from selling them all the next day, was there?

A. Nothing to prevent it.

Q. Including the ten-cent houses?

A. Including any theatre if I could sell them the next day, just the question of the element of time.

Q. So that at the time you made him this proposition, and the proposition you made him didn't give him any assurance at all that the films would not play in every house [fol. 4311] in Syracuse except the Empire before he got a chance to play them, is that right?

A. The Empire was the only theatre that came in question on that proposition.

Q. See if you can answer the question? Repeat it.

(Question read.)

Mr. McClennen: I submit the question was answered by the witness.

The Court: I will hear the question.

(Question read again.)

The Witness: That is correct.

Q. And had the Strand ever been sold that way before, as far as you know?

A. As far as I know I don't think I can answer that, because there was too many years elapsed in between the managers that had it, it went through too many hands, I could not answer that. I don't know.

Q. Now, as I understood you, there was no discussion at all of these rentals that are written down on this Exhibit D-157?

A. The only discussion I can recall is the 35 per cent.

Q. Well, would you say there wasn't any other discussion?

A. Not to my knowledge. I can't recall it.

Q. Nothing was said about the amount of rentals at all, is that right?

[fol. 4312] A. No.

Q. That applied, too, to Exhibit 156, and have you the other one over there?

The Court: 158.

Q. Oh, yes, 158.

A. It applies to the three of them.

Q. Now, I notice on Exhibit D-158 you have some red pencil notations there; when were those put on?

A. This was my copy; those were put on after I made the proposition because the pictures were subsequently sold.

Q. Just when were they put on and where?

A. This is my copy. I put these on myself.

Q. I said when?

A. Possibly at the office when I found the pictures had been sold; I could not tell exactly where.

Q. Now, what did you do with these originals, D-158, D-156 and D-157, after you left the Strand Theatre?

A. Put them in my, what we call a "Sales Control Book", pinned to the sheet marked "Strand Theatre".

Q. And took it into the office?

A. No, sir, they are my copies for the next visit to Mr. Wallace.

Q. You didn't make any record in the office at all as to what had happened?

A. Oh, yes.

[fol. 4313] Q. Where is that record?

A. I don't know if I have got it or not. You will find a report with this all on it.

Q. Do you think you can find that for us?

A. Do I think I can find that for you?

Q. Yes.

A. It should be here.

Mr. McClennen: I think it is lying right on the table here, Mr. Wright.

(Document shown to and inspected by Mr. Wright.)

Mr. Wright: Has this been marked?

Mr. Rogers: Yes.

Mr. Wright: Oh, yes.

Q. Is this Exhibit No. 160 for identification, the report that you made?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you made that when you got back to the office?

A. I made that when I got back to my hotel.

Q. Then what did you do with it?

A. Mailed it into the office with my weekly reports.

Q. To the branch office?

A. Branch office.

Q. At Albany?

A. At Buffalo.

[fol. 4314] Or at Buffalo, and then you say you kept——

A. I kept that.

Q. That, yourself?

A. For my own personal record.

Q. And when was it you made these notations on here in the red?

A. I can't tell you, some time subsequent to October 3rd.

Q. You don't remember when it was?

A. The date?

Q. Yes.

A. No, there was no particular reason for remembering the date.

Q. You are sure you didn't make it at the time you had the conversation with Wallace?

A. With Wallace, no.

The Court: There is in the evidence one of these exhibits, a latter from the main office in reference to the sale of "The Empress".

Mr. Wright: I beg your Honor's pardon.

The Court: There is amongst the exhibits here one communication purporting to be from the main office with reference to the selling of the "Empress".

Mr. Wright: Selling of the "Empress" or "The Empire Theatre"?

[fol. 4315] The Court: The title of the film "The Empress", there is one in the exhibits.

Mr. Wright: I don't recall it.

The Court: "The Empress" and one other.

Mr. Wright: Such an exhibit, I think the titles of these five are "Charlie's Aunt", "Private Nurse", "Wild Geese Calling", "Sun Valley Serenade" and "Dressed to Kill".

The Court: Probably it isn't there, I thought amongst those 100 exhibits, those last introduced.

[fol. 4316] Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I think you have in mind the sale Martina of the "Mad Empress" by Warner's.

The Court: All right. I knew it was in there somewhere. I can't recall where it was. Yes, I guess it was one of the pictures referred to in that same letter. Go ahead, Mr. Wright.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I call your attention to this notation you made on your report, Defendants' Exhibit D-160 for identification, and ask you if that does not recall to your mind the fact that Mr. Wallace complained about the availibility that you had stipulated in this Exhibit D-156?

A. D-156?

Q. I beg your pardon. In D-157.

A. Well, I said that he objected to the availibility.

Q. And what did you say?

A. That was the availibility.

Q. That nothing could be done about that?

A. No particular thing. When we were making pictures available it was ahead of the Empire Theatre.

Q. Of course, the Empire Theatre never bought any of those pictures, did it?

A. Any of that particular group? I would have to look [fol. 4317] up that and see if they were ever played. I couldn't tell you. They were playing our pictures right along. They may have played some of them and may not.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Re-direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. You spoke about taking into consideration the grossing possibilities in fixing the price to be charged to a theatre.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you state just in what way you take that into consideration when fixing a flat rental?

A. How we take the grossing ability of a theatre into consideration when we fix the flat rental in a picture?

Q. Yes.

A. That all depends on the picture. If it is a top grossing picture we try to figure somewhere around 35 per cent of the gross as flat rental.

The Court: Rather than fixing a percentage?

The Witness: No, you are talking about flat rental now.

Q. In fixing flat rental the witness said they endeavored to arrive at the figure from top grossing figures of 35 per cent of the expected gross; is that correct?

A. That is correct. Take the gross and take 35 per cent [fol. 4318] and try to arrive at a figure at what you rent.

The Court: Wouldn't that depend on the time it was played, even though it was a high quality picture?

The Witness: It is pretty hard to tell when you are fixing the time of a picture when it is going to play. It may be six weeks, it may be two months, it may be six months from that time. It all depends on where you are dealing.

The Court: What do you charge for the first-run?

The Witness: Well, first-run I do not handle.

The Court: I mean the first-run there.

The Witness: I do not handle, I do not make the first-run contracts.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Well, is it a usual thing in the sale of pictures that the rentals charged the suburban houses are very much less than rentals charged the down-town houses?

A. The dollar-and-cent-rental, you mean?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, it is less.

Q. When you gave these prices, the proposed prices, to Mr. Wallace did you believe that they were fair prices for this downtown theatre, as he had described he proposed to operate it?

[fol. 4319] Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I think his belief is immaterial.

The Court: He can state whether that was fair rental.

Q. I ask you that.

A. I would say it was very fair.

Q. Did Mr. Wallace criticize the rental rates, except in this way you spoke of, having the Bingo deducted from the percentage pictures?

A. I can't recall any discussion outside of the 35 per cent due to the playing with Bingo.

Q. Did you say to him—and I am referring to page 2815—"That is the best we can do for you. You know we must protect the Schine account in Syracuse"?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. Did he say to you that your proposal did not constitute a valid offer?

A. If he did I can't recall it.

Q. This being the conversation of October 3 that I am speaking of, a week before your return on the Bingo question. Did he on October 3 say that he rejected the proposals?

A. Well, rejected in the sense that apparently 35 percentage was the obstacle.

Mr. Wright: That is objected to.

The Court: Yes.

[fol. 4320] The Witness: I don't know how else to answer it. He rejected it. He didn't buy it.

The Court: What did he say?

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. What did he say?

The Court: Did he say something about it?

A. The only way I can answer it is he objected to the 35 per cent with his Bingo.

Q. What did you say to him?

A. I said I would discuss that point with Mr. Samson and he made me a counter-proposition.

Q. Was anything more said?

A. Not that I can recall.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

The Court: That is all.

Mr. Wright: I just want to ask him a question.

The Court: All right, very well.

Re-cross examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. When you say you thought those rentals were fair for that situation, did you have some other particular comparable situation in mind?

A. No.

Q. You don't know of any?

[fol. 4321] A. Comparable to that?

Q. Yes, in Syracuse.

A. No.

Q. At the time these offers were made you knew about this lawsuit, didn't you?

A. This lawsuit at the time those offers were made?

Q. Yes.

A. I can't say that I did, no.

Q. Do you know whether you did or not?

A. Well, was it on then? How can there be a suit?

Q. Just answer the question.

A. No, I didn't know.

Q. Did you know then whether there was also a suit against the major film distributors?

A. I did.

Q. You knew about that?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

The Court: That is all.

ANDREW WILLIAM SMITH, JR., a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

[fol. 4322] Q. Your residence?

A. Greenwich, Connecticut.

Q. Your present position?

A. Eastern Sales Manager for 20th Century-Fox Film Corporation.

Q. When did you come to that position?

A. In July, 1942.

Q. Next prior to that what was your position?

A. Prior to that I was General Sales Manager for RKO-Radio Pictures.

Q. And when did you come to that position?

A. In October, 1939.

Q. And next prior to that what were you?

A. I was General Sales Manager for United Artists' pictures.

Q. And when did you come to that position?

A. In October, 1936.

Q. Next prior to that what was your position?

A. I was General Sales Manager for Warner Bros. pictures.

Q. How long prior to the latter part of 1936 had you been connected with Warner Bros.?

A. I had been connected with Warner Bros. since the year 1928.

Q. When did you enter the distribution of pictures business?

A. In September, 1914.

Q. In what capacity?

[fol. 4323] A. I was a salesman for Pathe, on the Lower East Side of New York City.

Q. How long did you go on in that position?

A. I believe I held that position for about a year and then I became booker in the New York branch office, the office that served the motion picture theatres with their films in the Metropolitan area.

Q. That is, of Pathe?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you went on in that position how long?

A. That was about a year and then I became the Assistant Branch Manager in New York and then went to the Boston office, where I was a salesman, and again a booker, and from there I went to Dallas, Texas, still for Pathe, as Assistant Branch Manager, and then I became Branch Manager in Dallas, Texas. That brought me up to 1918 and after that I again went back with Pathe for a few years, and then in 1924 I became a special sales representative for First National Pictures, and later became Eastern Sales Manager for First National Pictures, and remained with them up to the time that the Company was bought by Warner Bros. in 1928.

Q. And then the position you took with Warner Bros.?

A. I was a District Manager and later a Division Manager and then I became one of two general sales managers [fol. 4324] that Warners had. I became the General Sales Manager for the East in about 1932.

Q. And you continued in that position to the end of your connection with Warners, did you?

A. Yes, sir, July, 1936.

Q. And when you speak of Warners, in those days, technically, you mean Vitagraph?

A. Vitagraph, yes, sir.

Q. That position with Warner-Vitagraph brought you into general familiarity with the way in which contracts were handled as they came into the main office from the various branches?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. As the contracts came in were they given a number?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was the listing of them carried out on an abstract of contracts sent in from the branch office when the contract was submitted?

A. Yes, sir. With each separate contract, or with each group of contracts sent in from the branch, there would be an abstract of contract that would come into the home office.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have this marked for identification.

(Thereupon the abstract of contracts, August 15, 1935, referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-164 for identification.)

[fol. 4325] The Court: Do you have several of the same kind like that? You better have them all at the same time.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have this also identified.

(Thereupon the abstract of contracts referred to, December 2, 1935, was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-165 for identification.)

Q. I show you Defendants' Exhibit D-164, entitled "Abstract of contract, dated August 15, 1935," and call your attention to the column "Contract Number" and on it the numbers 4446 and 4447. What, according to the office system, did those numbers indicate?

A. Those numbers indicated that the first number, 4446, indicated that that was the next contract in line after 4445, to be sent in to the home office by the branch and 4447 would be the next one after 4446.

Q. And were the contracts numbered in the order in which they were received?

A. Approximately, yes, sir. The contracts would be numbered in the branch when they were ready to be sent in to the home office and then they would be sent in after the number had been put on and the branch would generally send in the contracts just as soon as they were made and as soon as the branch manager was satisfied that the deal was one that he felt was satisfactory for the Company and one that he would recommend.

[fol. 4326] Q. Refreshing your recollection from this Exhibit D-164 of August 15, 1935, will you tell us what No. 4446 was?

A. No. 4446 on this abstract of contract form, dated August 15, 1935, sent in from the Cleveland, Ohio, branch, stated that the contract was for the State Theatre of Bucyrus, Ohio; that it covered 30 Warner Bros. pictures, and stated the amount of money that the contract totaled.

Q. And 4447 was what?

A. 4447 was the same date, the same branch office, Cleveland, Ohio, the same theatre, the State Theatre, Bucyrus, Ohio, and it covered 30 First National pictures and stated the amount of the contract in dollars and cents.

Q. From your knowledge of the system pursued can you tell me whether this Exhibit D-148-A in evidence, having the contract number 4446, and the date July 13, 1935, and the approval date July 23, 1935, signed by the State-Bucyrus Co., M. H. Breyer, Secretary, is the contract there referred to?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And is the contract, Exhibit D-148-D, No. 4447, signed by the State-Bucyrus Company, M. H. Breyer, Secretary, approved September 5, 1955, the contract there referred to under that number on the abstract of August 15, 1935, Defendants' Exhibit D-164 for identification?

[fol. 4327] A. Yes, sir.

Q. And is this approval stamp "A. W. Smith, Jr.," appearing on each of these contracts, your approval stamp?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Calling your attention to Exhibits D-165 for identification, abstract of contract, dated December 2, 1935, and the item number 4797, State-Bucyrus, Ohio, the contract marked Plaintiff's Exhibit W-8 (16) for identification, March 26, 1942, signed by Belpik Theatre Corporation, the contract referred to in this abstract of contracts, December 2, 1935?

A. You wish me to identify it?

Q. Bearing the same number. Yes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the system pursued to have the contracts numbered in the approximate order of the receipt of them?

A. Yes, sir, the contracts, the system was to have the contracts carry consecutive numbers?

The Court: You mean consecutive numbers in the several districts or consecutive numbers of the total?

The Witness: It would be the consecutive number in the order of numbers for the branch. In this case it is the Cleveland branch. It would be contract 4497 for the Cleve- [fol. 4328] land branch.

Q. I notice that this number 4447, August 15, 1935, is 350 numbers earlier than 4797 on the abstract of contracts of December 2, 1935. At that time can you give us any approximation of the length of time in the Cleveland branch that it would take to make 350 contracts?

A. I would say a minimum of three months.

Mr. McClennen: I see that the contract which I described as Plaintiff's Exhibit W-8 (16) for identification, March 26, 1942, has in the present trial in 1944 become Plaintiff's Exhibit 62.

The Court: I was going to ask you about that exhibit because I did not remember any such numbering. The number is what now?

Mr. McClennen: The Plaintiff's Exhibit 62 in this trial.

The Court: All right. That is the exhibit you referred to as W-8 (16).

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Smith, when you were in the position that you described from '32 to '36 with Warners, you were familiar with the sales policies prevailing from time to time in the company, were you?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 4329] Q. What part did you have to do with examining those sales policies?

A. I was the executive head, sir, of distribution for the eastern half of the United States and had the final say as to policy.

Q. How long had you been familiar with the policies generally pursued by the film distributing companies of the country?

A. Well, that is a rather difficult question to answer, sir. I had practically the—it is the only business I have ever been in, the motion picture business, and I always tried to be a student of it and to acquaint myself with as much of it as I possibly could, not only distribution but exhibition and production. I felt if I could round out my knowledge I could do a better job of distribution.

Q. What did you observe as to the way in which these companies marketed their product, from season to season? I mean what the general course was that was pursued in the marketing of the product by distribution companies? To make it specific, take a season 1933-34, say. Will you describe, in a general way, how the season was projected and the way in which the sellers went to work to get their product on the market?

A. Well, we generally started our plans with a visit to [fol. 4330] the studio. In the group would be our Western Sales Manager, myself as Eastern Sales Manager, and we would have our Advertising Manager, and there would be other people in lesser positions. We would go to the studio and discuss with the head of production. At the particular time I speak of that production head was Jack Warner, one of the three Warner brothers, the youngest one, and he had charge of the Warner Studio at Burbank, California.

They had about 75 acres there. They had a real fine studio, and we would get out there and go into conference with him as to what our product for the new season would be.

Q. What time of year are you talking about, in the rough?

A. That would be around the end of January; might be February. And as time went on—it might be December of the previous year—and we would be headed toward a selling season starting September 1.

If we went in January, 1932, we would be headed toward a distributing season which would start December 1, 1932. To differentiate between selling and distributing, the selling generally was started well in advance of the distribution of the pictures for that new season.

Q. And I take it would be in advance of the production [fol. 4331] of those pictures?

A. Yes, sir. We would have our conferences with Jack Warner, as to the stories that he had. He would tell us about any plays that they had bought and he would tell us how much he had to pay for this play or that one, because he bought it in competition with everybody else that was making pictures, and sometimes we felt that he was paying quite a bit of money for them. And it might be too much. But we didn't say very much about that because the Warner brothers liked to run their business and Jack didn't like too much criticism. I don't think there is any production head out there that does like too much there. They are sort of temperamental. They feel they are doing a great job and they are all wonderful, and they really have made rapid strides.

We are currently in our fiftieth year of motion pictures and it is a far cry from the first ones that we had to the ones we see today.

After we had our sessions with Jack Warner and a line-up with the product he would give us as much information as he could as to stories, as to star in the different pictures, as to the cast in them. He would give us all possible information that would be useful to us in the sale [fol. 4332] of the pictures. We then would be ready for a convention and our convention would take place—it might be in the middle of May. It would generally be before the end of June. And to that convention we would bring our different exchange managers, with the executives of the branch offices.

To give you a little further idea on that: Fox, 20th Century-Fox, has 31 branch offices in the United States. Those are 31 selling and distribution points. Buffalo is one such point. Albany is a distribution point, New Haven, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, cities such as that.

We would bring our sales organization, branch managers, district managers, and sales managers, in to a central point. At that convention we would tell them about the pictures that were coming along and we would outline the manner in which we wanted them sold, because at all times we were in charge of the sale of those pictures and we had the final say as to policy and as to how our pictures were to be sold to the theatres.

Sometimes we didn't have too much information about a certain picture that Jack Warner was going to make and then we had to use a little imagination and paint a story [fol. 4333] and we tried to create as much honest enthusiasm in our sales staff as we possibly could. We hoped that most of the time that they believed in us and believed in our product and when they didn't there were many of them that would come out and tell you that they didn't.

The sales staff, after the convention, would go back to their respective branches, to the 31 branches, and then they would proceed with the selling of that season's product. They would make their deals and send them in to us for approval.

[fol. 4334] Q. How did you arrive at any method of pricing, and by that I mean the price that you would set to get, after you got some theatres, what were the considerations that led to a determination of that?

A. We attempted always to get a fair price for our product in so far as we were able to determine what a fair price should be. We felt that just like we were in a business, out of which we were trying to make some profits, that the exhibitor, too, should have an opportunity to make profits out of our pictures and in our pricing we had the interests of our customer as well as our own interest in mind, probably our own had a little priority over the customer.

The Court: You had the first cost, the price of the picture to start with?

The Witness: Your Honor, the cost price of a picture is not too great a determining factor.

The Court: The original cost to Warner of a product.

The Witness: I was just going to answer that, your Honor. That cost of the picture is not too great a determining factor in the amount of money a picture should bring in to you, because we generally sell our pictures based on their box office grossing ability, based on their value [fol. 4335] when they play the theatres. We did invest $1,500,000 this past season, 20th Century-Fox did, in a picture called "Life Boat." I don't know whether you saw it or not. It is a story of some people that were marooned on a raft after their ship was struck by a German submarine and what happened to it, and a German sub-marine captain got on board and they had a lot of struggles. It was a well made picture, directed by one of the best directors in the business. We had a lot of trouble, because we could not get a proper script on it, that is, they have a script, and they shoot the dialogue in words, and they shoot it from that, and we could not get a satisfactory script. I think we paid about $500,000 before we got into shooting the picture, photographing the picture at all. Sometimes we make mistakes like that. The fact that a picture costs all that money, didn't mean the exhibitor had to pay all that cost. We sold that picture for what we honestly thought it was worth to every theatre to whom we did sell it. I be- [fol. 4336] lieve we have sold that picture now to about 10,000 accounts. A real good picture like a Betty Grable picture "Coney Island," we will sell that to about fourteen to fifteen thousand accounts in the United States.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. By the way, around about how many moving picture theatres equipped for sound are there in operation in the United States?

A. I believe in number something in excess of 17,000.

Q. To divert from the course that you were on, after you have got your picture taken on your negative, it is not then ready for distribution until positives are taken?

A. That is quite right. The negative is just like the—did you ever own a Brownie camera?

Q. I don't want to admit anything on that score.

A. The negative is like the negative in a Brownie or Eastman, maybe an Eastman you had. You take your picture with a little camera and that is a negative that is on the little roll. You take it to the drug store and he makes positive prints for you. We do the same thing. We take our motion picture negative and make positive prints from that.

[fols. 4337-4338] Q. And what can you tell us of the cost of making one positive after you have got your negative ready for it?

A. A positive print of a black and white subject costs approximately somewhere in the neighborhood of $185. A color picture costs about three times as much.

Q. In the ordinary run of pictures, leaving aside the poorer ones, if you would be willing to admit you have some poorer ones, and especially good ones, about how many positives do you make of a picture?

A. I believe our average pictures will run about 300 positive prints of an A picture. On an especially good picture we will run as high as 360, 370 prints.

The Court: Does that mean——

The Witness: Those are the positives.

The Court: Those go into your distribution?

The Witness: Yes, those are copies, the positive prints that are sent to our branches, yes.

The Court: I think we will have to adjourn now.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until Friday, November 3rd, 1944, at 10 o'clock.)

[fol. 4339] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, November 3rd, 1944, 10 o'clock A. M.

Appearances:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Philip Marcus, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorney, in behalf of the United States.

Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rogers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Edward M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the Defendants.

[fol. 4340] PROCEEDINGS

(Reporter's Note: Correction, page 3562, line 13, reading "the distributors" should read: "two distributors").

ANDREW WILLIAM SMITH, JR., resumed the stand in behalf of the Defendants, having been previously sworn, was examined and testified further as follows:

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Smith, you said at the close yesterday that for your "A" pictures you would average to make 300 positive prints. What do you mean by an "A" picture?

A. By an "A" picture I mean a picture that is good enough in box-office values, or has a sufficient amount of box-office value, to play in the best theatre, where there is more than one first-run theatre, and to play—and where the playing time is less than a full week to play during the most productive days of the week which are, in general, Saturday and Sunday.

Q. And if a picture is not an "A" picture how do you denominate it?

A. Generally call it a "B" picture.

Q. And does the classification "B" exhaust the lists of all below the A's?

A. In the general classification, yes.

[fol. 4341] Q. Of your A pictures you say an average of 300 prints. You have said that there were some 17,000 theatres equipped for sound in the United States. In a rough, general, how many of those theatres would you be selling to in a given season?

A. Well, a very good picture would play approximately 14,000 of those theatres.

Q. Then one of your 300 prints would be called upon to serve just a little under 50 theatres?

A. Yes, between 40 and 50.

Q. And service of that print, we will say, to the first theatre, means sending it out from the exchange to the theatre in time to play at the booked time, the number of days that it plays there, its return to the exchange, and inspection before it is ready for its next tour?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Ordinarily, where the theatre is not in the exchange city, how is that delivery made?

A. Where the theatre is not in the exchange city delivery is made by a common carrier. That might be a trucking service, it might be by bus, it might be by train. It would be made through some common carrier.

Q. What would you reckon to be an average, fair allowance of time per tour, taking into consideration the quick [fol. 4342] deliveries in the same city as the exchange and the distant deliveries in the remoter parts of the exchange area? What should you say was an average time for a tour of duty of one print, assuming that it is two or three days on the tour?

A. That is a rather difficult question to answer, sir. We serve a print over a period of about a year's time. It plays more during the first 90 days than it does after that and there are some play dates that are subsequent to the year, and after two years' time we take all prints of a subject out of service. Does that answer your question, sir?

Q. Well, the answer can be computed from that, I think, without asking you any further.

A. Yes.

Q. Now, an exchange area throughout the country, as a whole, with your 14,000 theatres to be served out of how many exchanges?

A. Thirty-one.

[fol. 4343] Q. An average area served out of the exchange for those 14,000 theatres would then be in the vicinity of 450 to 500 theatres?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the way that you bring about serving some 450 or 500 theatres with only 10 or less positives?

A. Well, the theatres are served in a sequence of time. We start our picture, the regular procedure of distribution is to first play the larger theatres in the larger cities and towns and play those because those are the theatres that do the biggest business. Those are—sometimes we call a theatre in a large city a show window for that entire exchange territory and in that show window the picture is well advertised; the exhibitor buys space in the newspapers advertising that picture; he many times has a radio program; he has what we call a lobby display; that is, a display in front of his theatre and inside his lobby of scenes from the picture and of special announcements that he gets up and some that we furnish to him.

Q. Now, of your first-run theatres in a given exchange area, am I right that you can start off only 10 crack on the first day?

A. Well, you might possibly start off more by borrowing some prints that weren't working in another territory, but [fol. 4344] that ten would be the normal way to handle it.

Q. In the selection of the first-run theatres to play it is an effort made so that those theatres, those first-run theatres will be chosen in such a way that they are not directly pulling from each other on that particular day?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you state the basis of the competition between the first-run in a given town or competitive area and the second-run which must come later, if there is any competition between the two?

A. Well, we generally figure that there is a certain amount of money that an individual, we will say the public, has to spend for motion picture entertainment and if we say that that amount of money is $1.00 that they have to spend during a given week, then there is competition for that $1.00 because once that $1.00 is spent by the individual it can't be spent again and the first-run theatre is in competition with the second-run theatre or with any other theatre for that dollar and they want to get it and we want the first-run theatre to get that $1.00 because we can get more money out of that theatre than we can get out of the subsequent-run theatres.

Q. In approximate amounts how much do you figure, [fol. 4345] what percentage do you figure of your revenue comes from the first-run exhibitions as compared with the second and all other runs?

A. I think that figure will run pretty close to 70 per cent.

The Court: Does the answer mean that the second-run would be subject to 70 per cent of the first-run or the first-run would pay 70 per cent?

The Witness: No, your Honor, I mean that 70 per cent of all the money that comes into your company, into a distribution company, will come from those first-run theatres and 30 per cent will come from all other theatres.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. 30 per cent approximately being the product the second-run, the third-run, fourth-run, fifth-run or any number of subsequent-runs of that picture?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did the plan of clearance for the protection of the prior run against the subsequent-run first come into the industry?

A. The plan of clearance came into the industry, I can't name the year, but it was at a time when the motion picture business, we might say, grew up, and instead of having [fol. 4346] motion pictures shown in little stores or barns, or things like that, there was an investment made on the part of some one; an investment in what we call bricks and mortar. A man would buy or lease a piece of property and he would build a theatre, and before he was ready to show a picture he would have a very substantial investment in that theatre. I imagine that in the beginning a sizable theatre in a medium sized town could be built for between $75,000 and $100,000. In later days there were some theatres having an investment of a million dollars or more and when the man had that kind of an investment he wanted a protection for his investment and he wanted, if there was some other theatre near him and he had this investment, he wanted—he tried to bring about a condition whereby he had first crack at the picture and got to play it before the other man did, if the other man was in a competitive area, and I think that in general would be the start of clearance.

Q. As a matter of time has that method been in operation for upwards of 20 or 25 years past?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It is obvious that where you sell a picture to a theatre on percentage, that you are directly interested in the amount of the box office receipts of the theatre. Now, will you go [fol. 4347] on from that and tell us in what respect you are interested either at once or for the future in the high grossing possibilities of the theatre as affecting fixed rentals?

A. We use the knowledge we get from playing pictures on percentage in the theatre, at which time we are a partner of the theatre manager. We use the knowledge we get from that to determine what a fair price will be for a flat rental picture. If we have to—there are certain things we have to know before we can determine that, and we get as much knowledge as we possibly can before us and then proceed to determine a flat rental price. That flat rental price of necessity is based on the amount of dollars, the number of dollars that the theatre takes in on a flat rental picture, just the same as it is on a percentage picture, and the exhibitor, if we ask an exhibitor to pay us $200 as a flat rental price, with all the factors before us, we believe that $200 is a fair price, and if he plays the picture and comes to us and says "Now, look, this $200 was too much. I lost money when I played the picture", it is a custom of our company and a custom of the industry to listen to that man and in many, many instances reduce the flat rental price to the point where he can at least break even or show a small profit.

[fol. 4348] Q. That adjustment being made after he has played the picture?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you come to fixing the flat rental price which you are willing to take on a new operation of a theatre, where you haven't a past experience with that exhibitor and that operation, what are the elements that you take into consideration in determining that price?

A. Well, again, we would endeavor to estimate how much money that theatre could gross. We would probably ask the theatre man what his expenses were. He might tell us and he might not. Some of them are rather peculiar that way. They don't like to tell you too much about their expenses and sometimes when they give you a figure it isn't as correct as it might be, but we do as good a job as we can to estimate what the gross on the picture will be and from that we arrive at a fair film rental and then when our pictures start playing that theatre—now, sir, as you know, we sell pictures only in small groups.

Q. In all the questions I put to you please assume that we are talking about a period before 1940.

A. Oh, yes.

Q. On these general descriptions.

A. In the case of a new operation, such as that, the procedure would be to sell a limited number of pictures and [fol. 4349] then to, what we call, to check the box-office of a theatre during the time that the picture was playing. By checking the box-office of a theatre I mean have a man there who would stand in front of the theatre with a clock and every time a person would go in the theatre he would press a little button and that would register an admission. He would do that for everybody he saw go in the theatre. Some might go in the back way and he might miss them, but your check is generally pretty accurate, and knowing what the man's admission price is we can compute how much business that he did on our picture, and from that point on we don't have to guess. We know the figure.

Q. If you have a theatre in a down-town city district, running a normally successful operation, with, say, three-a-day, that is, a matinee and an early evening and a late evening, and have the number of seats—take for illustration 1600 seats in the house—in the estimating in the industry how many admissions during the course of the day, taking the three times into consideration, is it figured that those seats will be filled? That is, whether it is once or less than once, on the average, or twice, or once and a half, or what?

A. We customarily figure so that a theatre operating, as [fol. 4350] you say, in a down-town section of a city, will have one full house during three shows. That means if a theatre has 1600 seats that there will be 1600 admissions sold during the three performances, where the possibilities would be three times 1600 or 4800.

Q. So that on the figures assumed you would get, if it was a 25-cent house, $400 a day in box-office returns?

A. Yes, sir, if 25 cents was the average price. There might be a differential between matinee and evening price but if 25 cents was the average price that is what it would be.

Q. And for four days you would have, on that basis, a matter of $1600?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say your effort on your A pictures is to get 35 per cent of the box office receipts?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Are most of the A pictures let on a percentage basis?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. So that if there was nothing more to be said your $1600 would make an asking price of something like $550?

A. For a flat rental picture?

Q. For a flat rental picture.

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 4351] Q. Do you remember "Sun Valley Serenade" that Fox brought out in the '41-'42 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What grade of picture was that?

A. That was an A picture.

Q. We have been speaking so far of first-run pictures, first-run theatres. Is this 35 per cent that you speak of a mark that you aim at in second and subsequent runs also?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. There is one element still to be considered. Suppose you have "Sun Valley Serenade" at 35 per cent and are aware of the fact that in order to get in the $1600 imagined you have to have a second feature, or vaudeville or bingo, or some other attraction. What part does that play in your arriving at your figures? Do you make allowance against the gross for the cost of those things or how do you get so that you are getting only 35 per cent of what is fairly attributable to your picture?

A. Where a theatre plays or operates on a double-feature program, playing two feature pictures on the same program, or where a theatre has some other form of entertainment that is played with the feature picture, such as bingo, which many theatres used to have, and that has been ruled illegal, [fol. 4352] I believe, in most States now, the custom is to allow a deduction from the total receipts of the theatre during the time the picture in question has played, allow a deduction from the total number of dollars that come in at the box office. The deduction in the case of a second feature would, in general, be the actual cost, the actual amount of film rental that the theatre paid for that second feature. In the case of an attraction, some other attraction, you follow the same procedure. In general it would be the actual cost of that attraction and that sum of money would be deducted from the total number of dollars the theatre took in while the feature was playing and then we would get our 35 per cent of the remainder.

Q. In the suppositious pictures I put before you, before we get to the $550, there would have to be these deductions you have just mentioned?

A. Yes, from the total sum of $1600 there would be a deduction.

The Court: That would not contemplate a playing of two so-called A pictures at the same time, would it?

The Witness: The theatre would have to make an awfully good buy on one of those two pictures, your Honor, to be [fol. 4353] able to play two A pictures on the same program. They would have to have a deal on that picture that would permit that. If they were playing two A pictures and they were both 35 per cent pictures, if we let them deduct 35 per cent of the gross on the second picture, there wouldn't be much left for the other.

The Court: They wouldn't ordinarily do that?

The Witness: No, sir.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. With your knowledge of the business, on the figures you have just stated, if you assumed that the Strand Theatre in Syracuse had upwards of 1600 seats and was to open up at an admission price of 25 cents and was to play for four days and was to play "Sun Valley Serenade" in the fall of 1941 at $200 a.g.; 35 per cent for four days—I am reading from Defendants' Exhibit D-157—first let me ask you what that expression means in the trade, $200 a.g. 35 per cent four days"?

A. That means $200 against 35 per cent of the gross. It means that we are to get 35 per cent of the gross of the theatre during the time it plays that picture but in no event [fol. 4354] less than $200.

Q. On the assumptions I have just made, in your experienced opinion, what would be a reasonable guarantee figure in the business sense for such a picture?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that is objected to. This witness has not given any testimony which demonstrates qualifications to make this particular judgment. I submit that if anybody is going to come here and say whether or not that particular offer was reasonable it ought to be somebody who knew what the Syracuse situation was at the time, who would be doing business with those theatres. This witness, I believe, was not even with the Fox Company at the time that that deal was made. There hasn't been any showing that he knew what the conditions in Syracuse were at that time, what runs what theatres played, what the policy of that particular theatre was, or what the other theatres in Syracuse did, and he hasn't any basis at all for estimating what the gross receipts that might be expected [fol. 4355] from that particular theatre and that particular picture were at that time, or would be, and in the absence of any such knowledge it is obviously incompetent to tell correctly what a proper price would be.

[fol. 4356] The Court: Is the question based on the assumption there will be a certain amount of gross in the town? Is the inquiry based on the assumption of a certain amount of gross?

Mr. McClennen: Yes, if your Honor please.

The Court: A gross of $1600?

Mr. McClennen: A gross of $1600, and so far as the argument in opposition is concerned, we have already done that part; we have shown by the evidence of the experienced man Rowell, with 25 years' experience, of Syracuse, that this is a fair price. Now, so far as an expert in this industry is concerned, if the United States can bring a more qualified man than Mr. Smith to testify, we await that event, one of the most experienced men in the industry dealing with this subject, and this is not asking him more than just the expert witness' opinion.

The Court: Let me understand it, because I do not understand it. Is this question as to the proper charge based upon the gross of $1600?

[fol. 4357] Mr. McClennen: It is based on these facts that were at hand when this figure was arrived at as set out in Defendants' Exhibit D-157, October 3rd, 1941; these facts are the experiences in the industry as to what can be expected ordinarily in a theatre and based upon a seating capacity of 1600 seats, and the policy stated to Mr. Rowell of 25 cents admission. Those are definite factors in the situation, and now I am asking this witness what, in his opinion, would be, in the business sense, a fair guarantee figure to have in the offer under those circumstances.

The Court: Well, under just what circumstances?

Mr. McClennen: A downtown theatre in Syracuse, with over 1600 seats, and an exhibitor proposing to operate that theatre at a 25-cent admission and to run Bingo as an attraction and the picture up for consideration being such a picture as "Sun Valley Serenade" has been described to be in the season 1941-42. Those are the known definite elements which I assume.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, on his own statement, [fol. 4358] the question there eliminates a number of elements that were then known and which this witness isn't shown to have known anything about,—to-wit: the operating policies and admission prices and rentals paid by other theatres in the City of Syracuse. Now, this——

The Court: He is assuming and is anticipating that a certain policy and admission price,—the question of 25 cents for the average time.

Mr. Wright: I said with respect to other theatres. There is nothing in the—there is no question about the fact that at the time this offer was made the man who made it was familiar with the price policies of the other theatres in Syracuse and the time when they played or would play these pictures with reference to the play at the Strand Theatre. Those are, of course, necessary factors which had to be considered in determining what price the Strand ought to pay, and they have been completely omitted from the question and they are, of course, factors about which [fol. 4359] this witness hasn't testified that he knows anything.

The Court: You spoke about Bingo. Now, does this question contemplate an allowance for Bingo in the price at the time?

Mr. McClennen: It contemplates that an allowance would be made for Bingo following the course which the witness has described and which the Witness Rowell described.

The Court: The fundamental—or the difficulty seems to be that we cannot tell what the income would be or the gross would be, without the benefit of different circumstances being assured. Of course, the evidence so far—there is evidence so far, of course, showing the basis of the charge, based upon a certain amount of income per year. Now, if you assume that in three days this theatre had an income in gross of $1600——.

Mr. McClennen: Four days.

The Court: Four days, whatever the period might be, and some definite amounts were deducted for Bingo, then he is in a position to state whether that is a reasonable charge based on such a gross.

Mr. Wright: I might make the further objection that [fol. 4360] there is no showing at all that Rowell made any offer with reference to any Bingo allowance. The offer as made by him, and written out, did not include any statement with reference to Bingo whatsoever. There was no such offer made. The offer was as written there to pay these certain percentages and rentals.

The Court: There was testimony that it played Bingo there.

Mr. Wright: The policy—have you got the exhibit that has the policy written on it?

Mr. McClennen: The policy appears there as, that when Bingo was played the admission price was to be 50 cents.

Mr. Wright: The statement as to policies that Mr. Rowell had when he made out the offer simply said "Tuesday and Friday Evenings, Bingo, $650, Adults 50 cents net," and he then wrote out the offer and there was no allowance offered for any picture on such nights, as Bingo might play. If it played on Monday or played on Saturday, Sunday, Monday or Wednesday and Thursday, Bingo wouldn't figure in the offer at all.

[fol. 4361] Mr. McClennen: Perhaps I might put a preliminary question to the witness.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. In the period when Bingo was being played in the theatres, can you tell me whether or not where it was only intermittently played, whether the Bingo nights were usually the slack nights of the week rather than the nights when a prominent striking picture was to be played?

A. In general Bingo was played during the nights that up to that time had not been producing much in the way of revenue and, in an effort to try and get more money into the box office, the exhibitor had a Bingo game or something else to help out.

Q. I will ask you to assume this also, that the salesman making the proposition said at page 4286 "Well, in relation to the counter proposition, or, that is the proposition of the percentage pictures with Bingo and his counter proposition, I made him another proposition in which I offered to permit him to deduct the difference between the Bingo admission and the regular admission before computing the percentage." Now——

Mr. Wright: Of course, just a minute, what counsel is reading from is testimony given with reference to a later [fol. 4362] conversation on October 10th.

Mr. McClennen: If you will let me finish the question, it will appear. Mr. Stenographer, will yo upick up before the interruption and give me the latter part of what I was saying?

(Latter part of preceding question read.)

Q. Now, I want to assume also that that proposition was made a week later and that at the time that the original proposition, D-157 Exhibit was made, there had been no suggestion made to Mr. Rowell that Bingo was to be played on the same night as "Sun Valley Serenade." Now, adding those things to the question, I ask you what, in your opinion, would be a fair business-like price to state against 35 per cent on such a picture as "Sun Valley Serenade"?

Mr. Wright: It still, if your Honor please, does not appear that this witness knew any factors which are obviously of importance in determining what a fair price would be: (1) What that theatre had paid for pictures before; (2) What other theatres in that town paid, what policy they played on with respect to runs and admission price and [fol. 4363] what, if any comparable situations there were to the one that was being then sold. There hasn't been any showing.

The Court: As I pointed out in the first place, I don't see how any one can make an estimate of the proper price in a theatre unless he was advised in reference to certain factors; that the largest thing and the important thing would be that he knew what the attendance was, what it would ordinarily be. Now, if you say you assume here an attendance of 1600 were going to see the show or the picture, then, of course, the witness may say what is the proper charge for a picture to be displayed to such a capacity house. Again there is nothing to show here, in your assumption, the amount deducted for Bingo. Of course, you say the Bingo levels off the period of the whole week so that the average would be for the week or the period of the show. Of course, if you take that into consideration in estimating the amount the purchaser pays, then it would be competent. On the other hand, does it appear when this show was [fol. 4364] showed, what time it was showed.

Mr. McClennen: This proposition was not accepted.

The Court: No, no. What dates were fixed? Were dates fixed?

Mr. McClennen: This proposition was made on October 3rd, 1941.

The Court: There were no dates then fixed, Friday, Saturday or Sunday, or Saturday, Sunday and Monday?

Mr. McClennen: The dates fixed in the proposition are Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and then further that "Sun Valley Serenade" and "Dressed to Kill" were to be played on the same bill, and that the proposal of "Dressed to Kill" was a flat rental of $100.

The Court: You see, again, that is another factor that seems to me makes the inquiry more speculative. If he knows the basis for it then he can say what a proper charge would be.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, if I might rest there, I will ask Mr. Smith:

Q. Will you assume, also, the elements that his Honor has just mentioned and state what, in your opinion, would [fol. 4365] be a fair bottom price on such a picture as "Sun Valley Serenade" when dealing with a situation of a theatre that had had only 12 days' experience in running as a new operation at that time?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, the question is now, it seems to me, completely unintelligible and pure argument in any event and still omits factors which would necessarily have been taken into account in determining any fair rental, to-wit: the number of theatres which would play the same pictures ahead of this theatre and the prices at which they would play at the period of time during which they would exhibit them.

The Court: There is considerable merit in what you say, but there is some testimony directed to the same proposition. I think the confusion is overcome, perhaps, by adding what I suggested, but there are so many factors entering into this question; now, if you knew what the gross from the house was, the answer would be simple. Now, the question is assuming that there is a gross of $1600 for the four days of the show, over which this film will be showed. Then [fol. 4366] I think the witness is competent to answer what would be a fair charge for the service.

Mr. Wright: Of course, the witness has already testified it isn't customary to assume a gross where they have a new operation. They run some pictures and check them and find out what the gross is.

The Court: If there is no basis for it, of course, it wouldn't count much, but taking that assumption, assuming this house grossed $1600 during the period of this film, then what would be a proper charge, and I think you can go farther than that and state if there is Bingo.

Mr. McClennen: That is the assumption I make.

Q. Mr. Smith, what would be a proper——

A. In my opinion a proper rental, if we were to deal on a percentage basis, would be 35 per cent of the gross. It was estimated it would do $1600. After taking from that gross $100 paid for the second feature "Dressed to Kill," then you have 35 per cent of $1500, and in arriving at the flat rental, 35 per cent of the gross of $1500 as a flat rental, maybe shading that a little bit, because you are estimating and you don't know whether you are right or wrong, and [fol. 4367] when a man pays a flat sum, that is a guarantee and the money goes to you; you are not sharing in what comes in in that case, and he is entitled to a figure that would be less than 35 per cent of the estimated gross.

Q. Then, if it was $1600, you would take away $100 for the second feature?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Making it $1500; then if there was no Bingo your answer amounts to saying 35/100 of $1500?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And if there was to be deducted, not Bingo at cost, but instead the difference in the admission price when Bingo was played over what that admission price was when Bingo was not played and the percentage were figured only on the balance of the $1600 which came from the 25-cent admission, by which the $1600 had been arrived at, your figure would still be 35 per cent of $1500?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: In other words, you are figuring on a gross of the same amount, I mean, the average right through the same?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: That the attendance would level off the gross in estimating your percentage?

The Witness: Yes.

[fol. 4368] The Court: I mean by that your statement relates to the inquiry where a charge of 50 cents is made, that might fall down to 25 cents certain dates, and that is made up on the bingo nights, so the average would be $1600 gross?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Smith, in determining your sales policy——

The Court: Just one question. Let me ask you: What is the name of the picture you referred to?

Mr. McClennen: "Sun Valley Serenade."

The Court: Where was that played in Syracuse?

The Witness: I don't know, sir. As Mr. Wright pointed out, I was not with the Company at the time that picture was put into release. I did see the picture when I joined the Company. It is a Sonja Henie picture.

The Court: The question is where it was played and what the charge was.

Mr. McClennen: I think from contracts not yet in evidence we will be able to answer that in a moment. I don't recall that the testimony shows.

Mr. Wright: We have the contract that shows where it played.

The Court: I forgot what that was.

[fol. 4369] Mr. Wright: We put in the contracts for all of the theatres in Syracuse that played the picture, with one exception.

The Court: The point of my inquiry was: What percentage does that show?

Mr. McClennen: Those are the contracts I told you we were sending for, if your Honor please, to show what the runs were.

Mr. Wright: We have the contracts in evidence.

The Court: What does that show?

Mr. Wright: The contract for the first-run shows "Sun Valley Serenade" sold first-run, Syracuse, to the Paramount, Strand, Keith or Eckel, a contract dated August 8, 1941, with S.K.E. Operating Corporation, "Sun Valley Serenade" to play the Keith or Paramount seven days, no guaranteed minimum license fee, distributor's fee on the gross receipts 35 per cent.

The next contract was between the same parties and the same date, which is Exhibit 964, provides for a moveover to be played at the Eckel Theatre, with no minimum guaranteed license fee, to play seven days. The distributor's [fol. 4370] share of the gross receipts 25 per cent.

The second-run contract has not yet been produced.

By the way, has that been received yet?

Mr. McKay: No.

The Court: What was the name of that?

Mr. Wright: The Eckel.

The Court: Was that a down-town theatre?

Mr. Wright: Yes. The Eckel Theatre and Paramount were all operated by the Schine-RKO pool.

Mr. McClennen: These two contracts, if your Honor please, are Exhibits 963 and 964, which were approved 11 days after this offer was made by Mr. Rowell to Mr. Wallace.

Mr. Wright: The approval date does not appear here.

Mr. McClennen: The approval date appears stenciled in at the signature as 10-14-41.

Mr. Wright: Well, this is the approval date here, 10-14-41.

The Court: What significance has the approval date?

Mr. McClennen: Because there was no contract in existence up to the time of the approval date, October 14, 1941.

The Court: For this film?

Mr. McClennen: For this picture, to any theatre.

Mr. Wright: Well, if the Court please, there was an appli- [fol. 4371] cation on August 8, 1941, which set forth these terms, and which was ultimately approved. There is no question about what had been done prior to October 3rd.

The Court: What was the theatre after that?

Mr. Wright: The second-run theatre was the Regent, for which we don't have the contract.

The third-run theatre was the Cameo, and I believe the contract is here. Yes, that is application date September 12, 1941, and is signed by Herman Lauber. If it has an approval date on it I don't know where it is.

The Court: What are the terms?

Mr. McClennen: It hasn't in terms any approval date, but I rather suspect this date up here, September 25, 1941, is the approval date on Exhibit 965.

Mr. Wright: I suppose that probably is too.

Mr. McClennen: There is a stamp up there "September 25, 1941."

The Court: What are the terms?

Mr. Wright: The terms are on "Sun Valley Serenade," a minimum guarantee of $100, and the distributor's share [fol. 4372] in gross receipts is 35 per cent. The exhibitor is given the privilege of deducting the cost of the second feature, not to exceed the price of exhibitor's bottom flat from gross receipts of 201 and 205, before computing distributor's share. It is "Sun Valley Serenade."

The Court: Is this the Cameo?

Mr. Wright: This is the third-run, yes.

The Court: What is the capacity of that theatre?

Mr. Wright: It doesn't appear from the contract.

The Court Is that a suburban of down-town theatre?

Mr. Wright: I am not sure whether it is down-town or not, but it was the third-run. The witness Rowell testified it was the exclusive third-run in Syracuse.

The Court: I suppose the amount depends on the class of house.

Mr. Wright: I would assume so. I would assume it would also depend on the admission prices charged and the period when the picture played and how much of the customer's dollar had been taken out in the course of prior engagements at other theatres.

The Court: Ordinarily charge rent after the first showing?

[fol. 4373] Mr. Wright: Ordinarily the rentals would decrease with the age of the picture.

The Court: Proceed then.

Mr. McClennen: It does not appear in evidence the Cameo Theatre was in fact a neighborhood house running nights only. It does not, of course, appear in evidence the returns which the distributors received on those 35 per cent contracts from those other theatres, so I am not in position to state those figures to you.

The Court: I do not recall. You say there is nothing in the evidence to show the location of the Cameo. Certain of these theatres are outside of the business district center.

Mr. McClennen: I am not sure enough of its being in evidence to assert it. It seems to me it was, in general, stated that we have heard these other names of the downtown theatres and the rest were neighborhood houses, but I can't remember at the moment the Cameo having been mentioned.

The Court: We will find out later.

[fol. 4374] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. I notice in Mr. Wright's remarks to the Court just now the assertion that the percentage should go down as the runs progressed onward or downward, as you may call them. Does that affect at all your testimony to the contrary, given this morning, that the effort was to obtain the same percentage of gross receipts from the later runs as from the earlier?

A. No, sir.

The Court: You mean by that the effort was to obtain the same percentage?

The Witness: Yes, your Honor.

The Court: Same percentage of each run?

The Witness: Of each run.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Smith, have you any approximate information as to the number of the approximately 17,000 theatres you have spoken of in the country that are situated in towns or cities where there is only the one theatre to which you can sell?

A. I don't have any knowledge of that, sir.

Q. When a theatre is the only theatre in the town what is the sales effort that you make directed against? That is, what competition for that business?

A. Where there is only one theatre we are in competition [fol. 4375] for the sale of our product with at least nine other companies—do you wish me to name the companies, sir?

Q. You may as well, and I am asking this as of some time prior to 1940, so include your own company, making ten, and name the list.

A. I will start with the best company, 20th Century-Fox, and Paramount, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Warner Bros, RKO, Universal, Columbia, Monogram and Republic.

Q. I counted only nine there. Did you mention United Artists?

A. United Artists. I did not mention it.

Q. Under those circumstances do you find it necessary to attune your prices so as to see that you get the business, if possible, as against the nine others?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you have a place where there is more than one theatre and the two or more theatres are in operation of disconnected parties, in exercising your desire to select your customer, as between the two or more, what are the elements that you take into consideration in, let me say, the years 1932 to the beginning of the year 1940?

A. In selecting a customer for our product in a competitive area during that period of time we would take into consideration the ability of the customer to gross. We [fol. 4376] would want to know how much money one theatre could be expected to do on a certain picture as against the amount that the other theatre would be expected to do. We would try and arrive at that estimate, if we didn't have figures. Then we would take into consideration the operation of the theatre, the people who were conducting that business. We would try to find the more substantial business man of the two. We would take into consideration the theatre itself. We, of course, like to play our pictures in the nicest theatre, a theatre that has comfortable seats, a theatre that shows a good clear picture on the screen, a theatre that is well-ventilated and well-managed all the way through. We would prefer to have our pictures play in that type of theatre. If the admission price of one theatre was higher than the admission price of the other we would, in general, desire to play our picture in the theatre charging the higher admission price.

Those would be some of the factors. There would be others too.

Q. In determining whether or not you will sell a second-run in that town, or in that competitive area, or any later runs, what are the elements that you take into consideration?

[fol. 4377] A. In selecting a second-run in a competitve area we take into consideration, first, a protection of the film rental that we expect to get out of the first-run. Before we select a second-run theatre we make sure that the operation of that theatre and the playing of our picture there will not harm the possibility of that picture during its full amount of business, the full amount of business it is capable of doing at the first-run house.

We take into consideration also the same elements that we take into consideration for the first-run theatre, the condition of the house itself, the projection, sound, ventilation, and so forth.

We take into consideration the location of the house. If there is a house in an area that is on a busy corner, or is located where more people are closer to the theatre, we like to play that house, rather than one that is around the corner and off the beaten path.

Q. Will you describe the terms "hold-over", "carry-over" or "move-over"? As they are used in the trade.

A. The term "hold-over" means continuing the engagement of a picture for more than the contracted number of days in the same theatre. For instance, in Buffalo, we generally contract for a picture to play seven days at the [fol. 4378] Great Lakes Theatre. If the picture does a very substantial amount of business it is the custom of the Great Lakes Theatre to hold that picture over for an additional seven days and that would be a "hold-over".

Sometimes they hold a picture over for a third week and then you have 14 days "hold-over".

A "carry-over" and "move-over" is moving the picture over or carrying it over to another theatre in the same city, in the same competitive area, another first-run theatre.

Carry-overs and move-overs are continuation of the first-run and they are in the theatres that are owned, or theatres in which the first-run theatre has an investment.

Q. Where there is either a "hold-over", a "carry-over" or a "move-over", is the entire operation still treated as the first-run?

A. Yes, sir, including the admission price, which remains the same throughout the entire run.

Q. When you sell a picture—and, by the way, that term "sell" is the one regularly used in the trade to describe your licensing a picture for exhibition?

A. Yes, sir. We don't really sell the picture to the theatre. We deliver it to the theatre for a contract engage- [fol. 4379] ment and then we get that picture back.

Q. When you license a picture to a theatre on a percentage of the gross receipts how do you know how to bill a theatre?

A. The theatre prepares a box-office statement. They prepare the figures daily. That box-office statement shows the number of admissions sold at each performance during the day and the price at which those admissions were sold. Then at the conclusion of the engagement we have a statement of the entire run of the picture and sometimes we check the theatre. We have a checker at the box office and we compare our count with the report that the theatre gives us. Sometimes there is a slight discrepancy between the two figures.

Q. Are those percentage reports ordinarily signed by the man who operates the theatre at the time that the percentage picture played?

A. They are signed by the man who is operating the theatre or his theatre manager, or some one from his company.

Q. And those reports, when they come in, if they haven't been tested, checked, or otherwise shown to be erroneous, are taken as the basis for billing the theatre for the rental of that picture?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: We will suspend for five minutes.

(Short recess taken.)

[fol. 4380] Mr. McClennen: I am told, and I am not sure that it is in evidence, that "Sun Valley Serenade" was played at the Keith from September 18th to 24th, seven days, and that at the Eckel, September 25th to October 1, seven days.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, if we are going to have evidence on this, I suppose we ought to have it introduced in the usual way. There are playoff records which I suppose will show all the rentals received.

Mr. McClennen: I did not suppose there was any question about it and I withdraw my remark.

Mr. Wright: I think we ought to know what they received.

Mr. McClennen: I said I didn't suppose there was any question about it and I withdraw my remark.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Since you have come to the head-ship of this sales department of Fox, have you had occasion to familiarize yourself with the policies that were prevailing with the Company in the period prior to your coming there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I confine this question which I am about to put to you to your personal knowledge, not what you have been told [fol. 4381] by anybody else; to your knowledge has there been any conversation with any of the defendants or their executives or employees not to deal with any competing exhibitor or to restrict the terms of such dealings?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that question isn't one that could be properly answered in my opinion by any witness, least of all this one who is now giving testimony. That would be purely hearsay in any event, what came to his attention with respect to the prior policy of the Fox Company, and certainly isn't competent evidence on any issues that we are trying here.

The Court: He was the manager of the company.

Mr. Wright: He was asked about, as I understand it, the policy with respect to the period before he came with the company, if I understood the question correctly.

Mr. McClennen: This question is not directed to the Fox Company. It is directed to his personal knowledge and was prefaced by a warning that he should not go outside of his personal knowledge. This man has been a head in the sales department of Warner, R.K.O. and United Artists during [fol. 4382] the periods involved in this case, that is, from 1932 to 1942. He did not come to the head-ship of Fox until after the date that has been selected as terminal, May 19th, 1942.

The Court: Well, at least your question should be limited to the companies with which he was employed. I don't think he can answer the question generally as to all the companies.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, he might have been present at a conference at which he heard some defendant say something to somebody else. I am clearing the way of his knowledge.

The Court: That is too indefinite for a denial of the charge. How can the plaintiff seek to show the contrary?

Mr. McClennen: If there was nothing, he will answer "No", and if there was something then it becomes important to find out what that is.

The Court: Suppose he answers "No"; what position would the plaintiff be in to show the contrary of that in every company?

Mr. McClennen: I am asking him only his own personal knowledge.

[fol. 4383] The Court: I will disallow it except you show the companies.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, even as to that it would be objectionable as calling for a conclusion. What he ought to state, if he is going to state anything, is what negotiations he had with the defendants here, what was said during the course of these negotiations. It doesn't appear yet whether he participated in them, or whether he participated at all. All that would have to appear there to be any foundation for this question now being asked.

The Court: Mr. Smith, in his position, it seems to me his relations with these companies since 1932 is such he had some contact with those making licensing agreements.

Mr. McClennen: I am not asking——

Mr. Wright: The extent of the contacts, who they were with, when they occurred, where they took place is something he isn't informing us about at all. I submit before he is given an opportunity to draw any general conclusions, such as he is asked to draw here, there ought to be testimony [fol. 4384] at least fixing the scope of these matters he is talking about.

Mr. McClennen: I am not asking him for any conclusions whatever. I am asking him for the plain facts.

The Court: Well, it is the same question we had some time ago, the question of whether any threats were made of that nature. Just read the question there.

(Question read, as follows: "Q. I confine this question which I am about to put to you to your personal knowledge, not what you have been told by anybody else; to your knowledge has there been any conversation with any of the defendants or their executives or employees not to deal with any competiting exhibitor or to restrict the terms of such dealings?")

Mr. Wright: That plainly calls for a conclusion as to what the nature of the conversations were, if any, the kind of a conclusion that your Honor has got to draw ultimately in this case from the evidence that is offered as to what the actual course of dealings was. It isn't for this witness to [fol. 4385] state that conclusion himself with no opportunity on our part to know what these conversations were that he is basing this conclusion upon.

The Court: When you use the word "Conversation", I suppose if there was any statement made in those respects——

Mr. McClennen: Yes, if your Honor please.

Mr. Wright: It isn't so much merely a question of a statement made, it is the way the statements——

The Court: I am construing the statement, that is all. I think I will receive it. It is not a trial by jury, and if necessary or advisable I will strike it out.

The Witness: The answer is "No, sir".

Mr. McClennen: That is the end of the direct examination.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Smith, you testified quite generally with respect to the policies and practices and the methods of distribution employed by these companies with which you were associated. Is your testimony the same as to all of them?

A. In general, yes, sir.

[fol. 4386] Q. All, United Artists, R.K.O., Warner and Fox, all use the same method of distribution?

A. No, sir.

Q. What are the differences, if any?

A. Well, every company has its own. Each company that I have been with has had its own policy, and there is no standard set of policies for distribution companies that I have ever heard. All the policies in the companies I have been with have been made as conditions developed. Selling policy for one season's product in the same company might change. The motion picture business is a very timely business and decisions are made quickly, and you have to anticipate things. I don't know of any standard set of rules.

Q. It is your testimony then there wasn't any uniform selling policy as between these companies you have been associated with, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. There were also some differences in actual methods of sale and distribution, were there not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is, United Artists would sell pictures of the smaller groups?

A. Yes, United Artists was quite different from any of the others. That company was owned by—there were five [fol. 4387] shares of stock only in that company. One share was owned by Mary Pickford, one by Charlie Chaplin; one by Alexander Cordeau of England; one by the ex-deceased Douglas Fairbanks—that four.

Q. And the company itself was engaged just in distributing films?

A. Yes, it was a separate distribution company that distributed the pictures made by United Artists companies. United Artists, they were independent producing units, such as Sam Goldwyn. Sam Goldwyn made pictures for distribution through United Artists. David Selznick made pictures for distribution by them. Sam Goldwyn owned the fifth share of stock.

The Court: What?

The Witness: He owned the fifth share of stock.

The Court: You said here United Artists were not a producing company; what I understood you to say was individuals produced pictures for them to sell?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. United Artists owns no theatres and has no theatre affiliates?

A. That is correct.

Q. And didn't have while you were associated with them?

[fol. 4388] A. That is correct.

Q. On the other hand, R.K.O. and Fox and Warner companies all have theatre operating affiliates, isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, at the time you entered the industry, that was when?

A. 1914.

Q. 1914?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time there were a great many more pictures being produced than now, were there not?

A. In 1914?

Q. And distributed?

A. As a matter of fact, there were no feature pictures being produced at all. We hadn't yet gotten to that point.

Q. When did they get to the point of feature pictures?

A. About 1915 they started.

Q. In 1915 and 1916, at that time there were a large number of those companies making and distributing features?

A. No, sir, the industry was very young at that time and there weren't too many people making pictures. As the industry progressed and became established there were more companies came into it, more pictures made.

Q. How about 1917, 1918 and 1919?

[fol. 4389] A. They kept coming up. The number of pictures kept increasing and the number of theatres kept increasing. The market became—the market grew for more pictures.

Q. And there were a large number of distributors in the market then, were there not?

A. Yes, sir, I would say so.

Q. And those distributors individually, for example, Paramount then releasing over 100 features a year?

A. Paramount at one time released over 100 features a year. I don't recall the exact year.

Q. They have never released that many since, have they?

A. No, they haven't.

Q. Generally at that time the emphasis was simply on quantity of film rather than quality?

A. No, sir.

Q. Well, would you say there were more or less features released in, let us say, 1920, than are being released today?

A. Well, I can't answer that. I don't have the records of that. They are easily available.

Q. What is your best recollection?

A. I would say there might be a lesser number today.

Q. Then prior to 1920 the only important theatre owning distributor was Paramount, is that right?

A. Well, I can't quite place the period. Paramount was [fol. 4390] one of the first companies, first distributing company to also engage in exhibition.

Q. And it was some time around that period, or in the 20's that other distributors and theatre operating companies became associated together in a common enterprise, such as Loew, the Loew theatres and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And by 1930 you had about the same general set-up in the industry with respect to theatre ownership by distributors that you have today, is that right?

A. Yes, there was a little different financial set-up with the different companies. Quite a few of them went through bankruptcy and re-organized.

Q. Yes, I understand that, but in 1930, the Fox, Loew's, Paramount, R.K.O. and Warner all had very substantial circuits of theatres, isn't that right?

A. They had theatre holdings.

Q. Well, they were large circuits?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. And they continued to have those down to the present?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they were during this period the only distributors who had these theatre circuit affiliates, is that right?

A. No, sir, for a time the Universal Company had some [fol. 4391] theatres. I don't believe they have any today.

Q. That was during what time?

A. I can't quite place the year when that was.

Q. Do you remember what circuits they were affiliated with?

A. They had theatres, not particular circuits, they had—the company bought theatres, either bought them outright or bought an interest in certain theatres scattered throughout the United States.

Q. That period was prior to 1931, wasn't it?

A. I would say so, yes, sir.

Q. Then the other principal distributors at that time besides the ones I have just named were Columbia and United Artists?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So you had those eight companies were generally referred to as the major film distributors, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And produced substantially all of the pictures you call "A" pictures?

A. Yes, those companies produced most of the better quality of pictures.

Q. My question was substantially all, is that correct?

A. Yes, that would be correct.

Q. And I believe you said about 70 per cent of your film revenue comes from the first-run theatres throughout the [fol. 4392] country?

A. Yes.

Q. And most of those first-run theatres in the cities of 100,000 or more are theatres in which either Fox, Loew's, Paramount, R.K.O. or Warner has some financial interest?

A. I don't know I would use the word "most" there. I would say they have many theatres.

[fol. 4393] Q. You know that they have the great majority, do you not?

A. I would have to look over the situation to answer that.

Q. You don't recall it?

A. No, sir.

Q. And then the first-runs in the smaller cities are principally owned by large, so-called, independent theatre circuits, is that right?

A. No, sir.

Q. You would say no?

A. I would say no. There are many individual theatre operators in the United States, very many.

Q. But they produce the smaller part of the revenue, isn't that right, total revenue?

A. There are many independent exhibitors in large cities. There is one here in Buffalo, Mr. Yellen, at the Century Theatre. He is an independent theatre operator. The Music Hall is an independent operation.

Q. In addition to the large theatre circuits affiliated with the distributors, there are large theatre circuits that you refer to in the trade as independent circuits, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Those independent circuits are circuits in which a distributor does not directly own the financial stock interest, isn't that right?

[fol. 4394] A. There are circuits in which a distributor does not own directly or indirectly——

Q. A stock interest?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And among those circuits is the Schine circuit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And do you know about how that circuit compares in size with respect to other independent circuits?

A. I believe the Schine circuit is just about the largest independent theatre circuit.

Q. And has been for how long, would you say?

A. I would say for the last five or six years.

Q. And in selling your films to all of the theatres, I believe you refer to a number of accounts that you sold. Did you use that term synonymously with theatres?

A. Included in that number there might be some repeat engagements or return engagements.

Q. But when you spoke of the 15,000 accounts on a good picture you meant the picture would play in approximately 15,000 theatres, rather than that you would bill 15,000 exhibitors, isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir. There would be 15,000 engagements of the pictures.

Q. And with exception of what you refer to as repeat engagements?

[fol. 4395] A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the same theatre, that would be the number of accounts that would be approximately the same as the number of theatres in which the picture played?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And your selling policy, as I understand you, is generally to sell the maximum number of theatres that you can, is that right?

A. Yes. Our policy is to sell the maximum number of theatres that we can sell, having in mind always the best interest of our companies. There might be some theatres we could sell and wouldn't sell, for many reasons.

Q. Generally speaking, you get the most money out of the picture by having it shown for as much playing time as you can get and as many theatres as you can supply a print to, is that right?

A. That is so. Generally figure a film in the vaults in our various branches doesn't make any money.

Q. On this service of prints, of course, when you first have your print supply made up you distribute a certain share to each exchange based, I suppose, on the number of theatres you expect the exchange to service; isn't that right?

A. Yes. History enters into that. Each branch has a [fol. 4396] quota of prints. For instance, the quota of prints for the Buffalo branch, on an A picture, would be, say, eight and every time an A picture comes along Buffalo knows that they are going to have eight prints and that number is arrived at by history, what happened in the territory. We feel that territory can absorb eight prints of a picture and eight prints will take care of the needs of the territory. If they need more they borrow some from another exchange.

Q. That is what I was going to say. When you have a demand for prints in a particular exchange area in excess of the amount that the exchange happens to have at the time, you may borrow a print from some other exchange, is that right?

A. Yes. It is not too easy to get them because the exchange manager likes to have his own prints there and he doesn't get any credit for any billings that are made in another territory, so it is not too easy to move them around.

Q. As I understand it, the distribution of prints throughout the whole country is under a central control from New York City, isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that you may, as circumstances require, divert prints from one area to another?

[fol. 4397] A. Yes, sir.

Q. In selling films you have the same personnel sell the circuits that you do the individuals, small theatre-operators?

A. No, sir.

Q. The smaller operators are sold by the salesmen and the branch managers?

A. Sometimes and sometimes the executives sell them too.

Q. I am speaking generally.

A. Generally, yes.

Q. And the circuit deals are negotiated, generally, in New York?

A. No, sir.

Q. Negotiated by the so-called New York sales representatives of the company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in your general scheme of release do you sell the first-run accounts in the various areas first?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You hold up the selling of the later runs until after you have sold the first-run accounts?

A. It isn't necessary to do that. Sometimes it goes that way.

Q. Sometimes you do and sometimes you don't?

A. Since you sell the later runs for a later run and since [fol. 4397-A] they have a position established by history, by past procedure, you can sell any time that you want to.

Q. That is, there is nothing to prevent you selling them?

A. No, sir.

Q. Before you sell the earlier runs?

A. Of course when you do that you have to be very certain you are going to be able to sell your earlier runs, because if you don't get the early run you find yourself with a second-run customer and no first-run customer, and you will get very little money out of your picture. You lose that substantial money that comes from the first-runs.

Q. When you do that I suppose you go back and attempt to negotiate a first-run instead of a second-run deal?

A. In general that man wouldn't be able to operate on a first-run policy. You wouldn't be able to salvage much that way.

Q. When it comes to servicing the prints that, of course, is dependent upon such clearance provisions as you may have in the contracts that are sold, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then the number of prints into the subsequent runs is controlled by the clearance provisions, if any, in the first-run contracts, isn't that right?

A. Clearance is one of the most important things that we [fol. 4398] sell, and every contract has—every theatre has a position and every theatre has clearance and theatres over a long period of time fit into a pattern of clearance. That was established first by the theatres themselves.

Q. Just see if you can answer the question there.

A. Would you repeat it, please?

(Question read).

A. No, sir.

Q. It isn't? That is, when you have a provision in the first-run contract that says that the second-run can't play the picture until 30 days after the exhibition of the film in the first-run house you are perfectly free to serve a print to the second-run house within the 30-day period?

A. No, sir.

Q. Where your first-run contract has clearance provisions in it, then it does control the service of prints to later runs, does it not?

A. Yes, the clearance controls the distribution of your picture in a given area.

Q. Yes. And these clearances that you refer to are stated generally in the contracts which you make with the exhibitors, is that right?

A. Clearance is always stated, sir. It is a very important [fol. 4399] part of our contract.

Q. Yes. And it appears in the contract, and the contract will generally fix the playing position of the theatre that is playing the picture, either with reference to some other theatre or certain run in the town; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In your contracts you also customarily include a provision with respect to minimum admission prices?

A. Yes. The contract has a spot there where you write in the admission price that the theatre is to charge. Is that what you refer to?

Q. Yes. The contract form, the license agreement.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has a space for writing in the matinee, evening and adult and the children admission prices, isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And under the contract the exhibitor undertakes to charge not less than those prices during the time he is exhibiting the pictures named on the contract; isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir. That is considered to be his admission price scale. That is the price he advertises in the newspaper, that is the price the public knows he charges, that is the price posted on his box-office window, so when someone [fol. 4400] goes up to the window they can look at the scale and know what they have to pay to get in.

Q. The price you insert in the contract that he undertakes to charge is generally the price he happens to be charging at that time or contemplates charging during the play-off of the contract; isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that price is generally a uniform one, is that correct?

A. No, sir. I don't quite know what you mean by "uniform one."

Q. Perhaps I didn't make myself clear. These films, that is, up until the year 1941, you customarily included in the single agreement all of the feature films that you licensed, or that you expected to have available during one year of motion picture season; isn't that right?

A. We tried to sell all the pictures we had available for a season, yes.

Q. Those pictures that you would have available would vary so widely in cost——

A. Yes, sir.

Q. —and also vary widely in box-office, the ability to draw patrons to the box office?

A. Not at the time we were selling them.

[fol. 4401] Q. Even at the time you were selling them you assumed that certain variations would occur, did you not?

A. Yes, sir. We sold pictures at different terms.

Q. You would have different price brackets, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the ones you thought were going to be the better ones you would generally stipulate a guarantee against the percentage on?

A. No, sir.

Q. You didn't try to do that?

A. We would try to get the better terms for better pictures and there was a question of what the company policy was as to terms.

Q. Your best terms, I suppose, are always a guarantee against a high percentage. That is, the best and most favorable deal you can make?

A. History comes in there again. If we have a customer who is a solid customer, a man who pays his bills and gives us an honest count, and we have been dealing with him over a long period of time, we don't get a guarantee from him. We are willing to sell percentage.

Q. Will you please answer the question?

A. I am trying to answer.

Mr. Wright: Will you read it?

(Question read).

[fol. 4402] The Witness: I really believe your question requires an explanation.

Q. You can't answer that yes or no?

A. No, sir.

Q. In any event, in making deals with the exhibitor, you attempt to put the terms in the contract which will get you—which will assure you of the most revenue from the exhibition of the film in the theatre, isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And there is always, of course, a substantial difference in what you try to get and what you get?

A. No, sir.

Q. It never happens?

A. It does happen, yes, but your question was "always".

Q. Sometimes you get what you try to get; is that right?

A. Many times you get it.

Q. And many times you get less than you think you are entitled to get, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the extent that you approach what you think you ought to get, I suppose, is in part dependent upon the relative bargaining power of the exhibitor that you are dealing with, is that right?

A. That, in addition to the selling ability of the man [fol. 4403] who is attempting to get the deal.

Q. That is the result of the combination?

A. Buyer and seller.

Q. The selling ability of the distributor and the selling ability of the exhibitor?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your results in the particular situation may vary widely from the so-called 35 per cent ideal?

A. We try to get 35 per cent terms from all runs. We do our very best to get them. Sometimes we don't get it.

Q. Of course, specifically, you remember the deals made with the Schine Circuit there while you were sales manager?

A. I have always considered the Schine Circuit terms to be very satisfactory terms.

Q. That was not my question. Will you confine yourself to the answers to the questions?

A. I am sorry.

Q. Counsel here can make the necessary argument. The answer is "Yes" to my question?

A. Would you repeat the question?

(Question read).

A. Which company do you refer to?

Q. Warner?

A. Well, as I recall there, the deals I made with the [fol. 4404] Schine Circuit while I was with Warners, they were comparable with the deals we made with anybody else.

Q. Do you recall selling features to the Schine Circuit on the basis of a 20 per cent rental or a flat rental at the exhibitor's option?

A. I don't recall that, sir, but if you will mention the theatre or town I believe the contract will show what it was.

Q. You don't remember of making a deal of that kind?

A. No, sir.

Q. And you remember selling the Schine opposition on terms like that?

A. No, sir. In selling a group of pictures to the Schine Circuit there might be pictures there, some are sold at 35 per cent terms, some are sold for lesser terms, some on the same contract are sold flat. It depended on the quality of the picture, in general, and your ability to get the price.

Q. You would always try, of course, to get the most that you could?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For any of the pictures?

A. Try very hard.

Q. And if you thought you could get 40 per cent you would try to get 40 per cent, is that right?

[fol. 4405] A. Yes, sir, if we felt 40 per cent was fair.

Q. The question of whether it was fair or not was really primarily a question of whether you thought it was fair to your company, isn't that a fact?

A. No, sir.

Q. You attempted to get only what you thought was fair to the exhibitor?

A. Fair to both. After all, you sell a man today, you have to go back and sell him again tomorrow, and if you over-charge him you probably won't be able to sell him again.

Q. But you are in a more comfortable position when you can take care of an over-charging by the way of adjustments, isn't that right?

A. We consider that a good business position to be in.

Q. You find that if you sell a picture on 35 per cent and you later feel it is worth 40 you have considerable difficulty in going back to the exhibitor and telling him you want 40 and getting it?

A. That is very difficult to do.

Q. So your aim is always to get in the contract in the first instance the maximum rental which you think you can get out of the theatre; isn't that a fair statement?

A. No, sir. I would still like to include the man that I am selling to in that thought. I don't like—you might be [fol. 4406] able to get your 40 per cent and he might agree to pay it, but you might be getting too much from him.

[fol. 4407] Q. And you might make such a contract, is that right?

A. Well, it is possible.

Q. It has been done?

A. I assume it has.

Q. Now, with respect to these admission prices, as I understand you, customarily in selling all the theatres that you sell, you write in these admission price provisions in the contracts at the time they are made, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you expect the exhibitors to maintain those prices on the pictures that are covered by the contract, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in general those admission prices are to some extent determined, are they not, by the time in a particular competitive area that the exhibitor gets the picture?

A. No, sir, I wouldn't say that.

Q. You don't think that is generally true?

A. No, sir, there are many, many theatres, many suburban and subsequent-run theatres that charge just as much as the first-run theatre. There is one theatre I have in mind in New York City, a subsequent-run theatre, the Plaza Theatre that charges more than first-run theatres.

[fol. 4408] Q. What you are giving me are the exceptions to the general rule?

A. They are more than the exceptions, they are a great many theatres.

Q. They are more than the exceptions?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is, ordinarily you stipulate an exhibitor's admission price that he is going—in his contract that he charges an admission price of 25 cents, you would not expect him to play the pictures at that price if they had played a substantially number of theatres in the same competitive area at, we will say, 15 or 20 cents, is that correct?

A. I would say, no, I can't answer such a general question, because there are so many factors you have to have in mind in determining that. I can't answer the question.

Q. I understand there are many factors; one factor in determining when one exhibitor should be permitted to play films with respect to the time that another competing exhibitor should be permitted to play them, is the admission price charged by the theatre?

A. Admission price is one factor in determining that, yes, sir.

Q. As I understood you to say, when the theory on which [fol. 4409] protection clearance, as you call it, was introduced in the business, it was to protect the investment of somebody in a theatre by stipulating that if he plays the first-run at such an admission price, why, then, it won't be played for a certain number of days in theatres which might charge a lower admission price, is that correct?

A. Your contract with that first-run theatre would stipulate its clearance. It would have nothing in there in regard to the admission price to be charged by any other theatre.

Q. All it would have would be a statement of the clearance, but that clearance would be fixed at least to some extent with reference to the admission prices at which the pictures bought might be subsequently exhibited in the same competitive area, is that right?

A. Admission price always is one of the factors in determining the clearance.

Q. And in general the shape that your clearance and admission price structure takes in any particular competitive area is that the first-run theatres charge the highest price and then the second-run the next, and so on down the line through regular runs?

A. With many, many exceptions.

Q. And those exceptions, of course, depend, I suppose, on [fol. 4410] individual circumstances in the evaluation of individual cases?

A. It depends also on the possibility of the theatre to get that kind of an admission price. They may be in an area where they know they can get it and try to get as much as they can.

Q. I assume in all cases, as far as the exhibitor is concerned, he wants to get the most admission price he can get, considering what he has got to play?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the character of what he has got to play is, of course, determined in part by the extent that what he is offering the customers has been already offered them in other theatres in the area that he draws from?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. As far as the later run operator is concerned, he ordinarily has no way of controlling the amount of playing time that occurs in the theatres that play ahead of him over particular pictures, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that the only protection that is got for whatever investment he may have in his theatres is simply the good faith of the distributor in seeing that the value of the picture isn't completely destroyed or eliminated before it gets to him?

[fol. 4411] A. Well, generally a man like that, Mr. Wright, knows before he leases a theatre——

Q. Just see if you can answer the question.

A. Will you read the question, please?

(Question read.)

A. I would say "No" to that question.

Q. Well, what protection does his contract give him with respect to the matter that I just stated?

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment. That I object to. The contract should be laid before the witness if such a question is to be put.

The Court: Overruled.

The Witness: I could not answer that question——

The Court: It is a comparison.

The Witness: (Continuing)—without naming a specific theatre and specific situation.

Q. Let us assume a theatre that is playing in Syracuse at a 25-cent admission; now, all you do is sell him the contract which provides that he charges 25 cents and he plays the picture; he can play the picture on a certain date; he has no assurance at all as to the extent to which the value of the picture may have been completely absorbed by prior runs, isn't that right?

A. No. sir.

Q. Well, what protection does he get?

[fol. 4412] A. He knows ahead of time how previous pictures have played to begin with so he knows the situation, and there is clearance straight on down the line. The first man takes clearance over the second man; the second man takes clearance over the third man; the third man takes clearance over the fourth man, and so forth. It runs all the way down from the first man to the last man. With every theatre there is clearance until it gets down to the last man. Maybe there is no theatre left, so it will have to stop some place.

Q. Then you say whatever assurance he has depends on the history of the particular theatre that is involved?

A. And the knowledge that he, himself, has.

Q. As to where the theatre has played in the past, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in determining how much—strike that out. Generally speaking your rentals also decrease with the lateness of the runs on which the picture plays in accordance with the decrease in admission price and lateness of play time, isn't that right?

A. Generally so, yes, sir.

Q. And in fixing a rental for any particular theatre, one of the factors you always take into account is the terms on which the picture has played other theatres in the area, is [fol. 4413] that right?

A. Would you repeat the question?

(Question read.)

A. No, sir.

Q. That is not a factor?

A. No, sir.

Q. You don't give any consideration, in fixing the terms for one theatre, as to what the terms are for a competing theatre on the same picture, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. And that applies to clearance terms and admission prices?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that in determining, when you testified that as to what you thought was the fair rental here, in so far as you were concerned, that was the rental on which you excluded entirely from consideration the terms with respect to admission price, clearance run and film rentals on which the pictures were sold to other theatres in the area?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, in terms of fairness to an exhibitor—strike that out.

The Court: We will suspend at this time.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P. M.)

[fol. 4414] After Recess, 2 P. M.

Appearances: Same as before noted.

(By consent of Counsel, Plaintiff's Exhibit 550 for identification is replaced with a plainer photostat and is marked with the same exhibit number.)

Andrew William Smith, Jr., resumed the stand in behalf of the Defendants, having been previously sworn, was examined and testified further as follows:

Cross-examination (Continued).

By Mr. Wright:

Q. When we adjourned, Mr. Smith, I think we were discussing the question of film rental. As I understand it, you say the determination of the rental is based upon what you expect the theatre to gross for the pictures in question; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that expectation of gross is based upon what the admission price will be and how many people will come into the theatre to see the picture on that admission; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In that connection it is a fact, is it not, that the number [fol. 4415] who may be expected to come in and see the picture at a particular price will be, in part, determined by the number from the area who have already seen the picture, isn't that right, somewhere else?

A. Yes, sir, some of them may want to see it again.

Q. On this question of what you call a "move-over," as I understood you, that is where you move a picture that has been played first-run for a certain length of time in one theatre over to another theatre without any time elapsing between and it continues to play at the same admission price; is that correct?

A. That is true.

Q. And while you stated, I believe, that it was customary to have those move-overs only in situations where the first-run theatre and second-run theatre were in some way connected through ownership or operating policy, if you chose to do so there would be nothing to prevent you from arranging for or licensing a move-over run at a theatre which was not owned or operated by the first-run theatre owner, isn't that right?

A. Your designation of first and second-run is not quite correct, sir. They are both first-run theatres.

Q. I didn't say second-run. If I did I misspoke myself. I said second theatre.

The Court: You said second-run.

[fol. 4416] Mr. Wright: I meant the second theatre.

A. I don't know of any law against it, sir, but I don't know of a move-over ever having taken place from one theatre to another theatre unless the move-over theatre was owned or controlled by the first theatre.

Q. The policy you pursued in that respect was simply because that was the way you wanted to operate, is that right?

A. No, sir.

Q. You say there is no law against it, other than such inhibitions as the Sherman Act might place upon it, is that right?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to, if your Honor please. Of course, there is no law against calling something that is not a move-over——

The Court: I think the question should be put in another form, Mr. Wright. State what the inhibitions were.

Mr. Wright: All right.

Q. What, if any, inhibitions are there which you say prevent you from licensing features in that manner?

Mr. McClennen: He didn't say.

The Court: Well, he is asking now if there were inhibitions. What, if any, were the inhibitions, that is the question as I took it to be. You mean to prevent the move-over [fol. 4417] to some theatre which had no connection with the original theatre, isn't that your question, Mr. Wright?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Witness: It would be a question of business judgment, Mr. Wright, and I would say, off-hand, it would be bad business judgment to move a picture over from a first-run theatre to another theatre owned by someone else.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Whether or not it would be good or bad business judgment would depend, I suppose, on just whose interests you felt it advisable to serve at the time; isn't that right?

A. We generally consider our own interests important.

The Court: Do your license agreements make a provision for a over-over or do they not?

The Witness: When you make a move-over you write up a license agreement for that move-over, just like you write the agreement for the first-run.

The Court: How about your clearance then?

The Witness: If the clearance in the particular situation is——

The Court: The third day, say, or the end of the first [fol. 4418] period, you mean, or the second?

The Witness: No, sir. I will have to state that another way. The move-over run is still a part of the first-run. The first-run has not terminated until the end of the move-over run.

The Court: It would run until the end of the move-over?

The Witness: Yes.

[fol. 4419] Q. So in writing your license provision for the "Move-over" run, you simply provide that the "Move-over" commence immediately at the conclusion of the run in the first theatre, would you not?

A. No, sir, you would probably write the contract stating the date that the "Move-over" run was to start, and that would be the——

Q. As I say, in the case of a move-over that would be immediately following the completion of the exhibition in the first theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whereas in the second-run contract there would be an interval of time elapse and probably a lower admission price, isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Supposing in the interim there was an expiration of the clearance, in that case, you extend the time and make your terms extending the time of clearance which is extended?

The Witness: Well, your Honor, it is hard to answer that general question in that regard. We would have to have a special situation in mind and see what the clearance situation is there. It might be possible for the same clear- [fol. 4420] ance to exist as would exist if the picture only played the first-run theatre and did not then move over for the continuation of the first-run in the move-over theatre. In other words, if it was a 30-days' clearance on the Great Lakes, and the other picture moved over to the Hippodrome, the other theatre might come in and play 23 days after the Hippodrome.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. In each case it would depend on the kind of clearance provision you chose to provide, is that right?

A. The kind of clearance agreed upon, yes.

Q. In setting up all of the runs or clearances in a particular area, I suppose as far as the film company's objective is concerned, you attempt to get the maximum total rental you can out of the picture in the area?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I believe you said before on your direct-examination that some of the factors you took into account, in deciding where you would play your pictures was, I think, the size of the theatre and character of the operator; those were, I think, the two you mentioned, and you said there were others?

[fol. 4421] A. Are you referring, sir, to the selection of the second-run account?

Q. The selection of any account?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. As to the size of the theatre, that, of course, doesn't necessarily control in itself what revenue you are going to get out of your pictures, isn't that correct?

A. If the theatre had a very small number of seats it could control, sir.

Q. I suppose that would depend entirely on the amount of playing time your pictures actually got in the theatres also?

A. The playing time would be a determining factor.

Q. That is, if you got five days of playing time on a particular picture in a 300-seat theatre, you might get more revenue from the picture out of that theatre than you would from playing the same picture for two days in a 500-seat house, is that right?

A. That is possible.

Q. So that one of the factors you always have to consider is the amount of playing time that you can expect to get for your features in a particular theatre?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And I suppose the amount of time that you can get is to some extent determined by the extent to which the [fol. 4422] theatre is committed to play pictures of other distributors?

A. Yes, the amount of time would be dependent to an extent on the theatre's operating policy at that time.

Q. The policy, of course, is made up of the number of changes a week?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the other features that play?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the admission prices?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And as to admission prices generally you attempt to maintain them at the highest levels you can, is that right?

A. We like to have them put as high as they possibly can be consistent with good business judgment.

Q. Well, that is, you mean high enough to give you the most revenue you can get out of a particular run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And now I think you said in your direct-examination that in determining film rentals, you, of course, took into account the theatre's policy and where it was a double-feature policy in effect, why, you would make allowances for what had to be paid for another feature perhaps sold by some other distributor in determining what you ought to [fol. 4423] get for yourself, is that right?

A. Yes, sir, the customer would tell us what he paid for the other feature and, in general, we would allow that as a deduction from the gross before computing our contract.

Q. You mean, if it were provided in the contract that the deduction could be made, isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, your policy with respect to what you provide in the contract is something a little different from merely making adjustments based upon the use of a certain feature, isn't it?

A. I don't understand the question, sir.

Q. Well, to be specific, you, in your printed license provision that you normally use in making your contract do not have any provision there which states that if a second feature is played that the cost of that feature may be deducted from the rental paid for one of your pictures, isn't that right?

A. That is right.

Q. Whenever that is done that is a special provision?

A. That is quite correct, sir.

Q. And the same thing is true, is it not, with respect to a bank night, or similar attractions, the regular form on which these companies, and you have seen them, license [fol. 4424] films, doesn't make a provision for deducting from the cost of the film such amounts as the exhibitor might expend for his bank night or Bingo or similar extra attractions, is that right?

A. Is your question that the printed clauses do not cover such deductions?

Q. Your regular form of contract, that is right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And if you do make any such arrangement that is the result of a special agreement covering the points, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, I notice in a contract that is in evidence here, as —or a letter agreement in evidence as F-193, a letter dated June 8th, 1939, signed by 20th Century-Fox Film Company Corporation, by William Sussman, and Schine Enterprises Corporation, dated June 8th, 1939, which covers the seasons 1939-40, 1940-41 and 1941-42, the following provision appears:

"If any picture played on percentage is played in conjunction with bank night or similar attractions, you shall have the right to deduct the actual cost of the operation of such attraction from the gross receipts before accounting to us for our percentage."

When you do make special agreements for the deduction [fol. 4425] of the expenses of bank night or similar attraction, is that the form that you ordinarily use?

A. Do you mean is that the phraseology, the wording, is that your question?

Q. Well, that provision, yes.

A. Yes, that is the general form.

Q. And when you make a concession for a bank night or a similar attraction, that would include, I suppose, Bingo or games of that kind, the provision is one permitting the exhibitor to deduct his cost of the attraction, is that right?

A. Yes, that is quite right, and that would be handled and written right in the contract agreement.

[fol. 4426] Mr. Wright: While the witness is on the stand I want to offer in evidence a memorandum that has previously been identified as having come from the Warner files. It is marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 550 and it is an inter-office communication, dated September 1, 1934, from H. A. Seed, Branch Manager, to Mr. A. W. Smith, Jr., at the Home Office, and I am now offering that in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: This Plaintiff's Exhibit 550 for identification we object to on the ground that has heretofore been discussed with your Honor, as an inter-office communication, not admissible in evidence, and if received to be limited so that it shall not be evidence of the facts stated in it, that considerable portion of it has relation to Shorts and not to feature contracts, and that this introduction is not cross-examination of the witness on any subject on which he was examined in chief.

The Court: Let me see it.

(Counsel hands Plaintiff's Exhibit 550 for identification [fol. 4427] to the Court.)

The Court: Objection overruled. I will receive it.

(Thereupon the two-page photostat copy of inter-office communication, dated September 1, 1934, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 550 for identification was received in evidence.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Smith, I believe you testified on your direct examination you identified some Warner branch office records?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the branch offices, not only of Warner but these other companies you worked for, as well, there are maintained, are there not, so-called cut-off or play-off records which show where all of the theatres in which your features pictures played and the periods during which they played, and the contracts under which they played?

A. You are covering quite a few records there, sir. We do maintain complete records of where our pictures play and the dates and the gross receipts.

Q. And the contracts under which they play?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And those records you keep for the benefit, among others, of those in the sales department who are engaged in [fol. 4428] soliciting accounts or licensing your films, isn't that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: That is all.
The Court: Anything, Mr. McClennen?
Mr. McClennen: No.
The Court: All right. Next witness.

Richard Struewe, a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Your residence?

A. Albany, New York.

Q. You are in the employ of what company at the present time?

A. Republic Pictures Corporation.

Q. In January and February, 1937, were you in the employ of Warners?

A. Yes.

Q. I show you identification Defendants' Exhibit 137. Is this in your handwriting?

A. Yes.

Q. And is that the report which, on or about that date, you handed in of your daily activities to your office?

[fol. 4429] A. That is correct.

Mr. McClennen: I offer it.

Mr. Wright: No objection.

Mr. McClennen: The portion offered is under the heading "Theatre-Plaza. Location: Malone," and does not include the report for the other theatres contained on this report in other places.

The portion offered reads: "Theatre: Plaza. Location: Malone. Exhibitor: M. Boumansour. This situation intends to go to second-run policy starting 5-1. Offered him a 60-picture deal. Only wants 30. Offered him 30 pictures, 1935-36 product second-run. He would not consider any proposition except a 30-picture deal on this year's pictures."

That is under date of February 4, 1937.

(Thereupon the report referred to, dated February 4, 1937, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-137 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I apparently misunderstood Counsel. I thought we were to have Mr. Ed. Smith [fol. 4430] and Mr. Louis following Mr. Andy Smith and if we could have a recess for five minutes I believe I could get hold of the documents I intend to examine Mr. Struewe on.

(Short recess.)

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Struewe, this memorandum or report that is marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-137, you say that records the results of a conversation you had with Mr. Boumansour at Malone on February 4, 1937?

A. That is right.

Q. You were at that time traveling the Albany territory for Warner Bros.?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Soliciting accounts?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. This satement that you have here offered in the 60-picture deal, that relates to some statement you made to him?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was it you told him?

A. Well, in that particular year we were selling 60 pictures. That report is dated in 1937. That means I offered [fol. 4431] him the 1936-37 product at that time.

Q. What you told him was he could have the 1936-37 product second-run if he bought all of the pictures?

A. That is correct.

Q. And if he only bought—if he only wanted to play 30 pictures he could only have 1935-36 product?

A. That's all I would offer him on a 30-picture deal.

Q. Before you called on him had you had any discussion with the branch manager as to what you should or should not offer to Mr. Boumansour?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. You don't know whether you did or not?

A. No.

Q. Did you know the policy that the Plaza was being operated on at that time?

A. I didn't get that question,

Q. Did you know the policy that the Plaza was being operated on at that time?

A. I am not sure of it, no.

Q. You don't know whether you did or not?

A. I said I wasn't sure. He had first-run policy and a second-run policy.

Q. At that time?

A. I don't know when he changed from first to second.

Q. Your report says that he intends to go to a second-run [fol. 4432] policy starting May 1. Is that what he told you?

A. That is correct.

Q. That is what he told you he would like to do?

A. That is correct.

Q. You say you don't know whether you had any discussion with the manager of the exchange before you went up there and made this offer or not?

A. I am not sure.

Q. Who was the manager then?

A. Mr. Norman Ayers.

Q. Do you recall whether you had had any discussion with any other Warner sales representative before you went up and made this offer?

A. No, I don't recall.

Q. Normally, when you were calling on accounts in that area at that time, and the exhibitor wanted to buy some pictures, you would write up an application for what he wanted to buy, if it was open, and then send it in to the branch, wouldn't you?

A. Correct.

[fol. 4433] Q. But in this instance you didn't have any discussion of terms with him at all?

A. You mean Mr. Boumansour?

Q. Yes.

A. Not that I recall, I didn't.

Q. And all you told him was that if he wanted 1936-37 product, beginning in the spring of 1937, that he would have to buy 60 pictures, is that right?

A. A complete deal, yes, whatever the season called for.

Q. If he only wanted to buy 30 pictures then he could not have 1936-37 product, he could only have 1935-36, is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, your job, generally speaking, was to get additional revenue from the towns that were in your territory wherever you could, wasn't it?

A. That is correct.

Q. And even 30 pictures of the 1936-37 season second-run in that town would have given you more revenue for 1936-37 pictures out of that town than you were then getting, isn't that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. You had no second-run there?

A. No.

Q. But you refused to even discuss terms for a 30 picture [fol. 4434] deal on the 1936-37 product, is that right?

A. That is right.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

Jacob Armm, a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Your residence?

A. Albany.

Q. In August of the year 1940, what was your occupation?

A. Salesman for Columbia Pictures.

Q. You know Mr. Lawrence J. Carkey?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I call your attention to Mr. Carkey's testimony, the year 1940, as stated at page 3554, the period of the conversation as between August 15th, 1940 and August 30th, 1940, stated at page 3560 and the conversation stated at 3562, where he says "I called in Jack Arms of Columbia and told him I was ready to talk second-run product for the [fol. 4435] City of Ogdensburg as per our conversation of a few weeks before"; did Mr. Carkey tell you that?

A. Why, he didn't call me in. I used to come in to see him every other week. I came in there every Tuesday, every other Tuesday, rather.

Q. When you went in there at that time, I continue "he," that is meaning you, "advised me second-run had been sold to Schine"; did you so advise him?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have some talk about his buying some second-run Columbia pictures for Ogdensburg?

A. I did.

Q. What did you say to him and he to you on that subject?

A. Well, he told me at that time that he contemplated opening a theatre in the market place in Ogdensburg and that he was waiting for—I am trying to think of the man's name, he was an interior decorator who was supposed to furnish him with money, and another man in Ogdensburg, and a certain builder, I forget his name, he was there at the time, and he showed me plans for the place. It was not Colombo, I am trying to think of the man's name. He asked me was there a second-run in Ogdensburg, and I said "No, there wasn't." Could he buy it, and I said "Yes, the [fol. 4436] Pontiac was closed at the time and Schine didn't have a second-run, there was no reason why he could not have it." He asked me what the terms would be. I told him the thing to do at that time was to open up. "I have no idea of terms for a place not opened up, and after you play them we will check the pictures and determine what they are worth, that is the only way I could even talk price on a deal, where there was no theatre operating."

Q. Have you stated the whole of the conversation at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: What time was this?

The Witness: I did not hear you.

Q. Have you any recollection of the time of this first conversation?

A. Oh, it was in the summertime. I don't know exactly when.

Q. And did you subsequently have another talk with him about Ogdensburg?

A. Oh, yes, several talks, quite a few, and at that time I had an appointment with him, and it was a few weeks later, and he left word with his son that he would meet me in Norwood, where he was taking over two other theatres, the Norwood and Norfolk from another party, his name was Curry, that I would meet him in Utica and go to Norwood from there. I was on my way to Potsdam, [fol. 4437] and I would meet him on the four o'clock train that day. I could not tell you what day it was, it was in July or August. I met him there and sold him two contracts at that time, one for Norwood and one for Norfolk. I said "Larry, let's go up and see this market place." I could not get it in my head where it was. I had gone through the town several times. He said "I guess we will have to forget about it temporarily because—I think Mr. Shapiro, I think was the man's name who was to finance it—had backed out." I never went up to Ogdensburg.

Q. Was that all the conversation as far as Ogdensburg was concerned?

A. I don't think there was ever anything mentioned further about it because there was nothing done about it.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. When and where was this second conversation you just testified to?

A. This last one?

Q. Yes.

A. In Norwood.

Q. When was that?

A. It was in the summertime, I can't tell you just when it [fol. 4438] was, quite a few years ago.

Q. In the summer of 1940?

A. Probably 1940.

Q. This is the town called——

A. Norwood.

Q. Norwood?

A. Norwood, yes, Norwood and Norfolk, there was two towns.

Q. Where are those two towns?

A. Do you know where Potsdam is?

Q. Where are they from Ogdensburg?

A. Just a few miles from Ogdensburg. I will try and figure that out.

Q. Whereabouts in this town did you see him?

A. Norwood.

Q. Whereabouts in the town?

A. In the theatre.

Q. What theatre?

A. Norwood Theatre.

Q. Who else was present?

A. Who else was present? There was some mechanics there, four or five mechanics there tearing the walls out.

Q. I mean during the,—or in your presence and Carkey's presence, when you had this conversation, who were the parties to the conversation, anybody but you and Carkey?

A. Just Larry and I.

[fol. 4439] Q. Just you two?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was it that was said then?

A. I had sold him the deals, as I told you, for these two theatres there, Norwood and Norfolk.

Q. Yes.

A. And I asked Larry to let's go up and take a look at that market place where he was going to build a theatre.

Q. At Ogdensburg?

A. At Ogdensburg, yes, sir, it isn't very far from there, maybe 35 miles, I am not sure of the exact distance.

Q. Then what was it he told you?

A. I am not sure about this man's name. He told me this decorator who was doing his work was his partner who was going to give him the money to fix it up with, and he had backed out.

Q. Did he tell you anything else?

A. I can't remember that far back exactly what conversation there was. There was nothing much more that would interest me.

Q. At that time that is all you remember?

A. I really can't remember; if there was anything important I might have remembered it; there might have been some minor things, I can't remember that far back.

Q. You don't remember whether you had any further conversation with him later about Ogdensburg at all, is that right?

[fol. 4440]

A. We talked about it casually now and then. I asked him a few times, I can't tell you when I asked him, we would go out and eat and talk about those things, nothing doing, could not get the finances.

Q. Where did you talk to him next time?

A. Well, I can't say, in his office, or probably across the street in the restaurant, I can't tell you exactly where. I used to see him quite often.

Q. Could you tell us exactly when?

A. No, I could not tell you exactly when. It might have been the second Tuesday after, because I usually stopped there on a Tuesday.

Q. When was it you had the last conversation with him about Ogdensburg?

A. Oh, I could not tell you that.

Q. You don't have any idea?

A. No. I wouldn't have any reason to try to remember it, I couldn't tell you.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

[fol. 4441] Elmer Lux a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Your residence?

A. Buffalo, New York.

Q. You know Mr. Hubert P. Wallace?

A. I do, sir.

Q. Mr. Wallace, speaking of 1937, at page 2784, said "Mr. Lux pointed out to me that he did not think it would be a practical thing for me to run second-run and first-run at the same time, that is, at the same theatre at the same time, and he discouraged me. He said "I think it is not a good plan"."

Did you have such a conversation as that with Mr. Wallace?

Mr. Wright: Excuse me, I don't believe the date of this has been fixed.

Mr. McClennen: 1937.

The Court: I suppose it does appear in Mr. Wallace's testimony, but whom did you work for, were you in the office, where?

[fol. 4442] The Witness: I was with the Company in 1937.

The Court: Which Company?

The Witness: R. K. O. Radio Pictures.

Mr. Wright: This is with respect to what theatre are we on now?

Mr. McClennen: This is with respect to Mr. Wallace's testimony at page 2784, and he is speaking about the subject matter of second-run in the Capitol Theatre at Auburn.

[fol. 4443] Q. Did you have such conversation as I have just read to you?

A. In nineteen—I did not.

Q. What was your position in the motion picture business in 1937?

A. In March, 1937, I came to work for RKO Pictures, salesman in the Buffalo city proper and immediate vicinity.

Q. And how long did you continue in that particular position?

A. Until June or July, 1941, when I was promoted to branch managership.

Q. During the time that you were a salesman was Auburn within your area?

A. No, it was not.

Q. In 1941 you became what?

A. Branch manager.

Q. For RKO?

A. RKO-Radio Pictures.

Q. What time in 1941?

A. It was either late June or early July. I wouldn't be definitely certain of the date.

Q. As branch manager where was your office?

A. Here in Buffalo.

Q. Prior to your becoming branch manager here in Buffalo where was your office?

A. I also worked in the Buffalo office.

[fol. 4444] Q. You worked in the same office?

A. Out of the same office, yes.

Q. Can you inform me where you were on the 11th of September, 1941?

A. I would probably have to refresh my memory by looking at my records of that week.

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark this for identification?

(Thereupon weekly expense account report referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-166 for identification.)

Q. I show you Defendants' Exhibit D-166 for identification. What is that paper?

A. That is my weekly expense account report, sir.

Q. From that can you state where you were on September 11, 1941?

A. On that date I was in Syracuse, New York.

Q. And on the 12th of September where were you?

A. On the 12th of September I was en route from Buffalo, stopping in Batavia, and then on into Buffalo, all the same day.

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark this for identification?

(Thereupon weekly expense account report referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-167 for identification.)

[fol. 4445] Q. I show you Defendants' Exhibit D-167 for identification. Is that your expense account for the following week?

A. For the week ending September 20, 1941, it is, sir.

Q. Where were you on Monday, September 15th?

A. Well, on that day I left Buffalo in the morning, went to Albany.

Q. And where were you on the 16th?

A. In Albany all day, leaving probably late in the afternoon, returning to Buffalo.

Q. Where were you on September 17, 1941?

A. On September 17, 1941, I went from Buffalo to Rochester and stayed over night in Rochester.

Q. Where were you on September 18, 1941?

A. On the 18th I worked in Rochester and then returned to Buffalo that same day.

Q. Did you have a telephone conversation with Mr. Ed. Smith and with Mr. Wallace in September, 1941?

A. I did.

Q. And where were you at the time you had the talk?

A. I was in Warner Bros. theatre office in Albany and I believe they called me from Syracuse.

Q. Was that the only day that you were in Albany in the two weeks from September 7, 1941, to September 20, 1941?

A. I believe I was there over night that night and part of the next day, returning the next day, if I remember that [fol. 4446] correctly.

Q. Referring back to Defendants' Exhibit D-167 for identification, can you tell me whether on September 16, 1941, you flew back from Albany to Buffalo?

A. I did return by air, indicated by the fact that I took a bus to the Airport.

Q. Was this call by telephone when you were at the Warner Bros. theatre office in Albany on your call or on somebody calling you?

A. They called me, sir.

Q. And who called you and spoke first?

A. Specifically, I couldn't say. I do know that both Wallace and Smith talked to me on the occasion of that date, but who talked first I wouldn't know—I wouldn't recall.

Q. Do you remember anything about what Mr. Wallace said to you in that conversation?

A. Well, generally it concerned a discussion of some pictures that we did have open or, rather, available, and that he had been interested in buying for the Strand Theatre in Syracuse.

Q. Can you remember any more of the detail of it, what the pictures were?

A. Two of them I do recall were his opening pictures. If I remember correctly, one of them was the animal picture, [fol. 4447] Frank Buck picture, "Jungle Cavalcade", and I believe the other one was the musical picture, "Flying Down to Rio." While there were probably five or six pictures discussed, those two I do recall were for opening consideration, and he also was interested in two other pictures we had, which were, of course, under contract to our own theatre department there in Syracuse but which I told him if they did not find room for them in the usual manner, or if they rejected them, which was probably their privilege, I would be interested in giving him the opportunity to have them.

Q. Do you remember the names?

A. One of them was, "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry", I believe, and the other was "They Meet Again".

Q. In the course of that conversation by telephone do you recall telling him anything more about those two pictures than you just stated?

A. Specifically, no. The conversation beyond that was probably of a general nature. I did more or less assure him that he would have the first two pictures I mentioned without any difficulty, although I did not have immediate home office approval, which usually is necessary, in fact, is necessary, but I felt confident I could go along on those two so that he might proceed with proper advertising, and so forth.

[fol. 4448] Q. Did you say anything more to him than you have stated as to these two pictures, "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry", and "They Meet Again"?

A. I did tell him, as I had previously mentioned, that if our theatre department was not going to exercise their privilege and use them under our own contract, why, I would be glad to sell them to him, but I would have to let him know about that because, after all, the pictures rightfully belonged under license contract to our own two theatres in Syracuse.

Q. When you say in your own theatre department, you meant RKO theatres in Syracuse?

A. RKO, New York, for the RKO-Schine theatres, Syracuse.

Mr. McClennen: I ask to have this marked for identification.

(Thereupon a memo, dated September 16, 1941, referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-168 for identification.)

Q. I show you Defendants' Exhibit D-168 for identification. Can you tell me what that is?

A. Well, that is a memo note report from Salesman Ed. Smith regarding the Strand Theatre, Syracuse.

Q. Did that paper come to your attention at about this time, September 16, or thereabout, 1941?

A. It is obvious that it did, sir.

Q. You have no independent recollection?

[fol. 4449] A. No. It must have been brought to my desk though. I see my own personal marking on it.

Q. There is a marking of yours somewhere on it?

A. Yes, this happens to be my writing (indicating exhibit).

Q. Did you have anything to do with the drawing of this line through the words "Hurry, Charlie"?

A. I may have but I couldn't exactly say that I did, sir.

Q. Did you have anything to do with the drawing of this line through the words "They Meet Again"?

A. That same would be true, sir, the same as "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry".

Q. Did you send this telegram, Plaintiff's Exhibit 831, on September 18, 1941?

The Court: That is in evidence?

Mr. McClennen: It is in evidence.

The Witness: We did.

Q. Up to the time of sending this telegram had there been any conversation between you and Mr. Wallace beyond what you have given as over the telephone as to "Hurry, Charlie" and "They Meet Again"?

A. I don't recall—I don't believe so.

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark for identification this paper?

(Thereupon carbon copy of letter, dated September 18, 1941, referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-169 for identification.)

[fol. 4450] Q. Was this letter, of which I show you a carbon, dated September 18, 1941, for identification as Exhibit D-169, written by you or dictated by you?

A. That was dictated by me, sir.

Q. Did you transmit to the New York office any application or contract for "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry" or "They Meet Again" for Mr. Wallace's theatre?

A. I did not, sir.

Q. Have you ever seen any contract with Mr. Wallace or with that Strand Theatre in Syracuse, containing any such pictures?

A. I don't believe I have ever seen any application.

The Court: You mean application by Mr. Wallace?

Mr. McClennen: By Mr. Wallace, yes.

Q. Do you know Mr. Fred Myers?

A. Do I know Fred Myers?

Q. Yes.

A. Casually, yes.

Q. Did you inform Mr. Wallace that Freddie Myers or Mr. Myers had insisted on having the pictures, "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry" and "They Meet Again"?

A. I did not say that, sir.

[fol. 4451] Q. Was Mr. Myers in the employ of R.K.O. in September, 1941?

A. If my recollection serves me right, I believe he left our company early in 1941.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Lux, you began with R.K.O. as a salesman when?

A. In March or April of 1937.

Q. As a city salesman here in Buffalo?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how long did you cover that area?

A. Until I was promoted in either June or July, 1941.

Q. Then what was the area that you covered from March, 1937 until you became Branch Manager in 1941?

A. The area of Niagara County and parts of Cattaraugus and Chautauqua County.

Mr. Wright: Have you those exhibits that were identified?

Mr. McClennen: There are those, and you have the other one.

Q. These exhibits 166 and 167 for identification are the records that you made of your expenses during the weeks ending September 20th, 1941 and September 13th, 1941, respectively?

A. I have to make those every week, yes, sir.

[fol. 4452] Q. These were made by you?

A. Those were definitely made by me personally.

Q. As I understand it, according to these records you were in—you went to Albany on the 15th?

A. I believe that is a Monday morning, yes, sir.

Q. And you came back on the 16th?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember which of those days it was that you had the telephone conversations with Smith and Wallace?

A. I believe it was late in the afternoon of Monday, the 15th.

Q. Do you have anything which helps you to fix that time other than your recollection?

A. No, I wouldn't have anything other than my own recollection, sir.

Q. And this memoranda, that is marked as Exhibit 168 for identification, when was it that you say that came to your attention?

A. This may have come to my attention either on Tuesday night, Tuesday evening or Wednesday morning, that would be September 16th or 17th. I go directly to the office when I return.

Q. How do you fix the date when this exhibit D-168 came to your attention?

A. Because it follows in line the negotiations that took [fol. 4453] place on Monday obviously between Smith and Wallace about which they called me.

Q. There is nothing on the document itself to indicate to you when you first saw it, is that right?

A. Well, it would have to be some time between that period, because he is giving in this letter a date for his opening, two pictures "Jungle Cavalcade" and "Flying Down to Rio" to open with on September 20th; shipment would have to be made on the 18th or 19th.

Q. The fact that "Jungle Cavalcade" and "Flying Down to Rio" were apparently dated for September 20th to 23rd is what makes you feel you must have seen this before the 20th, is that right?

A. Yes, that is reasonable to assume that, the way we operate.

Q. But there isn't anything on the memo which would fix the date any better than that?

A. No, there isn't, sir, except a note "Ship Jungle and Rio, to arrive September 19th,—which would mean he possibly would have got this letter out on the 15th with the assumption that we would have to ship it on the 17th to have it there by that date.

Mr. Wright: By the way, is Mr. Smith going to testify?

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Smith, I believe, is going to testify. There won't be time this afternoon.

[fol. 4454] Mr. Wright: If the Court please, we ought at least to see what Mr. Smith's testimony would be before we conclude any cross-examination of Mr. Lux. We would be glad to go as far with him now as we can, but we would want the opportunity to question him again after Mr. Smith testifies.

Mr. McClennen: There is no objection to that, if we can take it on a day when Mr. Lux is otherwise in Buffalo.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Now, the parts on here that you can identify as in Mr. Smith's handwriting are what?

A. Well, it is all Mr. Smith's handwriting with the exception of that "O.K." That is $8.00, that is my heavy pencil.

Q. You write the "O.K."?

A. Yes, and also this here is my handwriting "Letter to Cleveland 9-24 to home office", indicating I must have borrowed it from Cleveland probably.

Q. The 9-24 would indicate the date you made the call to Cleveland for the print?

A. No, it probably indicates Cleveland was to ship us a print on the 24th, and after I got through with it I was to send it to the home office, probably a borrowed print.

[fol. 4455] Q. And the $8.00?

A. Is probably the price of this news. I probably was interested in it and made a note of it.

Q. Otherwise the handwriting is all that of Mr. Smith?

A. With the exception of this.

Q. With the exception of what you have just stated?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. These lines that are drawn through the notations "Hurry Charlie" and what is this?

A. Argentina.

Q. And "They Meet Again", you don't know whether you wrote those or Smith or somebody else?

A. I may have stricken those out knowing that they could not be served.

Q. You are not able to testify from looking at it?

A. Not exactly that I did that.

Q. Whether you drew those or Smith did, or somebody else?

A. I could not say, I wouldn't know except to say knowing I could not serve those pictures they would be obviously crossed off.

Q. I will show you these forms entitled "Special License Agreement" that have been marked in evidence here as Exhibit 819. Do you recognize the forms?

A, That is an application, a memo application form, Exhibitor's copy.

[fol. 4456] Q. And when those are made up, the original there, is an original made at the same time?

A. Usually there is.

Q. And that original form is the same as this, is it?

A. Yes, should be.

Q. Or is it a different color?

A. It is a different color, sir.

Q. What color is it?

A. Well, there are five or six copies to this contract. There is the white, blue, pink and brown, and I couldn't say, some other color, anyway.

Q. What happens to those other colored copies?

A. Usually this is made in duplicate. The exhibitor would sign all seven copies and the application is sent from the branch then, after the salesman transmits it to the branch.

Q. You leave one copy with the exhibitor and take six back to the branch, is that it?

A. That is right, sir.

Q. What do you do with the six the branch gets?

A. Well, we take the duplicate of this and usually type the other five copies so they are clear and legible and them submit them to the home office for consideration and approval with our recommendations as to whether or not we feel they are equitable contracts and whether they should [fol. 4457] be accepted.

Q. If they are approved, what happens?

A. If the contract is approved, we are notified by our home office and we in turn approve to the exhibitor.

Q. You do that how?

A. Usually by telegram and it is followed up with the approved copy of the contract which bears the home office stamp of approval.

Q. That goes from where to where?

A. The home office copy would be stamped in New York, forwarded to the branch and then forwarded to the exhibitor with an accompanying letter.

Q. You would also have a copy in the branch?

A. Usually retained a copy in the branch.

Q. The other five copies at the branch?

A. Usually retain the other five copies in the branch.

Q. And before you came here to take the witness-stand, did you make any search to determine whether you had any copies in the branch there of these five license agreements that are marked Exhibit 819?

A. No, a short time ago I looked up one contract in connection with, I believe, a five-picture contract; I recall looking at it recently, but I haven't looked at any four or five copies.

Q. Will you repeat the question?

[fol. 4458] A. I did not.

Q. And do you know whether you have any such copies there?

A. It is possible we might have a copy in the files. That is, if it is an approved contract. We don't usually save all memo applications if they are rejected, because when they are re-negotiated the useless copies would be probably destroyed because they have no bearing on our records.

Q. As to those that are approved?

A. We would have a copy or the approved copies.

Q. Before you return to the witness-stand, will you make the search and see if you have any?

A. If you will give me a specific list I would be glad to.

Q. If you have copies of contracts which you have in front of you, you can take the exhibit along, if you want to.

A. Yes, I will take it along and check it.

Mr. Wright: Do you want to adjourn at 4 o'clock?

Mr. McClennen: Yes, could we adjourn now?

The Court: Do you want to adjourn over the first of the week?

Mr. Wright: As I understand it the adjournment now is until Wednesday morning.

The Court: You don't want to work on Election Day?

Mr. Wright: I have that argument in Washington which [fols. 4459-4460] is for the 6th and 7th.

The Court: Very well, we will adjourn until Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock.

(Whereupon, a recess was taken until Wednesday, November 8th, 1944, at 10 o'clock A. M.)

[fol. 4461] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, November 8, 1944, 10 o'clock A. M.

APPEARANCES:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Philip Marcus, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorney, in behalf of the United States.

Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rogers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Howard M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the Defendants.

[fol. 4462] PROCEEDINGS

Mr. McClennen: If the Court please, I have asked to have marked as Defendants' Exhibit 170 for identification, from the files of Warner, a carbon copy of a letter of September 9, 1935, from M. A. Mooney, Branch Manager, to M. H. Breyer, Secretary of State Theatre, Bucyrus, Ohio. And as Defendants' Exhibit 171 for identification a percentage report from the files of Warner, signed by M. H. Breyer, for the percentage on the play of "Page Glory" under contract 4447, at the State Theatre, Bucyrus, on September 8th to 10th, 1935.

(Thereupon the carbon copy of letter, September 9, 1935, referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit 170 for identification.)

(Thereupon the Warner Bros, percentage report, Cleveland Exchange, September 8th to 10th, 1935, was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-171 for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: I offer these two in evidence.

Mr. Wright: As far as I know, there has not been any prior identification of these documents. I assume some- [fol. 4463] body from Warner Bros. might be able to establish the identity. As far as the letter of September 9th is concerned that also appears to be a copy and I suppose there ought to be some showing as to the unavailability of the original. I see no objection to having these marked at this time, but I do not see that they have been made competent by Mr. McClennen's statements, and we would like to reserve——

The Court: Did not the defendant consent to the introduction of these other documents as coming from the records of the Company? Certain of these were consented to before. Was there a question raised about that?

Mr. Wright: We identified all of the documents that we offered as having come from the records of the company by witnesses who appeared and said that they did. I have not any reason to doubt that these did come from the files of the company, but, again, this is a matter concerning correspondence with Breyer, a report that is supposed to have been sent in by Breyer.

The Court: Do you object to them?

Mr. Wright: At this time I object to having them offered [fol. 4464] in evidence.

The Court: Objection sustained. They are not sufficiently proven.

[fol. 4465] Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I first press Exhibit D-171 which shows by comparison of signatures of exhibits already on file as signed by M. H. Breyer.

The Court: I can't compare the signatures. How can the Court do that?

Mr. McClennen: It is obvious on inspection of the exhibits, if your Honor please.

The Court: No.

Mr. McClennen: Then I will state that these papers were received from the attorney for Warner Brothers in New York, having been collected from the files of Warner, and I ask if Mr. Wright is going to make me have him come to Buffalo to state that fact, or will you accept my statement?

Mr. Wright: That will depend entirely on what we are able to learn about these papers from Mr. Breyer. If Mr. Breyer says he got the original of this letter and that he signed this statement, I think that no further identification would be necessary, but, of course, we want to make the check with him.

The Court: If the attorney is called to the stand he can [fol. 4466] testify they were taken from the records of the Company.

Mr. McClennen: Yes, if your Honor please.

The Court: And Breyer's testimony might and might not be material. That would not affect the introduction of the exhibits as showing they were received except the introduction of the copy.

Mr. Wright: I don't think there is any occasion on the admissibility of the documents at this point, anyway, because we haven't any one on the stand who had anything to do with this situation.

The Court: You had better have the attorney come.

Mr. McClennen: That is, have some one come from New York to identify them?

The Court: Yes, proceed.

Ned E. Depinet a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. What is your residence?

[fol. 4467] A. I live in Greenwich, Connecticut.

Q. What is your position?

A. I am President of R.K.O.—Radio Pictures, Inc.

Q. When did you enter the motion picture distribution business?

A. In the fall of 1907.

Q. In what capacity and with what company?

A. Well, I worked for a man named Pierce who had a film exchange in New Orleans, Louisiana. I was the shipper and film inspector and booker and errand boy, and so forth. There were about four of us in the office.

Q. Will you with approximation of dates briefly state your relationship to this business down to the time when you came into the employ of R.K.O.?

A. Well, I worked in New Orleans in that office that I have just mentioned for a couple of years. The industry was beginning to grow and I finally was sent out on the road as a salesman in 1909 and traveled through the South. Along about 1912 or '13 I became a Branch Manager and a year or so later Southern District Manager which position I held until 1924, when I came to New York as one of the sales managers of Universal Film Company, remaining there a year or so and became the General Sales Manager and Vice President of First National Pictures where I [fol. 4468] remained until that Company was purchased by Warner Brothers, and I remained there a couple of years longer under the ownership of Warner Brothers, and eventually joined R.K.O. in 1931.

Q. I am not sure, were you with Pathe before it became R.K.O.?

A. R.K.O. owned two producing and distributing organizations when I joined them, and the one I joined was called R.K.O.-Pathe, and I became the Vice President and General Sales Manager of that Company when I joined the organization.

Q. And you have occupied that position of Vice President and General Sales Manager of R.K.O. from 1931 down to what date?

A. Down to about two years ago when I was made President.

Q. Did you then remain as General Sales Manager?

A. No, but I have always specialized on distribution and still do.

Q. When you first came to R.K.O. in 1931, it was already the owner of theatres?

A. Yes, R. K. O. owned theatres, R.K.O.-Pathe; the first company that I joined did not own theatres.

Q. You had to do with the distribution end of the business and not the theatre operating end of the business?

A. That is correct.

Q. When you began whose production of pictures was [fol. 4469] R.K.O. distributing?

A. Well, R.K.O. was distributing pictures that R.K.O. produced and pictures that R.K.O.-Pathe produced. They had two studios.

[fol. 4470] Q. At that time was it distributing any pictures of other producers than those two?

A. Well, I am not clear as to that at that time, at that particular time. I don't know whether they had any outside pictures independently produced or produced by other people at that time or not.

Q. Confining yourself now to the period from 1931 to May 19, 1942,—and I am selecting that date not because of any supposed change in your business, but because of the course that this case is pursuing—will you state the sources of the product that RKO has from time to time distributed?

A. Until what date?

Q. From 1931 to May 19, 1942.

A. Well, the sources of the various product that we distributed during that period among others were Pathe News, March of Time, both produced by other companies; all of Walt Disney's products, both short subjects and features, such as "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and others that he produced; the product of RKO Radio, which the company produced at its own studio; Samuel Goldwyn's pictures during that period; Sol Lesser's pictures, I believe, during that period; and then there were several other independently produced pictures that we distributed, all of [fol. 4471] which I cannot recall at the moment.

Q. And when you say "during that period" I take it you mean from time to time during that period and not all of those over all of that period?

A. Of course. We may have just had one from one of those sources during that period. A man named Deterle produced pictures for us during that period.. Another outfit made some Dr. Christian pictures, which we distributed, and another concern made pictures of that very homey New England character——

Q. We do not like to concede that there are any such.

The Court: He said "homey", not "homely".

Mr. McClennen: Then I will withdraw my remark.

A. This was a very nice character on the screen. I can't think of his name. There were a series of six of those. Scattergood Baines, that was the gentleman's name. There were six of those. I only distributed them for several years.

Q. In the theatre exhibition department of RKO who were the persons with whom you came in contact for that department in the superior positions?

A. Well, over the period of time since I joined the organization, is that what you mean?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, there was Joe Plunkett and Senator J. Henry Walters, Harold B. Franklin, John O'Connor, Jules Levy, [fol. 4472] Phil Reisman, Freddy Myers and Eddie Alperson.

Q. Do you happen to remember the period when Freddy Myers was with RKO?

A. Very well.

Q. What was he?

A. Well, Fred was there when I joined the Company. He had previously worked for me in New York as a salesman when I was in charge of First National. So had Jules Levy. So I am quite familiar with their activities. They both left First National to join RKO when Joe Plunkett took over the theatre department. Jules was the head of the film booking department and Freddy was one of his first assistants.

Q. How long did Freddy Myers stay with that department?

A. Well, he stayed until 1941. I think it was May, 1941, when he resigned to join Universal.

Q. Where you—and I am using you as RKO—distributed pictures of other producers what was the practice with respect to the obtaining of the approval or not obtaining the approval of those producers?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I do not like to interrupt, but the relevancy of this line of inquiry is not apparent to me.

The Court: Read the question again.

[fol. 4473] (Question read.)

The Court: Obtaining their approval; that is the question. Obtaining approval to use the other pictures, you mean?

Mr. McClennen: The approval of the distribution contract; that is, if a contract came in, or an application came in to RKO's central office for, we will say, X theatre in the town of Y, and the production was that of some one other than RKO, what was done, if anything, with respect to obtaining the producer's aproval before making the contract?

A. Well, there were two different arrangements. With some of the producers they retained the right to approve every exhibition license. Others grant us the right to approve it. For instance, Samuel Goldwyn, we can negotiate a license and if he likes it he can accept it. If he wants to sell his pictures otherwise or to some one else the final right remains in his hands.

Q. What has been the practice with reference to the product which RKO was distributing, so far as the playing of those pictures in RKO's own theatres is concerned?

A. Well, RKO's theatres negotiated for those pictures [fol. 4474] just like any other exhibitor.

Q. And were the terms, the price per picture, or the percentage per picture, the clearance, and what not, a matter of negotiation between the distributing department and the theatre department?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. What do you have to say about the approval of distribution contracts, either to your own theatres or to other exhibitors?

A. Well, I carry the responsibility of approving all contracts. My name is signed to the license agreements. Of course I am only human and I have to have assistants to help me to carry out and perform my duties. But the final authority rests in me.

Q. Will you state the sales policy of RKO, as you have pursued it, in respect to the dealing with theatres affiliated with other distributors and theatres of independent circuits and theatres of one-theatre operators in the negotiations for your product, the places where they are carried on, any distinctions between the different classes of negotiations, and the considerations determinative of your making contracts with particular theatres where there were other theatres in the town available as a possible customer? Will you state that, with any changes that may have occurred [fol. 4475] in the course of the period, if there have been any, and as fully as you can, carrying that question in mind?

[fol. 4476] Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I think the question is at least triple barreled.

Mr. McClennen: If it is objected to I will not press it. I thought it would be a great saving of time.

Mr. Wright: A matter of clarity.

Mr. McClennen: I am not going to press the question.

Mr. Wright: It isn't a question of saving time, it is a matter of clarity.

Mr. McClennen: I am not going to press it if you object.

Mr. Wright: We do object.

The Court: The question is withdrawn.

Mr. McClennen: I do not press it. I withdraw the question.

Q. Mr. Depinet, where there are two theatres or more in a city or town possibly available for the first-run or subsequent-run of your pictures, what is your policy with respect to determining to which you will try to sell or consent to sell?

A. Well, our principal desire in the distribution of our pictures is to place them with an exhibitor who we know to be a fair dealer, a reputable operator, a good, live showman. Naturally, the accessibility of his theatre, the reputation of his theatre, the convenience of his theatre, the amount of money that can be earned by a picture in his theatre, his willingness to advertise and establish the pic- [fol. 4477] ture for the surrounding theatres in that locality, all play an important part. Being in the commercial business we desire to get as much revenue as we can, leaving fair and reasonable amount for the theatre, because without that it can't exist. I think those are the principal considerations.

Q. In applying those considerations what weight do you give to the isolated consideration that the theatre is operated by a producer affiliated circuit or an independent circuit or a one-theatre operator?

A. Well, the principal considerations that I have just given you in the sale or licensing of our pictures we have certain policies which are determined when the picture is produced, and we know what it is and the customer who is willing to abide by those terms and if all of the other considerations are satisfactory, why, that is the fellow we do business with and, naturally, the large customer is important to us but he has a lot of brick and mortar which isn't any good to him without film, and we have film that isn't any good to us, except for the theatres, so we deal with him like anybody else, and eventually we get together. We don't permit him to take advantage of us and he does not permit us to take any advantage of him. It wouldn't make any difference to me whether he was an independent or a chain [fol. 4478] operator in the licensing of my pictures if he could leave up to the requirements and it was the best place to sell.

Q. Where there is only one theatre in the town, and if it is a theatre, striving to operate on the best type of pictures, what is your competition for that business, from what other distributing companies?

A. Well, there are plenty of competition. There is the Paramount Company and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Warner Brothers, 20th Century-Fox, Universal, United Artists, Columbia, Republic, Monogram and independent distributors and the British pictures.

Q. In the general run of production, there is no question that some of those companies that you have named do a better job than others of them; their product is more desirable?

A. Yes, but there are various types of theatres, and some of them what you might call smaller companies are producers of product that is more valuable in some of those one-theatre towns; for instance; Western pictures in — Republic and Monogram specialize, are most popular in the little towns of the South and West, and sometimes those exhibitors prefer those pictures to our big, expensive pictures. There are various types of theatres and various types of pictures that are popular in different theatres and [fol. 4479] different localities. You probably wouldn't want to see a "Lum 'n Abner" picture. But down in Kentucky they break all records and there are various sections of the country in which certain pictures do not appeal, and when you go out with all the film there is on the market in one town, you have plenty of competition.

Q. When did the plan of clearance of first-run for its protection against subsequent-runs first come into substantial use?

A. Well, to the best of my recollection it came along with the advent of the feature film, that is, the film of five reels in length, or longer, and as our industry grew. At the beginning there might be one theatre in a town or locality and then as other theatres sprung up, for the orderly conduct of our business, for the convenience of the public, for the protection of our revenue, we had to adopt some sort of a schedule for the playing of the pictures in the various theatres and that slowly developed into the present clearance.

Q. What are the considerations which influence you in determining the length of that clearance?

A. Well, that clearance is negotiated with the exhibitor. History probably has something to do with it, the locality of the theatre, whether it is on the other side of the river [fol. 4480] or the street car runs by there. There are many things that determine the length of clearance. It varies in almost every city. It is hard to define just what it is. You want to get all the revenue that you can out of the first house and then you move onto the second and you want to do the same job there and this clearance is to space the showing of the film. Price has something to do with it, naturally. The first time a picture is shown downtown the admission price is higher and as a general rule, although not always, the admission price lowers as you go along. The public want to know where they can see pictures at various prices, and by this clearance system we make the same picture that might be shown for a dollar in one house so eventually the poor man may see it in a ten-cent house somewhere by spacing the clearance. And then the number of prints is important. We couldn't possibly handle our possibly sixteen thousand theatres with a reasonable number of prints unless the exhibition was divided in some way, such as it has been through the development and growth, the history of clearance.

Q. You mentioned sixteen thousand theatres. Was that just for illustration, or does it betoken the number of theatres you are selling to?

A. I mention that because the War Activity Committee [fol. 4481] of the motion picture industry in its endeavor to cooperate with the Government in this emergency has taken steps to contact the theatres, have them pledge support, and, I think, it is slightly over sixteen thousand exhibitors that have signed up to help the Government, so, assuming that any American would do that, I would say there would be slightly over sixteen thousand theatres.

Q. Do you bear in mind approximately how many of those theatres, say in 1941, R.K.O. licensed to?

A. Varied number, depending upon the quality and popularity of the picture from maybe as low as eight thousand up to fourteen thousand, or more.

Q. You have spoken of the interest in your revenue. It is obvious in the case of the percentage picture how you are interested in the gross receipts of the theatre showing your picture first-run. Will you indicate in what way you are interested in that revenue in the case of flat rental pictures, either currently or for future prospects, or otherwise?

A. Well, film rental is a percentage of the receipts regardless of how the exhibitor pays it to you.

Q. Will you stop right there and indicate just what you mean by that?

A. Well, I mean by that that if a man takes in a thousand [fol. 4482] dollars and gives you 35 per cent of it, it is $350. If you sell it to him for flat rental for $400 and he takes in a thousand, you have received 40 per cent of his receipts. The exhibitor whose purpose it is to buy as reasonably as he can sometimes believes that he can buy more reasonably through flat rental, and if he is willing to pay a reasonable flat rental, why, we don't want to be arbitrary about it in every case. Sometimes we let him buy it the way he wants to buy, but we still get a percentage of the receipts, maybe lower than our regular terms, maybe a little higher, depending on the trading ability of the exhibitor and the distributor.

Q. When you have agreed with him on a flat rental and the picture is a flop at his theatre, what is the common occurrence?

A. Well, he comes in and asks for an adjustment and generally he gets it, if there is fairness in his plea.

Q. In fixing on the flat rentals for a particular theatre in this year what, if any consideration do you give to what have been his gross receipts in a prior year on pictures?

A. Well, naturally in establishing what we think is the fair flat rental we take into consideration and use for our calculation his grossing prospects, and we know pretty [fol. 4483] well what a certain theatre ought to gross with a certain picture and the rental is always based on a percentage of the receipts that will give us an adequate rental, leaving him his expenses, plus a reasonable profit. We don't try to get the last dollar, because there is no sense in putting him out of business.

Q. You have several times mentioned 35 per cent. Was that selected just for illustration or is it a significant figure?

A. Well, it is significant in that for quite some time 35 per cent has been a basic figure around which you work. Sometimes you go higher and sometimes you go lower, depending on the quality and drawing power of the picture.

Q. When you sell a picture to a theatre first-run, and also second-run, what, if any, influence does the agreed figure for the first-run have upon the figure for the second run?

A. When you say "figure," what do you mean, Mr. McClennen?

Q. Well, I mean——

A. The film rental?

Q. The film rental, yes, that is what I mean by that, the film rental?

A. They don't have any influence on each other. Each theatre is a separate entity. One theatre may have for unusual reasons a very heavy overhead, another theatre [fol. 4484] may have a cheap overhead. Our calculations are primarily aimed at a rental which will give us a reasonable return and leave a reasonable amount with the exhibitor.

[fol. 4485] Q. If both runs are sold to one theatre——

The Court: I did not understand your answer to that question as being an answer to the question put. Your question was where they continue the run beyond the first run in the same theatre?

The Witness: I did not understand it that way.

The Court: What was the rental charge?

Mr. McClennen: I did not mean a continuance in the sense that we have referred to it at other times.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Let me put you this question: In a given town there is a theatre X and a theatre Y. The considerations are obvious that make you want to put your first-run into theatre X. Theatre X and theatre Y both would like to get the second-run in the town 30 days or 60 days, or what not, after the first-run. In determining the film rental for the second-run to X how much do you take into consideration, if at all, the fact that X is buying the first-run also, and what considerations do you have to determine what in that competition for the second-run will determine what you should do with theatre Y?

A. Well, I don't quite understand that question.

Q. I am assuming that X is in one ownership and Y is in [fol. 4486] another ownership entirely independent.

A. Those are both second-run theatres?

Q. No. X is a first-run theatre that, for pressure of product or for other reasons, has to have the second-run perhaps as a second feature or otherwise on other pictures, but for business reasons wants to get the second-run. Now, when you negotiate the first-run under those circumstances, do you ordinarily negotiate it at the same time that you make the first-run contract?

A. Yes, I think you would in an instance of that sort.

Q. How much are you affected in determining whether you shall let Theatre X have that second-run by the fact that X is paying for the first-run the price fixed for the first-run?

The Court: How does that affect the question of the rental as between X and Y for the second-run?

Mr. McClennen: First as to how they arrive at the rental for X.

The Court: In view of the fact that they are also contracting for a second-run, you mean?

Mr. McClennen: In view of the fact that they are the contractor for the first-run.

A. Well, as clearly as I understand your question, they are two separate transactions and would be dealt with and treated separately. There is an advantage to us, perhaps, [fol. 4487] in having the first-run also play the second-run. He would be more apt to protect—or, rather, not hinder the first-run by the second-run operation. They would probably allow sufficient clearance and there would be advantages in putting the picture over better because he knew it would come back eventually and play again in his second-run theatre; but the two deals would be negotiated individually and be determined on their merits.

Q. In dealing with circuits of theatre are they ordinarily dealt with in one negotiation or a series of negotiations for the season?

A. Well, not today. Today we try to sell every picture individually.

Q. I forgot to call to your attention that we are not talking about today in the case. I will take it, for illustration, in the year 1939.

A. Well, at that time circuits were sold in different ways. Some circuits that had a central buying place where you made a deal after negotiations, individual negotiations, for each theatre, might do it at one place. Other circuits were divided and had offices in different parts of the country. There was not any set rule about it. The only set rule was that you took up individually every theatre and sat down and negotiated for that particular theatre, whether you [fol. 4488] did it all at one time or whether you did it at different places or at the same place.

Q. The plaintiff has adopted as the definition of a franchise, for the purposes of this case, a contract covering more than one season's production. Without attempting to commit you one way or the other to the correctness of that definition, just assume it in the questions that I put to you from now on.

Are franchises a common or an uncommon thing with RKO?

A. Well, they are very uncommon today. There was a time——

Q. Again I will say in 1939.

A. There was a period when we had quite a few. That was in the early days that I was with the company, but in the main the theatres covered by franchise were a very, very small number of the total theatres that we supplied.

Q. In issuing those franchises was any distinction made between producer-controlled theatres, independent circuits and individual theatres?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. In dealing with individual theatres in competition with the other large producers, there were times, were there not, when some of the other large producers were supplying to the theatre which RKO did not supply?

A. Will you read that, please?

[fol. 4489] (Question read.)

A. Of course.

Q. Were any efforts made, as a matter of your policy, to get that theatre to take a franchise from RKO?

A. Well, RKO over the period of years has made a determined effort to sell or license its product to every theatre in America, regardless of who else was selling pictures there, and we try to sell the theatres that we think would make good customers and that we think our product should play in, regardless of what else the exhibitor may have had.

Q. What were the advantages and disadvantages, if any, of either to you in your selling policy in giving franchises to independent theatres?

A. Well, at the time we felt that a franchise would give us a continuous source of exhibition for our pictures in that particular theatre. It saved us the expense of going back and selling them each year. It gave us a sense of security in the production of our pictures. We knew we had an outlet.

Q. And would the same considerations apply to your giving a franchise to a circuit of theatres?

A. Of course they are all theatres to us regardless of who owns them.

Q. I confine myself now to the matters of your personal [fol. 4490] knowledge and not what you have been told by anybody else. To your knowledge has there been any conversation with any of the defendants in this case or their executive or employees not to deal with any competing exhibitor, or to restrict the terms of such dealings?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, there is not any showing so far that this witness would have any occasion to have such knowledge, if it had occurred, and he is also drawing a conclusion here as to what the effect of some conversation might or might not be. The form of the question, I believe, called for whether he knew of a conversation to the effect that such a thing had happened. Now, I submit that he is not in any position to answer such a question and that it is a conclusion.

Mr. McClennen: The precise question was put at page 4381 and admitted by your Honor.

The Court. I take it that there is the question of his being in a position to know whether such a conversation was had. The other thing is whether it calls for a conclusion. You have to assume that he has some knowledge that contracts [fol. 4491] were made for the distribution of pictures.

Mr. Wright: I would agree in assuming that he might have some knowledge of the contracts. There has not been any showing that he had any knowledge whatsoever as to the negotiation of any particular contract that is in evidence here.

The Court: He goes farther than that. You might assume by reason of his position as President he might have some knowledge of some negotiations at the time.

Mr. Wright: I suppose that would depend on the facts of the particular contract.

The Court: You may inquire as to his own personal experience, what he has done with reference to the negotiation, what he has known personally of the negotiation of contracts from time to time, and what he had to do with the negotiation of contracts. I think that is true, but I think it might be reenforced by something more definite as to his opportunity for knowledge.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Depinet, you have known from 1931 to May 19, [fol. 4492] 1942, have you, that your company was making contracts with the various theatres, or some of them, from time to time, of the Schine Circuit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have had those contracts come up to you for approval?

A. Yes, sir, I visited Gloversville myself and talked about contracts.

The Court: Have you negotiated from time to time with the Schine people with reference to contracts?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Depinet, in addition to yourself, there were at various times during this period, were there not, a number of others who engaged in the negotiation of contracts with the Schine Circuit?

A. Oh, yes, sir.

Q. And, in general, what you did was simply to place the final approval on whatever deals were worked out; isn't that right?

A. Nobody else had any authority to license any of our pictures but myself.

[fol. 4493] Q. I understand that, and what you did in these deals was simply to approve the deal that was finally made?

A. Well, now, Mr. Wright, as head of the distribution I do more than just sit there and say yes or no.

Q. I understand you attempt to satisfy yourself——

A. I lay out the policies——

Q. Just don't interrupt. Let me finish the question. As I understand you, you, at the time you approve any contract, or any one that is important, attempt to satisfy yourself from whatever information you have at hand that the contract is the kind you ought to have or the best you can get? That is right, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All of this general procedure you outlined I suppose represents what you like to do or what you try to do; isn't that correct?

A. I don't understand what procedure you mean.

Q. Your previous testimony, in which you went over the policies of the Company in general situations.

A. No, it is what we do do.

Q. You never have any variations from the policy as outlined; is that right?

A. Well, any policy is flexible, Mr. Wright. We adhere to that policy to the best of our ability. There are a lot of ways to skin a cat and if we have to make a change here [fol. 4494] or there to get the same result we do it.

Q. Your performance, of course, in particular situations, I suppose varies widely from what you set up as the ideal; is that correct?

A. I don't know as to that. I wouldn't agree to that—widely. It may vary, but I don't know how widely it varies.

Q. Or the extent of the variation, I suppose it would depend on a rather careful analysis of all the contracts you made with what you set out to do; isn't that right?

A. No, our desire is to make a license with an exhibitor that gives us a fair rental and leaves him a reasonable return. That is our policy and that is what we adhere to. We do it in different ways, but that is the way we end up or at least try to end up.

Q. And I suppose it would be impossible to say how often you ended up that way, without a study of the exhibitor's books for that matter, wouldn't it?

A. Well, those come into play. When he comes in and wants help he brings his books.

Q. That does not quite answer my question.

A. Yes, his books and our knowledge of his theatre. There is no great mystery about the operation of a motion picture theatre.

Q. In your general efforts to get what you regard as [fol. 4495] favorable terms you try to get whatever the product you think you are selling is worth? Isn't that about what it comes down to?

A. Up to the point that we try to get all that we can get and still leave the man a reasonable part of the receipts.

Q. And in terms of percentage and flat rentals your terms vary quite widely, in accordance with what you regard as the value of the particular exhibition that you are selling; isn't that right?

A. The particular theatre.

Q. And the particular run and the theatre it is playing in, I suppose?

A. Yes, that is true, but different theatres cost different amounts to operate. Some theatres can pay a higher percentage than others, due to the overhead, due to the rents, and so on.

Q. In general, is it not a fact that you do not expect to get as big a share of the distributor's receipts for the less desirable runs and pictures than you expect to get for the first runs of the top pictures?

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright, I think you meant exhibitor. You said distributor's receipts.

Mr. Wright: Yes, I will change that.

A. Well, that does not hold true. We expect to get a percentage of the receipts for the exhibition of our pictures [fol. 4496] in a given theatre that will leave the exhibitor a reasonable sum and give us a reasonable sum. Now, as I have said before, some theatres can pay a higher percentage and still end up with a better profit than other theatres.

Q. I understand what you said before. Will you read the question and see if we can get an answer to the question?

(Question read as follows:

"Q. In general, is it not a fact that you do not expect to get as big a share of the exhibitor's receipts for the less desirable runs and pictures than you expect to get for the first runs of the top pictures?")

A. Well, the percentages would vary. The amount of money paid varies because in the big theatre you get a much larger sum of money than you do in the smaller theatre.

Q. Your answer to the question is no? You expect to get, do you, just as much in the way of percentage, just as high a percentage of the exhibitor's gross, whether you are selling him a last run in one of your bottom brackets or whether you are selling somebody first-run on one of your top bracket pictures; is that right?

A. No, that is not what I said. You talked about top pictures. I will say this, that the older the picture gets, or the older the run is, the rental naturally diminishes as the [fol. 4497] receipts of the theatre diminish.

Q. And the percentage of the receipts that you get as film rental also diminishes, does it not?

A. Yes, to an extent it does, yes.

Q. You testified generally, I believe, as to clearances. Did you take any part in negotiating any of the clearances that are involved in this case, any of the clearances with the Schine Circuit?

A. I don't believe I did.

[fol. 4498] Q. And I believe you also testified as to your general policy in selling circuits of various types and independents, that you treated them the same?

A. That is right.

Q. And in your selection of a particular theatre, or your sales as to particular theatres in a particular locality, your general policy would be to negotiate on a theatre against theatre basis, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. And, of course, the extent to which the policy was carried out, and the extent to which variations occurred would only appear from an examination of what happened in particular situations, isn't that right?

A. I imagine that is correct.

The Court: Just one question. You spoke about the question of variation of percentages from the percentage on the first-run pictures to percentage on the later runs of the same picture in perhaps a smaller theatre. You said it made a difference to some extent. What do you mean by that? There is evidence in this case of some charges for smaller theatres that seem to be in excess of that charge for the first-run pictures.

[fol. 4499] The Witness: Well, what I meant by that was this—I thought I was answering his question—there are certain pictures on which the terms are cut and dried for every theatre in America, and it doesn't make any difference if it is the one hundredth run or the first run.

The Court: The figures are cut and dried?

The Witness: As to the terms. Maybe it is a so-called 50 per cent picture, and the producer and distributor will not play it anywhere except under those terms. Then there are other pictures which are not so expensive, not so good and which, like any other merchandise, the price may be lessened somewhat as it gets older and plays in older theatres, but basically, your Honor, the distributor tries to get a percentage of the income of a theatre and it might be the fifteenth run in a town, but the company figures its gross possibilities. It might earn you more than the fifth or eighth or tenth run. That happens.

The Court: You said, "To an extent." I didn't know what you meant by that.

[fol. 4500] Mr. Wright: I missed your Honor's earlier comments, and could you read me what the Judge said before?

The Court: The answer with respect to comparative prices and later runs. I mean, rentals, and he said "To an extent that affected the difference in rentals."

You can go back there, if you want to.

(Reporter then read the following:

"The Court: Just one question. You spoke about the question of variation of percentages from the percentage on the first run pictures to percentage on the later runs of the same picture in perhaps a smaller theatre. You said it made a difference to some extent. What do you mean by that? There is evidence in this case of some charges for smaller theatres that seem to be in excess of that charge for the first-run pictures.

The Witness: Well, what I meant by that was this—I thought I was answering his question—there are certain pictures on which the terms are cut and dried for every [fol. 4501] theatre in America——")

The Court: I mean rentals.

Mr. Wright: I heard the answer.

I think that is all.

Mr. McClennen: That is all, Mr. Depinet.

The Witness: Am I through?

Mr. Wright: Yes, sir.

The Witness: Thank you.

Mr. Wright: I might say in reference to the Warner exhibits it won't be necessary to have any one come here. My associates called my attention to the fact in the past we had a letter from the distributor representative identifying them. If some one will give us a letter what they are, and where they came from that will be sufficient.

The Court: All right.

Mr. McClennen: This remark refers to Defendants' Exhibits for identification D-170 and D-171.

The Court: You mean not to receive them now, but await the letter?

Mr. Wright: The letter should be sufficient to establish they came from the files. We reserve our objection as [fol. 4502] to impeachment of the witness on the ground that it should have been brought to the attention of Breyer when he was on the stand. It is the same thing that applies to the other documents produced.

The Court: Do you offer them now?

Mr. McClennen: I will offer them now giving the assurance that the letter will be forthcoming.

The Court: All right.

Mr. McClennen: Then these exhibits become Exhibits D-170 and D-171 in evidence.

(Thereupon copy of letter dated September 9, 1935 to Breyer from Mooney, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-170 for identification was received in evidence.

(Thereupon Warner Brothers' percentage engagement report signed by M. H. Breyer, dated 9-8-10, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-171 for identification was received in evidence.)

[fol. 4503] WILLIAM F. RODGERS a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Where is your residence?

A. Rye, New York.

Q. Your position?

A. Vice President and General Sales Manager of Loew's, Inc.

Q. When did you enter the motion picture distribution industry?

A. In the spring of 1910.

Q. Will you trace that down, briefly, by time, position, employer, until you came into the employ of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, or any of its constituent companies?

A. Well, in 1910, I entered the industry in the employ of the General Film Company in the capacity of a clerk, and over a period of several years, I occupied the positions of traveling auditor, bookkeeper, salesman and branch manager. I later was associated with the Mutual Film Corporation as an assistant to a Vice President and traveling representative. I later was with the Triangle Film [fol. 4504] Corporation as a manager of its Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, office and also a field representative, and for a very short period I was with the Hall Mark Company. I can't recall the dates, but I was a sales manager there. I left the Triangle to come back with the General Film Company and stayed there possibly a year or so as sales manager of the company, and later entered the employ of the Goldwyn Company about 1917 as an assistant to the Vice President and left them in 1918, and in 1920, for a very short period, I was with Paramount Pictures, as sales manager of short subjects, and entered the employ of the Goldwyn Company in 1920 again, and from that time on I have been either with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer or Loew's, Inc.

Q. And in what positions with the Loew's, Inc., or its constituent companies from the beginning of that connection which I think you said was 19——

A. The Goldwyn Company 1920, but we merged with the Metro Company in 1924.

Q. And the Mayer conjunction came in about the same time?

A. Approximately the same time, yes.

Q. Take it from 1924 down to date, what has been your connection, position, with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company and with Loew's, Inc.?

A. Well, I was an assistant to the Western Sales Man- [fol. 4505] ager and assistant to the Eastern Sales Manager too, for a very short time after the merger, and then later was the Eastern Sales Manager, and I had that position for approximately 11 or 12 years until I was appointed General Sales Manager in 1936, and two or three years ago I was appointed a Vice President of the Company.

Q. Do you recall Mr. Charles E. Dickinson, Jr., one time interested in the operation of a theatre in Lockport?

A. Yes.

Q. Mr. Dickinson has testified to a conversation with you apparently in 1933. He gives the conversation at page 1962 in these terms, he, meaning yourself, "He told me he would like to have his pictures played in the Palace Theatre, that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer always liked to have their pictures played in the best house in any town, the most outstanding house, but that a contract with the Palace Theatre for the 1933-1934 season in contrast with a contract for the Schine Chain would amount to peanuts, and he was sorry, but he could not do anything for us." Did you at any time say that last to Mr. Dickinson?

A. I did not.

Q. Give me to the best of your recollection the conversation that you had with him in the summer of 1933 in the terms "I said" and "He said," or "He said" and "I said."

[fol. 4506] A. Well, Mr. Dickinson called upon me in New York—I can't recall the exact time—desiring to have our pictures for the following season, and I told him at that time very definitely that I didn't think that we would sell him. He then demanded the pictures, claimed he had a right to them. I told him at the time the only reason he played our pictures was for the reason we had a serious disagreement with the Schine outfit at the time and he was the only outlet in Lockport to play them at the time, and in having the disagreement with Schine, we preferred to go back to them in the next year, and he became very abusive and I thought, under those circumstances——

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, this calls for conversation.

The Court: If you recall what was said.

The Witness: He threatened me at that time with a lawsuit. He threatened me with various different things. He was very abusive in his conversation.

The Court: The word "abusive" is a conclusion of the mind. Confine yourself to the conversation in your testimony.

The Witness: He threatened me. I told him then we [fol. 4507] would not sell him. He told me his standing in the community, why we should sell it to him. I told him he had no rights whatever, and I told him then as far as I was concerned, we would not offer him any part of our product.

Q. Mr. Rodgers, have you been in the court room this morning during the entire testimony of Mr. Depinet?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you heard that testimony?

A. Yes.

Q. Was your attention arrested on any respects in which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer policy of sale and dealing with theatres differed from that of R.K.O.?

A. Well, I might say somewhat slightly, yes. We set up our policy in maybe a little different fashion. We try to select, as Mr. Depinet outlined, the logical customer in a locality based upon many, many elements, try to deal with them as fair as we can. We have a basis of dealing which is in many, many places, automatic, according to the terms that the theatre finally pays us. We have a sliding scale of percentage, so to speak, where a fair percentage of our customers pay under such arrangements, where the gross receipts are fixed, he pays upon the gross receipts on the amount of business they do, or based on percentage in con- [fol. 4508] nection with the gross, but, generally speaking, I might say we try to conduct our business much along the same way Mr. Depinet outlined.

Q. Have you had any personal dealings with the Schine Circuit?

A. Well, not for many years.

Q. Have the negotiations with the Schine Circuit and the consequent contracts been reported to you from time to time for your approval or consideration?

A. Well, not necessarily for my approval, but for my consideration, and sometimes acquaintanceship with progress of developments or negotiations, but not for my approval. Our sales manager approves those contracts.

Q. Those sales managers being who, from time to time?

A. We have an eastern sales manager now, Mr. E. K. O'Shea, and we have a central sales manager, Mr. J. J. Maloney, and a western sales manager, Mr. J. E. Flynn, and what we call a circuit sales manager, Mr. E. W. Aaron, and I have an assistant general sales manager, E. M. Saunders.

Q. In that territorial division I take it that the Buffalo and Albany districts would fall in the eastern division?

A. Well, the Albany would, but Buffalo is in a central division, and it is just in the course of being transferred now back to the East.

Q. The central division would include Buffalo and Ohio [fol. 4509] and Kentucky and Maryland and the District of Columbia, among others?

A. Not the District of Columbia. That would be in the East. The others would be in the Central.

Q. Going back to 1931 to 1939, what was your division among sales managers for these respective districts? Do you remember who were over which district?

A. From 1931 to 1936 I was the Eastern Sales Manager, and I believe at that time we only had—yes, we had a Southern Sales Manager with just charge of the southern office up until 1936, and a Western Sales Manager, who had charge of everything from Chicago west.

Q. From the period 1931 to 1936, you were the Sales Manager that would cover the area, New York, Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland and the District of Columbia?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Representatives of Loew's, Inc. want me to ask you, in substance, if Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer or Loew's, Inc., are the best distributors in the motion picture industry, with the finest pictures and regard themselves as tops in all respects, is that so?

A. It depends under what circumstances. Sometimes we admit it and other times we don't.

Q. Well, if you at this time think of any respect in which any other distributor is in any more prominent position, or [fol. 4510] has any better pictures, in general, will you state it now?

A. Well, I don't believe anybody has as good, not any better pictures, and, as far as distribution is concerned, we think that we are fairly good.

Q. Mr. Rodgers, I confine this question, which I am about to put to you to your personal knowledge, not what you have been told by anybody else. To your knowledge, has there been any conversation with any of the defendants, or their executives, or employees, not to deal with any competing exhibitor or to restrict the terms of such exhibitor?

A. No.

Mr. Wright: Same objection.

The Court: I will receive it.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Rodgers, when you had this conversation with Mr. Dickinson in the summer of 1933, you say, you referred to some disagreement you had with the Schine Circuit?

A. Yes.

Q. You are referring to that by the fact you had been out of the circuit for the 1932-33 season?

A. We had been out for some time. I don't know whether [fol. 4511] it was the 1932-33 season, but it was immediately preceding that time.

Q. This conversation you had was about the 1933-34 season?

A. I don't recall how long we were out of them. I don't recall at the time.

Q. The disagreement you are referring to?

A. Was the preceding year.

Q. Was after you had been out of the circuit for the preceding year?

A. Yes.

The Court: What do you mean by "disagreement"?

The Witness: Mr. Schine had a representative that came to New York to negotiate with me, and he did negotiate a deal, and when he returned he returned to his headquarters, they had some disagreement there which resulted in a disagreement with me, so he didn't do any business.

Mr. Wright: Would you read to me the last question and answer of Mr. McClennen's?

(Reporter then read last question of Mr. McClennen's on direct-examination, on page 4510, lines 6 to 12, inclusive.)

The Court: Was the question in a different form than it was before, Mr. McClennen?

[fol. 4512] Mr. McClennen: Your Honor please?

The Court: I thought the form of your question might be a little different.

Mr. McClennen: That question was read from the one put before.

The Court: I had reference to the word "statement" in there, something about a statement made, I don't know.

Mr. McClennen: Well, the question put to Mr. Andrew Smith and to Mr. Depinet, and as I intended to phrase it to Mr. Rodgers was: I confine this question, which I am about to put to you, to your personal knowledge, not what you have been told by anybody else. To your knowledge has there been any conversation——

The Court: What was that?

Mr. McClennen (Continuing): —to your knowledge has there been any conversation with any of the defendants, or their executives, or employees, not to deal with any competing exhibitor or to restrict the terms of such dealings?

The Court: It was the same as before.

[fol. 4513] ~~The Court: Mr.~~ Wright was cross-examining.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, there is something that has come up here that I would appreciate a short recess to look over before we excuse Mr. Rodgers.

Mr. McClennen: There are one or two questions I will put, if I may.

The Court: All right.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. In the period 1931 to 1936 was the approval or disapproval of contracts proferred from the Eastern Division in your hands?

A. Yes, sir.

(Short recess taken.)

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I have concluded my examination. I wanted to offer while Mr. Rodgers was on the stand letters which were previously identified. The first one, 441 for identification, is a letter dated February 7, 1936, addressed to Mr. Lynch. It just has the initials at the bottom, "W.F.R."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Those are your initials, are they?
[fol. 4514] A. I do not see my initials. I just see dictated initials, but I can't see mine on here. I assume that it is, however.
Q. That is a letter that you wrote?
A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: Those that you showed you need not bother with.
Mr. Wright: It did not have the name on it.
Mr. McClennen: What exhibit is that?
Mr. Wright: That is 441.
Mr. McClennen: What is it?
Mr. Wright: That is a letter dated February 7, 1936, from Mr. Rodgers to Mr. Lynch. We offer this Exhibit 441 and Exhibit 424 for identification, which is a letter from Mr. O'Shea to Mr. Rodgers, dated October 13, 1933. An Exhibit 491 for identification, which is a letter or a memorandum from Mr. Rodgers to Mr. Conners, dated June 8, 1939, and Exhibit 509 for identification, which is a memorandum from Mr. Aaron to Mr. Rodgers, dated August 2, 1938, and Exhibit No. 510 for identification, which is a memorandum, dated July 29, 1938, from Mr. Rodgers to Mr. Conners.

[fol. 4515] (Thereupon the letter, dated February 7, 1936, Rodgers to Lynch, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 441 for identification was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon the letter, dated October 13, 1933, O'Shea to Rodgers, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 424 for identification was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon the memorandum, dated June 8, 1939, Rodgers to Conners, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 491 for identification was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon the memorandum, dated August 2, 1939, Aaron to Rodgers, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 509 for identification was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon the memorandum, dated July 29, 1938, Rodgers to Conners, previously marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 510 was received in evidence.)

The Court: Does that conclude your examination?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

The Court: We will take a recess until 2 o'clock P.M.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P.M.)

[fol. 4516] After Recess, 2 P.M.

Appearances: Same as before noted.

Edwin J. Smith, a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants and having been first duly sworn was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. What is your residence?

A. Buffalo, New York.

Q. In September, 1941, what was your employment and with what company?

A. Salesman for RKO-Radio, Inc.

Q. Did your territory include Syracuse?

A. Yes.

Q. It has appeared that on September 9, 1941, Mr. Wallace telegraphed—I haven't the words before me—in substance that he wanted to talk about pictures for the Strand Theatre in Syracuse. Did that telegram come to your attention?

A. I can remember that Mr. Lux asked me to contact this exhibitor in Syracuse.

The Court: Speak up louder.

A. Mr. Lux, the Buffalo Manager, asked me to contact [fol. 4517] that theatre in Syracuse. Whether it was on the 13th or a few days afterwards, I don't recall.

Q. So that the first you had was some word from Mr. Lux that you were to see Mr. Wallace?

A. That is right.

Mr. McClennen: Mark this for identification.

(Thereupon the expense account referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-172 for identification.)

Q. I show you Defendants' Exhibit 172 for identification. What is that paper?

A. That is my weekly expense account for traveling.

Q. Did you at some time, in Mr. Wallace's office or the Strand Theatre office in Syracuse, telephone to Mr. Lux at the Warner Theatre Company's office in Albany?

A. I talked on the telephone with Mr. Lux and I don't know—it was either Albany or Buffalo.

Q. Against this date on Exhibit for identification D-172 I call your attention to the item "Tuesday, September 16, 1941, L.D. 'phone service charge 30 cents." Can you recall what that was for?

A. Well, it was to try to contact Mr. Lux. Whether I called him at Albany or Buffalo I do not know.

Q. Did you telephone Mr. Lux more than once about that time concerning the Strand Theatre possibilities?

[fol. 4518] A. That is hard to remember, but I usually contacted him once or twice a week on various matters and I can't recall any specific call there.

Q. It has appeared from Mr. Lux's testimony that he was in Albany on September 15 and 16, 1941. Now, with that fact before you, can you recall whether it was to Albany at that time that you telephoned him?

A. That clears it up. It must have been Albany that I talked to him on that day.

[fol. 4519] Q. Up to that date or the day before, September 15, 1941, do you recall having seen Mr. Wallace after September 9th, 1941?

A. I have a faint recollection I talked to him between the 14th and including the 16th. I mean in the previous week.

Q. The 14th would be Sunday. Do you mean by that that you had talked with Mr. Wallace before Sunday, September 14th, 1941?

A. I talked to him sometime. I don't know whether it was a personal conversation or a telephone call.

Q. And that was at sometime after you had learned that you were to see Mr. Wallace from Mr. Lux after his telegram of September 9th?

A. Yes, that is right.

Q. If there was a telephone call in that period, have you any recollection of what was said in that conversation with Mr. Wallace?

A. The only thing that I recall saying that I had word from Mr. Lux to contact him and that I had product available for him, for his theatre.

Q. Did you describe the product or name the product?

A. No, not over the phone.

Q. Did you at that time over the phone arrange when you would see him?

[fol. 4520] A. I don't recall, but naturally I must have made an appointment for the 15th or 16th.

Q. On the 15th or 16th of September, 1941, you had conversation with him at the Strand Theatre office in Syracuse?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was the first personal conversation you had with him on this Strand subject?

A. If I recall—I mean, it is so long ago my memory is not clear on it.

Q. Relate the conversation that you had with Mr. Wallace on that occasion, be it September 15th, 1941 or September 16th, 1941, and keep away from any conclusions. State "He said" and "I said," just as nearly as you can reproduce that conversation.

A. Well, as I recall Mr. Wallace said he was in need of product for the Strand Theatre and my reply was that I had a number of pictures which I listed for his purchase.

Q. How did you list them?

A. According to price and age and classification, and so forth.

Q. When you listed you mean that you scratched them down on paper?

A. I imagine so, yes.

Q. I show you Plaintiffs' Exhibit 980 in two sheets. Are [fol. 4521] those in your handwriting?

A. The first sheet is not in my handwriting, the top sheet.

Q. And how about the second sheet?

A. The second sheet is in my handwriting except the figures below which are not mine, on the bottom part, and this figure.

Q. That is these seven picture names are in your handwriting?

A. Yes.

Q. Is this below the line, "Snowwhite" also in your handwriting?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you recall what you told Mr. Wallace about those five pictures under the heading "First-run" and three pictures under the heading "Second-run", using that paper to refresh your recollection as far as it will?

A. As I recall I told Mr. Wallace I had a number of pictures, some first-run and some second-run, but the two films listed as first-run "They Meet Again" and "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry" were under contract to another theatre and, if they were released, I could negotiate with those. The others were available.

Q. And when you say "released", you don't mean in the sense released for exhibition, but released from the prior contract?

A. Released from under contract to another party.

[fol.4522] Q. The other party in this instance was RKO——

A. RKO Schine Theatres.

Q. What were the release dates of the pictures as you set them down on that memorandum?

A. I notice that the year is missing, but as I recall the release dates were in rotation as of June 6, 1941, July 11, 1941, July 25, 1941, and September 28, 1941.

Q. "Saint's Vacation" being June 6th; "They Meet Again", July 11th, and "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry", July 25th, and "Jungle Cavalcade", September 28—that is 9-28?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I call your attention that on the RKO release schedule, Exhibit 634, at page 3867, it appears that "Jungle Cavalcade" was released for exhibition June 27, 1941. This date, July 28, 1941, is the availability date under your heading "Second-run", is it not?

A. Well, I think that this date here referred to a subsequent run. That is beyond the second run.

Q. Beyond the second-run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that September 28th was the date when that picture coming out in June, 1941, would be actually available for Mr. Wallace, if he took that picture?

A. I think that is correct.

Q. At that interview of September 15 or 16, 1941, did you [fol. 4523] make out these five sheets that are Plaintiff's Exhibit 819?

A. Yes.

The Court: Did you say the 15th?

The Witness: 15th or 16th. I think it was concluded on the 16th, this application copy.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. And these were the copies left with Mr. Wallace or Mr. Carr by you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have some talk with Mr. Wallace at that time on either one of those two days as the pictures available for his opening proposed for September 20, 1941?

A. Yes.

Q. Is this Exhibit D-168 for identification in your handwriting?

A. Yes, and the dates set opposite it were tentative dates subject to the approval of the office and the availability of prints.

Q. That is, you told him that "Jungle Cavalcade" would be available for September 20th to 23rd and "Flying Down to Rio" also?

A. I didn't say available. I said subject to the prints being available, and the dates were tentative.

Q. Now, it appears against "Flying Down to Rio" that [fol. 4524] over at the right-hand side of the paper are the words "Sept. 20-23." Are those in your handwriting?

A. Yes.

Q. And what is the significance of those dates over there?

A. The same reason. They are tentative dates.

Mr. Wright: Just a minute. I suppose we ought to have here what he actually said about the dates at the time and then your Honor can judge what the significance of them was.

The Court: Let him state what was said about them.

Q. What did you say to Mr. Wallace about the availability of "Flying Down to Rio"?

A. Well, I would say the same thing to Mr. Wallace that I would say to any of my——

Q. No. What you did say to him.

A. I said I would take the dates subject to the approval of the office.

The Court: That is for showing from the 20th to the 23rd, you mean?

The Witness: Yes, sir. And that applies to all dates.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Was there anything said in that conference on either September 15 or September 16, 1941, as to finding out from the office whether that picture "Jungle Cavalcade" or any others would be available?

[fol. 4525] A. I recall a telephone conversation with Mr. Lux at Albany.

Q. What did you say over the telephone to Mr. Lux in Mr. Wallace's presence?

A. Well, I asked Mr. Lux if he thought these dates would be available, that Mr. Wallace wanted these pictures on the dates submitted, and he said that he had no record of it there, but he would have to take it up with the Buffalo office.

Q. In that telephone conversation did you say anything with reference to the availability of "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry" and "They Meet Again"?

A. I could not give him anything definite on that because the pictures were under contract to another party.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike that as not responsive.

The Court: What did you say to him about the pictures?

Q. In Mr. Wallace's presence did you hear anything said about those two pictures?

A. Well, naturally, they were part of——

Q. No. If you don't remember, say so. If you do remember, say so.

A. I don't recall.

[fol. 4526] Q. Did you take away counter parts of these five applications, Exhibit 819?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you do with them?

A. I mailed them to the Buffalo office for this procedure and approval.

Q. Do you remember whether you had any further conversation with Mr. Wallace, either September 15th or 16th, 1941, or thereafter with reference to "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry" and "They Meet Again"?

A. Well, I had a number of conferences with Mr. Wallace, after that, but I cannot remember the dates specifically pertaining to those two pictures.

Q. Can you remember anything that you said about those two pictures to him?

A. As I stated previously I told him that the pictures were not in the clear at the present time, and if they were open for sale I would be glad to negotiate for him and get the playing time.

Q. At any time thereafter do you remember whether you told him that they were cleared on the earlier contract or were not cleared on the earlier contract?

A. Not that I can recall.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

[fol. 4527] Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. This second sheet of Plaintiff's Exhibit 980 that I believe you said was in your handwriting, are there any parts of that that aren't in your handwriting?

A. This is not my handwriting.

Q. When you say "this" you are referring to the figure 1,000 with a circle around it?

A. 1,000.

Q. Any others?

A. I am not sure of that.

Q. When you say "that" you are referring to 25 cents?

A. 25 cents. Sixty-two fifty don't look like my figures and these are not my figures.

Q. When you say "these" you refer to 350-157-50?

A. 350-157-50.

The Court: How about the drawing? What does that mean?

The Witness: I don't know. It has no bearing, your Honor.

Mr. Wright:

Q. Are there any other figures or words on there that aren't in your handwriting?

A. The writing of "Tim Holt" after "Six Gun Gold" is not my writing.

[fol. 4528] Q. That isn't yours?

A. No.

Q. Is there anything else?

A. That doesn't look like my writing, the word "now" after "They Met in Argentina."

Q. The word "now" do you say it is or is not yours?

A. It doesn't look like mine.

Q. Do you know?

A. I am not positive.

Q. You don't know whether you wrote it or not?

A. I am sure it is not mine.

Q. The word "now" after "Argentina" you say is not yours?

A. No.

Q. How about the figures 100?

A. That is not mine.

Q. But you say the word "now" is yours?

A. Yes.

Q. How about the word after the title "Reluctant Dragon," you think now that is yours?

A. That looks like it.

Q. And the 200 after that?

A. No, that is not mine. I make a different "2" usually than that. That is mine. I am sure of that.

Q. You think it is yours?

A. Yes, I am sure.

[fol. 4529] Q. And then this "Jungle Cavalcade," "X O.K.," that is yours, is it?

A. I can't tell whether next is mine or somebody's else's, but it looks like mine. It is written at the same time with the same lead pencil. You see that is lighter lead.

Q. This 9-28?

A. That is my figures, yes, sir.

Q. As I understood your testimony on direct-examination, these dates you wrote in here opposite "Saint's Vacation," and "They Meet Again" and "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry," were the dates on which those pictures were generally released, is that right?

A. Generally released or available for second or subsequent-runs.

Q. Well, which?

A. Both.

Q. Well, the pictures on the dates that they were generally released, that would be the date on which they became available to the first-runs, isn't that right?

A. That is right. That refers to the upper three pictures.

Q. So that these dates July 6th, July 11 and July 25——

Mr. McClennen: Through June 6th.

Mr. Wright: Through June 6th. I beg your pardon.

Q. Those are all the dates on which those pictures became available for exhibition first-run in Syracuse, is that right?

[fol. 4530] A. As I recall now.

Q. Then you say this "Jungle Cavalcade" date you wrote in there was the date on which that picture became available for second-run?

A. I think that was the subsequent-run picture.

Q. What about the date? Was that 9-28- the date on which it became available for second or subsequent-run?

A. Well, I don't recall now, but I should say it was the subsequent-run, because it had a prior run, as I recall it, at the Cameo Theatre, which is the third-run in the city.

Q. I thought you said before it was the date on which it became available—it would be available to Wallace at the Strand?

A .Well, that would apply as a subsequent run.

Q. As I understand it, this Exhibit D-168, that is entirely written by you, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. And when and where was that written?

A. I imagine that this was written in the office of the Strand Theatre.

Q. When you say "this" you are referring to your D-168?

A. Yes.

Q. At the time you had your talk with Mr. Wallace?

[fol. 4531] A. Yes.

Q. And during the time you were also talking with Mr. Lux?

A. I don't remember whether these dates were laid down and this sheet was written before or after I talked to Mr. Lux, this particular sheet.

Q. When you say "this" you are referring to you- D-168?

A. That is right.

Q. You don't remember whether you wrote what is on there before or after you talked to Lux?

A. I don't.

Q. Might have written some of it before and some after?

A. No, it was all written at one time.

Q. All written at once?

A. Yes.

Q. But you don't recall whether it was before or after you talked to Lux?

A. No.

Q. These dates that you wrote on Exhibit D-168, that first one "Jungle" and "Flying Down to Rio" for September 20 to 23, that was the date on which they were to be exhibited at the Strand?

A. No, that is the dates that were requested by Mr. Wallace. He did a lot of juggling trying to work out a program and submitted dates on double-feature policies.

Q. Those were the dates that Wallace wanted the pictures [fol. 4532] for the Strand, the 20th to 23rd on those two pictures?

A. That is right.

Q. They were to be followed on the 24th to 26th, "They Met in Argentina" and "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry"?

A. Providing the pictures were in the clear.

Q. Well, those were the dates you discussed those dates with Wallace at the time?

A. Those were the tentative dates they were taken.

Q. And then the dates here September 27th to 30th that you have opposite "Reluctant Dragon" and "They Meet Again" are the dates for—he was going to play or he wanted to play those pictures at the Strand, isn't that right?

A. Yes.

Q. What is this figure after the date on "Tom, Dick and Harry," on here?

A. I don't know. It looks like "On" and again it looks like "O. K."

Q. Which is it?

A. I can't tell you.

Q. Look at it carefully?

A. I can't tell you.

Q. If you wrote "On" what would that mean?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know how you happened to write that?

A. No, I don't. It is so far back I don't recall it. It [fol. 4533] looks like an "O.K." I don't write "O.K." that way, that's all.

Q. Is that in your handwriting or somebody else's?

A. That is very difficult——

Q. What?

A. That is very difficult for me to tell you. I imagine it is in my handwriting.

Q. You wrote up the sheet. Nobody else wrote on it?

A. There is other figures. This figure here, for instance, the rest of the sheet is all mine.

Q. You can tell from looking at this you wrote "Tom, Dick and Harry," October 16-17," can't you?

A. It looks like "O.K." to me.

Q. That is what you wrote, isn't it?

A. I don't write a "k" like that. I mean—let's see here. I don't write a "k" like that. I can't give it to you definitely whether that is my writing or not.

[fol. 4534] Q. You don't know whether you wrote it or not?

A. No.

Q. Who do you think wrote it, if you didn't?

A. I wouldn't know because there are many figures on these other sheets that are not mine. It might have been written before or afterwards.

Q. Give me any other figures you see on this Exhibit 168 which you think you didn't write.

A. I didn't write that (indicating).

Q. When you say "that" you are referring to "B" in parenthesis?

A. Yes, sir. All those down this side here (indicating) do not look like my handwriting, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 of them.

Q. All of these notations in the column headed "Second Choice" there you say you didn't write?

A. That is right.

Q. Who wrote those?

A. I don't know.

Q. Well, what did you do with the paper after you wrote it?

A. I sent it in to the Buffalo office.

Q. You don't know who worked on it there?

A. I do not.

Q. You know that the figures you have just referred to were either put on by you or somebody at your Buffalo [fol. 4535] office; is that right?

A. I know that I didn't put them on; that is all.

Q. Just answer my question. Don't you know that you put them on or somebody at your Buffalo office put them on?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Who else could have put them on?

A. I don't know. I know I didn't put them on.

Q. Who else do you think could have put them on other than as I have suggested?

A. I have no idea what happened to the paper after it reached the Buffalo office.

Q. I say, do you know that either you wrote those figures there or they were written by somebody after it got to the Buffalo office?

A. Right. That is different.

Q. Now, as I understand it, you said that these pictures, "They Meet Again" and "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry" were under some contract to the RKO-Schine Theatres there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you got a copy of that contract?

A. No, I haven't. I have never seen it.

Q. And those dates you wrote down there on this Exhibit 980 were the dates on which they became available for first-run exhibition under that Schine-RKO contract; is that right?

[fol. 4536] A. I believe that is right.

Q. And then do you know what the custom was as to how much of an interval of time ordinarily elapsed after the picture became available before those theatres would tell you whether or not they wanted to use the picture?

A. That is impossible to tell. It varies in many situations and it varies according to the class of picture. It may be held off for two weeks, three weeks, or six months.

Q. For six months or a year?

A. If they can't find the right booking spot for it that is possible.

Q. That is, even if they don't book it, you do not try to sell it to any one else?

A. Not unless it is in the clear.

Q. When does it become in the clear?

A. That is beyond me. That was not any of my duties.

Q. You didn't know anything about that?

A. No.

Q. You didn't make any effort to determine whether any of these pictures that you wrote down on this sheet 980 were then available for Mr. Wallace's Strand Theatre; is that right?

A. Oh, yes, I do. I knew that these other pictures aside from the first-run pictures were available.

Q. When you say "aside from the first-run pictures" you [fol. 4537] mean aside from "Saint's Vacation", "They Meet Again", "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry"; "Flying Down to Rio", and the others?

A. "Six Gun Gold", "They Met in Argentina", "Reluctant Dragon", "Jungle Cavalcade" and "Snow White".

Q. You say all of those were not then available; is that right?

A. No, I said, as I recall, they were all available for tentative booking, tentative play dates, but the three in the first-run situation.

Q. That is, the three that were not available were "Saint's Vacation", "They Meet Again" and "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry"?

A. As far as I knew at that time.

Q. How did you happen to write those dates down opposite those names; do you remember?

A. That I don't recall. It is hazy to me.

Q. You don't know why you wrote those down?

A. No, I don't.

Q. You say you wrote down the dates that are on this Exhibit D-168 simply because those were the dates that Wallace told you he wanted those pictures for the Strand Theatre; is that right?

A. No, those were the dates that were requested.

Q. When was it you prepared these contract applications that have been marked here in evidence as 819, with [fol. 4538] reference to the time that you made up these sheets marked D-168 and 980?

A. These applications for contracts were written up on the 16th.

Q. That was after you had prepared this memoranda D-168 and 980?

A. The contracts were written first, as I recall it.

Q. Which is right?

A. I recall the contract application was written first. Whether this was written on the same day or the next day, I am not positive.

Q. The first thing you did before you had any discussion of dates you wrote up these applications; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you discussed with Mr. Wallace the dates on which the pictures mentioned in these contracts marked 819 would become available for his theatre, did you not?

A. In answer to that, I don't recall whether all these dates were discussed on that very day after the application copy was taken, whether there was part of them discussed that day and part of them the next day, and then mailed to the Buffalo office.

Q. How about the next?

A. I am not positive.

Q. But it was after you took the applications?

[fol. 4539] A. Yes.

Q. Then you discussed the dates for the pictures?

A. That is right.

Q. Did you make any inquiry with respect to availability of those pictures and the prints and when you would have prints for Mr. Wallace on them?

A. I don't recall. I know that was part of the discussion with Mr. Lux at the time I talked to him.

Q. As to when these prints would be available; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, then, you remember when these lines were drawn through "They Meet Again" and "They Met in Argentina"?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Did you draw the lines?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. That was done by somebody at the RKO branch?

A. I don't know. I didn't do it now as I recall. I wouldn't draw any lines. I wouldn't see any purpose of drawing any line.

Q. The last time you had anything to do with this D-168 the lines that are drawn through those titles were not on there; is that right?

A. I imagine so.

Q. As I understand it, you had this conversation with Mr. Wallace about these dates and you took the contracts, [fol. 4540] or sent the contracts in, to the Buffalo office, and you also had these calls about the availability of the pictures and the prints, and then you never told Mr. Wallace when the pictures would be available and if they were available; isn't that right?

A. Well, I don't recall clearly, but it is only natural that I would tell them that some of the pictures were not in the clear, that they were still under contract and the dates taken were tentative and could not be approved.

Mr. Wright: See if you can answer the question. Read it again.

(Last question read.)

A. Yes, I did.

Q. You did? When did you tell him that?

A. I can't recall. I can't remember when it was, whether it was the week following or the second week following.

Q. Was this over the telephone or in person?

A. It was in person as I remember.

Q. You made another call?

A. I made a number of calls there after that.

Q. I mean with reference to these pictures that are on the contract applications here identified as 819.

A. Well, I should say I called on him at least twice in the following week.

[fol. 4541] Q. By the following week you mean what week, the week of the 23rd?

A. No, the week of the 16th and the following week.

Q. As I understand it, you saw him on the 15th and 16th?

A. That is right.

Q. First you took these contract applications—you think that was on the 15th——

A. No, that was on the 16th.

Q. You think this was on the 16th that you took the contract application?

A. That is right.

Q. And then after that on the 16th you prepared this Exhibit D-168 and you wrote these figures on Exhibit 980; is that right?

A. Which is 980, that first one?

Q. This page ~~here, this~~ second page of Exhibit 980 (indicating).

Mr. McClennen: Which pictures are you indicating?

Mr. Wright: Whatever he wrote on that page.

A. These figures here were written up before the application contracts were taken.

Q. This was the first thing you wrote when you talked to Mr. Wallace on the 15th; is that right?

A. That is right. That is the work sheet.

Q. This is what you wrote up on the 15th?

[fol. 4542] A. Yes, 15th or 16th. I don't recall.

Q. This was the first written document you prepared was this 980; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you think that was on the 15th or the 16th?

A. That is right.

Q. Then the next thing you wrote out were these applications, Exhibit 819, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. And that was either on the 15th or 16th?

A. I am sure that that was on the 16th.

Q. That was on the 16th?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then after you wrote up the application then you prepared this Exhibit D-168; is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. You sent that along to the office at Buffalo with——

A. I don't know whether this was written on the 16th or the following day or so.

Q. That might have been the 17th?

A. That is possible.

Q. You didn't send it in to Buffalo at the same time that you sent in 819?

A. Not that I recall. There is nothing to guide me there.

Q. And then when was the next time after you had sent [fol. 4543] this D-168 in to Buffalo that you saw Mr. Wallace?

A. I don't remember. I saw him a number of times from then on, possibly twice a week from then on.

Q. Do you remember when it was that you gave him definite information about what dates he could have and what dates he couldn't have?

A. No, I don't recall, because ordinarily or usually that confirmation comes direct from the Buffalo office.

Q. You don't recall, then, any time that you talked to him about a date for any of these pictures that are listed here on D-168 after that was prepared?

A. No, it is so long ago that I don't remember.

Q. You don't know whether you ever confirmed a date to him or not on any of them?

A. No, sir, I do not. That is not in my power to do that.

Mr. Wright: See if you can answer the question. I move to strike out what is not in his power.

A. No.

Q. You never did that?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. You know, do you not, that some of these pictures were supplied and played on the dates that are noted there; isn't that right?

A. That is right.

Q. On 168?

[fol. 4544] A. Yes, sir.

Q. And as to "They Meet Again", do you remember what finally happened to that?

A. No, I remember that the picture was not released from the RKO-Schine contract.

Q. When you say it was not released, did you have anything to do with releasing it or getting it released?

A. No, nothing whatever.

Q. Do you know when it was released?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Or what was done in that connection?

A. No, I do not.

Mr. Wright: I move to strike out his answer then as to knowing that it was not released.

The Court: Granted. You mean that you do not know the time when it was released? You know of its being shown?

The Witness: Yes, I understood it was to be shown.

The Court: Not what you understood. Do you know yourself that it was shown?

The Witness: I can't recall, but I assume it was shown.

Mr. Wright: I was going to ask him about the actual exhibition.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. The picture played the Eckel Theatre there in Syra- [fol. 4545] cuse at about the same time, or around September 25th, didn't it?

A. I don't know that.

Q. You don't remember that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Can you remember that it was substituted there on the second half of a double-bill for a double-bill that had been moved over from the Keith or Paramount?

A. No, I would have no way of knowing that.

Q. You know nothing about that?

A. No, I have nothing to do with those houses.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Were you aware at the time of the fact of the playing of "They Meet Again" at the Eckel Theatre beginning September 25, 1941?

A. No, I was not.

Q. Were you aware of the fact of the playing of "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry" at the Eckel Theatre, October 30 to November 5, 1941?

A. No.

Q. Were you aware of the sending of this telegram, Plaintiff's Exhibit 820, dated September 18, 1941, to the Strand [fol. 4546] Theatre, saying "Impossible supply '*Je*rry Charlie' September 24-26" or "'They Meet Again' 27-30", or, as the office copy, Plaintiff's Exhibit 831, reads "Impossible supply 'Hurry, Charlie' September 24-26" or "'They Meet Again' 27-30"; were you aware of the sending of those?

A. I don't recall seeing those.

[fol. 4547] Q. Do you bear in mind whether you were aware that just after you sent in those applications, Exhibit 819, the Strand Theatre was notified that they couldn't have those two pictures as I have stated?

A. Yes.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

Elmer Lux recalled by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been previously sworn, was examined and testified further as follows:

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, Mr. Lux was under cross-examination at the end of Friday, and Mr. Wright had expressed a desire to have Mr. Smith's testimony before he completed the examination, and, therefore, I put Mr. Smith on first. Mr. Lux is ready for further cross-examination.

Cross-examination (continued).

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Lux, you remember when we adjourned, I asked you to see whether you could find any copies of this Exhibit 819, and you were going to make a search and let us know [fol. 4548] the results. Did you make such a search?

A. I looked for them and couldn't find the exact copies of them, but I believe, as I mentioned to you, three of these pictures appear in our detail and clerical records as having been played as per the detail of this contract. The other two, as you know about and as I previously mentioned, they were not even considered, but Wallace was so advised.

Q. You couldn't find a copy of any of these contracts that are identified here as Exhibit 819, is that right?

A. No, but I probably could get three out of the New York office, and the other three they wouldn't have.

Q. Will you see if you can get them?

A. Yes.

Q. As I understood your previous testimony you would keep five of those copies at the branch office, is that right?

A. No, I did not testify to that. We keep one copy here and the other copies go to the office in New York. It is made in five copies. Our records show we played three of these pictures to conform with that setup.

Q. You haven't been able to find the copies?

A. No, but it is reasonable to assume that they exist and these are facsimiles or exact copies of them.

Q. As I recall your testimony then, the other day you [fol. 4549] weren't able to fix the time as the 15th or 16th on which you talked to Mr. Smith and Mr. Wallace about the pictures for the Strand Theatre?

A. That is right. I said it was probably late on the afternoon of the 15th or some time on the day of the 16th prior to my departure for Buffalo.

Q. Now that you heard Mr. Smith's testimony is your recollection helped at all as to which day it was?

A. No. I talked to him and it was on either one of those two days.

Q. You still don't know which one?

A. No, I couldn't testify to the exact day, sir.

Q. This telegram I believe you said was sent out by you, the telegram, which has been identified as Exhibit 831?

A. Sent out from my branch, and it is possible I may have dictated it.

Q. You don't remember whether you——

A. I am reasonably certain I did in this instance, because I gave it my personal attention as the result of having been called on it, I remember vaguely.

Mr. Wright: I think that is all.

The Court: That is all.

Mr. McClennen: That is all, Mr. Lux.

[fol. 4550] Herman Wobber, a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Your residence?

A. San Francisco,

Q. California?

A. California.

Q. Your present position?

A. I am the Division Manager, 20th Century-Fox.

Q. Of what?

A. Of the 11 western states in charge of sales.

Q. Will you describe briefly from the beginning your relations to the motion picture distribution business, the dates, as far as you can quickly fix them and the concerns with which you were from the beginning?

A. I have been in the distribution of motion pictures about 33 years, 21 years, with Paramount and the last 11 or 12 years with Fox. I was a Division Manager for Paramount about 20 years in the same territory that I have now for Fox. The 11 western states. I was Division Manager for Fox for about five years, and then became General Sales [fol. 4551] Manager of Fox for three and a half years from mid 1928 until the end of '41, since which time I have returned to the Coast as Division Manager.

Q. What was the period as exactly as you can fix it before becoming General Sales Manager for Fox that you were Division Manager, and what was the division?

A. The division was the 11 western states. I think it was from January, 1933 until the middle of June, 1938, end of June, '38.

Q. Who was your immediate predecessor as General Sales Manager for Fox?

A. John D. Clark.

Q. And when did he die? I don't care for the exact date?

A. May, '38.

Q. How long then had John D. Clark been the General Sales Manager for Fox?

A. I think five and a half years.

Q. Do you remember who was the General Sales Manager next prior to John D. Clark?

A. James Granger.

Q. You have been familiar, then, with the general sales policy from either the general or division managers' standpoint of Fox since what time?

A. Since 1933.

Q. You then were familiar with the general sales policy of [fol. 4552] Paramount for what period?

A. 21 years prior to that time.

Q. I think it has appeared that Mr. Kent went from either General Manager or General Sales Manager of Paramount to Fox. Do you have in mind approximately the date?

A. I think he moved over either in the latter part of '31 or early part of '32.

Q. And Mr. Kent is now dead?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. During the period from 1933 to May 19, 1942—and I do not mean by that question to intimate there was any change at that time, but that is a limiting date that has been adopted in this case—during that period 1933 to May 19, 1942, were you familiar with the sales policies of Fox determining their choice of the theatres that should be their customers in any particular place or locality?

A. Yes.

Q. Take the period from 1933 to 1938, will you relate the policy of Fox with reference to selling second-runs in smaller towns in opposition to their first-run customer?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I think that the best evidence as to what was done would be the contracts that were made. I don't think this witness is in a position to [fol. 4553] give information of the kind that he has been asked to give here, except in terms so general they wouldn't have any relevancy to the issues we are trying.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, it is obviously not possible to put before you all the contracts made during the period of five years with from ten to fifteen or sixteen thousand different theatres in the United States. It is important to show to you the relation of what was done in the particular case on trial before you in conformity or out of conformity with the general prevailing policy of the company. Now, the only way in which to show that general policy is by one experienced with that policy, and this man in the period that I have spoken of is the living man, the only living man, best fitted to describe that policy. That is the reason I put the question.

The Court: Well, it is the same question that was answered before, isn't it?

Mr. Wright: The other questions as I got them, I didn't understand them to be quite as broad and sweeping as this. [fol. 4554] This is nation wide without reference to what was done in this territory.

The Court: I think you can avoid any question by reframing your question to ask him what he does as Division Manager in these types, or instances in sales.

Q. Mr. Wobber, what is the course in determining the question of sales of second-runs in small towns in the period 1933 to 1938 to opposition to your first-run account?

A. We have always felt that it was most desirable to have the first and the second-run in the same ownership, expecting from the first-run the maximum amount of [illegible] maximum amount of advertising so that if the first-run didn't fully benefit that benefit would accrue to the second-run. Where there is competition we found frequently that the first-fun seldom advertised to the maximum.

Q. In the period from 1933 to 1938, or until you became General Sales Manager in 1938, the actual contracts or proposals of contracts in the area, New York, Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia, would not come to your attention, would they?

A. No, they would not.

Q. Take that same area in the period from the time you [fol. 4555] became General Manager and up to, we will say the beginning of 1942, what was your course with respect to contracts, applications, out of that area?

A. All contracts reached my desk and were approved or were rejected by me.

The Court: Out of what area?

Mr. McClennen: 1938 to the beginning of 1942.

The Court: What area?

Mr. McClennen: This same area, New York, Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

The Court: How would he get those contracts?

Mr. McClennen: Because he was the General Sales Manager in that period.

The Court: You mean covering the whole United States?

Mr. McClennen: Covering the whole United States.

The Court: I beg your pardon. I was confused. I thought you spoke of the General Sales Manager for the eleven states, General Manager over the Sales Managers for the eleven states. All right.

Q. In that period, from the time when you became General Sales Manager in 1938 to January, we will say 1942, where there were possibilities of more than one customer in a town, what were the considerations which actuated you in determining whether to have applications solicited from [fol. 4556] given theatres or approving or disapproving applications when the contracts came to you for consideration?

A. We base that upon many conclusions. First of all, the reliability and dependability upon the contract that was submitted. Whether the exhibitor was aggressive, what performance on prior contracts, we had a selfish interest in the success of the pictures, because many of them played on percentage and we, naturally, wanted to be with those accounts that were capable of getting the greatest box office results out of our pictures.

Q. Did you in the period of your General Managership from 1938 up to the beginning of 1942 come into actual contact with the Schine Circuit representatives?

A. Only very rarely. My recollection is that I had inherited a franchise that had been made by my predecessor, John D. Clark.

Q. And you currently were aware of that franchise?

A. I was.

Q. When there is a franchise such as the one of Fox to the Schine Circuit, what is the method of determining what picture shall be played in what places and at what prices?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, to the extent that that is covered by the franchise, I suppose it would not be com- [fol. 4557] petent for this witness to say and it not appearing he had anything to do with the negotiations, I don't know how it would be competent to testify about it in any event.

Mr. McClennen: I only wish to offer it. If it is objected to, I await your Honor's ruling on the objection.

The Court: The franchises are the best evidence.

Q. Were you, while you were General Sales Manager, aware of the franchises that were outstanding or made in that period between Fox and the theatres of the country?

A. Yes.

Q. Without committing to the definition, the plaintiff has adopted as the definition of "franchise": A contract for product for a period of more than one year. In that period of four years could you approximate the number of different franchises that Fox had obtained in the country?

A. I would say, roughly, at least several hundred.

Q. Could you give me any idea of how many of those were with single-theatre operators?

A. I would say about 150 of the 200, or more.

Q. What are the business considerations which in the course of the actual operation of this business led to appli- [fol. 4558] cations by theatres for franchises or proffers by Fox to theatres of franchises?

A. Will you read that, please?

(Last question read.)

[fol. 4559] The Court: He can state the reason why they got the franchise.

Mr. Wright: I assume that the answer will be limited to his reasons as a distributor. He is not going to undertake to say why exhibitors——

The Court: He can say what reason they have for having the franchise.

A. I may say I think the reasons were mutual in so far as I doubt whether we could have sold a franchise that did not seem to offer advantages to an exhibitor, or from the same reasoning we rarely accepted a contract that was not equally mutual to us. In determining whether we would accept a franchise we took a lot of things into consideration, the size and location of the house, its operation, its maintenance, its aggressiveness, the honesty and the ability of the exhibitor to carry out the terms of the franchise, and a lot of other similar reasons.

The Court: Was there any uniformity of tenure or duration, or did they vary?

The Witness: They varied. The terms were invariably very similar for the franchises. The length of time differed. Sometimes they were made for one, two, three or five years, depending upon the set-up.

[fol. 4560] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. I confine this question which I am about to put to you to your personal knowledge, not what you have been told by anybody else. To your knowledge has there been any conversation with any of the defendants, or their executives or employees, not to deal with any competing exhibitor or to restrict the terms of such dealings?

Mr. Wright: The same objection that we made to the same question.

The Court: Overruled.

A. There was never any conversation with me about any restrictions.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I am not sure I understood what your position was from 1932 to 1938.

A. I was Division Sales Manager for 20th Century-Fox, operating in the eleven Western States.

Q. At that time who was the Eastern Sales Manager?

A. We had several district managers that operated in two or three States. John D. Clark was the General Sales Manager. Eddie Granger was here most of the time, I believe.

[fol. 4561] Q. As Eastern Sales Manager?

A. As Eastern Sales Manager.

Q. He was the one who had supervision over the States of New York, Ohio, Maryland and Kentucky?

A. I don't know his exact territory. He was back East here and I believe had that territory.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

(Short recess taken.)

Frank J. A. McCarthy a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants and having been first duly sworn was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. What is your residence?

A. 117 Harmon Avenue, Pelham, New York.

Q. Your position?

A. Southern and Canadian Sales Manager of Universal Picture Corporation.

Q. When did you enter the motion picture distribution business?

A. I think it was in 1915 or 1916 in Boston.

[fol. 4562] Q. Will you trace on down to 1930 your positions and connection, briefly, giving the approximate dates?

A. Well, I started in Boston and then I enlisted in the First World War, and after my discharge from the Army I went back to the Fox Film Corporation and was the manager in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1918 or 1919. Then I went to Pittsburgh as the manager of the district office for approximately one year. After that I became the field representative of the General Sales Manager of the Fox Film Corporation, covering the eastern section of the United States.

Q. And that lasted until when?

A. That was until about 1920 or 1921. Then I went with Paramount as a special representative in Buffalo for about two years, I think, and then became the First National Manager in Buffalo until 1930. I left in either 1929 or 1930 and became the Universal Manager in Boston: I was there approximately a year.

Q. That was Branch Manager?

A. A branch manager.

Q. In Boston for Universal?

A. Yes, sir. I was there for not quite a year and I came to New York as the Eastern Division Sales Manager of [fol. 4563] Universal Pictures.

Q. And you occupied that position up to what time?

A. Until 1939 or 1940.

Q. And then you became what?

A. Southern and Canadian Sales Manager.

Q. During the period that you were Eastern Sales Manager for Universal did your territory include some or all of these: New York, Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia?

A. It did.

Q. In that period who had the practical determination of whether an application for a contract in that area should be approved?

A. I did, with one exception, and that was where the General Sales Manager himself negotiated the deal.

Q. In that period when you were dealing with the approval or disapproval of contracts did you have come before you for consideration any contracts with the Schine Circuit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you become familiar with what were the competing theatres to the Schine Theatres?

A. At that time, yes.

Q. And did the applications for contracts for those competing theatres come before you for approval or disapproval?

[fol. 4564] A. Yes, sir.

Q. I confine this question which I am about to put to you to your personal knowledge, not what you have been told by anybody else. To your knowledge has there been any conversation with any of the defendants or their executives or employees not to deal with any competing exhibitor or to restrict the terms of such dealings?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Mr. Wright: The same objection as previously.

The Court: Yes. That is the same question you have had before. I think it would have more probative force if he were to testify to what he had done himself. It is sort of a negative answer.

Q. Will you relate at this distance of time what dealings you had directly with the Schine Circuit and with the representatives of opposition theatres? I don't mean you to go into detail with each one, but give to the Court some description of your dealings.

A. The opposition sales were not made by me, nor were they negotiated by me.

Q. How about the Schine Circuit?

A. I sat in on the negotiations for the Schine Circuit.

Q. Uniformly?

A. Not always.

[fol. 4565] Q. Was it the general course that you did?

A. That was the general course.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. A large part of the negotiations were conducted, were they not, by your exchange managers?

A. No, sir.

Q. Isn't that correct?

A. No sir.

Q. As to clearances?

A. I beg your pardon?

Q. How about as to clearances?

A. They sat in on clearances with the district manager.

Q. Who was that?

A. In that case it was Dave Miller.

Q. A large part of the negotiations, then, were carried on with Dave Miller; isn't that correct?

A. No, sir.

Q. What part of the negotiations were carried on with Dave Miller?

A. He merely sat in on the negotiations.

Q. He didn't have any negotiations that you didn't sit in on?

A. Not much.

[fol. 4566] Q. Will you answer the question?

Mr. Wright: Read the question.

(Question read.)

A. Yes, there were negotiations which I didn't sit in on.

Q. That Miller conducted; isn't that right?

A. No, sir.

Q. There were none of those?

A. Is that another question?

Q. There were none of those, no negotiations that Miller——

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. I show you this letter that has been marked for identification as Exhibit 392. That is a copy of a letter you wrote?

A. That is right.

Q. And that letter I just showed you was written in response to the one I have handed you, marked for identification as No. 391, was it not?

A. This is 392?

Q. Yes. I say this 392 that you just looked at was written in response to the one I am now handing you, marked 391, was it not?

A. That is correct.

Mr. Wright: I will offer Exhibits 391 and 392 for identification in evidence.

(Thereupon the letter, November 14, 1938, referred to, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 391 for identifica- [fol. 4567] tion was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon the carbon copy of letter, December 14, 1938, referred to, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 392 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: I will ask to have this letter marked with the next Plaintiff's Exhibit number for identification.

(Thereupon the carbon copy of letter, October 28, 1935, referred to was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 999 for identification.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I will hand you a copy of this letter, dated October 28, 1935, from Dave Miller to George Lynch, which is marked for identification as Exhibit 999, and which bears at the bottom the notation "Copies to F. J. A. McCarthy and Mr. P. T. Dana," and ask you if you recognize that as a copy of a letter that came to your attention?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 4568] Q. Who was Mr. Scully, who is referred to in this Exhibits 392 and 391?

A. General Sales Manager.

Q. For Universal, at that time?

A. That is right.

Q. And who was Mr. Granger, who is referred to in this Exhibit 999?

A. General Sales Manager.

Q. At the time that that was written?

A. That is correct.

Q. After you saw these letters, you still want to affirm the statement that there were no negotiations between Dave Miller and the Schine representatives?

A. Well, you must make a distinction. You first asked me if he negotiated a Schine Circuit deal. I said "No, he did not." That is an individual deal after the Circuit deal was made.

Q. It is a fact, is it not, that there were negotiations with respect to Universal Pictures played in the Schine Circuit which occurred between Dave Miller and representatives of Schine when you were not present, isn't that right?

A. Not the Circuit as a whole, no. Individual situation, yes, but not the Circuit deal, as a whole.

Q. By the Circuit deal, as a whole, you mean the time [fol. 4569] when you finally approved or disapproved a deal for the entire circuit?

A. No, I don't mean any such thing. I mean the entire negotiation of the deal, whether it took one week, two weeks, three weeks or when.

Q. I tried to understand what you mean when you said Miller might have negotiated for some of the situations in the circuit, but Miller didn't have any negotiations in reference to the Circuit as a whole?

A. I didn't negotiate——

Q. Except when you were present.

A. I didn't negotiate for any house in the Circuit deal, at the time the Circuit deal was made.

Q. You mean that was after the deal was made, Miller's negotiations?

A. That was acquired after the deal was made.

Q. As to all the negotiations that were with Miller for the Circuit as a whole, you were present, is that right?

A. At most of them.

Q. Is it all or most?

A. Well, some of them the general sales manager was there.

Q. That was either Scully or Granger during the period?

A. That was Granger during that time. It wasn't Scully. It was Granger.

The Court: Do I understand your answer to the last [fol. 4570] question to be there were times when the negotiation for the Schine Circuit was in its entirety when you were not present?

The Witness: Not that year in which that deal was negotiated, no, but in other years I may not have been there, but, if I sat in on any part of the Schine Circuit negotiations, I finished with it.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. That is in the years that you took part?

A. In the years I was in on the deal.

Q. You finished it up?

A. That is right.

Q. But there were, of course, years in which it was apparently handled by Miller and Granger or Miller and Scully?

A. Handled by Granger or handled by Scully, not only Miller sat in, but you had a branch manager there in the office affected.

Q. That would be possibly Dana or some of the others?

A. That is right.

Q. Did I understand you correctly as saying clearance negotiations were not carried on by branch managers?

A. No, not to my knowledge.

Q. Do you know whether they were or not?

[fol. 4571] A. I doubt very much if they were carried on by the branch manager alone.

Q. You don't know, though?

A. No, I don't know.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, we seem to be missing a few documents. I can locate them in a few minutes. I don't know whether your Honor wants to take a recess or not.

The Court: Have you another witness here?

Mr. McClennen: I have no one in the court room at the present moment and I think I haven't anybody in town now.

Mr. Wright: The only thing we have left—my impression is there was some merely identified material which relates to this witness that I wanted to offer and that is what I wanted to clear up before he left the stand.

Mr. McClennen: As far as that is concerned, when it is located no formality will be necessary. The fact that the witness has left the stand I shan't press as a witness why the document should not be admitted if otherwise it is appropriate.

The Court: Is that satisfactory, Mr. Wright, so we can [fol. 4572] dispense with the witness then?

Mr. Wright: I suppose under those conditions it wouldn't be necessary to hold him.

The Court: Is that for identification, as I understand?

Mr. Wright: It is identified material that we would want to offer.

The Court: Anything else today, then?

Mr. McClennen: That ends Mr. McCarthy, then?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: That is all, Mr. McCarthy.

If your Honor please, as I say I haven't any one else here. If we are successful in getting in the witnesses that we hope for, we hope to be able to rest the defendants' evidence tomorrow morning, November 9th, before the noon recess. I can't be sure that they will get here.

The Court: What is your pleasure, then?

Mr. Wright: We, of course, would like to finish with our rebuttal just as quickly as we can. We are taken somewhat by surprise by the timing. Mr. McClennen told me this morning he might rest tomorrow. We will do the best [fols. 4573-4575] we can to line up rebuttal material to go ahead perhaps through tomorrow noon.

Mr. McClennen: That is my hope now if I can get the witnesses here.

The Court: Will you go right on with rebuttal then?

Mr. Wright: Go on tomorrow and Friday, and I think we should be able to finish up Monday, close our rebuttal by Monday.

The Court: That is more progressive than I had in mind or thought.

We will adjourn until tomorrow morning at 10:15. We have naturalization first.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until Thursday, November 9th, 1944, at 10:15 o'clock A. M.)

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., ET AL., Defendants

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, November 9, 1944, 10:15 o'clock A. M.

APPEARANCES:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Philip Marcus, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Milton Kallis, [illegible]q., Special Attorney in behalf of the United States.

Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rogers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Howard M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the Defendants.

[fol. 4577]

PROCEEDINGS

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I have this material here now with reference to Mr. McCarthy that was mentioned yesterday, and also another letter not previously identified, which I spoke to Mr. McClennen about. It appears that there are two letters dated December 14, written by Mr. McCarthy in response to the letter which went in evidence as Exhibit 391. The one which he wrote to Mr. Dave Miller, of that date, went into evidence as Exhibit 392. I should also have shown him at the time the letter of the same date to Mr. Paul Baron, which I will ask to have marked with the next exhibit number.

(Thereupon the carbon copy of letter, December 14, 1938, referred to was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1000 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: I think it is understood that his testimony would have been the same with respect to this Exhibit 1000 for identification as with respect to Exhibit 392, that it was written in response to Exhibit 391.

Mr. McClennen: We concede that it may be taken that [fol. 4578] Mr. McCarthy so testified.

Mr. Wright: Then we will offer Exhibit 1000 for identification in evidence, and we also offer previously identified exhibits 389, 409, and 999 in evidence under the same numbers.

Mr. McClennen: The Exhibit 999 that was identified yesterday there is no objection to. It shows that a copy was sent to Mr. McCarthy.

(Thereupon the copy of letter, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 999 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. McClennen: Exhibit 409 for identification, from Mr. Dana to Mr. McCarthy, of September 23, 1935, we make the objection to it that we have to other inter-office communications, which I assume your Honor overrules.

The Court: Yes.

(Thereupon the communication of Sept. 23, 1935, Dana to McCarthy previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 409 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. McClennen: Exhibit 389, February 7, 1938, from Mr. Dana to Mr. Herman, with a copy to Mr. McCarthy, we make that same objection to.

The Court: Same ruling.

[fol. 4579] (Thereupon the communication, February 7, 1938, Dana to Herman, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 389 was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon the carbon copy of letter, December 14, 1938, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1000 was received in evidence.)

Mr. McClennen: Yesterday, if your Honor please, you admitted for us Exhibits D-170 and D-171 on our assurance that we would procure the letter from the attorney showing the source.

Mr. Wright: Mr. McClennen has shown me the letter. We are satisfied that they came from the files of the Warner Company.

The Court: They were received yesterday.

Mr. McClennen: The letter shows the fact that they were discovered on November 2, 1944, in the files of the Cleveland Exchange.

The Court: Very well.

[fol. 4580] Gradwell LeBerthon Sears, a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Your residence?

A. Harrison, New York.

Q. Your position?

A. I am Vice President of United Artists Pictures Corporation of Delaware.

Q. That "of Delaware" refers to the Incorporation State?

A. Yes.

Q. And that is the United Artists Corporation that distributes the United Artists pictures, is it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you relate briefly by date positions and companies your entry and pursuit in the moving picture distribution business from the beginning?

A. I started to work for the World Film Corporation in New York City selling pictures in 1919. I was subsequently transferred to St. Louis, and I was there until December, 1920, which time I went to Chicago and I was in Chicago [fol. 4581] with the First National Pictures Corporation from December, 1920 until August, 1925. I became Branch Manager of the Cleveland, Ohio, Exchange of First National Pictures in August, 1925, and remained there until 1928. In 1928 I returned to Chicago as Chicago Branch Manager. I was there until maybe 1929. I came in to New York as the Western Sales Manager of First National Pictures. Subsequently, Warner or Vitagraph, rather, and First National were merged, and I became Western Sales Manager of the combined operation, and I was in that capacity until about, I would say, 1936. Early in 1936 I became General Sales Manager and President of Vitagraph Corporation, which position I occupied until October, 1941, and I severed my connection with Warner Brothers and joined United Artists shortly after, and I am still with United Artists.

Q. And in your present position with United Artists beginning in 1941?

A. Yes, I started in October, 1941, with United Artists.

Q. Mr. Sears, I show you contract of Warner Brothers, dated October 13, 1937, approved October 27th, 1937, with your stamp signature with Belpik Theatre Corporation, the Schine organization, for the Princess Theatre, Medina, Ohio, marked Exhibit 635.

Mr. Wright: If it is one document taken from a folder [fol. 4582] which is mark d for identification as 635—there are a number of other contracts in the folder.

The Court: Is there a mark on it?

Mr. McClennen: It has the identification mark, but none on the paper itself.

The Court: Well, let it show for itself what it is, 635?

Mr. McClennen: Marked for identification as Exhibit 635.

The Court: Not in evidence?

Mr. McClennen: And I think a copy is in evidence with a sub-lettering, but I am not sure, and to avoid any doubt, I will put this in as Defendants' D-173.

The Court: You have two markings, then?

Mr. McClennen: This 635 is merely the bulk identification marking. There is nothing on the paper itself.

(Thereupon contract of Warner Brothers, dated October 13, 1937, with Belpik Theatre Corporation for the Princess Theatre, Medina, Ohio, was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-173 for identification.)

[fol. 4583] Mr. McClennen: It may be noted that we are in doubt at the moment whether this is a duplication of another exhibit or not.

Q. Mr. Sears, at the time this contract was approved had you heard of any claim by Mr. Essick or Mr. Fine that Mr. Kalmenson had promised them this product for their new theatre soon to open in Medina, Ohio?

A. No, sir.

Q. Mr. Essick has testified that in November, 1937, when the matter came up at the New York office of Vitagraph—and the testimony is at page 1824—Mr. Kalmenson denied that he had made any such promise. Do you remember whether Mr. Kalmenson's denial was brought to your attention?

A. It was.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that calls for a conclusion there as to what——

The Court: Is it not hearsay, brought to his attention?

Mr. McClennen: I just wanted to make sure that he did know of the denial. That is, Mr. Essick has testified that when the claim was made that Kalmenson had made the promise that Kalmenson then denied it, and I am merely asking whether that denial came to the attention of Mr. Sears.

[fol. 4584] Mr. Wright: I think again, if the Court please, that Mr. Kalmenson would be the man who would have to be here to testify to whatever he had done.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Kalmenson would not be the man that knew whether it came to Mr. Sears' attention. There is no dispute about the fact. Mr. Essick has testified that Kalmenson denied that he made the promise. I am merely asking whether the fact that Mr. Kalmenson had denied the promise came to Mr. Sears' attention.

The Court: You do not claim that Mr. Sears was there at the time the claimed denial was made, do you?

Mr. McClennen: I am not sure about that.

Q. Were you present when Mr. Kalmenson made the denial?

A. No, sir.

Mr. McClennen: I still press the question as to whether it did come to his attention that the denial had taken place.

The Court: Well, the form of your question is objectionable. It calls for a hearsay conversation. He could testify that he knew there had been a denial of the making of this contract.

Q. Well, you did know at the time that Kalmenson had [fol. 4585] denied that he had made such an agreement?

A. That is right.

Mr. McClennen: That is all I care for on that.

Q. Mr. Sears, in the period from 1931 to the beginning of 1942, first, with your connection with Warner's, Vitagraph and thereafter with United Artists, you knew of the Schine Circuit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you personally have any dealings with the Schine Circuit in connection with the negotiation or consideration of their applications for product and contracts made with them?

A. On occasion during that period.

Q. I confine this question which I am about to put to you to your personal knowledge, not what you have been told by anybody else. To your knowledge has there been any conversation with any of the defendants, or their executives or employees, not to deal with any competing exhibitor or to restrict the terms of such dealings?

A. No, sir, at no time.

Mr. McClennen: You may ask.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Sears, did I understand you to say on your direct [fol. 4586] examination that at the time that this contract which was just shown you, that you have in front of you, was made there, you hadn't heard of any claim that the product involved there had been promised to Essick and Fine, but that you had heard that Kalmenson had denied promising it to them?

Mr. McClennen: No, that is not his testimony.

Mr. Wright: I am just trying to find out. That is the way I understood it. Read the record.

Mr. McClennen: Will you read the record of Mr. Sears' answers to these questions?

(Testimony read.)

Mr. Wright: Now read my last question again.

(Last question read.)

Mr. McClennen: That question I object to.

The Court: If you put the last part alone it would meet the objection, I think. I mean the very last statement there whether he had learned that Kalmenson had denied it.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. As I understand it, before you approved this contract that is marked in evidence as D-173, you had, you say, been informed that Mr. Kalmenson had denied promising that product to Essick and Fine; is that right?

Mr. McClennen: That question I object to because the [fol. 4587] examiner has no right to state his understanding.

The Court: That is as I understand it.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, it is clearly stated in the questions and answers. The contract that was approved when he had no knowledge of any such claim was approved on October 27, 1937. Thereafter, in November, it appears that Mr. Essick appeared at the office and made a claim which Mr. Kalmenson had denied in November, a month or so after this contract had been made. That is the first time there is any suggestion of any denial that could come to Mr. Sears' attention, and for the question to assume a misstatement of this testimony makes it objectionable.

The Court: I do not understand it to be a misstatement of his testimony. Irrespective of the dates I think the question is exactly the question that you put to him.

Mr. McClennen: May I have the question read, so that you may see the misassumption in Mr. Wright's question? That is, he assumes that Mr. Sears has testified that at or [fol. 4588] before November 27th——

The Court: He has not referred to any date whatsoever. He is referring to the question of whether he had knowledge that there had been a denial by Mr. Kalmenson.

Mr. McClennen: At the time he approved this contract of October 27th; that is the objection I make to the question.

The Court: Is that a part of your question, Mr. Wright?

Mr. Wright: I think it was.

(Question read.)

Mr. McClennen: I have no objection, if your Honor please, to a question by Mr. Wright as to whether on October 27th he knew that or had heard that. What I am objecting to is the assertion by Mr. Wright in the question of something that the witness has not testified to, wholly unnecessary for the question. If he wants to know what he knew at any given time it is a perfectly simple thing to ask him.

(Question read.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I will put it in this form: Is that a fact?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to because it does not [fol. 4589] appear except by reference back to several questions what he means by "is that a fact".

The Court: Clarify the question.

Q. At the time that you approved this contract D-173 had you then been informed that Kalmenson had denied promising the product to Essick and Fine?

A. No, sir.

[fol. 4590] Q. You are positive of that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How do you know? Do you have any memorandum or anything which would indicate that to you?

A. No, sir.

Q. What did you do to refresh your recollection on that point before you came here today?

A. Nothing.

Q. You just as you sat there remember when you saw that contract—you haven't had any prior knowledge of that dispute between Essick and Fine and Kalmenson about Medina, is that right?

A. Right.

Q. Then you say you did get knowledge of the dispute when?

A. Subsequent to the first Essick visit to New York.

Q. And is that the way you fixed the time?

A. Fixed what time?

Q. The time when the matter came to your attention.

A. The matter came to my attention after a contract had already been approved with Schine.

Q. You mean after you made—you first had made, had you not, a contract for the entire product with Schine, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. You remember as part of your franchise you made a [fol. 4591] three-year deal there?

A. That is my recollection of it.

Q. Selling all the pictures to Schine?

A. That is right.

Q. Then you made this contract that is front of you selling half the pictures to Schine, is that right?

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright, this contract is not half the pictures, is it?

Mr. Wright: It looks that way to me.

The Court: Let the witness examine it, and he can answer the question.

Mr. McClennen: Where do you see "half the pictures"?

Mr. Wright: I beg your pardon.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. This is the contract for all of the pictures executed pursuant to the franchise, is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And then it was after you learned of the complaint and Kalmenson's denial that you made a contract with Schine for half the pictures and with Essick and Fine for half the pictures, is that right?

A. That is correct.

Mr. Wright: I had assumed in my question it was a contract for half. I now see it is a contract for all.

[fol. 4592] The Court: It is a contract for all?

Mr. Wright: Yes, that I believe is in evidence as Exhibit 635-C.

The Court: What date is that?

Mr. Wright: That bears the date January 18, 1938.

Q. You recognize this contract in evidence, Exhibit 635-C as the contract that was made for half the pictures with Mr. Schine or with the Schine Circuit? (A pause).

Mr. Wright: This is the Essick contract.

Mr. McClennen: What is the date of the one you have just shown him?

Mr. Wright: This is January.

Mr. McClennen: January, '38.

Mr. Wright: The contract I would like to have is the one which was made with Schine for half the product.

Mr. McClennen: Is this 635-C the contract with Fine and Essick?

Mr. Wright: Yes, this is for half. I am looking for the contract that Schine had.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. While we are looking for the copy of the contract that was made with Schine for half of that same season's product that is covered by these Exhibits D-173 and 635-C, you do remember that after you found out about the Fine [fol.4593] and Essick claim and the Kalmenson denial, you then made this contract for half the pictures with Fine and Essick, which is marked 635-C?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you also, at or about the same time, made a new contract for the other half with Schine, is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And both those contracts were made after you found out about the claim that they had made and Kalmenson's denial?

A. That is correct.

The Court: What was the reason for modifying this original contract?

The Witness: At the time the original contract was modified apparently between two of our customers there was a disagreement as to what one of our representatives had allegedly agreed, and I have always found it is the surest policy in a disagreement of that kind to customers is to try to do a Solomon and give each one of them half of the product and, in that way, avoid a lot of difficulty.

The Court: You understood your representative agreed to it?

The Witness: That is right.

The Court: That included one-half of the product in [fol. 4594] the contract?

The Witness: Yes. We simply took the entire product and gave one-half, and the other half.

Mr. Wright: We haven't been able to locate any contract other than this deal sheet which is marked in evidence as W-4 (37).

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Do you recognize that as the deal sheet for Medina on the three-year franchise deal?

Mr. Wright: That is in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: What is the number?

Mr. Wright: W-4 (37).

Mr. McClennen: And the date?

The Court: Where did you get the "W"?

Mr. Wright: Because it came from the Warner Company.

The Court: I didn't know it was marked that way.

Mr. Wright: It was identified before. The exhibit number is W-4-(37).

Mr. McClennen: The date is September 28th, 1937.

The Court: Read the question.

(Last question read.)

The Witness: Yes, sir.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. This notation on there, this deal which you see at the bottom reading "This deal was later changed to read [fol. 4595] "Split deal 50 per cent with the opposition", that has the same initials, do you recognize the handwriting or the initials?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Is it your recollection that the half of that, half of the product covered by this contract, Exhibit D-173, that you ultimately sold to Schine was served under the same terms that are set forth in this deal sheet W-4 (37)?

The Witness: May I have the question, please?

(Question read.)

The Witness: That is my recollection.

The Court: Served or sold, the same terms?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: The deal sheet being for the whole preceding——

The Court: September?

Mr. McClennen: That is in September—preceding the contract D-173.

The Court: There is no question half of it was sold later.

Mr. McClennen: There is no question.

Mr. Wright: All I want to do is establish the terms under which it was sold.

The Court: He said the same terms.

Mr. Wright: I think that is all.

[fol. 4596] Mr. McClennen: That is all.

The Court: Next witness.

Mr. McClennen: I beg your pardon.

Q. I am told that I did not ask you to define your duties with the United Artists so far as distribution is concerned.

A. I am the General Manager of world wide distribution for United Artists.

Q. And have been ever since you joined United Artists?

The Court: That is '41.

The Witness: I have been in charge of domestic distribution. I am now in charge of foreign distribution as well. Is that all?

Mr. McClennen: That is all. Thank you.

Neil Francis Agnew, a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Your residence?

A. New York City.

Q. Your position?

[fol. 4597] A. I am representing Mr. David Selznick and Vice President of the Vanguard Film Company at present.

Q. Will you begin at the beginning of your connection with the moving picture distribution business giving approximately the position that you held, with what company, during what dates?

A. I started in 1920, January of that year, working in the Chicago Exchange of the Paramount Company as booker. I became a salesman there three or four months later, and after a lapse of about a year and a half I went to Milwaukee in charge of their Milwaukee office. I was there for about two years, and then transferred to Chicago as Chicago Branch Manager for the same company. Later I became district manager in that same territory, covering the Chicago Exchange territory, the Detroit, Indianapolis and Milwaukee territories. In 1932 I was called in to New York to take charge of the Western Division for Paramount sales.

Q. By Western Division you mean what territory?

A. Well, generally the territory represented west of the Mississippi River, but from—the Chicago-Detroit District also was in the Western Division, everything west of that.

Q. Then if you will continue.

A. Yes, then from that time about two years later I [fol. 4598] became Assistant Sales Manager.

Q. That would be something like 1934?

A. Yes, 1934.

Q. And that was Assistant Sales Manager for the whole country?

A. For the domestic department, yes, all of the United States and Canada. In 1936 I became General Sales Manager for Paramount in charge of the domestic territory. I was there in that capacity until last April.

Q. That is, April, 1944?

A. 1944, that is right.

Q. Mr. Agnew, do you recall some season years in which Paramount did not come to terms with any theatres in which the Shea Circuit or Mr. Shea had an interest?

A. Mr. Mort Shea?

Q. Mr. Mort Shea.

A. Yes, there was a season I should say about '33-'34 when at least for a greater part of the season Paramount did not sell the Shea Circuit.

[fol. 4599] Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wallace has testified to this fact, if your Honor please, at pages 3096 and 3097.

Q. What did you do or direct to be done in the effort to place the Paramount product where the Shea negotiations had broken down in towns where the theatre in which Shea was interested had been the regular customer in the past?

A. That season I had no personal jurisdiction over that territory in which the Shea circuit was located.

Q. Did you know what was done?

A. I remember that wherever pictures could be sold to an opposition theatre they made the attempt at least to sell them and did sell a number of them.

The Court: You mean in opposition to Shea?

The Witness: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: It has appeared, if your Honor please, that Shea and Schine were interested in the theatres in Auburn.

Q. I show you Exhibit 814, which is a contract of February 8, 1934, for the Capitol Theatre in Auburn, with the Auburn Theatre Corporation. Am I right in understanding that you did not have to do with that particular contract yourself? The copy there is not the approved copy. It does not have any Paramount signature on it, but there is no question that it is such a contract.

[fol. 4600] A. No, I had nothing to do with this contract.

Q. In subsequent years was effort made to restore the relations with the Shea theatres and get the Paramount product into those theatres as they had been before the interruption?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I suppose what should be offered, if anything, is what was done or what was said.

The Court: It calls for his conclusion. He may state what was done.

Q. After the 1934-1934 season did you have dealings with the Shea circuit and the Schine circuit yourself?

A. In the case of the Shea circuit I had some dealings with Mr. Shea and his associates. I don't recall ever having dealt directly with the Schine circuit.

Q. What did you do in the effort to get the product restored into the Shea theatres?

Mr. Wright: There is not any testimony yet that he did anything.

Q. Did you do something?

A. Yes, sir:

Q. What did you do?

A. Mr. Shea came in to see me and related his difficulties——

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I do not see that what [fol. 4601] passed between Mr. Shea and this witness would be relevant in any event.

The Court: Mr. Shea came in to see him. He may say what was done.

Q. What was done as a result?

A. He related his difficulties and his viewpoint with respect to his inability to buy the pictures.

The Court: The conversation is not competent.

Q. Did you then sell pictures generally throughout the Shea Circuit?

A. We did.

Q. Mr. Agnew, in the period when you were General Sales Manager of Paramount, in dealing with a theatre in a town where there was no other theatre or no other first-run theatre, what were the elements that you had to take into consideration in the competition with the other distributors to get the Paramount pictures placed in that theatre?

A. Well, naturally, you would emphasize the desirability of the pictures you were selling and try to create a greater demand in the man's mind for the product. You have to compete with the other people who offered pictures for sale, based on price, runs and such things as clearance, where there were other subsequent run theatres in the town.

[fol. 4602] Q. Will you describe in that connection what preferred playing time is and what competition you encounter in getting the preferred playing time? And I am limiting this to the period prior to 1942, while you were General Sales Manager.

A. Well, preferred playing time, as known in the industry generally, is Saturday and/or Sunday. At that time, if I remember correctly, the preferred playing time in the smaller towns was divided between the Saturday run and the Sunday run pretty generally. In other words, very seldom did any picture exhibition get both days of the same week. The limits therefore were 104 pretty generally, and in week-run situations naturally 52.

Q. What is the reason for the desire of a particular distributor to get as much as possible of the preferred playing time?

A. Well, the general theatre attendance on Saturday and Sunday is greater, all other things being equal. Therefore his earning capacity is greater.

Q. And in negotiating for the preferred playing time do you encounter the competition of the other distributors who want that same preferred playing time?

A. You do.

Q. Take it even before you became General Sales Manager [fol. 4603] and while you were Western Division Manager, you were familiar with Paramount General sales policy throughout the country?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the earlier days when did the season's effort begin to get the contracts placed for the on-coming season?

A. Any time from the first of July on.

Q. And what were the significant steps in the sales effort?

A. Well in those days the sales effort generally was preceded by a sales convention or a series of them, in which the company announced most of the product which they intended to release for the ensuing season. Booklets sometimes were made up with descriptive matter with respect to the pictures, the names of the players, and so forth, and these were circulated in the trade, advertised in the trade papers, and usually copies of them were carried by the salesmen when they went out to solicit the sale of pictures, and all other available information. Following the announcement, so-called, of the product of each of the companies, the sales effort then became general with respect to soliciting exhibitors.

Q. As time went on was there any change in the dates of the beginnings of the sales effort?

A. In the very early period in the '20s those meetings [fol. 4604] and the things which I have just described began in September, but there was found to be a great eagerness because of the competitive situation with each of the companies to get out a little further in front in advance of the season with their sales, and that gradually moved up the selling period from September and August up to as early as July because of the desirability of getting in there first and selling the pictures before the other fellow was there, I suppose.

Q. Have you heard or read the testimony of any of the other sales managers for the other distributors in this present case?

A. Just Mr. Sears.

Q. Mr. Sears is the only one that you have heard or read?

A. That is right.

Q. Have you had occasion during the period that you were General Sales Manager for Paramount to familiarize yourself with the similarity and differences of sales policy as pursued by your competitor distributors?

A. Some of the policies of the other companies with respect to details of sales were known to the salesmen because of the exchange of opinions with the exhibitors. Exhibitors would and do make a point very often of the much easier sales policy of another company. In that way such information did become general property with respect to [fol. 4605] certain general matters of how many pictures they would accept as a minimum number and matters that are of trade interest of that sort.

Q. Take it in the period that you were General Sales Manager, in the sale of the Paramount product where there was more than one possible first-run theatre in the town or subsequent-run theatres, what were the considerations which you had before you in determining which theatre in the town you would have your sales force seek to get your pictures into or where you would approve applications for contracts from those theatres when they came in?

A. Well, the general considerations are numerous. One that we particularly valued was the length of the service of the customer, the length of time in which we had sold pictures to that particular account. Paramount was one of the older companies in the business and therefore a great many of these exhibitor customers of ours rather grew up with the company.

Other practical considerations would be the location and the size of the theatre, the manner in which the theatre was operated, if there was a choice to be made in that direction, and the ability of the theatre to earn film rental. The most film rental was of course a major consideration.

[fol. 4606] Q. Where you sold your pictures on percentage it is, of course, obvious that your interest was in the grossing powers of the theatre. Will you state how you are interested in that question where the picture was sold for a flat rental?

A. The desirablitiy of the theatre was always a consideration, because it was of value to be associated with the better type of operation, and also again, even through a picture was sold on flat rental, the earning power of the theatre and the good will of the theatre in the community was of great value because a flat rental picture, in the final analysis, has to earn its way just as well as a percentage picture does.

To keep a satisfied exhibitor you must make a profit with your pictures, both flat rental and percentage pictures.

Q. Where a picture has been licensed at a flat rental, on the expectations, but for some reason it appears to be a flop in that theatre, what is the customary thing that happens?

A. Well, it is customary in the trade, because of the fact that we more or less deal in intangible values, to make an exhibitor an adjustment of the price of that flat rental picture. I think more accurately you could say that that adjustment would be made on a number of pictures rather [fol. 4607] than on individual pictures, unless it happened to be a very important picture, a high-priced picture, which was sold alone and by itself. Otherwise adjustments became seasonal things, rather than individual picture problems.

Q. In fixing the flat rental for a given year what consideration is given to what the theatre has done in the prior years in the matter of gross box-office receipts?

A. The first consideration is his ability to earn, what he has been able to accomplish with the product in the preceding seasons, what his current level of business is, and a general consideration of the overhead operation, and the matter of what we mutually agree is a fair profit.

Q. In the period between 1942, when you were General Sales Manager of Paramount, can you say with any approximation what proportion the film rentals from the whole United States came from the first-run theatres?

A. Of course you mean by first-run all first-runs, cities, villages, everywhere, do you not?

Q. Yes.

A. About 70 to 75 per cent, I should say.

Q. Can you state with any approximaton how much the first-run revenue came from, as you put it, towns, villages [fol. 4608] and cities, say, under 50,000 population?

A. This would have to be an approximation. I should say that under 50,000, in the first-runs only——

Q. In the first-runs only.

A. You probably get about 35 per cent.

Q. Now let me see if I correctly re-state what this is: That is, of your total film revenue, you get from 25 to 30 per cent from subsequent-run houses, from 70 to 75 per cent from first-run houses, of which some 35 per cent comes from the under 50,000 places and the other 35 to 40 per cent from the over 50,000 places?

A. Yes. I think perhaps that figure a little higher with respect to the under 50,000. At one time it was 33⅓ in the case of Paramount, but I should say today it is probably less than that. Perhaps 25.

Q. When you say today, to make that more specific, we will say in the year 1941, what would you say was——

A. I should say instead of 35 it would be 25 to 30, perhaps.

[fol. 4609] The Court: That depends somewhat on the quality of the film?

The Witness: Yes, but those figures are annual figures based on your general average performance over the year.

Q. Take it in the year 1939, or thereabouts, approximately what percentage of the total film revenue of Paramount came from the Schine Circuit?

A. I never have computed it, but I would risk a guess of about one per cent, I guess.

Q. It has appeared in contracts in evidence that there were provisions as to the amount of the rate of admission prices that the exhibitor was charging. Will you state the considerations leading the distributor to have those provisions in the contracts?

A. Generally, they were recorded in contracts normal admissions, but very rarely where the consideration with respect to the sale, once you had determined all of the other factors and the desirable theatre, the admission scale was also desirable, and, therefore, was not a point at issue in making a sale, but contracts generally did carry a record of what that admission scale was. In the case of our company we had a minimum admission requirement of 15 cents. We didn't care to sell theatres charging less than that.

[fol. 4610] The Court: For any run, you mean?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. If the admission price was cut from that stated in the contract by the exhibitor, or if he reduced his admission prices by the device of two for one bargains, and so forth, not usually was the distributor interested in that dispute from the contract?

A. Well, a reasonable fluctuation in admission policy over the year was not regarded as a reason for dispute with the exhibitor. Occasionally, however, an exhibitor would go out on a campaign of slashing admission prices, obviously to hurt his competitor to the point where the prestige of the pictures and the theatre itself were reduced. In those cases we generally had discussion with the exhibitor and brought about some amicable settlement of the matter, or, in some rare instances we had to choose not to sell until he did change his price policy, where we felt we were seriously affected.

Q. The plaintiff in this case has adopted as the definition for franchise a contract for more than one year season's product. Without asking you to adopt that franchise definition, either as correct or otherwise, but assuming it for the purpose of the question that I am putting to you, has Paramount from time to time in the period of 1931 to 1940 issued franchises?

[fol. 4611] A. Yes, we had some.

Q. And in issuing those franchises has distinction been made by the producer controlled theatres, independent circuits and exhibitors operating one theatre only?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that is objected to as calling for a conclusion. It would be necessarily based upon an examination of the wide course of dealing which is not in evidence in this case. It is a conclusion, I suppose, that would have to be drawn.

The Court: Read the question.

(Last question read.)

The Court: Well, state whether franchises of these various types of exhibitors——

Mr. Wright: Yes, he can state what they did.

Q. Will you state what Paramount did in each respect?

A. We had had franchises, so-called, two-year deals, and the greater length of time with a limited number of those franchises with different type of theatre operation, circuits and otherwise. I don't recall any number at the present time, but we had them.

Q. Well, take it in the year 1939-40, or thereabouts, could you approximate how many franchises Paramount had outstanding with a single-theatre operators?

[fol. 4612] A. Well, I recall one. At the present time—that is of the time of which you speak—we had a franchise, Paramount had a franchise, with a theatre operator in Champaign, Illinois. In 1939 we had discouraged the sale of franchises previous to that for the past four or five previous years, and they were diminishing rapidly in numbers at the time you state, and we had only a limited number of them of any kind at that date. I don't remember any others of any consequence of single operation.

Q. Take it back before you had this disposition to depart from the operation by franchise, say 1934, could you approximate the number of franchises with single-theatre operators at that time?

A. Not with any accuracy, but I would think there were at least 12 or 15 in existence at that time, at some period during that time.

Q. Do you remember whether at any time the Schine Circuit had a franchise with Paramount?

A. Yes, I believe they did.

Q. And do you remember when that was?

A. I don't remember the years, no.

Q. Within any recent years back of 1940, did Schine have any franchise?

A. I would say perhaps in 1938, '39, '37, along there.

[fol. 4613] Q. And do you remember whether that was for the entire circuit?

A. No, I don't.

Q. I confine this question which I am about to put to you to your personal knowledge, not what you have been told by anybody else. To your knowledge has there been any conversation with any of the defendants or their executives or employees not to deal with any competing exhibitor, or to restrict the terms of such dealings?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I make the same objection I made previously. I omitted to make the same objection when it was asked of Mr. Sears, and I would like to have it considered recorded to that question also.

The Court: All right.

Mr. Wright: Did he answer?

Mr. McClennen: Yes.

Mr. Wright: The answer is "No."

If the Court please, I wonder if we could have a little recess?

The Court: It is 12 o'clock. We could recess now.

Mr. Wright: I think we can finish with him in five minutes.

The Court: All right, a short recess.

[fol. 4614] (Short recess.)

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Mr. Agnew, I find that I confined my question too narrowly to you, and I want to put another one. Along in the middle of the 30s, say 1934, how many franchises did Paramount have out with strictly independent theatre operators operating not more than five theatres and not affiliated with any circuit?

A. I should say 60 to 70. You asked me first about individual theatres, did you not?

Q. Yes.

The Court: How many franchises do you recall that you had altogether.

The Witness: Probably double that number at that time.

The Court: Altogether?

The Witness: Altogether.

The Court: All franchises?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: That is all. Thank you.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Mr. McClennen: No cross-examination?

Mr. Wright: No, no further questions.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, the defendant filed in May, 1944, notice to admit facts addressed to the plaintiff. [fol. 4615] The answers are on file and they are brief those that we wish to put in evidence, and I, therefore, will read them.

"No. 1. In response to paragraph 1, plaintiff admits that for the past fifteen to twenty years the normal method of licensing the exhibition of copyrighted motion pictures photoplays in the United States of America, including the States of New York, Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, has been and now is on a so-called run basis, to wit: for a first-run, to a theatre in a local competitive area with such exclusive exhibition rights and clearance privilege, if any, as may be appropriate to the successful exploitation of said copyrights in said area; for such subsequent runs in said area, and with such exclusive exhibition rights and clearance privileges, if any, as may be appropriate to the successful exploitation of said copyrights in said area. Except as admitted herein the truth of the facts stated in said paragraph is denied.

[fol. 4616] 2. In response to paragraph 2, plaintiff admits that it has been the usual and customary practice for the distributor to agree with its licenses that it will not exhibit or grant a license to exhibit its photoplays for exhibition in conflict with the run licensed the exhibitor or prior to the clearance period agreed upon with the exhibitor. Except as admitted herein, the truth of the facts stated in said paragraph is denied.

3. Plaintiff admits the truth of the facts stated in paragraph 3."

Paragraph 3 of the notice reads:

"3. The motion picture industry has developed under the existence of clearance and runs. It is by such a system, with initially large receipts from prior run exhibitions and successive reduction of license charges, that satisfactory revenue can be derived by the producers and distributors, so that costly feature pictures can be made available to the whole public at varying admission prices.

4. In response to paragraph 4, plaintiff admits that ib [fol. 4617] each competitive area, under normal business conditions of free competition, each distributor desires to license its films for successive runs in such area under such clearance terms as will yield the maximum total license revenue from the area. In determining which theatres shall have which runs, its past business relations with the theatre, the skill and character of its management, its size, location, equipment and drawing power are all factors which, among others, may influence such a decision. Except as admitted herein, the truth of the facts stated in said paragraph 4 is denied.

11. Plaintiff admits the truth of the facts stated in paragraph 11."

Paragraph 11 of the notice reads:

"11. Of the so-called Schine Theatres, approximately 60 per cent are located in cities or villages with populations under 10,000, and approximately 87 per cent are located in cities or villages with population under 25,000.

23. Plaintiff admits the truth of of the facts stated in [fol. 4618] the first two sentences of paragraph 23. Plaintiff denies the truth of the facts stated in the last sentence of paragraph 23."

The first two sentences of paragraph 23 of the notice reads:

"23. Motion pictures are works of art and are the subject of copyright. They have no uniform or market value, and the revenue which the owner of a copyright can derive from any picture or group of pictures depends upon the ability of the distributor to market them in different situations to the best advantage."

The Court: That is the admission in that paragraph?

Mr. McClennen: That is the admission in that paragraph.

[fol. 4619] The Court: With these admissions in mind, considerable of the testimony has been repetitious, has it not? It does no harm, perhaps. These facts are already testified to, are they not?

Mr. McClennen: A great deal of it is not the matter of controversy, as these admissions indicate. My next witness, if your Honor please, was promised before 12:30, but he is coming from a distance.

The Court: He is not here now?

Mr. McClennen: He is not here at the moment.

The Court: You have no one here?

Mr. McClennen: I have no one here. He is the only witness now in contemplation.

The Court: I am prepared to run on Saturday, if it will help conclude the rebuttal testimony.

Mr. Wright: Now I feel that if the defendants conclude today we probably ought to be able to finish up tomorrow, without using any Saturday session.

The Court: Assuming that we do conclude in a day or two can we discuss now the question of the subsequent proceedings?

Mr. McClennen: If the testimony is concluded on Friday [fol. 4620] would your Honor consent to sit Saturday morning and go on with the argument?

The Court: I would not want to do it that way. I want to have it submitted on briefs, and an argument on the briefs.

Mr. McClennen: Does your Honor mean not to hear oral argument at all?

The Court: No, I will hear oral argument on the briefs, when we have got the matters in front of us. I mean you can argue it on the briefs as you would an appeal perhaps. I think in a case of this size we ought to follow that plan. I think it is really surplusage to have an oral argument and then some time afterwards furnish briefs. The Court gets a better understanding of it by argument on the briefs.

Mr. McClennen: What I had in mind with reference to the matter of the briefs, before your Honor spoke, was that it will be a very great amount of wastage if we go into the matter on briefs before knowing what the plaintiff is intending to rely upon. That is, to anticipate many things that will not be brought home.

[fol. 4621] The Court: He will serve his brief on you and you may serve your brief, and then a reply brief furnished.

Mr. McClennen: Could it be so that we could have the plaintiff's brief and then serve our brief and then the plaintiff a reply brief?

The Court: I think that is a fair way to do it.

Mr. Wright: I think that would be agreeable to us, your Honor.

The Court: I think we had better handle it that way and get all the points presented and considered. If you argue it now and then submit briefs afterwards it would be a waste of time. How long a time would you want? When your briefs are in I could hear you at any time.

Mr. Wright: I should think we would want 30 days, and I was going to suggest that perhaps your Honor, with the brief, would want us to submit proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law, and then I suppose Counsel, with their brief, would also submit their proposed findings and conclusions.

The Court: I think it could be done in a reasonably short time.

[fol. 4622] Mr. McClennen: With the plaintiff's brief to be served by December 10th?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: And then may we have 30 days in which to prepare ours?

The Court: Is that satisfactory?

Mr. Wright: I should think so.

The Court: And your reply could be served when?

Mr. Wright: Fifteen days for a reply.

Mr. McClennen: Of course if we can get our brief ready shorter than the 30 days the 15 days can begin to run on the reply then.

The Court: Do it as rapidly as you can. I think that is a more satisfactory way for the Court.

We will recess now until 2 o'clock.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock P.M.)

[fol. 4623] After Recess, 2 P.M.

Appearances: Same as before noted.

Hobert L. Himes, a witness called by and on behalf of the Defendants, having been first duly sworn, ~~was~~ examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. What is your residence?

A. Canandaigua, New York.

Q. You are a member of the Bar, practicing law, with offices in Canandaigua?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have been in practice there since when?

A. About 1938, in the spring.

Q. And prior to that you were practicing in Buffalo?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your wife is the sister of J. W. Jenkins, Jr.?

A. That is right.

Q. And were they the two persons interested in the Jenkins Block, inherited from their father?

A. Yes, sir. Their mother had a life use of it, I believe.

Q. In the spring of 1938 of what did that block consist as it then was?

[fol. 4624] A. Well, there was a men's store in the south portion or part of it. In the northern portion or part there was a ladies' store. On the second floor there were two offices, occupied, one was by Mr. Levy and one was by myself. On the third floor there was more or less of a store room. I think the Carpenter's Union had a meeting room on the third floor.

Q. This room occupied by yourself was your law office at that time?

A. It was.

Q. It has been in the evidence of Mr. Hubert Wallace, at page 2755, that in the spring of 1938 he had some conferences, either alone or with Mr. Anthony J. Lauer, at your home and possibly elsewhere in Canandaigua, I am not sure. Do you remember anything about the episode?

A. It seems to me I saw Mr. Wallace in Canandaigua. I definitely remember Mr. Lauer stopping at the house one late afternoon or evening. I don't know Mr. Wallace as well as I know Mr. Lauer.

Q. At that time had there been any recent changes in that Jenkins Block?

Mr. Wright: Could we have the time fixed?

A. Do you mean the structural changes?

Q. Yes.

[fol. 4625]. The Court: At what time?

Mr. Wallace: At the time of these talks with Mr. Wallace and Mr. Lauer.

Q. I will postpone the question to you as to the building. Have you any means of fixing the approximate date of your meetings with Mr. Lauer and Mr. Wallace?

A. No, sir, I have not.

[fol. 4626] Q. Going back I asked you with reference to whether there had been any changes made in the building within any recent time, or any improvements?

A. No. The building was altered by Mr. Jenkins, Sr., but at or around that time there were no changes there. You are talking about structural changes, I assume?

Q. Yes.

A. There were none.

Q. Have you recently looked at your old files in this matter?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Do you find any correspondence with Mr. Lauer on this subject?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what is the first in date that you have, by way of telegram or letter?

A. I have another file there. Whether there is any previous to this in there, I do not know. (A pause). May and June, 1938.

Q. When is the first letter or telegram addressed by you to Mr. Lauer or by him to you?

A. June 15, 1938 is a telegram I sent to Mr. Lauer.

Mr. McClennen: I offer that.

Mr. Wright: I don't believe he responded to the question, did he? Is this supposed to be the first correspondence [fol. 4627] between him and Lauer?

The Witness: He asked me my first communication to Mr. Lauer first, as I understand the question, and that I believe is the first that I have here or recall, that I know anything about. It was my first communication to him. There is a letter from him in here in May. I tried to answer that part of the question first.

(Thereupon copy of telegram dated June 15, 1938, from Hobart L. Himes to A. J. Lauer, Esq., referred to, was received in evidence and marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-174.)

Q. This telegram of June 15, 1938, from Hobart L. Himes to A. J. Lauer, Esq., says "Our final answer is no stop. Letter will follow". Have you the letter to which that refers?

A. Yes, sir, a copy of it.

Mr. McClennen: That is dated June 16, 1938. I offer that.

Mr. Wright: As to this letter, it is objected to on the ground that there isn't any showing that the original was not available, and also on the ground that it appears to be be immaterial and irrelevant in any event. It is a letter, I [fol. 4628] suppose, that Mr. Lauer could have been asked about when he was on the stand. He testified here as a witness.

Mr. McClennen: I first learned of the existence of this letter at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and, therefore, was not in a position to show it to Mr. Lauer when he was on the stand.

I press the offer. The matter is not one of communication to Mr. Lauer. It is one of action by this witness and the fact that he prepared such a carbon copy as this is just as significant as the original.

Q. Perhaps I might ask you: Did you mail the letter of which this is a copy to Mr. Lauer?

A. The letter was mailed. I don't know whether I mailed it or not—through the office.

Mr. McClennen: Before I press the letter further, if your Honor please,——

Q. Have you any letter from Mr. Lauer acknowledging receipt of this?

A. That is the 17th?

Q. This is the 16th.

A. I don't see that. That mentions the 17th letter.

[fol. 4629] Mr. McClennen: Before going to the next I will ask to have this letter that is in suspense, or this carbon copy of June 16, 1938, marked as Defendants' Exhibit 175 for identification.

(Thereupon the carbon copy of letter of June 16, 1938, referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit 175 for identification.)

Q. In the order of dates, what is the next letter after June 15th that you have?

A. I have a letter dated June 16th from Mr. Lauer.

Mr. McClennen: That I will offer in evidence.

(Thereupon the letter dated June 16th from Mr. Lauer referred to was received in evidence and marked Defendants' Exhibit D-176.)

Mr. McClennen: Exhibit D-176 is dated June 16, 1938, on the letter-head of A. J. Lauer, Inc., Rialto, Auburn, N. Y.

"Mr. Hobert L. Himes, Jenkins Bldg.,
Canandaigua, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Himes: Thank you for your telegram of yesterday. In the absence of your letter which you stated would follow, I do not know what your final decision is regarding your refusal to rent the main floor and basement of the [fol. 4630] Jenkins Building. From my past experience I do know it is nothing unusual for owners of properties in small cities to recognize the importance of having presented to them a plan whereby a definite income is assumed from the property. The reason for this attitude is when a prospect becomes interested in renting the property the owner always feels it has a greater value than if the property were offered for rent or sale by the owner himself. I am putting you on the list as the seventh party who during the past four years refused to make a deal relieving them of the responsibility in the management of the property. Each and every one of them during the past year, including two parties this year, have come to me and asked me if it would be possible to close a deal for them. In other words, I make this prophecy, that you are making a terrific mistake and while you may not give me the satisfaction of coming to me at some future date you will always remember this com- [fol. 4631] munication, particularly so whereas you are not requested to spend any money for improvements.

In closing I wish to say I am not grieved excepting we have had promise after promise that a definite decision would be made before this date and we were held off to such a late date that it will be almost impossible to start making improvements for the fall and winter business unless the transaction is closed before July 1st.

We, of course, ask you to kindly keep this matter in confidence as to the nature of business we had in mind in opening the store.

With kindest regards to you and Mrs. Himes and Mr. Jenkins, I am,

Very truly yours, A. J. Lauer."

Q. Now, have you a letter from you, dated June 17, 1938?

A. Yes, sir, a copy (handing to Counsel).

Mr. McClennen: Will you mark that for identification?

(Thereupon carbon copy of letter, dated June 17, 1938, [fol. 4632] Himes, referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-177 for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: I offer D-177 for identification, a letter from Mr. Himes to A. J. Lauer, June 17, 1938, a carbon copy.

Mr. Wright: I have the same objection to this letter as to the other.

Mr. McClennen: Before pressing the offer I will go to this:

Q. Did you receive a letter of June 23, 1938, from A. J. Lauer to you?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: I will offer that.

Mr. Wright: No objection.

(Thereupon the letter of June 23, 1938, Lauer to Himes, referred to was received in evidence and marked Defendants' Exhibit D-178.)

Mr. McClennen: Exhibit D-178 is June 23, 1938:

"Mr. Hobert L. Himes,
90 S. Main St.,
Canandaigua, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Himes:

Thank you for your letter of June 17th. Will you state definitely what your lease terms will be, expecting of course [fol. 4633] that they are within reason and fairness to all parties concerned. With best wishes to you and Mrs. Himes, I am,

Very truly yours, A. J. Lauer."

Q. Now, Mr. Himes, other than these letters appearing in your file, in carbon copy form, Exhibit D-175, June 16, 1938, and D-177, June 17, 1938, do you find in your files any indication that you wrote any other letter to Mr. Lauer of those dates?

A. No, sir.

Mr. McClennen: I press the offer in evidence of identification D-175 and D-177, if your Honor please.

The Court: Copies of letters by the witness to Mr. Lauer?

Mr. McClennen: Yes.

The Court: Is that objected to, Mr. Wright?

Mr. Wright: This letter of the 17th is clearly referred to in D-178. That would indicate, I suppose, that that was received. I do not see any reference in any of these letters in evidence to the one marked D-175. As to D-175 I think our objection would be the same.

Mr. McClennen: May D-177 be marked, then, if your Honor please?

The Court: Do you have an objection?

[fol. 4634] Mr. Wright: I assume from the fact that D-178 refers to it that it was received and I withdraw any objection based on the ground that it is not the original. Of course the relevance of any of this material has not yet been made clear to me. Of course we have a general objection on the ground of relevancy.

The Court: I will overrule your objection, then, if that is the only ground.

Mr. Wright: I withdraw the objection as to not being an original.

Mr. McClennen: Mark D-177 in evidence.

(Thereupon the letter of June 17, 1938, carbon copy, Himes to Lauer, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-177 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. McClenhen: It reads: "June 17, 1938. A. J. Lauer, Esq., 1 South Street, Auburn, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Lauer: Our letters must have crossed in the mail. In any event, I thank you for your letter of the 16th inst., which arrived this morning, and have carefully noted its contents. No, I do not think our property is any more [fol. 4635] valuable than before. I certainly want you to feel free to call on me at any time, as I want to be able to contact you. If we have made a mistake it probably will not be the first one and no doubt not the last. Our discussions will be kept in confidence.

Wishing you and Mr. Wallace continued success, I am,

Yours very truly."

It has the initials "H. L. H." as the dictator.

[fol. 4636] If your Honor please, in view of the fact that Exhibit D-178, June 23, 1938, acknowledges the receipt of Exhibit D-177 of June 17, 1938, which contains the assertion, "Our letters must have crossed in the mail", and the fact that there is no comment in D-178 to the contrary of that, I re-urge the admission of Exhibit D-175, the one of June 15, 1938.

Mr. Wright: We object to it. I don't think it is apparent from the——

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Calling your attention and asking you to refresh your recollection from the exhibit for identification D-175, I will ask you if this was an accurate statement of your attitude, namely "Under all the circumstances I felt and still feel that your offer was not sufficient——"

Mr. Wright: We have an objection here.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Wright: At the time that Mr. Lauer and Mr. Wallace were on the stand, as I recall, they were not permitted to go into the conversations had with Mr. Jenkins or Mr. Himes with reference to the property, and I don't suppose it is proper.

[fol. 4637] The Court: He is not asking for the conversation now, he is asking now for the truth——

Mr. Wright: Yes.

The Court: If that is what was said that is another question.

Mr. Wright: It is simply another way of——

The Court: I agree with you.

Q. Have you any memorandum in your files in your handwriting indicating the terms of the offer to which this correspondence related?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen: I will ask to have that marked for identification.

(Thereupon memorandum referred to was marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-179 for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: I will offer D-179 in evidence.

Mr. Wright: Well, there isn't any foundation laid at all for the admission of this, nor does it show when it was made, who made it, who prepared it, any of the facts, any one would want to know before it is received in evidence.

The Court: Do you object?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

[fol. 4638] The Court: Sustained.

Q. Can you tell me whether the offer referred to in the memorandum marked for identification as Defendant's Exhibit D-179 is the offer referred to in the telegram, Exhibit D-174 saying, June 15th, "Our final answer is no"?

A. I have no present recollection, sir, as to the date of that. The offer says "The last offer" in my minutes, and in my memorandum.

Q. Having before you this correspondence of June 15th to June 23rd, 1938, and your memorandum identification Exhibit D-179, will you tell us as refreshed by that memorandum as best you can what Mr. Lauer or Mr. Wallace or both had said to you as the offer which they made?

Mr. Wright: That is objected to, if the Court please, they weren't permitted to testify to that on their examination. I do not see what possible purpose is being served here by asking this witness to go into conversations which were not gone into in the plaintiff's case.

The Court: Well, of course, the question as formed is objectionable. Whether or not he can state his recollection now what the conversation was about an offer; I understand [fol. 4639] you to say that the question as asked about it was objected to and the objection to it was sustained.

Mr. Wright: My recollection is that neither questions asked I believe of Mr. Lauer or Mr. Wallace while they are on the stand with respect to negotiations on this Flannigan property—all they were permitted to do was state that they did have conversations with these gentlemen with respect to the property, and that my recollection is they were not permitted to state what the conversations, if any, were. (A pause.) Somebody has gone down to get the transcript so I can see what it is.

The Court: Yes. Isn't the question here, Mr. McClennen, of what the negotiations were or whether there were negotiations?

Mr. McClennen: I am leading up to the question why they did not accept this offer.

The Court: You were examining the record there. What did you find?

Mr. McClennen: I find nothing in my brief notes of Mr. Lauer to indicate that there was any exclusion of any con-[fol. 4640] versation or terms of offer. It is contained in pages 2556 to 2568.

The Court: Is that testimony to the effect that they did negotiate with Mr. Himes or the Jenkins' interest?

Mr. McClennen: The testimony is to the effect they negotiated relative to the rental of a store owned by Jenkins. That is at page 2557. Then there was identified plans of a proposed theatre and then a telegram of May 10, 1938 from Mr. Jenkins to Mr. Lauer and that was offered and excluded at that time; then there was a copy of the Canandaigua Daily Messenger of May 10, 1938, at page 2561, and that was excluded, and then there was an offer of the plans prepared by an architect and that was excluded. I find no indication——

The Court: There was proof that the plans had been drawn. That was excluded because there was proof that plans had been made.

Mr. McClennen: There was no exclusion of the terms of the offer or any inquiry.

The Court: Are you asking this witness for conversations where you are seeking to establish what the contents [fol. 4641] of that letter from Mr. Himes to Mr. Lauer is?

Mr. McClennen: No, I am seeking to show to the best of this witness' recollection what the terms were that he was dealing with.

The Court: That calls for conversation, what his talk was in the presence of Lauer.

Mr. McClennen: That is what I was just asking.

The Court: You are seeking to establish by parol what the letter June 16th to Mr. Lauer shows.

Mr. McClennen: No. I was asking to refresh his recollection from that letter, and to state what the conversations were.

The Court: He does not need to refresh his recollection at all. Ask him the question first.

Mr. Wright: I just wanted to call your Honor's attention to what I had reference to while Mr. Lauer was on the stand. He was asked by Mr. Kallis: "Q. After your discussion with Mr. Jenkins, Mr. Lauer, can you tell the Court whether a deal was definitely agreed upon?

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

[fol. 4642] Q. Do you have in your possession any figures which were the subject of discussion?

A. I have a memorandum which I have with me which was rather a—on which we discussed with Mr. Jenkins the arrangements for a lease of the property.

Mr. McClennen: Just a moment, that fully answers the question.

Mr. Kallis: All right.

Q. Did you and Mr. Wallace make a proposition to Mr. Jenkins?

A. We did.

Mr. McClennen: That is objected to.

Mr. Kallis: The question can be answered 'Yes' or 'No,' if the Court please, and doesn't do these defendants any harm, 'Yes' or 'No'.

Mr. McClennen: I quite agree that the answer will not do the defendants any harm, but I object to the question.

Mr. Kallis: It is a preliminary to something that follows, whether they made a proposition to Mr. Jenkins. I did not [fol. 4643] ask him what the terms of the proposition were.

The Court: I will let him state whether they made a proposition."

The Court: The question was objected to and my ruling was upon the ground that they were calling for conclusions of the witness.

Mr. Wright: My impression was that they were all your Honor was permitting him to do was simply to state whether or not a proposition was made without going into the terms of the offer.

The Court: I don't think you follow the conversations right through. My questions were from the standpoint, the ruling was upon the ground that it called for a conclusion, whether they made a deal. That was the point.

Mr. Wright: The final decision of your Honor was this statement: "I will let him state whether they made a proposition," and the answer was "We did." I assume that represented the limits to the extent your Honor wanted him to go and he couldn't state the conversation, all he could state was the ultimate fact whether or not they made a proposition. That is the way I interpreted it at the [fol. 4644] time.

The Court: I don't think you need to ask him.

Mr. Wright: As far as I can find out here, I don't see any testimony by Mr. Lauer as to conversations with this witness.

The Court: Even though there were not such conversations——

Mr. Wright: I assume the purpose in offering it is to reply to, or contradict something that the plaintiff established.

The Court: It relates to the whole subject matter and not some specific question.

Mr. Wright: So far it does not appear what, if any, connection he had with the Jenkins negotiations. I suppose that ought to be brought out in order to lay a proper foundation for what Mr. McClennen says he is going to do.

The Court: It does appear from this communication he did have some communication.

Mr. Wright: That he had some further negotiations with Mr. Lauer apparently occurring after the negotiations Mr. Lauer states he had with Jenkins.

The Court: I will let him state what was said by Jenkins [fol. 4645] with Lauer or Wallace, what was said about this subject about leasing this property.

Mr. McClennen: Before putting the question, if your Honor please, I referred to Mr. Wallace on cross-examination at page 3067, which I have briefly noted—I haven't the testimony here—that William Jenkins, the son, and Mrs. Himes, the daughter, he assumed to be the ones interested in the estate, Mr. Himes was a lawyer, such negotiations as he had were with the son and with Mr. Himes. That is at page 3067.

Mr. Wright: There hasn't been any testimony by this witness as to what negotiations he had with Mr. Wallace at all so far.

Mr. McClennen: No, there has been obvious reasons why there haven't been because you have been objecting to my showing.

[fol. 4646] Q. Let me preface it: Up to within the last few days have you had any occasion to think of this matter in six years?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, when did you have occasion to think of it?

A. Mr. Lauer—I don't mean Mr. Lauer. Mr. Wallace, the gentleman over there, Mr. Kallis, I think, stopped in my office perhaps two months ago or thereabout.

The Court: The question is with reference to some document or his own knowledge?

Mr. McClennen: In putting the question, your Honor,——

The Court: Let us find out whether he did have a conversation. We do not know whether he needs to refresh his recollection by contact with somebody or from the documents.

Q. Will you tell us, as nearly as you can recall it, the conversations you had with Mr. Wallace and Mr. Lauer on this subject of a possible leasing of the Jenkins Block?

Mr. Wright: Can we have the date fixed here?

The Court: About when? State about when.

Q. First, what is the best you can do to fix the date?

A. That would be awfully hard. I remember seeing Mr. Lauer once. It seems to me it was the afternoon, as I said—the late afternoon or evening at the house. I don't think Mr. Wallace was there. I think Mr. Lauer was over more [fol. 4647] than once. Yes, he was over more than twice, I would say, from this memorandum that I have. I have no recollection of how many times, other than that, or without that. And I know that Mr. Lauer and Mr. Wallace were there at the time this last proposition, as I call it, was discussed. It is around—I would have to guess—in May or June, 1938, this last proposition.

The Court: You can fix the year, at least, by the telegram?

The Witness: That is right.

The Court: About May or June.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Just when do you bear in mind that you moved your office to Canandaigua?

A. Around April, 1938.

Q. Then you would be certain that it was after that that you had this talk, would you not?

A. I couldn't say that, sir. Mr. Jenkins and Mr. Lauer and Mr. Wallace, so they stated, had been negotiating, and I knew that this matter was being discussed. Whether I saw Mr. Wallace or Mr. Lauer before I moved to Canandaigua I can't now remember. We went back frequently week-ends.

Q. Mr. Wallace has spoken of a conference at the house in Canandaigua. Was Mrs. Himes living in Canandaigua [fol. 4648] before you moved your office from Buffalo to Canandaigua?

A. No, we went to Canandiagua at the same time. I think it was April, the last part of April.

Q. With that as the best fixing of dates that you can give us, relate the conversations that you had with Mr. Lauer and Mr. Wallace, as best you can, and, so far as they related to terms proposed, what those terms were.

Mr. Wright: That is objected to, if the Court please.

The Court: I will let him answer. Go ahead.

A. Well, I couldn't tell you the terms until I looked at this memorandum I made.

The Court: You can use the memorandum to refresh your recollection.

A. I know they wanted to rent the Jenkins Block. My recollection is that they proposed to make some changes in the block itself. They made a proposition to pay so much a year on a graduate scale, and then this memorandum that I have, in my own handwriting, says "Wallace and Lauer's last offer," rent for the first three years was to be $3,000, for the next three years it was to be $3,500 a year, and during the first five years of that there was to be paid in addition seven per cent of the gross; the next four years the rent was $4,000 a year and they wanted a privilege of renewal for ten years at $4,500 a year. That is the best [fol. 4649] I can trace it.

Q. Now, do you remember whether anything was said in conversation, ignoring for the moment what may have been said in the letters, was anything said in conversation, by you or Mrs. Himes or Mr. Jenkins, her brother, in your presence, with respect to that offer?

A. I would say that Mr. Lauer and Mr. Wallace were not present when Mr. Jenkins and my wife discussed this offer that I have just given you. They left it and they went on their way and the family talked it over after they had gone.

Q. Then, before you sent this telegram of June 15, 1938, "Our final answer is no", Exhibit D-174, there had been some conversation between you and Mrs. Himes and Mr. Jenkins with respect to this matter of whether you should or should not accept the offer?

A. That is right, yes, sir.

Q. In that conversation was anything said about the prospect of a new Schine theatre being built in town?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, the conversations are objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. What were the considerations which led you to conclude not to accept the offer?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, that is objected to also.

[fol. 4650] The Court: Same ruling. It calls for his conclusion.

Mr. McClennen: I offer to show, if your Honor please, if the witness were permitted to answer that he would testify that the rejection had nothing to do with any knowledge——

The Court: I will let you show if he had any knowledge of the activities on the part of Mr. Schine in Canandaigua.

Q. Did you have any knowledge of any activities on the part of Mr. Schine?

A. You mean at the time of this offer?

Q. At the time of this rejection of this offer.

A. Will you read that question again?

(Question read.)

A. I don't know how to answer that, sir.

The Court: It is very broad.

A. Yes, I realize what you probably mean.

Q. Did you have any knowledge at that time of a prospect of Mr. Schine's building or opening a new theatre in Canandaigua on the Flanigan lot?

A. I do not now recall, sir.

Q. Were any such activities, if there were any such, the cause of your rejecting the offer?

Mr. Wright: That is objected to, if the Court please.

The Court: Same ruling again. This letter is on that [fol. 4651] subject. You can call Mr. Lauer and find out if he received that letter.

Mr McClennen: This does not ask about the letter, if your Honor please.

The Court: I assume that letter has some reference to the reason why the offer was rejected.

Mr. McClennen: The rejection was by this telegram which is in evidence.

The Court: The reason for it.

Mr. McClennen: I am asking the witness that.

The Court: What I said was this: It seems to me it is hearsay for him to state the conversation between themselves about the reason why it was rejected. As I said before, this letter written to Mr. Lauer, dated June 16, shows the reason for the rejection. You can call Mr. Lauer and see if he received this letter.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, we, of course, are not trying the question of any conflicts between Mr. Lauer and this witness. What we are seeking to show is that this witness, in rejecting the offer, was actuated by considerations other than any prospect of a Schine theatre on the [fol. 4652] Flanigan lot in Canandaigua.

Mr. Wright: There is not any showing yet, your Honor, that this witness had any interest in that property other than the fact that his wife was a part owner. He is not the one whose testimony would be conclusive as to the issue of why the offer was rejected in any event. There is nothing to show that he had any other connection with it than the fact that he sat in on some of the negotiations and that his wife was a half-owner. That is the way the record stands now.

The Court: As I say, it is hearsay testimony. I will let him state whether he had any knowledge that the Schine interests were negotiating for the Flanigan property at that time. That is a little different from the question as put by you. I think the witness has an interest——

Mr. McClennen: Will you read his Honor's suggested question and will you treat this as my question, Mr. Himes?

The Court: At the time you sent this telegram of rejection did you have any knowledge that the Schine interests [fol. 4653] were negotiating for the Flanigan property?

The Witness: Will you read that once more, please?

(Question read.)

The Witness: If the Court please, I wouldn't—living in Canandaigua, if this agitation was on the street I probably had some knowledge about it, some information.

The Court: In other words, you can't say?

The Witness: No, that wasn't my reason for what happened.

Mr. Wright: On the record as it stands, what his reason was is completely immaterial anyway. It was not his property.

The Court: Strike out that question and answer.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. I will put the specific question: What was the reason for your sending this telegram of June 15, 1938, rejecting the offer?

Mr. Wright: That is objected to. It calls for a conclusion as to what a lot of people other than himself might have said or thought.

The Court: It seems fairly obvious from the testimony so far that in the telegram he is referring to the reasons as stated in the letter of June 16, to which the telegram [fol. 4654] referred. It says "Offer rejected, see my letter of such date". I think the better way is to prove that in writing.

Q. Observing your letter of June 16, 1938, and refreshing your recollection from it, will you state what your reason was for rejecting that offer?

Mr. Wright: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. McClennen: I offer to show that the witness, if permitted to answer, would answer that it was because of the belief that it was not a desirable offer to accept and not because of any idea of the prospect of a new Schine theatre coming into town.

Mr. Wright: I submit if he gave that answer it would not be responsive to the question. The question that was asked him is what the reason was. He was not asked what was not the reason.

The Court: The question is what bearing has the motive of the proposed seller, so far as the sale is concerned? What materiality has that?

Mr. McClennen: I submit, if your Honor please, that wholly apart from any question of a new Schine theatre [fol. 4655] being projected for Canandaigua, this offer was rejected. Then it shows that there was no consequent effect from the proposal of a theatre there, if there was such a proposal made.

The Court: The answer to that is simply this, that there is nothing in the case to show that any activities of Schine in that direction were brought to their attention.

Mr. McClennen: That being so, it is very likely that the inference carries it far enough without my showing the actual facts, but I don't want to stop at that when the witness, who knows why he sent that telegram declining that offer is on the stand and could state what influenced him to send that, and that is the reason I offer it.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, even on Counsel's statement, it could only go to the question of possible damages. This is not a damage suit. Even if Mr. Schine did not succeed in breaking off this deal, as the result of this false publicity about the activity on the Flanigan property, [fol. 4656] that whould in no way relieve the defendants of liability, the fact that the scheme was unnecessary or that the deal fell through that Wallace was trying to make, for some other reason. It could not possibly relieve the defendants from the consequences of that kind of act in any event.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, we are trying a case here in which it is contended that the activity of Schine had some effect upon interstate commerce at Canandaigua, and we are offering to show that it had no effect whatever, and we offer it on that ground.

The Court: The other objection as pointed out by the Counsel is that this witness has no interest in the matter and the question of what actuated him is not material. If it was competent at all it would be what actuated the owners of the property in rejecting the sale. So that it is incompetent for that reason as well.

Mr. McClennen: He was acting, if your Honor please, as husband and attorney in this transaction.

[fol. 4657] Mr. Wright: That has not yet appeared.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Were you in these communications that have been put in acting as attorney in this matter?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in sending the telegram were you carrying out the decision which had been reached by the owners?

Mr. Wright: That calls for a conclusion and is objected to.

The Court: It seems to me it is immaterial. It already appears he was attorney, and he sent the telegram of rejection of the offer.

Mr. Wright: There is no question that he is an attorney. It does not appear yet who he was attorney for in this particular transaction.

The Court: He would have to be either attorney for the wife or the brother-in-law.

Mr. Wright: One or the other. And it does not appear which, if either.

The Court: Go ahead. You were acting as attorney for whom then?

The Witness: Well, for the Estate, your Honor.

The Court: The owners of the estate were who?

The Witness: Mr. Jenkins and my wife.

The Court: I will let him state whether this telegram [fol. 4658] was sent pursuant to instructions from its clients.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Is that the fact?

A. That is right. We discussed the matter and that was our answer.

Q. In that discussion was there stated the reasons why that offer should not be accepted?

Mr. Wright: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. McClennen: I offer to show that if permitted to answer the witness would answer yes.

Q. Was that offer rejected because of any knowledge that the Schine organization was projecting a new theatre in Canandaigua?

Mr. Wright: That is objected to.

The Court: Whose knowledge, the witness's knowledge or the client's knowledge?

Mr. McClennen: This witness.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. McClennen: I offer to show if the witness were permitted to answer he would answer no.

Q. I ask you what your belief was as to whether or not the offer was sufficient to warrant you in liquidating the Jenkins' Store, Inc., and making all the necessary [fol. 4659] changes?

Mr. Wright: It is perfectly obvious he did not want the offer or he would not have rejected it.

The Court: It is apparent that there was some reason.

Mr. McClennen: And all that I am concerned with is in showing that that reason was not any Schine project.

The Court: Of course if you say their sole concern was the financial effect upon the Estate that, of course, answers the questions that have heretofore been asked and objected to. I do not see that your question as you put it has any materiality in the form in which it was put, in the language in which it was put.

Mr. McClennen: Will you read the question?

(Question read.)

The Court: That is as I understood it before. Objection sustained.

Q. What was the Jenkins Store, Inc.?

A. The Jenkins Stores, Inc., was a corporation which I had incorporated to conduct a clothing business in this Jenkins Block in Canandaigua. There was a men's store in the south part and an archway through into a larger store [fol. 4660] which was a ladies' store, and the stock in that, if I correctly recall, 98 per cent of it was owned by Mr. Jenkins, Sr., and J. W. Jenkins, Jr., had one share and I think at one time I had one share.

Q. Was it or was it not your opinion that the offer under consideration when you rejected it by your telegram of June 15, 1938, was not sufficient to warrant the liquidation of that business and the making of all the necessary changes?

A. Will you read that, please?

(Question read.)

Mr. Wright: The same objection. It seems to me we have gone over this several times.

The Court: I think so, in another form. Objection sustained.

Mr. McClennen: I offer to show that if this witness were permitted to answer he would say that that was his opinion, and to make perfectly sure, if your Honor please, that I have put this matter in proper form, I ask you whether or not as attorney, in sending this telegram of June 15, 1938, Exhibit D-174, you were actuated in any way by any expectation or belief or apprehension that the Schine organization was proposing to put a new theatre on the Flanigan property in Canandaigua?

[fol. 4661] Mr. Wright: The same objection.

The Court: Objection sustained. He was sending this telegram, according to his instructions, as to whether this contract should be accepted or whether it should not. How he was actuated in sending the telegram is not material in any way that I can see.

[fol. 4662] Mr. McClennen: I offer to show that the witness, if permitted to answer, would say that he was not actuated by any such considerations.

Cross-examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Mr. Himes, do you do any legal work for any of the Schine companies?

A. No, sir.

Q. You had no retainers from any of them?

A. No, sir.

Q. When was it Mr. Jenkins, Sr., died?

A. I can't give you the exact date. It is probably 12, 15 years ago.

Q. And his heirs were your wife and Mr. J. W. Jenkins, Jr.?

A. That is right, and his wife, of course. Mrs. Jenkins survived him.

Q. And Mrs. Jenkins, Sr.?

A. That is right.

Q. Then there was an executor for the estate, was there?

A. Yes, J. W. Jenkins, Jr., and my wife were the executors.

Q. They were the executors?

A. That is right.

Q. You don't recall, you say, when it was the first offer that was made by Wallace or Lauer for the property?

[fol. 4663] A. I don't recall when the first offer was made?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I don't recall.

Q. You knew there were some negotiations with Mr. Jenkins, Jr., before you got into the picture?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And do you remember when it was that you first found out about this telegram here that has been marked for identification as Exhibit 805?

A. I saw that today for the first time.

Q. As a matter of fact the time that went out weren't you told about that by Mr. Jenkins, Jr.?

A. I couldn't say as to that, sir. Mr. Jenkins, Jr., was then up at the Armstrong Chemical Company. He moved out of the store, and I have no recollection about that, sir.

Q. Just think. Would you say that he didn't tell you at that time that he sent that telegram?

A. Oh, no, I wouldn't say he didn't tell me about that. I wouldn't say that.

Q. You just don't recall.

A. No, I don't recall.

Q. You don't recall what, if any, negotiations there were prior to the time that telegram was sent?

A. Oh, yes, there were negotiations, sir.

[fol. 4664] Q. I say, you don't recall what they were, is that right?

A. No. As to figures you mean, dollars and cents on the lease?

Q. What the negotiations were; as I understand it, prior to that time they were with Mr. Jenkins, is that right?

A. That is right. I must have been in Canandaigua when that telegram was sent, according to the date of it. I was living in Canandaigua at that time. I have no recollection whether or not Mr. Jenkins talked with me about it or not.

Mr. Wright: We will offer this Exhibit 805 in evidence. It has been identified before as having been received by Lauer.

The Court: What does it say?

(Mr. Wright hands Exhibit 805 to the Court.)

The Court: Have you got copies?

Mr. Wright: He has had it.

Mr. McClennen: I object to the receipt of this, if your Honor please, at this time.

The Court: By whom was it identified?

Mr. Wright: That was identified by Mr. Lauer as having been received by him.

The Court: Overruled.

(Thereupon telegram dated May 10, 1938, Lauer to Jenkins, Jr., referred to was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 805 in evidence.)

[fol. 4665] Mr. Wright: That is all.

Redirect examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Can you tell us whether this last offer so noted on your memorandum, Defendants' Exhibit D-179 for identification was after this date of May 10, 1938, appearing on Plaintiff's Exhibit 805?

Mr. Wright: He has already said he did not know.

The Court: Just a minute. You can by reference to the date?

The Witness: I didn't know Mr. Jenkins sent this telegram. That is what I understood your question to be. My recollection the last offer here was after the telegram of May 10th, Exhibit 805 in evidence, and before my telegram to Mr. Lauer on June 15th.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

The Court: Next witness.

Mr. McClennen: May we photostat these papers of Mr. Himes' and substitute the photostats?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: If you will leave them, Mr. Himes, we will send them back to you.

The Witness: I want a memorandum of what you have got.

[fol. 4666] Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit D-154 for identification, the Telegraph Forum of Bucyrus, Ohio, of September 6th, 1935, announcing that "Page Miss Glory" would play at the State Theatre in Bucyrus, Ohio, beginning Sunday, which would be September 8th, 1935, to which there is now attached a certificate by a bookkeeper of the Bucyrus Telegraph that this advertisement appears in the issue of that date.

Mr. Wright: We have no objection, except I think it appears from other and better evidence that the picture played.

The Court: Received.

Mr. Wright: It is purely cumulative.

The Court: What exhibit is that?

Mr. McClennen: This is Defendants' Exhibit D-154.

(Thereupon photostate of ths Telegraph Forum, dated September 6, 1935, previously marked as Defendants' Exhibit D-154 for identification, was received in evidence.)

Mr. McClennen: That concludes the evidence for the defense.

Mr. Wright: If we may have about five minutes, I think we could have a rebuttal witness.

[fol. 4667] The Court: All right, short recess.

(Short recess.)

Mr. Wright: Will you mark these for identification, please?

(Thereupon records starting the week January 3, 1938, through to December 27, 1938, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1001 for identification, and a tabulation of the records contained in the previous exhibit 1001, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1002 for identification.)

Cecelia H. Kulakowski a witness called by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, testified in rebuttal as follows:

Direct examination.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Where do you live, Mrs. Kulakowski?

A. Auburn, New York.

Q. And what is your occupation?

A. Secretary and house manager for the Capitol Theatre.

Q. The Capitol Theatre in Auburn?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you held that position?

[fol. 4668] A. For ten years.

Q. And in performing your duties in that job, have you had occasion to keep a record of the feature pictures that played at the Capitol?

A. I have.

Q. And I will hand you these cards that are held together by string all marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1001 for identification, and ask you if those are records kept by you?

A. They are.

Q. And those are the records of the features and shorts that played the Capitol during what period?

A. From the week beginning January 3, 1938 through the week of December 27th, 1938.

Q. Have you from those records that you hold there prepared a tabulation of the feature pictures that played the Capitol during that period?

A. I have.

Q. And is that this tabulation that has been marked as Plaintiff's No. 1002 for identification?

A. Yes, this is it.

Q. And you know this to be an accurate tabulation of the data that appears in the record, Exhibit 1001?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright: I will offer the tabulation in evidence, [fol. 4669] Exhibit 1002.

Mr. McClennen: We object to this going in evidence rather than the original, but if we may take it and the cards overnight we can check them and see if it may be the exhibit.

The Court: Yes.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Did you examine these records in order to determine whether there was any consecutive seven-day period in which more than four features played at the Capitol?

A. I have examined it and we never played more than the four.

Q. There was no seven-day period in which you played more than four features?

A. Never.

Mr. Wright: That is all.

Mr. McClennen: That is all.

Mr. Wright: Of course, we don't like to hold the witness overnight for examination. Could you let us know today?

Mr. McClennen: I think in the course of a very short time after court adjourns, we can make the check and notify you whether there is any occasion to ask any questions. If we find any variations or additions, we can probably agree.

[fol. 4670] The Court: The original records would show the whole thing.

Mr. Wright: He has the original record.

The Court: That is not in evidence?

Mr. Wright: No, that is right. For convenience I offered the tabulation, because the original records include shorts as well as features.

The Court: The other is marked for identification?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: We will try to let you know as early this evening as we can.

The Court: No, can't you check that in a few minutes? Can't you check that right away? Have you any other evidence this afternoon, Mr. Wright?

Mr. Wright: No, we have no other witnesses. There is one more question. It appears on the face of the tabulation there are 205 features.

The Court: The total?

Mr. Wright: Yes, the total.

The Court: You can check those now in a few minutes?

Mr. McClennen: I don't know how many minutes it will take. We can go right at it.

The Court: We have an hour yet, if that is all there [fol. 4671] is to be done this afternoon.

Mr. McClennen: Would your Honor recess then, and we will go ahead with the checking?

The Court: Yes. Do you have other witnesses in the morning?

Mr. Wright: It is questionable whether we will have any other witnesses or not. We may have no more witnesses. We probably will have some documents that we will offer, and that I think will finish up the rebuttal.

The Court: We will stand in recess.

(Short recess.)

[fol. 4672] Mr. McClennen: If the Court please, I wish to urge the objection to the introduction of Exhibit 1001 for identification, which has not been offered, because the schedule, Exhibit 1002 for identification, was proposed as an exhibit, and the grounds for our objection are these: That the exhibit is confined to the year 1938, whereas the testimony, which it would seem that it was offered to rebut, was for the years 1938 and 1939, beginning at page 4243 and going on to 4244, and it subsequently developing that Mr. Schine was speaking by report of what had been told him by his booking department. Your Honor, at page 4253, 4255 and covering all at page 4261, struck out all that testimony, so that there is none to rebut. We make these objections therefore to the admission of Exhibit for identification 1002 because no basis exists for its admission.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, what Counsel says is correct as to the prior statements about 1938 and 1939 of [fol. 4673] Schine having been based upon the information gotten from the booking department, but in making your ruling your Honor limited it to striking only that information which he got from the booking department and letting the other stand. Here was the ruling at page 4253:

"I think the statements of the information from the booking department is hearsay. I believe it is hearsay, aside from what he has personally observed. I think the balance of his testimony relative to information contained in the booking department is hearsay."

Then on page 4255 the Court states: "Well, of course, I don't think it should all be stricken out. I limit the portion which should be stricken out, both as to the direct and the cross-examination, the statements of the witness as to the number and type of showing of pictures for specific times at the other opposition theatre."

Then Mr. McClennen says: "Well, does your Honor include in that the testimony of the witness when he was at [fol. 4674] Auburn?

The Court: No, no, that is just the point. I don't include that. I leave that in. I made it specific. Well, as to that, in so far as it is shown to refer to information obtained from his booking department."

Then later on the witness made these statements, and this is what compelled us to bring in the rebuttal. At page 4260 there is a question by me:

"Let us see what you know about the policy at the Capitol. The information you got yourself you say you visited Auburn?

A. I visited Auburn.

Q. What were these occasions when you visited Auburn"——

The Court: Whose testimony are you reading from now?

Mr. Wright: This is Mr. Schine.

"Q. What were these occasions when you visited Auburn and you noticed the policy of the Capitol?

A. That was just when I happened to visit the theatres.

Q. Well, when?

[fol. 4675] "A. During the summer of '38 or the fall. I visited several times.

Q. Do you know when?

A. I couldn't give you the date, no.

Q. You don't know the times at all that your observation of the policy at the Capitol relates to, is that right?

A. I visit the Auburn several times a year but I can't give you the exact date as to when."

~~On the basis of~~ that statement I thought it was clearly incumbent on us to show that he was not mistaken in testifying from personal knowledge based on visits to Auburn during that period.

The Court: Specifically what did he state on personal knowledge?

Mr. Wright: He had previously stated that the Capitol at Auburn used six to—at one point he said about eight features a week and later he said six to eight and had used up all the product and that was why they had no pictures for the Jefferson. As I say, it went out as to what came from the booking department. After that ruling was made he [fol. 4676] reaffirmed that he had personal knowledge on these visits to Auburn in 1938. That is why I felt it incumbent to bring these records as to what actually played there in 1938.

[fol. 4677] Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, in reading that testimony Mr. Wright stopped at the foot of page 4260, and the very next question:

"Q. You can't give us the times or what you saw on any particular occasion with reference to the Capitol, is that right?

A. Well, I couldn't give you an accurate, detailed statement."

"Mr. Wright: I renew my motion, your Honor.

"The Court: I rule, as I have indicated before, that I refuse to strike out the testimony with reference to his own personal knowledge to which he has testified as to the Capitol Theatre. The testimony is that he has some personal knowledge of what was done, but other than as to the specific number of pictures that may be stricken out as hearsay." And that concludes the matter.

The Court: As to the specific number of pictures, were there two answers there preceding that?

Mr. Wright: In his preceding testimony he has stated flatly and definitely that the Capitol Theatre used either [fol. 4678] six or eight pictures a week during the year 1938, as was stated from what information was obtained from the booking department, and then it appeared he insisted he knew some of it personally because he visited there, and that was the result of your Honor's ultimate ruling, which let stand——

The Court: Aside from the exhibits the witness testified they never used six or eight pictures in any one week.

Mr. Wright: Her testimony was with reference to this period. The testimony that she gave is a summary of this record. Of course, that fact appears in this record, Exhibit 1002, as to that period. If her testimony is regarded as competent without these supporting records——.

The Court: She testified to that directly.

Mr. Wright: Then there is no need for these.

The Court: She has been with the Capitol there during that time. She testified directly on the fact on the number of pictures.

Read her testimony.

(Thereupon the reporter read from the direct-examina- [fol. 4679] tion of the Witness Kulakowski, starting on page 4668, line 11 to page 4669, line 16.)

The Court: It is within her personal knowledge.

Mr. Wright: The testimony was based on the tabulation.

The Court: Ask her if she personally knew if that was so, that they never played more than four. I think it should be received, Mr. McClennen. It is admitted that is a copy of the records, of course, it is the secretary's evidence, the document or book itself is the best evidence, but, on the other ground, the objection would not be sustained.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, so far as any personal knowledge as to the exemplified thing, here is exactly the way the testimony reads—in the first place, both the year 1938 and '39 were inquired of Mr. Schine, and this is only 1938.

The Court: All right.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I am endeavoring to lay before you the significance of your ruling. Now, when we get to page 4259, the question is as to the Jefferson [fol. 4680] Theatre, his own, and then it reads down with reference to that:

"Q. Well, you don't know whether there was a time when you played five or six or seven features at the Jefferson?

A. We never played seven features.

Q. You might have played five or six?

A. I wouldn't want to testify to that.

Q. You don't know?

A. But I am testifying to the best of my knowledge and I believe it is quite accurate.

Q. It isn't as accurate as your booking records, is it?

A. Not absolutely, no.

Q. They would be the best evidence of what policy you pursued in each theatre with respect to the number of features and the time during which it was, is that right?

A. That would be accurate so there is no error on a single feature.

Q. Let us see what you know about the policy at the Capitol. The information you got yourself you say you [fol. 4681] visited Auburn?

A. I visited Auburn.

Q. What were these occasions when you visited Auburn and you noticed the policy of the Capitol?

A. That was just when I happened to visit the theatres.

Q. Well, when?

A. During the summer of '38 or the fall. I visited several times.

Q. Do you know when?

A. I couldn't give you the date, no.

Q. You don't know the times at all that your observation of the policy at the Capitol relates to; is that right?

A. I visit the Auburn several times a year but I can't give you the exact date as to when.

Q. You can't give us the times or what you saw on any particular occasion with reference to the Capitol, is that right?

A. Well, I couldn't give you an accurate, detailed statement.

Mr. Wright: I renew my motion, your Honor.

The Court: I rule, as I have indicated before, that I re- [fol. 4682] fuse to strike out the testimony with reference to his own personal knowledge, to which he has testified, as to the Capitol Theatre. The testimony is that he has some personal knowledge of what was done, but other than as to the specific number of pictures that may be stricken out as hearsay."

The Court: "Other than as to the specific number of pictures".

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, there is in the full, fair and accurate interpretation of your Honor's ruling, there does not remain in this testimony any such period of time as is presented in this exhibit.

The Court: Go back to the testimony as to the time and see what he testified to it. Read that portion of it.

Mr. McClennen: He testified, there is no question, to the time of 1943 and 1944 judged by what he had got from his booking department, and he never testified to having seen any week in which there were three changes.

The Court: I want to see what he said, not what your [fol. 4683] statement of it is.

Mr. McClennen: Then, if your Honor will permit me, I [fol. 4684] will read it consecutively. That is the first time that I see any reference to his own visits. It is clearly shown to be on the information obtained from the booking records.

Mr. Wright: I beg your pardon. Some of it refers to what he said he saw in the newspapers. Page 4243 is where it originated.

Mr. McClennen: Page 4243 is where the subject opened with this answer:

"A. The Auburn opened in '38 and we found that playing in the Palace six pictures, in the new theatre three, and the Capitol absorbing about eight a week, took up all the pictures', do you remember saying that?"

(Mr. McClennen continues reading to and including line 14, page 4258)

The Court: Is this material to the objection, this part of the testimony?

Mr. McClennen: Yes, your Honor, your ruling comes after that.

(Mr. McClennen continues reading down to line 3, page 4261.)

[fol. 4685] Now, that ended the testimony of the witness, the end of the cross-examination.

The Court: Let me say this. I have your view about the matter. The ruling I think is clear. He did testify distinctly and definitely of times when he visited Auburn, he knew the Capitol Theatre was playing six pictures. That was definite, at a certain time. He did not testify generally to the number of pictures. That was stricken out as hearsay on the ground it was with reference to bookkeeping, but he did testify specifically as appears from what you have read there were times when he did visit Auburn and frequently, and saw and knew that the Capitol was showing six pictures, and the ruling is clear. From the ruling the differences were defined, as brought out. What was stricken out was what he referred to as his knowledge from the bookkeeping. That, perhaps, is not very definite altogether, but then the question of the rebutting testimony could not have the same [fol. 4686] effect as though there were perhaps a more specific answer.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, there is not an item on this schedule that is offered with slight exceptions that I refer to that conform to the record, there is not an item on there that indicates that at any of the times that Mr. Schine, himself, saw that theatre there was anything more than what he said, because his testimony is over a period of time. These visits and this schedule is confined to this year, and the records of the Capitol Theatre, itself, will show that in the periods following there were changes that would warrant this statement of a minimum of six changes a week, and this exhibit ought not to go in picked out from the whole period.

The Court: Well, let us see what period it was that was testified to by Mr. Schine.

Mr. Wright: As I read his testimony the only dates that he fixed for us on which he made visits to Auburn and observed the policy of the Capitol, was the year 1938.

The Court: Where does it say that?

Mr. Wright: At page 4260.

[fol. 4687] The Court: What does it say?

Mr. Wright: The question was, first:

"Q. What were these occasions when you visited Auburn and you noticed the policy of the Capitol?

A. That was just when I happened to visit the theatres.

Q. Well, when?

A. During the summer of '38 or the fall. I visited several times."

Then I asked and tried to fix it further in the year:

"Q. Do you know when?

A. I couldn't give you the date, no.

Q. You don't know the times at all that your observation of the policy at the Capitol relates to, is that right?"

The Court: You mean the specific time?

Mr. Wright: Yes. Then he said:

"A. I visited the Auburn several times a year but I can't give you the exact date as to when."

Then I said:

"Q. You can't give us the times or what you saw on any [fol. 4688] particular occasion with reference to the Capitol, is that right?

A. Well, I couldn't give you an accurate detailed statement."

I understand that all the testimony in the record that is left as to his personal observation relates to this year 1938. Now, if there is any contention that he has any testimony left in the record as to what the policy of the Capitol was, the number of pictures the Capitol used, we will bring in the record for the year after that and before, or any time he made a statement about it, because his statement was false as to any year.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, it is perfectly obvious from the testimony as a whole that he was talking about a period after the Auburn opened and the Auburn didn't open until September of 1938.

The Court: Well, one question is specifically directed as to the year 1938. It says so.

Mr. McClennen: Here there is presented this list of the playings in the period from January to September, 1938, [fol. 4689] and nothing presented as to the period immediately following that in 1939.

Mr. Wright: I beg your pardon. This is January——

The Court: Beyond September.

Mr. Wright: —this is January '38. The last play date is January 2, 1939. It covers the entire one-year period.

Mr. McClennen: That is what I said.

Mr. Wright: You said September.

Mr. McClennen: I didn't say that was the whole of [illegible] I was pointing out to your Honor that they were offer[illegible] these plays for a period to which Mr. Schine's testimony on personal visits there did not relate, because the Auburn Theatre did not open until September, 1938.

The Court: Excepting one remark in that statement, September, 1938, and there are three months left in '38, aren't there?

Mr. McClennen: Your Honor, I was speaking in an endeavor to give a fair and accurate picture if it was going to be a presentation of what the record showed, and calling to your attention that there is nothing in here of the period immediately following this. That is in January, [fol. 4690] 1939, and we believe those records show that there were six pictures a week played in 1939.

The Court: Counsel said he is willing to admit it.

Mr. Wright: I want to know now whether there is any claim that there is competent evidence by Mr. Schine as to the fact that the Capitol was playing six to eight pictures a week in any year other than '38. If there is, I will bring in the records for that year. As I read the testimony the only year he fixed when he visited the Capitol and observed the policy of the Capitol was 1938. Counsel said he testified to another year, and if he will name the year or years, we will bring in competent records for each of those years.

Mr. McClennen: I submit that in what I have read is just that testimony, and I submit that by your Honor's ruling it is not in the record.

The Court: It is clear that he testified to something with reference to 1938. What was left in that record, as I read it, is the statement that on certain occasions, when he was there, he knew certain things being done at the Capitol, [fol. 4691] or what they were showing at the Capitol. That was what was left and that is what the Court intended to leave in the testimony.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, on a normal interpretation of that testimony, I submit that there is nothing to indicate that he was in Auburn for any whole week in any period, or could have any personal knowledge of that playing that is referred to, and he had given his testimony of the information given him by his booking department, and that that is the only testimony that is in as to numbers played.

The Court: If that is the construction that takes all of it into consideration in connection with this exhibit proposed here. It may be considered, I think, in connection with the consideration of the whole testimony. In the aggregate it might have some force. As I stated repeatedly the record now stands that at some time he personally knew what was being done. Now that stands out, it seems to me, as a clear statement. Whether it was intended by him [fol. 4692] to mean knowledge from the bookings, or not, does not show.

Mr. McClennen: I respectfully urge your Honor that the testimony as it has been read as a whole contains no statement of him that in any week did he personally observe the playing of six pictures in that theatre, and that the real substance of it was drawn from the booking department.

The Court: Mr. Schine can be recalled, and testify again.

Mr. McClennen: I am speaking, if your Honor please, about the admissibility of this record.

The Court: Of course, the copy is not admissible, if there is an objection to that, but a copy of the original records I think it is competent here to take in connection with the testimony of Schine.

Mr. McClennen: As to the checking we have checked the record and, with a few exception-, the schedule in this exhibit fairly sets out the record as the whole record would show and in summary form, and the exceptions which I make are as I have stated them, and not to the use of a table [fol. 4693] instead of the original record. If this is to go in I want to ask the witness some questions.

The Court: All right. Step forward.

CECELIA H. KULAKOWSKI resumed as a witness by and on behalf of the Plaintiff, having been previously sworn, testified further in rebuttal, as follows:

Cross-examination.

By Mr. McClennen:

Q. Did you investigate the records to see what was being played at the Capitol Theatre immediately before the year 1938 and immediately after the year 1938?

A. No.

Q. You made this schedule on some direction as to what you should investigate, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were told to make up a schedule from the record of 1938?

A. Because 1938——

Q. Not "because" but that is what you were told, was it?

A. That is the year that was in question.

Mr. McClennen: I will ask to have that stricken out.

[fol. 4694] Q. You were told, were you, to make up this schedule for 1938?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you did not look before or after that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember that in parts of the year 1939, the Capitol was playing three changes a week?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, this is not cross-examination. If he wants to go into this, into other periods, I suppose we would then have the question of other records.

The Court: When we reach the question we will pass upon it.

Mr. Wright: I say I object to the question now. I want to point out it is not cross-examination. I object to it on that ground. I assume he makes the witness his for that purpose.

The Court: I will receive it. There might be some question as to the time Mr. Schine was testifying concerning.

Mr. Wright: I don't see how she can settle the question of what period Mr. Schine was testifying about.

The Court: No, I mean his question, the question asked [fol. 4695] by the counsel is covering more than the period, the year 1938.

Mr. Wright: I asked him to state a year, and his response was there was no testimony in the record that Mr. Schine gave testimony of personal knowledge as to any year.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. McClennen: Will you read the question?

(Last question read.)

The Witness: I do not remember.

Q. You don't remember anything about that? Were your duties such that you were at the theatre?

A. I was all over the theatre. Mr. Wallace was there.

Q. You were what?

A. I was in and out of the theatre.

The Court: You were there every day?

The Witness: I was there every day.

The Court: So you would know what was showing?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. McClennen:

Q. You mean that you don't know whether the Capitol played three changes a week in 1939?

A. I can't recall offhand.

Q. You can't recall?

A. No, sir.

[fol. 4696] Q. Your records, of course, would show that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And does your recollection go so far as to enable you to say that at some times the Capitol played three changes a week?

A. I cannot answer that.

Q. You mean——

A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't ever remember when the Capitol played three changes a week?

A. Unless I look back into the records.

Q. What part of the bookkeeping do you do?

A. I do the regular bookkeeping work, enter the transactions as the confirmations come in. Mr. Wallace does the dating.

[fol. 4697] Q. Do you enter on your books of account the film rentals to be paid?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the number of pictures played per week in those film rental accounts?

A. Will you repeat that, please?

Q. And the number of pictures played per week in those film rental accounts?

A. From each company, from the company that we played during that week.

Q. And do you say that you never remember a single week in which the Capitol played three changes a week?

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, it is wholly immaterial what this witness remembers. She has records. The records can be produced for any year that the Counsel is interested in.

The Court: She has already answered that question. She says she has no record of any time that the features were played a week.

Mr. McClennen: I am not asking for the record now. I am asking if this witness, from her connection with the theatre, can answer that.

The Court: She has answered that question specifically. She said she did not remember.

[fol. 4698] By Mr. McClennen:

Q. That you don't remember of any week in which three changes were played in a week?

A. I do not remember off-hand.

Q. How quickly could you ascertain from your records about that?

A. I would have to go back to Auburn this evening.

Q. That is, you couldn't get the record here, by telephone or in some such way?

A. No, sir.

Q. Well, would you make that investigation and let us have the results tomorrow morning?

A. That is impossible to get it tomorrow morning because I have to go back to Auburn and I won't get in there until early in the morning.

Mr. McClennen: I will ask if your Honor will allow me to suspend the cross-examination of this witness——

The Court: I want to get through with this evidence today.

Mr. Wright: I will repeat what I said before, that if there is any claim that there is now testimony in this record by Mr. Schine that he observed six or eight pictures a week being played at the Capitol Theatre during any other year than 1938 we shall see that the records for that year [fol. 4699] are produced.

Mr. McClennen: We do not claim that there is any such testimony in the record as Mr. Wright has just stated.

The Court: You do not claim that his testimony related to any year other than 1938, you mean?

Mr. McClennen: I claim that his testimony did not go to the point of a personal observation of six changes a week at any time and that he did not distinguish between 1938 and 1939.

Mr. Wright: What possible purpose does this examination serve that he is now conducting?

Mr. McClennen: I have said that I believe that there is no testimony in this record of Mr. Schine's personal knowledge that six pictures played in any week. Now, if we are in accord on that then there is no need of this, but if it is contended otherwise, why, then, we ought to have this information.

The Court: I do not think it is necessary to go into that: I can read the testimony and draw my own conclusions. Counsel has offered to submit the records of 1939. It is [fol. 4700] your claim that Mr. Schine's testimony includes that year and could be so construed as to include that year.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I have endeavored to make perfectly clear my position, which is that Mr. Schine has not testified by personal knowledge to any time, but if I am wrong on that and he has testified of personal knowledge that there was any week in which there were six pictures played, that that is not confined to 1938, but that he is speaking of the period after the Auburn theatre opened.

The Court: What period? How long a period?

Mr. McClennen: An indefinite period. He mentions as far back as 1940 in one of his answers, but certainly not beginning until September, 1938, because he fixes this whole thing as the shortage of pictures that existed after the Auburn was opened, so that we have a beginning date but not an ending date.

The Court: You would not submit the records of 1939?

Mr. Wright: If your Honor rules that Mr. Schine's testi- [fol. 4701] mony from his personal knowledge as to what played at the Capitol may be construed as referring to 1939, 1940 or 1941, we will produce the records for all of those years.

The Court: Counsel says only up to 1940.

Mr. Wright: Do I understand that you mean 1939 or 1940? If there is any question about 1940 we ought to have the 1940 records here.

Mr. McClennen: Well, I do not think that we have checked the 1940 records enough to make any assertion concerning them, but I am speaking particularly of the 1939 records.

The Court: This witness will be excused. We will adjourn until tomorrow morning. As I said before, I will receive this transcript of the record showing the date, as I take it, that the pictures were played, as relating to the testimony of Mr. Schine. I do not know whether that will be construed by me, after reviewing the testimony, as showing that he is referring to booking records all the time or whether it is an absolute statement of his own personal knowledge. [fol. 4702] I will have to pass on that when considering all the evidence.

Mr. McClennen: While not seeking to intrude on your Honor's ruling I would like to have my objection in addition to the others specifically to the portion of this exhibit for identification 1002, which relates to a date before September, 1938, and specifically that it does not extend into 1939, both of those periods.

The Court: Counsel for the Government suggested that they would submit 1939.

Mr. Wright: As I read the testimony the only date——

The Court: Do not go over that again.

Mr. Wright: This means a trip by the witness back to Auburn and bringing these records. If your Honor has any doubt about my contention that the only date he fixed on which he had personal knowledge is 1938, then I will bring in 1936, 1937, 1939, 1940 and 1941, all that we have got.

The Court: Objection overruled. I will receive the exhibit.

(Thereupon the tabulation contained in Exhibit 1001 previously marked Plaintiffs' Exhibit 1002 for identification [fols. 4703-4705] was received in evidence.)

The Court: Is there anything further?

Mr. Wright: We have no further witnesses today. We may have some documentary evidence tomorrow. I think we ought to finish up tomorrow morning.

The Court: All right. We will adjourn until 10:30 tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon an adjournment was taken until tomorrow, Friday, November 10, 1944, at 10:30 o'clock A.M.)

[fol. 4706] UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

Civil 223

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants

Continuation of trial before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, November 10, 1944, 10:30 o'clock A.M.

APPEARANCES:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., John F. Clagett, Esq., Harold L. Schilz, Esq., Philip Marcus, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General, and Milton Kallis, Esq., Special Attorney in behalf of the United States.

Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Willard S. McKay, Esq., Saul E. Rogers, Esq., Arthur E. Whittemore, Esq., Arthur J. Homans, Esq., and Howard M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the Defendants.

[fol. 4707] PROCEEDINGS

Mr. Wright: Will you give these the next three Plaintiff's numbers for identification?

(Thereupon the certified copy of meeting of Salamanca Common Council Oct. 6, 1941, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1003 for identification.)

(Thereupon the agreement, dated Oct. 3, 1935, between B. F. Keith Corp. and Dominion Operating Co., Ltd., and Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., and S. K. E. Operating Corporation, Ltd., was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1004 for identification.)

(Thereupon the agreement, dated July 31, 1939, between the same parties, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1005 for identification.)

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, we are in accord that on page 3562, line 13, "the" should read "two", and that on page 4153, line 12, after "honor" and before "by" a "not" should be inserted.

Mr. Wright: There are a number of corrections that I think will have to be made in the record. We are going to try to handle those by an exchange of letters within the next week or so.

We offer in evidence a document marked for identification [fol. 4708] as No. 1003, which is a certified copy of the meeting of the Salamanca Common Council, dated October 6, 1941, granting a permit to Schine Theatre Company to build a theatre.

Mr. McClennen: Pursuant to the plans and specifications on file in the City Clerk's office.

(Thereupon the certified copy of meeting of Salamanca Common Council, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1003 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: We should also like to offer at this time an exhibit previously identified as Defendants' No. 45. That was an exhibit that was to be photostated. At the time that Mr. Schine was on the stand he recalled having received it. It is a letter from the people in the Masonic Lodge at Medina to Mr. Schine.

(Thereupon the letter, Defendants' Exhibit 45 for identification, was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 1006.)

Mr. Wright: That, I think, concludes the rebuttal testimony. We have some other material here which consists of documents and which were not produced at the time we [fol. 4709] closed our case. Two of those are Exhibits 1004 and 1005 for identification, 1004 being the agreement dated October 3, 1935, between B. F. Keith Corporation, Dominion Operating Company, Ltd., and Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., and S. K. E. Operating Company, Ltd., Exhibit 1005 is an agreement, dated July 31, 1939, between the same parties. These were the agreements I believe referred to in Mr. Schine's examination, which we asked to have produced and which have been produced by the defendants, and we offer them in evidence.

Mr. McClennen: There is no objection to these, but it leaves the matter incomplete because the agreements refer to certain leases and without those leases there does not appear on the face of the papers the proportions of interest that have been testified to. I think it is quite immaterial so long as you are not misled by not having all of the documents.

The Court: Do you want to produce the leases?

Mr. McClennen: I should suggest that they be appended as part of these exhibits.

Mr. Wright: The only reason why we have not offered the leases with these is simply that all the leases do, as Counsel suggested, show the proportion of interest and we [fol. 4710] feel that the oral testimony adequately covers that point. The leases are rather voluminous and I did not want to encumber the record with them unless there is some special point that Counsel has in mind.

Mr. McClennen: Mr. Wright's suggestion covers all that I had in mind. If you read these papers alone they would not seem to support the oral testimony, but if the oral testimony is to be undisputed in respect to these proportions then we do not need the leases.

Mr. Wright: I might say in that connection that this exhibit 1004 refers to a letter agreement, dated August 21, 1935, which this Exhibit 1004 cancels, and that agreement I believe was not produced and was not available.

Mr. McClennen: You do not care for it?

Mr. Wright: It might be said also that that agreement might be necessary to a full understanding of 1004 and I would be glad to offer it also, if it is available, but I was informed that it was not available.

[fol. 4711] Mr. McClennen: I am told that was just a preliminary agreement that was merged into this one that you have put in. It may be understood that we may substitute photostats for these originals?

Mr. Wright: Yes.

(Thereupon the agreement, dated Oct. 3, 1935, between Keith, et al., and S.K.E. Operating Co., Ltd., previously marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 1004 for identification, was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon the agreement, dated July 31, 1939, same parties, previously marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 1005 for identification, was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon letter from Mr. Morgan of Paramount to Mr. Marcus, dated October 26, 1944, referred to, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1007 for identification.)

(Thereupon the agreement, dated November 6, 1941, was marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1008 for identification.)

Mr. Wright: I have had marked for identification as Exhibit 1007 a letter from Mr. Morgan of Paramount to Mr. Marcus, dated October 26, 1944, which shows the play-off of Paramount features for 1939-1940 in Salisbury, Mary- [fol. 4712] land, showing the title of each picture, the exhibitor that played it, and the dates on which he played it.

(Thereupon letter, dated October 26, 1944, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1007 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Then we had marked as Exhibit 1008 for identification an agreement, dated November 6, 1941, between Henry and Rebecca Pohl, of Norwalk, Ohio, and the Norwalk Theatre Corporation, which covers, I believe, the premises formerly occupied by the Forum Theatre, which we offer in evidence under the same number.

(Thereupon the agreement, dated November 6, 1941, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1008, was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Then we have here a photostatic copy of the license contract between Fox and the Kallet Theatres, Inc., for the Regent Theatre at Syracuse, which has been produced pursuant to our subpoena as the contract under which the group of five pictures, headed by "Charley's [fol. 4713] Aunt", played the Regent Theatre. At the time the other Syracuse contracts relating to those same five pictures were offered a number was left for this contract, which was No. 979, and I will ask to have this marked and received in evidence as Exhibit 979.

(The photostatic copy of license contract between Fox and Kallet Theatres, Inc., referred to, was received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit 979.)

Mr. McClennen: The date of Exhibit 979 is August 8, 1940.

Mr. Wright: Then we have material here, which was previously identified, but which was not offered at the time we closed our case, through inadvertence. That is, these two contracts with Columbia, which were marked for identification as Exhibits 750 and 751, between Columbia and the theatres operated by the witness Fenyvessy at Rochester.

The Court: What theatre?

Mr. Wright: 750 is for the Monroe and 751 is for the Madison. They are both second-run contracts. The Madi-[fol. 4714] son contract is for 1936-1937 and the Monroe is for 1937-1938. We offered, I believe, all of the identified material in respect to those theatres.

Mr. McClennen: Exhibit 750 is dated "Approved June 18, 1937," for the Monroe for Group A 4, 5 and 6, and Exhibit 751 for the Madison is dated "Approved November 2, 1936" for Group W 4, 5 and 6.

The Court: For what years, the balance of one year?

Mr. Wright: 751 refers to the pictures released during the period beginning September 1, 1936, and ending September 30, 1937, and 750 refers to the period commencing Sept. 1, 1937, and ending September 30, 1938. It appears that 751 is for the 1936-1937 season and 750 for the 1937-1938 season.

Mr. McClennen: I am told that these two contracts are already in evidence under those numbers. It is simply a matter of their not having been checked on the face of the contracts by the number on page 2247.

Mr. Wright: In any event, they may be so marked now.

[fol. 4715] (Thereupon the license agreement, Columbia Pictures Corporation with Fenyvessy, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 750 for identification was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon the license agreement, Columbia Pictures Corporation with Fenyvessy, Madison Theatre, 1936-37, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 751 for identification was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Then we also have some RKO material, which was previously identified, but which I do not believe has been offered and marked in evidence. We would now like to offer Exhibit 520 for identification as an agreement dated September 22, 1933, between Schine Theatrical Co. and its subsidiaries and RKO Distributing Corporation, whereby it is agreed that on the deal signed for the 1933-1934 pictures the following clauses are to become part and parcel of the deal and the approval of the contract will be an automatic approval of this letter. Exhibit 524 is a similar agreement, dated October 29, 1934, between Schine Theatrical Co., Inc., and its subsidiaries and RKO Distributing Corporation, and which refers to the deal for the [fol. 4716] 1934-1935 pictures.

Mr. McClennen: On Exhibit 520 against paragraph seven there is in pencil "Only in Buffalo and Albany territory." This is not an original paper but simply has typed signatures on it.

Mr. Wright: That is right. These are mimeographed copies produced from the files of RKO.

(Thereupon the agreement, dated September 22, 1933, between Schine Theatrical Co. and RKO, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 520 for identification, was received in evidence.)

(Thereupon the agreement, dated October 29, 1934, between Schine Theatrical Co., Inc. and RKO, previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 524 for identification, was received in evidence.)

Mr. Wright: Then we have these photostatic copies of RKO contracts, all of which were identified as part of the folder marked for identification as 628. They all relate to Corning, New York, and the seasons 1933-1934 and 1934-1935. We had offered material in respect to Corning for, I believe, Universal, Fox, Loew's, Paramount, Warner, and these should have been offered at that time.

I will ask to have marked as 628-A the contract with [fol. 4717] the application date October 23, 1933, between Schine and RKO for first-run Corning, 1933-1934 productions.

628-B is the application, dated August 19, 1933, between Fred Gerber and RKO for second-run, Corning, 1933-1934 features.

628-C is the application, dated February 19, 1934, between Gaby & Cohen for third-run, Corning, 1933-1934 features.

628-D is the contract application date October 31, 1934, between Schine and RKO for first-run, Corning, for the 1934-1935 season.

628-E is the contract application date October 31, 1934, between Schine and RKO for second-run Corning, 1934-1935 features.

628-F will be the contract application date April 15, 1935, between Gaby and RKO for third-run, Corning, on 1934-1935 features.

[fol. 4718] (The contract applications referred to, dated August 19, 1933, February 19, 1934, October 31, 1934, October 31, 1934, and April 15, 1935, were received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibits 828-A, B, C, D, E and F, respectively.)

Mr. Wright: It is stipulated that the picture "Charley's Aunt" played first-run in Syracuse at the Keith Theatre from August 14th to 20th, 1941, and then at the Eckel from August 21 to 27, the same year. "Wild Geese Calling" played at the Paramount September 3rd through 9th, 1941. "Private Nurse" played the Paramount August 20th through 26th, 1941. "Dressed to Kill" played the Paramount August 27th through September 2nd, 1941.

All of those dates I have read are for first-run Syracuse.

"Sun Valley Serenade" played at Keith's, first-run Syracuse from September 18 through 24, 1941, and with it was played a feature called "Three Sons of Guns", during the same period.

Then "Sun Valley Serenade" played the Eckel from [fol. 4719] September 25 through October 1, 1941, with "They Meet Again" as the second feature during the same period, and "Hurry, Charlie, Hurry" played the Eckel October 30 through November 5th, 1941.

Again, all of these engagements are first-run Syracuse.

We have here a clearance schedule, which was produced by Universal, but which I do not believe was identified while Mr. Murray was on the stand. If there is any question about the authenticity we will not offer it. I assume it is a copy of a schedule that the defendants have in their possession.

Mr. McClennen: How do you know that this is a Universal schedule?

Mr. Wright: I understand it was produced by Mr. Murray pursuant to a subpoena, but it was not included in any of the folders that were identified by him while he was on the stand. That is all I know about it, and, as I say, I assume that it is a copy of a schedule that the defendants [fol. 4720] have in their files.

Mr. McClennen: May this be done: May it be marked as an exhibit and if we find on checking that it is not right it will go out on our notifying Counsel?

Mr. Wright: That is entirely agreeable?

Mr. McClennen: I notice that there is one place where 120 days in type is changed to 90 in pencil and the name of the company does not appear on the sheet.

The Court: Very well.

(Thereupon the clearance schedule, produced by Universal, was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 1009.)

Mr. Wright: Little Falls, Warner contract, Exhibit 611-A, should be changed to 635-D. That is a contract dated September 19, 1931, with W. Wood, for the Hippodrome Theatre, and is in evidence at page 3825.

(Thereupon the Warner contract, Little Falls, N. Y., dated September 19, 1931, referred to was received in evidence and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 635-D.)

Mr. Wright: That concludes our case.

The Court: Is there anything more, Mr. McClennen?

[fols. 4721-4723] Mr. McClennen: No.

The Court: Then this concludes the taking of testimony. I want to thank all the Counsel for their uniform courtesy throughout the trial of this case and the fairness of Counsel in endeavoring to agree on those matters that were not to be disputed.

Mr. McClennen: For my part, I thank you, your Honor, and I want to say that we deeply appreciate the attention and consideration that the Court has given our efforts throughout the trial.

Mr. Wright: That also expresses our sentiments, your Honor.

The Court: Then we will adjourn now.

ORDER APPROVING CONTRACT OF SALE

The Court having made an Order, dated and entered on October 9, 1944, directing a further Hearing upon the application for confirmation of the purchase by A. C. Hayman from Schine Circuit, Inc., as Agent, of certain theatre properties and their leases, to wit: The fee of the State Theatre, Appalachia, Virginia, and the leaseholds on the Appallachian Theatre, Appalachia, Virginia, the Viv Theatre, Corbin, Kentucky and the Liberty Theatre, Pikeville, Kentucky, all pursuant to the terms and conditions of a certain contract between A. C. Hayman and Schine Circuit, Inc., as Agent, which contract is dated October 2, 1944, and has been considered by the Court, and the Court having [fol. 4725] given due notice of such Order of October 9, 1944, and this matter coming on regularly to be heard on the 16th day of October, 1944, and it appearing to the satisfaction of the Court that there is no sufficient reason why said purchase contract should not be confirmed.

It Is Hereby Ordered that the contract of sale between A. C. Hayman, a resident of Niagara Falls, New York, and Schine Circuit, Inc., a New York Corporation, as agent, which contract is dated October 2, 1944 and provides for the disposal of the fee of the State Theatre, Appalachia, Virginia, and the leaseholds on the Appallachian Theatre, Appalachia, Virginia, the Viv Theatre, Corbin, Kentucky and the Liberty Theatre, Pikeville, Kentucky, be and the same hereby is in all respect ratified, confirmed and approved.

John Knight, United States District Judge.

Dated: Buffalo, New York, October 16, 1944.

REPORT OF DEFENDANTS—Filed November 16, 1945

The undersigned, so-called, "Schine Defendants," hereby report as follows with respect to the Temporary Consent Order entered herein on the 19th day of May, 1942, and such other orders as have subsequently been entered herein with respect to said Temporary Consent Order, and, particularly the Order of this Court dated October 15, 1944.

1. The transaction between "The Schine Defendants," and, "A. Charles Hayman," of Niagara Falls, New York, referred to in said Order of October 16, 1944, has been closed, Documents of Title having been executed and delivered, and, the initial payment having been received by the undersigned Defendants.

2. With respect to the remaining five (5) Theatres, covered by said Temporary Consent Order, to wit:

1. Opera House, Lexington, Ky. (Leasehold).
2. Plaza Theatre, Malone, N. Y. (Leasehold).
3. Ada Meade Theatre, Lexington, Ky. (Leasehold).

[fols. 4727-4730] 4. Memorial Theatre, Lexington, Ky. (Leasehold).

5. One-half Interest in Corporation holding lease of Margie Grand Theatre, Harlan, Ky.

the undersigned report that notwithstanding repeated efforts to dispose of said five (5) Theatres, they have not been able to dispose of said Theatres.

Upon the 10th day of November, 1944, the undersigned caused to be published in the Motion Picture Daily, and, the Film Daily, two trade publications having the widest circulation possible in the Motion Picture Industry, paid notices, inviting offers for these five (5) Theatres. The two papers also carried news stories in the same respective issues regarding said notices. No offers have as yet been received.

3. With the original of this report the undersigned is handing the Court a copy of the November 10 issue of the Motion Picture Daily, and a copy of the November 10 issue of the Film Daily, and we respectfully refer the Court to Page 13 of the issue of the Motion Picture Daily, and, Page 16 of the issue of the Film Daily.

Respectfully submitted, Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., et al., by (S.) Edward F. McClennen, Esq., Counsel for Defendants. (S.) Willard S. McKay, Esq., Counsel for Defendants.

Defendants' Request for Findings—January 24, 1945

The defendants request the Court to make the findings hereinafter set forth.

In order to avoid repetitions in these requests they have been grouped, as far as possible, with indications of the separate applications. The Court is requested to treat them as if the words of each request had been repeated as to each situation.

For brevity the name "Schine" is used to signify the defendant corporations involved, without distinguishing between the principal corporation and any subsidiary.

For brevity the respective principal distributing corporations are described by the single names, respectively, Columbia, Fox, Loew's or Metro, Monogram, Paramount, Republic, RKO, United Artists, Universal, Warner.

In marked contrast with these requests, the plaintiff's requests and brief contain many statements as of facts and conclusions which are either contrary to the evidence or baseless. Some of these are noted in the following brief for defendants, p. 846 et seq.

[fol. 4732] First. The defendants request the Court to find that the cities and towns in which the evidence shows that the defendants had, or were interested in the ownership or operation of, a theatre at any time between January 1, 1917 and May 19, 1942, were none other than those set forth in the following

[fol. 4733] Second. The defendants request the Court to find the facts to be as to each city and town separately in the foregoing list as follows:

1. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have monopolized trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

2. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have conspired with Columbia to restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

3. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have conspired with Fox to restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

4. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have conspired with Loew's to restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

5. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have conspired with Monogram to restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

[fol. 4734] The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

6. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have conspired with Paramount to restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

7. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have conspired with RKO to restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

8. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have conspired with Republic to restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

9. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have conspired with United Artists to restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

10. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have conspired with Universal to restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

[fol. 4735] The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

11. It does not appear on the evidence that in fact the defendants have conspired with Warner to restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states for Amsterdam, N. Y.

The defendants repeat this request with respect to each of the cities and towns in the list on page 101, substituting for Amsterdam the name of the particular city or town.

[fol. 4736] Third. At the end of the year 1930 Schine had disposed by sale, lease or otherwise of all the theatres formerly owned or operated by Schine except those in Buffalo, Cortland, East Rochester, Fairport, Lockport, Geneva, Malone, Massena, Ogdensburg and Rochester, and a half interest with Shea in Amsterdam—Test. 4113.

2. In 1933 twenty-five theatres situated respectively in sixteen towns, Auburn, Bath, Canandaigua, Carthage, Corbin, Corning, Gloversville, Herkimer, Little Falls, Newark, Norwich, Oneonta, Oswego, Salamanca, Saranac Lake, Syracuse and Watertown, N. Y., came back to Schine as a consequence of the Fox-Metropolitan bankruptcy proceedings—Int. Ans. 17 (A), pp. 1-11.

3. Schine's purpose and effect in obtaining these was to resume the conduct of theatre business in these towns, and not to restrain or monopolize commerce among any of the several states—T. 4150-4170.

4. The purpose was not either the destruction or absorption of competitors—same references.

5. The number of motion picture theatres operating in New York State was upwards of 1350; in Ohio, upwards of 800; in Kentucky, upwards of 200; in Maryland, upwards of 200; in Virginia, upwards of 270; in Delaware, upwards of 30.

[fol. 4737] Fourth. The amount expended by Schine for the cost of land and buildings acquired is set forth in the first money column of pages next succeeding this, and the additional amounts expended by Schine above the cost of acquisition are set forth in the last money column of the same pages.

Ex. D-150, Interrogatory Answer 19, p. 12; Testimony 4055, 4221-4226.

[fol. 4740] These total expenditures for original acquisition and for additions and improvements were paid out not by Mr. Schine personally, but by the Company, from money which came from stockholders, and from money borrowed by the corporation, and from income derived from theatre operations, and from real estate investments—T. 4181, 4179.

Schine paid this original purchase money of $6,509,000 and added these buildings and improvements at a cost of $3,506,400 and $631,000 and $301,000 for the purpose of conducting the business of theatre exhibition locally in the respective cities and towns with such attractiveness to patrons as Schine hoped would make the business profitable, and not for the purpose of driving anybody out of town or out of business—Ex. D-150; T. 4044-4193.

These amounts, as appears from page 403, do not include the very substantial amounts originally paid by Schine for leasehold interests, as only sums paid for additions and improvements are there stated.

[fol. 4741] Fifth. The defendants request the Court to make the findings of fact as to each city and town as set forth immediately hereinafter under the name of the respective city or town as follows.

For convenience of reference these cities and towns have been arranged in these requests alphabetically.

[fol. 4742]

AMSTERDAM

Pop. 33,329

1. Schine became half owner of the Regent theatre, and of the Strand theatre and of the lease of the Rialto theatre on September 10, 1928, and of the other half of these three in 1935 or 1936, at a cost of $342,000 in the aggregate—Int. Ans. 17(A), Ex. D-150.

2. Schine expended for building and improvements since acquisition, of the Strand $55,000, of the Regent, $8,000, and of the Rialto $68,000.

3. Maurice Kronick operated the Orpheum theatre from July 1, 1931 to May 1941—T. 2303.

4. The Orpheum was originally a store and after remodeling had 299 seats, of which the first six rows were of little use, and it had no retiring rooms—T.2318.

5. In the first place Kronick went to Schine and told him that the city was not large enough for two second run theatres and that he was ready to sell out for $10,000—T. 2321, 2310.

6. Kronick had no lease but was a tenant at will and had only equipment to sell—T. 2312, 2321.

7. Kronick was ready to go out of business if he could make a good deal—T. 2322.

8. Kronick did not conduct a daily continuous operation—T. 2324.

9. Kronick closed the theatre for a few weeks or a month several summers as business was very poor in the city and he would take a vacation—T. 2325.

[fol. 4743] 10. The Schine theatres were all operated, the Rialto and the Strand as first-run houses, and the Regent as a second run house—T. 2325, 2309, 2312.

11. According to Kronick the Strand and the Rialto were nice houses when he saw them in 1941-42—T. 2320.

12. The town was primarily a one-industry town, carpets —T. 2325.

13. Business was falling off in 1940-41—T. 2324.

14. When Kronick went to Schine it was his desire to go out of business if he could make a good deal, and when he sold he had made up his mind to get out of business—T. 2322.

15. In May 1941 Kronick sold the good will of the business and all the equipment, furniture and fixtures, with the usual clause not to engage in the same line of business in the city of Amsterdam for a period of five or six years, for $7,000—T. 2304, 2308.

16. The Rialto and the Strand each had a seating capacity of over 1,000 seats—T. 2319.

17. Kronick admittedly had sufficient second run with Paramount, Warner, Fox and Columbia. Later he got Metro second run along with Paramount, Universal and Columbia—T. 2320, 2322-3.

[fol. 4744]

APPALACHIA

1. In February 1941 Schine became lessee of the Appalachian theatre, 859 seats, and owner of the State theatre, 379 seats—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 19.

2. Schine bought and booked for the Appalachian theatre from May 1940 to February 1941 and received therefor $297.36 to August 3, 1940 when payment ceased—Int. Ans. 17(B), (C), p. 4.

[fol. 4745]

ASHLAND

Pop. 12,453

1. In November 1935 Schine became lessee of the Palace theatre, 634 seats, to the extent of 75%, and in October 1937 of the remaining 25%—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 11.

2. In May 1936 Schine became lessee of the Opera House to the extent of 75% and in October 1937 of the remaining 25% and disposed of it in February 1941 when the City of Ashland, the owner, condemned the theatre and dismantled it—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 11.

3. In July 1938 Schine became lessee of the Ohio theatre, 307 seats—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 11.

4. Schine expended for additions and improvements to the Palace, $10,500—Ex. D-150.

5. Schine expended for the acquisition of the land for the Ashland theatre $15,000, and in the building and improvement of the theatre $197,500—Ex. D-150.

[fol. 4746]

ATHENS

Pop. 7,696

1. In September 1935 Schine became owner of the Athena theatre, 893 seats, at a cost of $135,000, and expended in addition for building and improvements thereafter $13,000—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 11.

2. In January 1936 Schine became lessee of the Court theatre, 267 seats, and of the Ohio theatre, 299 seats—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 12.

[fol. 4747]

AUBURN

Pop. 35,763

1. In 1923 Schine became lessee of the Palace theatre, 850 seats, and thereafter owner of the land on which the Auburn theatre, 1800 seats, was subsequently built—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 1.

2. Schine and M. A. Shea became equal lessees of the Palace theatre, the Jefferson theatre, 1100 seats, and owners of the Strand theatre in 1927. In 1937 Schine bought Shea's 50 percent interest—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 1.

3. A part of the land on which the Auburn theatre was built had on it an abandoned church, which subsequently burned down. Originally this land and church was acquired at a cost of $35,000—T. 4221.

4. Additional land subsequently bought for this new Auburn theatre cost $18,316—T. 4221.

5. Taxes, interest and insurance during the period of idleness of the church and the vacant land brought the actual land cost up to $83,500—T. 4225-26, Ex. D-150.

6. Schine expended for the construction and equipment of the new Auburn theatre $245,000—T. 4064, Ex. D-150.

7. Schine expended for additions and improvements to the Palace theatre $14,500, and to the Jefferson $4500—T. 4064, Ex. D-150.

8. Schine built the new Auburn theatre in 1938, at a time when the town did not have a modern theatre and needed one—T. 4066.

9. The Auburn theatre is located in the heart of the city, has a fine large lobby, spacious public rooms with every [fol. 4748] modern convenience, has a large auditorium with very luxurious seats, finely decorated walls, refrigerated air which works on a basis of conditioning the air as wanted, and is very attractive all the way through to the point where it brings people from all around the entire area to Auburn—T. 4066.

10. The Auburn, ever since its construction, has been the first run house—T. 4067.

11. The Strand was condemned by local authorities and then was torn down—T. 4067.

12. The Jefferson theatre was always the leading theatre in Auburn from a time prior to 1928 until the construction of the Auburn—T. 4065.

13. Fox-Metropolitan conducted this operation from 1929 to 1933 and Schine-Shea then resumed it and continued it until Schine bought Shea's interest and the new Auburn theatre was built—T. 4065.

14. Schine operated the Palace as its second best theatre with the same Fox-Metropolitan interruption—T. 4067.

15. After the opening of the Auburn, Schine made effort, without success, to obtain pictures for the continued full-time operation of the Jefferson theatre—T. 4070-72.

16. After the new Auburn opened, it ran first run and the Palace ran first run sloughs and second run. The Jefferson at first played three changes and then two changes a week and finally week-ends with two first run pictures and was kept closed the rest of the week—T. 4073.

17. Schine knew of no reason for closing the Jefferson down to a week-end operation except the lack of pictures—T. 4073.

[fol. 4749] 18. Hubert P. Wallace says that Schine operated the three theatres, the Jefferson, the Palace and the Strand, full time from 1935 to 1938—T. 2769.

19. Hubert P. Wallace began to operate the Capitol theatre in Auburn in April 1931—T. 2756.

20. At this time the Jefferson, Palace and Strand were in operation by Fox-Metropolitan—T. 2756.

21. The Capitol was a rather old upstairs house—T. 4066, 3069, Ex. D-122.

22. From 1931-1933 the greater part of the first run pictures were licensed to Fox-Metropolitan, and after 1933 to Schine.

23. Wallace had the first run of Columbia pictures for the season of 1934-35 and thereafter—Ex. D-123, D-124, T. 3071-79.

24. Wallace had Columbia franchises from June 17, 1937 through five years—Ex. D-125, D-129, T. 3080-83.

25. When Wallace started operating the Capitol in 1931 the other three theatres, Jefferson, Palace and Strand, had Paramount, Metro, Fox, RKO, Warner and Universal and Wallace had United Artists, Columbia and Pathe—T. 3085, 2757.

26. In 1931 an employee of United Artists and an employee of Columbia each had a financial interest in the operation of the Capitol theatre. This interest had ceased by 1933—T. 3096.

27. From 1927 to 1937 the Shea Circuit had a half interest in the Jefferson, Palace and Strand theatres—Int. Ans. 17 (A), p. 1.

[fol. 4750] 28. In the fall of 1933 Paramount was unable to negotiate a 33-34 contract with the Shea interests and therefore could not make contracts with the Shea-Schine partnership, with the result that the Capitol was the only outlet for Paramount product in Auburn for that season—T. 3096, 4598.

29. Late in the season, on February 8, 1934, Paramount made a contract with Wallace for the 33-34 product—T. 3097.

30. The Fox-Metropolitan operation of the theatres in Auburn was under the management of Mr. Skouras—T. 3100.

31. Wallace appreciated the fact that this operation had first call on the product for the Jefferson and Palace theatres —T. 3100, Ex. D. 130.

32. In 1935 Wallace had all of United Artists, 44 of Columbia, some RKO rejects and, roughly, 100 Independents and Westerns, all first run product—T. 3101.

33. In this period Wallace was cutting his public admission prices and giving discounts—T. 3108.

34. There isn't any question that Wallace could buy substantially all the foreign pictures at any time from anybody—Wright 3113-14.

35. For the year 1934-35 Paramount sold the Shea Circuit generally, including the Shea-Schine Auburn theatres—T. 4601.

36. In the season 1933-34, in which Paramount sold its product first run to Wallace, the film rental revenue averaged less per picture than for the subsequent season in which Paramount sold to Schine-Shea—Ex. 986, T. 3909.

37. In September 1938, after the opening of the Auburn, Schine's weekly requirements for pictures were: For the Auburn 3, for the Palace 6, for the Jefferson 6 until shortage [fol. 4751] of pictures compelled the cutting of the Jefferson down to week-ends, and 2 pictures. Before this cut, allowing the usual ten percent right of rejection of pictures unsuitable for a particular theatre, or not actually released, Schine required contracts for 866 pictures, to leave after the ten percent rejection, 780 annually—T. 4073.

38. This was nearly three times the number of pictures in the aggregate released annually by Columbia, Fox, Loew's, Paramount, RKO, United Artists, Universal and Warner. Release Schedules in evidence of these distributors, Exs. Columbia 682, Fox 337, Metro 619, Paramount 687, RKO 634, United Artists 717, Warner 645, Universal T. 2160, Ex. 704 Id.

39. Schine's inability to get any second run pictures from Fox and Columbia, necessitated cutting down the Jefferson to week-ends—T. 4073, 2789.

40. Wallace's efforts were to get first run pictures for the Capitol, a theatre which was not equal in box office drawing power to the Auburn, the Jefferson and the Palace —T. 2770, 4066, 3069, Ex. D-122.

41. Lux did not point out to Wallace that it would not be a practical thing for Wallace to run second run and first run at the same time—T. 4443, 4441.

42. There is no evidence as to the number of pictures per week that Wallace required from 1931 to 1942, except for the year 1938, as in which there is evidence that he played two hundred and five pictures—T. 4670, 4686, 4694-96.

43. In 1935 Wallace ran double features 2 or 3 changes a week and sometimes also used Westerns for Saturday morning shows for children—T. 3106.

44. The Auburn, Palace and Jefferson theatres needed more pictures annually than all the first and second run of Columbia, Fox, Metro, Paramount, RKO, United Artists, Universal and Warner—Release Schedules Ex. 337, 619, 634, 645, 682, 687, 717, T. 2160, Ex. 704 Id.

[fol. 4752]

BALLSTON SPA

Pop. 4,443

1. In April 1937 Schine became the owner of a 50% interest in the lease of the Capitol theatre—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 2.

[fol. 4753]

BATH

Pop. 4,696

1. In October 1924 Schine became lessee of the Babcock theatre, 693 seats—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 1.

[fol. 4754]

BELLEFONTAINE

Pop. 9,808

1. In 1930 a delegation from Bellefontaine called on Mr. Schine with reference to the establishment of a new theatre in Bellefontaine—T. 4117-18.

2. As a result of the call of that deputation Schine acquired land in Bellefontaine at a cost of $27,500, on which Schine built the Holland theatre, 1319 seats, at an additional cost of $196,800, which was opened on February 12, 1931—T. 4117-4119.

3. This theatre is built of brick and steel and completely fireproof, and is known as atmospheric, with clouds and stars in the ceiling, of Dutch design and decoration and seats around 1400 people, with modern convenience and appointment for public spaces and air conditioning and cushion seats, with springs in them, and the very latest projection and screen—T. 4119, 1801.

4. At this time Milton A. Mooney as lessee was operating the Strand theatre—T. 1812.

5. Mooney had theretofore operated the Majestic only during the annual fair week, and in the years 1928-31 it was closed entirely—T. 1749.

6. The Majestic was very small and a very old converted store show, with 250 seats, without equipment for sound pictures—T. 1750.

7. Mooney also had the Opera House, an upstairs house, 75 years old, without sound equipment and closed except for an occasional stage show—T. 1753.

8. The Majestic and the Opera House were of no value and the balance of the lease on the Strand and its equip- [fol. 4755] ment, which had been in use seven years, was all that Mooney had to sell—T. 1812, 1759.

9. In May or June 1931 Mooney saw Mr. May, who offered $2500 for the lease and Mooney sold the balance of the lease of the Strand and its equipment, which had been in use seven years, in July 1931—T. 1659, 1812, 1759, Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 12.

10. Six weeks before the Holland opened on February 12, 1931 the Strand on December 27, 1930 advertised the sale of $2.50 worth of tickets for $2.00—T. 2295.

11. In February 1931 the advertised admission prices of the Strand were 10¢ and 30¢ throughout the day and evening after 2 P. M.—T. 2291.

12. This made the top admission price for ticket book holders 24¢.

13. The Holland at opening on February 12, 1931 had admission prices matinee, children 10¢ and adults 30¢, nights, children 15¢ and adults 40¢—T. 2290.

14. February 20, 1931 the Strand reduced its afternoon admission prices to 25¢, making a price to ticket book holders, of 20¢—T. 2291.

15. On March 12, 1931 the Strand advertised admissions from 1:30 to 2:00 o'clock, called an Early Bird Matinee, 15¢ —T. 2293.

16. The following day the Holland advertised that starting March 15, 1931 the admission prices would be, matinee, balcony 15¢, main floor 25¢, nights, balcony 25¢; main floor 40¢, children all times 10¢—T. 2293-94.

17. March 14, 1931 the Strand advertised from 5:30 to 6:30 admissions 15¢, and beginning March 15, 1931 from two [fol. 4756] o'clock, admissions 10¢ and 25¢, with Bargain Matinees Mondays, adults 15¢, and nights 25¢—T. 2293-94.

18. The Strand advertised several repetitions of $2.50 books for $2.00—T. 2296.

19. May 14, 1931 the Strand advertised, this complete ad and 25¢ admit two tonight—T. 2298.

20. May 29, 1931 the Strand advertised 15-cent bargain admissions Friday from 6:30 to 7:30 and Saturday from 1:30 to 2:30 and from 5:30 to 6:30, and a Memorial Day price for children from 2 to 6 P. M., 5¢—T. 2298.

21. May 14, 1931 the Holland advertised matinee prices 15¢ and 25¢, nights 25¢ and 40¢ and kiddies 10¢—T. 2298.

22. When Schine bought the land and began to build the Holland theatre he was operating only in the cities and towns named in the third request.

[fol. 4757] BIG STONE GAP

1. Schine did the buying, booking and supervising of the Big Stone theatre, Big Stone Gap, from May 1940 to February 1941 for $208.36, payment ceasing August 3, 1940—Int. Ans. 17(B), (C), p. 4; T. 3768.

[fol. 4758] BOWLING GREEN

Pop. 7,190

1. In June 1939 Schine began buying and booking for the Cla-Zel theatre, 776 seats and the Lyric theatre, 348 seats. On April 1, 1941 Schine became the lessee of these theatres. Schine gave up the lease in June 1942, following the Consent Order of May 19, 1942—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 15.

[fol. 4759] BUCYRUS

Pop. 9,727

1. At some time prior to 1934 the Moose Lodge or other local interests started to build a new theatre but did not have enough money to complete it.—T. 1050, 1043.

2. In the early part of 1935 a group of citizens of Bucyrus came to see Schine on the subject of building a theatre in Bucyrus and took Schine to see an uncompleted theatre in the town and talked to him on the subject of how the theatre had come to be in that shape, with the walls up and the steel up, standing that way for two or three years, with the girders on the roof—T. 4143-44.

3. Schine bought the land and uncompleted structure in August 1935 at a cost of $15,500, and completed the Bucyrus theatre, 1,097 seats, in 1936, at a cost in addition of $81,500—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 12; Ex. D-150; T. 4139.

4. The Bucyrus theatre is a big, beautiful modern brick and steel structure with all modern improvements and ample public spaces, air conditioned, with a lower floor furnished with fine upholstered seats, and a balcony and two small stores in front, and a marquee with a large sign in front. It is located in the heart of the city, a best location—T. 1045, 4140, 4144, 1044.

5. In 1935 Harry Charnas, a brother of Philip Charnas, talked to Schine about the possibility of buying out his brother, Philip. This was the first thing that occurred with respect to the purchase subsequently made in consequence of this conversation and as the result—T. 4138, 4136, 4135, 4139.

6. The Southern theatre, 450 seats, was an old theatre, the lease of which Philip Charnas sold to Schine in April 1937—T. 1042, Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 12.

[fol. 4760] 7. In June 1934 Milton H. Bryer began to operate the State theatre, a small, old fashioned theatre, and continued to operate it until he sold it to Schine for operation beginning September 29, 1935—T. 1042, 1026, 1041, Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 12.

8. On July 13, 1935 Bryer signed a contract with Vitagraph for the first run of its 1935-36 product which was approved on September 5, 1935 and sent to Bryer on September 9, 1935. Bryer advertised a picture, "Page Miss Glory", with Marion Davies as star, in the Bucyrus newspaper, the Telegraph-Forum of Friday, September 6, 1935, and played it under this contract for three days, beginning September 8, 1935, on percentage. Bryer's contract was numbered 4447, and was sent to the Vitagraph home office for approval, together with other contracts bearing consecutive current numbers, and an abstract of transmittal, under date of August 15, 1935—Exs. D-170, D-171; T. 4324, 4154; Ex. D-154; T. 4666; Ex. D-148 A-F, Id. Ex. D-164; T. 4328, 4163.

9. Thereafter, about November 29, 1935, two months after Schine bought the State theatre, this Bryer contract was cancelled and was replaced by a superseding contract with Schine covering the same 1935-36 Vitagraph pictures, except for those that had already been played and were crossed out from the substituted contract. These included one picture, "Page Miss Glory," which Bryer had already played beginning September 8, 1935. The superseding contract with Schine was given the same date as the contract with Bryer, for which it was substituted, and bore contract number 4797, which was the transmittal number then current in the Vitagraph office, some three months later in the series of numbers than the number 4447 on the Bryer contract, and appeared in the abstract of transmittal with which it was sent to the home office under date of December 2, 1935. The cancellation notice on the Bryer contract was [fol. 4761] dated December 11, 1935—T. 1041; Ex. 62, Id. Ex. P-65; T. 4325; Id. Ex. D-165; T. 4129; Ex. D-148 A-F; T. 4324-28, 4162.

10. In the negotiations for the sale of the lease of the Southern by Charnas to Schine and in the negotiations for the sale by Bryer of the lease of the State to Schine, Schine made no threats or misrepresentations and did not say to either of them that if he did not sell he would have difficulty in getting product for his theatre, or that if he did not sell Schine would open up another theatre, and Schine did not tell any one else to make any such statements, and was not aware that any one had made such statements, and has not said that he approved of their making or having made any such statements—T. 4150, 4167-70.

11. The Fox salesman offered Fox first run product to Charnas before selling Schine—T. 1072-4.

12. Charnas testified that he had not played Paramount product for the two seasons prior to 1935-36—T. 1044-5.

13. The uncompleted theatre was sold to Schine at a public sale. Charnas did not bid although he had an opportunity to do so—T. 1103.

CANANDAIGUA

Pop. 8,321

1. In October 1924 Schine became owner of the Playhouse, 1070 seats, at a cost of $180,000, to which improvements were added at a cost of $16,700, and has operated it thereafter except for the period of the Fox-Metropolitan operation 1929-1933—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 2, T. 4074, Ex. D-150.

2. About 1937 Schine took up for consideration the possibility of building an additional theatre in Canandaigua, when there was prospect of the construction of a large veteran's hospital that would bring several hundred families into town—T. 4074.

3. The planning and finishing of the theatre took about two years—T. 4077.

4. Schine was not actuated in any way in taking the steps relative to building the theatre by any knowledge that any one else was thinking of building there or opening a theatre—H. 4077.

5. Schine paid $15,000 for the land and structure on it and paid in addition for building the Lake theatre $38,500—Ex. D-150, T. 4079.

6. The new theatre, the Lake, is smaller than the Playhouse and located in the very busy part of Canandaigua, has fine lavatory space and seats about 400 or 450, with fine upholstered, spring cushion seats, the latest projection equipment, as well as sound equipment, and very artistic decorations—T. 4079.

7. The building of the hospital did not bring the expected increase in business, and the Lake, after being kept open for some time, was closed and then reopened again from time to time—T. 4080, 4199-4201.

[fol. 4765] 8. In the spring of 1938, Anthony J. Lauer, a real estate broker, sought to get a lease of the Jenkins block in Canandaigua for Mr. Wallace from Mr. Jenkins and Mrs. Himes, who had inherited the block from their father—T. 4626.

9. These negotiations were not dropped by Mr. Lauer in May 1938 (T. 2564), but on the contrary he made a later offer (Ex. D-179, T. 4665) and continued his efforts to acquire the property as late as June 23, 1938—Ex. D-178, T. 4632.

10. Hobert L. Himes, an attorney (T. 4623) and the husband of Mrs. Himes, one of the co-owners, acted as attorney for the Jenkins estate in these negotiations—T. 4657, 2791-92, 3066-67.

11. He does not recall that he had any knowledge of any activities on the part of Mr. Schine or prospect of Mr. Schine's building or opening a new theatre in Canandaigua on the Flanigan lot—T. 4650.

12. It does not appear that any such knowledge was the reason for rejecting the offer—T. 4653.

13. The defendants offered to show by the testimony of Mr. Himes that the rejection of this offer was not actuated in any way by any expectation or belief or apprehension that the Schine organization was proposing to put a new theatre on the property in Canandaigua, but this was excluded because not material—T. 4662.

1. In November 1938 Schine became lessee of the Kentucky theatre, 394 seats, and of the Hippodrome theatre, 824 seats—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 16.

2. Hiram H. Owens and his wife acquired in about 1935 the property on which the Viv theatre, 516 seats, is now located and about October 24, 1938 Owens made a contract with Grover Scott for the construction and leasing of a theatre, and Scott assigned his contract to Schine. Owens cancelled the contract and then completed the theatre and leased it to Mitchell K. Murphy. Schine bought the lease in May 1940—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 16; T. 3954, 507.

3. Mitchell K. Murphy operated the Viv theatre, Corbin, from October 1939 to May 1940 and made a profit. He sold it to Schine because he saw a chance to make a good trade, and not because he needed product—T. 635-638, 640.

4. The Hippodrome theatre was a much more substantially constructed and more expensive theatre than the Viv —T. 643, 645.

[fol. 4769] CORNING

Pop. 16,212

1. In 1924 Schine became owner of the Liberty for $18,000, the State and the Regent theatres, as a part of a purchase of these and other theatres from Dygert—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 3; T. 4081, Ex. D-150, T. 4082.

2. The Liberty burned and Schine built the Fox, 1333 seats, on the site at an additional cost of $101,500—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 3; T. 4081, Ex. D-150.

3. From 1929-1933 the Liberty, then called the Fox, and the State, 906 seats, were leased to Fox-Metropolitan—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 3; T. 4081, Ex. D-150.

4. The Regent, which was closed at the time was sold by Schine to Gerber, who subsequently rebuilt and opened it as the Palace, 398 seats, T. 4082, 3183-4.

5. Gaby and Cohen operated a fourth theatre, the Plaza —T. 4083.

6. In 1933 the Fox was a brand new theatre with all modern improvements and appointments, finished in 1929 with the very latest equipment. The State was an old theatre, in good condition and running week-ends when Schine reacquired it—T. 4083.

7. The Palace was a smaller theatre, on which Gerber had expended some money and made a rather attractive little theatre, well located on the main street—T. 4084.

8. The fourth theatre, the Plaza, was located across the railroad track in a community of its own, with several stores, and lacked modern appliances. It was a converted store, a little better than the average store show, with a high ceiling —T. 4084-85.

[fol. 4770] 9. The Fox from its inception was operated as the first run theatre—T. 4084.

10. The State was closed and opened intermittently and usually ran week-ends but occasionally for a full week—T. 4084.

11. The Plaza, when the Palace was closed during the Fox-Metropolitan operation, got some first run and some second run pictures which the Palace didn't play, and thereafter, when the Palace was opened by Gerber, the Plaza got some second and some third runs; T. 3185-3187.

12. The Fox was a 40-cent house and the Palace a 35-cent and the State a 25-cent, and the Plaza at first a 25-cent and then a 20-cent and then a 10- and 15-cent house—T. 3192, 3216-17.

13. In April 1938 Gerber sent for Schine and made a ten-year lease to Schine for an advance rental of $7500 and an annual rental of $6500 or $7500—T. 4085, 4217-18.

14. Thereafter Schine did not have enough product to operate all three theatres and kept the State closed after 1939—T. 3195, Int. Ans. 18, p. 3.

LITTLE FALLS

Pop. 10,163

1. In May 1925 Schine became half owner of the Rialto, 1200 seats, and in June 1936 lessee of the Hippodrome, 550 seats, and subsequently owner of the Rialto at a cost for it of $210,300, to which Schine added improvements at a cost of $21,000—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 5; Ex. D-150.

2. The Rialto was a fine modern theatre with a very fine modern balcony and operated in 1934 with all first run major product except United Artists at admission prices of children 10 cents, balcony 20 cents, orchestra 30 cents, T. 2332, 2333, 2334.

3. The Hippodrome had a very small, not very good balcony and ran at admission prices of children 10 cents, adults 20 cents anywhere in the house—T. 2332-33.

4. Soon after the death of her husband, William J. Wood, Mrs. Marion D. Wood in the fall of 1934 took up the operation of the Hippodrome, which was closed at the time, with Thomas Edward Warne as manager, on a second run policy, the policy which Wood had before he died—T. 2330-32, 2359, 2360.

5. In the spring of 1935 the Hippodrome admissions were reduced and family tickets at the price of a single admission were good for two admissions—T. 2348-49.

6. The Hippodrome was closed in the summer—T. 2348.

7. After a telephone call from Judge Blumberg, Warne called on J. G. Selmser, Assistant Treasurer of Schine Theatres, Inc., who said that he was in position to make an offer—T. 2353.

8. Warne took the matter up with Mrs. Wood and then told Selmser that we wouldn't be tough to do business with [fol. 4796] and invited an offer from him. In the meantime Warne had made an inventory of the equipment and a few outstanding debts and he closed the deal with Mr. Selmser to take over the equipment of the theatre for about $400 and payment of outstanding debts for rent, advertising and local merchants and for electrical work, a total in addition to the cash of, say, $1300—T. 2354-55.

9. The Hippodrome building was owned by the Odd Fellows Temple Association and was operated by Wood and Warne, without any lease. In the spring of 1936 the rent was probably three months in arrears, and there had been a small fire in the theatre and a bill was owed for the consequent repairs—T. 2369-74.

10. The Rialto was operated by Fox-Metropolitan from August 1929 to April 1933—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 5.

[fol. 4797]

LOCKPORT

Pop. 24,379

1. About 1922 a real estate agent wrote Schine and drove him to Lockport to meet Mr. Thurston, the owner of the Temple theatre, and Mr. Thurston sold him the Temple theatre for $70,000—T. 4060-62.

2. Mr. Thurston suggested that Schine buy his building across the street which had once been a skating rink but was then used as a garage. The building was a very large one and Schine bought it and rebuilt it into a modern, large motion picture theatre containing 1484 seats, all of which with the exception of 75 to 100 seats were on the ground floor. The name of this theatre was the Rialto Theatre and it had a great advantage over any other theatre in Lockport because of its downstairs seating capacity. The cost to Schine of the Rialto was originally $27,500.00 plus $118,400.00 for improvements—T. 4094-95, Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 6; Ex. D-150.

3. In October, 1927 Schine became a half owner in the lease of the Hi-Art Theatre, 10[illegible] seats, a store show, and in the lease of the Palace Theatre, 1698 seats. In October, 1936 Schine became the owner of the Palace Theatre at a cost of $200,000 to which Schine made increases in rebuilding and improvements to the extent of $8,000—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 6; Ex. D-150.

4. The Temple was an old, cheaply built theatre, lacking modern appointments and equipment, with good projection but poor seats—T. 4094.

5. At about the time the Rialto was built a group of men started to build the Palace, a very fine theatre, built primarily for vaudeville, with a big stage, high loft, and very [fol. 4798] large balcony with boxes around the sides and leased it to Paramount—T. 4094-4095.

6. At the same time the Hi-Art was rebuilt into a much larger and better theatre than it had been before, and the town from having no theatre worth while had three good theatres. The Temple was the poorest and was torn down for no reason except the product situation, as Schine discovered it to be, and because Schine did not do business in there—T. 4095-96.

7. While Schine was operating the Rialto and the Temple, Paramount had taken a lease on the Hi-Art, and after attempting to operate it for a while they closed it up and operated the Palace with vaudeville and pictures, and Schine played the best pictures in the Rialto, with the Temple playing secondary or slough pictures and second run—T. 4097.

8. The Palace was owned by a group controlled by the father of Charles E. Dickinson, Jr.—T. 4097.

9. In 1928, when Paramount was operating the Palace and Schine was operating the Rialto, Schine started in a partnership with Paramount, receiving a fee of $30 a week for managing, buying and booking, for the Palace as well as the Rialto. This operation continued until ousted from the Palace—T. 4098-99, 4194-96.

10. During this time the Rialto played the best first class pictures and the Palace played vaudeville and pictures and, part of the time, pictures only—T. 4099.

11. The Rialto was playing the first class releases of all the distributors—T. 4100.

12. Later Schine discontinued vaudeville at the Palace and moved the best pictures into the Palace and played first and second run at the Rialto—T. 4101.

[fol. 4799] 13. Schine was then engaged in operating two theatres, the Rialto and the Palace, and on the loss of the Palace was reduced to one operating theatre—T. 4101.

14. Schine restored the first class first run pictures to the Rialto and, after making the necessary improvements in the Hi-Art, put the recent Rialto policy into the Hi-Art so that the Rialto was Schine's best first run house and the Hi-Art was the second best with first run and second run, and that operation continued until about 1937—T. 4102.

15. Before Schine was forced out of the Palace in December 1932 it had negotiated for all its contracts for the 1932-33 product—T. 4103, 4197.

16. When Dickinson opened the Palace, the Rialto was showing all the product of the eight companies, except Metro —T. 1997-98.

17. Charles E. Dickinson, Jr. testified that about October 18, 1933 Mr. Carroll called on him to talk about his accepting an offer which Mr. May had previously made, which was for a rental for the Palace of about $16,000 a year, plus a percentage of the net profits per year, and stated that Schine was withholding opening the Hi-Art for an additional few days for him to decide whether or not he would accept the proposal, and Dickinson said that they weren't interested—T. 2066.

18. October 20, 1933 the Lockport newspaper published: "The merchants of West Main Street welcome the opening of the newly decorated and thoroughly remodelled Hi-Art theatre, Saturday, October 21, under Schine management, assuring Lockport another high class program for theatregoers. Come down. The latest releases from the greatest motion picture studios"—T. 2141.

19. Charles E. Dickinson, the elder, died December 7, 1933. James A. White and Mrs. Dickinson and LeGrand O. Robson became executors of his estate—T. 2098-99.

[fol. 4800] 20. On May 21, 1935 the executors wired Schine requesting a meeting on a strictly confidential matter and following this they went to Rochester with their attorney and met Myer Schine and Mr. May and informed them that they wanted to sell the Palace theatre and asked for an offer in writing—T. 2100-2104.

21. In June 1935 Schine made, and the executors rejected, an offer of $159,000 for the Palace theatre—T. 2103-2110, Ex. 688.

22. The executors advertised the property for sale at a public auction, to be held on April 20, 1936 in their attorney's office in Lockport. There were present at the sale Mr. Warner Thompson, attorney for Dipson, Mr. Robson, Mr. Fogle, attorney for the executors, Mr. Schine, Mr. Osborne, Mr. May and Mr. Dipson. The property was sold to Mr. Osborne for $37,600, assumption of a $90,000 first mortgage, operating loss of $8902.37, advances for interest and taxes $13,700.20, and interest on various items of $1225.22, making a total of $151,427.79—T. 2112-17, Ex. 690.

23. The bidders at the sale were Mr. Osborne, Mr. Dipson's righthand man, and Mr. Schine—T. 2113, 2117.

24. The sale of the theatre to Mr. Osborne, pursuant to this bid, was completed on May 20, 1936—T. 2118, Ex. 691.

25. On June 16, 1936 Warner Thompson, attorney for Dipson and Osborne, talked with Willard S. McKay, as attorney for Schine, pursuant to the request of Mr. Dipson —T. 2124. Mr. Thompson testified to the conversation as follows: I told Mr. McKay that we had a telephone conversation with Mr. Dipson, that he had notified us that he had had discussions with Mr. Schine in reference to making an arrangement between them for the theatres in Lockport, that we understood—we had been told that Schine had offered $200,000 for the theatre, which had been re-

[fol. 4801] jected; that they had thereafter discussed a pooling arrangement whereby all theatres in Lockport would be combined; the Hi-Art would be closed; rent would be paid to Dipson for the Palace theatre and to Schine for the Rialto, in an amount to be agreed upon; that thereafter profits each year, up to a sum of approximately $50,000, should be divided 65% to Schine, 35% to Dipson, and above that 50-50. That Schine should have the management of all theatres and Dipson and Schine each to have 50% of the stock of the new corporation. Mr. McKay stated first that of course they were not at all afraid of this action which the Reliance Theatres had previously brought, that in their opinion our chances of success were nil. McKay stated that Schine had two theatres in Lockport, and that he absolutely required the number of pictures that he bought; that he actually used, played them, and paid for them; that he did not believe any court would interfere with that arrangement. He said, however, that it would be very expensive to defend the suit; that also, under the present conditions in Lockport, neither Schine nor Dipson were able to make as much money as the situation warranted. That if they got together both would make increased profits in the future. That for the purpose of settling the suit and increasing the profits in Lockport they were willing to enter into a pooling arrangement, whereby the Hi-Art would be closed, the Rialto and Palace theatres operated, management thereof to be exclusively in Schine's hands, because of his superior buying position; that rental was to be paid for both the Palace and Rialto theatres, respectively. No definite basis of rental was discussed, except that it was suggested that rental should be based upon a fixed return upon the investment in each theatre. Mr. McKay further said that he understood from Schine that Dipson had agreed that Schine could have 65% of the profits and Dipson 35% after payment of expenses and rental, and the rental of the Hi-Art theatre, which was to be closed. He further stated that Dipson insisted upon 50% of the stock in the new corporation, but they did not trust Dipson to any extent whatsoever. Therefore they felt it inadvisable to allow a 50—50 stock division, for the [fol. 4802] reason that at any time Dipson might cause a dissolution of the new corporation, which if it occurred after the better pictures were placed and played in the Palace by Schine's management, might be used by Dipson against

Schine in a subsequent anti-trust suit, in the event pictures were withdrawn from the Palace. That they could not allow this to happen; that if they went into the arrangement they wanted it permanent for at least 20 years. That he did not believe that an agreement on our part not to dissolve would be binding. That therefore, inasmuch as Schine was to have the management and 65% of the profits, it would necessarily follow that he should have at least a majority of the stock. That if Dipson actually physically desired 50% of the stock that could be handled by a voting trust arrangement for all the stock, whereby Schine had the appointment of two of three voting trustees; that if these conditions were satisfactory the deal could be closed in short order. I told him that we would consider the matter, advise with Mr. Dipson, and notify him of our reply. I talked with Mr. McKay on the telephone on June 18, 1936 and advised him Schine's offer was rejected for the reason that Dipson, under the arrangement, would be only a minority stockholder. Mr. McKay replied that he did not believe any other arrangement would be satisfactory, but that he would inform Mr. Schine of our decision. I did not have any further conversation with him. I was attorney for the plaintiff, Reliance Theatres, Inc., in the suit referred to—T. 2130-36.

26. When Mr. Dickinson in the summer of 1933 sought to get the Metro product for the Palace theatre for the next year Mr. Rodgers, the General Sales Manager, informed him that the only reason that they had let him have pictures for the season then about to end was a serious disagreement that they had had with Schine, so that the Palace was the only outlet they had that season in Lockport and that they preferred to go back to Schine for the coming season—T. 4506, 4510, 4511.

[fol. 4803] 27. Dickinson had a franchise of the first run of Columbia pictures for the season 1934-35 and 1935-36—Exs. D-47, D-48, D-49; T. 2008-2010.

28. In January 1934 Dickinson was offered United Artists product on first, second or third run and played a substantial number of United Artists pictures first run in 1934, 1935 and 1936—Exs. D-50 to 107; T. 3013-2014.

29. Charles Dickinson, Jr. had had no experience in the theatre business prior to December 1932.—T. 2002.

30. Dickinson admitted that Schines were regular customers of the 8 major companies.—T. 2004-5.

31. Sidney Samson, Buffalo Branch Manager of Fox, offered Dickinson Fox pictures on second run and was turned down because of price—T. 2052.

[fol. 4804]

MALONE

Pop. 8743

1. In September 1926 Schine became the lessee of the Malone theatre, formerly the Grand, 800 seats, later enlarged to 1400 seats, and of the Plaza, 610 seats, and in April 1937 became owner of the Malone, at a cost of $151,800, to which Schine added improvements at an additional cost of $106,000—Int. Ans. 17-A, p. 6, T. 3290-1.

2. In the sumer of 1935 Michael Boumansour, the lessor of the Plaza, received a letter, after which he went to see Mr. May in Gloversville, who told him that the Plaza was condemned and they would discontinue the payment of rent. The rent was paid for the ensuing year—T. 3292-95.

3. Boumansour remodelled the Plaza in 1936 and spent $20,000. When he opened it in November 1936 he had sufficient first run pictures and he did not consider using second run until later—T. 3296, 3404.

4. On Febuary 4, 1937 Boumansour informed Richard Struewe, a salesman for Warner, that he intended to go to a second run policy on May 1, 1937, and Struewe offered him 60 pictures of the 1936-37 season second run, and Boumansour said that he wanted only 30, and Struewe then offered him 30 pictures of the 1935-36 season but Boumansour said that he would not consider any proposition except a 30-picture deal of the 1936-37 season—Ex. D-137, T. 4429.

5. Boumansour signed his first application for second run pictures on June 14, 1937 for the 60 Warner-First National pictures which Struewe had offered him on February 4, 1937, and this contract was approved June 29, 1937 before Boumansour's letter of June 30, 1937 to the Department of Justice—Exs. 863, 909, T. 3393, 3397, 3413, Id. Ex. 857.

[fol. 4805] 6. Boumansour may have dated some pictures under this contract on the same day he signed, and he remembered that of the pictures called for in the contract he played about 6 or 8 pictures a week—T. 3392, 3473.

7. On the same trip to Albany on which Boumansour signed this contract, he went over and showed the contract to the Paramount branch manager and Paramount sold him some second run and he also showed it to the Metro manager and he got some Metro second run—T. 3326-3328.

8. The second run pictures which Boumansour bought under the contract, Ex. 863, in June 1937 had mostly all been played first run—T. 3472, 3473.

9. After Boumansour instituted his second run policy he announced from the stage to patrons that it was no use going to the other theatre in town, since the pictures shown there would be coming along soon in his house—T. 3418-3419.

10. Some time between December 1936 and May 1937, and before May 6, 1937, the Albany branch manager for Fox informed Boumansour that if he would buy 100% product, Fox would consider the deal and advise Boumansour immediately—T. 3402, 3404, 3483, 3486, 3487.

11. After Boumansour had begun cutting admission prices (T. 3417) and the Malone theatre had followed with reductions, Boumansour saw George Lynch in his office at Malone in the presence of Arty. Newman. Lynch said that they were both working their heads off and not getting anywhere, and that it would be better for both if he leased his theatre to Schine. Boumansour said that he would, and stated his terms. Lynch said that he had to call Myer Schine in Florida and then came back and said he had agreed to the terms of rent $8600 a year and Boumansour's services for one year at $70 a week—T. 3372-3376.

[fol. 4806] 12. The lease which Boumansour made was dated February 14, 1941, pursuant to the agreement of January 21, 1941, providing that Boumansour should not compete within twenty miles of any Schine town—Exs. 81, 82, T. 3380, 3381.

13. Boumansour continued as manager for about two years, during which the Plaza was operated three days a week—T. 3377-3378.

14. The admission prices at the Malone theatre during this period were 30¢ orchestra and 20¢ balcony and at the Plaza 25¢—T. 3378-9.

15. Boumansour notified the Department of Justice that he had disposed of his theatre as planned and that everything was satisfactory—T. 3382-84, Ex. D-133.

16. Except for a short period in 1922 and possibly again prior to 1930, Boumansour had not operated the Plaza prior to 1936 but the competition was so severe that he decided to lease the theatre to Meehan in 1923—T. 3414-3415.

17. Prior to the date of the opening of the Plaza theatre and thereafter the Malone theatre double featured major pictures during each week, with 3 to 4 changes per week, playing single features only on weekends—T. 3311, 3416.

18. Boumansour advertised 2-for-1 tickets, or a 12½¢ admission price with a coupon, practically at the outset of his operation of the Plaza theatre at a time when he was playing first run pictures. Soon after this he instituted dish give-aways, each patron receiving a dish costing 10¢ with each admission, and he also instituted a game known as "Lucky" for the use of which he was granted an allowance by the film companies—T. 3416-20.

[fol. 4807]

MASSENA

Pop. 11,328

1. In August 1926 Schine became lessee of the Massena theatre, 1111 seats, and the Rialto theatre, and expended in the improvement of the Massena $72,500—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 6; Ex. D-150.

2. Schine gave up the Rialto lease in 193[illegible] the present operator acquired it—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 6.

[fol. 4808]

MAYSVILLE

Pop. 6572

1. In June 1938 Schine became the lessee of the Russell theatre, 700 seats, and in January 1939 became interested to the extent of 60% in the Washington, 500 seats, and the Hollywood, 300 seats. S. Kaplan had an interest of 40% in these three theatres until December 7, 1940—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 17.

[fol. 4809]

MECHANICSVILLE

Pop. 7449

1. From April 1937 Schine had a fifty percent interest in and did the film buying, first at $100 a week and then at $200 a week in the aggregate for four theatres, the State at Mechanicsville, the Capitol at Ballston Spa, the Capitol at Whitehall, and the Ritz at Granville, and expended in the improvement of these four theatres approximately $50,000—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 11, 17(B), p. 1; Ex. D-150.

[fol. 4810]

MEDINA

Pop. 4359

1. In September 1937 Schine became interested in 50% of the lease of the Princess theatre, 350 seats, Yudelvitz and associates retaining 50%. In April 1939 the Schine and the Yudelvitz interests became interested in 50% of the lease of the Temple theatre, 857 seats, the other 50% being retained by Essick and Fine, who also acquired a 50% interest in the lease of the Princess, so that in April 1939 and thereafter the interest in the two leases stood Yudelvitz 25%, Schine 25%, and Essick and Fine 50%—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 13; T. 1847.

2. Yudelvitz and Willis were lessees and operators of the Princess theatre, with all the first run product they wanted, when by January 1, 1937 they had learned that Fine and Essick with a circuit of some 29 theatres, an independent circuit, that is, not connected with any producing company, were proposing to come into Medina in opposition to them—T. 1870, 1883.

3. On March 18, 1937 Yudelvitz and Willis entered into an agreement with Schine to come in with them and to build a new theatre—Ex. D-46, p. 1901.

4. At almost the same time the Masonic Lodge of Medina entered into the reconstruction of their building with a theatre in it. In March 1937, they wrote to Schine asking him not to go ahead with the plan to build a new theatre in Medina. The Masonic Lodge under date of January 18, 1938 leased to Essick and Fine—T. 1861, Ex. 648, Ex. 1006 same as Id. Ex. D-45.

5. The new theatre, the Temple, alone was ample for the town, but the Princess was not—T. 1876, 1885.

6. Before the new theatre, the Temple, opened Yudelvitz was playing Metro, Paramount, Fox, RKO, and Republic [fol. 4811] pictures because with the Western stars, Ken Maynard and Gene Autry, he wanted to play Republic on Fridays and Saturdays, although he was not forced to do so from any lack of product—T. 1888, 1889.

7. When the Yudelvitz 25%, Schine 25%, Fine and Essick 50% contract was made Schine and Yudelvitz contributed the lease and equipment of the Princess and Fine and Essick contributed the lease of the new theatre to the new corporation. After the payment of operating expenses the first $3,000 of profit was to be divided in the above proportions, then the next $1500 of profits went to Fine and Essick to repay the $53,000 that they had invested in the development of the new Temple theatre, and then the remaining profits were to be divided 25% to Yudelvitz, 25% to Schine and 50% to Fine and Essick—T. 1892-84, Ex. 648.

8. Schine said nothing to Essick and Fine by way of threat—T. 1921.

9. In the operation of the Medina Temple theatre the town has been very well served and the worth while pictures of all the distributors from time to time have been exhibited there—T. 1922.

10. The admission prices depend on the product, what the pictures are, what company produces them, and so on—T. 1924.

11. The cost of pictures to the exhibitor is one of the things which Essick would take into consideration in determining the price of admission—T. 1925.

12. Yudelvitz and Schine in the spring or fall of 1937 had expended in the vicinity of $15,000 in the improvement of the Princess theatre, and the contract shows that this was not to be paid back and there was no separate agreement to pay it back—T. 1926, 1928, Ex. 648, 648A.

[fol. 4812] 13. Essick did not ask Loew's for product until after he learned that Schine had entered the picture, and subsequently he made no effort to get Metro, Paramount, Fox, and RKO—T. 1913.

14. At the time the contract between Warner and Schine was approved by the general sales manager of Warner on October 27, 1937, he had heard no claim by Mr. Essick or Mr. Fine that Mr. Kalmenson had promised the Warner product to Essick or Fine—T. 4583.

15. When Mr. Essick made his claim in November 1937, Mr. Kalmenson denied that he had made any such promise and this denial was brought to the attention of the general sales manager—T. 4583.

16. In view of the controversy the general sales manager secured a reduction of the number of pictures to Schine to one half of the product and licensed one half of the product to Essick and Fine, pursuant to his policy to adjust matters in case of a disagreement between customers—T. 4591, 4593.

17. In the conversation which Essick and Fine had with Mooney and Kalmenson regarding Warner product there was no discussion as to terms, season, date of opening of the theatre or other details—T. 1806.

[fol. 4813]

MIDDLESBORO

Pop. 11,777

1. Schine became lessee of the Manring theatre, 965 seats, and the Brownie theatre, 412 seats, in January 1939, and the owner in February 1941, at a cost for the Manring of $85,000, to which Schine added improvements at an additional cost of $10,600—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 17; Ex. D-150.

[fol. 4814]

MILFORD

Pop. 4214

In January 1939 Schine became the owner of the Plaza theatre, 1057 seats, at a cost of $62,500, to which Schine added improvements at an additional cost of $50,500—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 19; Ex. D-150.

[fol. 4815]

MT. VERNON

Pop. 10,122

1. Mr. Smoots, the owner of the Vine and lessee of the Memorial, brought the matter of going into Mt. Vernon to Schine's attention and proposed to lease the Vine to Schine and assign his lease on the Memorial, which was then closed —T. 4120, 4121.

2. At about the same time Mr. Platt, who operated the Lyric, said that he would like to sell Schine the equipment and lease of the Lyric provided he could get a job to manage the theatres in town, and this deal was closed about February 1934—T. 4124.

3. Schine became the lessee of the Vine theatre, 585 seats, and of the Memorial theatre, 1065 seats, in January 1934, and of the Lyric theatre in February 1934, and of the Memorial again at the end of December 1940, and expended in the improvement of the Vine $3300, and of the Memorial $6100—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 13, 14; Ex. D-150, T. 4126.

4. Schine first made moderate improvements on the Vine and about a year later started making a survey for enlarging the Vine into a modern theatre—T. 4124.

5. The Vine was near the busy part of the Square, a little off the main street, with one floor, seating 585 people, with a high ceiling, but lacking modern appointments and conveniences, and with a very short lobby—T. 4125.

6. The Lyric location was the finest location in the town, right on the Square, near the chief department store. On this site, in April 1938, the new Vernon theatre, 1266 seats, was built. Schine expended on this new theatre an additional $48,600—T. 4125-26, Ex. D-150, Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 13, 14.

[fol. 4816] 7. The Lyric was a very narrow building, one of the first theatres built for motion pictures, with a high ceiling, but only one aisle in the center, with about 4 or 5 seats on each side, and with no lavatory facilities and with a stove in the rear of the theatre, right in the aisle, and a booth projecting right over part of the audience, making the ceiling there very low—T. 4126.

8. The Memorial was on top of a hill, about a block and a half or two blocks from the business section. It was in a county building with county offices and a walkway about 100 feet off the sidewalk. The entrance was just an ordinary door, with no appearance of a theatre, leading to a hall which contains seats and a balcony, and is equipped with a booth and screen—T. 4127.

9. The Lyric site was inadequate for the new Vernon theatre, and it was necessary to buy additional land—T. 4128.

10. The new Vernon theatre, completed in April 1938, is a modern fireproof constructed theatre with a wide marquee in front, no stores, a large lobby, and in the interior decorated in very modernistic style, with the finest seats obtainable, has all the other equipment and a fine mezzanine furnished attractive and comfortable, with fine public spaces for men and ladies upstairs and downstairs. The $48,600 spent by Schine for equipment was in addition to the money expended by the owner in building the building at a cost of from $120,000 to $130,000—T. 4129.

11. Emerson W. Long obtained a lease of the Memorial at the end of 1934 and operated it until December 1940—T. 199.

12. In 1937 Mr. Custer, followed by Mr. May, tried to work out a deal with Long or build a new theatre and advised a sale. The visit was a friendly one and the advice given was of a friendly nature with no threats involved—T. 154-6.

[fol. 4817] 13. Before the new Vernon was opened, Long was getting adequate product and played to crowded houses —T. 236, 256, Exs. D-1, 2, 3, 6, 9.

14. Long was interested in first run product of which he had all he wanted, and he turned down offers of second run product—T. 254, 260.

15. When Long requested first run product in December 1934 and was told it was sold he did not consider it unusual at that date—T. 218-220.

16. Long operated the only theatre in Cadiz, Ohio, where he also had a closed theatre, and he tried to use the pressure of this situation to get product for Mount Vernon—T. 200, 205, 235, Ex. D-2-9.

17. At the conclusion of Long's lease in 1939, he was awarded a new lease although the owners received a better bid from Schine—T. 336.

18. On December 18, 1940 a lease was awarded to Schine, after Long was given first opportunity to renew his lease—T. 333, 337-340.

19. From 1940 on the conditions in Mt. Vernon improved —T. 345.

[fol 4818]

NEWARK

Pop. 9,646

1 In October 1924 Schine became the owner of the Capitol, 1210 seats, at a cost of $20,000, to which Schine added building and improvements at an additional cost of $143,700, and in April 1926 the lessee of the Crescent theatre, which became obsolete and unusable—Int. Ans. 17(A) and 18, p. 5.

[fol. 4819]

NORWALK

Pop. 8211

1. Schine became interested to the extent of 66⅔% in the lease of the Forum, 537 seats, in July 1935 and as owner of the Moose, 838 seats, in December 1936, and as owner of the Norwalk in March 1940, completed and opened August 13, 1941 at a cost for land of $16,350, to which Schine added building and improvements at an additional cost of $123,100. The improvements to the Forum cost $17,500—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 14; Ex. D-150.

2. The Forum was completed and opened with all new equipment in December 1934, T. 472, 936.

3. The Moose was built about 1904. The only other theatre which had been in the town had been acquired in 1926 and closed in 1931 by the operators of the Moose, T. 970-971.

4. Schmertz gave Felter the first opportunity to purchase ½ of the Fox product of the 1935-36 season and gave him 15 days to decide. Felter talked to Schmertz two weeks later and was told the product was still open and that he could have 3 more days. After the 3 days expired he called Schmertz and was then told that the product had been sold—T. 956-959.

NORWICH

Pop. 8694

1. Schine became owner of the Colonia theatre, 1045 seats, in November 1921, at a cost of $80,700, to which Schine added improvements at an additional cost of $29,-

500, and Lessee of the Strand from 1922 to 1930—Int. Ans. 17(A) and 23, p. 7; Ex. D-150.

2. The Colonia is a large complete theatre, with a large stage, good ventilation, good seats, nice entrance, and is housed in an extraordinary substantial building which was built by local citizens' subscriptions, with no theatre approaching equality to it within 50 miles except that at Binghamton, 40 miles away. After the major improvements in 1938 it was as modern as any theatre could be, with fine cushion seats with springs, ventilating system, finely decorated, with rather an attractive marquee with plenty of lights in front, and more important, the projection and sound was of the very latest type, and fine carpets, an outstanding theatre—T. 4056-68.

3. The Strand in 1929 was a much smaller theatre with no stage, a low ceiling and a projection booth on the ground floor, so that it was necessary to walk around it to enter the theatre, and was known as a glorified store show—T. 4057-58.

4. The Colonia was operated from the inception as a first run house—T. 4059.

5. The Strand was operated by Schine prior to 1929, as it had been operated by the previous exhibitor, as a Western and secondary feature house for action and Western pictures. The latter have not too logical stories and thrilling incidents, with a better appeal, in such places as Kentucky, than the so-called big stars—T. 4059-60.

6. William C. Smalley, operator of the Smalley Circuit, with eleven theatres in 1932 and fourteen in 1942, began to [fol. 4821] operate the Strand, built in 1919, with 740 seats after remodelling on November 4, 1930—T. 3669, 3584, 3681.

7. The Strand was not equipped for sound until 1930 and was a brand new operation in sound—T. 3690.

8. Up to this time the Colonia was the only outlet for sound pictures in Norwich and had Metro, Paramount, Fox, Universal, some Columbia, some United Artists—T. 3692-93.

9. In March 1932, the Strand burned and it was not reopened until November 1932, after the beginning of the release year 1932-33—T. 3586, 3694-3695.

10. Smalley began cutting admission prices as early as 1934 and continued to do so and advertised prices of 10¢ and 20¢ as late as January 19, 1942—T. 3718-3732, Exs. D-145, 146.

11. Smalley was getting such first run pictures as he was willing to buy from Columbia as late as December 1940 at $25 each—T. 3742, 3705-8, Exs. D-141, 142, 143, 144.

12. He was getting second run pictures throughout the whole period from all distributors—T. 3744.

13. The reason that the distributors sold to the Colonia was that that theatre was a satisfactory customer—T. 3641.

14. The distributors in negotiating with Smalley ordinarily negotiated for his entire circuit, striving to sell as many pictures as possible in his closed towns of which he had 12 as compared with 2 open towns, Norwich and Johnstown—T. 3637.

15. Smalley told the distributors that he would not buy pictures for his closed towns unless they sold him for Norwich—T. 3677.

1. In September 1926 Schine became lessee of the Strand theatre, 1311 seats, and of the Pontiac theatre, 460 seats, and later owner of the Strand at an original cost for the Strand of $137,000, to which Schine added new building, equipment and improvements at an additional cost of $155,800, and improvements to the Pontiac, formerly the Star, of $8700—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 7; Ex. D-150.

2. Lawrence Carkey testified that between July 1 and July 15, 1940 second run product was available, unsold in Ogdensburg, and he saw Jack Armm of Columbia, Richard Haas of Paramount, Richard Struewe of Warner, George Tucker of RKO, Gene Vogel of Metro, Jerry Spandau of Universal, Fred Sliter of Fox, and each said that it was available—T. 3554-56.

3. Carkey testified that he saw these salesmen again between August 15 and August 30, 1940 and each said that the second run Ogdensburg had been sold to Schine except that Spandau of Universal offered to sell him second run, and that Carkey told him that he would see him in a couple of days, that he wanted to have two major companies, and that he called in Jack Armm of Columbia and Jack Armm informed him that second run had been sold to Schine, and thereafter he had no further negotiations with any of the film companies for second run—T. 3560-64.

4. On September 4, 1940 the Common Council of Ogdensburg voted, authorizing a lease of the city market to Carkey —Ex. 879.

5. Carkey did nothing toward converting this into a theatre—T. 3545.

6. On September 17, 1940 a blue print sketch was prepared—T. 3547, Id. Ex. 880-881.

[fol. 4823] 7. On September 30, 1940 a proposed lease was submitted, which Carkey never signed—T. 3550-51.

8. Armm did not tell Carkey that second run had been sold to Schine. Armm told Carkey that Schine did not have a second run and there was no reason why Carkey could not have second run and that he could have it at a price not stated, but to be determined after he opened up and a check of the pictures showed what they were worth—T. 4435-36.

9. Later, when Armm met Carkey in Norwood and suggested going to look at the market place in Ogdensburg, where he was to build a theatre, Carkey said, I guess we will have to forget about it temporarily because Mrs. Shapiro, who was to finance it, has backed out, that the decorator who was doing his work and who was going to give him the money to fix it up with, and he had backed out. Thereafter on later visits, when they talked about Ogdensburg, Carkey told Armm that there was nothing doing, he could not get the finances—T. 4437, 4439, 4440.

1. Schine became owner of the Strand, 950 seats, the Capitol, 696 seats, and lessee of the Richardson in September 1922, and owner of the State in November 1934, and of the land for the Oswego, 1704 seats, in June 1937. The Oswego theatre was completed January 22, 1941. The original cost for the Strand was $75,000, to which Schline added improvements at an additional cost of $2,000. The original cost for the Capitol was $60,000; to which Schine added improvements at an additional cost of $35,000. The original cost for the land for the Oswego was $42,500, above which Schine built and added improvements at an additional cost of $249,800—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 7; Ex. D-150.

[fol. 4826] PARIS

Pop. 6,697

1. Schine became owner of 97% of the stock of Phoenix Amusement Company, lessee of the Bourbon theatre, 634 seats, in November 1936, and added improvements at a cost of $15,000. Schine became owner of the land for the Paris in December 1937 at a cost of $24,000. The theatre was completed in December 1939, 932 seats, at a cost for building and improvements of $71,000—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 17; Ex. D-150.

2. Early in October 1937 the Phoenix Amusement Company, pursanut to an ordinance dated October 7, 1937, received a license dated October 7, 1937 to erect and operate a new theatre—Ex. D-153, 153-A, T. 4148. Schine proceeded to have plans drawn, got bids in the spring or summer of 1938 and completed the new theatre in 1939—T. 4149, 4150.

3. On November 2, 1938 Harry Schwartz obtained a lease of property in Paris, about four months after he knew of the proposal for the new Schine theatre—T. 2905, Ex. 823.

4. In November 1938 Lazar asked Schwartz if he had not seen the sign on the lot Schine had purchased some time ago and that they were going to build a new theatre on it, and Schwartz told him that he had, and Lazar said that they had every intention of building a theatre in Paris and were not decided on just what type or what size, and that is why they had not begun earlier, and that he felt that Schwartz was making a mistake in building in competition with them, and Schwartz told him that he did not think so or he would not have signed a 20-year lease on the main corner of the town, and that he felt that he had the best location in Paris and that the theatre would be self-supporting. Lazar asked him if he would not come to meet him at the Lafayette Hotel, and Schwartz said that he would be glad to do so and went later in the day to the Lafayette Hotel—T. 2915, 2916.

[fol. 4827] 5. There, Lazar said that he did not feel that Paris could support three theatres and that as long as they had been in Paris operating a theatre and had anticipated building a new larger theatre, he could not quite understand what would prompt Schwartz to go into the town as competition. Schwartz repeated that his location was the better of the two and that he was not afraid of competition. Lazar asked him to think things over, that he felt that Schwartz was making a great mistake and would lose plenty of money, and that, if Schwartz cared to, Lazar would take this lease off his hands. Schwartz said for how much, and Lazar said, are you trying to hold me up, and Schwartz said I am not trying to hold you up; you called me up and I did not come to see you or call you up. Lazar said well, I believe that Mr. Schine would be willing to take this lease off your hands and relieve you of that obligation, and Schwartz said that he was not intending to give up the lease and that he was going ahead with the theatre, and that ended the conversation, T. 2916, 2917.

6. After Schwartz began construction, Lazar called Schwartz on the telephone and asked whether he was still determined to build or whether he was just starting operations to stop within a week or so, and Schwartz told him that he intended to go ahead, had plans drawn by a theatre architect and a contract had been signed with the construction company to build the theatre, and he fully intended to build it. Lazar told him that his offer was still good, and Schwartz told him that he did not believe he would care to sell the theatre or assign the lease—T. 2918.

7. Three weeks later, after the side walls were already constructed, Lazar called Schwartz on the telephone and asked Schwartz to stop construction and come to see him about a deal. Schwartz saw Lazar at the Lafayette Hotel. There they went over the same discussion and Lazar said he was willing to enter into a deal for the Opera House property in Lexington, Schwartz' Paris theatre and a theatre [fol. 4828] that Schwartz was operating in Frankfort, Ky. At this time Schine was building in Paris (T. 2919), and they made a deal and Schwartz stopped construction about August 30, 1939—T. 2919-20.

8. The agreements are dated September 15, 1939. They contain a provision that the assignors will not be interested for fifteen years in the motion picture, theatrical or amusement business in any city or town in the State of Kentucky, in which the assignee or any of its affiliated or associated companies are now engaged, except that the assignor may invest in stock and securities listed on any recognized stock exchange, and that Schine pay to the assignor $5,000 for the Paris leases and assume liabilities and that Schine pay to the lessor $22,500, for the Opera House lease, Ex. 823, T. 2921-27, Ex. 828, T. 2924-2925.

9. Before the Opera House was leased, Schine's first run houses in Lexington were charging 40¢ in the evening and 25¢ at matinee, and the second run house, the Strand, was charging 25¢ at night and 15¢ in the afternon. This was not changed from what it had been, except that prices had been reduced in the summer months of 1937-38, but not of 1939. Starting in 1934 the State was charging 10¢ matinee and 15¢ in the evening, and before that it was a 10¢ house and the Ada Meade was charging 10¢—T. 2927-28, 2933-34.

10. About six months after Schwartz leased the Opera House to Schine the admission price was made 16¢ for the matinee and 22¢ at night, and the prices at the other Schine houses were not raised until, subsequently, with the increase in taxes, the prices were raised a few cents, not very much—T. 2928-29.

11. Paris was not big enough for more than two theatres—T. 2934.

[fol. 4829] 12. Schwartz in his dealings with the Schine interest was met only with courtesy and fair discussion of negotiations. There is nothing in the record to show intimidation and no threats were made. The two agreements were a good deal for Schwartz and he got not only the money consideration, but a new lease of the Opera House running to Schwartz as lessor at a fair and satisfactory rental—T. 2934-36.

13. At the time of the agreements the only Kentucky towns that Schine was in were Middlesboro, Corbin, Pikeville, Paris, Richmond, Lexington and Maysville—T. 2937.

14. The Paris theatre is a very fine theatre—T. 2938.

1. Schine became lessee of the Auditorium, 652 seats, in October 1936—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 8; Ex. D-150.

2. Schine bought the Davis property a little below the hotel, at a corner on the Main Street, in July 1935—T. 4147, 2572.

3. In July 1935 Mr. May called on John C. Herzberger, the operator of the Auditorium theatre, and introduced himself and said that he had just closed a deal with Porter Davis, buying a lot for Mr. Schine, on which they were to build a theatre seating 1,000 persons and costing about $100,000 and that he hoped that they would be friends—T. 2570.

4. In August 1935 Herzberger met Schine at the Seneca Hotel in Rochester and Schine offered Herzberger $5,000 for his lease from the Town of Perry of the Auditorium. An agreement was signed, subject to the approval of the Town Board to the sale of the lease, and to expire on September 1—T. 2577.

5. In August 1935 the Town Board wanted Herzberger to stay and would not let him sell the lease—T. 2578.

6. Schine received the blue prints for a new theatre in Perry, dated Septmber 1935, and specifications therefor, and the time fixed for receiving bids for the construction was October 4, 1935—T. 4146-47, Id. Ex. D-152.

7. In September or October 1935 Mr. Osborne of Dipson & Osborne came to Mr. Herzberger several times about taking over his lease for more money than Schine had offered, and he made a deal with them and continued to manage the theatre for a year—T. 2582, 2579.

[fol. 4832] 8. Dipson improved the theatre at a substantial expense of about $13,000, that made the theatre a satisfactory theatre and removed any occasion for having another theatre built in the town. Before this improvement the theatre was not at all a modern theatre but had been built in 1898 for stage performances. After rebuilding it had about 700 seats, as Dipson reseated the theatre—T. 2584-86.

9. Dipson and Osborne sold their lease to Schine and Schine made additional improvements to the theatre at a cost of $7500—T. 2580, Ex. D-150.

10. No other theatre has been built in Perry—T. 2580.

1. Schine became the owner of the Grand, 834 seats, in August 1925; the Liberty, 1256 seats, by lease in October 1926 and deed in February 1939; the Riviera, 1508 seats, by lease in October 1926 and deed in April 1927; the State, 1062 seats, by lease in January 1926 and deed January 1928; the Cameo, 1258 seats, in May 1936; the Madison, 1381 seats, in February 939; the Monroe, 1186 seats, in February 1939; the West End, 832 seats, in February 1939; and the Webster, 1099 seats, in September 1940; and the Plaza in September 1940; and the lessee of the Dixie, 892 seats, in August 1932; and of the Lake, 840 seats, in January 1936. The original cost of the Grand was $95,000, to which Schine added improvements at an additional cost of $19,000. The original cost of the State was $145,000, to which Schine added improvements at an additional cost of $9,000. The original cost of the Riviera was $304,100, to which Schine added improvements at an additional cost of $7500. The original cost of the Cameo was $60,000, to which Schine added improvements at an additional cost of $25,500—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 8; Ex. D-150.

2. The price paid by Schine for the Madison, Monroe, Liberty and West End properties was as much as Fenyvessy paid for them—T. 2415, 2481-2484.

3. In 1927 Mr. Tishkoff and Mr. Schine had a conversation informally in the lobby of the Seneca Hotel. Schine asked him whether it was true that he and his associates proposed to build a theatre in the neighborhood of the State and Plaza, and Tishkoff said that it was true. Schine asked him whether he thought the location was suitable for a third theatre, and Tishkoff said that he didn't know, that his partner got into it and he went along. Tishkoff said why don't you come up to my office tomorrow and I will have my associates there and see if we can't work out some-[fol. 4838] thing whereby we might have a partnership in the theatres—T. 4088.

4. The next day they met in Mr. Tishkoff's office and Schine told the group that the neighborhood was already overseated and that the Plaza had just been remodelled and that there wasn't room for a third theatre. They talked the possibility of a partnership, and Schine said that he wouldn't go into the partnership, that they were overseating a neighborhood and that if they really wanted to build a theatre there were many other neighborhoods where a theatre was needed, but they said that they owned a lot and were going ahead, and Schine said that there would be no more sense in it than in building a theatre near the Murray. Nothing was said in substance that if they persisted Schine would put in a theatre next to the Murray, and there was no talk about the possibility of Schine's building another theatre near the Murray or about buying power if a theatre was put up near the Murray. The possible harmful effect on the Plaza theatre had been considered by Tishkoff and Fogel—T. 4089, 4093, 4090, 3242.

5. Later Tishkoff and Fogel told Schine that they had gone ahead and that the theare was reaching completion and that they thought it would be of advantage to form a partnership of a half interest in the lease of the property which they and their associates owned, at $20,000 a year, and Schine said that he would think the matter over—T. 4091.

6. They met again and they said that they were willing to form a corporation to take a lease of the Webster with $20,000 to be put up as advance rent, $10,000 of it by Schine, and Schine would have to take half of the product run first in the State and give them, and Schine would get a contract to buy the pictures at 5% of the gross receipts, with the operation in the hands of Mr. Fogel, and after some weeks Schine agreed to that—T. 4092.

7. The State theatre had been built about a year before —T. 4092.

[fol. 4839] 8. The first run theatres in downtown Rochester are Loew's Century, Palace, Regent and Temple—T. 2217.

9. Loew's was operated by Loew's, the Century and Regent by Comerford and Paramount, the Palace and Temple by RKO—T. 2218-19.

10. The location of the theatres in Rochester and the distances apart appear on Ex. D-112, T. 2423-32, 2439-44.

11. In 1939 Mr. Fenyvessy, the father of the witness Chester Fenyvessy, after operating theatres in Rochester for thirty years and at the age of eighty-four, desired to dispose of his theatre interests and conducted negotiations which resulted in a deal with Mr. Schine for the sale to him of the Madison, Monroe, Liberty and West End theatres—T. 2433.

12. The unrest in Europe affected the supply of suitable foreign language and other product theretofore obtainable for the Little theatre in Rochester, and the pictures licensed to other theatres in Rochester could not be licensed on the same run to this theatre—T. 2508, 2516.

13. There was nothing abnormal about the sequence of runs or clearance licensed by the respective distributors to the respective theatres—T. 2384-2555.

14. Schine disposed of the Webster and of Schine's interest in the Plaza theatres in June 1942, following the consent order entered May 19, 1942.

15. When the Madison was obtained by Mr. Fenyvessy, father of the witness Chester Fenyvessy, in 1929, Schine was already operating the Riviera, Liberty, State and Dixie on the prior run—T. 2484-85.

16. From the early thirties, the Liberty was a source of revenue to Mr. Fenyvessy, the father, who bought it subject to the lease to Schine and continued to lease it to Schine—T. 2484-85.

17. The Fenyvessy theatres took clearance over all the Schine theatres in Rochester except the Riviera, State, Dixie and Liberty—T. 2439.

2. Bernard Ulman is a manufacturing pharmacist in Baltimore and President of the corporation that operates the Ulman theatre and the New theatre in Salisbury—T. 2951.

3. In May or June 1941 Mr. May came to see Mr. Ulman and asked for a lease to Schine of his two theatres and Ulman asked him for an offer, and May requested figures of the business they were doing, upon which an offer could be based. Ulman did not give him any figures and May said he would come back later—T. 2953.

4. The Ulman theatre burned in June 1941—T. 2953.

5. Shortly thereafter May came to see Ulman. Ulman informed him that he was going to rebuild. May said that he did not think it would be advisable because there would be difficulty in getting pictures on account of the war situation, and the theatre was not needed in the town—T. 2953.

6. Thereafter Lee Insley, Divisional Manager of the booking office for booking pictures for theatres from the Washington exchange, Maryland and Delaware, with such duties as are assigned by the executive office, came to see Ulman and said that Schine was in a better position to run the theatre than he and also they were in a better position to buy pictures—T. 2954-55.

[fol. 4843] 7. The Ulman theatre always had a split of Paramount product prior to the 1938-39 season and again in the 1939-40 season—T. 2941-2950.

8. There are five theatres in the town, of which the Arcade, Wicomico, Ulman and New theatres play first run product. At the time Schine acquired the Arcade it was playing the first run product of Warner, Metro and Columbia, and at the time Schine acquired the Wicomico it was playing the first run product of RKO and Universal—T. 2941, 2949, 2950-1.

1. In March 1927 Schine became the owner of the Pontiac, 1218 seats, at a cost of $135,000, to which Schine added

[fol. 4845] SEAFORD

1. Mr. Thomas E. Ayers testified that on several occasions in 1938 and 1939 Mr. May and Mr. Insley spoke to him, the operator of the Palace theatre and the Layton theatre and the Sussex theatre in Georgetown, about buying the theatres and he said that he wasn't interested and didn't want to sell—T. 2959.

2. Ayers testified that after Schine acquired the Waller theatre in Laurel in April 1939, Mr. Schine and Mr. McKay and Mr. May said that if he was interested in selling, they would like to make a deal, and he said he was not, and they wanted to know if he would go in as partners with them, and he said that he was not interested, and they said they thought it would be more to his profit if he would go in partners with them because they could secure pictures much cheaper than he could, and at the end he would probably make as much money as if he was by himself, and he told them that he was not interested—T. 2961.

3. Ayers testified that Mr. Insley wanted to know if there was any way it would be possible to make a deal and that it was very foolish not to make one because they have Laurel and are likely with the buying power they had to get the product away from me and I would wind up probably playing Independent companies rather than playing the type of pictures that I was already playing, and he told them that he would have to take that chance, that he still was not interested—T. 2962.

4. Ayers testified that Mr. May the last time he was there asked him if he would not reconsider on making a deal, and he told him no, that he had started to build a second theatre, the Layton, and he said that they would take that house over in connection with the Palace if he would make a deal, and he told him no—T. 2963.

SHELBY

Pop. 6653

1. In September 1937 Schine bought a 50% interest in the lease of the Castamba, 749 seats—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 14.

2. January 23, 1936 Halmer D. Shreffler, operator of the Castamba, wrote Louis Lazar and later was in touch with Lazar, who wanted to make a partnership deal—T. 1113, 1116.

3. After July 3, 1937 and in latter August or first of September 1937, at Shreffler's carriage works, Lazar said that Nick Dipson was going to put in a theatre in Shelby—T. 1130-32.

4. Shreffler testified that at this conversation Lazar said that he needed the Schine organization to stay in business as Dipson would smother him and that Schine was coming into Shelby and would buy the State theatre and pay $1,000 more than Shreffler could afford and would take the product —T. 1132-34.

5. The Film Daily, the moving picture periodical, said that Dipson was coming in to build a de luxe theatre in Shelby—T. 1135.

6. At this time the Castamba had 476 seats—T. 1136.

7. Shreffler decided to go in with Schine and the contract was signed on September 19, 1937—T. 1137.

8. Shreffler testified that Lazar said that if they found that Schine was coming in the chances were that the State wouldn't be built—T. 1144.

9. Shreffler testified that he began remodelling in June 1937 and spent $30,000 on the theatre and opened up September 28 or 29, 1937, and Schine paid him $15,000 for half of the building cost—T. 1145.

10. Shreffler didn't own the building and had no lease and paid $145 a month rent—T. 1146-47.

11. Shreffler receives $50 a week for managing the theatre and his son does not have to render any services—T. 1162.

[fol. 4848] 12. On July 8, 1938 Schine offered to get out and sell his stock back to Shreffler but Shreffler did not accept the offer—T. 1177, 1190.

13. On Thanksgiving Day, 1937, Richard T. Kemper, one time associated with the Dipson Circuit, opened the State theatre, 454 seats. The Opera House, an upstairs house, 325 seats and not too good was also operating at the time—T. 1193, 1194, 1201.

14. Kemper met Lazar, who said that Shelby was not too profitable and wanted to know what Kemper's investment was and what he would take for it and Kemper said his investment was $15,000—T. 1208.

15. In July 1938 Kemper met Lazar and Lazar said that Schine could not pay the amount, that he had a partner in Shelby and he was not willing to make the deal—T. 1212.

16. Kemper testified that Lazar asked if there was any provision in the lease as to when the theatre must be kept open and Kemper told him the Opera House two days, but nothing in the State, and Lazar said that they would probably close the State and operate the Opera House—T. 1214.

17. In September 1937 Kemper represented Dipson in another matter—T. 1223.

18. Kemper did not make any deal with Schine and in July 1939 turned his theatre over to his associates—T. 1215.

19. Shreffler had another business in town and did not depend on the theatre for his livelihood—T. 1185-1186.

20. Since 1930 Shreffler had received many offers for the purchase or acquisition of an interest in his Castamba theatre—T. 1112.

21. When Shreffler heard that Dipson was going to build a theatre in Shelby he knew that Dipson was a keen competitor of Schine—T. 1176-7.

22. Kemper was successful in obtaining the product of Universal, United Artists, Columbia and Monogram on first run and he was also able to get some first run RKO product for his theatre.—T. 1193, 1124, 1126-7, Ex. D-42.

[fol. 4850] Syracuse

Pop. 205,967

1. In January 1927 Schine became lessee, to the extent of a half interest, of the Eckel theatre, 1408 seats, and made additions and improvements at a cost of $78,000—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 9.

2. In 1935 Loew's was operating the State theatre and RKO subsidiaries were operating the Keith, Paramount and Strand theatres, all first run houses. Senator Walters, representing RKO, asked Schine about Syracuse, and this developed into a joint operation of RKO and Schine, at first 60% to RKO and 40% to Schine and later 70% to RKO and 30% to Schine, under which RKO did the buying and booking. This covered all the first run houses, except Loew's, among the approximately 25 theatres in Syracuse—T. 4110-13, 4197, 2858, 2688.

3. Charles B. Martina obtained a lease of the Empire theatre from March 1, 1940 and sought to buy first run pictures for the Empire and found that they were already licensed to the other first run theatres, of which he had made a survey before he went in. Martina was also aware of the fact that the second run product was already licensed in Syracuse—T. 2603-2626, 2687-2689, 2692-94.

4. The Empire had not had first run or second run—T. 2626, 2693-2694.

5. Martina operated three weeks and six days and played such first runs as were released from the licenses to the first run theatres—T. 2634, 2697.

6. In 1929 the owners of the Strand theatre made a ten-year lease to Warner Bros. Theatre Company, which was transferred later to RKO—T. 2725.

7. In the summer of 1939 Stanley G. Falk, for the owners, negotiated with Mr. Schine and Mr. Myers of RKO for an extension of the lease for two years, ending in August 1941—T. 2734.

[fol. 4851] 8. In the summer of 1941 the owners took up with RKO and Schine the matter of a further renewal. Schine offered a rental of $18,000 plus a percentage of the profits, and Falk was unwilling to lease on these terms—T. 2743.

9. In September 1941 the owners leased to a corporation, of which the owners held half the stock and Hubert P. Wallace the other half, which operated for four or five months—T. 2746, Ex. 812, T. 2793.

10. Wallace, beginning September 9, 1941, sought to get pictures for the Strand and found that he could obtain only those released from the prior runs, or subsequent runs of pictures licensed to other theatres for prior runs. He was advised that first run was sold, as was second run, and that there was a third run choice of an established trade—T. 2859-70, 2801-13, 2816-17.

11. The distributors whose salesmen he approached offered him such pictures as they had available. He refused offers of product made by Metro, Fox and Paramount—T. 4441-59, 2974-3064, 4263-4320, 4516-17, 2807, 2815-19.

12. The prices which the salesmen offered were reasonable prices for such a theatre as the Strand—T. 4348-67, 4441-59, 2974-3064, 4263-4320, 4516-47.

13. Before Wallace became interested in the lease of the Strand in September 1041, Fred Myers had already severed his connection with RKO in May 1941—T. 4472.

14. The pictures offered Wallace for this new venture at the Strand were all open for the runs and dates offered, and subsequently many of them were licensed to others—T. 4283, 4291, 4296; Exs. D-156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 963-978; T. 4273, 4281, 4520-45.

15. The pictures which Wallace selected for the opening of the Strand were RKO's Jungle Cavalcade, released for first run June 27, 1941, and Flying Down to Rio; and he opened with these—T. 4522, Ex. 634, T. 3867, 4447, Ex. D-116.

16. The first call which RKO's salesman Smith made on Wallace in September 1941, was on September 15, at which [fol. 4852] time or the following day, Smith offered Wallace Jungle Cavalcade, Flying Down to Rio, Met in Argentina, Reluctant Dragon, and Six Gun Gold. Smith informed him that Hurry Charley Hurry and They Meet Again were under contract to the RKO-Schine Syracuse first run theatres and that if passed up by them, these pictures would be available for the Strand; but neither Smith, nor RKO's Branch Manager Lux, assured Wallace of these pictures at any time; and they were shown at the Eckel Theatre in September and October 1941—T. 4719, 4520, 4526, 4535, 4545, Ex. 820, T. 3003, 2996, 2988, 2993, Ex. D-114, D-115, T. 3047, Ex. 980.

17. Wallace did not — in reliance on anything that Smith or Lux had said order the painter, on September 10, 1941 or at any other time, to put Hurry Charley Hurry and They Meet Again on the new front of the Strand, and he did not advertise them.—T. 4519, 4521, 4526, 4535, 3010, 3015, Ex. D-116.

18. Wallace contracted with RKO for several other pictures which he did not play at the Strand and RKO brought suit and recovered judgment for non-performance—Ex. D-117, 118, T. 3024-26.

19. In addition to motion pictures, Wallace played many stage shows, with bands, acts and other things at the Strand and he also offered Bingo games as an added attraction to his patrons—T. 3038-3045, 3055-3056, Id. Ex. D-159.

20. The new operation of the Strand beginning September 20 1941 was an experiment which the owners undertook, because they must pay the fixed charges on the property, even if it was idle, and if the theatre could pay operating expenses and any margin above, it was so much gain over idleness; and an intimation of the plan in operation might induce RKO-Schine to increase their offer of rent above $18,000; but it did not—T. 2743, 2735, 2741.

21. Schine did not have an interest in all of the first run theatres in Syracuse and had no interest in the second, third or subsequent run theatres except the Empire and Palace—Exs. 965-979.

Pop. 9227

1. In February 1935 Schine became lessee of the Van Wert, 1710 seats, newly completed and operated in August, 1935, and in September 1935 of the Strand, and improved the Van Wert at a cost of $3500—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 15; Ex. D-150, T. 357, 358.

2. In October 1934 Carl B. Moore opened the Ohio theatre and operated it as a first and second run house until the Van Wert opened and then as a second run house—T. 432, 371, 357, 358.

3. In April 1936 Moore offered to sell to Schine and a deal was made and then cancelled at Moore's request, because he wanted to continue to operate the theatre—T. 410, 415.

4. The plaintiff does not offer to show that Moore could not get second run pictures except one season of Metro, and Moore continued to do nicely for second run—T. 429, 456.

5. Moore opened the Ohio at 10¢ and 25¢ in the evening and 10¢ and 15¢ matinee, and in 1935 changed to a straight evening policy of 10¢ and 15¢. This was before Schine opened the Van Wert—T. 441-444.

6. The Ohio theatre had 347 seats and had been closed for, Moore did not know how many years when Moore opened it—T. 387.

7. It had been a store and converted to a little moving picture show, 40 feet wide and 120 feet deep—T. 388.

WATERTOWN

Pop. 33,385

1. Schine became the lessee of the Avon, 1376 seats, and the Olympic, 1649 seats, in January 1927, and of the Palace, 594 seats, in September 1936, and improved the Avon at a cost of $38,500 and the Olympic at a cost of $37,500—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 11; Ex. D-150.

2. Peter C. Vournakis began to operate the Strand, 400 seats in 1924 and the Liberty, 700 seats, in 1933—T. 3142-43.

3. On August 29, 1934 Vournakis came to Gloversville and received an offer from Schine to buy pictures for his theatres or to buy the theatre for $15,000. Vournakis declined. Schine offered to buy film for $25 a week, and if Schine acquired the Palace he would pay Vournakis a good rent for the Strand, and Vournakis said no—T. 3157-58.

4. On September 3, 1934 Vournakis wrote Schine a letter, to which he received no reply—T. 3157-58.

5. Vournakis testified that, in 1938, he had a conversation with Schine and said we were trying hard to make a living up here and Schine asked if I was interested to sell out, and I said I never thought of it, and Schine said that if I wanted to do anything to tell Bill Tubbert, who was there, and he would bring the proposition over, and about three or four weeks later I decide to go home to Greece and they offered me $35,000 for the Liberty, and I said that I would sell both houses for $85,000 and I haven't heard anything more except the offer for the Liberty—T. 3164-66.

6. A little later we got together, because there were too many houses in town, to close up two houses up there and just open them Saturday and Monday—T. 3169.

[fol. 4858] 7. On September 20, 1939 Vournakis had a conversation with Lynch. Vournakis said:—Schine called me on the telephone and told me that if I went down to Gloversville they had something for me, that would be a benefit up there so we can straighten out the Watertown situation, and I told him that I wasn't feeling good but I would go down and see him, and I went down and Lynch gave me the paper—T. 3171, Ex. 845, T. 3172.

8. About an hour later I talked with Schine and I told him it would be better if we closed up two houses there and he said may be have to do something like that, because they got too many houses—T. 3172.

9. Afterwards he dictated that letter and asked me if I wanted to sign it all right and if I don't want to sign it all right, and I signed it—T. 3173, Ex. 846.

10. The first paper read; Mr. Peter Vournakis of the Strand and Liberty theatres, Watertown, has requested and I have agreed to reduce the clearance of 60 days second run over third run to 30 days on the following companies, Paramount, Fox, Warner, RKO and United Artists—George Lynch—T. 3174, Ex. 845.

11. The later paper was an affidavit stating that Vournakis had been in the theatre business in Watertown for twenty years, "a great portion of that time I had been operating and still operate two theatres in opposition to the Schine theatres in that city, and during the entire period I have never experienced any unpleasantness and at no time have I had any difficulty in obtaining the pictures I wanted to buy. I have always found that their theatres were conducted in a businesslike manner, on a fair competitive basis", and this was sworn to on September 20, 1939—T. 3175, Ex. 846.

12. The offer of $15,000 was for the Strand alone as Vournakis had turned the Liberty back—T. 3176-77.

[fol. 4859] 13. When Schine offered $35,000 Vournakis told him that he wanted $85,000 for both places or nothing and to let him know right away and that was the Strand and the Liberty. They never let him know—T. 3179.

14. The statements in the affidavit are true as far as the thing is there. I always be able to buy pictures after him but not before him. That means I have to wait after they get through and then buy them. As far as the competitive business we always competed there—T. 3179-80.

15. Vournakis couldn't say whether the $15,000 offer was above the mortgage. The mortgage was $10,000—T. 3181.

16. At the time that Vournakis requested second run product of Universal, Metro and Columbia he was not using the product of those companies—T. 3152, 3154-5.

17. When Schine resumed operation of the Avon and Olympic in 1933 the Olympic was charging 25¢ and 35¢, the Avon was charging 35¢ and 40¢, and the Strand and Victoria were charging 25¢. Shortly thereafter the Olympic went to 25¢ all over the house, the Strand and Liberty went to 20¢, and the Avon remained at 35¢ and 40¢. In 1935 the Olympic went to 15¢ in the balcony, the Strand went to 15¢ and 20¢, and the Liberty to 15¢ with 2-for-1 admissions being given out at the Strand and Liberty. After the Palace was taken over by Schine the Olympic went to 25¢ and the Palace charge 15¢ and 20¢. These prices remained in effect until increased due to the tax, and all went up again in 1940—T. 3167-9.

Pop. 11,543

1. Schine became interested to the extent of 50% in the lease of the Wooster, 1123 seats, in July 1931, the Opera House, 1100 seats, in September 1933, and the Wallace dismantled and made into a store in November 1932, and in the ownership of the Wayne, 679 seats, by the purchase of the land in July 1937 at a cost of $12,000. The cost of erecting the new Wayne theatre, completed in 1938, was $66,000 and the cost of added improvements to the Wooster was $37,500—Int. Ans. 17(A), p. 15; Ex. D-150.

[fol. 4862] Sixth. The defendants request the Court to find the facts following:

1. It does not appear that any distributor or representative thereof promised Schine not to sell to competitors—T. 4167.

2. James R. Grainger, then General Sales Manager of Fox, made no such promise—T. 4167.

3. Schine did not inform Schmertz that Grainger had made such a promise—T. 4162.

4. Schine did not in the course of negotiations for the acquisition of any theatre at any time say to the prospective seller that if he did not sell to Schine he would have difficulty in getting product for his theatre—T. 4168.

5. Schine did not say to any such person that if he did not sell to Schine he would open up another theatre in the town—T. 4168.

6. Schine has not told any one else to make any such statements in negotiating for theatres for Schine—T. 4168.

7. Schine was not at the time of any such negotiations aware that any one had made any such statements—T. 4168.

8. Schine has not said to any one that he approved of their making or having made any such statements—T. 4169.

9. Schine has not asked any distributor to suggest to any person with whom Schine was negotiating for a theatre, or for any interest therein, that unless the theatre or an interest therein was sold to Schine, it would be difficult for the theatre to obtain product —T. 4169.

[fol. 4863] 10. Schine has not in any conversation with any employee of Columbia, Fox, Loew's Paramount, RKO, United Artists, Universal or Vitagraph said that any one of them should not deal with a competing exhibitor to Schine—T. 4169.

11. Schine has not written any such statement to any of them—T. 4170.

12. Schine has not said to any one of them that if they made such a sale Schine would not buy from them elsewhere in the Schine Circuit—T. 4170.

13. Schine has not for the acquisitions of theatres made any threats or misrepresentations—T. 4150.

14. It does not appear that in negotiating for product for the Schine Circuit there has been any departure from the normal and usual courses pursued in the industry for such negotiations to get the best prices and terms and runs and clearances obtainable for the Circuit by earnest and fair negotiation. Plaintiff's Admissions T. 4615-4618, T. 4334-4356, 4478, 4375, 4476, 4376-4378, 4556, 4605, 4415, 4386, 4508, 4604, 4397-4398, 4401-4421, 4487, 4554, 2468, Exs. 741-744, T. 1166, 4557-4559, 4488-4489, 4614, 2864, 3665-3668, 2408, 2447, 2452, 2492, 2536, 4508, 4609, 3946, Ex. 190, D. 2-9, T. 200, 235, 3637, 3677.

15. Schine has not monopolized or restrained the flow of moving pictures from any other state into any town in any state, either in quality or in money value.

16. It does not appear that the financial growth of Schine has been out of line with the physical enlargement and betterment in the number and character of the Schine theatres.

17. This enlargement has been predominantly by Schine, and not by combination with others.

18. It has been by normal business practices, and not predatory.

[fol. 4864] Seventh. The defendants request the Court to find the facts as to the policy of the several distributors to be as follows:

1. For the past 15 to 20 years the normal method of licensing the exhibition of copyrighted motion picture photoplays in the United States of America, including the states of New York, Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, has been on a so-called run basis, to wit: For a first run to a theatre in a local competitive area with such exclusive exhibition rights and clearance privileges, if any, as may be appropriate to the successful exploitation of said copyrights in said area; for such subsequent runs in said area, and with such exclusive rights and privileges, if any, as may be appropriate to the successful exploitation of said copyrights in said area—Plaintiff's Admissions 4615.

2. It has been the usual and customary practice for the distributor to agree with its licensees that it will not exhibit or grant a license to exhibit its photoplays for exhibition in conflict with the run licensed the exhibitor, or prior to the clearance period agreed upon with the exhibitor—Pltf's. Adm. 4616.

3. The motion picture industry has developed under the existence of clearance and runs. It is by such a system with initially large receipts from prior run exhibitions and successive reduction of license charges that satisfactory revenue can be derived by the producers and distributors so that costly feature pictures can be made available to the whole public at varying admission prices—Pltf's. Adm. 4616.

4. In each competitive area under normal business conditions of free competition each distributor desires to license its films for successive runs in such area under such clearance terms as will yield the maximum total license revenue from the area. In determining which theatre shall have which runs its past business relations with the theatre, [fol. 4865] the skill and character of its management, its size, location, equipment and drawing power are all features which among others may influence such decision—Pltf's. Adm. 4617.

5. Motion pictures are works of art and are the subject of copyright. They have no uniform or market value and the revenue which an owner of a copyright can derive from any picture or group of pictures depends upon the ability of the distributor to market them in different situations to the best advantage—Pltf's. Adm. No. 23, 4618.

6. Of the Schine theatres approximately 80% are located in cities or villages with populations under 25,000 and 60% are located in cities or villages with populations under 10,000—Pltf's. Adm. No. 11, 4617.

7. In a competitive area, where there are opposing possible theatres, to which films may be licensed, the distributor generally licenses the picture and determines the rental in accordance with the box office grossing ability of the picture at the theatre to which the distributor decides to license the picture—T. 4334.

8. The cost of the original production of a picture to the point where the negative is ready, so that positives for showing can be made, at times runs into millions of dollars. Each positive taken from the negative costs approximately $185 or more in addition, and if it is in technicolor the cost of the positive runs much higher—T. 4335, 4337.

9. For the average picture Fox makes about 300 positive prints of an "A" picture and on an especially good picture as high as 360-370 such prints—T. 4337.

10. There are in operation in the United States, equipped for sound, in excess of 17,000 theatres—T. 4336.

11. A very good picture distributed by Fox would play approximately 14,000 of those theatres—T. 4341.

[fol. 4866] 12. A single print would be called upon to serve from 40 to 50 theatres—T. 4341.

13. An ordinary tour of a print from the time it leaves the exchange to go to one theatre, through transportation time, time of exhibition at the theatre, transportation time on return of the print, and inspection requires several days before the print can start out for its next theatre—T. 4341.

14. Fox serves that print over about a year of time to cover all the theatres in which that particular print is exhibited—T. 4342.

15. Fox has 31 exchange centers, each serving an area in which from 450 to 500 theatres on an average are located —T. 4343.

16. The prints are served in a sequence of time, starting generally to play first the larger theatres in the larger cities and towns, because those are the theatres that do the biggest business and the distributor regards them as a show window for the entire exchange territory, and in that show window the picture is well advertised, in the newspapers and sometimes in radio programs and in lobby displays and in front of the theatre—T. 4343.

17. The effort of the distributor and of the exhibitor is to have the selection of the theatres to show at a particular time, so made that they will be spaced in areas so that the pictures are shown in the different theatres in such a way that a particular picture showing in one theatre will not draw directly away from another theatre playing the same picture that day—T. 4344.

18. In determining the runs and the period and area of clearance the distributor figures that there is a certain amount of money that an individual of the public has to spend for motion picture entertainment during a given week, and that there is competition for that sum because what [fol. 4867] is spent to see it in the first run house will leave so much less to be spent in the second run house, so that the first run house and the second run house playing later are in competition with each other or with any other theatre, and the distributor desires to have as much go into the first run house because the distributor can get more money out of that theatre than out of subsequent run theatres—T. 4344.

19. It is estimated that of the total revenue of a distributor 70% comes from the first run theatres and 30% from all other theatres playing second and subsequent runs, and that the 70% or 75% is made up of 35% or 40% from towns under 50,000 population and the other 40% or 35% from those over 50,000 population—T. 4345, 4608.

20. The plan of clearance came into the industry as a means of protecting the prior run theatre whose capital cost is very large, running in a medium sized town in the early days from $75,000 to $100,000 up to an investment of a million dollars or more in later days, which needed the protection for the investment by playing the first run of the picture a sufficient length of time before a second run in the same competitive area, so that the expectation that the picture might be seen in the same competitive area too soon would not detract from the attendance at the first run theatre and the consequent box office receipts there—T. 4479, 4346.

21. In determining the film rental, whether a percentage rental or a flat rental, the distributors aim at 35% of the gross box office receipts as the index in pricing—T. 4347-50, 4482, 4483, 4317, 4319.

22. It is the custom of the industry, if the box office receipts fall below the expectation on which the flat rental was based, to make subsequently a reduction in that rental to the point where the exhibitor can at least break even or show a small profit—T. 4347.

[fol. 4868] 23. In determining the rental in the first place the distributor endeavors to estimate how much money the theatre could gross on the particular picture—T. 4348.

24. In the normally successful downtown city theatre, with a seating capacity of 1600, conducting a matinee and two successive evening performances, it is estimated that in the course of the three performances there will be in the aggregate 1600 admissions, so that if the average admission price was 25 cents, the gross to be expected would be $400 a day, or for a 4-day showing $1600—T. 4350.

25. At 35% of this estimate the asking price would be something like $550 for a flat rental for the picture—T. 4350.

26. It is customary to allow a deduction for the cost of a second feature if the theatre is showing double features, and for the cost of outside attractions at the theatre while showing the picture before applying the 35%—T. 4352.

27. The effort of the distributor is to get the percentage of gross receipts at a second or subsequent run theatre in the same way as at a first run theatre—T. 4374.

28. Where there is only one theatre in a particular competitive area, the principal competition to supply pictures to that theatre is among the ten larger companies—Columbia, Fox, Metro, Monogram, Paramount, Republic, RKO, United Artists, Universal and Warners—and of these, Fox, Metro, Paramount, RKO and Warner are sometimes spoken of as the Big Five, producing the larger number of pictures which are box office attractions in the cities, but the Western and action pictures, in which Republic and Monogram have specialized, are most popular in the little towns of the South and West and more preferred on that account by exhibitors —T. 4478, 4375.

29. Where there is more than one theatre that is a possibility for the distributor to sell, the distributor in selecting the customer to be obtained, if possible, takes into consid- [fol. 4869] eration the ability of the customer to gross, the operation of the theatre, the people conducting the business, the more substantial business man of the two, the theatre itself, in view of the distributor's desire to play its pictures in the nicest theatre with comfortable seats, a theatre showing a good clear picture on the screen, one that is well ventilated and well managed all the way through, with a desire to play the picture in the theatre charging the higher admission price, and there are other elements to be considered—T. 4476, 4376, 4556, 4605.

30. In selecting a second run in a competitive area the distributor takes into consideration first a protection of the film rental that is expected to come out of the first run and then the distributor makes sure that the operation of the theatre and the playing of the picture there will not harm the possibility of that picture doing its full amount of business, the full amount of business it is capable of doing at the first run house, and the distributor also takes into consideration the condition of the house itself, the projection, sound, ventilation and location of the theatre, with an inclination toward a busy corner or a location where more people are closer to the theatre, rather than one that is around the corner and off the beaten path—T. 4377.

31. At times a picture after playing a first run in a theatre will be moved over to another theatre operated in common interest with the first, and this is ordinarily done without any interval of time between the end of the showing in the one theatre and its opening up in the other, and this is called a move-over run, which is treated as a part of the first run, as an entire run, and not as a second run—T. 4378, 4415.

32. The foregoing policies are in general the policies of each of the distributors—T. 4386, 4507-8, 4476, 4556, 4604.

33. The United Artists is not a producing company, but distributes the pictures produced by several independent producers—T. 4387.

[fol. 4870] 34. Distributors consider that clearance is one of the most important things that they have to sell—T. 4397-98.

35. Prior to 1941 each distributor tried to sell at one time all the pictures that this distributor had for the coming season—T. 4400.

36. If a customer is a solid customer, who pays his bills and gives an honest count, and the distributor has been dealing with him over a long period of time, they don't get a guarantee from him on the percentage pictures—T. 4401.

37. The distributors considered the Schine Circuit terms to be very satisfactory terms and the deals made with that Circuit were comparable with the deals made with anybody else—T. 4403, 4404.

38. In selling a group of pictures to the Schine Circuit there might be some pictures sold at 35%, some sold for lesser terms, and some on flat rental, dependent on the quality of the picture in general and the distributor's ability to get the price—T. 4403.

39. The effort of the distributor is to get a price which is fair both to the distributor and to the exhibitor, and to take into consideration the effect on subsequent sales to him —T. 4405.

40. In fixing a price to one theatre consideration is not given to the price charged to another theatre, but to the expectation of the gross box office receipts of the particular theatre—T. 4413-14.

41. Size of theatre alone does not determine, as amount of playing time and ability to fill the house must also be considered—T. 4421.

42. It is to the advantage of the distributor to have the first run theatre also play the second run—T. 4487, 4554.

[fol. 4871] 43. In issuing licenses for more than one season's product, which the plaintiff has described as a franchise, no distinction is made between large circuits and independent exhibitors operating only a few theatres, and more franchises have been issued to the latter than to the former—T. 2468, Exs. 741-744, T. 1166, 4557, 4488, 4614, Id. Ex. D-39, Exs. D-47, D-48, D-123-129, T. 1170; Id. Ex. D-39.

44. Such a franchise to independent small exhibitors and to circuits is advantageous at times both to the distributor and to the exhibitor as it gives the distributor an assured outlet in the town, saves the expense of going back and selling the town each year, and it gives the exhibitor an assured supply—T. 4489, 4559, 3946, Ex. 190.

45. It does not appear that these licenses for more than a year have been made for the purpose of restraining or monopolizing interstate trade—same references as 43 and 44.

46. They have been made to give the distributor an outlet for the period of the licenses and the exhibitor product for his theatres for the same period—same references as 43 and 44.

47. Independent exhibitors and affiliated exhibitors regarded clearance as of much importance and sought and believed that it improved the receipts of the theatre having it—T. 2864, 3665-68, 2408, 2447, 2452, 2492, 2536.

48. Distributors in the general course of their sales policy

send out salesmen to solicit theatres which the distributor desires to sell and to bring in applications for contracts, if they can be obtained, to the branch managers, who consider them. If they disapprove, they send the salesman back to see whether a better contract can be obtained, or if the branch manager thinks the contract an advisable one, he forwards it with his recommendations either to the home office of the distributor or to the district manager, who in turn if he favors the contract forwards it to the home office. No contract is made until the general manager at the [fol. 4872] home office has approved the contract, and no one except such manager has authority to approve a contract—T. 4492, 4513, 4555, 4563, 1508, 1428, 1435, 1392, 1401, 1407, 1522, 1528.

49. In the case of circuits the preliminary negotiations were usually carried on directly from the New York office by the New York sales representatives and not through the branch offices—T. 4397.

50. It is estimated that about 1% of Paramount's film rental revenue came from the Schine Circuit—T. 4609.

51. It does not appear that in negotiating with the Schine Circuit any distributor has pursued any abnormal policy—Plaintiff's Admissions T. 4615-4618, T. 4334-4356, 4478, 4375, 4476, 4376-4378, 4556, 4605, 4415, 4386, 4508, 4604, 4397-4398, 4401-4421, 4487, 4554, 2468, Exs. 741-744, T. 1166, 4557-4559, 4488-4489, 4614, 2864, 3665-3668, 2408, 2447, 2452, 2492, 2536, 4508, 4609, 3946, Exs. 190, D-143, D-144, D-170.

52. To the knowledge of the general sales managers of the respective distributors, Fox, Loew's Paramount, RKO, United Artists, Universal and Warners, there has not been any conversation with any of the defendants or their executives or employees not to deal with any competing exhibitors or to restrict the terms of such dealings—T. 4381, 4385, 4490, 4510, 4560, 4564, 4585, 4613.

The defendants request the Court to find each and all of the facts hereinbefore set forth.

By their Attorneys, Edward F. McClennen, Willard S. McKay, Howard M. Antevil.

OPINION—Oct. 8, 1945

KNIGHT, District Judge:

This suit is brought by the United States to restrain violations of Sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman Act (28 Stat. 209, 15 U. S. C. Secs. 1 and 2). Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., a [fol. 4875] New York holding and service corporation, five other corporations in which Schine Chain Theatres, Inc. owns all the stock to wit, Schine Theatrical Co., Inc., an operating company, Schine-Lexington Corporation, a holding company, Schine Enterprise Corporation, a service corporation, Schine Circuit, Inc., a service corporation, and Chesapeake Theatre Corporation, a holding corporation, and also three individuals, J. Meyer Schine, Louis Schine and John A. May, are the defendants. Hereinafter the corporate defendants will be referred to as "Schine", the "Schine Circuit" or as "the Circuit".

This organization has seen an exceedingly rapid growth. Its origin was the purchase by defendants J. Meyer Schine and Louis Schine of three theatres in Gloversville, New York, in 1920. In the twenty-one years following, these defendant corporations acquired, either as purchaser or as lessee, an interest in 175 theatres and in addition some 42 separate parcels of real estate for theatre purpose, or connected with such purpose. The development came about in this manner. Schine Chain Theatre, Inc., the parent corporation, was organized in 1920. The above-named subsidiary corporations came into being in the several years 1926, 1935, 1937 and 1938.

Steps following in line with the purpose of the "Schine Circuit" were the organization of realty holding corporations and what may be termed local corporations, or the taking over of others of such for the operations of theatres. Since 1931, there have been 118 theatre corporations in which an interest has been acquired by "Schine". As of the time of the commencement of this suit there were 62 of such operating corporations and in 48 of these "Schine" owned 100 percent of the stock, in 12, 50 percent. Schine [fol. 4876] operates 93 theatres in 73 towns (including cities). The towns run generally in population from 5000 to 35000 and include 39 in New York, 16 in Ohio, 8 in Kentucky, 7 in Maryland, 2 in Delaware and 1 in Virginia. In addition to its theatrical and realty operations, "Schine" has booked and bought for and supervised 37 theatres since 1931, and when this suit was brought there were 27 for which it so acted. Since 1928 the closed towns (those in which there was no opposition) show a total increase of 56. In 1941 there were only 3 towns in which Schine's competitors (hereinafter called independents) were playing major film product. In a single season, 1939-1940, Schine paid $1,647,000 to six film companies. The "Schine Circuit" buying power beyond peradventure was extremely large, and its opportunity to utilize this power in the purchase of films to the detriment of its competitors is apparent. These defendants together control the largest independent theatre circuit in the country. For theatre acquisitions and capital improvements there has been expended admittedly upwards of $10,948,100, not including dividend payments on operating expenses and cash on hand.

Some of the computations as hereinbefore shown are not the same as those claimed either by the government or by the defendants. These computations are made from defendants' extensive answers to interrogatories. The differences are not of material moment. There are eight so-called major film companies: Fox, Loew, Paramount, Radio-Keith-Orphum (RKO), Warner, Columbia, Universal and United Artists. Columbia and Universal produce and distribute films; United Artists only distributes; and the other companies both produce and distribute films and operate theatres. These eight companies supply "Schine" [fol. 4877] a large percent. of the feature films used by him and together receive upwards of 75 percent. of the total film rental paid by Schine. All of them originally were made parties to this suit, but all have since been dropped as such. However, each is claimed to have participated separately with Schine in the conspiracy charged and in aid of Schine's monopolization of the film exhibiting business. The principal sales office of each major distributor company is in New York City and that city serves theatres here involved. The methods of licensing and servicing of films is similar with each. Each has its district manager and branch manager. The feature films are mostly produced in California where the negatives are taken, the prints being generally manufactured in New York and New Jersey. Film license applications are solicited by salesmen from the branch office, and the delivery and return of films are made through the branch. Prints of films are sent from the various exchange offices in the various states to the exhibitors of the main office, though the recommendation for approval ordinarily is made by the branch manager who is close to the situation. It was the usual custom for the distributors to make license agreements for feature films for a period of a year commencing about September. These license agreements were made before the films were produced. Ordinarily each major producing company put out 40 to 60 feature films a year and these were released at the rate of about one a week. Now the practice generally is to sell group pictures only after production and in groups rather than for a year.

The individual defendants hold the principal offices in the defendant corporations and hold other offices in the various so-called local corporations. They are the princi- [fol. 4878] pal stockholders in the parent corporation and have general supervision of the operations of the circuit. The film buying for the circuit and the companies in which it had an interest was conducted through "Schine" or one of its subsidiaries. Lazar, a regional manager for "Schine" covering several states, and Silverman and Hensler, district managers, and one Insley, principally carried on negotiations for acquisitions, though the defendants Schine and May engaged directly in some, while one Lynch was "the Circuit's" chief film buyer. In circuit buying "Schine" generally negotiated deals with the division manager. The agreements so made are referred to as "master agreements and deal sheets", but these were usually followed by license agreements signed by the chief sales executive of the distributors.

To substantiate its claims that these defendants have violated the aforesaid provisions of the Sherman Act, the government contends that they have used their great buying power to suppress competition by bringing about various restrictions on the competitors' ability to compete, resulting in persuading the competitor either to sell to "Schine", operated on an inferior basis or join in pooling his interests with "Schine"; that this suppression has been brought about in various ways, to wit: by depriving independents of first and second run products, either entirely or to such a time as materially lessened income and force sales or abandonment, by implied threats voicing "Shine's" great buying power, by threats to construct theatre buildings to discourage other construction, by cutting admission prices, by inducing theatre sales through agreements to employ sellers, by fixing by agreement the duration of time and the distance within which an independent selling should [fol. 4879] not be permitted to compete and by unreasonable clearances obtained from the distributor. These generally are the claims. The defendants' denial make the issues.

Section 1 of the Sherman Act provides that "Every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade of commerce among the several states * * * is hereby declared to be illegal * * *", and

Section 2 of that Act provides that "Every person who shall monopolize, or attempt to monopolize, or combine, or conspire with any other person or persons, to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce among the several states, * * * shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Said the court in Northern Securities Co. v. United States, 193 U. S. 197 (404): "All that is added to the first section by section 2 is that like penalties are imposed upon every single person who, without combination, monopolizes or attempts to monopolize commerce among the States; and that the liability is extended to attempting to monopolize any part of such trade or commerce." "* * * the two sections overlap in the sense that a monopoly under section 2 is a species of restraint of trade under section 1." United States v. Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., 310 U. S. 150 (226).

Any question as regards the applicability of the Sherman Act in certain respects here shown has been clearly answered by the decision of the Supreme Court in United States v. Crescent Amusement Co., 323 U. S. 173. Under definitely comparable facts that Court held: 1. That this court has jurisdiction. 2. That it is immaterial whether the distributors or any one of them were members of a conspiracy or joined in the effort to monopolize. 3. That [fol. 4880] while the business or the showing of motion pictures is local, a combination of exhibitors may violate the Sherman Act by using their collective buying power to restrict or restrain competitors. 4. That the relationship between the circuit members is such that they may be capable of conspiring or combining with each other in violation of the Act. 5. That the circuit, in essence, is not a single exhibitor. "All three phases of the motion picture business * * * constitutes a part of interstate commerce." William Goldman Theatres, Inc. v. Loew's, opinion filed August, 1945, (3d. C.).

In the Crescent case twelve theatre operating companies, and certain individual stockholders, as well as distributor companies, were charged with the violation of the Sherman Act in combining with each other and with major distributors to effect monopolies. This language from the opinion supports the statement as to the aforesaid conclusions: "And as we have said, the course of business which involves the regular exchange of film in interstate commerce is adequate to bring the exhibitors within the reach of the Sherman Act" and "The District Court found that some of the exhibitors were co-conspirators on certain phases of the program. But we can put that circumstance to one side * * *. For it is immaterial whether the distributors technically were or were not members of the conspiracy." and "But action by a combination of exhibitors to obtain an agreement with a distributor whereby commerce with a competing exhibitor is suppressed or restrained is a conspiracy in restraint of trade and a conspiracy to monopolize a part of the trade or commerce among the States." Sustaining the action, the court necessarily held the Circuit is not in essence a single exhibitor; and that there can be [fol. 4881] concerted action between a corporation and its wholly owned subsidiaries, and the fact that defendants owned one-half or less percent. of the stock of corporations who are not parties herein does not preclude consideration of acts done by these corporate officers or by defendant's acts in connection with such corporation. Vide also: Chicago Board of Trade v. United States, 246 U. S. 231; Paramount Famous Lasky Corp. v. United States, 282 U. S. 30; Interstate Circuit v. United States, 306 U. S. 208; United States 1. General Motors Corp., 121 F. (2d) 376, cert. denied 314 U. S. 618, 708.

The defendants assert that buying the only theatre in a town and building additional theatres, or buying additional theatres, or advising of intention to open another theatre, or making known the product buying ability of the chain, or buying product on better terms than a competitor, or becoming large by normal growth, causing inability of inferiorly operated theatres to get good product, or agreeing with the seller of a theatre not to compete within defined limits for any period of time, cutting or raising admission prices, obtaining clearances, or using so many pictures that demand for product of minor distributors is increased, does not monopolize or restrain trade or commerce among any of the several states. "We may assume that if a single exhibitor launched such a plan of economic warfare he would not run afoul of the Sherman Act." Crescent case, supra. Obviously, doing any one of the aforementioned things, disassociated from any other act, would not be violative of the Sherman Act; but surely a circuit may so utilize one or more of such efforts as to illegally stifle competition or monopolize the theatre business in different locations. Motive is essential.

[fol. 4882] The defendants say that the Sherman Act prohibits only unreasonable restraint of trade and that it must affect trade or commerce between states. Apex Hosiery Co. v. Leader, 310 U. S. 469. There can be no question that this is a correct statement of law. The Act does not condemn monopolies as such, but prohibits monopolization or attempts to monopolize trade or commerce between the states. The verb monopolize comprehends conduct or actions. Standard Oil Co. v. United States, 221 U. S. 1. Through monopolization a monopoly may be secured. We are concerned here with what are claimed to be unreasonable restraints of trade. The word unreasonable as so used is broad enough to include a conspiracy in restraint of trade and monopolization of a business in restraint of trade. Unreasonable, as used in the statute, refers to a degree of restraint. Defendants further assert that the Act does not condemn restraints of trade which do not have a direct and immediate effect upon interstate commerce. The contrary of this assertion, as applicable here, is decided by the Crescent case, supra. Defendants also say that an agreement for purchase of product coupled with clearances over succeeding runs is valid, citing Standard Oil Co. v. United States, supra. Of course, the mere agreement for the purchase of first runs and reasonable clearances is within the law; but the charge of a conspiracy contemplates a "combination of two or more persons by some concerted action to accomplish * * * an unlawful purpose" and monopolization contemplates acts to monopolize or control trade or commerce between the states to the exclusion and disadvantage of others.

The record herein includes 4728 pages of testimony and 1380 exhibits. We are here concerned with 32 different [fol. 4883] situations, each involving the testimony of various witnesses and numerous exhibits. It is not only practically impossible to set out in this opinion every phase of the testimony which has been presented, but it is unnecessary.

Many objections were raised by the defendants to the reception of evidence of inter-department communications and statements of and communications from representatives of the distributors. These objections were based, both on the ground that such were incompetent in the absence then of proof of a conspiracy, and also that there was no proof of the authority of such representatives to make the declarations or give the communications.

It is not necessary that proof of the conspiracy be made before overt acts are proved. The order of the proof lies within the discretion of the court. "There is no hard and fast rule that the evidence of concert should be first put in. * * * The order of production of evidence is one largely in the discretion of the court." Doyle v. United States, 169 F. 625. Among other cases supporting this view are: Eastern States Retail Lumber Ass'n v. United States, 234 U. S. 600; Cohen v. United States, 157 F. 651, cert. denied 207 U. S. 596; Paramount Pictures Inc. v. United Motion Picture T. O. 93 F. (2d) 714, Glaser v. United States, 315 U. S. 60, cited by defendants, does not support their view.

Statements and acts of agents or representatives within the scope of their authority indubitably are admissible to show a conspiracy. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell, 245 U. S. 229; Erie RR. Co. v. Winter, 143 U. S. 60; Johnson v. J. H. Yost Lumber Co., 117 F. (2d) 53. Further, in conspiracy cases a great deal of latitude is permitted the court in the reception of evidence. "The rule [fol. 4884] will be sustained if the testimony which is admitted tends even remotely to establish the ultimate fact." Clune v. United States, 159 U. S. 590. See also: Williamson v. United States, 207 U. S. 425; Wiberg 1. United States, 163 U. S. 32; Isenhouer v. United States, 256 F. 842; White v. United States, 80 F. (2d) 515.

There is a conflict in the testimony in many of the situations. The court recognizes the burden is cast upon the plaintiff to establish its cause and/or causes of action by a fair preponderance of the proof. It is quite patent from the nature of the charges here that they have to be established by numerous acts and transactions having relation some way to the charge. These acts must be considered together to show intent, and intent to "combine", "conspire" and/or "monopolize" must be the reasonable and natural conclusions from the acts or transactions, as believed by the court. Ordinarily proof of such acts comes from circumstantial evidence and the inferences which are ordinarily drawn from these. As was said in William Goldman Theatres, Inc. v. Loew's, supra: "The picture of conspiracy as a meeting of a trio of sinister persons in pointed hats close together belongs to the dark ages"., and further: "The requirement is to fit the inferential facts into the framework of the primary parts * * *." "It is elementary, however, that conspiracies are seldom capable of proof by direct testimony and may be inferred from the things actually done, * * *." Eastern States Retail Lumber Ass'n v. United States, supra.

It is the opinion of this court that the defendants have violated Section 1 and Section 2, supra, of the Sherman Act, in that they have maintained an unlawful combination among themselves by means of which they have unreason- [fol. 4885] ably restrained trade or commerce among the several states and have monopolized the business of operating theatres and the supplying of major films in various towns and cities, and that each of the major distributors hereinbefore named, by the methods which it has employed in its dealings with Schine and the independents, has aided and abetted these defendants in unreasonably restraining trade or commerce between the states and the "monopolization" of theatre operations.

The great film buying power of the defendant corporations gave opportunity to exert pressure on the distributors to obtain preferences. The extent of this film buying is demonstrated by the exceedingly large number of theatres controlled by "Schine" and the large amount of money which must have been paid for film rentals. The aggregate of the amount paid all distributors in total or for one season is not shown, but what the "Circuit" paid six of the major distributors, for features for a single season, does appear. This buying power included both closed and open towns. By combining the open and closed towns in Schine's deals with the distributors, Schine was enabled to dictate terms to the distributors. This ability to dictate terms was further increased by the authority of Schine to buy product for theatres not owned or operated by it. Schine acquired by purchase or lease 55 theatres from 1922 to 1931, and 80 from 1936 to 1941, inclusive, 15 in 1938 and 15 in 1939.

The means and methods employed by the different defendant corporations through their officers and authorized representatives to obtain a "monopolistic" control were numerous. Principally among these were arbitrarily depriving independents of first and second run pictures, se-[fol. 4886] curing unreasonable clearances, making threats to build or open closed theatres to prevent construction or operation by independents, lowering admission prices, obtaining rental concessions, restricting independents who sold to Schine as to periods and places of operation, making long time franchise agreements covering the "Circuit."

Standing out as clearly indicative of intent to "monopolize" are communications and statements made by May, Lunch, Lazar, Hensler and Insley, undisputedly authorized representatives of the defendant corporations. There are others from defendant J. Meyer Schine as well.

Some specific instances showing the predatory means used by "Schine" follow.

The Schine defendants arbitrarily deprived independents of the first run product which they had previously enjoyed in several towns. Independents were deprived of 1936-37 Columbia product at Norwalk; 1935-36 Fox product at Van Wert and Bucyrus; Loew's product for 1930-31 at Bellefontaine and for 1935-36 at Van Wert; Paramount's 1935-36 product at Van Wert and Bucyrus; RKO product for 1933-34 at Auburn and 1935-36 at Norwalk; of United Artists 1936-37 at Norwalk; and of Warner for 1933-34 at Norwich, 1936-37 at Norwalk, and 1941-42 at Harlan.

Independents were arbitrarily deprived of second run product which they had previously exhibited, losing 1938-39 Columbia at Rochester, Loew's 1935-36 at Van Wert and 1934-35 Warner at Watertown. After "Schine" secured the product from the independents for the aforementioned seasons, he retained it and the independent was unable to secure it in subsequent seasons. Relative to six towns including Corning, Lynch wrote on October 21, 1933, Metro: "If there are any other opposition towns where you be-[fol. 4887] lieve you can sell a second run, I would appreciate it if you would take the matter up with me first before selling." In 1932 Lynch wrote Flynn a letter saying, among other things: "I want you to refrain from selling him (independent) any pictures whatsoever." and Metro through Flynn agreed not to do so. Lynch also wired Fox to withhold selling to this independent and wrote Fox' agent saying "have also asked him (Schmertz—Fox agent) to refrain from selling this man second run."

"Schine" was able to secure unreasonable clearances year after year in many towns. A few only need be mentioned. At Corning, New York, RKO permitted 90 to 180 days, and Fox permitted 160 days. At Seneca Falls, New York, Columbia and United Artists permitted 120 days. At Little Falls, New York, RKO, Columbia and Universal permitted 120 days and United Artists permitted 115 days. At Carthage, RKO permitted 120 days and United Artists 90. United Artists permitted 90 days at Watertown, New York, and 90 days at Amsterdam, New York; Bucyrus, Kent, Norwalk, Tiffin and Fostoria, Ohio; and Lexington and Van Wert, Kentucky.

The license contracts with "Schine" in many instances specified minimum admission prices for the various runs as well as clearance period. To an extent this affects adversely the time given the competitor. Interstate Circuit v. United States, supra, clearly points the reasons for condemning such provisions in a film license contract or agreement. Schine got clearance of Herkimer over Ilion where none existed before.

"Schine" made threats to build in various towns, such as Paris, where there was a sign up, Canandaigua by a sign and newspaper article published, and where he eventually did build. In Perry, a statement by May and a newspaper [fol. 4888] article announcing that land had been bought for theatre purposes came at a time when "Schine" was trying to purchase the independent's lease. "Schine" did not build, but later got the lease. In Salamanca, just after independents acquired a site for a contemplated theatre, through the press "Schine" announced its intention to build. In Medina, "Schine" announced the making of an agreement to erect a new theatre immediately after independents started construction. In Mount Vernon, May contacted the independent to buy, saying "Schine" would build unless the deal could be put through.

Defendants' authorized agents made statements to independents which are reasonably construed as threats.

At Bellefontaine, during negotiations for the renewal of a lease with an independent, Lazar threatened to re-open the Opera House, if the independent opened the Strand.

With reference to Paris, Lazar told the independent, who was taking steps to build, that if the independent went ahead with his projects "Schine" would build a 1200 seat theatre in Lexington where the independent had a theatre and that the house would be run with 10¢ policy at all times. At Paris, Schine and an independent began construction at practically the same time. Lazar asked the independent to stop construction and see him about a deal. Subsequently Schine took over the independent's Lexington and Paris theatres under an agreement prohibiting for fifteen years the independent from engaging in the theatre business in any town in Kentucky where Schine had a theatre.

Just before Schine acquired the "Forum" theatre in Norwalk, Lazar advised an independent to "get in with us * * * we are a big company. You know what it means if you are not in with us," and further stated: "If you lease [fol. 4889] your theatre Mr. William Selman (part owner of the "Forum") will walk out of town."

At Van Wert, the operator of the "Ohio" theatre could not get first run product it had had. During negotiations for the sale of the "Ohio" to Schine, Lazar said that Moore would have trouble getting product; Schine would have the first runs; and that Schine was interested in buying in order to raise prices.

At Lockport, during negotiations with "Schine" for the "Palace" theatre, May said it would be necessary to re-open the Hi-Art owned by "Schine" to use up "the large volume of product they had bought." This statement evidently was made to induce Reliance to sell the "Palace." In this instance it is to be noted that the independents experienced great difficulty in getting product. Hi-Art had then been closed for seven years. Metro, Fox, Universal and Loew's refused major product to the independent. Indicative of the attitude of the distributors is the letter from the Eastern Salesmanager of Loew's who wrote:

> "In our negotiations with the Schine interests it will very likely be that we will have to give them consideration for our product at Lockport, as well as other situations, and as we are hardly in a position to forego or jeopardize the business from their other situations, and for the further reason that they have for a number of years been a very representative account, we feel that our interests would be best served by giving them such consideration."

At Perry, May told the independent that "Schine" had bought a lot to build a 1000 seat theatre there. This was a town of less than 5000 population. The independent theatre building was owned by the town and leased to the independ- [fol. 4890] ent. When May said this, a local newspaper article to the same effect was given out.. Schine did not build but Herzberger sold shortly thereafter, and through the purchaser of this interest Schine acquired the lease.

Insley and May tried to buy an independent theatre at Seaford and Georgetown. Insley said it was foolish that the independent did not make a deal with "Schine" because he had recently purchased the theatre at Laurel and "Very likely, with the buying power they had they would get away the product" from the independent. Insley said Schine had bought a lot with the intention to build a theatre in Seaford, and also said: "Well, if I were you I would sell the theatres to Schine because they are going to build a theatre there, and, naturally, they are going to get the product." Insley, under a written contract with "Schine", had authority "in negotiations for the acquisition of motion picture theatres within the above-described territory" (Delaware, Maryland, Virginia). Seaford and Georgetown are in Delaware.

At Rochester, J. Meyer Schine told independents, who were then building the "Webster", that the location was not appropriate, that it was too near the "State" (Schine's) and not justified, and Schine said he would build a theatre near the Murray theatre (owned by independents). The "State" and the "Webster" theatres were ¾ mile apart. Schine later took over the "Webster". Schine testified he said that it would not be sensible to build the "Webster," but denied that he said he would build near the "Murray."

At Seneca Falls, after an independent had taken steps toward building a theatre, a sign was placed on the Seneca theatre, (shortly theretofore purchased by Schine) which read: "Closed for alterations. Will re-open soon as a Schine theatre." Independent then discontinued efforts to [fol. 4891] build. "Schine" did not re-open. Practically the same things recurred two years later. The same independent took steps to build. The sign re-appeared on the "Seneca." The independent did not go through with his plan. The "Seneca" did not open. It had not been open in several years.

After "Schine" opened a theatre within a town, it was arbitrarily able to keep the independents from opening a theatre in the town with suitable run products, as in Auburn, Lockport, Mt. Vernon, Paris and Bellefontaine.

"Schine" was able to monopolize first run product at Corbin, Medina and Lockport even though the physical facilities of the independents in those towns were better than Schine's. He was able to monopolize the first neighborhood run in Rochester even though the physical facilities of the independents were better.

The evidence discloses that "Schine" cut admission prices at Corbin, Geneva, Lexington, Malone, Ogdensburg and other towns; gave out cut rate tickets in Addison, good in his Corning theatre for students, and frequently engaged in two for ones and bank nights in other towns.

In cases of purchase or the assumption of leases other than those hereinbefore referred to, the agreements therefor provided for no competition by the independents for long periods of time. The non-competitive feature was also extended to cover outside towns, i. e.: Amsterdam, Ilion, Malone, Paris and Lexington.

By reason of franchise agreements entered into prior to May 19, 1942, (voided thereafter, see Decree herein of that date) permitting special film rentals not given independents, "Schine" was able to reap benefits unavailable to independents and these were utilized against independent [fol. 4892] operators as a means of restraint. These have a definite bearing on the competitive effect of buying power. Rather than make contracts for a single year, as appears to have been Schine's practice prior to 1936, he then began making such a period of two or three years. These contracts included both the entire circuit and also those theatres for which Schine did the booking. The great buying power of "Schine" enable him to obtain concessions not obtainable by independents. In 1936 Schine made a three year agreement with Fox, and as a result he obtained the Fox feature product in all the towns which "Schine" then operated, and this agreement was later made to include subsequently acquired theatres. In 1938 a subsequent three year agreement was made. These agreements provided for payment of certain percentage of gross receipts after deduction of operating costs, and also fixed minimum admission charges. With Loew in 1936, a four year agreement was made unler substantially the same terms as made with Fox. In 1937 a comparable three year agreement was made with Warner; in 1938 a similar one with RKO; a similar two year one with Columbia in the same year and a three year agreement was made with Universal in 1939. In the instance of United Artists, a distributing corporation, separate contracts were made for each feature for all Schine theatres. Another feature of these agreements was in the inclusion of unfair and inequitable clearance provisions.

Proofs connecting the distributors with certain of the aforesaid acts of defendants come from the provisions of the franchise agreements and acts of the distributors, interdepartment communications of the distributors and statements made by their authorized representatives, of which numerous ones have been set forth herein. It is hardly be- [fol. 4893] lievable that the executive officers of the distributors did not know some of the methods employed by "Schine" in its efforts to restrict competition. Distributors' salesmen, branch managers and district managers are necessarily in constant touch with "Schine's" operations. By the very terms of the franchise agreements they insured strength against competition. These long term deals were made by each of the distributors, except United Artists whose term deals were necessarily somewhat different, and they were in effect profit sharing agreements and created a virtual partnership with "Schine." To the same end were the unreasonable clearances given "Schine" by each of the distributors. Attention has heretofore been directed to some of these. The plaintiff has submitted in connection with its briefs papers purporting to be arbitration awards fixing clearances in certain instances and which arbitrations are purported to have been made pursuant to the Consent Decree entered in the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York on November 20, 1940. These arbitration awards are not in evidence. They have no binding effect as res adjudicata or otherwise, and this court has not considered them as evidence. However, it is hardly necessary to look to any other decision to support the view that clearances of 180 or 120 or 90 or 60 days are not reasonable in the instances herein in which they have been allowed. It is true some of these were clearances over third runs but many were over second run. In numerous instances these unreasonable clearances were allowed over towns in which Schine did not operate, and some towns distant from 10 to upwards of 20 miles, and towns in which there were no theatres. Gloversville got clearance of 45 days over Johnstown, and "Schine" was given clearance [fol. 4894] both over Newfane and Mohawk where there were no theatres. Many clearances were over outside towns of comparably small population, distant so far that no clearance is justified, such as Randolph, Little Valley and Ellicottville, New York. Many recently were given over towns over which there had been no previous clearance. Metro gave clearance in Ashland over Loudonville and Lodi, Ohio; United Artists gave clearance in Auburn over Skaneateles, New York, and Fox in Hornell over Earlville, New York.

The record is replete with inter-department communications between major film representatives which recognize the unreasonableness of the clearances given to Schine at his demand. This is shown by the communications and representations made by Lehman of United Artists, Pielow of M.G.M., Dana and Sauber of Universal, Smith of Warner, and Sussman and Grassgreen of Fox, which are admissible in evidence because these men all held positions in their respective companies so that it was within the scope of their duties to make the representations in the communications that they did as a natural incident of the office, i.e.: branch or district manager.

Pielow, MGM resident manager, wrote: "I feel that in some of the situations (unnamed) (discussing Schine contracts), the clearance that he (Lynch) is demanding is unfair * * *." Dana, branch manager of Universal wrote the district manager that he had asked Louis Schine relative to clearances over the Smalley circuit (Norwich) and that he refused to grant the privilege of serving the pictures with shorter clearance. Universal branch manager Sauber wrote Lynch that they wanted to serve Waterloo in less time than the 30 days clearance after Seneca Falls [fol. 4895] because other majors were, but Lynch refused though Universal had the right under its contract to so do. At Rochester Scully, of Universal, said it would be satisfactory if the Madison and Monroe came within the Schine 21 day clearance.

Smith, branch manager of Warner, wrote to the Home office that Canton would do more business if it were not for Schine at Ogdensburg having 30 days clearance and if it was reduced: "It will make a better condition for us all

* * *." Smith also wrote relative to Seneca Falls stating that he hoped Lynch would break down their 60 days clearance: "As I told you this morning over the phone, the clearance set up is all wet * * *."

Sussman, of Fox, wrote to Grassgreen that the 60 day clearance in Glens Falls and elsewhere seemed excessive. Sussman went on to comment that he noted that 60 day clearance was given over second run at Malone when Fox had no second run in Malone, and furthermore, as previously stated, 60 days over second run seemed excessive. Grassgreen replied that while the 60 days at Glens Falls might seem excessive, Lynch insisted upon it. Grassgreen said that Schine insisted upon the 60 day clearance because they wanted to be consistent with their demands for 60 days over subsequent independent runs.

In certain instances the distributors refused to negotiate with the independents for runs not bought by Schine. Such are seen in the refusal of RKO, Fox, Paramount, MGM and Universal to furnish second run at Auburn; of MGM at Amsterdam until the "Schine" deal did not materialize; by United Artists at Geneva; and by RKO, Universal and Fox at Paris.

In many instances the distributors refused to negotiate with the independents for runs. After "The Circuit" came into the town, in many instances it was impossible for the [fol. 4896] independent to get a good run of major product, or even to have his requests to purchase considered. RKO would not sell to the independent after "The Circuit" came in for 1933-34 in Auburn, 1935-36 in Mt. Vernon; MGM would not sell 1930-31 in Bellefontaine, 1933-34 in Lockport and Norwich, 1935-36 in Van Wert, 1936-37 in Lexington, 1938-39 in Medina; Paramount would not sell 1933-34 in Lockport, 1934-1935 in Auburn, 1935-36 in Mt. Vernon; Fox would not sell 1933-34 in Norwich, 1935-36 in Amsterdam and Mt. Vernon; Universal would not sell 1933-34 in Lockport, and Norwich; United Artists would not sell 1935-36 in Mt. Vernon and Van Wert; and Warner would not sell 1933-34 in Norwich, 1936-36, 1935-36 in Amsterdam, 1938-39 in Medina and 1941 in Norwich. In these instances, when the independent attempted to make application for product, he was simply advised that the product had been sold to "Schine" in a circuit deal.

Special privileges were granted, as in the option of paying a percent. of the gross receipts from product or flat rental, and as in deducting cost of competitive devices (bank nights, etc.) from gross before computing the distributor's share.

Special license provisions were given by tying up second runs, as in Lockport and Corning.

In certain instances Schine's film contracts called for lower minimum admission charge than those for the independent for subsequent run. This happened in Lexington and Corning.

United Artists with respect to the Capitol theatre in Ilion wrote: "We do not want to encounter any difficulty with the Schine Circuits * * *, we want to be definitely assured that the clearance as submitted in the contracts is satisfactory to the Schine Company."

[fol. 4897] Sichelman, assistant sales manager for Fox, wrote Schine that Fox was free to sell ten pictures of first run and also 100% second run in Bellefontaine and that the branch manager was being directed to sell these. In reply, Lynch said, in part: "The only product which he (independent) has been able to buy has been from independent companies. There has not been a major company that has sold him any product. * * * We are charging a top of 40¢ admission * * * and we don't want to have the distributing companies make it impossible for us to continue getting this price. * * * I have also written Mr. Schmertz advising him that we will take the remaining pictures which we did not buy first run, and, have also asked him to refrain from selling this second run house." Lynch also wrote to the Fox branch manager asking him to hold off selling the independent.

Further, Lynch wrote United Artists that "Schine" "should be allowed the privilege of playing pictures ahead of a situation (Sodus) charging a lesser admission price." To this the reply, in part, was: "Therefore, in the future, we will grant you fourteen days, or whatever clearance you see fit to take on towns like Elmira etc. in that locality." The Fox home office wrote its branch with reference to Glens Falls, second run: "I note that you have changed the clearances hereby providing for sixty days over third run Glens Falls. Sixty days clearances here and elsewhere seem to be excessive.", and to this the branch manager replied that Schine always provided for this clearance over third run and "George Lynch insisted in carrying it through for the future."

There is much other evidence going to show the influence of "Schine" with the distributors to gain preference over [fol. 4898] independent competitors and also the cooperation of the distributors with "Schine" to the same end.

Sales managers for each of the major distributors who had authority to approve film leases, called by the defendants, gave testimony, in substance, that to their knowledge there has not been any conversations with and defendants or their executives or employees not to deal with any competing exhibitors to restrict the terms of such dealings. These sales managers can be only a small number of those employed as such during the period in question, and they speak only of their own knowledge. Some six branch and exchange managers have testified as to transactions in contradiction of the plaintiff's proof as to five of the situations in question. In Interstate Circuit v. United States, supra, the court said that the failure to call those officers who had authority to act for the distributors and were in a position to know whether they acted in pursuance of an agreement "is itself persuasive that their testimony, if given, would have been unfavorable to appellants." While that case was stronger with respect to the proof in this connection, the defense herein is weakened both by the failure to call others of the officers authorized to act and by the nature of the testimony given by these. "The production of weak evidence when strong is available can lead only to the conclusion that the strong would have been adverse. * * * Silence then becomes evidence of the most convincing character." Interstate Circuit v. United States, supra.

Proof herein that these defendants conspired is shown by something more than inferences, and this together with the reasonable inferences to be drawn from the direct proof, suffices to show intent to conspire.

[fol. 4899] It is recognized that the matter of clearances is of major importance in the consideration of the issues herein. One position taken by the defendants is that adequate relief in so far as clearances are concerned may be had under the Consent Decree hereinbefore mentioned in United States v. Paramount Pictures, Inc., et al. Such Consent Decree was for a trial period of three years from the date of its entry, and it further provided that during such period the petitioner, the United States, would not seek any relief prayed in certain sections of the petition and of the amended and supplemental complaint and in certain other directions. After the expiration of said three year period, the government filed an application for modification of the decree. The defendants therein not admitting the existence of violations to which the application for modification was primarily directed, the suit as originally brought has been continued and has not yet been determined. This seeks the divorcement of theatres from the film producing companies. It is to be noted that Columbia, Universal and United Artists were not parties to the Consent Decree, and as heretofore noted the other major distributors originally parties defendant in this suit have been dropped as such. The arbitration features have continued to remain in effect since the expiration period by agreement of the parties, and so far as the record discloses there has been no arbitration under this Decree of any clearances involved herein existing at any time. We are called upon in this suit to decide whether there were any violations by these defendants of the law as laid in the complaint. Paramount et al. are not parties here. The violations herein are alleged to have occurred prior to the date of the Consent Decree. There is now no method by which either party can [fol. 4900] compel arbitration. The action taken in the adoption of the Consent Decree and the present availability of arbitration by agreement, however, do have a bearing on the extent of the judgment or decree to be made herein. Some of the major companies are exhibitors as well as distributors. The government by the Consent Decree entered in an agreement setting up procedure purported to provide a fair and equitable sale, distribution and showing of pictures to all distributors. Just what was accomplished by the Decree, other than some arbitration of clearances, does not appear. The government in entering into the Consent Decree evidently contemplated that such decree would obviate the necessity of a trial of the issues and intended to let by-gones be by-gones. As compared with some of the major distributors, these defendants when combined are relatively small. The Consent Decree, therefore, brings up the question of whether the harsh determination of dissolution as urged by the government should be compelled or whether some adjustment or re-organization can be agreed on or fixed by the court which will as definitely as possible prevent future violations.

The motion picture business in production, distribution and exhibition has come to be a leading industry in this country. The producer-distributors and chains of exhibitors occupy positions from which "monopolization" is easily brought about. Each have lawful advantages which are sufficiently remunerative. The public, as well as the individual independent exhibitor, has an interest in fair competition, and it is entitled to have exhibitions at reasonable prices, well selected products and reasonable clearances between available theatres. A theatre owner naturally seeks to furnish those pictures which attract the greatest revenue. The record does not disclose any different attitude [fol. 4901] on the part of "Schine". The record does not disclose that it has not furnished sufficiently attractive entertainment. Fair competition should benefit the public, but "monopolization" when exercised by a strong wide reaching organization or group of affiliated organizations crushes or weakens opposition, eliminates fair competition to the disadvantage of the public and the individual competitor.

The defendants have maintained an unlawful combination among themselves and with their affiliated corporations and have monopolized the licensing of the exhibition of motion picture films in various cities and towns in violation of the aforesaid sections of the Sherman Act and, through the unlawful combination between themselves and their affiliates by their predatory practices, have monopolized the business of operating motion picture theatres in various towns and have attempted to monopolize in various other towns; and the defendants have contracted, conspired and combined with each other and their affiliated corporations and with each of the aforesaid major film corporations for the purpose, and with the effect of suppressing competition and monopolizing exhibition of films distributed by each of said film corporations in various towns and cities, in violation of the aforesaid statute.

The plaintiff is entitled to a judgment enjoining the defendants:

(1) from monopolizing the supply of major first run films in any situation where there is a competing theatre suitable for first run exhibition thereof, and from monopolizing the supply of second run films in any situation where there is a suitable theatre for second run exhibitions thereof;

(2) from demanding or receiving clearance over theatres operated by others which unreasonably restrict their

[fol. 4902] ability to compete with a theatre owned or operated by a defendant, or corporation controlled by it;

(3) from conditioning the licensing of films in any competitive situation, outside of Buffalo, New York, upon the licensing of films in any other situation;

(4) from selling or acquiring any theatre interests pending the further order of this Court;

(5) from enforcing any existing agreements heretofore entered into by the defendants not to compete, or to restrict the use of any real estate to non-theatrical purposes; from the use of any threats or deception as a means whereby a competitor is induced to sell;

(6) from continuing the heretofore described "conspiracy" or "monopolization" in restraint of trade and commerce between the states and the entering into any combination or conspiracy for the purpose or with the effect of restraining trade and commerce between the states;

(7) and directing the entering of a decree adjudging that the defendants and their affiliated corporations be dissolved, re-aligned or reorganized in their ownership and control, so that fair competition between them and other theatres be restored and hereafter maintained; and that the determination of the question of the dissolution, re-alignment of reorganization of the parties aforesaid and the method to be employed in the accomplishment of the same be left to be fixed by this court after further consideration with the parties.

As to the objections of the defendants that certain testimony is hearsay, it is to be said this was received in evidence on the explicit statement of the attorneys for the government that the authority to make the statements and write the communications would be shown. The Court [fol. 4903] reserved the right to strike out in default of making of such connections. This connection has not been made in certain instances, and the court is attaching and submitting herewith a statement of its action with respect thereto. However, it is believed that the exclusion or inclusion of this testimony does not affect the decision on the issues.

In the instant case voluminous records of the distributors were received in evidence on stipulation of the parties. These, among others, included many agreements made by the distributors with the defendants and others. Various interdepartment communications to which objections were made were properly received as a part of the record of the distributors, and further many of them were made by officials acting in their ordinary and usual capacity as representatives of the distributors. Acceptance of this type of evidence is supported by many authorities. Murray v. United States, 10 F, (2d) 409, cert. denied 271 U S. 673; Lewis v. United States, 38 F. (2d) 406; Johnson v. J. H. Yost Lumber Co., 117 F. (2d) 53; Patterson v. United States, 222 F. 599, cert. denied 238 U. S. 635; United States v. Corn Products Refining Co., 234 F. 964; Hartford Empire Co. v. United States 323 U. S. 386.

The parties herein have heretofore submitted lengthy proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law. It seems that it would simplify matters if, in the light of this opinion, new Findings were submitted. This seems specially advisable because of the numberous situations involved in the suit. However, this matter will be left to the desires of counsel.

October 8, 1945.

—— ——, United States District Judge.

[fol. 4904] Acting upon the objections made by defendants, the following are stricken from the record:

Testimony by Long (R. 127) that Granger, Fox general sales manager, told him that Fox could not afford to give up $50,000 worth of business in order to get $5,000:

Testimony by Dasher (R 352-353) that MGM branch manager Drew told him, "Schine has 60 theatres, you have got one. What do you expect us to do."

Testimony by Cohen (R 3201) that Seed, Warner exchange manager, told him that Schine would pay $25.00 more if Warner did not sell the independent.

Testimony by De Toto (R 808-809) as to what Lehman said Schine was going to do in relation to opening additional theatres.

Testimony by Moore (R 383-384) as to what "Schine" asked that Metro hold (product) for them.

Testimony by Ayres (R 2963-2970) relative to the showing of Metro picture "Gone With The Wind".

Testimony by Warner (R 2350-2355) relative to his being called before the Film Board of Trade by a representative of RKO for a violation of the National Recovery Act in selling "two for one" tickets.

While we have generally held in favor of inter-office communications or memoranda, certain of them are hearsay and are stricken out:

In exhibit 370; "Lynch claims that he does not want a second run policy to prevail at the second run opposition and has promises from other major companies that they will not sell second run" is stricken.

[fol. 4905] Exhibit 456 refers in part to the fact that the independent told the local branch manager that he might be forced to charge 10¢ balcony and 15¢ main floor at night in order to meet his competition, and that is stricken.

The part of exhibit 519 which refers to the opinion of the branch manager that conditions were "chaotic" is not evidence against "Schine."

Exhibits 163, 229, 542, 546 and 554 are not stricken but are strictly construed. We believe them to be within the authority of the distributor's agent to make such statements, being incident to their scope of authority.

Objection was frequently made to the testimony by the independent that when he requested product of the exhibitor, he was told that it had been sold to "Schine". It is not felt that this is hearsay or beyond the scope of authority of the branch or district manager or of the salesman. He knew that it was sold, and to whom. The statement that it was sold is admissible, and it is also admissible to state to whom it had been sold.

STIPULATION AS TO CERTAIN FACTS

It Is Hereby Stipulated between the parties hereto, by their respective counsel, that the following facts may be made a part of the record on appeal:

(1) Plaintiff's proposed findings, described as Item 7 in the supplemental praecipe filed by the defendants herein on June 26, 1946, were forwarded to Judge Knight with a covering letter dated October 24, 1945, a copy of which is attached hereto and marked Exhibit "A".

(2) A copy of the foregoing letter and said findings was sent to counsel for the defendants with a letter dated October 25, 1945, but was not received by Mr. McKay until October 29, 1945.

(3) On October 30, 1945, Mr. McKay wrote a letter to the Court with respect to said proposed findings, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit "B", and a copy of which was sent to and received by plaintiff.

(4) A copy of plaintiff's proposed amended findings and proposed amended judgment was sent to counsel for the defendants by the plaintiff on March 19, 1946 and received by them within a few days thereafter.

Re: United States v. Schine Theatres, Inc.

Dear Judge Knight:

Enclosed are findings and a judgment in the above case which we have prepared in accordance with the Court's opinion of October 8, 1945 and Rule 52a of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. In these documents, we have only undertaken to reflect literally the views of the Court as expressed in its opinion and are enclosing a mimeographed copy of the opinion to which page references are made following each paragraph of the findings in question. Although we shall probably wish to be heard upon proposals to amend the findings and judgment provided for in the opinion in minor respects, Rule 52b provides that any party may be heard as to the ultimate form that the findings and judgment shall take by appropriate motions filed within ten days after the entry of the judgment. We therefore suggest that the prompt entry of a judgment in some form is essential to a reasonably expeditious final determination of the suit.

You will note that we have expressly provided in the judgment for further hearings by the Court after the parties have submitted concrete plans for accomplishing the dissolution directed by the Court and filed such objections and counter proposals to the plans submitted as they desire to bring to its attention. In this connection, we have suggested no time limitations as the opinion indicated none but believe that sixty days for the submission of plans and thirty days thereafter for filing of objections are appropriate limits.

We have sent copies of the enclosed findings, judgment and opinion and this letter to the defendants' counsel with suggestion that they advise you directly of their views as to the procedure.

As previously indicated, insofar as they desire to raise any questions as to the ultimate form of the findings and judgment, we assume that this will be done by formal motions under Rule 52b after the entry of this judgment. We shall, of course, appreciate receiving a copy of the findings and judgment in the form in which they are respectively filed and entered by the Court together with the date of entry as promptly as possible after the entry.

Sincerely Yours, Wendell Berge, Assistant Attorney General.

Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge,
United States Court House, Buffalo, New York.

Re: United States States v. Schine Chain Theatres, Inc.

My Dear Judge Knight:

Yesterday I received a letter dated October 25, 1945 from Wendell Berge, Esq., Assistant Attorney General, enclosing a copy of a letter from him to your Honor, dated October 24, 1945, together with copies of the enclosures referred to therein. These enclosures include copies of new proposed findings, and a copy of a proposed judgment.

The plaintiffs apparently take the position that proper procedure is for the Court to enter judgment without having found the facts specially, as provided by Rule 52, and then to put the burden upon the defendants of convincing the Court that some or all of the provisions of the judgment should be modified. The defendants strenuously disagree with this position. It is clear that under Rule 52 and the decisions construing the same, judgment cannot be entered until the Court has specially found the facts, and stated separately its conclusions of law upon the basis of which judgment is to be entered.

Counsel are now actively engaged in examining your Honor's opinion and preparing new proposed findings, as suggested in the final paragraph thereof, and we would probably have had our suggestions ready for submission to your Honor at this time, had it not been for the fact that the undersigned has only recently been discharged from the hospital after an operation which caused his confinement for slightly over three weeks, and which has seriously limited his activities since then.

At first glance, it appears that the plaintiff has done nothing more than to take your Honor's opinion which consists of a discussion both of the law and of the facts and to split it up with occasional eliminations and interpolations under the guise of proposed findings of fact, without attempting to separate the facts from the law.

The findings which we submitted originally were quite complete, and of course extensive, and it will require another ten days for us to revamp them in the light of your Honor's opinion.

We are sending a copy of this letter to plaintiff's counsel.

We trust that this will be satisfactory to your Honor.

Respectfully yours, —— ——.

Findings of the Court—October 31, 1945

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The defendants in this suit are: Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., a New York holding and service corporation, five other corporations in which Schine Chain Theatres, Inc. owns all of the stock, to wit, Schine Theatrical Co., Inc., an operating company, Schine-Lexington Corporation, a holding company, Schine Enterprise Corporation, a service corporation, Schine Circuit, Inc., a service corporation, and Chesapeake Theatre Corporation, a holding corporation; and also three individuals J. Meyer Schine, Louis Schine and John A. May. Hereinafter the corporate defendants will sometimes be referred to as "Schine," the "Schine Circuit" or as "the Circuit." (p. 1 and 2.)

2. From 1920 to 1941 these defendants acquired, either as purchaser or as lessee, an interest in 175 theatres and in addition some 42 separate parcels of real estate for theatre purpose, or connected with such purpose. (p. 2.)

3. Since 1931, there have been 118 theatre corporations in which an interest has been acquired by "Schine." As of the time of the commencement of this suit there were 62 of such operating corporations and in 48 of these "Schine"

[fol. 4911] owned 100 per cent of the stock, in 12, 50 per cent. Schine operates 93 theatres in 73 towns (including cities). The towns run generally in population from 5000 to 3500, and include 39 in New York, 16 in Ohio, 8 in Kentucky, 7 in Maryland, 2 in Delaware and 1 in Virginia. In addition to its theatrical and realty operations, "Schine" has booked and bought for and supervised 37 theatres since 1931, and when this suit was brought there were 27 for which it so acted. Since 1928 the closed towns (those in which there was no opposition) show a total increase of 56. In 1941 there were only 3 towns in which Schine's competitors (hereinafter called independents) were playing major film product. (p. 2 and 3.)

4. In a single season, 1939-1940, Schine paid $1,647,000 to six film companies. These defendants together control the largest independent theatre circuit in the country. For theatre acquisitions and capital improvements there has been expended admittedly upwards of $10,948,100, not including divident payments on operating expenses and cash on hand. (p. 3.)

5. There are eight so-called major film companies: Fox, Loew, Paramount, RKO, Warner, Columbia, Universal and United Artists, which supply Schine a large per cent of the feature films used by Schine and together receive upwards of 75 per cent of the total film rental paid by Schine. The principal sales office of each is in New York City and the method of licensing and servicing of films is similar with each except that United Artists Licenses its films subject to the approval of the respective producers of whose film it distributes. The feature films are mostly produced in California where the negatives are taken, the prints being generally manufactured in New York and New Jersey. Film license applications are solicited by salesmen from the branch office, and the delivery and return of films are made through the branch. Prints of films are sent from the [fol. 4912] various exchange offices in the various states to the exhibitors of the main office and all contracts are subject to approval by the main office at New York although the recommendations for approval ordinarily are made by the branch manager who is close to the situation. Prior to the 1941-1942 season it was the usual custom for all of the distributors to make license agreements for feature films for a period of a year commencing about September of each year, which license agreements were ordinarily made before the film was produced. Since that season the films of Fox, Loew, Paramount, RKO and Warner have been licensed in blocks generally not exceeding five in number rather than in season blocks. (p. 3-4.)

6. The individual defendants hold the principal offices in the defendant corporations and hold other offices in the various so-called local corporations. They are the principal stockholders in the parent corporation and have general supervision of the operations of the circuit. The film buying for the circuit and the companies in which it had an interest was conducted through "Schine" or one of its subsidiaries. Lazar, a regional manager for "Schine" covering several states, and Silverman and Hensler, district managers, and one Insley, principally carried on negotiations for acquisitions, though the defendants Schine and May engaged directly in some, while one Lynch was "the Circuit's" chief film buyer. In circuit buying "Schine" generally negotiated deals with the division manager. The agreements so made are referred to as "master agreements and deal sheets," but these were usually followed by license agre-ments signed by the chief sales executive of the distributors. (p. 4-5.)

7. The great film buying power of the defendant corporations gave opportunity to exert pressure on the distrib- [fol. 4913] utors to obtain preferences. The extent of this film buying is demonstrated by the exceeding large number of theatres controlled by "Schine" and the large amount of money which must have been paid for film rentals. This buying power included both closed and open towns. By combining the open and closed towns in Schine's deals with the distributors, Schine was enabled to dictate terms to the distributors. This ability to dictate terms was further increased by the authority of Schine to buy product for theatres not owned or operated by it. Schine acquired by purchase or lease 55 theatres from 1922 to 1932, and 80 from 1936 to 1941, inclusive, 15 in 1938 and 15 in 1939. (p. 12-13.)

8. The means and methods employed by the different defendant corporations through their officers and authorized representative to obtain a "monopolistic" control were numerous. Principally among these were arbitrarily depriving independents of first and second run pictures, securing unreasonable clearances, making threats to build or open closed theatres to prevent construction or operation by independents, lowering admission prices, obtaining rental concessions, restricting independents who sold to Schine as to periods and places of operation, making long time franchise agreements covering the "Circuit." (p. 13.)

9. Some specific instances showing the predatory means used by "Schine" follow:

(a) The Schine defendants arbitrarily deprived independents of the first run products which they had previously enjoyed in several towns. Independents were deprived of 1936-37 Columbia product at Norwalk; 1935-36 Fox product at Van Wert and Bucyrus; Loew's product for 1930-31 at Bellefontaine and for 1935-36 at Van Wert; Paramount's 1935-36 product at Van Wert and Bucyrus; [fol. 4914] RKO product for 1933-34 at Auburn and 1935-36 at Norwalk; of United Artists 1936-37 at Norwalk; and of Warner for 1933-34 at Norwich, 1936-37 at Norwalk, and 1941-42 at Harlan. Independents were arbitrarily deprived of second run products which they had previously exhibited, losing 1938-39 Columbia at Rochester, Loew's 1935-36 at Van Wert and 1934-35 Warner at Watertown. After "Schine" secured the product from the independents for the aforementioned seasons, he retained it and the independent was unable to secure it in subsequent seasons. Relative to six towns including Corning, Lynch wrote on October 21, 1933, Metro: "If there are any other opposition towns where you believe you can sell a second run, I would appreciate it if you would take the matter up with me first before selling." In 1932 Lynch wrote Flynn a letter saying, among other things: "I want you to refrain from selling him (independent) any pictures whatsoever." And Metro through Flynn agreed not to do so. Lynch also wired Fox to withhold selling to this independent and wrote Fox' agent saying "have also asked him (Schmertz-Fox agent) to refrain from selling this man second run." (p. 13-14.)

(b) "Schine" was able to secure unreasonable clearances year after year in many towns. A few only need be mentioned. At Corning, New York, RKO permitted 90 to 180 days, and Fox permitted 160 days. At Seneca Falls, New York, Columbia and United Artists permitted 120 days. At Little Falls, New York, RKO, Columbia and Universal permitted 120 days and United Artists permitted 115 days. At Carthage, RKO permitted 120 days and United Artists 90. United Artists permitted 90 days at Watertown, New York, and 90 days at Amsterdam, New York; Bucyrus, Kent, Norwalk, Tiffin and Fostoria, Ohio; and Lexington and Van Wert, Kentucky. (p. 14-15.) Schine got clearance for Herkimer over Ilion where none existed before.

[fol. 4915] (c) The license contracts with "Schine" in many instances specified minimum admission prices for the various runs as well as clearance periods. This affects adversely the time given the competitor. (p. 15.)

10. "Schine" made threats to build in various towns, such as Paris, where there was a sign up, Canandaigua by a sign and newspaper article published, and where he eventually did build. In Perry, a statement by May and a newspaper article announcing that land had been bought for theatre purposes came at a time when "Schine" was trying to purchase the independent's lease. "Schine" did not build, but later got the lease. In Salamanca, just after independents acquired a site for a contemplated theatre, through the press "Schine" announced its intention to build. In Medina, "Schine" announced the making of an agreement to erect a new theatre immediately after independents started construction. In Mount Vernon, May contacted the independent to buy, saying "Schine" would build unless the deal could be put through. (p. 15.)

11. Defendants' authorized agents made statements to independents which are reasonably construed as threats.

(a) At Bellefontaine, during negotiations for the renewal of a lease with an independent, Lazar threatened to re-open the Opera House, if the independent opened the Strand. (p. 15.)

(b) With reference to Paris, Lazar told the independent, who was taking steps to build, that if the independent went ahead with his projects "Schine" would build a 1200 seat theatre in Lexington where the independent had a theatre and that the house would be run with 10¢ policy at all times. At Paris, Schine and an independent began construction at practically the same time. Lazar asked the independent to stop construction and see him about a deal. [fol. 4916] Subsequently Schine took over the independent's Lexington and Paris theatres under an agreement prohibiting for fifteen years the independent from engaging in the theatre business in any town in Kentucky where Schine had a theatre. (p. 16.)

(c) Just before Schine acquired the "Forum" theatre in Norwalk, Lazar advised an independent to "get in with us * * * we are a big company. You know what it means if you are not in with us," and further stated: "If you lease your theatre Mr. William Selman (part owner of the "Forum") will walk out of town." (p. 16.)

(d) At Van Wert, the operator of the "Ohio" theatre could not get first run product it had had. During negotiations for the sale of the "Ohio" to Schine, Lazar said that Moore would have trouble getting product; Schine would have the first runs; and that Schine was interested in buying in order to raise prices. (p. 16.)

(e) At Lockport, during negotiations with "Schine" for the "Palace theatre, May said it would be necessary to re-open the Hi-Art owned by "Schine" to use up "the large volume of product they had bought." This statement evidently was made to induce Reliance to sell the "Palace." In this instance it is to be noted that the independents experienced great difficulty in getting product. Hi-Art had then been closed for seven years. Metro, Fox, Universal and Loew's refused major product to the independent. Indicative of the attitude of the distributors is the letter from the Eastern Salesmanager of Loew's who wrote:

> "In our negotiations with the Schine interests it will very likely be that we will have to give them consideration for our product at Lockport, as well as other situations, and as we are hardly in a position to forego or jeopardize the business from their other situations, [fol. 4917] and for the further reason that they have for a number of years been a very representative account, we feel that our interests would be best served by giving them such consideration."

(f) At Perry, May told the independent that "Schine" had bought a lot to built a 1000 seat theatre there. This was a town of less than 5000 population. The independent theatre building was owned by the town and leased to the independent. When May said this, a local newspaper article to the same effect was given out. Schine did not build but Herzberger sold shortly thereafter, and through the purchaser of this interest Schine acquired the lease. (p. 17.)

(g) Insley and May tried to buy an independent's theatre at Seaford and Georgetown. Insley said it was foolish that the independent did not make a deal with "Schine" because he had recently purchased the theatre at Laurel and "very likely, with the buying power they had they would get away the product" from the independent. Insley said Schine had bought a lot with the intention to build a theatre in Seaford, and also said: "Well, if I were you I would sell the theatres to Schine because they are going to build a theatre there and, naturally, they are going to get the product." Insley, under a written contract with "Schine" had authority "in negotiations for the acquisition of motion picture theatres within the above-described territory (Delaware, Maryland, Virginia). Seaford and Georgetown are in Delaware. (p. 17-18.)

(h) At Rochester, J. Meyer Schine told independents, who were then building the "Webster," that the location was not appropriate, that it was too near the "State" (Schine's) and not justified, and Schine said he would build a theatre near the Murray theatre (owned by independ- [fol. 4918] ents). The "State" and the "Webster" theatres were ¾ mile apart. Schine later took over the "Webster." Schine testified he said that it would not be sensible to build the "Webster," but denied that he said he would build near the "Murray." (p. 18.)

(i) At Seneca Falls, after an independent had taken steps toward building a theatre, a sign was placed on the Seneca theatre, (shortly theretofore purchased by Schine) which read: "Closed for alterations. Will re-open soon as a Schine theatre." Independent then discontinued efforts to build. "Schine" did not re-open. Practically the same things recurred two years later. The same independent took steps to build. The sign re-appeared on the "Seneca." The independent did not go through with his plan. The "Seneca" did not open. It had not been open in several years. (p. 18.)

12. After "Schine" opened a theatre within a town, it was arbitrarily able to keep the independents from opening a theatre in the town with suitable run product, as in Auburn, Lockport, Mt. Vernon, Paris, and Bellefontaine. (p. 18.)

13. "Schine" was able to monopolize first run product at Corbin, Medina and Lockport even though the physical facilities of the independents in those towns were better than Schine's. He was able to monopolize the first neighborhood run in Rochester even though the physical facilities of the independents were better. (p. 19.)

14. "Schine" cut admission prices at Corbin, Geneva, Lexington, Malone, Ogdensburg and other towns; gave out cut rate tickets in Addison, good in his Corning theatre for students, and frequently engaged in two for ones and bank nights in other towns. (p. 19.)

[fol. 4919] 15. In cases of purchase or the assumption of leases other than those hereinbefore referred to, the agreements therefor provided for no competition by the independents for long periods of time. The non-competitive feature was also extended to cover outside towns, i. e.: Amsterdam, Ilion, Malone, Paris, and Lexington. (p.19.)

16. By reason of franchise agreements entered into prior to May, 19, 1942, (voided thereafter, see Decree herein of that date) permitting special film rentals not given independents, "Schine" was able to reap benefits unavailable to independents and these were utilized against independent operators as a means of restraint. These have a definite bearing on the competitive effect of buying power. Rather than make contracts for a single year, as appears to have been Schine's practice prior to 1936, he then began making such for a period of two or three years. These contracts included both the entire circuit and also those theatres for which Schine did the booking. The great buying power of "Schine" enabled him to obtain concessions not obtainable by independents. In 1936 Schine made a three year agreement with Fox, and as a result he obtained the Fox feature product in all the towns which "Schine" then operated, and this agreement was later made to include subsequently acquired theatres. In 1938 a subsequent three year agreement was made. These agreements provided for payment of certain percentages of gross receipts after deduction of operating costs, and also fixed minimum admission charges. With Loew in 1936, a four year agreement was made under substantially the same terms as made with

Fox. In 1937 a comparable three year agreement was made with Warner; in 1938 a similar one with RKO; a similar two year one with Columbia in the same year and a three year agreement was made with Universal in 1939. In the [fol. 4920] instance of United Artists, a distributing corporation, separate contracts were made for each feature for all Schine theatres. Another feature of these agreements was the inclusion of unfair and inequitable clearance provisions. (p. 19-20.)

17. In numerous instances unreasonable clearances were allowed to Schine over towns in which Schine did not operate, and some towns distant from 10 to upwards of 20 miles, and towns in which there were no theatres. Gloversville got clearance of 45 days over Johnstown, and "Schine" was given clearance both over Newfane and Mohawk where there were no theatres. Many clearances were over outside towns of comparably small population, distant so far that no clearance is justified, such as Randolph, Little Valley and Ellicottville, New York. Many recently were given over towns over which there had been no previous clearance. Metro gave clearance in Ashland over Loudonville and Lodi, Ohio; United Artists gave clearance in Auburn over Skaneateles, New York, and Fox in Hornell over Earlville, New York. The record is replete with inter-department communications between major film representatives which recognize the unreasonableness of the clearances given to Schine at his demand. This is shown by the communications and representations made by Lehman of United Artists, Pielow of M. G. M., Dana and Sauber of Universal, Smith of Warner, and Sussman and Grassgreen of Fox, which are admissable in evidence because these men all held positions in their respective companies so that it was within the scope of their duties to make the representations in the communications that they did as a natural incident of the office, i. e.: branch or district manager. Pielow, MGM resident manager, wrote: "I feel that in some of the situations (unnamed) (discussing Schine contracts), the clearance [fol. 4921] that he (Lynch) is demanding is unfair * * *." Dana, branch manager of Universal wrote the district manager that he had asked Louis Schine relative to clearances over the Smalley circuit (Norwich) and that he refused to grant the privilege of serving the pictures with shorter clearance. Universal branch manager Sauber wrote Lynch that they wanted to serve Waterloo in less time than the 30 days clearance after Seneca Falls because other majors were, but Lynch refused though Universal had the right under its contract to do so. At Rochester, Scully, of Universal, said it would be satisfactory if the Madison and Monroe came within the Schine 21 day clearance. Smith, branch manager of Warner, wrote to the Home office that Canton would do more business if it were not for Schine at Ogdenburg having 30 days clearance and if it was reduced: "It will make a better condition for us all * * *." Smith also wrote relative to Seneca Falls stating that he hoped Lynch would break down their 60 days clearance: "As I told you this morning over the phone, the clearance set up is all wet * * *." Sussman, of Fox, wrote to Grassgreen that the 60 day clearance in Glens Falls and elsewhere seemed excessive. Sussman went on to comment that he noted that 60 day clearance was given over second run at Malone when Fox had no second run in Malone, and furthermore, as previously stated, 60 days over second run seemed excessive. Grassgreen replied that while the 60 days at Glens Falls might seem excessive, Lynch insisted upon it. Grassgreen said that Schine insisted upon the 60 day clearance because they wanted to be consistent with their demands for 60 days over subsequent independent runs. (p. 21-23.)

18. In certain instances the distributors refused to negotiate with the independents for runs not bought by Schine. Such are seen in the refusal of RKO, Fox, Paramount, [fol. 4922] MGM and Universal to furnished second run at Auburn; of MGM at Amsterdam until the "Schine" deal did not materialize; by United Artists at Geneva; and by RKO, Universal and Fox at Paris. (p. 23.)

19. In many instances the distributors refused to negotiate with the independents for runs. After "The Circuit" came into the town, in many instances it was impossible for the independent to get a good run of major product, or even to have his requests to purchase considered. RKO would not sell to the independent after "The Circuit" came in for 1933-34 in Auburn, 1935-36 in Mt. Vernon; MGM would not sell 1930-31 in Bellefontaine, 1933-34 in Lockport and Norwich, 1935-36 in Van Wert, 1936-37 in Lexington, 1938-39 in Medina; Paramount would not sell 1933-34 in Lockport, 1934-35 in Auburn, 1935-36 in Mt. Vernon; Fox would not sell 1933-34 in Norwich, 1935-36 in Amsterdam and Mt. Vernon; Universal would not sell 1933-34 in Lockport, and Norwich; United Artists would not sell 1935-36 in Mt. Vernon and Van Wert; and Warner would not sell 1933-34 in Norwich, 1935-36 in Amsterdam, 1938-39 in Medina and 1941 in Norwich. In these instances, when the independent attempted to make application for product, he was simply advised that the product had been sold to "Schine" in a circuit deal. (p. 23-24.)

20. Special privileges were granted, as in the option of paying a per cent of the gross receipts from product or flat rental, and as in deducting cost of competitive devices (bank nights, etc.) from gross before computing the distributor's share. (p. 24.)

21. Special license provisions were given by tying up second runs, as in Lockport and Corning. (p. 24.)

22. In certain instances Schine's film contracts called for lower minimum admission charge than those for the inde- [fol. 4923] pendent for subsequent run. This happened in Lexington and Corning. (p. 24.)

23. United Artists with respect to the Capitol theatre in Ilion wrote: "We do not want to encounter any difficulty with the Schine Circuit * * *, we want to be definitely assured that the clearance as submitted in the contracts is satisfactory to the Schine Company." (p. 23-24.)

24. Sichelman, assistant sales manager for Fox, wrote Schine that Fox was free to sell ten pictures of first run and also 100% second run in Bellefontaine and that the branch manager was being directed to sell these. In reply, Lynch said, in part: "The only product which he (independent) has been able to buy has been from independent companies. There has not been a major company that has sold him any product. * * * We are charging a top of 40¢ admission * * * and we don't want to have the distributing companies make it impossible for us to continue getting this price. * * * I have also written Mr. Schmertz advising him that we will take the remaining pictures which we did not buy first run, and, have also asked him to refrain from selling this second run house." Lynch also wrote to the Fox branch manager asking him to hold off selling the independent. (p. 25.)

25. Lynch wrote United Artists that "Schine" should be allowed the privilege of playing pictures ahead of a situation (Sodus) charging a lesser admission price." To this the reply, in part, was: "Therefore, in the future, we will grant you fourteen days, or whatever clearance you see fit to take on towns like Elmira etc. in that locality. (p. 25.)

26. The Fox home office wrote its branch with reference to Glens Falls, second run: "I note that you have changed the clearances hereby providing for sixty days over third run Glens Falls. Sixty day clearances here and elsewhere [fol. 4924] seem to be excessive", and to this the branch manager replied that Schine always provided for this clearance over third run and "George Lynch insisted in carrying it through for the future." (p. 25-26.)

27. There is much other evidence going to show the influence of "Schine" with the distributors to gain preference over independent competitors and also the cooperation of the distributors with "Schine" to the same end. (p. 26)

28. As compared with some of the major distributors [1] these defendants when combined are relatively small. Some of the major companies are exhibitors as well as distributors. The producer-distributors and chains of exhibitors occupy positions from which monopolization is easily brought about. (p. 28.)

29. The record does not disclose that Schine did not seek to furnish its patrons with those pictures which attracted the greatest revenue or that it has not furnished sufficiently attractive entertainment. (p. 29.)

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. The court has jurisdiction of this cause under the provisions of the Act of July 2, 1890, entitled "An Act to Protect Trade and Commerce against Unlawful Restraints and Monopolies," hereinafter referred to as the Sherman Act.

---

[1] The term "major distributors" as used herein refers to the distributors known in the trade as Fox, Loew, Paramount, RKO, Warner, Columbia, Universal and United Artists.

2. The defendants have violated Section 1 and Section 2 of the Sherman Act in that they have maintained an unlawful combination among themselves by means of which they have unreasonably restrained trade and commerce among [fol. 4925] the several states and have monopolized the business of operating theatres and the supplying of major films in various towns and cities, and that each of the major distributors by the methods it has employed in its dealings with the defendants and their independent theatre opposition has aided and abetted these defendants in such restraint of trade and monopolization of theatre operations. (p. 12.)

3. The defendants have maintained an unlawful combination among themselves and with their affiliated corporations and have monopolized the licensing of the exhibition of motion picture films in various cities and towns in violation of the aforesaid sections of the Sherman Act and, through the unlawful combination between themselves and their affiliates by their predatory practices, have monopolized the business of operating motion picture theatres in various towns and have attempted to monopolize in various other towns; and the defendants have contracted, conspired and combined with each other and their affiliated corporations and with each of the aforesaid major film corporations for the purpose, and with the effect of suppressing competition and monopolizing exhibition of films distributed by each of said film corporations in various towns and cities, in violation of the aforesaid statute. (p. 29-30.)

4. The principal means and methods employed by the defendant corporations through their officers and authorized representatives to obtain said monopolistic control of theatre operations are as follows:

(a) Arbitrarily depriving independents of first and second run pictures;

(b) Securing unreasonable clearances for the defendants' theatres over independent theatres;

(c) Making threats to build or open or close theatres to prevent construction or operation by independents;

[fol. 4926] (d) Lowering admission prices;

(e) Obtaining rental concessions;

(f) Restricting independents who sold to them as to periods and places of theatre operation, and

(g) Making long time franchise agreements covering the "Circuit." (p. 13.)

5. The plaintiff is entitled to a judgment enjoining the defendants:

(a) From monopolizing the supply of major first run films in any situation where there is a competing theatre suitable for first run exhibition thereof, and from monopolizing the supply of second run films in any situation where there is a suitable theatre for second run exhibitions thereof;

(b) From demanding or receiving clearance over theatres operated by others which unreasonably restrict their ability to compete with a theatre owned or operated by a defendant, or corporations controlled by it;

(c) From conditioning the licensing of films in any competitive situation, outside of Buffalo, New York, upon the licensing of films in any other situation;

(d) From selling or acquiring any theatre interests pending the further order of this Court;

(e) From enforcing any existing agreements heretofore entered into by the defendants not to compete, or to restrict the use of any real estate to non-theatrical purposes; from the use of any threats or deception as a means whereby a competitor is induced to sell;

(f) From continuing the heretofore described "conspiracy" or "monopolization" in restraint of trade and commerce between the states and the entering into any combination or conspiracy for the purpose or with the effect of restraining trade and commerce between the states;

[fol. 4927] (g) And directing the entering of a decree adjudging that the defendants and their affiliated corporations be dissolved, re-aligned or reorganized in their ownership and control, so that fair competition between them and other theatres be restored and hereafter maintained; and that the determination of the question of the dissolution, re-alignment or reorganization of the parties aforesaid and the method to be employed in the accomplishment of the same to be left to be fixed by this Court after further consideration with the parties. (p. 30-31.)

Civil No. 223

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Plaintiff,

vs.

SCHINE CHAIN THEATRES, INC., et al., Defendants

JUDGMENT—October 31, 1945

This cause having come on for hearing before this Court upon the pleadings and upon the testimony, both oral and documentary, introduced at the trial of this cause, and the same having been argued by counsel upon briefs submitted, and the Court having rendered its opinion herein on October 8, 1945 and herewith filed its findings of fact and conclusions of law wherein the defendants herein have been found to violate Sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman Act:

It is hereby ordered, adjudged and decreed as follows:

I

1. The defendants have maintained an unlawful combination among themselves and with their affiliated corporations and have monopolized the licensing of the exhibition of motion picture films in various cities and towns in violation of Sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman Act and, through the unlawful combination between themselves and their affiliates by their predatory practices, have monopolized the business of operating motion picture theatres in various towns and have attempted to monopolize in various other towns; and the defendants have contracted, conspired and combined with each other and their affiliated corpora- [fol. 4929] tions and with each of the aforesaid major film

corporations for the purpose, and with the effect of suppressing competition and monopolizing exhibition of films distributed by each of said film corporations in various towns and cities, in violation of the aforesaid statute.

II

Each of the defendants is hereby enjoined and restrained:

1. From monopolizing the supply of major first run films in any situation where there is a competing theatre suitable for first run exhibition thereof and from monopolizing the supply of second run films in any situation where there is a suitable theatre for second run exhibition thereof.

2. From demanding or receiving clearance over theatres operated by others which unreasonably restricts their ability to compete with a theatre owned or operated by a defendant or corporation controlled by it.

3. From conditioning the licensing of films in any competitive situation outside of Buffalo, New York, upon the licensing of films in any other situation.

4. From selling or acquiring any theatre interest pending the further order of this Court.

5. From enforcing any existing agreements heretofore entered into (1) not to compete or (2) to restrict the use of any real estate to non-theatrical purposes.

6. From using any threats or deception as a means whereby a competitor is induced to sell.

7. From continuing any contract, conspiracy or combination with each other or with any other person which has the purpose or effect of maintaining the exhibition or [fol. 4930] theatre monopolies of the defendants or of preventing any other theatre or exhibitor from competing with the defendants or any of them, and from entering into any similar contract, conspiracy, or combination for the purpose or with the effect of restraining or monopolizing trade and commerce between the States.

III

The defendants and their affiliated corporations be dissolved, realigned, or reorganized in their ownership and control so that fair competition between them and other theatres may be restored and thereafter maintained. The plaintiff and the defendants shall each within 60 days from the entry hereof submit a plan to this Court for such dissolution, realignment or reorganization as they believe will attain this end and serve copies thereof upon opposing counsel. Within 30 days after the service of such a plan upon counsel for the parties they shall advise the Court in writing of their objections, if any, to such plans and such counter or substitute proposals for the carrying out of this provision of this judgment as they may desire to submit.

IV

Jurisdiction of this cause is retained for the purpose of entering such further orders as may be necessary to amend, construe, and carry out this judgment after such hearings thereon as the Court may direct.

Enter,

John Knight, U. S. District Judge.

Dated the 31 day of October, 1945.

[Title omitted]

DEFENDANTS' MOTION PURSUANT TO RULE 52(b) OF THE RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE, TO AMEND THE COURT'S FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW, TO MAKE ADDITIONAL FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW, AND TO AMEND THE JUDGMENT ACCORDINGLY.

The defendants move the Court to amend its findings of fact and conclusions of law, dated October 31, 1945 and entered herein November 1, 1945, in the particulars hereinafter set forth, and to amend the judgment herein, dated October 31, 1945 and entered November 1, 1945 accordingly all pursuant to the provisions of Rule 52 (b) of the Rules of Civil Procedure.

The defendants do not by this motion, or by any submission or request for findings on the evidence and exhibits now in the case, waive any objection to the admissibility of any evidence or exhibit which has been admitted over the objection of the defendants and the inclusion in the findings of any statement based on that evidence or on that exhibit. Nor do they waive or withdraw any request for findings heretofore made by them.

With the aforesaid reservations, each defendant in this case separately moves the Court that the findings of fact and conclusions of law heretofore filed and entered herein be amended in each of the respects hereinafter set forth. Each defendant makes this motion with respect to each paragraph separately. In accordance with the foregoing, each defendant moves the Court to amend its findings and conclusions in the following particulars:

I. STRIKING OUT THE FOLLOWING NUMBERED FINDINGS OF FACT AND MAKING THE FOLLOWING IN LIEU THEREOF*

1. In place of finding of fact No. 3, substitute the following finding:

> [fol. 4932] "Since 1931 there have been 118 theatre corporations which have been incorporated or in which an interest has been acquired by Schine. Among the theatres in which Schine became financially interested there are 25 theatres situated respectively in 16 towns, Auburn, Bath, Canandaigua, Carthage, Corning, Gloversville, Herkimer, Little Falls, Newark, Norwich, Oneonta, Oswego, Salamanca, Saranac Lake, Syracuse and Watertown, New York, which had belonged to Schine before 1930 and had been leased to the Fox-Metropolitan Circuit in 1929, and which reverted to Schine in 1933 as a consequence of the termination of the leases in the Fox-Metropolitan bankruptcy proceedings. The result of this reversion was that it was necessary for Schine to resume the operation of the said theatres. At the end of the year 1930 Schine had no motion picture theatres, except suburban theatres in Buffalo and Rochester, motion picture theatres in Courtland, East Rochester, Fairport, Rockport, Geneva, Malone, Medina and Ogdensburg, and a half

Numerical references to findings of fact heretofore filed are therefore made to the numerical designations of the findings of fact proposed by the plaintiff, which the defendants understand were signed by the Court as proposed.

interest in Amsterdam, and a theatre under construction in Bellefontaine, Ohio. As of the time of the commencement of this suit there were 62 of such operating corporations, and in 48 of these Schine owned 100% of the stock, in 12, 50%. Schine operates 93 theatres in 73 towns (including cities). The towns run generally in population from 5,000 to 35,000 and include 39 in New York, 16 in Ohio, 8 in Kentucky, 7 in Maryland, 2 in Delaware, and 1 in Virginia. There are upwards of 1,350 motion picture theatres in New York state, upwards of 800 theatres in Ohio, upwards of 200 theatres in Kentucky, upwards of 200 theatres in Maryland, upwards of 270 theatres in Virginia, and upwards of 30 theatres in Delaware. In addition to its theatrical and realty operations Schine has booked and bought for and supervised 37 theatres since 1931, and when this suit was brought there were 27 for which it so acted. At the date of the commencement of this action Schine operated motion picture theatres in 59 towns in which Schine owned the only motion picture theatres operating in such towns. In most of these towns, all of the theatres had been operated by a single owner, and was so operated at the time of the acquisition of the same by Schine. In the other 17 towns there were theatres operated by other than Schine. Since 1928, including the 25 theatres reverting from Fox-Metropolitan, the number of theatres in towns in which there was no opposition theatre increased by 56. In most of these no theatre, or not more than one theatre, had operated before Schine began operating there. Schine built, bought or received a lease of its first run theatre in each of the above mentioned 73 towns in the ordinary course of the expansion of its business.

2. In place of finding of fact No. 4, substitute the following finding:

"Schine has expended for the cost of land and buildings acquired by it the sum of $6,509,100.00 and for the cost of building additions and improvements the sum of $4,439,000.00. These expenditures were made in the normal course of the developments of Schine's business for the purpose of conducting the exhibition business locally in the respective cities and towns so attractively [fol. 4933] to patrons as to make the business profitable, and not for the purpose of acquiring any monopoly or restraining interstate trade or commerce or for the purpose of driving any other person out of the exhibition business."

3. In place of finding of fact No. 5, substitute the following finding:

> "There are eight so-called major film companies, Fox, Loew, Paramount, RKO, Warner, Columbia, Universal and United Artists, which supply Schine a large percentage of the feature film used by Schine and together received upwards of 75% of the total film rental paid by Schine. Other major distributors not classified with the eight are Monogram and Republic. The principal sales office of each distributor is in New York City, and the method of licenses and servicing of films is substantially similar with each. The feature films are mostly produced in California, where the negatives are made, the positive prints being generally manufactured in California, New York or New Jersey. Film license applications are solicited by salesmen from the branch office and the delivery and return of films are made through the branch. All contracts are subject to approval by the main office at New York. Prior to the 1941-1942 season it was the usual custom for all of the distributors to make license agreements for feature films for a period of a year, commencing about September of each year, which license agreements were ordinarily made before the film was produced. Since that season the films of Fox, Loew, Paramount, RKO and Warner have been licensed, after production, in blocks, generally not exceeding five in number, rather than in season blocks."

4. In place of finding of fact No. 6, substitute the following finding:

> "One or more of the individual defendants held one or more of the principal offices in the defendant corporations and other offices in the various so-called local corporations. None of the individual defendants own any stock in any of the corporate defendants, nor have they owned any stock since August 31, 1931, except that John May owned 1331 shares of the Class A common stock of Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., which stock he disposed of on February 19, 1932, and except that J. Myer Schine, Louis W. Schine and John A. May owned from time to time various shares of the preference stock of Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., (a non-voting stock, except in certain contingencies provided for in the certificate of incorporation). The preference stock was retired by the corporation on March 1, 1944. The duties and authority of Lazaar, Silverman, Hensler and Insley were in each instance, subject to the supervision and direction of the executive office at Gloversville. Negotiations for the licensing of motion pictures was generally carried on in the first instance by Lynch. He negotiated generally with the respective distributors through their respective division managers in New York. Any proposed contracts resulting from such negotiations were subject in every instance to approval on the part of the distributors by their duly authorized representatives (generally the general sales [fol. 4934] manager), and on the part of Schine by Lynch's superiors.

Occasionally agreements between Schine and the respective distributors took the form of what is known in the industry as a "master agreement" supplemented by "deal sheets," but this was by no means the invariable practice."

5. In place of finding of fact No. 7, substitute the following finding:

"The Circuit had the normal influence of a very large buyer with each of the distributors. This improved the opportunity of the Circuit to make more favorable terms than a small customer. The extent of this film buying is demonstrated by the large number of theatres controlled by Schine and the large amount of money which had been paid and was to be paid for film rentals. This buying power included both towns in which there was no opposition exhibitor, called "closed" towns, and those in which there was an opposition buyer, sometimes called "open" towns. The negotiations for film for the different theatres were conducted sometimes separately and sometimes involving more than one town. Sometimes the contracts were made separately and sometimes a "master agreement" with deal sheets was made for a number of towns, some open and some closed. The fact that Schine was buying product for theatres not owned or operated by it increased the value of his patronage and also increased the prospect of getting contracts favorable to the theatres for which Schine was buying. Schine acquired by purchase or lease 55 theatres from 1922 to 1931 and 80 from 1936 to 1941, inclusive, 15 in 1938 and 15 in 1939. The 55 theatres included the 25 which, as above stated, had been acquired by Schine and sold or leased to Fox-Metropolitan and which reverted to Schine in 1933 in the Fox-Metropolitan bankruptcy proceedings."

6. In place of finding of fact No. 8, substitute the following finding:

"The means and method employed by the Schine Circuit in carrying on its business were numerous. The Circuit required so many pictures for its theatres that its purchases frequently left no first run, and sometimes no second run, pictures for other theatres in the same town. Schine sought to obtain clearances in the competitive areas against subsequent runs and obtained them to the extent hereinafter set out. These clearances provided that subsequent runs of the pictures could not be shown in the areas described until after the number of days stated in the clearance terms." (See also Proposed Amendments 27-30.)

"Schine made agreements with some of the distributors for the supply of product for a period of more than one year, as hereinafter set forth. Such agreements are described herein as "franchises." Schine made these franchise agreements so as to get a definite assurance of the product for the times stated in them. The respective distributors who entered into the agreements made them for the purpose of having an assured output for the places stated and for the times stated." (See also Proposed Amendment 67.)

[fol. 4935] 7. In place of finding of fact No. 9, substitute the following finding:

"Whenever Schine built, bought, leased or otherwise acquired a theatre or theatres in any town, the Circuit endeavored to license the film necessary to operate the theatres, generally Schine was able to obtain such pictures because of its reputation as a good customer. Whatever film was licensed by Schine for any specified run could not be licensed for the same run to any other exhibitor."

8. In place of finding of fact No. 10, and findings 11 (b), 11 (f), substitute the following finding:

(a) "In 1937 Schine took up for consideration the possibility of building an additional theatre in Canandaigua when there was prospect of the construction of a large veterans' hospital that would bring several hundred families into town. The planning and finishing of the theatre took about two years. During this period a sign was put up. By whom does not appear. The sign bore no signature, either written or printed. It was erected on a lot occupied by Montgomery Ward & Co., called the Flanagan lot. It said something about a new theatre to be erected by Schine or the Schine organization, or some such thing like that. The newspaper in Canandaigua published an article that the Schine Circuit was going to build a new theatre. The new theatre was built, not on the lot occupied by Montgomery Ward & Co., but on another lot, for which Schine paid $15,000 for the land and structure on it and paid in addition for building the Lake theatre, $38,500. This new theatre, the Lake, was a theatre of 400 or 450 seats, of fine construction, equipment and decoration."

(b) "In Paris, Ky., in October 1937, Schine received a license, pursuant to the city ordinances to erect and operate a new theatre. Schine proceeded to have plans drawn and got bids in the spring or summer of 1938 and completed the new theatre in 1939. In November 1938 Harry Schwartz, about four months after he knew of the proposal for the new Schine theatre, obtained a lease of property in Paris. Lazar asked Schwartz if he had not seen the sign on the lot Schine had purchased some time ago and that they were going to build a new theatre on it, and Schwartz told Lazar that he had. Lazar said they had every intention of building a theatre in Paris and were not decided on just what type or what size, and that is why they had not begun earlier, and that he felt that Schwartz was making a mistake in building in competition with them, and Schwartz told him that he did not think so or he would not have signed a 20-year lease on the main corner of the town, and that he felt that he had the best location in Paris and that he felt the theatre would be self-supporting. Lazar asked him if he would not go to meet him at the Lafayette Hotel, and Schwartz said that he would be glad to do so and went later in the day to the Lafayette Hotel. Lazar said that he did not feel that Paris could support three theatres and that as long as they had been in Paris operating a theatre and had anticipated building a new larger theatre, he could not quite understand what would prompt Schwartz to go into the town as [fol. 4936] competition. Schwartz repeated that his location was the better of the two and that he was not afraid of the competition. Lazar asked him to think things over, that he felt that Schwartz was making a great mistake and would lose plenty of money, and that if Schwartz cared to, he would take this lease off his hands. Schwartz said for how much, and Lazar said, are you trying to hold me up, and Schwartz said I am not trying to hold you up; you called me up and I did not come to see you or call you up. Lazar said well, I believe that Mr. Schine would be willing to take this lease off your hands and relieve you of that obligation, and Schwartz said that he did not intend to give up the lease and that he was going ahead with the theatre, and that ended the conversation. After Schwartz began construction, Lazar called Schwartz on the telephone and asked him whether he was still determined to build or whether he was just starting operations to stop within a week or so, and Schwartz told him that he intended to go ahead, had plans drawn by a theatre architect and a contract had been signed with the construction company to build the theatre, and he fully intended to build it. Lazar told him that his offer was still good, and Schwartz told him that he did not believe he would care to sell the theatre or assign the lease. Three weeks later, after the side walls were already constructed, Lazar called Schwartz on the telephone and asked Schwartz to stop construction and see him about a deal. Schwartz saw Lazar at the Lafayette Hotel. There they went over the same discussion and Lazar said he was willing to enter into a deal for the Opera House property in Lexington, Schwartz' Paris theatre and a theatre that Schwartz was operating in Frankfort, Ky. At this time Schine was building in Paris, and they made a deal and Schwartz stopped construction about August 30, 1939. The agreements are dated September 15, 1939. They contain a provision that the assignors will not be interested for fifteen years in the motion picture, theatrical or amusement business in any city or town in the State of Kentucky, in which the assignee or any of its affiliated or associated companies are now engaged, except that the assignor may invest in stock and securities listed on any recognized stock exchange, and that Schine pay to the assignor $5,000 for the Paris leases and assume liabilities, and that Schine pay to the lessor $22,500, for the Opera House lease. Paris was not big enough for more than two theatres. Schwartz in his dealings with the Schine interest was met only with courtesy and fair discussion of negotiations. The two agreements were a good deal for Schwartz and he got not only the money consideration, but a new lease of the Opera House running to Schwartz, as lessor at a fair and satisfactory rental. At the time of the agreements the only Kentucky towns that Schine was in were Middlesboro, Corbin, Pikeville, Paris, Richmond, Lexington and Maysville. The Paris theatre is a very fine theatre."

(c) "In Perry in July 1935, Schine bought the Davis property a little below the Hotel, at a corner on the Main Street. Thereafter Mr. May called on John C. Herzberger, the operator of the Auditorium theatre, and introduced himself and said that he had just closed a deal with Porter Davis, buying a lot for Schine, on [fol. 4937] which they were to build a theatre seating 1,000 persons and costing about $100,000, and that he hoped that they would be friends. In August 1935 Herzberger met Myer Schine at the Seneca Hotel in Rochester and Schine offered Herzberger $5,000 for his lease from the Town of Perry of the Auditorium. An agreement was signed subject to the approval of the Town Board to the sale of the lease, and to expire on September 1. In August 1935 the Town Board wanted Herzberger to stay and would not let him sell the lease. Schine received the blue prints for a new theatre in Perry, dated September 1935, and specifications therefor, and the time fixed for receiving bids for construction was October 4, 1935. In September or October 1935, Mr. Osborne of Dipson & Osborne came to Mr. Herzberger several times about taking over his lease, and for more money than Schine had offered, and Herzberger made a deal with them and continued to manage the theatre for a year. Dipson improved the theatre at a substantial expense of about $13,000 and made the theatre a satisfactory theatre and removed any occasion for having another theatre built in the town. Before this improvement the theatre was not at all a modern theatre but had been built in 1898 for stage performances. After rebuilding it had about 700 seats, as Dipson reseated the theatre. Dipson & Osborne later sold this lease to Schine and Schine made additional improvements to the theatre at a cost of $7,500. No other theatre has been built in Perry."

(d) "In Salamanca, in October 1924, Schine became the lessee of the Andrews theatre, 735 seats, and in 1927 bought the land on which the new theatre was subsequently built. The original cost of the land was $24,300, to which Schine added a building and improvements at an additional cost of $164,300. Under an agreement with Fox-Metropolitan, Schine undertook to construct a new theatre on its land in Salamanca and to lease it to Fox-Metropolitan. This agreement was terminated and the theatre was not then erected. Schine took the new building project up with the architects in mid-summer of 1938 and send blue prints of the land to the architect on August 23, 1938. The plan to complete the theatre in 1939 was held up by lack of materials, which could not be obtained, and the completion and opening was in August 1942. The new theatre is a very lovely theatre, air conditioned, with modern equipment, with about 1200 seats. In December 1938, C. R. Dickerson, manager of the Schine theatre in Salamanca, came into the office of the publisher of the newspaper, Salamanca Republican Press, and told him that the Schine company would build a new theatre in Salamanca and that the architect was at work on the plans, calling for completion in the following May. The publisher wrote and published an article to this effect in the Salamanca Republican Press on December 24, 1938."

(e) "In Medina, Ohio, Yudelvitz and Willis were lessees and operators of the Princess theatre as a first run theatre, with all the first run product they wanted. By January 1, 1937 they had learned that Fine and Essick, with a circuit of some 29 theatres, an independent circuit, that is, not connected with any producing company, were proposing to come into Medina in opposition to them. Thereupon Yudelvitz and Willis negotiated with Schine and on March 18, 1937 entered into [fol. 4938] an agreement with Schine to come with them and to build a new theatre. At almost the same time the Masonic Lodge of Medina entered into the reconstruction of their building with a theatre in it. In March 1937 they wrote to Schine asking him not to go ahead with the plan to build a new theatre in Medina. In September 1937, through negotiations with Yudelvitz and associates, Schine became interested in 50% of the lease of the Princess theatre, which Yudelvitz and Willis were operating. After the reconstruction of the Masonic Temple building, the new Temple theatre alone was ample for the town, but the Princess was not. Before the new theatre, the Temple, opened Yudelvitz was playing Metro, Paramount, Fox, RKO and Republic pictures (the last named because with the Western stars, Ken Maynard and Gene Autry, he wanted to play Republic on Fridays and Saturdays, although he was not forced to do so from any lack of product). The Princess continued to have the first run product required for the operation of that theatre. Essick and Fine could not buy the same product which had already been sold to the Princess for the same run. In April 1939 after extended "cross the table" negotiations the Schine and Yudelvitz interests became interested in 50% of the lease of the Temple theatre, the other 50% being retained by Essick and Fine, who also acquired a 50% interest in the lease of the Princess, so that in April 1939 and thereafter the interest in the two leases stood, Yudelvitz 25%, Schine 25%, Essick and Fine 50%. Schine said nothing to Essick and Fine by way of threat. In the operation of the Medina Temple theatre the town has been very well served and the worth while pictures of all the distributors from time to time have been exhibited there."

(f) "In Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Mr. Smoots, the owner of the Vine theatre and lessee of the Memorial theatre, brought the matter of going into Mt. Vernon to Schine's attention and proposed to lease the Vine to Schine and to assign his lease on the Memorial, which was then closed. At about the same time Mr. Platt, who operated the Lyric, said that he would like to sell Schine the equipment and lease of the Lyric provided he could get a job to manage the theatres in town, and this deal was closed about February 1934. Schine became the lessee of the Vine theatre and of the Memorial theatre in January 1934, and of the Lyric theatre in February 1934, and of the Memorial again at the end of December 1940. The Lyric location was the finest location in town. In April 1938, on the Lyric site and on additional land bought, Schine built the new Vernon theatre. The new Vernon theatre is a modern fireproof constructed theatre with a wide marquee in front, no stores, a large lobby, and in the interior decorated in very modernistic style, with the finest seats obtainable. It has all the other equipment and a fine mezzanine furnished attractive and comfortable, with fine public spaces upstairs and downstairs. The cost was from $120,000 to $130,000."

9. In place of finding of fact No. 11 (a), 11 (e), 11 (h) and 11(i), substitute the following finding:

(a) "At Bellefontaine, Ohio, in 1930 a delegation from Bellefontaine called on Mr. Schine with reference to the establishment of a new theatre in Bellefontaine. [fol. 4939] At this time the Schine Circuit was operating in only eleven cities and towns. These were all in New York State. As a result of the call of this delegation Schine acquired land in Bellefontaine in 1930 and built the new Holland theatre, which was opened on February 12, 1931. It was of the latest type of first class moving picture theatre. At this time

Milton A. Mooney as a lessee was operating the Strand theatre. He operated the Majestic theatre during the annual fair week, and in the year 1928 to 1931 he closed it entirely. It was a small, old converted store show, without equipment for sound pictures. He also had the Opera House, an upstairs house, seventy-five years old, without sound equipment, and closed except for an occasional stage show. The Majestic and the Opera House were of no value, and the balance of the lease of the Strand and its equipment, which had been used for seven years, was all that Mooney had to sell. In May or June 1931, Mooney saw Mr. May, who offered $2500 for the lease, and Mooney sold the balance of the lease of the Strand and its equipment in July 1931. The lessor of the Strand was one Gutilla. It had been made in 1924, expiring in 1934. Gutilla then renewed the lease until 1938. This negotiation was with Mr. May or with Mr. Lazar. In these negotiations Mr. Lazar said that if the Strand lease was not renewed and Gutilla operated it, Schine was going to play second run at the Opera House, on which he had a lease. The Opera House had been closed from 1932 to 1934 and open from 1934 to 1936 as a second run house. From 1932 to 1934 it had been open about six or seven months. Gutilla had his final negotiations for the lease with Mr. Schine."

(b) "At Lockport, N. Y., Schine began to exhibit in 1922. He bought a large building which had been a skating rink and then used as a garage, and converted it into a modern large motion picture theatre, the Rialto theatre. It had great advantage over any other theatre in Lockport because of its downstairs seating capacity. It cost, for original purchase, $27,500, and for improvements $118,400. In October 1927 Schine became half owner in the lease of the Hi-Art and of the Palace theatre constructed several years after Schine had opened the new Rialto. The Rialto had been playing the best first class pictures and the Palace played vaudeville and pictures and part of the time pictures only. Later Schine discontinued vaudeville at the Palace and moved the best pictures into the Palace and played first and second run at the Rialto. Schine was forced out of the Palace theatre in December 1932.

Before this Schine had negotiated for contracts for the 1932-33 product sufficient to operate two theatres which Schine was then operating. The owner of the Palace thereupon opened the Palace. The Rialto was showing all the product of the eight companies except Metro. Schine, on losing the Palace, remodelled the Hi-Art, to be operated in place of the theatre that he had lost. Before reopening the Hi-Art, Mr. May made an offer for the Palace and stated that Schine was withholding opening the Hi-Art for an additional few days for him to decide whether or not he would accept the proposal, and that Schine would reopen the Hi-Art to play the product under contract. The owner of the Palace was unwilling to accept the offer. The Hi-Art, which had been closed during the seven years that the Palace was operated, was reopened."

[fol. 4940] (c) "At Rochester, N. Y., beginning in August 1925, Schine operated from time to time twelve theatres. One of these was the State. In 1927 Mr. Tishkoff and Mr. Schine had a conversation informally in the lobby of the Seneca Hotel. Schine asked him whether it was true that he and his associate proposed to build a theatre in the neighborhood of the State operated by Schine and Plaza operated by a independent, and Tishkoff said that it was true. Schine asked him whether he thought the location was suitable for a third theatre, and Tishkoff said that he didn't know, that his partner got into it and he went along. Tishkoff said why don't you come up to my office tomorrow and I will have my associates there and see if we can't work out something whereby we might have a partnership in the theatres. The next day they met in Mr. Tishkoff's office and Schine told the group that the neighborhood was already overseated and that the Plaza had just been remodelled and that there wasn't room for a third theatre. They talked about the possibility of a partnership, and Schine said that he wouldn't go into the partnership, that they were overseating a neighborhood and that if they really wanted to build a theatre there were many other neighborhoods where a theatre was needed, but they said that they owned a lot and were going ahead, and Schine said that there would be no more sense in it than in building a theatre near the Murray. Schine said that the Webster location was not appropriate, that it was too near the State. The State and the Webster were three-quarters of a mile apart. Schine later acquired the Webster."

(d) "At Seneca Falls, N. Y., Schine bought the Seneca theatre. A sign was then put on it, 'Closed for Alterations—Will Reopen Soon as a Schine Theatre.' An independent, who was without financial resources and was seeking to acquire the means to build a theatre, discontinued these efforts for two years. The sign reappeared on the Seneca. The Seneca did not reopen. The independent did not raise the money."

10. In place of finding of fact No. 12, substitute the following finding:

"In any town in which Schine bought motion picture product for a specified run, it was of course impossible for any other theatre to buy such product for the same run. This condition existed in Auburn, New York, Lockport, New York, Mount Vernon, Ohio, Paris, Kentucky and Bellefontaine, Ohio. In such instances the operator of the other theatre would buy a different run or from a different distributor."

11. In place of finding of fact No. 13, substitute the following findings:

"At Corbin, Medina and Lockport, Schine had the first run product. In Corbin, Schine was the licensee of this product before there was any other theatre in town. One of these theatres, the Hippodrome, was a much more substantially constructed and more expensive theatre than the new theatre that was built. The facts as to Medina and Lockport have been stated hereinbefore.

[fol. 4941] In Rochester, N. Y., Schine had the first run neighborhood product for the Riviera, State, Dixie and Liberty theatres. These included the best neighborhood houses in Rochester. The Fenyvessy theatres took clearance over all other Schine theatres in Rochester. Schine had these first neighborhood runs before the independents acquired their theatres."

12. In place of finding of fact No. 15, substitute the following finding:

> "In certain cases when Schine purchased or acquired a lease of a motion picture theatre or theatres as going concerns, an agreement was made with the former operator which provided that such operator would operate the motion picture theatres within limited competitive areas for limited periods of time. In certain instances this non-competitive agreement covered nearby towns other than the towns in which the former operator had been in business."

13. In place of finding of fact No. 16, substitute the following finding:

> "The franchise agreements hereinbefore described were voided as of May 19, 1942. It does not appear that in negotiating for product or franchises for product for the Schine Circuit there has been any departure from the normal and usual courses pursued in the industry for such negotiations to get the best prices and terms and runs and clearances obtainable for the Circuit by earnest and fair negotiations. As far as material the terms of the franchise agreements are set out herein. Franchise agreements were made by the respective distributors with independents. Franchise agreements gave the holder and the distributor the benefits stated therein. Conspicuously, they gave the holder the assurance of the product covered for more than one season, and they gave the distributor the assurance that that product was placed for more than one season. It was Schine's practice prior to 1936 to make contracts for a single year. He then began to make contracts for a period of two or three years. These contracts included the entire Circuit and those theatres for which Schine did the booking. The extent of Schine's business generally and his superior ability as an exhibitor made him the customer most to be desired by each distributor. In 1936 Schine made a three-year agreement with Fox for the feature product in all the Schine towns. This agreement was later made to include subsequently acquired theatres. In 1938 a subsequent three-year agreement was made. These agreements provided in the case of certain pictures for payment of certain percentages of gross receipts as film rental, and also for fixed minimum admission charges. With Loew in 1936 a comparable four-year agreement was made. In 1937 a comparable three-year agreement was made with Warner. In 1938 a comparable one was made with RKO. A comparable one was made for Columbia for two years. A comparable agreement was made with Universal for three years in 1939. In the instance of United Artists, a distributing corporation, separate contracts were made for each feature for all Schine theatres. These agreements contained clearance provisions.''

[fol. 4942] 14. In place of finding of fact No. 17, substitute the following finding:

"In certain instances clearances were allowed to Schine over towns in which Schine did not operate. Some towns were distant from ten to upwards of twenty miles. Gloversville got clearance of 45 days over Johnstown. Gloversville is three miles from Johnstown. Schine was given clearance over Newfane and Mohawk, where there were no theatres. Many of the clearances were over outside towns of small population, such as Randolph, Little Valley and Elliottville, New York. The competitive conditions existing in these towns, such as shopping centers and business centers, do not appear. In certain instances clearances have been given over towns where there had been no previous clearance. It does not appear what have been the changes in shopping and other relations between the towns. Metro gave clearance in Ashland over Londenville and Lodi, Ohio. United Artists gave clearance in Auburn over Skaneateles, New York. Fox gave clearance in Hornell over Earlville, New York. The interdepartment communications between employees of major film companies and some letters written by Schine employees are stated below. Among these are communications by Lehman of United Artists, Pielow of Metro, Dana and Sauber of Universal, Smith of Warner, Sussman and Grassgreen of Fox. These communications were admitted in evidence over the objection of the defendants, pursuant to a ruling that it was within the scope of their duties to make the representations in the communications, and that they did it as a natural incident of the office, namely, a branch or district manager. None of these persons were called as witnesses by the plaintiff, and no attempt was made to qualify them as experts upon the subject of clearance, or to ascertain what factors they or any of them considered in determining whether any given clearance was reasonable or unreasonable. Pielow, M. G. M. resident manager, wrote: 'I feel that in some of the situations (unnamed) (discussing Schine contracts) the clearance that he (Lynch) is demanding is unfair . . .' Dana, branch manager of Universal, wrote the district manager that he had asked Louis Schine relative to clearances over the Smalley Circuit (Norwich), and that he refused to grant the privilege of serving the pictures with shorter clearance. Universal branch manager Sauber wrote Lynch that they wanted to serve Waterloo in less time than the 30 days clearance after Seneca Falls, because other majors were doing so, but Lynch refused. There was a written contract covering this. At Rochester, Scully of Universal said it would be satisfactory if the Madison and Monroe came within the Schine 21-day clearance. Smith, branch manager of Warner, wrote to the home office that Canton would do more business if it were not for Schine at Ogdenburg having 30 days clearance and if it was reduced: "It will make a better condition for us all . . ." Smith also wrote relative to Seneca Falls stating that he hoped Lynch would break down their 60-day clearance: "As I told you this morning over the phone, the clearance set up is all wet . . ." Sussman of Fox wrote to Grassgreen that the 60 days clearance in Glens Falls and elsewhere seemed excessive. Sussman went on to comment [fol. 4943] that he noted that 60 days clearance was given over second run at Malone when Fox had no second run in Malone, and furthermore, as previously stated, 60 days over second run seemed excessive. Grassgreen replied that while the 60 days at Glens Falls might seem excessive, Lynch insisted upon it. Grassgreen said that Schine insisted upon the 60 days clearance because they wanted to be consistent with their demand for 60 days over subsequent independent runs. In each competitive area, under normal business conditions of free competition, each distributor desires to license its films for successive runs in such area and under such clearance terms as will yield the maximum total license revenue from the area. In determining which theatre shall have which runs, its past relations with the theatre, the skill and character of its management, its size, location, equipment, and drawing power are all features which among others may influence such decision. Motion pictures are works of art and are the subject of copyright. They have no uniform or market value and the revenue which the owner of a copyright can derive from any picture or group of pictures depends upon the ability of the distributor to market them in different situations to the best advantage. The distributor generally licenses the picture and determines the rental and clearance in accordance with the box office grossing ability of the picture at the theatre to which the distributor decides to license the picture. The effort of the distributor and of the exhibitor is to have the selection of the theatres to show at a particular time, so made that they will be spaced in areas so that the pictures are shown in the different theatres in such a way that a particular picture showing in one theatre will not draw directly away from another theatre playing the same picture that day. In determining the runs and the period and area of clearance the distributor figures that there is a certain amount of money that an individual of the public has to spend for motion picture entertainment during a given week, and that there is competition for that sum, because what is spent to see it in the first run house will leave so much less to be spent in the second run house, so that the first run house and the second run house playing later are in competition with each other or with any other theatre, and the distributor desires to have as much go into the first run house because the distributor can get more money out of that theatre than out of subsequent run theatres. Where there is only one theatre in a particular competitive area the principal competition to supply pictures to the theatre is among the ten larger companies, Columbia, Fox, Metro, Monogram, Paramount, Republic, RKO, United Artists, Universal and Warner, and of these Fox, Metro, Paramount, RKO and Warner are sometimes spoken of as the Big Five, producing the larger number of pictures which are box office attractions in the cities, but the Western and action pictures in which Republic and Monogram have specialized, are most popular in the little towns of the South and West and more preferred on that account by exhibitors. Where there is more than one theatre that is a possibility for the distributor to sell, the distributor in selecting the customer to be obtained, if possible, takes into consideration the ability of the customer to gross, the operation of the theatre, the people conducting the business, the more substantial business man of the two, [fol. 4944] the theatre itself, in view of the distributor's desire to play its pictures in the nicest theatre with comfortable seats, a theatre showing a good clear picture on the screen, one that is well ventilated and well managed all the way through, with a desire to play the picture in the theatre charging the higher admission price, and there are other elements to be considered. In selecting a second run in a competitive area the distributor takes into consideration first a protection of the film rental that is expected to come out of the first run and then the distributor makes sure that the operation of the theatre and the playing of the picture there will not harm the possibility of that picture doing its full amount of business, the full amount of business it is capable of doing at the first run house, and the distributor also takes into consideration the condition of the house itself, the projection, sound, ventilation and location of the theatre, with an inclination toward a busy corner or a location where more people are closer to the theatre, rather than one that is around the corner and off the beaten path. Each distributor considers the clearance one of the most important things that the distributor has to sell. Each distributor considered the Schine Circuit terms to be very satisfactory terms and that the deals made with that Circuit were comparable with the deals made with anybody else. It is of advantage to the distributor to have the operator of the first run theatre also play the second run, to avoid any reduction of revenue brought about by conflicting showings in the same competitive area of the pictures of the particular distributor."

15. In place of finding of fact No. 20, substitute the following finding:

> "In certain instances the distributors made contracts providing for film rental based upon a percentage of the gross receipts and in certain other instances, the rental was a flat rental. When a percentage picture was played, with a competitive device (bank nights, etc.) sometimes provision was made for the deduction from the gross receipts of the cost of such competitive device before computing the distributors rental. These provisions were also in contracts with independents."

16. In place of finding of fact No. 21 substitute the following finding:

> "In Lockport and Corning Schine bought some product second run and during the currency of the Schine contracts this run did not remain open for sale to others."

17. In place of finding of fact No. 22 substitute the following finding:

> "In Lexington and Corning some film contracts with Schine did not contain a provision for the minimum admission price. At the same time the contracts with the independent for a subsequent run contained a provision for the minimum admission price. Experience had shown that Schine's policy of operation would lead him to set admission prices at what might be expected to bring the best return."

[fol. 4945] 18. In place of finding of fact No. 27, substitute the following finding:

> "The facts appearing in evidence, as far as material to show the influence of Schine with the distributors and in cooperation on the part of any distributor have been stated above."

19. In place of finding of fact No. 28, substitute the following finding:

> "As compared with some of the major distributors, the Schine Circuit is relatively small. Some of the major companies are exhibitors as well as distributors."

II. MAKING THE FOLLOWING ADDITIONAL FINDINGS OF FACT.

20. All findings made herein with respect to any acts committed by the defendants or any of them or any course of conduct pursued by them which the Court holds to be in violation of the Anti-Trust laws are limited to acts committed or course of conduct pursued prior to May, 19, 1942, plaintiff's counsel having stated at the opening of the trial that he would not offer any evidence beyond that date.

21. There is no evidence that J. Myer Schine, acting as an individual, committed any act or pursued any course of conduct in violation of the Anti-Trust laws.

22. There is no evidence that Louis W. Schine, acting as an individual, committed any act or pursued any course of conduct in violation of the Anti-Trust laws.

23. There is no evidence that John A. May, acting as an invdividual, committed any act or pursued any course of conduct in violation of the Anti-Trust laws.

24. J. Myer Schine acted in connection with any matter involved in the issues in this case, as an officer, director or agent of the corporate defendant Schine Chain Theatres, Inc.

25. Louis W. Schine acted if at all in connection with any matter involved in the issues in this case, as an officer, director or agent of the corporate defendant Schine Chain Theatres, Inc.

26. John A. May acted in connection with any matter involved in the issues in this case, as an officer, director or agent of the corporate defendant Schine Chain Theatres, Inc.

27. For the past 15 to 20 years the normal method of licensing the exhibition of copyrighted motion picture photoplays in the United States of America, including the states of New York, Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware and [fol. 4946] Virginia, has been on a so-called run basis, to wit:—For a first run to a theatre in a local competitive area with such exclusive exhibition rights and clearance privileges, if any, as may be appropriate to the successful exploitation of said copyrights in said area; for such subsequent runs in said area, and with such exclusive rights and privileges, if any, as may be appropriate to the successful exploitation of said copyrights in said area (Plaintiff's Admissions 4615).

28. It has been the usual and customary practice for the distributor to agree with its licensees that it will not exhibit or grant a license to exhibit its photoplays for exhibition in conflict with the run licensed the exhibitor, or prior to the clearance period agreed upon with the exhibitor (Pltf.'s Adm. 4616).

29. The motion picture industry has developed under the existence of clearance and runs. It is by such a system with initially large receipts from prior run exhibitions and successive reduction of license charges that satisfactory revenue can be derived by the producers and distributors so that costly feature pictures can be made available to the whole public at varying admission prices (Pltf.'s Adm. 4616).

30. In each competitive area under normal business conditions of free competition each distributor desires to license its films for successive runs in such area under such clearance terms as will yield the maximum total license revenue from the area. In determining which theatre shall have which runs its past business relations with the theatre, the skill and character of its management, its size, location, equipment and drawing power are all features which among others may influence such decision (Pltf.'s Adm. 4617).

31. Motion pictures are works of art and are the subject of copyright. They have no uniform or market value and the revenue which an owner of a copyright can derive from any picture or group of pictures depends upon the ability of the distributor to market them in different situations to the best advantage (Pltf.'s Adm. No. 23, 4618).

32. Of the Schine theatres approximately 80% are located in cities or villages with populations under 25,000 and 60% are located in cities or villages with populations under 10,000 (Pltf.'s Adm. No. 11, 4617).

33. In a competitive area, where there are opposing possible theatres, to which films may be licensed, the distributor generally licenses the picture and determines the rental in accordance with the box office grossing ability of the picture at the theatre to which the distributor decides to license the picture (T. 4334).

[fol. 4947] 34. The cost of the original production of a picture to the point where the negative is ready, so that positives for showing can be made, at times runs into millions of dollars. Each positive taken from the negative costs approximately $185 or more in addition, and if it is in technicolor the cost of the positive runs much higher (T. 4335, 4337).

35. For the average picture Fox makes about 300 positive prints of an "A" picture ~~and on an especially good~~ picture as high as 360-370 such prints (T. 4337).

36. There are in operation in the United States, equipped for sound, in excess of 17,000 theatres (T. 4336).

37. A very good picture distributed by Fox would play approximately 14,000 of those theatres (T. 4341).

38. A single print would be called upon to serve from 40 to 50 theatres (T. 4341).

39. An ordinary tour of a print from the time it leaves the exchange to go to one theatre, through transportation time, time of exhibition at the theatre, transportation time on return of the print, and inspection requires several days before the print can start out for its next theatre (T. 4341).

40. Fox serves that print over about a year of time to cover all the theatres in which that particular print is exhibited (T. 4342).

41. Fox has 31 exchange centers, each serving an area in which from 450 to 500 theatres on an average are located (T. 4343).

42. The prints are served in a sequence of time, starting generally to play first the larger theatres in the larger cities and towns, because those are the theatres that do the biggest business and the distributor regards them as a show window for the entire exchange territory, and in that show window the picture is well advertised, in the newspapers and sometimes in radio programs and in lobby displays and in front of the theatre (T. 4343).

43. The effort of the distributor and of the exhibitor is to have the selection of the theatres to show at a particular time, so made that they will be spaced in areas so that the pictures are shown in the different theatres in such a way that a particular picture showing in one theatre will not draw directly away from another theatre playing the same picture that day (T. 4344).

44. In determining the runs and the period and area of clearance the distributor figures that there is a certain [fol. 4948] amount of money that an individual of the public has to spend for motion picture entertainment during a given week, and that there is competition for that sum because what is spent to see it in the first run house will leave so much less to be spent in the second run house, so that the first run house and the second run house playing later are in competition with each other or with any other theatre, and the distributor desires to have as much go into the first run house because the distributor can get more money out of that theatre than out of subsequent run theatres (T. 4344).

45. It is estimated that of the total revenue of a distributor 70% comes from the first run theatres and 30% from all other theatres playing second and subsequent runs, and that the 70% or 75% is made up of 35% or 40% from towns under 50,000 population and the other 40% or 35% from those over 50,000 population (T. 4345, 4608).

46. The plan of clearance came into the industry as a means of protecting the prior run theatre whose capital cost is very large, running in a medium sized town in the early days from $75,000 to $100,000 up to an investment of a million dollars or more in later days, which needed the protection for the investment by playing the first run of the picture a sufficient length of time before a second run in the same competitive area, so that the expectation that the picture might be seen in the same competitive area too soon would not detract from the attendance at the first run theatre and the consequent box office receipts there (T. 4479, 4346).

47. In determining the film rental, whether a percentage rental or a flat rental, the distributors aim at 35% of the gross box office receipts as the index in pricing (T. 4347-50, 4482, 4483, 4317, 4319).

48. It is the custom of the industry, if the box office receipts fall below the expectation on which the flat rental was based, to make subsequently a reduction in that rental to the point where the exhibitor can at least break even or show a small profit (T. 4347).

49. In determining the rental in the first place the distributor endeavors to estimate how much money the theatre could gross on the particular picture (T. 4348).

50. In the normally successful downtown city theatre, with a seating capacity of 1600, conducting a matinee and two successive evening performances, it is estimated that in the course of the three performances there will be in the aggregate 1600 admissions, so that if the average admission price was 25 cents, the gross to be expected would be $400 a day, or for a 4-day showing $1600 (T. 4350).

[fol. 4949]. 51. At 35% of this estimate the asking price would be something like $550 for a flat rental for the picture (T. 4350).

52. It is customary to allow a deduction for the cost of a second feature if the theatre is showing double features, and for the cost of outside attractions at the theatre while showing the picture before applying the 35% (T. 4352).

53. The effort of the distributor is to get the percentage of gross receipts at a second or subsequent run theatre in the same way as at a first run theatre (T. 4374).

54. Where there is only one theatre in a particular competitive area, the principal competition to supply pictures to that theatre is among the ten larger companies—Columbia, Fox, Metro, Monogram, Paramount, Republic, RKO, United Artists, Universal and Warners—and of these, Fox, Metro, Paramount RKO and Warner are sometimes spoken of as the Big Five, producing the larger number of pictures which are box office attractions in the cities, but the Western and action pictures, in which Republic and Monogram have specialized, are most popular in the little towns of the South and West and more preferred on that account by exhibitors (T. 4478, 4375).

55. Where there is more than one theatre that is a possibility for the distributor to sell, the distributor in selecting the customer to be obtained, if possible, takes into consideration the ability of the customer to gross, the operation of the theatre, the people conducting the business, the more substantial business man of the two, the theatre itself, in view of the distributor's desire to play its pictures in the nicest theatre with comfortable seats, a theatre showing a good clear picture on the screen, one that is well ventilated and well managed all the way through, with a desire to play the picture in the theatre charging the higher admission price, and there are other elements to be considered (T. 4476, 4376, 4556, 4605).

56. In selecting a second run in a competitive area the distributor takes into consideration first a protection of the film rental that is expected to come out of the first run and then the distributor makes sure that the operation of the theatre and the playing of the picture there will not harm the possibility of that picture doing its full amount of business, the full amount of business it is capable of doing at the first run house, and the distributor also takes into consideration the condition of the house itself, the projection, sound, ventilation and location of the theatre, with an inclination toward a busy corner or a location where more people are closer to the theatre; rather than one that is around the corner and off the beaten path (T. 4377).

[fol. 4950] 57. At times a picture after playing a first run in a theatre will be moved over to another theatre operated in common interest with the first, and this is ordinarily done without any interval of time between the end of the showing in the one theatre and its opening up in the other, and this is called a move-over run, which is treated as a part of the first run, as an entire run, and not as a second run (T. 4378, 4415).

58. The foregoing policies are in general the policies of each of the distributors (T. 4386, 4507-8, 4476, 4556, 4604).

59. Distributors consider that clearance is one of the most important things that they have to sell (T. 4397-98).

60. If a customer is a solid customer, who pays his bills and gives an honest count, and the distributor has been dealing with him over a long period of time, they don't get a guarantee from him on the percentage pictures (T. 4401).

61. The distributors considered the Schine Circuit terms to be very satisfactory terms and the deals made with that Circuit were comparable with the deals made with anybody else (T. 4403, 4404).

62. In selling a group of pictures to the Schine Circuit there might be some pictures sold at 35%, some sold for lesser terms, and some on flat rental, dependent on the quality of the picture in general and the distributor's ability to get the price (T. 4403).

63. The effort of the distributor is to get a price which is fair both to the distributor and to the exhibitor, and to take into consideration the effect on subsequent sales to him (T. 4405).

64. In fixing a price to one theatre consideration is not given to the price charged to another theatre, but to the expectation of the gross box office receipts of the particular theatre (T. 4413-14).

65. Size of theatre alone does not determine, as amount of playing time and ability to fill the house must also be considered (T. 4421).

66. It is to the advantage of the distributor to have the first run theatre also play the second run (T. 4487, 4554).

67. In issuing licenses for more than one season's product, which the plaintiff has described as a franchise, no distinction is made between large circuits and independent exhibitors operating only a few theatres, and more franchises have been issued to the latter than to the former (T. 2468, [fol. 4951] Exs. 741-744, T. 1166, 4557, 4488, 4614, Id. Ex. D-39, Exs. D-47, D-48, D-123-129, T. 1170; Id. Ex. D-39).

68. Such a franchise to independent small exhibitors and to circuits is advantageous at times both to the distributor and to the exhibitor as it gives the distributor an assured outlet in the town, saves the expense of going back and selling the town each year, and it gives the exhibitor an assured supply (T. 4489, 4559, 3946, Ex. 190).

69. Independent exhibitors and affiliated exhibitors regarded clearance as of much importance and sought and believed that it improved the receipts of the theatre having it (T. 2864, 3665-68, 2408, 2447, 2452, 2492, 2536).

70. Distributors in the general course of their sales policy send out salesmen to solicit theatres which the distributor desires to sell and to bring in applications for contracts, if they can be obtained, to the branch managers, who consider them. If they disapprove, they send the salesman back to see whether a better contract can be obtained, or if the branch manager thinks the contract an advisable one, he forwards it with his recommendations either to the home office of the distributor or to the district manager, who in turn if he favors the contract forwards it to the home office. No contract is made until the general manager at the home office has approved the contract, and no one except such manager has authority to approve a contract (T. 4492, 4513, 4555, 4563, 1508, 1428, 1435, 1392, 1401, 1407, 1522, 1528).

71. It is estimated that about 1% of Paramount's film rental revenue came from the Schine Circuit (T. 4609).

72. It does not appear that in negotiating with the Schine Circuit any distributor has pursued any abnormal policy (Plaintiff's Admissions T. 4615-4618, T. 4334-4356, 4478, 4375, 4476, 4376-4378, 4556, 4605, 4415, 4386, 4508, 4604, 4397-4398, 4401-4421, 4487, 4554, 2468, Exs. 741-744, T. 1166, 4557-4559, 4488-4489, 4614, 2864, 3665-3668, 2408, 2447, 2452, 2492, 2536, 4508, 4609, 3946, Exs. 190, D-143, D-144, D-170).

73. To the knowledge of the general sales managers of the respective distributors, Fox, Loew's, Paramount, RKO, United Artists, Universal and Warners, there has not been any conversation with any of the defendants or their executives or employees not to deal with any competing exhibitors or to restrict the terms of such dealings (T. 4381, 4385, 4490, 4510, 4560, 4564, 4585, 4613).

[fol. 4952] 74. Schine did not in the course of negotiations for the acquisition of any theatre at any time say to the prospective seller that if he did not sell to Schine he would have difficulty in getting product for his theatre. Schine did not say to any such person that if he did not sell to Schine he would open up another theatre in the town. Schine has not told any one else to make any such statements in negotiating for theatres for Schine. Schine was not at the time of any such negotiations aware that any one had made any such statements. Schine has not said to any one that he approved of their making or having made any such statements. Schine has not asked any distributor to suggest to any person with whom Schine was negotiating for a theatre, or for any interest therein, that unless the theatre or an interest therein was sold to Schine, it would be difficult for the theatre to obtain product. Schine has not in any conversation with any employee of Columbia, Fox, Loew's, Paramount, RKO, United Artists, Universal or Vitagraph said that any one of them should not deal with a competing exhibitor to Schine. Schine has not written any such statement to any of them. Schine has not said to any one of them that if they made such a sale Schine would not buy from them elsewhere in the Schine Circuit. Schine has not for the acquisitions of theatres made any threats or misrepresentations.

75. No competent or properly qualified witness was produced by the plaintiff upon the trial to testify as an expert, as to what constituted reasonable or unreasonable clearance, or as to the factors which must be considered in determining whether clearance is reasonable or unreasonable.

III. Striking and Eliminating from Any Findings of Fact Heretofore or Hereafter Made Any Statement or Language Which in Substance Constitutes a Conclusion of Law or Involves a Conclusion of Law and Any Statement or Language Which is Not Warranted by the Evidence and Exhibits. Without Limiting the Generality of the Foregoing Defendants Specify the Following Statements as Examples.

76. Any statement that any employee was authorized. This involves a conclusion of law. The facts of his position, relation and instructions, if any, should be stated, leaving the effect to be dealt with in the Conclusions of Law.

77. That "Schine could dictate to any of the distributors" should be stricken, as a conclusion of law and one not warranted by the evidence. "Monopoly," "monopolistic" and "monopolizing" should be stricken. They are conclusions of law and they are not warranted by the evidence.

78. "Arbitrarily depriving" should be stricken, as conclusions of law and unwarranted by the evidence: Schine [fol. 4953] did not deprive any other theatre of product. Schine bought the product for Schine's theatres from the respective distributors. The result, that other exhibitors could not get the product which had been licensed to Schine, is not depriving and is not arbitrary.

79. "Unreasonable" as applied to clearances should be stricken from the text in which it has been used, because it was not related to any monopolistic control of commerce among the several states, and because length of clearance in the amounts stated in the facts are not ipso facto unreasonable in the absence of evidence that the competitive relations were not such that this clearance would improve the prospect of attendance in the same competitive area at the defendant's theatre, and that this was the purpose sought and the effect obtained. (See proposed Amendments 27-30.)

80. The terms "threats" should be stricken. It involves a conclusion. The facts of what was said and done complete the narrative of facts. The evidence does not warrant the conclusion of law that the things said and done were threats. A reference to the dictionary meaning of the term in law suffices to show this, namely:—An expression of an intention to inflict loss or harm on another by illegal means, especially when effecting coercion or duress of the person threatened. There were no threats within the common meaning of the term.

81. "Lowering admission prices" should not be stated without a statement of the circumstances. The evidence shows that under the circumstances there was no lowering not required by local conditions.

82. "Predatory" should be stricken, because it is a conclusion of law and not a statement of fact, and is not warranted by the evidence. What was done and said completes the narrative of the facts. A reference to the dictionary definition of the term shows that there was nothing predatory, namely:—Plundering, practising rapine, given to robbery, pillaging, living by preying upon other animals, damaging crops or buildings, as predatory insects or birds.

83. No statement in substance that any one of the defendants conspired with any other of the defendants to restrain trade among the several states should be made in the statement of Findings of Fact, because whether the conduct described amounted to a conspiracy between any of them as a conclusion of law, and also because such a conclusion is not warranted by the evidence. The Findings of Fact should be confined in this particular to what each defendant did with any other defendant, so that the question of law, whether or not this constituted a conspiracy between them in restraint of commerce among the several states may

[fol. 4954] be presented on the face of the Findings of Fact without the need of resort to the evidence, or absence of evidence, to warrant any such conclusion.

84. No statement in substance that any distributor conspired with any of the defendants in restraint of trade among the several states should be contained in the Findings of Fact, because whether the conduct described in the findings constituted such a conspiracy is a conclusion of law, and also such a conclusion is not warranted by the evidence with respect to any one of the distributors. The Findings of Fact should state what each did so that it will be unnecessary in determining the question of law, to refer to the evidence or the lack thereof, and the correctness of any conclusion of law can be determined from the statement of the facts found.

IV. STRIKING OUT THE FOLLOWING CONCLUSIONS OF LAW 1, 2, 3, 4(a), 4(b), 4(c), 4(d), 4(e), 4(f), 4(g).

V. MAKING THE FOLLOWING ADDITIONAL CONCLUSIONS OF LAW.

1. The defendant Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., is entitled to judgment dismissing the complaint as to such defendant.

2. The defendant Schine Theatrical Co., Inc., is entitled to judgment dismissing the complaint as to such defendant.

3. The defendant Schine-Lexington Corporation, is entitled to judgment dismissing the complaint as to such defendant.

4. The defendant Schine Enterprise Corporation, is entitled to judgment dismissing the complaint as to such defendant.

5. The defendant Schine Circuit, Inc., is entitled to judgment dismissing the complaint as to such defendant.

6. The defendant Chesapeake Theatre Corporation, is entitled to judgment dismissing the complaint as to such defendant.

7. The defendant J. Myer Schine, is entitled to judgment dismissing the complaint as to such defendant.

8. The defendant Louis Schine, is entitled to judgment dismissing the complaint as to such defendant.

9. The defendant John A. May, is entitled to judgment dismissing the complaint as to such defendant.

PLAINTIFF'S MOTION PURSUANT TO RULE 52(b) TO AMEND THE COURT'S FINDINGS OF FACT, CONCLUSIONS OF LAW, AND JUDGMENT

Plaintiff moves the Court to amend the findings of fact, conclusions of law, and judgment in this cause, dated October 31, 1945 and entered herein November 1, 1945, in the following particulars:

1. In the place of Finding of Fact No. 22, substitute the following:

> 22(a). At Corning, Lexington, and in other situations Schine's film contracts called for lower minimum admission prices than those for independents on subsequent runs, and minimum admission prices were omitted from Schine's contracts, although the contracts of his independent competitors specified minimum admission prices.

(b). In Corning, New York, during the seasons 1933-34 and 1934-35, Schine operated the Fox and State Theatres, playing ahead of the Plaza Theatre, which was independently operated. The latter reduced its adult evening admission price for the reason that it could obtain major product only on second or third [fol. 4958] run. The State Theatre cut its admission prices several times, going as low as 15 cents. The Warner contracts for the 1933-34 season provided for a minimum admission price at the State of 15 cents and a similar admission price at the Plaza. The Plaza contracts in evidence prohibited it from charging less than 15 cents. The Fox contracts for the 1933-34 season permitted Schine's State Theatre, with a 60-day clearance over the Plaza, to charge an adult evening orchestra admission price five cents lower than the Plaza was required to charge. Fox's contract with Schine for first run at the Fox contained no minimum admission price requirements. Metro's 1933-34 contract for Schine's State Theatre omitted any minimum admission price requirement, as did the Universal contract for the State and the RKO contracts for the Fox and State Theatres in both the 1933-34 and 1934-35 contracts.

(c). In Lexington, Kentucky, Schine acquired four theatres in November, 1936. At that time, Schwartz, an independent, operated the Opera House. Schwartz at all times from 1936 maintained a 16 cent night price. During the summer of 1937 and throughout 1938, Schine cut its admission prices at some of its prior run theatres. Schine's contract with Fox for the 1936-37 first run product provided for minimum admission prices in Schine's Lexington theatre for the first run showing of Fox pictures.

Despite the existence of this contract, Schine cut its admission price below the minimum prices fixed (R. 2888-2892). Schwartz complained to Fox and Paramount about these admission price cuts by Schine (Ex. 209), and the Fox branch manager brought these cuts to the attention of the Fox home office (Ex. 200), advising that Schine's:

> [fol. 4959] * * * are advertising these prices (16¢) exclusively within a radius of sixty miles of

Lexington, with the result that all surrounding towns are complaining to us and other distributors.

The home office in turn complained to Schine about these cuts, calling attention to the fact that they were in violation of the contract (Ex. 201), but Myer Schine merely replied that the cuts were "quite essential and proved to be beneficial" (Ex. 202). Fox then omitted all minimum admission price requirements in the Schine second and third run contracts for the succeeding seasons (Exs. F-49, 122), while at the same time providing in its contract with Schwartz' Opera House for minimum evening adult admission prices of 15 cents for that theatre (Ex. 829).

(d). Schine complained to United Artists about the admission prices charged by an independent exhibitor in competition with its theatre at Norwich, New York. Schine also complained to Loew about the admission prices charged by an independent exhibitor operating in competition with its theatre at Bellevue, Ohio, demanded that Loew refuse to sell him films for a second run in that town, and Loew agreed not to sell him such a run.

2. Insert the following additional finding of fact as No. 11(j):

(j) In a number of situations Schine maintained closed theatres, or theatres operated for brief period for the purpose of intimidating potential competitors. Schine renewed leases from time to time on such theatres and expended considerable sums of monies in paying renewal rentals.

3. Insert the following additional conclusion of law No. 4(h):

[fol. 4960] (h) Controlling the existence and extent of admission price differentials between Schine's and other competing theatres by agreement with distributors and by demanding that distributors refrain from licensing other theatres charging admission prices objectionable to Schine.

4. Amend Conclusions of Law 5(b) by striking the semicolon and adding the words "and from attempting to control the admission prices charged by others by agreement with distributors, demands made upon distributors, or by any means whatsoever;", so that 5(b) reads as follows:

> (b) From demanding or receiving clearance over theatres operated by others which unreasonably restrict their ability to compete with a theatre owned or operated by a defendant, or corporations controlled by it, and from attempting to control the admission prices charged by others by agreement with distributors, demands made upon distributor, or by any means whatsoever;

5. Amend Conclusions of Law 5(c) by striking the semicolon and adding the words "and from entering into any film franchise", so that 5(c) reads as follows:

> (c) From conditioning the licensing of films in any competitive situation outside of Buffalo, New York, upon the licensing of films in any other situation, and from entering into any film franchise;

6. Amend paragraph 2, Section II, of the Judgment by striking the period and adding the words "and from attempting to control the admission prices charged by others by agreement with distributors, demands made upon distributors, or by any means whatsoever;", so that paragraph 2, Section II of the Judgment reads as follows:

> [fol. 4961] 2. From demanding or receiving clearance over theatres operated by other-' which unreasonably restricts their ability to compete with a theatre owned or operated by a defendant or corporation controlled by it and from attempting to control the admission prices charged by others by agreement with distributors, demands made upon distributors, or by any means whatsoever;

7. Amend paragraph 3, section II, of the Judgment by adding the words "and from entering into any film franchise", so that paragraph 3, section II of the Judgment reads as follows:

> 3. From conditioning the licensing of films in any competitive situation ~~outside of~~ Buffalo, New York, upon the licensing of films in any other situation and from entering into any film franchise.

8. Add a section V to the Judgment, to read as follows:

For the purpose of securing compliance with this judgment, and for no other reason, duly authorized representatives of the Department of Justice shall, on the written request of the Attorney General or the Assistant Attorney General in charge of antitrust matters, and on notice of any consenting defendant reasonable as to time and subject matter, made to such defendant at its principal office, and subject to any legally recognized privilege, (1) be permitted access, during the office hours of such defendants, to all books, ledgers, accounts, correspondence, memoranda and other records and documents in the possession or under the control of such defendants, relating to any of the matter contained in this judgment, and (2) subject to the reasonable convenience of such defendant, and without restraint or interference from it, be permitted to interview its officers or employees regarding [fol. 4962] any such matters, at which interview counsel for the officer or employee interviewed and counsel for the company may be present.

Information obtained pursuant to the provisions of this Section shall not be divulged by any representative of the Department of Justice to any persons other than a duly authorized representative of the Department of Justice except in the course of legal proceedings to which the United States is a party, or as otherwise required by law.

Respectfully submitted. Robert L. Wright, Louis B. Schwartz, Special Assistants to the Attorney General.

Wendell Berge, Assistant Attorney General.
George L. Grobe, United States Attorney.

TRANSCRIPT OF HEARING ON MOTIONS PURSUANT TO RULE 52 (b) OF THE RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE.

Proceedings before Honorable John Knight, United States District Judge for the Western District of New York, Monday, February 25th, 1946, at the United States Court House, Buffalo, New York, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Appearances:

Robert L. Wright, Esq., Philip Marcus, Esq., of counsel, Special Assistant United States Attorneys, for the Plaintiff.

Willard S. McKay, Esq., Edward F. McClennen, Esq., and Howard M. Antevil, Esq., appearing for the Defendants.

[fol. 4966] Proceedings

The Court: We have two motions here, have we?

Mr. Wright: Yes, if the Court please.

The Court: All right, Mr. McClennen.

Mr. McClennen: This case, if your Honor please, No. 223, United States against Schine, is before your Honor this morning on the defendants' motion to amend the findings of fact by the removal of some of what we urge are conclusions from the findings of fact and the addition of other facts which we urge are essential to the judgment to be entered.

The motion to amend the findings of fact carries with it, of necessity, motions for changes in the conclusions and in the judgment consequent on those changes.

The plaintiff also has filed a motion for changes in the findings of fact by additions thereto. That motion I will defer speaking on until later.

The defendants' motion was filed on or about November 10, 1945. Before coming to the particulars of it, I will speak of certain general features which I may repeat myself on, as we go on with the details.

The judgment as now entered has as its most drastic feature a provision for the dissolution, reorganization, or [fol. 4867] re-alignment of the defendants' circuit. That, of necessity, involves a determination of the characteristics and surroundings of the beginnings of the various theatres which are a part of that circuit. That is, we urge that the defendants should not be required to break up and dispose of their holdings without a judicial determination of the fact that the different holdings have been acquired in a manner which is contrary to law.

The Court: You mean the original holdings?

Mr. McClennen: The original holdings. To depart for a moment, in view of your Honor's inquiry: The cases in which in order to remedy a found restrain of trade or monopolization, where they have resulted in any requirement for the disposal of any properties—and I use the word "disposal" in the limited sense—have been cases in which the property to be disposed of had in its acquisition elements of violation of the Anti-Trust Act. The normal remedy where that acquisition has been contrary to the Anti-Trust Act is the return of that property to the sources from which it came, not a turning over of that property to other members of the industry involved. The difference between such a decree, such a judgment, as is now in the draft entered [fol. 4968] about November 1, 1945, and all other cases is emphasized by a recent occurrence.

The plaintiff has just filed a proposed plan of dissolution, re-alignment, or reorganization—whichever it may be characterized. There are many objections to that plan, which have not even been formulated yet, as it has only just been received. They are fundamental——

The Court: You mean that in reference to this case here a plan has been proposed?

Mr. McClennen: A plan has just been proposed by the plaintiff.

The Court: I have no knowledge of it.

Mr. McClennen: The objections are very fundamental. I refer to the plan for two reasons: One is it shows a plan, the design of which is to achieve a professionally desirable result, a professional triumph for the plaintiff, and not a just result for the parties, or a result that has within it any prospect of any help to the public interest in any way.

It is a plan designed to mutilate the defendant organization. To go into that takes time to formulate the definite objections which, of course, cannot be made now and make more explicit what I have said in general.

[fol. 4969] The other thing about the plan is that it has brought right into focus the vice in a dissolution, because it proposes to deprive the defendant of properties obtained with no violation whatever of the Anti-Trust Law or any other law—properties, the acquisition of which is not criticised by a vestige of evidence in this case.

It proposes to take from the defendants theatres in the towns where there never has been any competition, where the business was created by the defendants or the defendants' predecessors, where there is nothing whatever to indicate that requiring the defendant to part with its theatres would advance competition a particle; no indication that it would produce any result of a second theatre in the place; no indication that a second theatre in the place is desirable for the community served or needed there in any way.

Now that being the way in which the plaintiff proposes to implement this judgment of your Honor shows emphatically the importance of having the findings show the facts with respect to each of the theatres.

The Court: How many do you claim there are in that classification?

[fol. 4970] Mr. McClennen: There are about 70 places where the defendants' entry into the town was either by buying, building, or leasing substantially the only first-run theatre in the town. Now, the numbers in other details I am not able to state to your Honor, because I have just read the plan through but once, and deem that I should not take any of the valuable time of today on that, as today is devoted to this question of the effort to have the findings amended. But I have referred to it for the purpose of bringing before you this very emphatic reason why we should have in the findings of fact themselves the facts on which a judgment on any dissolution or order for the disposal of any theatre is based. No judgment, I believe I may say emphatically, can with propriety be made that a theatre shall be disposed of unless the facts concerning that theatre are in the findings of fact which are the basis of that judgment.

Going now to the details of the motion: We have asked for certain substitutions, certain striking out, and certain additions. It was the proposal of the defendants to make their objections to the plaintiff's draft of findings of fact, and what would have been the essence of this motion, before [fol. 4971] the findings of fact were made. We got the draft in the very latter days of October—I haven't in mind the date now—and were at work upon the proposed changes which we wish to urge when we got word that the draft which the plaintiff had presented had been signed by the Court; so that our only remedy was an after-judgment remedy, which we pursued by this motion to amend.

Not only did we have no opportunity to call attention to the specific objections to the plaintiff's draft, but this is a case in which today is the first oral argument on the facts of the case, and, therefore, this, except as it is predicted by our motion as filed, is the first time to bring to your Honor's attention what we submit are the true facts of this case with respect to the way in which the defendant obtained the properties which it is now sought to wrest from the defendant.

The first paragraph of our motion, as filed on or about November 10, 1945, is for a substitution of another paragraph for the paragraph 3 of the findings as drafted by the plaintiff. That substitution contains all the facts that are in the plaintiff's paragraph that the evidence will warrant, and adds these things:

[fol. 4972] In the paragraph as filed there were set out the numbers of theatres acquired in different periods. We have asked that in order to make that complete and in balance this important addition be made:

"Among the theatres in which Schine became financially interested there are 25 theatres situated respectively in 16 towns, Auburn, Bath, Canandaigua, Carthage, Corning, Gloversville, Herkimer, Little Falls, Newark, Norwich, Oneonta, Oswego, Salamanca, Saranac Lake, Syracuse and Watertown, New York, which had belonged to Schine before 1930 and had been leased to the Fox-Metropolitan Circuit in 1929, and which reverted to Schine in 1933 as a consequence of the termination of the leases in the Fox-Metropolitan bankruptcy proceedings. The result of this reversion was that it was necessary for Schine to resume the operation of the said theatres. At the end of the year 1930 Schine had no motion picture theatres, except suburban theatres in Buffalo and Rochester, motion picture theatres in Cortland, East Rochester, Fairport, Rockport, Geneva, Malone, Medina and Ogdensburg, and a half interest in Amsterdam, and a theatre under construction in Bellefon-[fol. 4973] taine, Ohio."

Those facts, of course, come from the evidence introduced by the plaintiff. They are not in controversy in any way. They are important facts as showing the circumstances under which those theatres were re-acquired in 1933 or relapsed back into the Schine hands in 1933.

The other features in this paragraph which are added are these—and before I read them, let me preface: This is the paragraph in which it is set out that Schine held theatres in so and so many closed towns. What we have to urge here is it is, of course, no violation of the Anti-Trust Act to build the only theatre in town, to buy the only theatre in town, to lease the only theatre in town. There is in that no element of violation of the Act in any way. The term "closed town" is a trade term, but if read out of the trade, and in a judicial decision, would run the chance of it being thought that Schine had closed the town.

Of course, in these cases he had not closed the town he had—if he had done anything—opened the town where he built a theatre where there was none before, or he had kept open the town where he had bought a theatre where there [fol. 4974] was one before, and there is no element of closing in that.

We urge these words to take care of that possibility for error:

"At the date of the commencement of this action Schine operated motion picture theatres in 59 towns in which Schine owned the only motion picture theatres operating in such towns. In most of these towns, all of the theatres had been operated by a single owner, and was so operated at the time of the acquisition of the same by Schine. In the other 17 towns there were theatres operated by other than Schine. Since 1928, including the 25 theatres reverting from Fox-Metropolitan, the number of theatres in towns in which there was no opposition theatre increased by 56. In most of these no theatre, or not more than one theatre, had operated before Schine began operating there. Schine built, bought or received a lease of its first-run theatre in each of the above mentioned 73 towns in the ordinary course of the expansion of its business."

Now there again there is no going into any question that is a matter of controversy in evidence. This comes out in the facts that have been put in evidence by the plaintiff, and [fol. 4975] not by the defendants.

The next, that is, paragraph No. 2 of the motion, is asking a substitution for No. 4 of the plaintiff's draft. This is not at variance with what is said in the draft, but a precise statement of the facts as they appear in evidence.

"Schine has expended for the cost of land and buildings acquired by it the sum of $6,509,100.00 and for the cost of building additions and improvements the sum of $4,439,000.00. These expenditures were made in the normal course of the developments of Schine's business for the purpose of conducting the exhibition business locally in the respective cities and towns so attractively to patrons as to make the business profitable, and not for the purpose of acquiring any monopoly or restraining interstate trade or commerce or for the purpose of driving any other person out of the exhibition business.''

Now there are uncontroverted facts as brought out from the evidence, introduced by the plaintiff, and not requiring recourse to the defendants' evidence.

The Court: Would that last sentence be consistent with the decision of the Court, that last sentence commencing with [fol. 4976] "These expenditures were made in the normal course of the development of Schine's business''? Would that be consistent with the decision of the Court?

Mr. McClennen: I should think so. I find in the decision of the Court no statement of facts of any dollar that has been expended in any other way.

The Court: Well, there might not be a specific statement in that respect, but——

Mr. McClennen: Well, I urge that if there is any specific fact that we are entitled to have it stated in the statement of facts.

The Court: But I say that that last clause would be inconsistent with the decision of the Court itself.

Mr. McClennen: Not inconsistent with any finding of the Court.

The Court: All right, go ahead.

Mr. McClennen: That is, our urging is that the conclusions and judgment are not warranted by the findings of fact that has been made, and if there is anything that has been expended for this purpose in the acquisition and improvement of these properties, that was done for any other purpose than just that, then those facts should be stated in the findings of fact; otherwise a judgment has been entered not [fol. 4977] supported by the findings of fact.

But I urge upon your Honor that if the sums be taken, theatre by theatre, the sums expended to buy those theatres, the sums expended to build those theatres, the sums expended to improve those theatres—for these are the moneys that we are talking about—there is not evidence of a single dollar that has been expended for any other purpose than the one which I have stated, and the test of the accuracy of my assertion is that there be pointed out any piece of evidence that shows anything to the contrary.

The Court: Well, I think there were pointed out some specific purchases which the Court has found were purchases for the purpose of extending the monopoly.

Mr. McClennen: That, if left with no more, amounts to a statement that everything that Schine has done in the way of going into the theatre business, buying theatre buildings, theatre——

The Court: Well, I mean in my decision I pointed out certain instances where properties were bought, and the circumstances under which they were purchased, as an element going to show the purpose to effect a monopoly.

Mr. McClennen: But not in these sums of money that are [fol. 4978] listed here.

The Court: Well, I don't know about that. You will have to tie down specifically the items making up these expenditures.

Mr. McClennen: Well, they are all right in a single sheet of paper, showing the payment for each place.

The Court: All right, go ahead.

Mr. McClennen: Now this suggestion of your Honor's brings forcibly forward Gloversville: Here was a man with nothing, starting a theatre on a shoe string there. That operating has gone on for 28 years. Is he to be charged with having put his money into that enterprise for the purpose of monopolizing trade?

The Court: No, I don't think so.

Mr. McClennen: Well, I have spoken of one. Now, we may go down the list and find again and again and again just as clear cases of absolutely nothing except the effort to expand the theatre business, to put theatres into towns, or to improve theatres in towns, for the purpose of making those profitable enterprises, and with no other object in view. The expansion of this circuit to the size that it has grown has been for the purpose of having a large business, [fol. 4979] and the fact that as a result of it being a large business it has a position where it can deal in the industry, properly get the material for operating its business, does not betoken an intention to monopolize; it betokens an intention to grow big, just as any energetic, capable, diligent man may grow big by the exercise of his abilities, his industry, and not for the purpose of injuring the business of others but for the purpose of progressing in the business that he is engaged in building up.

Now if there is in this, as I have urged upon your Honor, and as investigation of the evidence will disclose, some 70 towns that way, then this money which your Honor has put into the findings is not, I urge, justly to be found to be money that has been invested for the purpose of monopolizing. It has been expended for the purpose of building a great business where there was not a business before.

That is applicable to the very great majority of the towns in this circuit, and towns which it is suggested ought to be wrested from the defendant where there is no wrong connected with the original entry into that town in any way.

The third paragraph of the motion asks for a substitu- [fol. 4980] tion for finding No. 5 as drafted by the plaintiff. That is but a slight change.

The Court: Yes, I see.

Mr. McClennen: That is the paragraph that tells about the eight so-called major film companies, and adds: "Other major distributors not classified with the eight are Monogram and Republic."

The Court: There isn't much change in that. Where is the change in that?

Mr. McClennen: Just that: "Other major distributors not classified with the eight are Monogram and Republic."

The Court: That is all I could see. I thought it was substantially the same.

Mr. McClennen: The fourth asks a substitution for No. 6 of the plaintiff's draft. No. 6 of the plaintiff's draft says, "The individual defendants hold the principal offices in the defendant corporations and hold other offices in the various so-called local corporation-."

The Court: What changes do you want there?

Mr. McClennen: That we ask this for:

"One or more of the individual defendants held one or more of the principal offices in the defendant corporation and other offices in the various so-called local corporations. [fol. 4981] None of the individual defendants own any stock in any of the corporate defendants, nor have they owned any stock since August 31, 1931, except that John May owned 1331 shares of the Class A common stock of Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., which stock he disposed of on February 19, 1932, and except that J. Myer Schine, Louis W. Schine and John A. May owned from time to time various shares of the preference stock of Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., (a non-voting stock, except in certain contingencies provided for in the certificate of incorporation.) The preference stock was retired by the corporation on March 1, 1944. The duties and authority of Lazaar, Silverman, Hensler and Insley were in each instance subject to the supervision and direction of the executive office at Gloversville. Negotiations for the licensing of motion pictures was generally carried on in the first instance by Lynch. He negotiated generally with the respective distributors through their respective division managers in New York. Any proposed contracts resulting from such negotiations were subject in every instance to approval on the part of the distributors by their duly authorized representatives (generally the general sales manager), and on the part of [fol. 4982] Schine by Lynch's superiors.

Occasionally agreements between Schine and the respective distributors took the form of what is known in the industry as a 'master agreement' supplemented by 'deal sheets,' but this was by no means the invariable practice."

Now, I will hand to your Honor later the specific references where these facts may be found in the record.

Now the fifth is for change in No. 7 of the plaintiff's draft. No. 7 as the plaintiff drew it said "The great film buying power of the defendant corporations gave opportunity to exert pressure on the distributors to obtain preferences."

We urge that that should not be in a findings of fact. It is a conclusion. And I submit that plaintiffs are in error in submitting any such conclusion as that.

There was no pressure exerted by Schine on the distributors. The distributors were very much bigger fellows than Schine was; the distributors, where there were other theatres, had all the opportunities of that competition in their dealings with Schine, and where there were not other theatres, each distributor was in competition with each [fol. 4983] other distributor for the sale of his products, and they were not subject to that which may properly be concluded to be pressure, a conclusion and not a statement of a fact of which there is any evidence.

We urge as the finding instead: "The circuit had the normal influence of a very large buyer with each of the distributors. This improved the opportunity of the Circuit to make more favorable terms than a small customer. The extent of this film buying is demonstrated by the large number of theatres controlled by Schine and the large amount of money which had been paid and was to be paid for film rentals." And so on through that paragraph.

We are asking that there be put in there the plain, full statement of what the evidence shows, and not the——

The Court: Well, that is really a substitution of the entire sixth, isn't it?

Mr. McClennen: They are all substitutions.

The Court: I mean, it is a big substitution.

Mr. McClennen: Well, it is substitution of their very own words, except in the particulars that I read.

"This buying power included both towns in which there [fol. 4984] was no opposition exhibitor, called "closed" towns, and those in which there was an opposition buyer, sometimes called "open" towns. The negotiations for film for the different theatres were conducted sometimes separately and sometimes involving more than one town. Sometimes the contracts were made——" So on it goes down through, containing the facts that are in the plaintiff's draft. Now, if your Honor please——

The Court: Well, as I see it, it doesn't conform to the plaintiff's draft of 6.

Mr. McClennen: It is a substitution for the plaintiff's draft, and if I may say so, we claim that our draft of the findings is just as persuasive to me with the Court as the plaintiff's draft of a finding.

The Court: What I had in mind was the question whether you were substituting some paragraph or some sentence, rather than making a redraft of the whole paragraph, don't you see? You have redrafted the entire paragraph, that is the point.

Mr. McClennen: It is our draft of the findings that ought to be made, I urge your Honor.

The Court: I was looking for the extent of it.

Mr. McClennen: We do not believe in this peculiar circumstance where the findings as signed by the Court are [fol. 4985] made by the plaintiff's draft, we do not deem that we are before this Court limited to asking merely for an amendment of the plaintiff's language. We are here asking for findings of fact that will be as ample as the evidence warrants, and as explicit as the evidence makes it to be. And under the circumstances we urge that these paragraphs be taken not by comparison with the plaintiff's paragraphs, except to show what the subject matter is. This is not a matter of having the findings drafted by the successful parties, and I plan to go back of the final draft.

Again and again in the findings we find the very language of the plaintiff at the earlier stages, so that what is signed by the Court here is traceable directly to the plaintiff's language and accomplishes, I submit, the very thing that the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals has reprobated, that is, that a decision of the Court on the facts ought not to be in the language of the successful party. They have said it in so many words. It puts us in the position of having to try to frame our findings of fact onto the plaintiff's language or as nearly as we can without violating the evidence.

[fol. 4986] The solution, I submit, is a return to the evidence and observing whether what we ask for findings are not in truth the findings which the evidence shows, regardless of what the plaintiffs put into their draft.

As I say, the references will be handed to your Honor so that they will be available.

The sixth is for a change in the eighth paragraph as drafted by the plaintiff. Now, in that paragraph are contained six things which are conclusions and not statements, and which can be tested as to their accuracy in any court only by going back to a laborious investigation of the evidence.

The purpose of Rule 52 in so carefully distinguishing between facts and conclusions was so that there might be spread into small compass by a comprehensive statement all of the facts that any Court would have need to consider in determining what is the right judgment. Now in there are contained words which we submit are—and which we wish to be in a position to submit with as little recourse to the evidence as possible to show the correctness of our statement—conclusions that we urge are not supported by [fol. 4987] the evidence and which, even if they were, should not be in the narrative of fact, and the plaintiff's counsel should not have put them there.

They are "Monopolistic control", "Arbitrarily deprived", "Unreasonable clearances", "Making threats", "Lowering admission prices", "Making long-time franchise agreements".

Now, the first, of course, is the worst effort of the plaintiffs in their draft. That "Monopolistic" is a conclusion. Rule 52 provides there will be set out the fact and then there can be determined whether such a conclusion is warranted by the facts set out in the findings.

"Arbitrarily deprived". That is a conclusion, whether it was arbitrarily or deprived, and we respectfully submit that the plaintiffs have asked for an erroneous conclusion in both respects. The simple statement of fact there is this, that when Schine built or acquired the theatre in the town Schine negotiated for and got for the future pictures, first-run, and, course, when he obtained them they could no longer be sold; they had already been sold to him and were not available for sale to the others. But no case of buying pictures except for the purpose of his theatres, no depriving, no taking away from a man a chattel or a picture which he [fol. 4988] already had, which is the thing that happens in every case where a man buys what is the only thing of that kind: When he buys it, somebody else can't buy it.

Now, there was no depriving, there was no taking away a picture which a man already had under contract. It was simply that after one buyer had bought it, others could not buy it. And it was not done arbitrarily. It was done for the purpose of operating the defendant's theatres. That is what he bought for. That is not arbitrary. That is the rational thing that any theatre operator does. He licenses the pictures required for his theatre. That is not an arbitrary act in any sense, and I submit that the plaintiff should never have asked for a finding of such a conclusion as that.

The next is "Unreasonable clearances". I will deal with that more at length when coming to clearances. But whether clearance is unreasonable or not is a conclusion, and should not be stated in the findings of fact.

The findings of fact ought to set out what the cl-arance was in the different places, then to show whether the circumstances in evidence disclose that those were unreasonable.

[fol. 4989] "Making threats". Now, if your Honor please, it will come later in some detail. Paris is one of the places that is mentioned later. The evidence with reference to that all came from the plaintiff's witness Schwartz. I think he was the man. And he specifically said that no threats of any kind were made. And what the plaintiff is endeavoring to do is to have a conclusion tucked into the findings of fact instead of stating the facts of what was done. And we have later asked to have those facts stated in full as the plaintiff's evidence shows them to be in every case where there has been any statement or intimation that there was anything like a threat. We submit that that conclusion should not have been stated here and should never have been stated, because the facts do not warrant calling it a threat.

Of course, the primary meaning of "threat" is an expression of intention to do bodily harm, to do an act which is primarily to injure the person addressed. These statements in each instance were statements of nothing of the kind. They were statements before the defendant did what it did that it was going to do that thing.

I submit that if the defendant desires to have a theatre [fol. 4990] in a town and there is a theatre there, that to throw any obstacle in the way of the defendant in doing that is the very reverse of what Anti-Trust Acts are designed for. The man who has the theatre in the town hasn't acquired any right to keep another out of the town, and, if the defendant, having determined that it is good business for him to have a theatre in the town, says "We are going to build a theatre in this town unless we can buy yours", he has done an act which is entirely proper if, at the time he does it, it is his intention to build a theatre if he can't acquire one by purchase.

And that is the type of thing that occurred in a number of these places that have been taken up for specific criticism and where no misstatement of any kind was made, no threat of any kind was made, but merely this type of statement that I have just referred to.

The Court: Well, the testimony with reference to that Paris situation was that the defendants told Schwartz that they would build in Lexington, another place in which the independents had a theatre, and not specifically that they would build another theatre in Paris, the town in which [fol. 4991] the independents were operating.

Mr. McClennen: When we come to the place where Paris and Lexington are described we have the facts right in as they occurred, but what we are urging is that there be no statement of a conclusion of this kind, that there be a statement of the fact.

This draft, putting this sort of thing in here, was just in line with the attitude of the plaintiff's counsel in starting the case—a dreadful thing, I submit. The issue in this case is what the remedy should have been. If this were on a criminal proceeding the defendants would be subject to heavy penalties. A monstrous way to approach a case! I submit, a monstrous way to approach a case!

Here we were, before a Court of justice, seriously presenting the facts of the case, and expecting the case to be tested by the evidence presented to the Court, and that there should be no thought of remedy until it was determined what had been done and whether that calls for any remedy, and that there should be no suggestion of what might have been done in a criminal proceeding when this wasn't a criminal proceeding, and when it was obvious that there never could be got from any self-respecting Grand Jury [fol. 4992] an indictment or from any self-respecting trial jury a conviction.

Now here this is the same sort of thing, endeavoring to get into a findings of fact these things which are conclusions, without stating the fact in the findings of fact.

If the facts amount to these things, on our draft, when we get to that point, they will be in the conclusions, but there should not be a prejudgment by conclusions before there is a statement of the fact.

Now instead of eight we have put in so much of the facts as appear in the sixth number in our motion:

"The means and method employed by the Schine Circuit in carrying on its business were numerous. The Circuit required so many pictures for its theatres that its purchases frequently left no first-run, and sometimes no second-run, pictures for other theatres in the same town. Schine sought to obtain clearances in the competitive areas against subsequent runs and obtained them to the extent hereinafter set out. These clearances provided that subsequent runs of the pictures could not be shown in the areas described [fol. 4993] until after the number of days stated in the clearance terms."

Now that is all that is in there. The detail is dealt with when we come later to those different matters of procedure.

"Schine made agreements with some of the distributors for the supply of product for a period of more than one year, as hereinafter set forth. Such agreements are described herein as 'franchises'. Schine made these franchise agreements so as to get a definite assurance of the product for the times stated in them. The respective distributors who entered into the agreements made them for the purpose of having an assured output for the places stated and for the time stated."

Now that is what the evidence shows; and all that the evidence shows with respect to that matter of franchises.

Now while I am anticipating, I might as well do it here and have it out of the way: Franchises are now a matter entirely of past history. On the 19th of May, 1942 a consent decree was entered in this case. It entirely did away with franchises. There have been no franchises since, and no reason to anticipate that there will be any franchises. There is, as is known to your Honor, in the [fol. 4994] Southern District of New York, a consent decree in the motion picture industry case of the United States against Paramount and others. Some suggestion has been made that your Honor may have thought that that had run out. It has not run out as to franchises; it has not run out as to clearances. It is still oper-ative. I will hand your Honor, if I may, an informal print of that decree that shows that fact.

Incidentally, the findings of fact that we submit state on their face that they are made for a period ending May, 1942. That was the express statement of counsel for the plaintiff when we started the trial before your Honor, and there is no evidence of anything after that date playing any part in the evidence in this case, on the facts of this case or on what would be required for remedy or relief in this case.

The next is our No. 7, asking a substitute finding for No. 9. Here again is, I respectfully submit, an improper suggestion in the plaintiff's draft that you should find as a fact some specific instances showing the predatory means used by Schine.

"Predatory means", also "Arbitrarily depriving the [fol. 4995] independent," these same detailed statements of conclusions, not a fact, and, we submit, conclusions not warranted by any evidence.

Just think, if your Honor please, what predatory commonly means when you hear it: Birds which kill other birds to live on them, which destroy crops. Why should a court of justice be asked to use in a statement of a finding of fact any such language as that?

The Court: You find that statement in the opinion, don't you, the use of that term?

Mr. McClennen: I found the use of that term in the opinion.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. McClennen: Taken from the findings requested——

The Court: Oh, no, in the opinion, in the decision, you will find the same expression.

Mr. McClennen: Yes, if your Honor please, and in the findings requested before the opinion.

The Court: Yes, I know.

Mr. McClennen: That word came in from the plaintiff's——

The Court: Well, your criticism, as directed to the Government, is also directed to the Court as well.

Mr. McClennen: I think not, if your Honor please, because a court of justice, dealing with counsel for the United States, would very likely be impressed with the language [fol. 4996] used by the counsel for the United States.

The Court: I gave the use of the word careful consideration.

Mr. McClennen: And if it is to be taken as a criticism of the Court's language, it is merely that the Court has improvidently, I submit, used the term.

The Court: When I say I used the word advisedly, understand me, I knew what it meant, when I used the term. With respect to the use of the word in the proposed findings, I think it was in the proposed findings, as you say.

Mr. McClennen: Then the eighth asks for a substitution of other paragraphs for No. 10 and 11 (b) and 11 (f). They were thrown into two paragraphs in the plaintiff's draft, but seem to be of the general character of 10.

Here are these same words of threat spread throughout, and subject, I respectfully submit, to the just criticism which I have made in reference to the other.

Now, instead of that we have put in just what the facts were:

"In 1937 Schine took up for consideration the possibility of building an additional theatre in Canandaigua when there [fol. 4997] was prospect of the construction of a large veterans' hospital that would bring several hundred families into town. The planning and finishing of the theatre took about two years. During this period a sign was put up. By whom does not appear. The sign bore no signature, either written or printed. It was erected on a lot occupied by Montgomery Ward & Co., called the Flanagan lot. It said something about a new theatre to be erected by Schine or the Schine organization, or some such thing like that. The newspaper in Canandaigua published an article that the Schine Circuit was going to build a new theatre. The new theatre was built, not on the lot occupied by Montgomery Ward & Co., but on another lot, for which Schine paid $15,000 for the land and structure on it and paid in addition for building the Lake Theatre, $38,500. This new theatre, the Lake, was a theatre of 400 or 450 seats, of fine construction, equipment and decoration."

Now that is the whole of the story with reference to Canandaigua that the evidence shows Schine had any connection with.

Then we go to Paris:

[fol. 4998] "In Paris, Ky., in October, 1937, Schine received a license, pursuant to the city ordinances to erest and operate a new theatre. Schine proceeded to have plans drawn and got bids in the spring or summer of 1938 and completed a new theatre in 1939. In November, 1938, Harry Schwartz, about four months after he knew of the proposal for the new Schine theatre, obtained a lease of property in Paris. Lazar asked Schwartz if he had not seen the sign on the lot Schine had purchased some time ago and that they were going to build a new theatre on it, and Schwartz told Lazar that he had. Lazar said they had every intention of building a theatre in Paris and were not decided on just what type or what size, and that is why they had not begun earlier, and that he felt that Schwartz was making a mistake in building in competition with them, and Schwartz told him that he did not think so or he would not have signed a 20-year lease on the main corner of the town, and that he felt that he had the best location in Paris, and that he felt the theatre would be self-supporting. Lazar asked him if he would not go to meet him at the Lafayette Hotel, and Schwartz said that he would be glad to do so and went later in the day to the Lafayette Hotel. Lazar said that [fol. 4999] he did not feel that Paris could support three theatres and that as long as they had been in Paris operating a theatre and had anticipated building a new larger theatre, he could not quite understand what would prompt Schwartz to go into the town as competition."

I think I needn't read down the whole of that. It is right in the language of the testimony, what was said and what was done in this section. I can see no just reason that the plaintiff can urge why that narrative of the evidence should not go in as the facts to be found. If the phraseology departs from the evidence, isn't warranted by the evidence, well and good: specific things can be pointed out, if there are any. We have tried to make it so that there are none.

Now we come to Perry:

"In Perry in July, 1935, Schine bought the Davis property a little below the hotel, at a corner on the Main Street. Thereafter Mr. May called on John C. Herzberger, the operator of the Auditorium Theatre, and introduced himself and said that he had just closed a deal with Porter Davis, buying a lot for Schine, on which they were to build a theatre seating 1,000 persons and costing about $100,000, and that [fol. 5000] he hoped that they would be friends. In August, 1935, Herzberger met Myer Schine at the Seneca Hotel in Rochester and Schine offered Herzberger $5,000 for his lease from the Town of Perry of the Auditorium. An agreement was signed subject to the approval of the Town Board to the sale of the lease, and to expire on September 1. In August, 1935, the Town Board wanted Herzberger to stay and would not let him sell the lease. Schine received the blue prints for a new theatre in Perry, dated September, 1935, and specification therefor, and the time fixed for receiving bids for construction was October 4, 1935. In September or October, 1935, Mr. Osborne of Dipson & Osborne, came to Mr. Herzberger several times about taking over his lease, and for more money than Schine had offered, and Herzberger made a deal with them and containued to manage the theatre for a year. Dipson improved the theatre at a substantial expense of about $13,000 and made the theatre a satisfactory theatre and removed any occasion for having another theatre built in the town. Before this improvement the theatre was not at all a modern theatre but had been built in 1898 for stage performances. After rebuilding it had about 700 seats, as Dipson reseated the theatre. [fol. 5001] Dipson & Osborne later sold this lease to Schine and Schine made additional improvements to the theatre at a cost of $7,500. No other theatre has been built in Perry."

That is a complete statement of the evidence—a complete statement; no more is shown.

"In Salamanca, in October, 1924, Schine became the lessee of the Andrews Theatre, 735 seats, and in 1927 bought the land on which the new theatre was subsequently built. The original cost of the land was $24,300, to which Schine added a building and improvements at an additional cost of $164,300. Under an agreement with Fox-Metropolitan, Schine undertook to construct a new theatre on its land in Salamanca and to lease it to Fox-Metropolitan. This agreement was terminated and the theatre was not then erected. Schine took the new building project up with the architects in mid-summer of 1938 and sent blue prints of the land to the architect on August 23, 1938. The plan to complete the theatre in 1939 was held up by lack of materials, which could not be obtained, and the completion and opening was in August, 1942. The new theatre is a very lovely theatre, air conditioned, with modern equipment, with about 1200 seats. In December, 1938, C. R. Dickerson, manager of the [fol. 5002] Schine theatre in Salamanca, came into the office of the publisher of the newspaper, Salamanca Republican Press, and told him that the Schine Company would build a new theatre in Salamanca and that the architect was at work on the plans, calling for completion in the following May. The publisher wrote and published an article to this effect in the Salamanca Republican Press on December 24, 1938."

There is the whole statement of the facts for Salamanca as they occurred.

"In Medina, Ohio, Yudelvitz and Willis were lessees and operators of the Princess Theatre as a first-run theatre, with all the first-run product they wanted. By January 1, 1937, they had learned that Fine and Essick, with a circuit of some 29 theatres, an independent circuit, that is, not connected with any producing company, were proposing to come into Medina in opposition to them. Thereupon Yudelvitz and Willis negotiated with Schine and on March 18, 1937 entered into an agreement with Schine to come with them and to build a new theatre. At almost the same time the Masonic Lodge of Medina entered into the reconstruction of their building with a theatre in it. In March, 1937, they [fol. 5003] wrote to Schine asking him not to go ahead with the plan to build a new theatre in Medina. In September, 1937, through negotiations with Yudelvitz and associates, Schine became interested in 50% of the lease of the Princess Theatre, which Yudelvitz and Willis were operating. After the reconstruction of the Masonic Temple building, the new Temple Theatre alone was ample for the town, but the Princess was not. Before the new theatre, the Temple, opened Yudelvitz was playing Metro, Paramount, Fox, RKO and Republic pictures (~~the last named~~ because with the western stars, Ken Maynard and Gene Autry, he wanted to play Republic on Fridays and Saturdays, although he was not forced to do so from any lack of product.) The Princess continued to have the first run product required for the operation of that theatre. Essick and Fine could not buy the same product which had already been sold to the Princess for the same run. In April, 1939, after extended 'cross the table' negotiations the Schine and Yudelvitz interest-s became interested in 50% of the lease of the Temple Theatre, the other 50% being retained by Essick and Fine, who also acquired a 50% interest in the lease of the Princess, so that in April, 1939, and thereafter the interest in the two leases [fol. 5004] stood, Yudelvitz 25%, Schine 25%, Essick and Fine 50%. Schine said nothing to Essick and Fine by way of threat. In the operation of the Medina Temple Theatre the town has been very well served and the worth while pictures of all the distributors from time to time have been exhibited there."

That is a full narrative of the facts with reference to Medina, and I submit that those facts show nothing in violating the Anti-Trust Act in the things done, nothing that was not proper. There is no reason why Yudelvitz and Willis, apparently aware that a new circuit was coming in, shouldn't get ahold of Schine to come in with them; and the pictures that they could get for their theatre, they were entitled to get; and in no way was there anything by way of threats or any msiconduct of any kind whatever.

But whether there is or not, if that constitutes misconduct, it will be in the statement of facts, so that it will be available for whatever is the proper conclusion to be reached on those facts.

"In Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Mr. Smoots, the owner of the Vine Theatre and lessee of the Memorial Theatre, brought the matter of going into Mt. Vernon to Schine's attention [fol. 5005] and proposed to lease the Vine to Schine and to assign his lease on the Memorial, which was then closed. At about the same time Mr. Platt, who operated the Lyric, said that he would like to sell Schine the equipment and lease of the Lyric provided he could get a job to manage the theatres in town, and this deal was closed about February, 1934. Schine became the lessee of the Vine Theatre and of the Memorial Theatre in January, 1934, and of the Lyric Theatre in February, 1934, and of the Memorial again at the end of December, 1940. The Lyric location was the finest location in town. In April, 1938, on the Lyric site and on additional land bought, Schine built the new Vernon Theatre. The new Vernon Theatre is a modern fireproof constructed theatre with a wide marquee in front, no stores, a large lobby, and in the interior decorated in very modernistic style, with the finest seats obtainable. It has all the other equipment and a fine mezzanine furnished attractive and comfortable, with fine public spaces upstairs and downstairs. The cost was from $120,000 to $130,000."

Those facts are not open to controversy, and we submit they should be in the findings.

The ninth asks for a substitution for 11 (a), (e), (h) and [fol. 5006] (i), and the others we have not asked for any change.

The Court: All right.

Mr. McClennen: 11 (b) and (f) were in the preceding one.

The Court: Yes, I noted that.

Mr. McClennen: There again is the word "threat" used as to Bellefontaine, and what we ask is this:

"At Bellefontaine, Ohio, in 1930, a delegation from Bellefontaine called on Mr. Schine with reference to the establishment of a new theatre in Bellefontaine. At this time the Schine Circuit was operating in only eleven cities and towns. These were all in New York State. As a result of the call of this delegation Schine acquired land in Bellefontaine in 1930 and built the new Holland Theatre, which was opened on February 12, 1931."

At this time Schine was a small circuit, he had parted with 25 theatres and had theatres only in these nine places, and no theatres in Ohio. I think I am right in that.

I go on reading: "It was of the latest type of first class moving picture theatre. At this time Milton A. Mooney, as a lessee, was operating the Strand Theatre. He operated the Majestic Theatre during the annual fair week, and in the [fol. 5007] year- 1928 to 1931 he closed it entirely. It was a small, old converted store show, without equipment for sound pictures. He also had the Opera House, an upstairs house, seventy-five years old, without sound equipment, and closed except for an occasional stage show. The Majestic and the Opera House were of no value, and the balance of the lease of the Strand and its equipment, which had been used for seven years, was all that Mooney had to sell. In May or June, 1931, Mooney saw Mr. May, who offered $2500 for the lease, and Mooney sold the balance of the lease of the Strand and its equipment in July, 1931. The lessor of the Strand was one Butilla. It had been made in 1924, expiring in 1934. Gutilla then renewed the lease until 1938. This negotiation was with Mr. May or with Mr. Lazar. In these negotiations, Mr. Lazar said that if the Strand lease was not renewed and Gutilla operated it, Schine was going to play second-run at the Opera House, on which he had a lease. The Opera House had been closed from 1932 to 1934 and open from 1934 to 1936 as a second-run house. From 1932 to 1934 it had been open about six or seven months. Gutilla had his final negotiations for the lease with Mr. Schine."

[fol. 5008] That is the whole of the occurrences in Bellefontaine.

The Court: Well, you criticize the use of the word "threat" by the Government as a conclusion. Yet in your proposed findings you say, "Schine said nothing to Essick & Fine by way of threat."

Mr. McClennen: That is the testimony of Essick.

The Court: Well, you criticize the use of the word "threat" by the Government here as a conclusion, do you not?

Mr. McClennen: I am criticising the use of the word as a conclusion based on the evidence. The witness testified that no threat was made to him. That was a truthful piece of testimony. We are merely asking a finding of that fact.

The Court: Well you say, "Schine said nothing to Essick & Fine by way of threat." You use the word "threat." That is what I had in mind.

Mr. McClennen: Well I used it because the witness testified that no threat was made to him.

The Court: All right. But it is a conclusion when it stands alone, when you don't say anybody testified to that. When you say, "Schine said nothing to Essick & Fine by way of threat," that is a conclusion as to what the testimony of the witness is.

Mr. McClennen: It would serve the same purpose if it was [fols. 5009-5010] put in that form. I put it in as a direct paraphrase of the witness' testimony.

"At Lockport, N. Y., Schine began to exhibit in 1922. He bought a large building which had been a skating rink and then used as a garage, and converted it into a modern large motion picture theatre, the Rialto Theatre. It had great advantage over any other theatre in Lockport because of its downstairs seating capacity. It cost, for original purchase, $27,500, and for improvements $118,400. In October, 1927, Schine became half owner in the lease of the Hi-Art Theatre and of the Palace Theatre constructed several years after Schine had opened the new Rialto. The Rialto had been playing the best first-class pictures and the Palace played vaudeville and pictures and part of the time pictures only. Later Schine discontinued vaudeville at the Palace and moved the best pictures into the Palace and played first and second-run at the Rialto. Schine was forced out of the Palace Theatre in December, 1932. Before this Schine had negotiated for contracts for the 1932-33 product sufficient to operate two theatres which Schine was then operating. The owner of the Palace thereupon opened the Palace. The Rialto was showing all the product of the eight companies [fol. 5011] except Metro. Schine, on losing the Palace, remodelled the Hi-Art, to be operated in place of the theatre that he had lost. Before reopening the Hi-Art, Mr. May made an offer for the Palace and stated that Schine was withholding opening the ~~Hi-Art for~~ an additional few days for him to decide whether or not he would accept the proposal, and that Schine would reopen the Hi-Art to play the product under contract. The owner of the Palace was unwilling to accept the offer. The Hi-Art, which had been closed during the seven years that the Palace was operated, was reopened."

Now, that is the exact statement of the facts there and shows the significance of the words used about reopening the Hi-Art. Schine had been operating for a long time two theatres in that place and he lost the Palace, and the only way in which he could operate two theatres was either to renegotiate a lease for the Palace or open up the Hi-Art, and he told the man that he was negotiating with that if he couldn't get the Palace he was going to open up the Hi-Art, and he did so.

That, I submit, is an entirely proper business transaction. It is not a transgression of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, [fol. 5012] or any other law in existence.

At Seneca Falls we have set out exactly the facts of what occurred: Buying the theatre, setting up a sign that it would reopen soon after alterations as the Schine theatre, and that an independent who was without financial resources and was seeking to acquire the means of building the theatre discontinued his efforts for two years, the sign reappeared on the Seneca, the theatre did not reopen, the independent did not raise the money. That is the story of the facts there.

The Court: Well, we had better suspend now till 2 o'clock.

(Whereupon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock p. m.)

[fol. 5013] After recess, 2 o'clock p. m.

Appearances: Same as before noted.

Mr. McClennen: If your Honor please, I had reached the tenth paragraph which asks a substitution of 12. There again is the use of the word "arbitrarily." We ask a statement of the fact, in that we believe this fully covers the substance of that paragraph:

"In any town in which Schine bought motion picture product for a specified run, it was of course impossible for any other theatre to buy such product for the same run. This condition existed in Auburn, New York, Lockport, New York, Mount Vernon, Ohio, Paris, Kentucky and Bellefontaine, Ohio. In such instances the operator of the other theatre would buy a different run or from a different distributor."

Then eleven is as to No. 13. That, as drawn by the plaintiffs, had in it the word "monopolizes," and named particular places.

We ask this substitution: "At Corbin, Medina and Lockport, Schine had the first-run product. In Corbin, Schine was the licensee of this product before there was any other theatre in town. One of these theatres, the Hippodrome, [fol. 5014] was a much more substantially constructed and more expensive theatre than the new theatre that was built. The facts as to Medina and Lockport have been stated hereinbefore.

In Rochester, N. Y., Schine had the first-run neighborhood product for the Riviera, State, Dixie and Liberty theatres. These included the best neighborhood houses in Rochester. The Fenyvessy theatres took clearance over all other Schine Theatres in Rochester. Schine had these first neighborhood runs before the independents acquired their theatres."

Then No. 12 is as to No. 15, and we ask this substitution:

"In certain cases when Schine purchased or acquired a lease of a motion picture theatre or theatres as going concerns, an agreement was made with the former operator which provided that such operator would operate the motion picture theatres within limited competitive areas for limited periods of time. In certain instances this noncompetitive agreement covered nearby towns other than the towns in which the former operator had been in business."

That fully states the facts as they appear in evidence. [fol. 5015] No. 13 is asking a change as to the franchise agreement. There again, in 13, we have narrated at length all the features referred to in the original, without characterization but stating what those agreements contain.

14 is asking a change in 17. This is the long one relating to clearance. Now that has in it a statement of the clearances at certain places without description. Here was an entertaining illustration: After your Honor had stated the length of the clearances in your opinion, you said it is true that some of these were over third-run. Plaintiff puts in the clause nearly like your opinion, but with no reference to that very important distinguishing fact.

Now, so far as clearance is so concerned, we submit that the facts to be found here—if they are to be found at all—about clearance should show the places and the length, and the distances. For instance, very strikingly: The 45-day clearance for Gloversville, containing no reference to the fact that Johnstown, the place cleared, is only three miles away. And it comes right after the statement that some of these clearances were as near as 20 miles. One has to [fol. 5016] search the evidence to find out that the place next referred to with a 45-day clearance is only three miles away.

Now clearance is not just a matter of distance, just a matter of time, but involves a trial of the circumstances to show whether or not it is unreasonable. The purpose of clearance, that for which it has long been established, is so that instead of the owner of a picture having it shown in one place only once, in which event all the value of it would be got on the first run, this plan has been adopted by which it may be shown in other theatres at subsequent runs, provided they are so placed that they don't take away from the patronage that would be available to the first run.

The owner of the picture is entitled to all the return to be expected from that picture in the neighborhood. He gets a larger either percentage or flat rental for the first run, and is directly interested in having the box office receipts in that theatre large. And clearance does not become unreasonable until it so extends the time or the area as to put an inhibition on a later theatre which will do no good to the theatre cleared.

The consent decree lays down the principles to govern in determining whether clearance is reasonable or not. [fol. 5017] None of those things are presented here. There is no testimony that the clearance exceeded that which was needed for the protection of the first run. There is direct evidence from the plaintiff's witnesses that some of the places cleared were competitive, although in different towns; and none of the requirements to establish unreasonable clearance are presented in the case.

It has been urged that it was unreasonable merely because of the length of time and merely because of the distance. Now it is a known fact that greater distances than that, and greater lengths of time than that, affect the first runs, and there is nothing in the distance or in the length that in itself establishes that the clearance is unreasonable.

We urge first that the facts should be stated, what the clearance is, what the distances are, and so much of the competition, as has been shown in evidence, and that the matter stop there, not attempting to try out clearance that is not in this case, where no evidence has been offered, and particularly when there is now no occasion whatever to take the time or call for the labor of a court of equity on that subject because of this comprehensive provision as to [fol. 5018] clearance that is contained in the consent decree, so that if there is any clearance taken that is more than it should be, the remedy is right there available without the need of any injunction in this proceeding.

There is this also to be said about this clearance provision: In this paragraph there has been introduced these statements of branch managers, for instance, to their district managers or home office, expressing their views as to clearance. We have urged that those are not admissible in evidence, and in the course of the opinion, the Court, in dealing with the question of admissibility, used words indicative of a possibility that findings might be made of these things without reference to the letters. Then, in this clause comes the test of the letters. We urge that right where that is stated it should be stated that these were received over the objections of the defendants. Then, if we are right in our objection, that must go out. But if it is put in here as a fact, without disclosing the fact that it is taken out of those objectionable letters, we do not have the means, without going extensively into the testimony, to show that this was one of the objectionable letters. That [fol. 5019] is, if the Court deems the letter admissible, and then found a finding of fact upon it, we submit that it should be shown at that point, that that is based on the letter that is objected to.

The Court: Well, doesn't that appear in the record? The ones that were stricken out were specifically stated.

Mr. McClennen: Yes, true. But if your Honor please, the idea of Rule 52 was to make the record as simple for the use of the Appellate Court as could be.

Now where a letter that is objected to is put right into the text of the opinion, even if the letter is described by the sender and the recipient, it takes a reference to that, and to the exhibit, to explain that this is a piece of evidence subject to objection. Whereas, it does no harm to anybody, and greatly conveniences both the upper Court and counsel, if it appears right there, so that that burden doesn't have to be met.

The Court: You want it to appear where, you mean?

Mr. McClennen: Well, we put it in in this form:——

The Court: There is more than one instance of that.

Mr. McClennen: About a third of the way down on our page 12 in 14:

"The inter-department communications between employees of major film companies and some letters writ-

[fol. 5020] ten by Schine employees are stated below. Among these are communications by Lehman of United Artists, Pielow of Metro, D[illegible]a and Sauber of Universal, Smith of Warner, Sussman and Grassgreen of Fox. These communications were admitted in evidence over the objection of the defendants, pursuant to a ruling that it was within the scope of their duties to make the representations in the communications, and that they did it as a natural incident of the office, namely, a branch or district manager. None of these persons were called as witnesses by the plaintiff and no attempt was made to qualify them as experts upon the subject of clearance, or to ascertain what factors they or any of them considered in determining whether any given clearance was reasonable or unreasonable."

Then there is stated, as we have noted before, the contents of those letters, and no one is obliged to go extensively into the record to show the relation between the objection to evidence and the finding of fact, but it is clearly and concisely stated there.

The Court: It would seem to me it would lumber up the findings in your case if you would have to put into the findings the rulings of the Court on evidence submitted all [fol. 5021] the way through the case, wouldn't it?

Mr. McClennen: I am not suggesting that the objections be extensively dealt with; I am suggesting it be presented right there by a sentence so that it shows that the source of these things stated here in the communications was objected to.

The Court: Of course, on first thought I wouldn't think that that would be proper in the findings. You have your rulings and exceptions to the testimony as it is in the record.

Mr. McClennen: Yes, if your Honor please, but if this isn't stated in this way, then it becomes necessary not only to show what we submit is the error in the ruling, but also the prejudice that has resulted and makes necessary to show that Exhibit No. 42, if you please, is the one that contains the language that you have quoted in your findings and then in that way to show that we have been prejudiced by the receipt of that exhibit, by its being introduced into the findings.

Now, no conceivable harm is done to any one if that simplification takes place of showing that these were not communications that had come in in ordinary course without [fol. 5022] objection, and it does not make it necessary for the Court of Appeals to go into the record, or be taken into the record by these extensive references and cross references. They are all in one place, and no one is hurt by it in any way.

The Court: Well, it seems to me it would be establishing a wrong principle, because in that course of pursuit you might ask the insertion of the evidence pertaining to any question concerning which you raised objection and objection was overruled.

Mr. McClennen: Well, I should submit that where a finding is made based entirely on objection to evidence that it is a principle that is not an objectionable principle, one that simplifies the work of the Court, which is the design of the rule, and does no harm to any one—relieves a great deal of unnecessary labor on the part of the upper court and of counsel, and particularly is it of some significance here because here it was stated in the opinion that the same results might have been reached without a reference to these objected to exhibits. That is put in the opinion.

Now here we wish to show, in as concrete fashion as possible, that here something has gone in which, if we should [fol. 5023] prevail in our objections, should go right out of the findings—and we have not complicated the record in any way, but simplified it by that course.

Now in dealing with clearance we have asked on pages 13 and 14 of our motion for a statement of the facts of the industry with reference to clearance. These facts are mainly drawn from the plaintiff's admission of facts. They are concrete, they are in short compass, and they tell the story in the admittedly correct words of what clearance is and what its purpose is, and what the actuating motives are in general course of the industry in determining clearance. They are essential to knowing just what clearance is and what are the considerations which indicate whether there was anything monopolistic in obtaining the clearance, as distinguished from seeking to get all that could be got from the picture in its first run.

The 15th is asking a substitution for the 20th, which states that special privileges were granted, as in the case of bank nights, and so on. Those were spoken of as special privileges, and the evidence shows that they were not special to Schine; that they were regular things. We have phrased it in this way:

[fol. 5024] "In certain instances the distributors made contracts providing for film rental based upon a percentage of the gross receipts and in certain other instances, the rental was a flat rental. When a percentage picture was played, with a competitive device (bank nights, etc.) sometimes provision was made for the deduction from the gross receipts of the cost of such competitive device before computing the distributors rental. These provisions were also in contracts with independents."

Now that is the fact. There is nothing indicative of special privileges or special benefit of any kind in such a clause. It is recognized that the box office receipts at a first-run picture may be enhanced by the fact that there is a double feature, another feature shown, and they may also be enhanced by the fact that there is a bank night or other attractive device which costs money to put in. Those are proper costs of the exhibition, and proper, therefore, to be deducted by agreement from the box office receipts before the percentages apply. It is an entirely reasonable proposition. It shows no indication of an intention to do a special favor to the particular exhibitor. It is a common provision and is made for independent exhibitors as well [fol. 5025] as for circuit exhibitors.

Now in our numbers 16, 17, 18 and 19 we have made requests for changes of language to take out anything that is of a conclusion nature by simply stating the facts as they appear in the evidence. A comparison of each one of those paragraphs with the evidence shows that they state fully all that is contained in the plaintiff's draft which the evidence warrants.

That brings me to the second general division of our motion, which begins on page 15, and the first paragraph of that is No. 20. The purpose of that is to make clear the date that we are speaking of:

"All findings made herein with respect to any acts committed by the defendants or any of them or any course of conduct pursued by them which the Court holds to be in violation of the Anti-Trust laws are limited to acts committed or course of conduct pursued prior to May 19, 1942, plaintiff's counsel having stated at the opening of the trial that he would not offer any evidence beyond that date."

Otherwise, on casual observation, it might be thought that the findings were showing the conditions which existed [fol. 5026] in 1946, when, as a matter of fact, they show conditions that existed not later than May 19, 1942.

The Court: Doesn't that appear in the opinion?

Mr. McClennen: But not in the findings.

The Court: But doesn't it appear in the opinion?

Mr. McClennen: I think it may. But not in the findings, and as the findings, under Rule 52, should be self contained, that provision should be in the findings. There is, of course, no dispute about the fact.

Now the next numbers, 21 to 26, relate to the capacity in which the different individuals acted as far as they acted. That is, they were acting, as far as they acted in these matters, for the corporation.

It becomes of special importance because in a very recent decision the Supreme Court actually struck out the injunctive provisions that had been entered below against the individuals because, although the individuals had done the very acts that were to be prohibited in the future, they had done them only as officers of a corporation; it was a corporate act, and wasn't contemplated as an individual act.

I respectfully submit that there is no way of distinguish- [fol. 5027] ing that position which the Courts took in that case from the case here.

In addition to that, there is the fact that—well, conspicuously, Louis Schine, among the individual defendants—there isn't any evidence that Louis Schine has done anything in violation of the Anti-Trust Act. He has cooperated in every way—this is dealing with him as individual. There is no evidence that he has taken any step in violation of the Act. The evidence is that J. Myer Schine was the policy making officer, the executive head of the corporation. There is no indication that any others did anything except as it is shown—the conversations they had, the steps that they took—and those were not taken as individuals in their own right or in their own interests, only as officers of the corporation as far as they came within the authority that they had or those acts were approved later by the corporation.

Next we have from 27 to 32. Those are statements that are in the exact language that the plaintiffs have admitted to be the facts. They are right in the admissions, in the admissions which were introduced in evidence in this case, [fol. 5028] and they are facts about which there can be no controversy and which have a very substantial bearing in interpreting the things that were done in this case to show whether or not they are abnormal and had a significance on that account, or were normal in accordance with the ordinary business methods of the industry.

We urge that most clearly 27 to 32 should all be in.

The Court: In 32, shouldn't that be 70 per cent instead of 80 per cent?

Mr. McClennen: Well, I should have to refer to the record, which I haven't here.

The Court: That is what the admission was, as I have it here.

Mr. McClennen: A comparison with the admissions will, of course, show what is the right figure.

Now, 33 to 72 differ from what I have just been referring to, in that there is no specific admission on the record that it is so, but they are from testimony of witnesses as to the methods of the industry, testimony not in the least——

The Court: Well, you pick me out certain parts of the testimony——

Mr. McClennen: That is, 33 to 72?

[fol. 5029] The Court: In 34 you have the statement that the positives at times run into millions of dollars and that if it is in technicolor the cost runs much higher.

Mr. McClennen: Well, yes, I would have to refer to the testimony. Now, all of these are facts of the industry that bear upon the reasons for the methods pursued, the necessity for successive runs, the necessity for clearances sufficient so that an adequate number of prints, endurable in the matter of cost, will make it possible to serve all the theatres that are to get the prints. In this instance, each one of these statements has the testimony reference against it. We hope that these references bear out the findings requested. These are additional to the findings so far made.

The Court: In 43, I don't think findings should show efforts of the distributor and of the exhibitor.

Mr. McClennen: Well, one of the things that the exhibitor is vitally interested in is that a picture showing in one theatre will not draw directly away from another theatre, playing the same picture. That is particularly the exhibitor's desire, as well as the distributor's.

The Court: Well, wouldn't that be a conclusion, the same as you claim with respect to some of the other findings [fol. 5030] signed, the effort of the distributor and exhibitor?

Mr. McClennen: Well, that is the testimony of what they try to do.

The Court: That runs down to——

Mr. McClennen: It runs to 72.

The Court: I have been all through these mostly.

Mr. McClennen: Then we come to the negatives. There is no reference in the findings—there was a reference in the opinion, but I think there is no reference in the findings which the plaintiffs presented about the denial of anything of the nature of a conspiracy in the relations of the distributors to each other or to Schine.

Now that fact that they did so testify is a fact in itself. That is, we had in the Interstate case the most concrete announcement that if you do not call the leading executives when it is claimed that there was a conspiracy by the concern itself, that their absence is some evidence of conspiracy. Now, we have shown that that does not exist in this case, because they have been called.

Of course, there is this very marked distinction here: The distributors were not parties as they were in the [fol. 5031] Interstate case, and there was a failure to call a party. Here we went beyond that, and called these nonparties to show the fact that nothing was to be inferred from their silence. There was no one else to call. They weren't under our control. We had to get them here. We couldn't just tell them to come and they come.

The fact that we couldn't get them here would have been an excuse for their not testifying. But we got them here, and so, as to each one of these distributors, in these periods in question, came this evidence of the men who, if there has been any agreement, concert of action of any kind, would have been the ones who would have known of it.

They have testified that there was none, and there is nothing to impugn their testimony in any way.

We are not asking here to have some Government witness disbelieved because these men have come and testified. We are not asking in this that any fact, even if it be adverse to us, or any conversation or any dealing, should be found differently from what the evidence for the plaintiff shows it to be, because of a contradiction. We are meeting the inference that might be drawn from the fact that these [fol. 5032] men who would know of a conspiracy, if there was one, had not testified. The mere fact that they testified is a fact in itself which we submit most certainly should be incorporated into the findings of fact. There is no witness that can be pointed to that would have known about this conspiracy of the distributors, if it was a conspiracy, that has not been called. We urge, therefore, that the request to find in paragraph 73 be granted.

Then we come to the same sort of thing: The policy maker of the Schine Circuit, the only policy maker of the Schine Circuit, Mr. Schine, testified, and we ask that what he testified be stated so as to show that no inference is to be drawn of a conspiracy from his failure to come forward and testify upon the subject. That is the 74th request.

Then is the 75th, which relates back to the subject of clearance:

"No competent or properly qualified witness was produced by the plaintiff upon the trial to testify as an expert, as to what constituted reasonable or unreasonable clearance, or as to the factors which must be considered in determining whether clearance is reasonable or unreasonable."

[fol. 5033] We believe that is very important because of the judicial determination in the consent decree in the case of the United States against Paramount, which lists the factors which determine whether clearance is reasonable or not, and shows that there has been no evidence offered of that character in this proceeding.

Then we come to special strikeout requests, and those are Nos. 76 to 84. The first of these deals with the same statement that I have referred to as they appeared from time to time in the plaintiff's draft of findings, that is, as to "authorized", "dictate", "monopoly", "monopolistic", "arbitrarily", "unreasonable threat", "lowering admission prices", without any statement of the surrounding circumstances, "predatory", and "conspiracy."

That question of whether the facts constitute a conspiracy or not is a matter not of statement of facts, but a statement of the conclusion to be drawn from the facts that are laid forth in the evidence.

Then there is put into the findings of fact this omnibus statement of monopoly and of two classes of conspiracy, one class, among the defendants, and the other, the class of conspiracy by Schine with the various distributors. And there [fol. 5034] has been put in this statement of both of those things.

We urge first the matter of conspiracy among the defendants: An act done by an officer of a corporation cannot be at the same time the act of the individual and the act of the corporation so as to constitute a conspiracy between that man and that corporation. It has been so laid down in the decisions and with none to the contrary.

Where you have a unit, a corporate unit, and an act done which is the act of an officer of that unit, that act cannot be both the act of the individual as an individual and the act of a corporation, as constituting a conspiracy.

Now this matter is a matter which, we submit, should not be approached until the point for the conclusions is reached, and then it should be so presented that it will be apparent that the conclusion is based on the statement of the findings of fact that have preceded the conclusion, so that it is not necessary to go outside the statement of the findings of fact when dealing with the matter on appeal but can be directly dealt with by reference to the findings of fact to test whether we are right or not in contending that there is no evidence of conspiracy.

[fol. 5035] We do so contend that there is no evidence whatever of a conspiracy of Schine with Schine Circuit or May with Schine Circuit, or these several other corporations. And, incidentally, there is not a word in the evidence that some of these corporations have done a thing. Not merely is there no evidence that they have done any thing that contravenes the Anti-Trust Act but, we submit, there is a complete absence of evidence of such a conspiracy by the defendants inter sese.

Then we come to the question of conspiracy with the distributors. Now we most earnestly urge that these distributors should be taken separately and tested to see whether there is any evidence against them. We have put them down alphabetically here. Of course, Schine did not conspire with Columbia, unless Columbia conspired with Schine, and you are asked here in this case to convict Columbia of a conspiracy with Schine.

Now, we urge that the evidence may be consulted, as a whole or in detail, and that there is not a particle of evidence that Columbia conspired with Schine to restrain trade or to monopolize. All that Columbia did was to supply its pictures to what it deemed was its best customer under all [fol. 5036] the circumstances. In order to make what Columbia did a conspiracy to restrain trade, it must be shown that Columbia had knowledge that the motive actuating Schine in buying his pictures was not to get pictures for his theatres, but to restrain trade; not to get pictures on the best terms that he could, but to restrain trade. Now, there is in the evidence here none whatever of such a conspiracy.

Going back to the conspiracy inter sese of the defendants, we have this very striking thing: The decision in the Crescent case came down now a good many months ago. In their requests for findings of fact, the plaintiff's counsel took words of the Crescent case and put them in as is applicable in this case.

The Court: There was no opinion in that case? There was just the findings?

Mr. McClennen: Well, there was an opinion finally in the Supreme Court.

The Court: I mean in the lower court.

Mr. McClennen: In the lower court I think there were findings; I don't think there was any opinion.

The Court: There wasn't any opinion.

Mr. McClennen: And those words were taken so as, I re- [fol. 5037] spectfully submit, to misfit in this case, into a case that had already been decided, which was a different case. There there were different interests, not wholly owned companies, that had been brought into this combine that was ordered to be broken up. There is not a single reference to a corporation of the Crescent Circuit which was in truth a subsidiary of the circuit as a subsidiary. The references are to affiliated corporations, a term well understood as distinguishable from a hundred per cent subsidiary. Where there are two corporations, and one owns all the stock of the other, and it is merely an instrument of operation of the major corporation, the action of those two corporations does not constitute a conspiracy. You cannot have a conspiracy between your left hand and your right hand. It is a unit.

In the Crescent case that was not the fact, and that language being withdrawn from that case into this case by the plaintiff's requests and arguments brings distortion into this case. It is a difficult situation, an entirely different situation. Here there were no conspiracies, among themselves, within the defendants. There is a unit here. This [fol. 5038] Circuit is a unit in this matter, and the owner of the stock, all of the stock, of these many corporations that are sought to be grasped away from this Circuit.

Of course, there is such a case as Medina, where they don't own all of the stock, where they are not even the dominant owner. Essick and Fine own 50 per cent there and Schine owns only 25. And the cases are rare where there is any division of ownership. In most cases of these theatres which it is the effort of plaintiff's counsel to tear away from us, they have always been wholly ours; no other interest, no chance for any finding of conspiracy, no chance for any finding of monopolizing in that sense, because it is a unit. It is the case where one unit has built up this Circuit and owns this Circuit. Those are not acts of conspiracy.

The Court: Well, in your construction such an aggregation of entities would be exempt from the Statute? They couldn't commit a conspiracy then?

Mr. McClennen: Well, there is no question of exemption. You can't hold a man for conspiracy with himself, regardless of how many theatres he may have.

The Court: Well, it is a question of the relationship be- [fol. 5039] tween the circuit members, the entities in the corporation.

Mr. McClennen: In that case there were different interests.

The Court: I know there were. But, if you are right in that construction, that goes to the very foundation of the Statute itself.

Mr. McClennen: I hope it does, but I hope, of course, your Honor doesn't go on to find that there is a conspiracy here just to hold us for conspiracy, if there is one.

The Court: No. I am speaking argumentatively, that is all.

Mr. McClennen: It is as simple, if your Honor please, as this statement: One man cannot conspire with himself; two men can conspire.

The Court: Well, that is the essence of the law.

Mr. McClennen: And it is the same whether they do it in their individual names or do it in corporations in which they respectively own all the stock. It is still one man dealing with himself in this case, and in the other case one man with another man or more.

The Court: Of course, this case isn't that case, because you have in this case the representatives of different corpo- [fol. 5040] rations, not solely the one man, Schine. We have representatives of the different corporations committing certain acts as part of a conspiracy. It isn't as though it were a question of Mr. Schine, as though he did everything. Your parallel doesn't follow out, it seems to me, here anyway, even if you are right in your contention. If a corporation were being run by one individual, you might say, having no one who has anything to do with its operation except him, then your argument might be correct, because he couldn't conspire with himself. But you have a different case than that here.

Mr. McClennen: Well, there is no case, no instance here, where one Schine officer did this act with another Schine officer, each acting in his separate capacity. When an officer of a corporation takes a given step or has a given thought, that cannot be at once the thought of the corporation and the thought of the individual man himself—and I am speaking here in language of the Supreme Court when I make this argument. It is not any invention of my own, or anything that I have thought out first; it is there in the opinions.

There is this recent case where they actually didn't issue [fol. 5041] the injunction against the individuals who had done the improper acts, because they had done the acts as representing the corporation, and it was only the corporation that had acted in those acts.

Now, this is not bringing forward old and superseded law, but a very recent decision resting on exactly the same principles which I have urged upon your Honor with respect to this matter.

Now I have spoken of these in dealing, on page 24, with the paragraph having before it the Roman number four, asking the striking out of those various conclusions of law. Of course, that would involve striking the same conclusions from the judgment. I take it there is no occasion for repeating that with reference to the judgment, because, if we prevail in striking out those conclusions from the conclusions, they would fall from the judgment as a matter of course.

And the concluding paragraphs are for conclusions as a result of changes which we urge in the findings.

Now, of course, the most vital matter in all this is in this provision of the judgment directing that the defendants and their affiliated corporations be dissolved, re-aligned, or [fol. 5042] re-organized in their ownership, and controlled so that fair competition between them and the other theatres may be restored and thereafter maintained.

That is an utter impossibility of performance. Here are all these places where there never has been another theatre. How can we so dispose of ours, or re-align them, or located them, so that competition between them and other theatres may be created? It can't be created, but——

The Court: Well, that may be presupposed, that would fit right into the re-organization,—where there wasn't any competition. I don't think that would be an obstruction to carrying out the provisions of judgment.

Mr. McClennen: Well, if your Honor please, the plaintiff's counsel seems to have read this to mean that we must dispose of those theatres in towns where there never was another theatre.

The Court: Where did you get such a construction?

Mr. McClennen: In his plan that they have just filed.

The Court: Well, I don't know anything about the plan. I haven't seen it.

Mr. McClennen: Well, if your Honor please, attributing to plaintiff's counsel——

[fol. 5043] The Court: That plan may or may not accord with the judgment, I don't know.

Mr. McClennen: I know, but what I was about to say, your Honor, is this: If, in your judgment, you have used words that lead responsible counsel for the Government to think that you could have meant any such plan that they now have presented, it is a reason that your judgment should be couched in other language so that there be no misunderstanding.

The Court: Well, I had no definite plan in my own mind. I was, in effect, asking, you may say, the parties to agree on some plan.

Mr. McClennen: But when we start to agree on a plan we are called upon to present a plan for re-alignment, reorganization, or dissolution, in the terms of the judgment, so that fair competition between us and other theatres may be restored and thereafter maintained. And that can't be done, because the severance of these theatres from us will not produce any competition with those theatres. Somebody else will be the man who owns the only theatres in town. There is no more competition than before. There is no more competition, because A. B. owns a theatre than because Schine owns the theatre.

The Court: Well, of course, it might apply from that stand- [fol. 5044] point to those individual cases where no specific property was taken over by Schine or where nobody was claimed forced out of business, and Schine is the only one there. Now, there may be instances, as there are here, this case of the only theatre in town, where there is no reason for changing, you might say, except a general provision that you do not violate this law.

Mr. McClennen: Well, we couldn't make a plan that conformed to that language. It is an impossibility to write such a plan, because it involves just this thing, and I can't at the moment think of any case of a man who has parted to us with his theatre who wants it back—no case.

Now, he isn't helped out—the seller—isn't helped out by giving it to A. B., instead of to Schine. No public gain of any kind is to come from such a re-organization as proposed in this plan which has been submitted by plaintiff's counsel. The only effect of it will be to wrest from us these theatres, with no gain to the public, nothing done except to mutilate us.

The very matter that has been a matter for comment by the Court in New York in the case now going on—now, of course, I can't cite that case to you as a decision, or the [fol. 5045] statements made in the course of it as a decision of the Court of Appeals—but it is the fact that the utterances were the utterances of a Judge of the Court of Appeals, pointing out that what was up here was an effort to destroy, an effort to destroy an existing business, without showing anything better in its stead, and with the strongest indications in the language used that the Court would not tolerate such a thing being done.

I have said the time has not arrived for presenting the objections in detail to the plan, and will not arrive for some time to come. There are these things that I should like to lay before your Honor because they will eventually be presented, whatever is the plan presented:

One is the judgment we have appealed from on very fundamental grounds. After the changes in the findings which we move for have been made, I assume that a new, complete judgment will be entered if we have prevailed in any of the changes that we request that are of value. If not, then the judgment as it stands is the one which is subject to the appeal which we have filed, and which the cases indicate is not yet ripe for allowance by your Honor until these matters are out of the way.

[fol. 5046] The matter of the plan is a matter of implementing the judgment. That is, the finality is in the judgment already, and the plan is a method of execution of the judgment, so to speak.

Now, I urge upon your Honor that it is waste motion to go into the details of a plan of dissolution or re-alignment until it is known whether the judgment is to stand. And, therefore, the time for any plan would be after the disposal of the appeal. Until that time it cannot be known whether there is to be an occasion for any plan of dissolution, and, therefore, we should urge that no plan be approved, and, indeed, no plan be considered, until the appeal is out of the way, and we know what is to be the finality in the case on these very fundamental questions that are involved.

The Court: Well, on the other hand, of course, if you agree on the plan there wouldn't be any need of any appeal.

Mr. McClennen: Yes, that is perfectly true. Of course, an agreed plan would be all right. But this plan which the Government has presented is not an invitation to agreement.

The Court: I see.

Mr. McClennen: That is, an agreement to have your head cut off doesn't seem likely.

[fol. 5047] The Court: You wouldn't want to agree to do that?

Mr. McClennen: We wouldn't agree to that. And nothing less than that seems to be suggested as appropriate for consideration by the Government.

The Court: My thought about it is that if you were to dispose of some 16 of these theatres early, don't you know, that perhaps some plan could be made upon which you could agree about the balance of the setup.

Mr. McClennen: Well, of course, if there were any possibility that the Government would accept a plan as your Honor suggests for a disposal of certain theatres, there would be the possibility that always exists for compromising a litigation. But there is no indication of any disposition whatever to do anything of that kind on the part of the Government in this case.

The Court: I see.

Mr. McClennen: And it is for that reason that I urge that the matter of plan for disposal, and any consideration of it or formulation of it, do not take place until the appeal is out of the way.

Now there is also the plaintiff's motion to amend the findings. This is the situation with respect to that:

[fol. 5048] The trial ended in November of 1944, the briefs were closed in on both sides by March of 1945, except for some supplements to bring to your Honor's attention later decisions that had been rendered; your Honor's opinion was handed down in early October, and the plaintiff's counsel then set to drafting findings of fact for your Honor's signature.

They had had all that time in which to determine what they urged should be in the findings of fact. It wasn't new. It was all laid out on paper before, and they come forward with a statement of findings in which they deviate appreciably from the opinion of the Court, but yet indicated that they might like some more, and didn't tell what they were.

We promptly, after those findings were in, made our motion for changes in the findings.

Now, about the first of February, 1946, they filed a motion for additional findings. I submit that properly we may ask that that motion be disregarded at such a late date, and we do urge that none of it be granted.

As to the particular things sought I will not speak until I have heard more of what is to be said in support of the [fol. 5049] motion. I do not, however postpone this part:

This is a motion not only as to findings, but to add to the judgment additional features. And one of the features is that without one slightest showing that we are going to commit any contempt of any judgment that this court enters, without the slightest showing of any probable cause, it is asked of your Honor that you issue what amounts to a warrant for search of our papers—no limit, no showing that something has happened that ought to be investigated; that you issue a warrant directing our employees to submit to cross-examination by Government's counsel, not in the presence of any Court or any Magistrate but—to be sure, I think they do consent that we might be present when they are cross-examined, but not that we might stop the cross-examination in any way.

That is what is seriously—I will say apparently seriously

—urged upon this Court by a counsel for the United States.

I said of the plan—and I say of this motion also—that it is a motion to accomplish a professional triumph and not a motion to accomplish a just result. Why, the very provisions of the Constitution of the United States would be [fol. 5050] violated by the issuance of any such roving commission to make an inquest into our affairs.

When, in 1942, there were reasons for it, a consent decree was entered—entered by consent—that investigation could be made, obviously designed to deal with the subject that was up, the disposal of certain theatres which we had agreed to. We consented that such an order might be entered. What was agreed to at that time has no bearing on what should be issued or could be issued by a court under the Constitution in the absence of such an agreement.

Mr. Wright: If the Court please, I think it is necessary to make a preliminary statement here, to go back over the things that were done prior to the entry of this judgment that is under attack by the defendants' motion.

As your Honor will recall, prior to the conclusion of the case, elaborate briefs were filed by both sides. We filed a main brief; they filed a main brief. We filed a reply; they filed a reply. And in those briefs we outlined proposed findings of fact, conclusions of law, that we thought the Court should adopt. They also submitted elaborate findings [fol. 5051] of fact and conclusions of law.

Then your Honor had those under study for, I believe, ten or eleven months, and when the decision came, it came in the form of an opinion, which did not follow either our findings and conclusions or theirs, and your Honor suggested the submission of new findings in accordance with the opinion, and so, what was done, was that the literal language of the opinion was taken and put in finding and conclusion form and submitted as the Court's findings and judgment, after omitting, of course, such recitals in the opinion as to what had occurred during the course of the trial, rulings on evidence, and so forth, which obviously had no proper place in the findings.

Then at that time—of course, that brought the ten-day period provided by Rule 52-(b) into operation, in which any one can move to amend, and that time, I think, was extended for both parties once and for us, I believe, twice, with the result that their motion was filed first, some time in December; ours wasn't filed until February, inasmuch as we were engaged in the trial of the other case in New York, prior to that time.

Now, instead of filing what we had assumed would be [fol. 5052] filed, and what they got an extension of time for the privilege of filing, that is, a motion to amend the judgment in accordance with Rule 52-(b), what they filed, in effect, was a motion to vacate the judgment and enter a judgment of dismissal, a motion which virtually asked for a rehearing, which could only be had under Rule 59 of the Procedure.

Now it is perfectly obvious, by comparing those rules, that the only relief available under 52-(b) is an amendment of the findings and conclusions in a manner that is consistent with the decision of the Court, and it is evident from the face of Mr. McClennen's motion and his argument, that that is not the purpose or effect of his motion at all.

Now if the losing party wants to overturn a decision and secure a judgment on his findings, in his favor, he must either appeal or else he must file a motion to vacate or for rehearing. There is a case, Matyas vs. Feddish, decided in the District Court, Middle District of Pennsylvania, May 12th, 1945, in which the losing party claimed that under Rule 52 (b) he could ask the Court to amend its findings in a manner which would amount to a reversal of the judgment. [fol. 5053] In disposing of this contention the Court said:

"The purpose of Rule 52 is to clarify matters for the Appellate Court's better understanding of the basis of the decision of the trial court. Tulsa City Line v. Mains, 10 Cir., 107 F. 2nd 377. The Rule permits the Court in its discretion to 'amend' findings of fact or to 'make additional findings,' thus amplifying and expanding the facts. The Rule does not provide for a reversal of the judgment or for a denial of the facts as found, which is what the plaintiff requests at present." Which is what the defendants in this suit, of course, are requesting.

The Court: That would apply to only part of this motion?

Mr. Wright: Why, his entire motion is under Rule 52 (b).

The Court: Yes, but I say that that Rule, what you have said, wouldn't apply to those parts which are applications to amend the findings.

Mr. Wright: Well, in a large part, the so-called amendments are simply the substitution of the findings which he asked for in his brief and didn't get, because of what the Court found.

The Court: You mean in so far as they contradict the language of the opinion?

[fol. 5054] Mr. Wright: Where they contradict the decision. But even where they don't contradict the language of the opinion, it is simply a narrative statement which is calculated to support a judgment of dismissal.

The Court: Well, I mean they have the same purpose you have here, at least, to add some light in instances where they are within the meaning of the opinion.

Mr. Wright: Yes, any amendment consistent with the opinion, there is no question as to that. To the extent that amendments offered are consistent with the decision, of course, they might properly be considered.

But I am merely pointing out that it is apparent from his argument and motion that that is not the purpose of the motion at all. There is no attempt here to clarify or to bring to the Court's attention any errors or matters which might have been overlooked.

As an example, he is apparently careful to re-incorporate in these proposed findings an inadvertent error in the findings as made as to the number of theatres that Schine operates.

The Court, I believe, originally found that Schine operated 93 theatres in 73 towns, which was evidently computed, I think, by adding up the list of theatres in the defendants' [fol. 5055] brief in which he said certain improvements were made.

Well, actually it appears later on in his own proposed findings here that Schine had acquired 150-odd, so that the 150 theatre figure would be correct instead of 93, as to which no effort has been made to change, obviously because that isn't the kind of a change that would add a finding in the defendants' favor.

Now, I cite that merely as an illustration to show that there hasn't been any effort here to get at the facts and to get you to make the decision or findings as they now exist a more accurate or better statement of the facts than you have now. The effort is simply an effort to have you adopt an argumentative narrative statement of the evidence which fits in with the claims made in the defendants' brief.

Now, another matter which was not, of course, suggested in his brief, was that it is now proposed for the first time to find that the Schines don't control the Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., and don't own stock in it. Of course, it appeared, and there was no dispute at the time of the trial but what the Schines dominated the corporation, and [fol. 5056] the interrogatory answers show, I believe, that the majority of the common stock is held by Schine Theatrical Co., Inc., a personal holding company. But the effort is now made in the form of this finding to make it appear that the Schines don't control these corporations. Well, now, it is wholly immaterial whether they have that stock themselves or whether it is held by Schine Theatrical Co., Inc., but I merely point out that these proposed findings don't in any way represent an effort to get a correct statement of the facts into the record but are only for argumentative purposes.

Now the real question in the consideration of these findings involves, I think, the question of what the purpose of findings is. Counsel's notion of findings evidently is that they are supposed to be a narrative statement of the evidence. Now, that is a view which the Courts I do not believe entertain.

A narrative statement of the evidence and the events that occurred in a trial is a clerical function, or at most, a lawyer's function in presenting an appeal. The purpose of findings, the only legitimate purpose, is to show the facts that the Court regarded as significant, and which control [fol. 5057] his decision.

And in setting out those facts, and in making those findings, the Court necessarily draws certain conclusions as to what certain evidence and certain facts show or do not show, and his findings, the findings of fact, necessarily take a conclusory form, because the findings of fact are, and should be, conclusions—not mere recitals of evidence from which those conclusions are drawn.

Counsel recognized that at the time his findings were submitted, I just quote from page 602 of his brief, asking the Court to make findings, Paragraph 15: "Schine has not monopolized or restrained the flow of motion pictures from any other state into any town", and so forth.

No. 18, "It has been but normal practice, and not predatory——"

Of course, to the suggestion that the word "predatory" came from the plaintiff's brief rather than from theirs is a simple answer: What the objection is, is that the Court found there were predatory practices instead of finding that there were not predatory practices.

Now, nothing, it seems to me, is to be gained by any discussion of form or elaboration of form of that sort. [fol. 5058] We, in our brief, submitted a shorter, more conclusory, form of findings than the Court adopted. It seems to me the Court took a middle course between the very elaborate findings in the Crescent case, and the simpler and more general ones which we submitted. But in any event, there is no obligation, whatsoever, on the Court at this time to reconsider all of this material that was offered at length to the Court before merely to try to accommodate the defendants' notions as to what kind of findings would help him most in the event of an appeal and most effectively present his theory of the case.

He has the entire evidence at his disposal, and there is no obligation whatsoever on the part of the Court to repeat in finding form facts which are otherwise in the record simply because he says he thinks his argument would be made more convenient by that procedure.

Now, even if your Honor treated this motion that is made ostensibly pursuant to Rule 52 (b) here as a motion for rehearing, that wouldn't open the door for re-examination of the matters that he seeks to open here, as stated under Rule 59, which says:

[fol. 5059] "In an action tried without a jury, for any of the reasons for which rehearings have heretofore been granted in suits in equity in the courts of the United States."

That is the grounds on which he would be entitled to rehearing, which was the basis for rehearing prior to the adoption of the new rules.

Now, in commenting on that provision, Section 5902, at page 3247, Volume III, says:

"Just as in new trial at law, a rehearing would not lie merely to relitigate old matter."

Now, this motion really contains no new matter, or the kind of matter which would properly be subject of a motion for a rehearing, and raises no new point at all or no new argument not previously made, and the Courts, of course, have not been disposed to rehear these cases indefinitely.

I would like to quote what the District Court for the Northern District of Illinois said in Stewart-Warner Corporation vs. Levally, 16 Fed. Supp., at pages 778 and 779, in disposing of a motion for rehearing in an equity suit in a patent case.

It says: "Defendants' first premise is the alleged discovery of additional material evidence; its second, alleged [fol. 5060] error by the Court in its findings, conclusions and decree. Defendants' action in the latter respect is equivalent merely to an attempt to reargue issues previously determined, after a voluminous record had been made and full and complete briefs and arguments submitted. Such practice is not to be encouraged, for, if a Court has once rendered its best efforts to arrive at proper solution of questions submitted, upon complete presentation, it should not be subjected to a demand to consider the same again. Otherwise, litigation would never end; 'suits would become immortal, and the decision be postponed indefinitely.'"

The Court's language there is equally applicable here. We had a decision in this case last October, and the time has come, I think, when there should be a final judgment, and in order to get a final judgment which will dispose of the matters at issue, it is necessary, of course, not only to dispose of these pending motions and amended findings, but also to fix a time and plan of re-organization which will carry out Section III of the Court's judgment.

Now, the defendants, of course, simply refused the invitation extended by your Honor's opinion to attempt to [fol. 5061] reach any agreement at all as to a plan which would carry out the judgment. Their position has been simply that they have not, and do not, propose to file any plan whatever, that we cannot have any plan of dissolution or re-organization, such as the court decreed.

We filed a plan last week, or we sent one up here, and sent it at the same time to counsel for the defendants, which they apparently received at the end of the week, but which apparently didn't reach your Honor. I saw Mr. Grobe in the hall this morning. He had it, and he said it came in Saturday.

The Court: I see.

Mr. Wright: We did submit this plan with a memorandum in support, which complies with the general theory of your opinion—and, contrary to what Mr. McClennen tells you about it, the purpose of the plan is to keep Schine as a competitive factor in every situation that we can.

The main purpose of the plan is to put competition in all of the closed situations. The plan contemplates leaving the defendant with a very substantial circuit of theatres, one in which they have opposition in all possible localities, [fol. 5062] instead of the existing situation where you have this extensive link-up of closed towns.

I don't want to go into it at length here, because under the Court's prior order they are entitled to thirty days in which to file objections to the plan, and then presumably your Honor will have a hearing at which the plan and objections will be considered, and the judgment will incorporate whatever plan that your Honor sees fit to impose. And it seems to me that that is the phase of the case on which the Court may most profitably spend its time now in order to get a final judgment, and we would like to ask to have a hearing set before we leave here today at which that question of the execution of the plan may be gone into.

Now, as to our motion: We filed a memorandum in support—I don't know whether your Honor has read it or not—and I am perfectly willing to submit it on that.

I might just say, in passing, that in so far as this books and records clause is concerned, which counsel laid great stress on as a violation of the defendants' constitutional rights, among other things, it is one which has appeared in every decree, either litigated or by consent, that we have [fol. 5063] entered in the last three or four cases here either in this or a somewhat modified form.

These same provisions were before the Supreme Court in the Bausch & Lomb case, which was decided, I think, the term before last.

(At the conclusion of the proceeding Mr. Wright requested the following citation be inserted in the record: U. S. vs. Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., 321, U. S. 707, pp. 725-728).

In that particular decree we had not only our standard books and records clause, such as you see here, but we had an additional provision requiring periodic reports from the defendants, and the Court, in considering the provision, held that we were not entitled to have the provision requiring reports, but the rest of the provisions are the same as those that you have here, and they received the approval of the Court at that time, so that you are not dealing here with anything that has been conceived of by the plaintiff in this case.

As counsel pointed out, a similar provision was in the consent order here in 1942, and, as I say, has been in all of our judgments in this period of time.

The Court: You don't specify any particular period of [fol. 5064] time — disclose whether or not a violation had occurred.

The only purpose of a provision of this character is to eliminate in advance any dispute as to access to relevant material of that kind. There is nothing, as I say, in the provision that hasn't been used in all of our consent and litigated decrees in the last three or four years, and it has been approved by the Supreme Court itself, so I don't think it is a matter which really raises any substantial controversy at all.

The other provisions, the other changes we suggested in the judgment are merely the incorporation of prohibitions against franchises, which are similar to the ones that were in the consent order.

Contrary to what counsel has told you, the franchise clause still is a proper one. There are no prohibitions against it today. Three of the major defendants are not even parties to the consent decree, and it is just as appropriate now to have a clause prohibiting franchises as it was in 1942. The consent order contained the same prohibitions.

As to the admission price material that we propose to add, we feel that it was necessary for clarity. We didn't think that the single paragraph that was devoted to the question [fol. 5065] in the opinion made the Court's position sufficiently clear on that point, and we also thought there should be a corresponding injunctive provision.

All of those matters, as I say, have been dealt with in our memorandum and I am perfectly willing to submit them on the memorandum.

There is another matter I want to call your attention to before I stop, and that is the gross misrepresentation by Mr. McClennen of what was said in New York. Now, I don't know whether your Honor paid any attention to that —I don't suppose you should—but if you do want to concern yourself with what the argument was in the Paramount case, and what each one said, the entire argument was printed up, and I would be very glad to supply you with a copy. But I don't want your Honor to get the impression here that what was said by Mr. McClennen is all of what happened there. That is of no significance, in any event, but if you do want an accurate record, I would be glad to supply it.

The Court: Well, on this subject of access to the books, and so on, wouldn't it be better to place a provision in this judgment that the parties abide by the decision of the Court [fol. 5066] whenever there is disagreement between them concerning such access?

Mr. Wright: Well, of course, the normal course would be a contempt proceeding, that is, before there could be any action against the defendants.

The Court: Well, I mean, you would simply have to put up to the Court the reason for your request. That is the point.

Mr. Wright: Well, obviously, there is no way of compelling compliance. What I mean is all they have to do is say "No, get out of here——"

The Court: I know, but on the other hand, I take it that it is a sequence, something to be followed out in support of the judgment, in that you could apply to the Court in the event that your request was refused, instead of applying to the Court in the first instance.

Mr. Wright: Yes. It seems to me in practice you would come out the same way. If they have anything they don't want to show you, or if they don't want to let you see the books or talk to their people, then we can't make them do it. We would have to come into court and get an order under any scheme.

The Court: Well, I don't see how you could judge them in contempt without coming into court, and, correspond-[fol. 5067] ingly, I would say you could make application to the Court when necessary.

Mr. Wright: Well, that particular provision has no particular substance, as far as we are concerned. The only reason I offer it is because it has been habitual in all the judgments we have offered. I have no interest in sustaining it, or not. I can submit it to your Honor on that basis.

The Court: Well, now, I suppose the thing we are confronted with is the order of procedure in the future. I mean by that this: The question of whether the case goes up prior to any action on the plan, or whether the plan is considered, some plan is adopted by the Court and approved by the Court. It seems to me that is the main thing we ought to consider here now.

Mr. Wright: Yes. What counsel is suggesting, if I understand him correctly, is a double appeal, spread out over the longest possible interval.

As I understand it, what he wants to do now is appeal from the judgment as entered with the provision that there shall be a plan in it, a concrete plan; and then, presumably, he would have a second appeal from such plan as actually was put into effect.
